The introductions and notes of this Bible are, with minor variations and revisions a translation of those which appear in La Bible de Jérusalem (one volume edition, 1961) published under the general editorship of Père Roland de Vaux, O.P. by Les Editions du Cerf, Paris, but are modified in the light of subsequent revised fascicules. The English text of the Bible itself, though translated from the ancient texts, owes a large debt to the work of the many scholars who collaborated to produce La Bible de Jérusalem, a debt which the publishers of this English Bible gratefully acknowledge.

EDITOR'S FOREWORD

The form and nature of this edition of the Holy Bible have been determined by two of the principal dangers facing the Christian religion today. The first is the reduction of Christianity to the status of a relic—affectionately regarded, it is true, but considered irrelevant to our times. The second is its rejection as a mythology, born and cherished in emotion with nothing at all to say to the mind. What threatens the mother threatens her two children even more seriously: I mean Christianity's adopted child, which is the Old Testament, and her natural child, which is the New. The Christian faith, after all, has been able without betrayal to adjust itself to the needs of succeeding centuries and decades. The Bible, on the other hand, is of its nature a written charter guaranteed (as Christians believe) by the Spirit of God, crystallised in antiquity, never to be changed—and what is crystallised may be thought by some to be fossilised. Now for Christian thinking in the twentieth century two slogans have been wisely adopted: aggiornamento, or keeping abreast of the times, and approfondimento, or deepening of theological thought. This double programme must be for the Bible too. Its first part can be carried out by translating into the language we use today, its second part by providing notes which are neither sectarian nor superficial.

This twofold need has long been appreciated, and strong action was taken in France when, under the influence of the late Père Chiffot, Editions du Cerf appealed to the Dominican Biblical School in Jerusalem to meet it. This led to the production of separate fascicules with a full textual critical apparatus for the individual books of the Bible, and with extensive notes. Subsequently, in 1956, a one-volume edition appeared which came to be known popularly as La Bible de Jérusalem: a careful system of cross-reference enabled this edition to include all the information from the fascicules which could be useful to the thoughtful reader or to the student. This present volume is its English equivalent. The introductions and notes are a direct translation from the French, though revised and brought up to date in some places—account being taken of the decisions and general implications of the Second Vatican Council.

The translation of the biblical text itself could clearly not be made from the French. In the case of a few books the initial draft was made from the French and was then compared word for word with the Hebrew or Aramaic by the General Editor and amended where necessary to ensure complete conformity with the ancient text. For the much greater part, the initial drafts were made from the Hebrew or Greek and simultaneously compared with the French when questions of variant reading or interpretation arose. Whichever system was used, therefore, the same intended result was achieved, that is, an entirely faithful version of the ancient texts which, in doubtful points, preserves the text established and (for the most part) the interpretation adopted by the French scholars in the light of the most recent researches in the fields of history, archaeology and literary criticism.

The translator of the Bible into a vernacular may surely consider himself free to remove the purely linguistic archaisms of that vernacular, but here his freedom ends. He may not, for example, substitute his own modern images for the old ones: the theologian and the preacher may be encouraged to do this, but not the translator. Nor must he impose his own style on the originals: this would be to suppress the individuality of the several writers who responded, each in his own way, to the movement of the Spirit. Still less must it be supposed that there should be throughout a kind of hieratic language, a uniform 'biblical' English, dictated by a tradition however venerable. There is no doubt that in forfeiting this we lose something very precious, but one hopes that the gain outweighs the loss. It would be arrogant to claim that this present attempt to translate the Bible into 'contemporary' English cannot be improved upon, but at least (one believes) it is in this direction that translations will have to go if the Bible is not to lose its appeal for the mind of today.

The Psalms present a special problem for translators since, unlike other parts of the Bible, the psalter is not only a book to be read but a collection of verse which is sung or chanted. Moreover, many of them are so familiar in their sixteenth century form that any change may seem to be an impertinence. Nevertheless, here too the first duty of a translator is to convey as clearly as he can what the original author wrote. He should not try to inject a rhetorical quality and an orotundity of cadence which belong more truly to the first Elizabethan age in England than to the Hebrew originals. He must avoid the pure bathos of prosy flatness, of course, but he will be aware that there is no longer an accepted 'poetic language' which can be used to give artificial dignity to plain statements. It would certainly be dangerous to give the form of the translation precedence over the meaning.

It is in the Psalms especially that the use of the divine name Yahweh (accented on the second syllable) may seem unacceptable—though indeed the still stranger form Yah is in constant use in the acclamation Hallelu-Yah (Praise Yah!). It is not without hesitation that this accurate form has been used, and no doubt those who may care to use this translation of the Psalms can substitute the traditional 'the Lord'. On the other hand, this would be to lose much of the flavour and meaning of the originals. For example, to say, 'The Lord is God' is surely a tautology, as to say 'Yahweh is God' is not.

An Index of Biblical Themes has been provided in this edition. It is not a luxury or an afterthought; it is a key to a treasure, for the use of serious readers and of preachers. It is for those who are not studying one single book or passage but wish to find out what the Bible as a whole has to say on a particular theological idea. Since the date and provenance of the individual books will have been given in the introductions, this index will be a guide to the historical development of biblical revelation, a pointer to the raw material of a dynamic biblical theology. It is based on the similar index in the Bible de Jérusalem but is considerably wider in scope. The compilation of this index was undertaken as a labour of love by members of the Theological Studies Group of the Newman Association, under the leadership of Mr Martin Redfern. Our sincere thanks must go to all these people who gave their spare time so generously.

The format of this edition has been chosen to make intelligent reading easier, and the single column arrangement has for this reason been adopted. The division of the text by bold-type section headings should enable the reader to see at a glance what is the subject-matter of the pages before him. The poetic passages are printed as verse and the lines with fewer stresses in the Hebrew are indented. Very occasionally there is a word-distribution that does not correspond to the lines in the Hebrew: this has been done deliberately, though reluctantly, for the sake of clearer English.

A list of collaborators will be found in the introductory pages: to all of these we express our thanks, not least because they have been so patient with changes in their manuscript for which the General Editor must accept the ultimate responsibility. As for the work of the publishers, it is here for all to see, but only the writer of this Foreword can fully appreciate their devotion to it. An inadequate word of thanks also to Miss Eva Burnley who typed and, without complaint, often retyped every word of this edition with the greatest accuracy. Certain students of Upholland College in Lancashire were of great help in the early days: may God reward them. But there are many others whose prayers and sympathy and repeated kindness in difficult days have given constant support: we think they will recognise themselves in this poor and vague acknowledgement.

THE HEBREW BIBLE

The canon of the Hebrew Bible, fixed by the Palestinian Jews at the beginning of the Christian era, is preserved by modern Jews and, in the case of the Old Testament, by Protestant Christians. It contains only the Hebrew books and excludes the books written in Greek and the Greek supplements of Esther and Daniel.

The Hebrew Bible is divided into three parts, as follows:

I. THE LAW (The Pentateuch)

1. Genesis (called, from the first words of the Hebrew text, 'In the beginning')
2. Exodus ('These are the names')
3. Leviticus ('And Yahweh called Moses')
4. Numbers ('In the wilderness')
5. Deuteronomy ('These are the words')

II. THE PROPHETS

A. The 'Earlier Prophets'

6. Joshua
7. Judges
8. Samuel
9. Kings (I & II together)

B. The 'Later Prophets'

10. Isaiah
11. Jeremiah
12. Ezekiel
13. 'The Twelve' prophets, in the order followed by the Vulgate: Hosea, Joel, Amos, Obadiah, Jonah, Micah, Nahum, Habakkuk, Zephaniah, Haggai, Zechariah, Malachi

III. THE WRITINGS (or Hagiographa)

14. Psalms (or 'Praises')
15. Job
16. Proverbs
17. Ruth
18. The Song of Songs
19. Ecclesiastes ('Qoheleth')
20. Lamentations
21. Esther
(These last five are known as the 'five rolls'; they were read on Jewish feast days)
22. Daniel
23. Ezra-Nehemiah
24. Chronicles

The Jewish Bible thus consists of 'twenty-four books'.

THE GREEK BIBLE

The Greek Bible of the Seventy (Septuagint), for the use of the Jews of the Dispersion, comprises the following, of which the order varies according to different MSS and editions:

1. The books of the Hebrew Bible, translated into Greek with variations, omissions and additions (important ones in Esther and Daniel).
2. Books which do not belong to the Hebrew Bible (although several of them reflect a Hebrew or Aramaic origin) and which are part of the Christian Canon ('deutero-canonical'). The Church regards these as being inspired in the same way as the books of the Hebrew Bible. They are indicated in italics in the list below.
3. Books which, although sometimes used by the Fathers and ancient ecclesiastical writers, have not been accepted by the Christian Church ('apocryphal' works). These are placed in square brackets in the list below.

With the exception of these apocryphal books, the content of the Greek Bible is the same as that of the Old Testament accepted by the Church, though different in order. The list on pp. viii-ix shows the books in the usual order.

The list of the books of the Greek Bible of the Seventy is given below as it is found in Rahlfs' edition.

I. LAW AND HISTORY

Genesis
Exodus
Leviticus Numbers
Deuteronomy
Joshua
Judges
Ruth

The four 'Books of Kingdoms': 1 and 2
= Samuel; 3 and 4 = Kings

The Paralipomena, 1 and 2 (= Chronicles)

GREEK	= J. B.	= VULG.
[1 Esdras]	[1 Esdras]*	[3 Esdras]
2 Esdras ch. 1-10	Ezra	1 Esdras
2 Esdras ch. 11-13	Nehemiah	2 Esdras or Nehemias
	[2 Esdras]*	[4 Esdras]

Esther, with passages peculiar to the Greek

Judith
Tobit

1 and 2 Maccabees (plus the apocryphal
3 and 4)

II. POETIC AND PROPHETIC BOOKS

The Psalms
[Odes]
The Proverbs of Solomon Ecclesiastes
The Song of Songs
Job
The Book of Wisdom ('Wisdom of Solomon') Ecclesiasticus ('Wisdom of Sirach')

[Psalms of Solomon]

The Twelve Minor Prophets, in the following order: Hosea, Amos, Micah, Joel, Obadiah, Jonah, Nahum, Habakkuk, Zephaniah, Haggai, Zechariah, Malachi

Isaiah
Jeremiah
Baruch ch. 1-5
Lamentations
Baruch ch. 6 ('Letter of Jeremiah')
Ezekiel
Daniel ch. 13 ('Susanna')
Daniel ch. 1-12 (3:24-90 is peculiar to the Greek) Daniel ch. 14 ('Bel and the Dragon')

EXPLANATION OF TYPOGRAPHICAL AND REFERENCE SYSTEMS

Chapter numbers

The beginning of a new chapter is usually marked by a large bold numeral. A smaller bold numeral is used when a new chapter begins inside a paragraph, or to mark a fragment of a chapter separated from the main portion by material of a different chapter.

Verse numbers

In the Old Testament, the division into verses follows the Hebrew. The verse numbers are printed in ordinary roman type. Where the verse-numbering of the Vulgate differs, it is given in addition in italic figures. In a few places, italic verse numbers are also used for some of the passages incorporated from the Septuagint, e.g. Dn 3 (cf. notes), of which the numbering duplicates that of neighbouring Hebrew material.

The beginning of each verse is marked by a dot • preceding the first word except when a verse starts at the beginning of a line or begins a new chapter. When a Vulgate verse begins at a different point, this is not indicated.

Occasionally verse numbers are given a suffix letter a, b or c. This is generally to mark a rearrangement of parts of the verse, or to relate a reference from elsewhere in the Bible to a specific part of the verse.

Italics in the text

The chief use of italic type in the text is to distinguish words which are quotations from, or close allusions to, another book of the Bible. The origins of such quotations are given as references in the margin. (Conversely, where a passage will be found quoted in a later book, its wording is not printed in italics, but the fact is indicated by a reference in the margin, preceded by a ↗ sign, to the place where the quotation will be found: see explanation of Marginal References below.)

Italics are also used (as in Est and Dn) to distinguish supplementary passages brought in from the Septuagint, and the inclusion of such material is always specified in a footnote.

Brackets in the text

In the text, round brackets are never used except to indicate that the words within them are considered to be a gloss.

Footnotes

In each chapter, footnotes are lettered serially. Footnotes are printed on right-hand pages only, and normally the notes relating to the left-hand page are separated by one or more blank lines from those relating to the right-hand page.

The footnotes assume that the reader has already read the Introduction to the book (or group of books) concerned. From time to time there are 'general' notes which explain special biblical terms that recur, or themes which are of importance, e.g. 'remnant' (cf. note on Is 4:3), 'Son of man' (cf. note on Mt 8:20). These general notes are often interconnected, and a note on one passage may refer the reader to a note on the same theme elsewhere. A guide to these general thematic notes is provided by the index of biblical themes included in this volume, and its uses are explained below.

Punctuation of biblical references

Chapter and verse are separated by a colon, e.g. Ex 20:17. In a succession of references, items are separated by a semi-colon, e.g. Ex 20:17; Lv 9:15. The same practice is followed in a succession of references to different chapters of one book, e.g. Ex 20:17; 21:3 or Ex 15; 17; 20.

Marginal references

The marginal references direct the reader's attention to other passages in the Bible (or to footnotes attached to them) which can contribute to an understanding of the text—sources of quotations, earlier use of special terms, phrases, or images and the explanation of allusions whether explicit or implied. The references often occur in groups all relating to one text line; in such cases the position of the first reference indicates the line to which the whole group applies. The typographical design of this Bible makes it possible to place two marginal reference lines against each line of text; the first reference of a group may therefore appear slightly above or slightly below the text line.

The end of one group of references and the beginning of a new group is normally marked by a space; where this is not possible, the first line of the new group is printed in italic type.

Within a group of references, the order of items is:

1. References to the sources of italicised quotations from other books.
2. References to other passages in the same book; these are not preceded by the abbreviated book name.
3. References to passages in other books of the Bible; these are given in biblical order.

References to different books always begin on separate lines. When one reference line cannot accommodate all the references to one book, the references are continued (without repetition of the abbreviated book name) on new lines which are indented slightly away from the text.

Symbols in biblical references

In some cases, a group of marginal references which begins near the foot of a left-hand page has to be continued at the top of the facing page. The references thus displaced are marked by a solid triangle added to each, to show that they do not relate to the lines opposite which they appear.

= or || These symbols are placed in front of references which call attention to the fact that a literary connection exists between two text passages either because one might be called the 'source' of the other or because both have a common source. When the two passages belong to the same book (i.e. are 'doublets') the symbol = is used; where they belong to different books (i.e. are 'parallels') the symbol || is used. However, in the case of those parts of the Bible which are duplications of another part or which, like the synoptic gospels, recount the same events, the references to all the parallels are usually given only in the book which occurs first in order of printing, and references in the other related books guide the reader to the relevant passage in this first book where further references to other parallels will be found. Thus in the synoptic gospels many references useful in the study of Mark or Luke are given once for all in Matthew, but references in Mark or Luke guide the reader to that point in Matthew at which these other references are given.

p This letter at the end of a reference refers the reader not only to the passage indicated but also to doublets or parallels to which references with the symbol = or || will be found at the passage indicated.

↗ The arrow symbol is used before a reference where the text at this point will be used or quoted in a later book to which the reference relates, and particularly where a passage in the Old Testament will be used by a New Testament writer.

The plus symbol used at the end of a reference indicates that, at the point referred to, the reader will find either a note or further references relevant to the passage he is reading. Apart from the thematic index (see below), this symbol is the principal means of referring the reader to the general notes on key biblical themes and concepts. For example, in prophetic material which relates to the 'remnant of Israel' references will be found to Is 4:3+ where there is a note explaining this concept.

f This letter at the end of a reference signifies 'and following verses'.

Index of biblical themes

Besides the historical and literary comments necessary for understanding the text, the notes in this Bible include information about the development of theological ideas and themes. An index to this information is an essential key for the reader who wants to study a particular theme and to discover the comments, which are necessarily scattered through the whole book. For instance, this index reveals at sight that 'resurrection' is not only a New Testament theme but has an important history in the Old Testament, and that the weight of annotation occurs, not in the gospels, but in Acts and Romans. When using the notes in this way, it will also often be useful to consult the relevant introduction.

It should be noted that this index is not a concordance or an index of subjects, nor is it a complete index to the notes, but solely a guide to the commentary on theological themes. Subjects and proper names (such as 'Jerusalem' or 'Moses') only occur in it as themes of theological significance, and historical or geographical notes on such subjects are not listed.

THE OLD TESTAMENT

THE PENTATEUCH

INTRODUCTION TO THE PENTATEUCH

Titles, divisions, contents

The first five books of the Bible together constitute a unity in themselves, and the group was known to the Jews as the 'Torah', or the 'Law'. The earliest reliable witness to this title is to be found in the preface to the Book of Ecclesiasticus and when the Christian era opened the term was already in common use (Lk 10:26; cf. 24:44). For this first section of their Bible Hebrew-speaking Jews had another name: 'The five-fifths of the Law'; those who spoke Greek used the corresponding term: 'Pentateuchos' (sc. biblos), 'The five-volume (book)', which in Latin was transliterated Pentateuchus (liber).

That this division into five books dates back to pre-Christian times is attested by the Septuagint. This Greek version of the Hebrew Old Testament designated the books according to their content and the Church adopted its terminology. Thus the book which opens with the story of the beginning of the world is called Genesis; the second, which starts with the departure of Israel from Egypt, is named Exodus; Leviticus contains the law of the priests of the tribe of Levi; the first four chapters of Numbers deal with the census; Deuteronomy is so styled from the Septuagint rendering of Dt 17:18: 'the second law'. The Jews, however, used and still use the initial Hebrew word of each book—or its first important word—to indicate the whole.

Genesis falls into two unequal parts. Chapters 1-11 deal with primordial history; they introduce us to the story of salvation, the theme that runs through the whole Bible. They search back into the origin of the world and survey the whole human race. They tell of the creation of the universe and man, of the Fall and its consequences, of the increasing human wickedness which earned the punishment of the Flood. The repopulation of the earth starts with Noah but our attention is directed ultimately to Abraham, father of the chosen people, by way of a series of narrowing genealogical tables. Chapters 12-50 deal with patriarchal history; they portray the great ancestors of Israel. Abraham is the man of faith; God rewards his obedience with a promise of posterity for himself and, for his descendants, possession of the Holy Land (12:1-25:18). Jacob is the man of guile who supplants Esau his brother; by a trick he secures the blessing of his father Isaac and he proves himself more crafty than his uncle Laban. But all his cunning would have been useless if God had not preferred him to Esau before his birth or renewed the promise and covenant granted to Abraham (25:19 to ch. 36). The career of Isaac, Abraham's son and Jacob's father, is described more in relation to these two than for its own sake; he is a relatively colourless figure. The twelve sons of Jacob are the ancestors of the Twelve Tribes of Israel. The concluding chapters of Genesis (37-50) are entirely devoted to one of them: Joseph, the man of wisdom. The Joseph-cycle, so different from the foregoing narratives, bears no trace of God's visible intervention, nor does it contain any new revelation. Its absorbing purpose is to drive home the lesson that the virtue of the wise man is rewarded and that Providence turns man's shortcomings to advantage.

Genesis is complete in itself, the history of the ancestors. The three books that follow have for their common framework the life of Moses. They recount the formation of the chosen people and show how its social and religious law was constituted.

Exodus is occupied with two primary themes: The Deliverance from Egypt, 1:1-15:21, and the Sinaitic Covenant, 19:1-40:38. A secondary theme, the Journey through the Wilderness, connects the two, 15:22-18:27. Moses leads the liberated Israelites to Sinai where God's incommunicable name, 'Yahweh', had been revealed to him. Against the background of a majestic theophany God concludes an alliance with the people and proclaims his laws. Almost as soon as it is made this Covenant is broken: the people adore the golden calf. But God forgives the sin and renews the Covenant. There follows a list of ordinances controlling the practice of worship in desert conditions.

Leviticus, taken up almost entirely with legislation, breaks the thread of the narrative. Its contents are as follows: sacrificial ritual, ch. 1-7; ceremony of priestly investiture described in terms of the consecration of Aaron and his sons, ch. 8-10; ordinances relating to clean and unclean, ch. 11-15, concluding with the ritual for the great Day of Atonement, ch. 16; The 'Holiness Code', 17-26, a section which includes a liturgical calendar, 23, and which closes with Blessings and Curses, 26. By way of appendix, ch. 27 lays down the conditions for redeeming persons and animals and goods vowed to Yahweh.

Numbers resumes the account of the Desert Journey. A census of the people, ch. 1-4, and the offering of gifts on the occasion of the Dedication of the Tabernacle, ch. 7, form a prelude to the departure from Sinai. The second Passover is celebrated and, leaving the holy mount, ch. 9-10, the people reach Kadesh after various halts on the way. From here an unsuccessful attempt is made to infiltrate into Canaan from the south, ch. 11-14. After a long stay at Kadesh the people set out once more and reach the plains of Moab opposite Jericho, ch. 20-25. The Midianites are defeated and the tribes of Gad and Reuben settle in Transjordan, ch. 31-32. Chapter 33 lists the encampments on the way from Egypt to Moab. Within this narrative material there are groups of enactments either supplementing the Sinaitic code or preparing for the time when the people will have settled in Canaan.

Deuteronomy has a distinct plan of its own. It is a code of civil and religious laws, ch. 12-26:15, with a long discourse of Moses for its framework, ch. 5-11; and 26:16 to ch. 28. The whole is preceded by a first Mosaic discourse, ch. 1-4, and followed by a third, ch. 29-30. This is followed in its turn by sections dealing with the last days of Moses: Joshua's mission, the canticle of Moses, the blessings he pronounces, his death, ch. 31-34. The code of Deuteronomy is in part a resumption of the laws proclaimed in the desert. Its discourses commemorate the great events of the Exodus, of Sinai and of the early stages of the Conquest; they explain the religious meaning of these events and appeal for fidelity to the Law whose importance they emphasise.

How the Pentateuch came to be written

At least from the beginning of the Christian era Moses has been credited with the composition of this considerable body of literature; nor did Jesus or his apostles question this, Jn 1:45; 5:45-47; Rm 10:5. Nevertheless, the most ancient available traditions never expressly claimed that the whole of the Pentateuch came from Moses' hand. Even when the Pentateuch itself uses the expression 'Moses wrote' (as it very rarely does) it is referring only to particular passages. Now modern Pentateuchal study has revealed a variety of style, lack of sequence, and repetitions in narrative which make it impossible to ascribe the whole work to a single author. At the end of the 19th century, after years of laborious effort, one hypothesis succeeded in rallying the critics, thanks especially to the works of Graf and of Wellhausen. According to this theory the Pentateuch is an amalgam of four documents issuing from different places and times but all much later than Moses. Initially there were, it was held, two narrative sources: the Yahwistic (J) which, from the story of Creation onwards, uses the divine name Yahweh that was revealed to Moses, and the Elohistic (E) which uses Elohim, the common noun for God. The Yahwistic source was committed to writing in Judah in the 9th century, the Elohistic in Israel a little later. After the fall of the Northern Kingdom these two documents were combined (JE). After the time of Josiah the Deuteronomistic source (D) was added (JED). The Priestly Code (P), made up for the most part of laws, though with a certain amount of narrative matter, was after the Exile joined to the existing compilation which it served to weld and bind together (JEDP). It should be noted that the literary analysis behind this hypothesis was allied with an evolutionary theory of the religious development of Israel.

In a Response dated June 27th 1906 the Pontifical Biblical Commission put Catholic exegetes on their guard against this Documentary Theory and required them to maintain the 'substantial' Mosaic authorship of the Pentateuch taken as a whole. The Commission, however, recognised the possibility of pre-Mosaic oral traditions and written documents; it granted, too, that modifications and additions subsequent to Moses may have been made. In a letter to Cardinal Suhard (January 16th 1948) the Commission more explicitly conceded the existence of sources and admitted a gradual growth of the Mosaic laws and of the historical narratives, a growth due to the social and religious conditions of later times.

And indeed the Documentary Theory in its classical form is once more in the melting-pot. Continued effort to give it further precision has served only to show that the task is impossible. Moreover, the literary problem is yielding to the historical: what oral or written sources lie behind the 'documents' is a question now more urgent than the problem when the text assumed its final form. The new approach is less artificial and literary; it is closer to realities and to the conditions of life. It is now beginning to appear that these sources are very ancient indeed. Archaeological progress and our growing knowledge of the history of the neighbouring civilisations have shown that many Pentateuchal laws and institutions had their non-biblical counterparts long before the dates assigned to the 'documents'; they have shown also that not a few Pentateuchal narratives presuppose conditions different from, and more primitive than, those in which the 'documents' are said to have been written.

This is not to say that there is no longer a problem. There are phenomena which demand explanation: the duplicated passages for instance ('doublets'), the repetitions and discrepancies in which the Pentateuch abounds and which strike the reader right from the opening pages of Genesis. Thus there are two narratives of Creation, 1-2:4a and 2:4b-3:24, two genealogies of Cain-Kenan, 4:17f and 5:12-17, two interwoven accounts of the Flood, ch. 6-8. The attempt to satisfy these data by a theory of assembled 'documents' scissored, reshuffled and recombined by some mechanical process of literary compilation must, it is true, be abandoned. Nevertheless, the facts point at least to the existence of certain 'traditions' which were at first used for recitation in the various sanctuaries; circumstances of time and place, or the influence of some leading personality, brought these traditions together into the groups we find assembled in the Pentateuch.

Similarity of vocabulary, outlook and ideas draws the texts together to form the groups which we find side by side in the Pentateuch. From these text groups we can deduce and distinguish the various streams of tradition. The Yahwistic tradition, so named because it makes use of the divine name Yahweh from the Creation narrative onwards, is lively and vivid in style, but under its picturesque presentation there lies a profound answer to man's most urgent questions, and though God is described in human terms the author has a deep sense of the divine. This tradition originated in Judah; in its essentials it was put into writing perhaps in Solomon's time. The Elohist tradition, which uses the common noun Elohim for God, is further distinguished from the Yahwistic by a more measured style and a more exacting moral standard; it is also more careful to maintain the distance between man and God. It has no primordial history but starts from the time of Abraham. Probably more recent than the Yahwistic tradition, it is usually credited to the Northern tribes. The Yahwistic and Elohist traditions have very few legislative texts; of the Priestly tradition, on the other hand, the law is the very centre. This tradition displays a particular interest in the regulation of the sanctuary, in the sacrifices and feasts, in the person and functions of Aaron and his sons. Besides the texts which deal with law or with institutions there are narrative sections but a legal and liturgical mind is discernible behind these also. The Priestly tradition delights in calculation and in genealogy; it is readily recognisable from its style which is usually abstract and repetitive. This tradition emanates from the priests of the Temple of Jerusalem; it took shape during the Exile with the help of ancient material but established itself only after the Return.

So far as the Book of Genesis is concerned it is not difficult to recognise and follow the threads of the three traditions: Yahwistic, Elohist, Priestly. Nor is it hard to trace the Priestly tradition in the closing chapters of Exodus, in the whole of Leviticus and in the greater part of Numbers; but it is difficult to decide which part of the remainder belongs to the Yahwistic tradition and which to the Elohist. After the Book of Numbers all three traditions disappear; they are replaced by a single tradition: the Deuteronomic. This is characterised by a most distinctive style which is exuberant and rhetorical; certain clear-cut formulae frequently recur. Its doctrine, too, is characteristic—a doctrine it never tires of repeating: of all the nations Israel has been chosen as God's people by an act of spontaneous divine favour; nevertheless a condition is attached to this choice and to the pact that seals it, namely that Israel must be faithful to the law of its God and to the prescribed worship that is to be offered in the one and only sanctuary. It may be that the substance of the Deuteronomic tradition basically represents Northern custom as introduced to Jerusalem by Levites after the fall of the kingdom of Israel. This body of law, rediscovered in the Temple during the reign of Josiah, was then promulgated within the framework of a Mosaic discourse. In the first years of the Exile there was issued another edition, new but on the same lines as its predecessor.

It is only in their final, written form that we come to know these traditions, but the important question is: How did they first originate? Now despite their distinctive characteristics the Yahwistic and Elohist traditions tell much the same story: these two traditions, therefore, have a common origin. Further, they fit naturally into the period of the events narrated and not into the later time presumed for their committal to writing. It follows that they have their origin in the earlier period, the period of Israel's growth into a nation. With certain modifications the same may be said of the legislative passages: Israel's civil and religious law developed as the community developed, but law and people were born together.

Hence the basic elements of the Pentateuch—the substance of the traditions it records and the core of its legislation—reach back to the time when Israel became a nation. Now that period is dominated by one figure: Moses was the nation's organising spirit, its religious leader, its earliest legislator. Earlier traditions that converge on him and memories of what happened under his leadership together went to make the national epic. The Mosaic religion set its enduring seal upon the faith and practice of the nation; the Mosaic law remained its standard. The modifications required by changing conditions interpreted Moses' mind and invested themselves with his authority. The Bible's witness to a certain measure of literary work on the part of Moses and of those around him cannot be set aside, but the question of the literary presentation of the material is less urgent than that of its origin: it is much more important to recognise that the traditions which make up the Pentateuch have in Moses their head and source.

Relation of the narratives to history

From such traditions it would be unreasonable to expect the minute precision of a modern historian: they are not lifeless manuscripts but the living heritage of a nation whose spirit of unity they nourish and whose faith they sustain. But it would be equally unreasonable to refuse them any credence on the grounds that this precision is lacking.

The first eleven chapters of Genesis must be considered separately. They speak in popular style of the origin of the human race; in a simple, pictorial style suited to the mentality of unsophisticated people, they declare the fundamental truths on which the plan of salvation rests. These truths are: the Creation by God at the beginning of time, God's special intervention in the making of man and woman, the unity of the human race, the sin of our first parents, the fall from divine favour and the penalties their descendants would inherit in consequence of the sin. All these are truths which have their bearing upon theological doctrine and which are guaranteed by the authority of scripture; but they are also facts, and the certainty of the truths implies the reality of the facts. It is in this sense that the first chapters of Genesis are called historical.

As for the patriarchal history, it is in the first place a family history: it gathers together the treasured memories of the fathers, of Abraham, of Isaac, of Jacob and Joseph. It is also a popular history: it likes to dwell upon personal anecdotes and piquant details and makes no attempt to situate its narratives in a wider historical context. And lastly, it is history written from a religious standpoint: each turning-point of the story is signalled by a divine intervention and the hand of Providence is seen in each event — an outlook theologically exact but disregarding the play of secondary causes. Moreover, it is for the purpose of demonstrating a religious thesis that the various facts are introduced, expounded and arranged: they are intended to prove that there is one God, one nation of his making, one country for it to dwell in by God's gift; this God is Yahweh, the nation Israel, the country the Holy Land. Nevertheless, the narratives are historical. It is true that they have their own method of presentation but they deal with events that are real: they give a faithful picture of the origin and migrations of Israel's ancestors, of their geographical and racial background, of their moral and religious way of life. The old suspicious attitude towards these narratives has had to be abandoned under pressure from the data recently provided by the historians and archaeologists of the Near East.

The events described in Exodus and Numbers, and resumed in Deuteronomy, take up the story at a very much later period: they begin with the birth of Moses and end with his death. They cover the Exodus from Egypt, the halt at Sinai, the journey to Kadesh (the texts are strangely silent about Israel's long stay there) and through Transjordan, the settlement in the plain of Moab. Unless we concede that these events really happened and that Moses is truly a figure of history, the subsequent history of Israel, its loyalty to Yahwism and its attachment to the Law will all defy explanation. At the same time, we cannot but recognise that the important contribution of these recollections to the nation's way of life, and the echoes they found in its ritual, have endowed the narratives with the proportions of a national epic (e.g. the crossing of the Red Sea) or with the characteristics of a liturgical act (e.g. the Passover). Israel, therefore, now a nation, makes its appearance on the stage of world history. There is no mention of this in any of the ancient witnesses, if we except the obscure allusion on the stele of Pharaoh Menepthah, but what the Bible relates is in broad agreement with what the texts and the archaeologists tell us about the Hyksos invasion of Egypt (these invaders being for the most part Semites), about Egyptian administration in the Delta, and about political conditions in Transjordan.

Today it is the task of the historian to align these biblical data with the facts of general history. With the prudent reserve dictated by the insufficiency of biblical indications and the uncertainty of extra-biblical chronology, we may put Abraham's stay in Canaan at about 1850 B.C. Joseph's life in Egypt and that of the other sons of Jacob who subsequently joined him there we may date a little after 1700. The date of the Exodus is disputed: one theory, which once held the field and still has its supporters, favours the 15th century when the Eighteenth Dynasty ruled in Egypt; another puts the Exodus in the 13th century under the Nineteenth Dynasty. This second opinion seems to satisfy the historical facts better than the first, namely the residence in the Delta of the Nineteenth-Dynasty pharaohs and their colossal building operations and the loosening of Egypt's hold over Syro-Palestine towards the end of the reign of Rameses II; it also agrees with the archaeological evidence on the setting up of the Edomite and Moabite kingdoms in Transjordan and on the cultural changes in certain Palestinian towns at the beginning of the Iron Age which would correspond with the proposed date for the occupation by the Israelites.

On such grounds we are inclined to date the Exodus in the reign of Meneptah (1224-1214) and the Oppression in that of Rameses II (1290-1224); or, perhaps preferably, the Exodus in the second half of the long reign of Rameses II (1290-1224) and the beginning of the Oppression in the reign of Seti I (1310-1290).

The Laws

In the Jewish Bible the Pentateuch is called the Law, the Torah, and indeed it embodies that whole complex of regulations which governed the nation's moral, social and religious life. To the modern mind the most remarkable feature of this legislation is its religious character. This quality is also to be found in certain other codes of the ancient East but we nowhere find a body of law in which the sacred so pervades the profane: in Israel it is God who dictates the law, it is man's duty to God that the law prescribes, religious motives lie behind all the law's injunctions. For the moral prescriptions that make up the Decalogue or for the ritual laws of Leviticus this may seem natural enough; what is more significant is that civil, criminal and religious enactments should be intermingled in the same corpus and the whole set out as the charter of the Covenant with Yahweh. It is only to be expected that the proclamation of these laws should be linked up with the narratives of what happened in the desert where that Covenant came into being.

We have already said that the basic elements of the legislation date back to the Mosaic period; but since laws are only made to be applied, these had to be adapted to changing conditions of place and time. This explains why, in the groups we are about to consider, we find ingredients of great antiquity side by side with formulations or provisions which reflect the problems of a later age. Besides this, Israel was necessarily indebted to neighbouring cultures. There are some astonishing similarities between some of the clauses in the Code of the Covenant or in Deuteronomy and those in the Mesopotamian Codes, in the Collection of Assyrian Laws and in the Hittite Code. The likenesses are to be explained not by direct borrowing but by the influence of alien constitutions, or else by the existence of a common law partly shared by the peoples of the Near East in ancient times. Furthermore, after the Exodus, Canaanite practice exerted a strong influence on the formulation of laws and on the pattern of ritual worship.

The Decalogue, or the 'Ten Words' inscribed on the tablets at Sinai, lays down the fundamental law — which is at once moral and religious — of the Covenant. It is recorded in two places, Ex 20:2-17 and Dt 5:6-18, with not inconsiderable textual differences; these two texts derive from a primitive, shorter form against the Mosaic origin of which there is no cogent argument.

The (Elohistic) Code of the Covenant, Ex 20:22-23:19, is the code of a community of shepherds and peasants and therefore suited to Israel while still evolving towards nationhood and beginning to adopt an agricultural way of life. Compared with the Mesopotamian Codes, which are of greater antiquity and reveal points of contact, the Code of the Covenant differs from them by its lack of complexity and by its preservation of certain archaic features. It comes down to us in a somewhat developed form as is shown by its interest in beasts of burden, in farming, in viticulture, in houses — all of which presupposes that the period of semi-nomadism was at an end; moreover, its two modes of expressing laws (imperative and hypothetical) point to the fact that the collection is composite. The Code as we have it possibly dates back to the time of the Judges.

The (Yahwistic) Code of Renewal of the Covenant, Ex 34:14-26, is sometimes called, somewhat inappropriately, the Second or Ritual Decalogue. It is a series of religious injunctions expressed in the imperative mood. It is contemporaneous with the Code of the Covenant but has been touched up under the influence of Deuteronomy.

Leviticus was not given its final form until after the Exile but it contains elements of the greatest antiquity: for example, the food laws, ch. 11, and the regulations governing legal purity, ch. 13-15, are the legacy of a primitive age; similarly the ceremonial for the Day of Atonement, ch. 16, preserves an ancient purification ceremony overlaid by a highly developed concept of sin. Chapters 17-26 constitute a body of law commonly referred to as the Law of Holiness; this appears to have been drawn up in the closing years of the Monarchy.

The Deuteronomic Code (Dt 12-26) dates back to the same period. Its many ancient ingredients are assembled in rather haphazard fashion but it witnesses to a development in social and religious custom (e.g. the laws relating to the one and only sanctuary, to the altar, to tithes, to slaves); it also reveals that the religious outlook has undergone a change (cf. its tone of warm appeal and the note of exhortation in so many of its injunctions).

The religious lesson

The religion of the Old Testament, like that of the New, is a historical religion: it is based on a divine revelation made to definite individuals at definite times and in definite circumstances, on the intervention of God in history at specific moments of our human story. The Pentateuch, which tells this tale of God's dealings with the world, is the foundation stone of the Jewish religion; it became the canonical book par excellence, the Law of Israel.

In the Pentateuch the Israelite found the meaning of his destiny. Not only did he find, in the opening chapters of Genesis, an answer to the questions he shared with every man: the meaning of the world and of life, the problem of suffering and death, but he also found an answer to his own particular question: How is it that Yahweh, the only God, is the God of Israel; that among all the nations of the earth Israel should be his people?

The Pentateuch answers: because to Israel the divine promise was made. The Pentateuch is the Book of Promises: the promise made to Adam and Eve after their fall (the 'Proto-evangel', or first good news of the salvation to come), the promise of a new order of things made to Noah after the Deluge and, above all, the promise to Abraham and again to Isaac and Jacob, a promise that was to affect all their descendants. Israel was to occupy the land, the Land of Promise, where the patriarchs had lived. The promise indeed has this for its immediate object but its significance is deeper and its implications wider: by this promise a relationship is set up between Israel and the God of her Fathers, a relationship of special privilege and, indeed, unique.

In Yahweh's call of Abraham his choice of Israel was already foreshadowed. By an act of free choice, by a loving plan conceived from creation's beginning and pursued despite all man's waywardness, Yahweh formed a nation and made that nation his.

Choice and promise were confirmed by a covenant. If the Pentateuch is the Book of Promises, it is also the Book of Covenants. There is already a covenant with Adam, though there is no explicit mention of it; there is a covenant with Noah, with Abraham and — through the mediation of Moses — with the whole nation. It is not a pact concluded by two equals, since God has no need of pacts and the initiative lies wholly with him; nevertheless, God acknowledges its force and, in a certain sense, is committed to it by reason of the promises he makes. But in return he demands loyalty from his people: if Israel withholds this fidelity, if she sins, the bond may be broken that God's love has made.

It is God himself who defines the terms of this fidelity by legislating for the nation he has chosen. His law makes known their duties to his people, regulates the nation's life as God would have it, and by sustaining the Covenant paves the way for the fulfilment of the promises.

The Promise, the Choice, the Covenant, the Law — these are the golden threads, the warp and woof of the Pentateuch. They run through the rest of the Old Testament also, for the Pentateuch is not the end of the story: it tells of promise but not of fulfilment, since it ends before the entry into the Promised Land begins. Of its very nature it was no closed book because in the first place it is a book of trust in a promised future: when Canaan was conquered the promise might seem to be fulfilled, Jos 23:14, but fulfilment was destined to be thwarted by the nation's sins and the promise remained a promise to comfort the exiles in Babylon. In the second place it is a book of an urgent and lasting law which was to endure in Israel as an ever-present witness against her, Dt 31:26.

So it was until the coming of Christ, the one who gives this long story of salvation all its meaning because to him it was slowly making its obscure way. In Ga 3:15-29 especially, St Paul brings out the significance of that story. The covenants of the old régime were the rehearsals for Christ's new Covenant in which the Christians, made by their faith heirs to Abraham, are by Christ made partakers. As for the Law, its function was to keep the promises intact; it was therefore like the guardian who takes the child to school — to Christ in whom those promises are fulfilled.

The Christian is no longer under the guardian, no longer bound by the Law's observances; but he is not emancipated from its religious and moral teaching, for Christ did not come to do away with the Law, he came to bring it to perfection, Mt 5:17. The New Testament does not cancel the message of the Old but carries that message forward. In the great events of patriarchal and Mosaic times and in the Desert feastdays and ritual (the sacrifice of Isaac, the crossing of the Red Sea, the Passover, etc.) the Church sees the great realities of the New Law (the sacrifice of Christ, baptism, the Christian Easter). But this is not all: there is no fundamental difference between the religious response to which Israel was invited by the narratives of the Pentateuch, or impelled by its commands, and the response demanded by our Christian faith. There is a message here, too, for every Christian soul; each in its journey to God treads

Israel's path: it breaks with the old way of life, it suffers a time of testing, it emerges purified.

What method should we follow in reading the Pentateuch? Start by taking the narratives, and in order. In Genesis we shall notice how the lovingkindness of the creator contrasts with the ingratitude of his sinful creature; from the subsequent story of the patriarchs we shall learn that trustful faith has its reward; the Book of Exodus sets forth our own redemption in outline; Numbers shows us God instructing and admonishing his children in their time of trial and thus preparing his gathering of the elect. After this we may read Leviticus, either side by side with the concluding chapters of Ezekiel or after we have finished reading Ezra and Nehemiah; it is true that the one sacrifice of Christ has abrogated the Temple ceremonial but Leviticus also legislates for the purity and sanctity of those who serve God — and this is a lesson for all times. Deuteronomy may profitably be read with Jeremiah, who of all the prophets is closest to this book in time as in spirit.

GENESIS

I. THE ORIGIN OF THE WORLD AND OF MANKIND

1. THE CREATION AND THE FALL

The first account of the creation^a

- ¹ ² 1 In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. •Now the earth was a formless void,^b there was darkness over the deep, and God's spirit hovered^c over the water.
- ³ ⁴ God said, 'Let there be light', and there was light. •God saw that light was ⁵ good, and God divided light from darkness. •God called light 'day', and darkness he called 'night'. Evening came and morning came: the first day.
- ⁶ God said, 'Let there be a vault^d in the waters to divide the waters in two'. ⁷ And so it was. •God made the vault, and it divided the waters above the vault ⁸ from the waters under the vault. •God called the vault 'heaven'. Evening came and morning came: the second day.
- ⁹ God said, 'Let the waters under heaven come together into a single mass,^e ¹⁰ and let dry land appear'. And so it was. •God called the dry land 'earth' and the mass of waters 'seas', and God saw that it was good.
- ¹¹ God said, 'Let the earth produce vegetation: seed-bearing plants, and fruit ¹² trees bearing fruit with their seed inside, on the earth'. And so it was. •The earth produced vegetation: plants bearing seed in their several kinds, and trees bearing fruit with their seed inside in their several kinds. God saw that it was ¹³ good. •Evening came and morning came: the third day.
- ¹⁴ God said, 'Let there be lights in the vault of heaven to divide day from night, ¹⁵ and let them indicate festivals, days and years. •Let them be lights in the vault ¹⁶ of heaven to shine on the earth.' And so it was. •God made the two great lights:^f the greater light to govern the day, the smaller light to govern the night, and the ¹⁷ stars. •God set them in the vault of heaven to shine on the earth, •to govern ¹⁸ the day and the night and to divide light from darkness. God saw that it was ¹⁹ good. •Evening came and morning came: the fourth day.

1 a. This narrative, ascribed to the 'Priestly' source, is less concrete and more theological than that which follows, 2:4-25; it aims at a logical and exhaustive classification of beings whose creation is deliberately fitted into the framework of a week which closes with the sabbath day of rest. These beings come forth from nothing at God's command; they emerge in order of dignity: man, God's image and creation's king, comes last. The text makes use of the primitive science of its day. It would be a mistake to seek points of agreement between this schematic presentation and the data of modern science, but it is important to notice that although it bears the stamp of its period this literary form conveys a revelation of one, transcendent God, existing before the world which he created—a revelation valid for all time.

b. In Hebrew tohu and bohu, 'trackless waste and emptiness': these, like the 'darkness over the deep' and the 'waters', are images that attempt to express in virtue of their negative quality the idea of 'creation from nothing' which reaches precise formulation for the first time in 2 M 7:28.

c. Like a bird hanging in the air over its young in the nest, Dt 32:11.

d. For the ancient Semites the seeming vault of the sky (the 'firmament') was a solid dome holding the upper waters in check; the waters of the Deluge poured down through apertures in it, 7:11.

e. 'mass' thus the Greek; Hebr. 'place'.

f. Their names are omitted deliberately: Sun and Moon, deified by all the neighbouring peoples, are here no more than lamps that light the earth and regulate the calendar.

Jb12:7-10

God said, 'Let the waters teem with living creatures, and let birds fly above the earth within the vault of heaven'. And so it was. •God created great sea-serpents and every kind of living creature with which the waters teem, and every kind of winged creature. God saw that it was good. •God blessed them, saying, 'Be fruitful, multiply, and fill the waters of the seas; and let the birds multiply upon the earth'. •Evening came and morning came: the fifth day.

Si 16:30

God said, 'Let the earth produce every kind of living creature: cattle, reptiles, and every kind of wild beast'. And so it was. •God made every kind of wild beast, every kind of cattle, and every kind of land reptile. God saw that it was good.

The Fall

1 3 The serpent^a was the most subtle of all the wild beasts that Yahweh God had made. It asked the woman, ‘Did God really say you were not to eat from any of the trees in the garden?’ •The woman answered the serpent, ‘We may eat the fruit of the trees in the garden. •But of the fruit of the tree in the middle of the garden God said, “You must not eat it, nor touch it, under pain of death”.’
4 Then the serpent said to the woman, ‘No! You will not die! •God knows in fact that on the day you eat it your eyes will be opened and you will be like gods, knowing good and evil.’ •The woman saw that the tree was good to eat and pleasing to the eye, and that it was desirable for the knowledge that it could give. So she took some of its fruit and ate it. She gave some also to her husband who was with her, and he ate it. •Then the eyes of both of them were opened and they

g. Lit. ‘that which crawls’ (or ‘glides’, v. 21): not only snakes and lizards but also insects and the smaller animals.

h. It is possible that this plural form implies a discussion between God and his heavenly court (the angels, cf. 3:5, 22); our text was thus understood by the Greek version (followed by Vulg.) of Ps 8:5 (quoted in Heb 2:7). Alternatively, the plural expresses the majesty and fullness of God’s being; the common name for God in Hebrew is Elohim, a plural form. Thus the way is prepared for the interpretation of the Fathers who saw in this text a hint of the Trinity.

i. Collective noun, hence the plural ‘Be masters of’.

j. ‘Likeness’, by excluding the idea of equality, weakens the force of ‘image’, a realistic term (‘something carved’) that implies a physical resemblance like that between Adam and his sons, 5:3. This relationship with God marks man off from the animals; moreover, it involves a general similarity of nature: intellect, will, authority—man is a person. It paves the way for a higher revelation: man’s share in the divine nature by virtue of grace.

k. ‘All the wild beasts’ Syr.

l. Description of a golden age when men and beasts were at peace with each other, having plants for their food. 9:3 marks the beginning of a new era.

2 a. The sabbath (shabbath) is of divine institution: on that day God himself rested (shabbath).

b. This ‘Yahwistic’ narrative has man and his destiny for its centre of interest. In a figurative way it describes that primordial tragedy the consequences of which were to dominate man’s estate and story.

c. Man, adam, is of the soil, adamah, cf. 3:19, 23. This collective noun is to become, 4:25; 5:1,3, the proper name of the first human being, Adam.

d. ‘Garden’ is translated ‘paradise’ in the Greek version and thence becomes traditional. ‘Eden’ is a geographical name but the place cannot be identified;

it may originally have meant ‘a plain’. Paradise is pictured here as an oasis in the eastern desert.

e. A symbol of immortality, see 3:22 and note. On the tree of the knowledge of good and evil see the note to v. 17.

f. The purpose of vv. 10-14 is to fix the locality of Paradise. The Tigris and the Euphrates are well known and their sources, in the Armenian mountains, are adjacent; the rivers Pishon and Gihon are, however, unknown. According to Gn 10:29 Havilah is a district of Arabia and, in other passages, Cush means Upper Egypt; but it is uncertain whether the two names have the same sense in this place.

g. An aromatic resin.

h. This knowledge is a privilege which God reserves to himself and which man, by sinning, is to lay hands on, 3:5, 22. Hence it does not mean omniscience, which fallen man does not possess; nor is it moral discrimination, for unfallen man already had it and God could not refuse it to a rational being. It is the power of deciding for himself what is good and what is evil and of acting accordingly, a claim to complete moral independence by which man refuses to recognise his status as a created being. The first sin was an attack on God’s sovereignty, a sin of pride. This rebellion is described in concrete terms as the transgression of an express command of God for which the text uses the image of a forbidden fruit.

i. Figurative expression of the close relationship between man and woman, v. 23, which explains their attraction for each other, v. 24 and 3:16.

j. In Hebrew a play on the words ishshah ‘woman’ and ish ‘man’.

3 a. The serpent is here used as a disguise for a being hostile to God and an enemy of man; this being is identified with the Adversary or the Devil (Jb 1:6+) in the Book of Wisdom, in the N.T. and in all Christian tradition.

realised that they were naked.^b So they sewed fig-leaves together to make themselves loin-cloths.

The man and his wife heard the sound of Yahweh God walking in the garden in the cool of the day, and they hid from Yahweh God among the trees of the garden. •But Yahweh God called to the man. 'Where are you?' he asked. 'I heard the sound of you in the garden;' he replied 'I was afraid because I was naked, so I hid.' •'Who told you that you were naked?' he asked 'Have you been eating of the tree I forbade you to eat?' •The man replied, 'It was the woman you put with me; she gave me the fruit, and I ate it'. •Then Yahweh God asked the woman, 'What is this you have done?' The woman replied, 'The serpent tempted me and I ate'.

Then Yahweh God said to the serpent, 'Because you have done this,

'Be accursed beyond all cattle,
all wild beasts.

You shall crawl on your belly and eat dust
every day of your life.

I will make you enemies of each other:
you and the woman,
your offspring and her offspring.

It will crush your head and you will strike its heel.'^c

To the woman he said:^d

'I will multiply your pains in childbearing, you shall give birth to your children in pain.
Your yearning shall be for your husband, yet he will lord it over you.'

To the man he said, 'Because you listened to the voice of your wife and ate from the tree of which I had forbidden you to eat,

'Accursed be the soil because of you.
With suffering shall you get your food from it
every day of your life.

It shall yield you brambles and thistles, and you shall eat wild plants.

With sweat on your brow shall you eat your bread, until you return to the soil,

as you were taken from it.

For dust you are and to dust you shall return.'

The man named his wife 'Eve' because she was the mother of all those who live. •Yahweh God made clothes out of skins for the man and his wife, and they put them on. •Then Yahweh God said, 'See, the man has become like one of us, with his knowledge of good and evil.^f He must not be allowed to stretch his hand out next and pick from the tree of life also, and eat some and live for ever.'^g •So Yahweh God expelled him from the garden of Eden, to till the soil from which he had been taken. •He banished the man, and in front of the garden of Eden he posted the cherubs,^h and the flame of a flashing sword, to guard the way to the tree of life.

Cain and Abel^a

4 The man had intercourse with his wife Eve, and she conceived and gave birth to Cain. 'I have acquired a man with the help of Yahweh'^b she said. •She gave birth to a second child, Abel, the brother of Cain. Now Abel became a shepherd

- 3 and kept flocks, while Cain tilled the soil. •Time passed and Cain brought some 4 of the produce of the soil as an offering for Yahweh, •while Abel for his part 5 brought the first-born of his flock and some of their fat as well. Yahweh looked 6 with favour on Abel and his offering. •But he did not look with favour on Cain
 7 and his offering,^c and Cain was very angry and downcast. •Yahweh asked
 8 Cain, 'Why are you angry and downcast? •If you are well disposed, ought you 9 not to lift up your head? But if you are ill disposed, is not sin at the door like 10 a crouching beast hungering for you, which you must master?'^d •Cain said to 11 his brother Abel, 'Let us go out';^e and while they were in the open country, 12 Cain set on his brother Abel and killed him.
- 13 Yahweh asked Cain, 'Where is your brother Abel?' 'I do not know' he 14 replied. 'Am I my brother's guardian?' •'What have you done?' Yahweh 15 asked. 'Listen to the sound of your brother's blood, crying out to me from the 16 ground. •Now be accursed and driven from the ground that has opened its 17 mouth to receive your brother's blood at your hands. •When you till the ground
 18 it shall no longer yield you any of its produce. You shall be a fugitive and a 19 wanderer over the earth.' •Then Cain said to Yahweh, 'My punishment is 20 greater than I can bear. •See! Today you drive me from this ground. I must 21 hide from you, and be a fugitive and a wanderer over the earth. Why, whoever 22 comes across me will kill me!' •'Very well, then,' Yahweh replied 'if anyone 23 kills Cain, sevenfold vengeance shall be taken for him.' So Yahweh put a mark 24 on Cain,^f to prevent whoever might come across him from striking him down.
 25 Cain left the presence of Yahweh and settled in the land of Nod,^g east of Eden.

 18 Enoch. •Enoch had a son, Irad, and Irad became the father of Mehujael;

b. What had been good is now known as evil: the offence of indecency has been invented.

c. The Hebrew text, by proclaiming that the offspring of the serpent is henceforth at enmity with the woman's descendants, opposes the human race to the devil and his 'seed', his posterity, and hints at man's ultimate victory; it is the first glimmer of salvation, the proto-evangelium. The Greek version has a masculine pronoun ('he', not 'it' will crush...), thus ascribing the victory not to the woman's descendants in general but to one of her sons in particular; the words of the Greek version therefore express the messianic interpretation held by many of the Fathers. The Latin version has a feminine pronoun ('she' will crush...), and since, in the messianic interpretation of our text, the Messiah and his mother appear together, the pronoun has been taken to refer to Mary; this application has become current in the Church.

d. The punishment is appropriate to the specific functions of each: the woman suffers as mother and wife, the man as bread-earner. To this fall from the original condition there is added death, v. 19, and the loss of intimacy with God, v. 23. These penalties are hereditary; the doctrine of hereditary guilt is not clearly stated until St Paul draws his comparison between the solidarity of all in Christ the saviour, and the solidarity of all in the sinner, Adam, Rm 5.

e. The name Eve, Hawwah, is here explained by the root hayah 'to live'.

f. Man has sinned, constituting himself arbiter of what is good and what is evil, 2:17+; he has usurped the divine privilege.

g. By nature man is mortal, v. 19; immortality was a pure gift of God which man's disobedience forfeited, 2:17.

h. Babylonian conceptions lie behind this image, cf. Ex 25:18+.

a. This narrative presupposes a developed civilisation, an established form of worship, the existence of men who might attempt Cain's life, the existence of a clan that would rally to him. It may be that the narrative originally referred not to the children of the first man but to the eponymous ancestor of the Cainites (cf. Nb 24:21+). The 'Yahwistic' tradition has moved the story back to the period of man's beginning, thus giving it a universal significance: after man's revolt against God we now have man's war on man; against these two evils is directed the double command that sums up the whole Law—the love of God and of neighbour, Mt 22:40.

b. Delight of the first woman who, though the slave of her husband, now finds herself mother of a male child. By a play on words the name Cain (Qain) is here connected with the verb qanah, 'to acquire', 'get'.

c. The younger is preferred to the elder. This theme runs through the whole Bible and, in Genesis, its first appearance here is followed by others (Isaac preferred to Ishmael, Jacob to Esau, Rachel to Leah). Such preference demonstrates the freedom of God's choice, his contempt for earthly standards of greatness, and his regard for the lowly.

d. Approximate translation of a corrupted text. Lit. 'If you do well, is it not elevation? And if you do not well, sin (feminine) is crouching (masc.) at your door and unto you its (masc.) desire, and you shall rule over it.' It seems that the text is speaking of temptation and of the need to overcome it.

e. 'Let us go out' versions.

f. The 'mark of Cain' is not a brand of shame but a protecting sign: it indicates that Cain is member of a clan that will exact blood for blood.

g. The name of this unidentified land recalls the description of Cain as a 'wanderer', nad, in the land of Nod.

h. Fragment of 'Yahwistic' genealogy. The same names, varying in form, occur in the 'Priestly' genealogy of Seth between the names of Kenan and Lamech, 5:12-28.

Mehujael became the father of Methushael, and Methushael became the father of Lamech. •Lamech married two women: the name of the first was Adah and the name of the second was Zillah. •Adah gave birth to Jabal: he was the ancestor of the tent-dwellers and owners of livestock. •His brother's name was Jubal: he was the ancestor of all who play the lyre and the flute. •As for Zillah, she gave birth to Tubal-cain: he was the ancestor of all metalworkers,ⁱ in bronze or iron. Tubal-cain's sister was Naamah.

Lamech said to his wives:

'Adah and Zillah, hear my voice,
Lamech's wives, listen to what I say:
I killed a man for wounding me,
a boy for striking me.
Sevenfold vengeance is taken for Cain,
but seventy-sevenfold for Lamech.'

Sons of God and daughters of men^a

1 6 When men had begun to be plentiful on the earth, and daughters had been 2 born to them, •the sons of God, looking at the daughters of men, saw they 3 were pleasing, so they married as many as they chose. •Yahweh said, 'My spirit must not for ever be disgraced in man, for he is but flesh; his life shall last no 4 more than a hundred and twenty years'.^b •The Nephilim were on the earth at that time (and even afterwards) when the sons of God resorted to the daughters of man, and had children by them. These are the heroes of days gone by, the famous men.

2. THE FLOOD ^c

The corruption of mankind

5 Yahweh saw that the wickedness of man was great on the earth, and that 6 the thoughts in his heart fashioned nothing but wickedness all day long. •Yahweh

i. 'the ancestor of all metalworkers' corr. The three classes of nomads: shepherds, travelling musicians, tinkers, are credited with three ancestors whose names are similar and suggest their descendants' occupations: Jabal (ybl 'to lead'), Jubal (yobbel 'trumpet'), Tubal (name of a northern race, Gn 10:2, inhabiting a region famous for its deposits of metal). Cain means 'smith' in other semitic languages.

j. This ferocious song, composed in honour of a desert paladin named Lamech, is recorded here as evidence of the increasing ferocity of Cain's descendants.

k. Fragment of another primitive genealogy.

l. The name of Seth (Hebr. Sheth) is here explained by shath 'he has granted'.

m. 'This man was the first' Greek and Vulg. The 'Priestly' and 'Elohistic' traditions put the revelation of the divine name later, in the Mosaic period, Ex 3:14; 6:2f.

5 a. This 'Priestly' genealogy is connected with ch. 1. Its purpose is to fill in the gap between Creation and Deluge just as Shem's genealogy in 11:10-32 bridges the interval between the Deluge and Abraham. Neither history nor chronology is to be looked for here. The names are the fossilised remains of ancient traditions; many of them are to be found also in the 'Yahwistic' catalogue of Cain's descendants, 4:17f. In the Samaritan Pentateuch and in the Greek version the numerical data differ considerably from those of the Hebrew text. The earliest patriarchs are said to have enjoyed phenomenal length of life because it was believed that the human span progressively diminished as epoch followed epoch; ages not exceeding 200-600 are found between Noah and Abraham and no more than 100-200 for the Hebrew patriarchs. It seems that the idea of this decrease was associated with that of increasing sin, because long life is a blessing from God, Pr 10:27, and is to be one of the privileges of the messianic era, Is 65:20.

b. Likeness to God is therefore a quality of human nature, which the first man passes on to his descendants.

c. Enoch is distinguished from the other patriarchs in several ways: his life is shorter but his years number those of the days in a solar year, he therefore attains a perfect age; he 'walks with God' as Noah did, 6:9; like Elijah, 2 K 2:11f, he vanishes mysteriously, taken up by God. Enoch has a prominent place in subsequent Jewish tradition: he is held up as a model of piety, Si 44:16; 49: 14, and certain apocryphal books (one of which is cited in Jude 14-15) bear his name.

d. The v. is a fragment of a 'Yahwistic' tradition inserted in this 'Priestly' context. The root nhm does not in fact explain the name Noah; perhaps the passage originally referred to some other name like Menahem.

6 a. An obscure passage (from the 'Yahwistic' tradition). The author uses a popular story of a race of giants, in Hebr. Nephilim, the Titans of eastern legend, born of the union between gods and mortals. The author does not present this episode as a myth nor, on the other hand, does he deliver judgement on its actual occurrence; he records the anecdote of a race of supermen simply to serve as an example of the increasing human malice that is to provoke the Deluge. Later Judaism and almost all the earliest ecclesiastical writers identify the 'sons of God' with the fallen angels; but from the 4th century onwards, as the idea of angelic natures becomes less material, the Fathers commonly take the 'sons of God' to be Seth's descendants and the 'daughters of men' those of Cain.

b. According to the 'Yahwistic' source this is the maximum henceforth allowed by God; for the 'Priestly', tradition see note to 5:1.

c. This section combines two narratives: one 'Yahwistic' which is vivid and picturesque, 6:5-8; 7:1-5, 7-10 (edited), 12, 16b, 17, 22-23; 8:2b-3a, 6-12, 13b,

 Si 44:17 Japheth. •The earth grew corrupt in God’s sight, and filled with violence. •God contemplated the earth: it was corrupt, for corrupt were the ways of all flesh on the earth.

Preparations for the flood

God said to Noah, ‘The end has come for all things of flesh; I have decided this, because the earth is full of violence of man’s making, and I will efface them from the earth. •Make yourself an ark^e out of resinous wood. Make it with reeds and line it with pitch inside and out. •This is how to make it: the length of the ark is to be three hundred cubits, its breadth fifty cubits, and its height thirty cubits. •Make a roof for the ark...^f put the door of the ark high up in the side, and make a first, second and third deck.

2 P 2:5 ‘For my part I mean to bring a flood, and send the waters over the earth, to destroy all flesh on it, every living creature under heaven; everything on 9:9f earth shall perish. •But I will establish my Covenant^g with you, and you must go on board the ark, yourself, your sons, your wife, and your sons’ wives along with you. •From all living creatures, from all flesh, you must take two of each kind aboard the ark, to save their lives with yours; they must be a male and a female. •Of every kind of bird, of every kind of animal and of every kind of reptile on the ground, two must go with you so that their lives may be saved.^h
 For your part provide yourself with eatables of all kinds, and lay in a store of them, to serve as food for yourself and them.’ •Noah did this; he did all that God had ordered him.

Ws 10:4 7 Yahweh said to Noah, ‘Go aboard the ark, you and all your household, 2 P 2:5 for you alone among this generation do I see as a good man in my judgement.
 Lv 11+ Of all the clean animals you must take seven of each kind, both male and female; of the unclean animals you must take two, a male and its female •(and of the birds of heaven also, seven of each kind, both male and female), to propagate their kind over the whole earth. •For in seven days’ time I mean to make it rain on the earth for forty days and nights, and I will rid the earth of every living thing that I made.’ •Noah did all that Yahweh ordered.

Noah was six hundred years old when the flood of waters appeared on the earth.
 1 P 3:20 Noah with his sons, his wife, and his sons’ wives boarded the ark to escape the waters of the flood. •(Of the clean animals and the animals that are not clean, of the birds and all that crawls on the ground, •two of each kind boarded the ark with Noah, a male and a female, according to the order God gave Noah.)^a 2 P 3:6 Seven days later the waters of the flood appeared on the earth.

2 K 7:2 In the six hundredth year of Noah’s life, in the second month, and on the
 Is 24:18 seventeenth day of that month, that very day all the springs of the great deep Mt 24:38 broke through, and the sluices of heaven opened.^b •It rained on the earth for forty days and forty nights.

That very day Noah and his sons Shem, Ham and Japheth boarded the ark, with Noah’s wife and the three wives of his sons, •and with them wild beasts of every kind, cattle of every kind, reptiles of every kind that crawls on the earth, birds of every kind, all that flies, everything with wings. •One pair of all that is flesh and has the breath of life boarded the ark with Noah; •and so there went in a male and a female of every creature that is flesh, just as God had ordered him.

And Yahweh closed the door behind Noah.

The flood

17 The flood lasted forty days on the earth. The waters swelled, lifting the ark 18 until it was raised above the earth. •The waters rose and swelled greatly on the 19 earth, and the ark sailed on the waters. •The waters rose more and more on 20 the earth so that all the highest mountains under the whole of heaven were 21 submerged. •The waters rose fifteen cubits higher, submerging the mountains.
 22 And so all things of flesh perished that moved on the earth, birds, cattle, wild 23 beasts, everything that swarms on the earth, and every man. •Everything with 24 the breath of life in its nostrils died, everything on dry land. •Yahweh destroyed every living thing on the face of the earth, man and animals, reptiles, and the birds of heaven. He rid the earth of them, so that only Noah was left, and those with him in the ark. •The waters rose on the earth for a hundred and fifty days.

The flood subsides

1 8 But God had Noah in mind, and all the wild beasts and all the cattle that 2 were with him in the ark. God sent a wind across the earth and the waters
 3 subsided. •The springs of the deep and the sluices of heaven were stopped.
 4 Rain ceased to fall from heaven; •the waters gradually ebbed from the 5 earth. After a hundred and fifty days^a the waters fell, •and in the seventh month,
 6 on the seventeenth day of that month, the ark came to rest on the mountains
 7 of Ararat. •The waters gradually fell until the tenth month when, on the first 8 day of the tenth month, the mountain peaks appeared.

9 At the end of forty days Noah opened the porthole he had made in the ark 10 and he sent out the raven. This went off, and flew back and forth until the 11 waters dried up from the earth. •Then he sent out the dove, to see whether 12 the waters were receding from the surface of the earth. •The dove, finding 13 nowhere to perch, returned to him in the ark, for there was water over the whole 14 surface of the earth; putting out his hand he took hold of it and brought it back into the ark with him. •After waiting seven more days, again he sent out the dove from the ark. •In the evening, the dove came back to him and there it was with a new olive-branch in its beak. So Noah realised that the waters were receding from the earth. •After waiting seven more days he sent out the dove, and now it returned to him no more.

13 It was in the six hundred and first year of Noah's life, in the first month and on the first of the month, that the water dried up from the earth. Noah lifted back the hatch of the ark and looked out. The surface of the ground was dry!

14 In the second month and on the twenty-seventh day of the month the earth was dry.

20-22; the other 'Priestly' which is more precise and sophisticated but also more prosaic, 6:9-22; 7:6-11, 13-16a, 18-21, 24; 8:1-2a, 3b-5, 13a, 14-19; 9:1-17. The final editor has left unchanged the two traditional accounts without attempting to smooth out their divergences of detail. There are several Babylonian stories of the Flood which are in some respects remarkably similar to the biblical narrative. This last does not derive from them but draws upon the same source, namely upon the memory of one or more disastrous floods in the valley of the Euphrates and Tigris which tradition had enlarged to the dimensions of a world-wide catastrophe. But there is this fundamental difference: the author has used this tradition as a vehicle for teaching eternal truths—that God is just and merciful, that man is perverse, that God saves his faithful ones (cf. Heb 11:7). The Flood is a divine judgement which foreshadows that of the latter days, Lk 17:26f; Mt 24: 37f, just as Noah's salvation prefigures the saving waters of baptism, 1 P 3:20-21.

d. This 'regret' of God is a human way of expressing the fact that tolerance of sin is incompatible with his sanctity (1 S 15:29 warns us that the phrase is 'not to be taken too literally); but in a far greater number of passages it means that God's anger is appeased and his threat withdrawn, see Jr 26:3 +.

e. The English word 'ark' comes from the Latin translation arca ('box', 'chest'). 'resinous wood', approximate translation. 'reeds' (like the coracle of Ex 2:3) conl.; Hebr. 'nests' (cabins?).

f. The Hebr. 'and in a cubit you shall finish it (the ark)' yields no satisfactory sense.

g. Not an agreement between equals but God's gracious guarantee offered to his chosen ones. This Covenant is to be followed by others: one with Abraham, Gn 15; 17, another with the whole nation. Ex 19:1 +.

h. Man's wickedness has affected the whole of creation, 6:13, and for better or worse the destiny of irrational creatures is now associated with man's. The thought is close to that of St Paul, Rm 8:19-22.

7 a. An addition that combines both narratives: with the 'Yahwistic' tradition it distinguishes clean from unclean animals, with the 'Priestly' it reckons one pair of each.

b. The waters from above and below burst the barriers God has set, 1:7; chaos has come again. According to the 'Yahwistic' narrative torrential rain was the cause of the Flood, 7:4,12.

They disembark

Then God said to Noah, •‘Come out of the ark, you yourself, your wife, 15 your sons, and your sons’ wives with you. •As for all the animals with you, 16 all things of flesh, whether birds or animals or reptiles that crawl on the earth, 17 1:22,28 bring them out with you. Let them swarm on the earth; let them be fruitful and multiply on the earth.’ •So Noah went out with his sons, his wife, and his 18 sons’ wives. •And all the wild beasts, all the cattle, all the birds and all 19 the reptiles that crawl on the earth went out from the ark, one kind after another.

Noah built an altar for Yahweh, and choosing from all the clean animals 20 and all the clean birds he offered burnt offerings on the altar. •Yahweh smelt 21
 Sl 17:31; the appeasing fragrance^b and said to himself, ‘Never again will I curse the earth 44:18 because of man, because his heart contrives evil from his infancy. Never again
 Ph 4:18 will I strike down every living thing as I have done.

‘As long as earth lasts, 22 sowing and reaping,
 cold and heat,
 summer and winter,
 day and night
 shall cease no more.’^c

The new world order

1:28;10:32 9 God blessed Noah and his sons, saying to them, ‘Be fruitful, multiply and 1 fill the earth. •Be the terror and the dread of all the wild beasts and all the 2 birds of heaven, of everything that crawls on the ground and all the fish of the sea; they are handed over to you.’^a •Every living and crawling thing shall provide 3 Dt12:15f food for you, no less than the foliage of plants. I give you everything, •with 4
 1 Tm 4:3 this exception: you must not eat flesh with life, that is to say blood, in it. •I will 5 Lv 1:5+ demand an account of your life-blood. I will demand an account from every Nb35:33 beast and from man. I will demand an account of every man’s life from his Ex20:13+ fellow men.

‘He who sheds man’s blood, 6 shall have his blood shed by man, for in the image of God
 man was made.’^b

‘As for you, be fruitful, multiply, teem over the earth and be lord of it.’^c 7 6:18+ God spoke to Noah and his sons, •‘See, I establish my Covenant^d with you, 8 and with your descendants after you; •also with every living creature to be found 9 with you, birds, cattle and every wild beast with you: everything that came out 10 of the ark, everything that lives on the earth. •I establish my Covenant with 11 you: no thing of flesh shall be swept away again by the waters of the flood.
 There shall be no flood to destroy the earth again.’

God said, ‘Here is the sign of the Covenant I make between myself and you 12 and every living creature with you for all generations: •I set my bow in the 13 clouds and it shall be a sign of the Covenant between me and the earth. •When 14
 I gather the clouds over the earth and the bow appears in the clouds, •I will 15 recall the Covenant between myself and you and every living creature of every kind. And so the waters shall never again become a flood to destroy all things of flesh. •When the bow is in the clouds I shall see it and call to mind Is 24:5 the lasting Covenant between God and every living creature of every kind that is found on the earth.’

God said to Noah, ‘This is the sign of the Covenant I have established 17 between myself and every living thing that is found on the earth’.

3. FROM THE FLOOD TO ABRAHAM

Noah and his sons^e

18 The sons of Noah who went out from the ark were Shem, Ham and 10:6 19 Japheth; Ham is the ancestor of the Canaanites. •These three were Noah's sons, and from these the whole earth was peopled.

20 Noah, a tiller of the soil, was the first to plant the vine. •He drank some Ps104 15
21 of the wine, and while he was drunk he uncovered himself inside his tent. Lm 4:21
22 Ham, Canaan's ancestor, saw his father's nakedness, and told his two brothers Hab2:15
23 outside. •Shem and Japheth took a cloak and they both put it over their shoulders, and walking backwards, covered their father's nakedness; they kept 24 their faces turned away, and did not see their father's nakedness. •When Noah awoke from his stupor he learned what his youngest son had done to him.
25 And he said:^f

'Accursed be Canaan.
He shall be his brothers'
meanest slave.'

Ws 12:11

26 He added:

'Blessed be Yahweh, God of Shem, let Canaan be his slave!
27 May God extend^g Japheth, may he live in the tents of Shem,
and may Canaan be his slave!'

28 After the flood^h Noah lived three hundred and fifty years. •In all, Noah's 29 life lasted nine hundred and fifty years; then he died.

The peopling of the earth^a

Dt 32:8

1 10 These are the descendants of Noah's sons, Shem, Ham and Japheth, 1Ch1:5-23 to whom sons were born after the flood:

2 Japheth's sons: Gomer, Magog, the Medes, Javan, Tubal, Meshech, Tiras. Ezk 38:2

b. An anthropomorphism destined to become part of the technical vocabulary of ritual, cf. Ex 29:18,25; Lv 1:9,13; Nb 28:2, etc.

c. The laws of nature are stabilised again. Aware of man's continuing malice God nevertheless preserves what he himself has made and, in spite of man, will lead it to the goal that he has determined.

9 a. In the beginning man was blessed and was consecrated lord of creation; he is now blessed and consecrated anew, but his rule is tranquil no longer. In this new age man will be at war with the beasts and with his fellows. The peace of Paradise will not return until 'the latter days', Is 11:6 +.

b. The blood of every creature belongs to God, cf. Lv 1:5 +, but man's in particular because man was made to God's likeness. God will avenge human blood, cf. above 4:10, and delegates this office to man himself to be exercised either through the state or, Nb 35:19 +, through the individual 'avenger of blood'.

c. 'be lord of' correction.

d. The Covenant with Noah, the rainbow its emblem, involves the whole creation; Abraham's covenant, whose sign is to be circumcision, embraces his descendants only, Gn 17; under Moses the Covenant is confined to Israel and brings with it an obligation: fidelity to the Law, Ex 19:5; 24:7-8, and to the sabbath observance in particular, Ex 31:16-17.

e. The 'Yahwistic' tradition is resumed.

f. The blessings and curses of the patriarchs, cf. ch. 27 and 49, are operative words addressed to the first ancestor and worked out in his descendants. Canaan's race is to be subject to Shem, ancestor of Abraham and of the Israelites who are to enjoy Yahweh's special protection. It is to be subject also to Japheth whose widely scattered progeny is to find hospitality among the Semites. Many of the Fathers see in this a prophecy of the entrance of the gentiles (Japheth) into the Christian community which first emerged among the Hebrews (Shem).

g. The Hebrew plays on the words Yapheth and yapht 'may he extend, enlarge'.

h. The 'Priestly' source is now resumed.

10 a. In the form of a genealogical tree this chapter draws up a Table of Peoples; the principle behind the classification is not so much racial affinity as historical and geographical relationship. The sons of Japheth inhabit Asia Minor and the Mediterranean islands, the sons of Ham people the lands of the south, Egypt, Ethiopia and Arabia to which is added Canaan in memory of the time when she was Egypt's satellite. In the regions between these two groups live the sons of Shem: Elamites, Assyrians, Aramaeans and the ancestors of the Hebrews. The genealogical tree is 'Priestly' with the exception of some 'Yahwistic' elements (vv. 8-19, 21, 24-30) which somewhat modify the data. This table sums up such knowledge of the inhabited world as Israel would possess in Solomon's time and asserts the unity of the human race which, from a common stock, has split up into various groups. This dispersal is regarded, 10:32, as the result of the blessing mentioned in 9:1; the 'Yahwistic' story of the Tower of Babel takes a less complacent view, 11:1-9; these are two complementary aspects of the one complex subject, namely of the history of a world in which both the power of God and the malice of men play their part.

Gomer's sons: Ashkenaz, Riphath, Togarmah. •Javan's sons: Elishah,³ Tarshish, the Kittim, the Dananites. •From these came the dispersal to the islands of the nations.^b

These were Japheth's sons,^c according to their countries and each of their languages, according to their tribes and their nations.

Jdt 2:23
1 K 10:1+
Is 21:13
Ezk 27:22 Ham's sons: Cush, Misraim, Put, Canaan. •Cush's sons: Seba, Havilah,⁶ Sabtah, Raamah, Sabteca. Raamah's sons: Sheba, Dedan.

Cush became the father of Nimrod^d who was the first potentate on earth. He was a mighty hunter in the eyes of Yahweh, hence the saying, 'Like Nimrod, a mighty hunter in the eyes of Yahweh'. •First to be included in his empire were Babel, Erech and Accad,^e all of them in the land of Shinar.^f •From this country came Ashur, the builder of Nineveh, Rehoboth-ir, Calah, •and Resen between Nineveh and Calah (this is the great city).

Jdt 2:23 Misraim became the father of the people of Lud, of Anam, Lehab, Naphtuh, Pathros, Cusluh and Caphtor, from which the Philistines came.^g

Canaan became the father of Sidon, his first-born, then Heth, •and the Jebusites, the Amorites, Girgashites, •Hivites, Arkites, Sinites, •Arvadites, Zemarites, Hamathites; later the Canaanite tribes scattered. •The Canaanite frontier stretched from Sidon in the direction of Gerar and as far as Gaza, then in the direction of Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah and Zeboim, and as far as Lesha.

These were Ham's sons, according to their tribes and languages, according to their countries and nations.

Shem also was the father of children, the ancestor of all the sons of Eber and the elder brother of Japheth.

Jdt 1:12:23 Shem's sons: Elam, Asshur, Arpachshad, Lud, Aram. •Aram's sons: Uz, Hul, Gether and Mash.

Arpachshad became the father of Shelah, and Shelah became the father of Eber. •To Eber were born two sons: the first was called Peleg, because it was in his time that the earth was divided, and his brother was called Joktan. •Joktan became the father of Almodad, Sheleph, Hazarmaveth, Jerah, •Hadoram, Uzal, Diklah, •Obal, Abima-el, Sheba, •Ophir, Havilah, Jobab; all these are sons of Joktan. •They occupied a stretch of country from Mesha in the direction of Sephar, the eastern mountain range.

These were Shem's sons, according to their tribes and languages, and according to their countries and nations.

9:1 These were the tribes of Noah's sons, according to their descendants and their nations. From these came the dispersal of the nations over the earth, after the flood.

The tower of Babel^a

11 Throughout the earth men spoke the same language, with the same vocabulary. •Now as they moved eastwards they found a plain in the land of Shinar^b where they settled. •They said to one another, 'Come, let us make bricks and bake them in the fire'. — For stone they used bricks, and for mortar they used bitumen. — •'Come,' they said 'let us build ourselves a town and a tower with its top reaching heaven. Let us make a name for ourselves, so that we may not be scattered about the whole earth.'

3:22 Now Yahweh came down to see the town and the tower that the sons of man had built. •'So they are all a single people with a single language!' said Yahweh. 'This is but the start of their undertakings! There will be nothing too hard for them to do. •Come, let us go down and confuse their language on the spot so that they can no longer understand one another.' •Yahweh scattered them thence over the whole face of the earth, and they stopped building the town. •It was named Babel therefore, because there Yahweh confused^c the language of the whole earth. It was from there that Yahweh scattered them over the whole face of the earth.

When Shem was a hundred years old he became the father of Arpachshad, two years after the flood. •After the birth of Arpachshad, Shem lived five hundred years and became the father of sons and daughters.

When Arpachshad was thirty-five years old he became the father of Shelah. After the birth of Shelah, Arpachshad lived four hundred and three years and became the father of sons and daughters.

When Shelah was thirty years old he became the father of Eber. •After the birth of Eber, Shelah lived four hundred and three years and became the father of sons and daughters.

When Eber was thirty-four years old he became the father of Peleg. •After the birth of Peleg, Eber lived four hundred and thirty years and became the father of sons and daughters.

When Peleg was thirty years old he became the father of Reu. •After the birth of Reu, Peleg lived two hundred and nine years and became the father of sons and daughters.

When Reu was thirty-two years old he became the father of Serug. •After the birth of Serug, Reu lived two hundred and seven years and became the father of sons and daughters.

When Serug was thirty years old he became the father of Nahor. •After the birth of Nahor, Serug lived two hundred years and became the father of sons and daughters.

When Nahor was twenty-nine years old he became the father of Terah. After the birth of Terah, Nahor lived a hundred and nineteen years and became the father of sons and daughters.

When Terah was seventy years old he became the father of Abram, Nahor and Haran.

The descendants of Terah^e

- 27 These are Terah's descendants:

Terah became the father of Abram, Nahor and Haran. Haran became the father of Lot. •Haran died in the presence of his father Terah in his native land, Ur of the Chaldeans. •Abram and Nahor both married: Abram's wife was called Sarai, Nahor's wife was called Milcah, the daughter of Haran, father of Milcah and Iscah. •Sarai was barren, having no child.

Terah took his son Abram, his grandson Lot the son of Haran, and his daughter-in-law the wife of Abram, and made them leave^f Ur of the Chaldeans to go to the land of Canaan. But on arrival in Haran they settled there.^g

28 Terah's life lasted two hundred and five years;^h then he died at Haran.

II. THE STORY OF ABRAHAM

The call of Abraham^a 12 Yahweh said to Abram, 'Leave your country, your family and your father's house, for the land I will show you. •I will make you a great nation; I will bless you and make your name so famous that it will be used as a blessing.

'I will bless those who bless you:
I will curse those who slight you.
All the tribes of the earth shall bless themselves by you.'^e

So Abram went as Yahweh told him, and Lot went with him. Abram was seventy-five years old when he left Haran. •Abram took his wife Sarai, his nephew Lot, all the possessions they had amassed and the people they had acquired in Haran. They set off for the land of Canaan, and arrived there.

Abram passed through the land as far as Shechem's holy place, the Oak of Moreh. At that time the Canaanites were in the land. •Yahweh appeared to Abram and said, 'It is to your descendants that I will give this land'.^d So Abram built there an altar for Yahweh who had appeared to him. •From there he moved on to the mountainous district east of Bethel, where he pitched his tent, with Bethel to the west and Ai to the east. There he built an altar to Yahweh and invoked the name of Yahweh. •Then Abram made his way stage by stage to the Negeb.

Abraham in Egypt^e

When famine came to the land Abram went down into Egypt to stay there for the time, since the land was hard pressed by the famine. •On the threshold of Egypt he said to his wife Sarai, 'Listen! I know you are a beautiful woman. When the Egyptians see you they will say, "That is his wife", and they will kill me but spare you. •Tell them you are my sister, so that they may treat me well because of you and spare my life out of regard for you.' •When Abram arrived in Egypt the Egyptians did indeed see that the woman was very beautiful. When Pharaoh's officials saw her they sang her praises to Pharaoh and the woman was taken into Pharaoh's palace. •He treated Abram well because of her, and he received flocks, oxen, donkeys, men and women slaves, she-donkeys and camels. •But Yahweh inflicted severe plagues on Pharaoh and his household because of Abram's wife Sarai. •So Pharaoh summoned Abram and said, 'What is this you have done to me? Why did you not tell me she was your wife? •Why did you say, "She is my sister", so that I took her for my wife? Now, here is your wife. Take her and go!' •Pharaoh committed him to men who escorted him back to the frontier with his wife and all he possessed.

Abraham and Lot separate

13 From Egypt Abram returned to the Negeb with his wife and all he possessed, and Lot with him. •Abram was a very rich man, with livestock, silver and gold. •By stages he went from the Negeb to Bethel, where he had first pitched his tent, between Bethel and Ai, •at the place where he had formerly erected the altar. Here Abram invoked the name of Yahweh.

Lot, who was travelling with Abram, had flocks and cattle of his own, and tents too. •The land was not sufficient to accommodate them both at once, for they had too many possessions to be able to live together. •Dispute broke out between the herdsmen of Abram's livestock and those of Lot's. (The Canaanites and the Perizzites were then living in the land.) •Accordingly Abram said to Lot, 'Let there be no dispute between me and you, nor between

- 9 my herdsmen and yours, for we are brothers. •Is not the whole land open before you? Part company with me: if you take the left, I will go right; if you take the right, I will go left.'
- 10 Looking round, Lot saw all the Jordan plain,^a irrigated everywhere—this was before Yahweh destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah—like the garden of 11 Yahweh or the land of Egypt, as far as Zoar.^b •So Lot chose all the Jordan
 12 plain for himself and moved off eastwards. Thus they parted company: •Abram settled in the land of Canaan; Lot settled among the towns of the plain, pitching 13 his tents on the outskirts of Sodom. •Now the people of Sodom were vicious men, great sinners against Yahweh.^c
- 14 Yahweh said to Abram after Lot had parted company with him, 'Look all round from where you are towards the north and the south, towards 15 the east and the west. •All the land within sight I will give to you and your 16 descendants for ever. •I will make your descendants like the dust on the ground:
 when men succeed in counting the specks of dust on the ground, then they will 17 be able to count your descendants! •Come, travel through the length and breadth of the land, for I mean to give it to you.'
- 18 So Abram went with his tents to settle at the Oak of Mamre, at Hebron, and there he built an altar to Yahweh.

Dt12:10 +

12 a. Ch. 12-13 are a 'Yahwistic' narrative with some 'Priestly' or editorial additions. As a result of God's call and promise of posterity Abraham cuts off all earthly ties and with his childless wife, 11:30, sets out for an unknown land. It is Abraham's first act of faith; it will be renewed when the promise is repeated, 15:5-6 +, and put to the test when God asks for the surrender of Isaac who was the fruit of that promise, ch. 22 +. To Abraham's unquestioning act of faith the chosen people owes its existence and destiny, Heb. 11: 8-19. Not only Abraham's physical descendants but all who, in virtue of this same faith, become his sons will have their share in that destiny as St Paul shows, Rm 4; Ga 3:7.

b. 'that it will be used as' corr.; 'and may you be' Hebr.

c. The formula is repeated in 18:18; 22:18; 26:4; 28:14. Its precise meaning is: 'the nations shall say to each other: May you be blessed as Abraham was' (cf. v. 2 and 48:20; Jr 29:22); but Si 44:21, the LXX translation and the N.T. take it to mean 'In you all the nations shall be blessed'.

d. The Holy Land is here made over to Abraham.

e. The purpose of this narrative (the same theme recurs in ch. 20, where Sarah figures again, and in 26:1-11 where the story is told of Rebekah) is to commemorate the beauty of the ancestress of the race, the astuteness of its patriarch, the protection that God afforded them. The story reflects a stage of moral development when a lie was still considered lawful under certain circumstances and when the husband's life meant more than his wife's honour. God was leading man to an appreciation of the moral law but this appreciation was gradual.

term indicates the sunken river valley reaching to the south of the Dead Sea; the Dead Sea is conceived as not yet existing at the time to which the story refers, cf. 14:3; 19:24f.

b. At the southern end of the Dead Sea, cf. 19:22.

c. A preparatory hint of 18:20-21; 19:4-11. Lot chooses a life of ease and a region where immorality flourishes; for this he will be heavily punished, ch. 19. But the generosity of Abraham in leaving his nephew the choice is to be rewarded by a renewal of the promise of 12:7.

14 a. This chapter does not belong to any of the three great sources of Genesis. Behind it lies a document of great age which has been touched up so as to give greater prominence to Abraham, extolling his bravery and selflessness and calling attention to his connection with Jerusalem. The episode is not improbable provided we understand the campaign as an expedition to clear the caravan route to the Red Sea and Abraham's part in it as a raid on the rear of a column laden with booty. But the narrative does not help to place Abraham historically because the persons mentioned cannot be identified: Amraphel is not, as is often asserted, the famous king of Babylon, Hammurabi. All we can say is that the narrative finds its most natural setting in the conditions of the 19th century B.C.

b. For Sodom and Gomorrah, see ch. 19; for Admah and Zeboiim, Dt 29:23; Ho 11:8.

c. The author imagines the Dead Sea as not yet in existence, cf. 13:10; or else the Valley of Siddim (the name is not met with elsewhere) occupied only what is now the southern part of the Dead Sea, a depression of relatively recent formation.

d. 'the thirteenth year' versions; 'thirteen years' Hebr.

13 a. Lit. the 'circle', or district about Jordan. The the edge of the wilderness.^c •Wheeling round, they came to the Spring of Judgement (that is, Kadesh); they conquered all the territory of the Amalekites and also the Amorites who lived in Hazazon-tamar. •Then the kings of Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah, Zeboiim and Bela (that is, Zoar) marched out and took up battle positions against them in the Valley of Siddim, •against Chedor-laomer king of Elam, Tidal king of the Goiim, Amraphel king of Shinar and Arioch king of Ellasar: four kings against five! •Now there were many bitumen wells in the Valley of Siddim, and in their flight the kings of Sodom and Gomorrah fell into them, while the rest took refuge in the mountains. •The conquerors seized all the possessions of Sodom and Gomorrah, and all their provisions, and made off. •They also took Lot (the nephew of Abram) and his possessions and made off; he was living at Sodom.

A survivor came to tell Abram the Hebrew, who was living at the Oak of the Amorite Mamre, the brother of Eshcol and Aner; these were allies of Abram. When Abram heard that his kinsman had been taken captive, he mustered his supporters, the members of his household from birth, numbering three hundred and eighteen, and led them in pursuit as far as Dan. •He and his servants fell on them by night and defeated them, pursuing them as far as Hobah, north of Damascus. •He recaptured all the goods, along with his kinsman Lot and his possessions, together with the women and people.

Melchizedek

When Abram came back after the defeat of Chedor-laomer and the kings who had been on his side, the king of Sodom came to meet him in the Valley of Shaveh (that is, the Valley of the King).^f •Melchizedek king of Salem^g brought bread and wine; he was a priest of God Most High. •He pronounced this blessing:

'Blessed be Abram by God Most High, creator of heaven and earth, and blessed be God Most High for handing over your enemies to you'.

And Abram gave him a tithe of everything.

The king of Sodom said to Abram, 'Give me the people and take the possessions for yourself'. •But Abram replied to the king of Sodom, 'I raise my hand in the presence of Yahweh, God Most High, creator of heaven and earth: not one thread, not one sandal strap, nothing will I take of what is yours; you shall not say, "I enriched Abram"'. •For myself, nothing. There is only what my men have eaten, and the share belonging to the men who came with me, Eshkol, Aner and Mamre; let them take their share.'

The divine promises and Covenant^a 15 It happened some time later that the word of Yahweh was spoken to Abram in a vision, 'Have no fear, Abram, I am your shield; your reward will be very great'.

'My Lord Yahweh,' Abram replied 'what do you intend to give me? I go childless...' •Then Abram said, 'See, you have given me no descendants; some man of my household will be my heir'. •And then this word of Yahweh was spoken to him, 'He shall not be your heir; your heir shall be of your own flesh and blood'. •Then taking him outside he said, 'Look up to heaven and count the stars if you can. Such will be your descendants' he told him. •Abram put his faith in Yahweh, who counted this as making him justified.^c

'I am Yahweh' he said to him 'who brought you out of Ur of the Chaldaeans to make you heir to this land.' •'My Lord Yahweh,' Abram replied 'how am I to know that I shall inherit it?' •He said to him, 'Get me a three-year-old heifer, a three-year-old goat, a three-year-old ram, a turtledove and a young pigeon'. He brought him all these, cut them in half and put half on one side and half facing it on the other; but the birds he did not cut in half. •Birds of prey came down on the carcases but Abram drove them off.

- 12 Now as the sun was setting Abram fell into a deep sleep, and terror^d seized 13 him. •Then Yahweh said to Abram, 'Know this for certain, that your descendants will be exiles in a land not their own, where they will be slaves and oppressed 14 for four hundred years. •But I will pass judgement also on the nation that 15 enslaves them and after that they will leave, with many possessions. •For your part, you shall go to your fathers in peace; you shall be buried at a ripe old 16 age. •In the fourth generation they will come back here, for the wickedness of the Amorites is not yet ended.'^e
- 17 When the sun had set and darkness had fallen, there appeared a smoking
 18 furnace and a firebrand that went between the halves.^f •That day Yahweh Yahweh has kept me from having children, go to my slave-girl. Perhaps I shall get children through her.'^b Abram agreed to what Sarai had said.

e. Rephaim, Zuzim (or Zamzumim), Emim, Horites, are ancient races of Transjordan, cf. Dt 2:10 + and 2:12 +; their towns lie at intervals along the highway that goes down towards the Red Sea.

f. Mentioned in 2 S 18:18; according to Josephus it lay within a quarter-mile of Jerusalem.

g. Ps 76:2, the whole subsequent Jewish tradition, and many of the Fathers identify Salem with Jerusalem. Its priest-king Melchizedek (the name is Canaanite, cf. Adonizedek, king of Jerusalem, Jos 10:1) worships the Most High God, El-Elyon, a compound name, each of its two parts being the title of a god in the Phoenician pantheon. Elyon is used in the Bible (especially Psalms) as a divine title. In this passage, v. 22, El-Elyon is identified with the true God of Abraham. Melchizedek makes a brief and mysterious appearance in the narrative; he is king of that Jerusalem where Yahweh will deign to dwell, and a priest of the Most High even before the levitical priesthood was established; moreover, he receives tithes from the Father of the chosen people. Ps 110:4 represents him as a figure of the Messiah who is both king and priest; the application to Christ's priesthood is worked out in Heb 7. Patristic tradition has developed and enriched this allegorical interpretation: in the bread and wine offered to Abraham it sees an image of the Eucharist and even a foreshadowing of the Eucharistic sacrifice—an interpretation that has been received into the Canon of the Mass. Several of the Fathers even held the opinion that Melchizedek was a manifestation of the Son of God in person.

15 a. 'Yahwistic' narrative in which perhaps are embedded the earliest recognisable elements of the 'Elohistic' tradition. Abraham's faith is put to the test: there is delay in the fulfilment of the promises which, however, are now renewed and sealed with a covenant.

b. The original text is irrecoverably corrupt: 'and the son of... (unintelligible word) of my house is Damascus Eliezer'. V. 3 gives the general sense. For the first time Abraham expresses misgiving.

c. The faith of Abraham is an act of trust in a promise which, humanly speaking, could never be realised. God acknowledges that this act is worthy of reward (cf. Dt 24:13; Ps 106:31), accrediting it to Abraham's 'righteousness', namely to that sum of integrity and humble submission which makes a man pleasing to God. St Paul uses this text to prove that justification depends on faith and not on the works of the Law; but since Abraham's faith was the mainspring of his conduct, St James is able to cite this same text when he wishes to condemn 'dead' faith, i.e. faith without the works that spring from it.

d. Here the text adds 'a great darkness', probably a gloss intended to explain the rare word for 'darkness' in v. 17.

e. Explanation of v. 11: the birds of prey were a bad omen (cf. 40:17f) signifying the miseries of Israel's stay in Egypt; the dispersal of the birds symbolises her deliverance.

f. Ancient ritual of covenant (Jr 34:18): the contracting parties passed between the parts of the slain animal and called down upon themselves the fate of the victim should they violate the agreement. The flame symbolises Yahweh (cf. the burning bush, Ex 3:2; the pillar of fire, Ex 13:21; the smoke of Sinai, Ex 19:18); he alone passes between the parts because his Covenant is a unilateral pact, the initiative is his; cf. 9:9 +.

16 a. 'Yahwistic' narrative with some elements from the 'Priestly' source (vv. 1a,3,15-16).

b. According to Mesopotamian law a barren wife could present one of her female slaves to the husband and acknowledge the issue as her own. The same is to happen in Rachel's case, 30:1-6, and Leah's, 30:9-13.

The apparition at Mamre^a

1 18 Yahweh appeared to him at the Oak of Mamre while he was sitting by 2 the entrance of the tent during the hottest part of the day. •He looked up, and there he saw three men standing near him. As soon as he saw them he

6 direction.' They replied, 'Do as you say'.

7 Abraham hastened to the tent to find Sarah. 'Hurry,' he said 'knead three bushels of flour and make loaves.' •Then running to the cattle Abraham took

c. In the most ancient texts the angel of Yahweh, 22:11; Ex 3:2; Jg 2:1, etc. or the angel of God, 21:17; 31:11; Ex 14:19, etc., is not a created being distinct from God, Ex 23:20, but God himself in a form visible to men. V. 13 identifies the angel with Yahweh. In other texts the angel of Yahweh is the one who executes God's avenging sentence, see Ex 12:23 +.

d. The name Ishmael means 'May God hear!' or 'God has heard'.

e. Ishmael's descendants are the desert Arabs who are as intractable and vagrant as the wild ass (Jb 39:5-8).

f. El Roi means 'God of Vision'; the text of Hagar's words is certainly corrupt. Lahai Roi may mean: the well 'of the Living One who sees me'; to this place Isaac was to come, 24:62; 25:11.

17 a. Another covenant narrative ('Priestly'). The covenant confirms the same promises as in the 'Yahwistic' tradition of ch. 15 but this time it not only lays down religious and moral obligations but also imposes circumcision.

b. An ancient divine name of the patriarchal period, 28:3; 35:11; 43:14; 48:3; 49:25, preserved mainly in the 'Priestly' tradition, cf. Ex 6:3, rarely used outside the Pentateuch (except Job). The usual translation 'Almighty God' is inaccurate; 'Mountain God' is the probable meaning.

c. Lit. 'walk before me and be blameless', (cf. 2 K 20:3 = Is 38:3).

d. For the ancients a name did not merely indicate, rather it made a thing what it was, and a change of name meant a change of destiny, cf. v. 15 and 35:10. Abram and Abraham, it seems, are in fact just two dialectal forms of the same name whose meaning is 'he is great by reason of his father, he is of noble descent'. In this place, however, Abraham is interpreted on the strength of its similarity with ab hamon, 'father of a multitude'.

e. Circumcision was originally a rite initiatory to marriage and to the life of the clan, Gn 34:14f; Ex 4:24-

26; Lv 19:23. Here it becomes a 'sign' which, like the rainbow of 9:16-17, is to remind God of his Covenant and man of the obligations deriving from his belonging to the chosen people. Nevertheless, the legislative texts allude to this injunction only on two occasions, Ex 12:44; Lv 12:3; cf. Jos 5:2-8. It is only at the Exile and after that it receives its full prominence, cf. 1 M 1:63; 2 M 6:10. St Paul explains it as the 'seal of the righteousness of faith', Rm 4:11. On the 'circumcision of the heart', see Jr 4:4 +.

f. Sarah and Sarai are two forms of the same name, which means 'princess': Sarah is to be the mother of kings, v. 16.

g. Abraham's laughter is to be echoed by Sarah's, 18:12, and Ishmael's, 21:9 (see also 21:6); each is an allusion to the name Isaac, abbreviated form of Yshq-El which means 'May God smile, be kind' or 'has smiled, has been kind'. Abraham's laughter is a sign not so much of unbelief as of surprise at the extraordinary announcement; his mention of Ishmael, present heir-apparent to the Promise, is an implicit request for reassurance.

18 a. In its definitive form this 'Yahwistic' narrative recounts an apparition of Yahweh (vv. 1,3,10f,13,22) accompanied by two 'men' who, according to 19:1, are angels. As the variants of the Greek and Sam. prove, the text is frequently uncertain in its choice of singular or plural. It would seem that the primitive tradition spoke only of three 'men' and was content to leave their identity mysterious. In these three, to whom Abraham addressed a single act of homage, many of the Fathers saw a foreshadowing of the doctrine of the Trinity, a doctrine that was revealed only in the N.T.

b. Not a religious act of adoration but simply a mark of respect. At first, Abraham sees his guests as mere human beings and welcomes them warmly; their superhuman character is only gradually revealed, vv. 2,9,13,14.

Sarah was listening at the entrance of the tent behind him. •Now Abraham and Sarah were old, well on in years, and Sarah had ceased to have her monthly periods. •So Sarah laughed^c to herself, thinking, 'Now that I am past the age of child-bearing, and my husband is an old man, is pleasure to come my way again!' •But Yahweh asked Abraham, 'Why did Sarah laugh and say, "Am I really going to have a child now that I am old?" •Is anything too wonderful for Yahweh? At the same time next year I shall visit you again and Sarah will have a son.' •'I did not laugh' Sarah said, lying because she was afraid. But he replied, 'Oh yes, you did laugh'.

Abraham intercedes

From there the men set out and arrived within sight of Sodom, with Abraham accompanying them to show them the way. •Now Yahweh had wondered, 'Shall I conceal from Abraham what I am going to do, •seeing that Abraham will become a great nation with all the nations of the earth blessing themselves by him? •For I have singled him out to command his sons and his household after him to maintain the way of Yahweh by just and upright living. In this way Yahweh will carry out for Abraham what he has promised him.' Then Yahweh said, 'How great an outcry there is against Sodom and Gomorrah! How grievous is their sin! •I propose to go down and see whether or not they have done all that is alleged in the outcry against them that has come up to me. I am determined to know.'

The men^a left there and went to Sodom while Abraham remained standing before Yahweh. •Approaching him he said, 'Are you really going to destroy the just man with the sinner? •Perhaps there are fifty just men in the town. Will you really overwhelm them, will you not spare the place for the fifty just men in it?' •Do not think of doing such a thing: to kill the just man with the sinner, treating just and sinner alike! Do not think of it! Will the judge of the whole earth not administer justice?' •Yahweh replied, 'If at Sodom I find fifty just men in the town, I will spare the whole place because of them'.

Abraham replied, 'I am bold indeed to speak like this to my Lord, I who am dust and ashes. •But perhaps the fifty just men lack five: will you destroy the whole city for five?' 'No,' he replied 'I will not destroy it if I find forty-five just men there.' •Again Abraham said to him, 'Perhaps there will only be forty there.' 'I will not do it' he replied 'for the sake of the forty.'

Abraham said, 'I trust my Lord will not be angry, but give me leave to speak: perhaps there will only be thirty there.' 'I will not do it' he replied 'if I find thirty there.' •He said, 'I am bold indeed to speak like this, but perhaps there will only be twenty there.' 'I will not destroy it' he replied 'for the sake of the twenty.' •He said, 'I trust my Lord will not be angry if I speak once more: perhaps there will only be ten.' 'I will not destroy it' he replied 'for the sake of the ten.'

When he had finished talking to Abraham Yahweh went away, and Abraham returned home.^g

The destruction of Sodom^a 19 When the two angels reached Sodom in the evening, Lot was sitting at the gate. As soon as Lot saw them he rose to meet them and bowed to the ground. •'I beg you, my lords,' he said 'please come down to your servant's house to stay the night and wash your feet. Then in the morning you can continue your journey.' 'No,' they replied 'we can spend the night in the open

3 street.' •But he pressed them so much that they went home with him and entered his house. He prepared a meal for them, baking unleavened bread, and they ate.

4 They had not gone to bed when the house was surrounded by the men of the town, the men of Sodom both young and old, all the people without exception. •Calling to Lot they said, 'Where are the men who came to you tonight? Send them out to us so that we may abuse them.'^b

6 Lot came out to them at the door, and having closed the door behind him
7 said, 'I beg you, my brothers, do no such wicked thing. •Listen, I have two daughters who are virgins. I am ready to send them out to you, to treat as it pleases you.^c But as for the men, do nothing to them, for they have come under 9 the shadow of my roof.' •But they replied, 'Out of the way! Here is one who came as a foreigner, and would set himself up as a judge. Now we will treat you worse than them.' Then they forced Lot back and moved forward to break
10 down the door. •But the men reached out, pulled Lot back into the house, and shut the door. •And they struck the men who were at the door of the house with blindness, from youngest to oldest, and they never found the doorway.

Ws 19:17f

12 The men said to Lot, 'Have you anyone else here? Your sons,^d your daughters and all your people in the town, take them out of the place. •We are about to destroy this place, for there is a great outcry against them, and it has reached 14 Yahweh. And Yahweh has sent us to destroy them.' •Lot went to speak to his future sons-in-law who were to marry his daughters. 'Come,' he said 'leave this place, for Yahweh is about to destroy the town.' But his sons-in-law thought he was joking.

15 When dawn broke the angels urged Lot, 'Come, take your wife and these two daughters of yours, or you will be overwhelmed in the punishment of the town'. •And as he hesitated, the men took him by the hand, and his wife and his two daughters, because of the pity Yahweh felt for him. They led him out and left him outside the town.

17 As they were leading him out he said, 'Run for your life. Neither look behind you nor stop anywhere on the plain. Make for the hills if you would not be 18 overwhelmed.' •'No, I beg you, my lord,' Lot said to them •'your servant has won your favour and you have shown great kindness to me in saving my life. But I could not reach the hills before this calamity overtook me, and death 20 with it. •The town over there is near enough to flee to, and is a little one.
21 Let me make for that—is it not little?—and my life will be saved.' •He

c. Allusion to Isaac's name, see 17:17 +. The laughter is not from lack of faith: Sarah does not yet know who her guest is; in v. 15 she guesses, and is frightened.

d. I.e. the two 'men', as opposed to Yahweh who stays with Abraham. We shall be told later, 19:1, that they are angels.

e. A perennial problem: must the good suffer along with, and because of, the wicked? The conviction of collective responsibility was so strong in ancient Israel that the question does not here arise whether the just may be spared individually. God will, in fact, save Lot and his family, 19:15-16; but the principle of individual responsibility is not deduced until Dt 24:16; Jr 31:29-30; Ezk 14:12f & ch. 18, see notes. Abraham, therefore, supposing that all are to share a common destiny, asks that a few just men may win pardon for the many wicked. Yahweh's answers approve the part the saints have to play in saving the world. But Abraham's bid for mercy does not venture below the number ten. According to Jr 5:1 and Ezk 22:30, God would pardon Jerusalem even if only one just man could be found there. Finally, in Is 53 it is the suffering of the one servant that is to save the whole race, but this prophecy was destined to remain unintelligible until it was fulfilled in Christ.

f. Cf. Rm 3:6. It would be unjust to condemn the innocent, however few in comparison with the many sinners.

g. Abraham returns on the following day to see what has happened, 19:27.

19 a. This narrative is connected with ch. 18; 18:16-32 leads up to it. The same atmosphere of mystery surrounds the principal figures; the two 'angels' of 19:1 are the 'men' who parted from Yahweh in 18:22 after the visit of the 'three men', 18:2, but in the rest of the chapter (except in v. 15) they are still called 'men'. At times it is in the plural that they speak or are spoken to, at other times the singular is used because they are representatives of Yahweh who does not appear in person. The moral character and the universal monotheism of Israel's religion are already asserted in this ancient text. The dreadful lesson will often be recalled, see especially Dt 29:22; Is 1:9; f3:19; Jr 49:18; 50:40; Am 4:11; Ws 10:6-7; Mt 10:15; 11:23-24; Lk 17:28f; 2 P 2:6; Jude 7.

b. The unnatural vice that takes its name from this incident was an abomination to the Israelites, Lv 18:22, and was punished with death, Lv 20:13; but it was rife among their neighbours, Lv 20:23. Cf. Jg 19:22f.

c. At that period the honour of a woman was of less account, 12:10f +, than the sacred duty of hospitality.

d. Before 'your sons' the text inserts 'son-in-law' an addition suggested by v. 14.

answered, 'I grant you this favour too, and will not destroy the town you speak of. •Hurry, escape to it, for I can do nothing until you reach it.' That is why the town is named Zoar.^a

As the sun rose over the land and Lot entered Zoar, •Yahweh rained on Sodom and Gomorrah brimstone and fire from Yahweh.^f •He overthrew these towns and the whole plain, with all the inhabitants of the towns, and everything that grew there.^g •But the wife of Lot looked back, and was turned into a pillar of salt.^h

Rising early in the morning Abraham went to the place where he had stood before Yahweh, •and looking towards Sodom and Gomorrah, and across all the plain, he saw the smoke rising from the land, like smoke from a furnace.

Thus it was that when God destroyed the towns of the plain, he kept Abraham in mind and rescued Lot out of disaster when he overwhelmed the towns where Lot lived.

The origin of the Moabites and the Ammonitesⁱ

After leaving Zoar Lot settled in the hill country with his two daughters, for he dared not stay at Zoar. He made his home in a cave, himself and his two daughters.

The elder said to the younger, 'Our father is an old man, and there is not a man in the land to marry us in the way they do the world over. •Come let us ply our father with wine and sleep with him. In this way we shall have children by our father.' •That night they made their father drunk, and the elder slept with her father though he was unaware of her coming to bed or of her leaving. •The next day the elder said to the younger, 'Last night I slept with my father. Let us make him drunk again tonight, and you go and sleep with him. In this way we shall have children by our father.' •They made their father drunk that night too, and the younger went and slept with him, but he was unaware of her coming to bed or of her leaving. •Both Lot's daughters thus became pregnant by their father. •The elder gave birth to a son whom she named Moab; and he is the ancestor of the Moabites of our own times. The younger also gave birth to a son whom she named Ben-ammi; and he is the ancestor of the Bene-ammon of our own times.^j

Abraham at Gerar^k

20 Abraham left there for the land of the Negeb, and settled between Kadesh and Shur, staying for the time being at Gerar. •Of his wife Sarah, Abraham said, 'She is my sister', and Abimelech the king of Gerar had Sarah brought to him. •But God visited Abimelech in a dream at night. 'You are to die' he told him 'because of the woman you have taken, for she is a married woman.' Abimelech however had not gone near her; so he said, 'My Lord, would you kill innocent people too? •Did he not tell me himself, "She is my sister", and did not she herself say, "He is my brother"? I did this with a clear conscience and clean hands.' •'Yes I know' God replied in the dream 'that you did this with a clear conscience, and it was I who prevented you from sinning against me. That was why I did not let you touch her. •Now send the man's wife back; for he is a prophet^l and can intercede on your behalf for your life. But understand that if you do not send her back, you will most surely die, and all your people too.'

So Abimelech rose early next morning and summoning all his servants told them the whole story, at which the men were very much afraid. •Then summoning Abraham Abimelech said to him, 'What have you done to us? What wrong have I done you that you bring so great a sin on me and on my kingdom? You have treated me as you should not have done.' •And Abimelech asked Abraham, 'What possessed you to do this?' •'Because' Abraham replied 'I thought there would be no fear of God here; and the people would kill

12 me because of my wife. •Besides, she is indeed my sister, my father's 13 daughter though not my mother's; and she became my wife. •So when God made me wander far from my father's home I said to her, "There is a kindness you can do me: everywhere we go, say of me that I am your brother".'

14 Abimelech took sheep, cattle, men and women slaves, and presented them
15 to Abraham, and gave him back his wife Sarah. •And Abimelech said, 'See, 16 my land lies before you. Settle wherever you please.' •To Sarah he said, 'Look,
I am giving one thousand pieces of silver to your brother. For you this will 17 be compensation in the eyes of all those with you...'•^c •At Abraham's prayer God healed Abimelech, his wife and his slave-girls, so that they could have children,^d 18 for Yahweh had made all the women of Abimelech's household barren on account of Sarah, Abraham's wife.

The birth of Isaac^a

1 21 Yahweh dealt kindly with Sarah as he had said, and did what he had 2 promised her. •So Sarah conceived and bore a son to Abraham in his 3 old age, at the time God had promised. •Abraham named the son born to him
4 Isaac, the son to whom Sarah had given birth. •Abraham circumcised his son
5 Isaac when he was eight days old, as God had commanded him. •Abraham 6 was a hundred years old when his son Isaac was born to him. •Then Sarah said, 'God has given me cause to laugh; all those who hear of it will laugh with 7 me'.^b •She added:

'Who would have told Abraham that Sarah would nurse children!
Yet I have borne him a child in his old age.'

The dismissal of Hagar and Ishmael^c

8 The child grew and was weaned, and Abraham gave a great banquet on 9 the day Isaac was weaned. •Now Sarah watched the son that Hagar the Egyptian 10 had borne to Abraham, playing^d with her son Isaac. •'Drive away that slave-girl and her son,' she said to Abraham; 'this slave-girl's son is not to share 11 the inheritance with my son Isaac.' •This greatly distressed Abraham because 12 of his son, •but God said to him, 'Do not distress yourself on account of the boy and your slave-girl. Grant Sarah all she asks of you, for it is through Isaac

e. The name Zoar is here related to misear 'a trifling thing'. The town lay to the S.E. of the Dead Sea, 13:10; Dt 34:3; Is 15:5; Jr 48:34. In the Roman period another earthquake occurred and the town was flooded; it was rebuilt higher up the shore and inhabited until the Middle Ages.

f. Here a gloss adds 'from heaven'.

g. The text enables us to locate the catastrophe (an earthquake) in the southern part of the Dead Sea. The subsidence of the southern half of the Dead Sea bed is known to be recent as geologists reckon, and the whole district is still geologically unstable. The doomed towns are, besides Sodom and Gomorrah (Am 4:11; Is 1:9,10), Admah and Zeboiim (Gn 14; Dt 29:22; Ho 11:8).

h. A popular explanation of some oddly shaped boulder or column of rock-salt.

i. An appendix; the author is perhaps making use of a Moabite and Ammonite tradition, cf. Nb 20:23 +; these peoples may have prided themselves on having such antecedents, cf. Gn 38. Lot's daughters are, like Tamar, not here regarded as shameless; their ruling motive is to perpetuate the race. But the Law condemned incest, Lv 18:6-18, and so the story here becomes a gibe at Israel's foes.

j. Popular etymologies: Moab is here explained from me-ab 'from a (my) father'; Ben-ammi, 'son of my kinsman', is associated with Bene-ammon 'the sons of Ammon'.

20 a. An 'Elohistic' doublet of 12:10-20 (cf. notes) but the narrative is here softened down by several indications of a more mature morality.

b. In the wider sense: one of privileged standing before God and therefore inviolable, Ps 105:15, and a powerful intercessor, cf. Dt 34:10; Nb 11:2; 21:7.

c. The following words resist translation; conjecture 'and you will be clear of this affair'. The gift of money is an act of reparation.

d. Abimelech and his harem had been afflicted with impotence.

21 a. Two parallel streams of tradition run together here: vv. 1,2a,6b,7, continuing 18:15, belong to the 'Yahwistic' tradition; the remainder, continuing 17:19-21, to the 'Priestly' tradition.

b. The same play on Isaac's name, cf. 17:17+, but now the laughter expresses joy.

c. Were this narrative a continuation of ch. 16, we should be forced to conclude, by comparing 16:16 with 21:5, that Ishmael is by now more than fifteen years old; but in fact this passage represents him as a child scarcely older than Isaac. The Jewish interpreters, appreciating the difficulty, corrected the text—hence the variations between Hebr. and versions (we follow the latter here): thus, in our Hebr. text, v. 9, Ishmael 'scoffs' (cf. Ga 4:29); v. 14, he is not carried by his mother; v. 16, it is Hagar who weeps. Evidently the episode is an 'Elohistic' parallel to the 'Yahwistic' tradition of ch. 16.

d. Another allusion to Isaac's name, cf. 17:17 +; the one verb means 'to laugh' and 'to play'.

that your name will be carried on. •But the slave-girl's son I will also make 13 into a nation, for he is your child too.' •Rising early next morning Abraham 14 took some bread and a skin of water and, giving them to Hagar, he put the child on her shoulder and sent her away.

1K19:3-4 She wandered off into the wilderness of Beersheba. •When the skin of water 15 was finished she abandoned the child under a bush. •Then she went and sat down 16 at a distance, about a bowshot away, saying to herself, 'I cannot see the child die'. So she sat at a distance; and the child wailed and wept.

16:7+ But God heard the boy wailing, and the angel of God called to Hagar from 17 heaven. 'What is wrong, Hagar?' he asked. 'Do not be afraid, for God has heard' the boy's cry where he lies. •Come, pick up the boy and hold him safe, for I will 18 make him into a great nation.' •Then God opened Hagar's eyes and she saw a 19 well, so she went and filled the skin with water and gave the boy a drink.

God was with the boy. He grew up and made his home in the wilderness, 20 and he became a bowman. •He made his home in the wilderness of Paran, and his 21 mother chose him a wife from the land of Egypt.

—26:15-25 Abraham and Abimelech at Beersheba/

At that time Abimelech came with Phicol, the commander of his army, to 22 speak to Abraham, 'God is with you in all you are doing. •Swear by God to me 23 here and now that you will not trick me, neither myself nor my descendants nor any of mine, and that you will show the same kindness to me and the land of which you are a guest as I have shown to you.' •'Yes,' Abraham replied 'I swear it.' 24

Abraham reproached Abimelech about a well that Abimelech's servants 25 had seized. •'I do not know who has done this' Abimelech said. 'You yourself 26 have never mentioned it to me and, for myself, I heard nothing of it till today.'
Then Abraham took sheep and cattle and presented them to Abimelech and the 27 two of them made a covenant. •Abraham put seven lambs of the flock on one 28 side. •'Why have you put these seven lambs on one side?' Abimelech asked 29 Abraham. •He replied, 'You must accept these seven lambs from me as evidence 30 that I have dug this well'. •This is why they called that place Beersheba, 31 because there the two of them swore an oath.

After they had made a covenant at Beersheba Abimelech went off with Phicol, 32
the commander of his army, and returned to the land of the Philistines. •Abraham 33 planted a tamarisk at Beersheba and there he invoked Yahweh, the everlasting God. •Abraham stayed for a long while in the land of the Philistines. 34

The sacrifice of Isaac^a

22 It happened some time later that God put Abraham to the test. 'Abraham, 1
Abraham' he called. 'Here I am' he replied. •'Take your son,' God said 2
'your only child Isaac, whom you love, and go to the land of Moriah.^b There you shall offer him as a burnt offering, on a mountain I will point out to you.'

Rising early next morning Abraham saddled his ass and took with him two 3 of his servants and his son Isaac. He chopped wood for the burnt offering and started on his journey to the place God had pointed out to him. •On the third 4 day Abraham looked up and saw the place in the distance. •Then Abraham said to 5 his servants, 'Stay here with the donkey. The boy and I will go over there; we will worship and come back to you.'

Abraham took the wood for the burnt offering, loaded it on Isaac, and 6 carried in his own hands the fire and the knife. Then the two of them set out together. •Isaac spoke to his father Abraham, 'Father' he said. 'Yes, my son' 7 he replied. 'Look,' he said 'here are the fire and the wood, but where is the lamb for the burnt offering?' •Abraham answered, 'My son, God himself will provide 8 the lamb for the burnt offering'. Then the two of them went on together.

When they arrived at the place God had pointed out to him, Abraham built 9 an altar there, and arranged the wood. Then he bound his son Isaac and put 10 him on the altar on top of the wood. • Abraham stretched out his hand and seized the knife to kill his son.

11 But the angel of Yahweh called to him from heaven. 'Abraham, Abraham'
12 he said, 'I am here' he replied. • 'Do not raise your hand against the boy' the angel said. 'Do not harm him, for now I know you fear God. You have not 13 refused me your son, your only son.' • Then looking up, Abraham saw a ram caught by its horns in a bush. Abraham took the ram and offered it as 14 a burnt-offering in place of his son. • Abraham called this place 'Yahweh provides', and hence the saying today: On the mountain Yahweh provides.^c

15 The angel of Yahweh called Abraham a second time from heaven. • 'I swear 16 by my own self—it is Yahweh who speaks—because you have done this, because 17 you have not refused me your son, your only son, • I will shower blessings on you, I will make your descendants as many as the stars of heaven and the grains of sand 18 on the seashore. Your descendants shall gain possession of the gates^d of their enemies. • All the nations of the earth shall bless themselves by your descendants, 19 as a reward for your obedience.'

19 Abraham went back to his servants, and together they set out for Beersheba, and he settled in Beersheba.

The descendants of Nahor^e

20 It happened some time later that Abraham received word that Milcah, too, 21 had now borne sons to his brother Nahor: • Uz his first-born, Buz his brother, 22 Kemuel Aram's father, • Chesed, Hazo, Pildash, Jidlaph, Bethuel • (and Bethuel 23 was the father of Rebekah). These are the eight children Milcah gave Nahor, 24 Abraham's brother. • He had a concubine named Reumah, and she too had children: Tebah, Gaham, Tahash and Maacah.

The tomb of the patriarchs^a

1 23 The length of Sarah's life was a hundred and twenty-seven years. • She died
2 at Kiriath-arba, or Hebron, in the land of Canaan, and Abraham went in to mourn and grieve for her.

3 Then leaving his dead, Abraham spoke to the sons of Heth: • 'I am a stranger
4 and a settler among you' he said. 'Let me own a burial-plot among you, so that 5 I may take my dead wife and bury her.' • The sons of Heth gave Abraham this 6 answer, 'Listen, my lord, you are God's prince amongst us; bury your dead in the best of our tombs; not one of us would refuse you his tomb and keep 7 you from burying your dead'.

7 Abraham rose and bowed to the ground before the people of the land, the 8 sons of Heth, • and spoke to them. 'If' he said 'you are willing for me to take my dead wife and bury her, then listen to me. Intercede for me with Ephron, 9 Zohar's son, to give me the cave he owns at Machpelah, which is on the edge of his land. Let him make it over to me in your presence at its full price, for me

e. Allusion to Ishmael's name, see 16:11 +.

f. Two traditional explanations of the name Beersheba are here combined: Beer Sheba is taken to mean either 'Well of the Oath' or 'Well of the Seven (sheep)'.

22 a. The narrative is commonly credited to the 'Elohistic' stream of tradition but it includes 'Yahwistic' elements: vv. 11, 14, 15, 18 and the name Moriah in v. 2. It is the basis of the ritual prescription for the redemption of the first-born of Israel: like all 'first-fruits' these belong to God; they are not, however, to be sacrificed but bought back, 'redeemed', Ex 13:11. Lying behind the story, therefore, is the condemnation of child-sacrifice, see Lv 18:21 +, so often denounced by the prophets. In this incident Abraham's faith reaches its climax—the story's second lesson, more profound than the first. In the sacrifice of Isaac the Fathers saw a prefiguring of the Passion of Jesus, the only-begotten Son.

b. 2 Ch 3:1 identifies Moriah with the hill on which the Jerusalem temple was later built. Subsequent tradition accepted the identification.

e. Translated according to the Greek. The text at the end of the verse is uncertain. Hebr. has 'On the mountain of Yahweh he appears'.

d. I.e. their towns, as the Greek understands; cf. 24:60.

e. List of the Aramaean tribes; these are associated with the twelve 'sons' of Nahor, 11:29; cf. the twelve sons of Ishmael, 25:13, and of Jacob, 29:32-30:24; 35:22f. A different tradition is recorded in 10:23.

23 a. The narrative is attributed to the 'Priestly' source but in all probability it makes use of a document of greater antiquity. Abraham acquires proprietary rights in Canaan: the promise of the Land, 12:7; 13:15; 15:7, is beginning to be fulfilled. The 'sons of Heth' are the Hittites, but see Dt 7:1 +.

to own as a burial-plot.' •Now Ephron was sitting among the sons of Heth, and Ephron the Hittite answered Abraham in the hearing of the sons of Heth and of all the citizens of the town. •'My lord, listen to me' he said. 'I give you the land and I give you the cave on it; I make this gift in the sight of the sons of my people. Bury your dead.'

Abraham bowed before the people of the land •and he spoke to Ephron in the hearing of the people of the land, 'Oh, if it be you. . .^b But listen to me. I will pay the price of the land; accept it from me and I will bury my dead there.' Ephron answered Abraham, •'My lord, listen to me. A property worth four hundred shekels of silver, what is a little thing like that between me and you? Bury your dead.' •Abraham agreed to Ephron's terms, and Abraham weighed out for Ephron the silver he had stipulated in the hearing of the sons of Heth, namely four hundred shekels of silver, according to the current commercial rate.

Thus Ephron's field at Machpelah opposite Mamre, the field and the cave that was on it, and all the trees that were on it, the whole of its extent in every direction, passed •into Abraham's possession in the sight of the sons of Heth and of all the citizens of the town. •After this Abraham buried his wife Sarah in the cave of the field of Machpelah opposite Mamre,^c in the country of Canaan. •And so the field and the cave that was on it passed from the sons of Heth into Abraham's possession to be owned as a burial-plot.

The marriage of Isaac^a 24 By now Abraham was an old man well on in years, and Yahweh had blessed him in every way. •Abraham said to the eldest servant of his household, the steward of all his property, 'Place your hand under my thigh,^b •I would have you swear by Yahweh, God of heaven and God of earth, that you will not choose a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites among whom I live. •Instead, go to my own land and my own kinsfolk to choose a wife for my son Isaac.' •The servant asked him, 'What if the woman does not want to come with me to this country? Must I take your son back to the country from which you came?' •Abraham answered, 'On no account take my son back there. Yahweh, God of heaven and God of earth,^c took me from my father's home, and from the land of my kinsfolk, and he swore to me that he would give this country to my descendants. He will now send his angel ahead of you, so that you may choose a wife for my son there. •And if the woman does not want to come with you, you will be free from this oath of mine. Only do not take my son back there.' •And the servant placed his hand under the thigh of his master Abraham, and swore to him that he would do it.

The servant took ten of his master's camels and something of the best of all his master owned, and set out for Aram Naharaim^d and Nahor's town. In the evening, at the time when women go down to draw water, he made the camels kneel outside the town near the well. •And he said, 'Yahweh, God of my master Abraham, be with me today, and show your kindness to my master Abraham. •Here I stand by the spring as the young women from the town come out to draw water. •To one of the girls I will say: Please tilt your pitcher and let me drink. If she answers, "Drink, and I will water your camels too", may she be the one you have chosen for your servant Isaac; by this I shall know you have shown your kindness to my master.'

He had not finished speaking when Rebekah came out. She was the daughter of Bethuel, son of Milcah, wife of Abraham's brother Nahor. She had a pitcher on her shoulder. •The girl was very beautiful, and a virgin; no man had touched her. She went down to the spring, filled her pitcher and came up again. •Running to meet her, the servant said, 'Please give me a little water to drink from your pitcher'. •She replied, 'Drink, my lord', and she quickly lowered her pitcher on her arm and gave him a drink. •When she had finished letting him drink, she said, 'I will draw water for your camels, too, until they have had enough'. •She quickly emptied her pitcher into the trough, and ran to the well again to draw 21 water, and drew water for all the camels •while the man watched in silence, Tb 10:13 wondering whether Yahweh had made his journey successful or not.

22 When the camels had finished drinking, the man took a gold ring weighing half a shekel, and put it through her nostrils,^c and put on her arms two bracelets 23 weighing ten gold shekels, •and he said, 'Whose daughter are you? Please tell me.
 24 Is there room at your father's house for us to spend the night?' •She answered, 25 'I am the daughter of Bethuel, the son whom Milcah bore to Nahor'. •And she 26 went on, 'We have plenty of straw and fodder, and room to lodge'. •Then the 27 man bowed down and worshipped Yahweh •saying, 'Blessed be Yahweh, God of my master Abraham, for he has not stopped showing kindness and goodness to my master. Yahweh has guided my steps to the house of my master's brother.'

28 The girl ran to her mother's house to tell what had happened. •Now Rebekah 29 had a brother called Laban, and Laban ran out to the man at the spring. •As soon 30 as he had seen the ring and the bracelets his sister was wearing, and had heard his sister Rebekah saying, 'This is what the man said to me', he went to the man 31 and found him still standing by his camels at the spring. •He said to him, 'Come in, blessed of Yahweh, why stay out here when I have cleared the house and made 32 room for the camels?' •The man went to the house, and Laban unloaded the camels. He provided straw and fodder for the camels and water for him and his companions to wash their feet.

33 They offered him food, but he said, 'I will eat nothing before I have said what Tb 7:11
 34 I have to say'. Laban said, 'Speak'. •He said, 'I am the servant of Abraham.

 36 slaves, camels and donkeys. •Sarah, my master's wife, bore him a son in his old 37 age,^f and he has made over all his property to him. •My master made me take this oath, "You are not to choose a wife for my son from the daughters of the 38 Canaanites in whose country I live. •Curse you if you do not go to my father's

c. The text adds 'namely Hebron', a gloss.

24 a. In the 'Yahwistic' tradition this narrative brought the story of Abraham to a close. Vv. 1-9 presume that the patriarch is on his deathbed, cf. 47:29-31. The original narrative must have made mention of Abraham's death but this has been removed to make room for the inclusion of 25:1-6. A further change has been made: according to vv. 48 and 27 (amended) Rebekah was the daughter of Nahor, Abraham's brother, and this agrees with 29:5; but according to another tradition she was daughter of Bethuel, 25:20; 28:2,5, son of Nahor, 22:22-23.

b. The same gesture as in 47:29; contact with the genital organs is intended to make the oath inviolable. Tradition identifies the unnamed servant with Eliezer, cf. 15:2.

I put this ring through her nostrils and these bracelets on her arms. •I bowed 48 down and worshipped Yahweh, and I blessed Yahweh, God of my master Abraham, who had so graciously led me to choose the daughter of my master's brother for his son. •Now tell me whether you are prepared to show 49 kindness and goodness to my master; if not, say so, and I shall know what to do.'

Tb 7:12 Laban and Bethuel replied, 'This is from Yahweh; it is not in our power to 50 say yes or no to you. •Rebekah is there before you. Take her and go; and let her 51 become the wife of your master's son, as Yahweh has decreed.' •On hearing this 52
Abraham's servant prostrated himself on the ground before Yahweh. •He brought 53 out silver and gold ornaments and clothes which he gave to Rebekah; he also gave rich presents to her brother and to her mother.

Tb 7:14; 8: 20; 10:7 They ate and drank, he and his companions, and they spent the night there. 54
Next morning when they were up, he said, 'Let me go back to my master'. •Rebe- 55 kah's brother and mother replied, 'Let the girl stay with us a few days, perhaps ten; after that she may go'. •But he replied, 'Do not delay me; it is Yahweh who 56 has made my journey successful; let me leave to go back to my master'. •They 57
Tb 10:13 replied, 'Let us call the girl and find out what she has to say'. •They called 58
Rebekah and asked her, 'Do you want to leave with this man?' 'I do' she replied.
Accordingly they let their sister Rebekah go, with her nurse, and Abraham's 59 servant and his men. •They blessed Rebekah in these words: 60

22:17+ 'Sister of ours, increase to thousands and tens of thousands!
May your descendants gain possession of the gates of their enemies!'

Rebekah and her servants stood up, mounted the camels, and followed the man. 61
The servant took Rebekah and departed.

16:13-14 Isaac, who lived in the Negeb, had meanwhile come into the wilderness^a of 62 the well of Lahai Roi. •Now Isaac went walking^b in the fields as evening fell, and 63 looking up^c saw camels approaching. •And Rebekah looked up and saw Isaac. She 64 jumped down from her camel, •and asked the servant, 'Who is that man walking 65 through the fields to meet us?' The servant replied, 'That is my master'; then she took her veil and hid her face. •The servant told Isaac the whole story, 66 and Isaac led Rebekah into his tent^d and made her his wife; and he loved her. 67
And so Isaac was consoled for the loss of his mother.

11Ch1:32-33 The descendants of Keturah^a

25 Abraham married another wife whose name was Keturah; •and she bore 1 him Zimram, Jokshan, Medan, Midian, Ishbak and Shuah.—•Jokshan 3
Is 21:13 was the father of Sheba and Dedan, and the sons of Dedan were the Asshurites, the Letushim and the Leummim.—•The sons of Midian are Ephah, Ephraim, 4 Hanoch, Abida and Eldaah. All these are sons of Keturah.

Abraham gave all his possessions to Isaac. •To the sons of his concubines 5
Abraham gave presents, and during his lifetime he sent them away from his son 6
Isaac eastward, to the east country.

The death of Abraham

47:9 The number of years Abraham lived was a hundred and seventy-five. •Then 7
Jb 42:17 Abraham breathed his last, dying at a ripe old age, an old man who had lived his full span of years; and he was gathered to his people. •His sons Isaac and 9 23 Ishmael buried him in the cave of Machpelah opposite Mamre, in the field of Ephron the Hittite, son of Zohar. •This was the field that Abraham had bought 10 from the sons of Heth, and Abraham and his wife Sarah were buried there.
24:62 After Abraham's death God blessed his son Isaac, and Isaac lived near the well 11 of Lahai Roi.

The descendants of Ishmael^b

||1Ch1:29-3

- 12 These are the descendants of Ishmael, the son of Abraham by Hagar, Sarah's 13 Egyptian maidservant. •These are the names of the sons of Ishmael in the order 14,15 of their birth: Ishmael's first born was Nebaioth; then Kedar, Adbeel, Mibsam, 16 Mishma, Dumah, Massa, •Hadad, Tema, Jetur, Naphish and Kedemah. •These are the sons of Ishmael, and these are their names, according to their settlements and encampments, twelve chiefs of as many tribes.
- 17 The number of years Ishmael lived was one hundred and thirty-seven. Then 18 he breathed his last, died, and was gathered to his people. •He lived in the territory stretching from Havilah to Shur, which is to the east of Egypt, on the way to Assyria. He set himself to defy his brothers. 16:12

III. THE STORY OF ISAAC AND JACOB

The birth of Esau and Jacob^c

- 19 This is the story of Isaac son of Abraham. Jos 24:4
- 20 Abraham was the father of Isaac. •Isaac was forty years old when he married Rebekah, the daughter of Bethuel the Aramaean of Paddan-aram, and sister of 21 Laban the Aramaean. •Isaac prayed to Yahweh on behalf of his wife, for she was 22 barren. Yahweh heard his prayer, and his wife Rebekah conceived. •But the children struggled with one another inside her, and she said, 'If this is the way 23 of it, why go on living?'^d So she went to consult Yahweh,^e and he said to her:

'There are two nations in your womb,
 your issue will be two rival peoples.
 One nation shall have the mastery of the other,
 and the elder shall serve the younger.'^f

- 24 When the time came for her confinement, there were indeed twins in her womb.
 25 The first to be born was red, and as though he were completely wrapped in a hairy 26 cloak; so they named him Esau. •Then his brother was born, with his hand grasping Esau's heel; so they named him Jacob.^g Isaac was sixty years old at the time 27 of their birth. •When the boys grew up Esau became a skilled hunter, a man of the open country. Jacob on the other hand was a quiet man, staying at home among 28 the tents. •Isaac preferred Esau, for he had a taste for wild game; but Rebekah preferred Jacob. 27:35

g. 'into the wilderness' Sam., Greek; 'from a walk in the direction of' (?) Hebr.

h. A word found only here; meaning uncertain.

i. Here the text adds 'his mother Sarah', a gloss originally intended for the end of the verse.

25 a. This and the two following sections are supplements to Abraham's story; they come from different sources. The Arabian tribes descend from Keturah, amongst them the Midianites (Midian) cf. Ex 2:15, the Sabaeans (Sheba) cf. 1 K 10:1, the Dedanites (Dedan).

b. Ishmael's descendants, 17:20, are the North Arabian tribes.

c. A narrative which is 'Yahwistic' with the possible exception of small insertions and of the chronological framework, 'Priestly' in origin, vv. 19-21, 26b.

d. 'living' Syr.

e. On the methods of 'consulting Yahweh' see Ex 33:7 + and 1 S 14:41 +. Here it can only mean a visit to a holy place where Yahweh manifests his presence.

f. Cf. note on 4:5. The struggle of the children in their mother's womb is an omen of the enmity between the two related peoples: the Edomites, descendants of Esau, and the Israelites who were descended from Jacob. The Edomites, Nb 20:23 +, were subjugated by David, 2 S 8:13-14, and did not achieve complete liberation until the reign of Jehoram of Judah in mid-9th century, 2 K 8:20-22.

g. Popular etymologies: Esau is red, admoni, his other name being Edom, v. 30; 36:1,8; he is like a mantle of hair, se'ar, and is destined to dwell in the land of Se'ir, Nb 24:18. According to this passage Jacob, Ya'aqob, gets his name from gripping the heel ('aqeb) of his twin; but in 27:36 and Ho 12:4 the name means that the child has supplanted ('aqab) his brother. In fact, however, the probable meaning of the name (abbreviated from Ya'aqob-El) is 'May Yahweh protect!'

h. Because he had eaten the soup which was of a red-brown colour (adom)—another play on words.

your birthright, then'. •Esau said, 'Here I am, at death's door; what use will my birthright be to me?' •Then Jacob said, 'First give me your oath'; he gave him his oath and sold his birthright to Jacob. •Then Jacob gave him bread and lentil soup, and after eating and drinking he got up and went. That was all Esau cared for his birthright.

Ps105:14 26 There was a famine in the land—a second one after the famine which took place in the time of Abraham—and Isaac went to Abimelech, the Philistine king at Gerar. •Yahweh appeared to him and said, 'Do not go down into Egypt; stay in the land I shall tell you of. •Remain for the present here in this land, and I will be with you and bless you. For it is to you and your descendants that I will give all these lands, and I will fulfil the oath I swore to your father Abraham. •I will make your descendants as many as the stars of heaven, and I will give them all these lands; and all the nations in the world shall bless themselves by your descendants •in return for Abraham's obedience; for he kept my charge, my commandments, my statutes and my laws.' •So Isaac stayed at Gerar.

When the people of the place asked him about his wife he replied, 'She is my sister', for he was afraid to say, 'She is my wife', in case they killed him on Rebekah's account, for she was beautiful. •When he had been there some time, Abimelech the Philistine king happened to look out of the window and saw Isaac fondling^b his wife Rebekah. •Abimelech summoned Isaac and said to him, 'Surely she must be your wife! How could you say she was your sister?' Isaac answered him, 'Because I thought I might be killed on her account'. •Abimelech said, 'What is this you have done to us? One of my subjects might easily have slept with your wife, and then you would have made us incur guilt.' •Then Abimelech issued this order to all the people: 'Whoever touches this man or his wife shall be put to death'.

Isaac sowed his crops in that land, and that year he reaped a hundredfold. Yahweh blessed him •and the man became rich; he prospered more and more until he was very rich indeed. •He had flocks and herds and many servants. The Philistines began to envy him.

The Philistines had sealed all the wells dug by his father's servants, filling them with earth. These had existed from the time of his father Abraham. •Abimelech said to Isaac, 'Leave us, for you have become much more powerful than we are'. So Isaac left; he pitched camp in the Valley of Gerar and there he stayed. •Isaac dug again the wells made by the servants^c of his father Abraham and sealed by the Philistines after Abraham's death, and he gave them the same names as his father had given them.

Isaac's servants dug in the valley and found a well of spring-water.^d •But the shepherds of Gerar quarrelled with Isaac's shepherds, saying, 'That water is ours!' So Isaac named the well Esek, because they had quarrelled with him. •They dug another well, and there was a quarrel about that one too; so he named it Sitnah. Then he left there, and dug another well, and since there was no quarrel about this one, he named it Rehoboth, saying, 'Now Yahweh has made room for us, so that we may thrive in the land'.^e

From here he went up to Beersheba. •Yahweh appeared to him that night and said:

46:3 'I am the God of your father Abraham.
Do not be afraid, for I am with you.
I will bless you and make your descendants many in number on account of my servant Abraham.'

4:26+ There he built an altar and invoked the name of Yahweh. There he pitched his tent, and there Isaac's servants sank a well.

The alliance with Abimelech

=21:22-23

26 Abimelech came from Gerar to see him, with his adviser Ahuzzath and the 27 commander of his army, Phicol. •Isaac said to them, 'Why do you come to me
 28 since you hate me, and have made me leave you?' •'It became clear to us that 29 Yahweh was with you:' they replied 'and so we said, "Let there be a sworn treaty 30 between ourselves and you, and let us make a covenant with you". •Swear not to do us any harm, since we never molested you but were unfailingly kind to you and let you go away in peace. Now you have Yahweh's blessing.' •He then made them a feast and they ate and drank.

Pr 16:7

31 Rising early in the morning, they exchanged oaths. Then Isaac bade them 32 farewell and they went from him in peace. •Now it was on the same day that Isaac's servants brought him news of the well they had dug. 'We have found 33 water!' they said to him. •So he called the well Sheba,^f and hence the town is named Beersheba to this day.

The Hittite wives of Esau

36:1-5

34 When Esau was forty years old he married Judith, the daughter of Beeri the 35 Hittite, and Basemath, the daughter of Elon the Hittite. •These were a bitter disappointment to Isaac and Rebekah.

24:3f;28:1f

Jacob obtains Isaac's blessing by cunning^a

Jos 24:4

1 27 Isaac had grown old, and his eyes were so weak that he could no longer see.
 He summoned his elder son Esau, 'My son!' he said to him, and the latter
 2 answered, 'I am here'. •Then he said, 'See, I am old and do not know when I may 3 die. •Now take your weapons, your quiver and bow; go out into the country and 4 hunt me some game. •Make me the kind of savoury I like and bring it to me, so that I may eat, and give you my blessing before I die.'

5 Rebekah happened to be listening while Isaac was talking to his son Esau. So 6 when Esau went into the country to hunt game for his father, •Rebekah said to her son Jacob, 'I have just heard your father saying to your brother 7 Esau, •"Bring me some game and make a savoury for me. Then I shall eat, 8 and bless you in the presence of Yahweh before I die." •Now my son, listen to me
 9 and do as I tell you. •Go to the flock, and bring me back two good kids, so that I 10 can make the kind of savoury your father likes. •Then you can take it to your father for him to eat so that he may bless you before he dies.'

11 Jacob said to his mother Rebekah, 'Look, my brother Esau is hairy, while I am 12 smooth-skinned. •If my father happens to touch me, he will see I am cheating him, 13 and I shall bring down a curse on myself instead of a blessing.' •But his mother answered him, 'On me be the curse, my son! Just listen to me; go and fetch me the 14 kids.' •So he went to fetch them, and he brought them to his mother, and she 15 made the kind of savoury his father liked. •Rebekah took her elder son Esau's best clothes, which she had in the house, and dressed her younger son Jacob in 16 them, •covering his arms and the smooth part of his neck with the skins of the 17 kids. •Then she handed the savoury and the bread she had made to her son Jacob.

26 a. Isaac scarcely appears except in his father's story, ch. 21, 22, 24, and in that of his sons, 25:19-28; 27; 28:1-9; 35:27-29. It is only this chapter (26) that treats of him directly; the narrative, however, is drawn from a tradition (basically 'Yahwistic') parallel to 12:10-20 and ch. 20 (see notes) but displaying a more developed moral sense.

b. Isaac (Ishaq) fondles (mesaheq) Rebekah; another play on words as in 21:9, cf. 17:17; 18:12f; 21:6.

c. 'dug by the servants' versions.

d. The Book of Genesis speaks of many wells made by the patriarchs who were sheep-owners. It was near 'Jacob's well' at Shechem (which Gn does not mention) that Jesus spoke of the true living water to the Samaritan woman, Jn 4:1 +.

e. Esek means 'quarrel', Sitnah 'accusation', Reho- both 'room, space'.

f. Read sheba' (or shebu'ah), 'oath', in accordance with Greek and context, in place of Hebr. shib'ah, 'seven', cf. 21:22f.

27 a. 'Yahwistic' narrative in praise of Jacob's cunning but in its final form modified by a touch of blame for Rebekah's trick and of sympathy for Esau. The morality is immature but the lie reported here mysteriously serves God's purpose; the free divine choice preferred Jacob to Esau, 25:23; cf. M1 1:2f; Rm 9:12-13.

He presented himself before his father and said, 'Father'. 'I am here;' was the 18 reply 'who are you, my son?' •Jacob said to his father, 'I am Esau your first-born; 19
 I have done as you told me. Please get up and take your place and eat the game I have brought and then give me your blessing.' •Isaac said to his son, 'How quickly 20 you found it, my son!' 'It was Yahweh your God' he answered 'who put it in my path.'^b •Isaac said to Jacob, 'Come here, then, and let me touch you, my son, to 21 know if you are my son Esau or not'. •Jacob came close to his father Isaac, who touched him and said, 'The voice is Jacob's voice but the arms are the arms of 22
 Esau!' •He did not recognise him, for his arms were hairy like his brother Esau's, 23 and so he blessed him. •He said, 'Are you really my son Esau?' And he replied, 24
 'I am'. •Isaac said, 'Bring it here that I may eat the game my son has brought, 25 and so may give you my blessing'. He brought it to him and he ate; he offered him wine, and he drank. •His father Isaac said to him, 'Come closer, and kiss me, my 26 son'. •He went closer and kissed his father, who smelled the smell of his clothes. 27
 He blessed him saying:^c

'Yes, the smell of my son is like the smell of a fertile field blessed by Yahweh.
 May God give you dew from heaven, 28
 and the richness of the earth, abundance of grain and wine!
 May nations serve you 29
 and peoples bow down before you!
 Be master of your brothers;
 may the sons of your mother bow down before you!
 Cursed be he who curses you;
 blessed be he who blesses you!'

As soon as Isaac had finished blessing Jacob, and just when Jacob was leaving 30 the presence of his father Isaac, his brother Esau returned from hunting. •He too 31 made a savoury and brought it to his father. He said to him, 'Father, get up and eat the game your son has brought and then give me your blessing!' •His father 32 Isaac asked him, 'Who are you?' 'I am your firstborn son, Esau' he replied. •At 33 this Isaac was seized with a great trembling and said, 'Who was it, then, that went hunting and brought me game? Unsuspecting^d I ate before you came; I blessed 34 him, and blessed he will remain!'^e •When Esau heard his father's words, he cried 35 out loudly and bitterly to his father, 'Father, bless me too!' •But he replied, 'Your 36 brother came by fraud and took your blessing'. •Esau said, 'Is it because his name is Jacob, that he has now supplanted me twice? First he took my birthright, and look, now he has taken my blessing!'^f But' he added 'have you not kept a blessing for me?' •Isaac answered Esau, 'See, I have made him your master; I have given 37 him all his brothers as servants, I have provided him with grain and wine. What can I do for you, my son?' •Esau said to his father, 'Was that your only blessing, 38 father? Father, give me a blessing too.' Isaac remained silent,^g and Esau burst into tears. •Then his father Isaac gave him this answer:^h 39

'Far from the richness of the earth shall be your dwelling-place, far from the dew that falls from heaven.
 You shall live by your sword, and you shall serve your brother. 40

But when you win your freedom, you shall shake his yoke from your neck.'ⁱ

Esau hated Jacob because of the blessing his father had given him, and thought 41 thus to himself, 'The time to mourn for my father will soon be here. Then I will kill my brother Jacob.' •When the words of Esau, her elder son, were repeated to 42 Rebekah, she sent for her younger son Jacob and said to him, 'Look, your brother

- 6 Esau saw that Isaac had blessed Jacob and sent him to Paddan-aram to choose a wife there, and that in blessing him he had given him this order: 'You are not to 7 choose a wife from the Canaanite women', •and that in obedience to his father
 8 and mother Jacob had gone to Paddan-aram. •Esau saw from this that the women chose for wife, in addition to the wives he had, Mahalath, daughter of Abraham's son Ishmael and sister of Nebaioth. 36:2

b. To bring God into the lie seems blasphemous to us but the oriental mentality would see no wrong in it, being used to ascribe every event to God, ignoring 'secondary causes'.

c. This blessing promises a countryman's prosperity to Jacob the shepherd; like that of Esau, vv. 39-40, it affects not the patriarchs themselves but the peoples sprung from them.

d. 'Unsuspecting' conj.

h. Esau (i.e. his descendants) is to dwell outside the fertile country of Palestine (Vulg. gives the wrong sense here) and to be subjected to Jacob (i.e. to his descendants, 2 S 8:13-14). His brother has all, v. 37, and the only blessing remaining to him is 'to live by his sword', a brigand's life of plunder.

b. This narrative appears to combine the 'Elohistic' (vv. 10-12, 17-18, 20-22) and the 'Yahwistic' (vv. 13-16, 19a) traditions, both of which tend to enhance the prestige of the Bethel sanctuary, 1 K 12:29-30 +. Like Philo, several of the Fathers saw in Jacob's ladder an image of the providential care God exercises on earth through the ministry of the angels. Others saw in it a foreshadowing of the incarnation of the Word who linked heaven with earth. The liturgy makes use of v. 17 in the Office and Mass for the Dedication of a Church.

this place is! This is nothing less than a house of God; this is the gate of heaven!'

Ho12:13 Jacob arrives at Laban's home^a

Ws10:10 29 Moving on, Jacob went to the land of the sons of the East. •He looked and 2
24:11f there in the fields was a well with three flocks of sheep lying beside it, for 2
Ex 2:16f this well was used for watering the flocks. Now the stone on the mouth of the well was a large one; •so they used to gather all the flocks there, and then roll the stone 3 off the mouth of the well, to water the sheep; then they put the stone back in its place over the mouth of the well. •Jacob said to the shepherds, 'Brothers, where 4 are you from?' They replied, 'We are from Haran'. •Then he asked them, 'Do you 5
Tb 7:4 know Laban, the son of Nahor?' 'We know him' they replied. •Then he asked 6 them, 'Does all go well with him?' 'Yes,' they replied 'and here comes his daugh- 7 ter Rachel with the sheep.' •Then he said, 'See, it is still broad daylight; it is not 7 yet time to bring the animals in. Water the sheep and go and take them back to 8 pasture.' •But they answered, 'We cannot do that until all the flocks are gathered 8 and they roll the stone off the mouth of the well; then we shall water the sheep'.

He was still talking to them, when Rachel came with the sheep belonging to 9 her father, for she was a shepherdess. •As soon as Jacob saw Rachel, the daughter 10 of his uncle Laban, and the sheep of his uncle Laban, he came up and, rolling the 10 stone off the mouth of the well, he watered the sheep of his uncle Laban. •Jacob 11 kissed Rachel and burst into tears. •He told Rachel he was her father's kinsman 12 and Rebekah's son, and she ran to tell her father. •As soon as he heard her speak 13 of his sister's son Jacob, Laban ran to meet him; and embracing him he kissed 13 him warmly, and brought him to his house. Jacob told Laban everything that 14 had happened,^b •and Laban said to him, 'Truly you are my bone and flesh!' 14
And Jacob stayed with him for a month.

Jacob's two marriages^c

Tb 4:12 Laban said to Jacob, 'Because you are my kinsman, are you to work for me 15 without payment? Tell me what wages you want.' •Now Laban had two daugh- 16 ters, the elder named Leah, and the younger Rachel. •There was no sparkle in 17 Leah's eyes, but Rachel was shapely and beautiful, •and Jacob had fallen in 18 love with Rachel. So his answer was, 'I will work for you seven years to win 18 your younger daughter Rachel'. •Laban replied, 'It is better for me to give her to 19 you than to a stranger; stay with me'.

To win Rachel, therefore, Jacob worked seven years, and they seemed to him 20 like a few days because he loved her so much. •Then Jacob said to Laban, 'Give 21 me my wife, for my time is finished, and I should like to go to her'. •Laban gather- 22
ed all the people of the place together, and gave a banquet. •But when night came 23 he took his daughter Leah and brought her to Jacob, and he slept with her.
(Laban gave his slave-girl Zilpah to be his daughter Leah's slave.) •When morn- 24
Jdt 8:26 ing came, there was Leah.^d So Jacob said to Laban, 'What is this you have done 25 to me? Did I not work for you to win Rachel? Why then have you tricked me?' •Laban answered, 'It is not the custom in our country to give the younger 26

27 before the elder. •Finish this marriage week^e and I will give you the other one too/28 in return for your working with me another seven years.' •Jacob did this, and when the week was over, Laban gave him his daughter Rachel as his wife.
29 (Laban gave his daughter Rachel his slave-girl Bilhah to be her slave.) •So Jacob 30 slept with Rachel also, and he loved Rachel more than Leah. He worked with Laban another seven years. Dt21:15-17

The sons of Jacob^f

31 Yahweh saw that Leah was neglected,^h so he opened her womb, while Rachel 32 remained barren. •Leah conceived and gave birth to a son whom she named 49:3 Reuben, 'Because' she said 'Yahweh has seen my misery; now my husband will 33 love me'. •Again she conceived and gave birth to a son, saying, 'Yahweh has heard that I was neglected, so he has given me this one too'; and she named him Simeon.
34 Again she conceived and gave birth to a son, saying, 'This time my husband will be united to me, for I have now borne three sons to him'; accordingly, she 35 named him Levi. •Again she conceived and gave birth to a son, saying, 'This time I will give glory to Yahweh'; accordingly she named him Judah. Then she had no more children.

1 30 Rachel, seeing that she herself gave Jacob no children, became jealous of Pr 30:16
2 her sister. And she said to Jacob, 'Give me children, or I shall die!' •This made Jacob angry with Rachel, and he retorted, 'Am I in God's place? It is he who 3 has refused you motherhood.' •So she said, 'Here is my slave-girl, Bilhah. Sleep with her so that she may give birth on my knees; through her, then, I too shall 4 have children!' •So she gave him her slave-girl Bilhah as a wife. Jacob slept with 5 her, •and Bilhah conceived and gave birth to a son by Jacob. •Then Rachel said,
6 'God has done me justice; yes, he has heard my prayer and given me a son'.
7 Accordingly she named him Dan. •Again Rachel's slave-girl Bilhah conceived 8 and gave birth to a second son by Jacob. •Then Rachel said, 'I have fought God's fight with my sister, and I have won'; so she named him Naphtali.

9 Now Leah, seeing that she had no more children, took her slave-girl Zilpah
10 and gave her to Jacob as a wife. •So Leah's slave-girl Zilpah gave birth to a son by 11 Jacob. •Then Leah exclaimed, 'What good fortune!' So she named him Gad.
12 Leah's slave-girl Zilpah gave birth to a second son by Jacob. •Then Leah said, 13 'What happiness! Women will call me happy!' So she named him Asher. Lk 1:48

14 Going out when they were harvesting the corn, Reuben found some man-taken my husband that you should want to take my son's mandrakes too?' So Rachel said, 'Very well, he shall sleep with you tonight in return for your son's'

c. The stone marks the place of God's presence. It becomes a beth El, a 'house of God', and is anointed with oil as a formal act of worship. Practices of this kind were common in the Canaanite cult and in the semitic world in general but were subsequently condemned by Law and Prophets, see Ex 23:24. Even in this passage a more spiritual conception goes with the idea of a divine dwelling on earth: Bethel is the 'gate of heaven', God's true home, cf. 1 K 8:27.

29 a. 'Yahwistic' narrative continuing ch. 28; here Jacob's motive is escape, not marriage (unlike the 'Priestly' section, 27:46-28:5).

b. I.e. what had happened between himself and Esau, ch. 27.

c. Narrative attributed (though on slight evidence) to the 'Elohistic' tradition.

d. The success of Laban's stratagem is explained by the custom, which still exists, of keeping the bride veiled until the wedding night, cf. 24:65.

e. The wedding celebrations lasted for seven days, Jg 14; cf. Tb 8:20; 10:7.

f. Marriage with two sisters was not forbidden before the legislation of Lv 18:18.

g. 'Yahwistic' tradition with 'Elohistic' elements.

The section connects the tribes of Israel with the patriarchal line by way of Jacob's twelve sons (Benjamin was to be born in Canaan, 35:16f); these sons will all reappear as eponymous ancestors in Jacob's Blessing, ch. 49. The rivalry between Leah and Rachel is used to explain the proper names; some of these popular etymologies are obscure. Ra'ah be'oniy 'he has seen my distress', Reuben; shama 'he has heard', Simeon; yillaweh 'he will cling', Levi; 'odeh 'I shall praise', Judah; dananni 'he has done justice to me', Dan; niphtali 'I have fought', Naphtali; gad 'good luck', Gad; 'osheri 'my happiness' and 'ishsheruni 'they will count me happy', Asher; sakar 'he has hired' and sakar 'wages', Issachar; yizbeleni 'he will respect me', Zabulon; asaph 'he has taken away' and yoseph 'may he add', Joseph.

h. The text reads 'hated' but in this context the word is milder, referring only to the less favoured position of one of the wives in a polygamous household.

30 a. The Hebrew word for 'mandragora', or 'mandrake' is formed from the same root as 'love'; the ancients accounted it an aphrodisiac. Primitive tradition must have associated this fruit with Joseph's birth.

mandrakes'. •When Jacob came back from the fields that night, Leah went out to 16 meet him, saying, 'You must come to me, for I have hired you at the price of my 17 son's mandrakes'. So he slept with her that night. •God heard Leah, and she 18 conceived and gave birth to a fifth son by Jacob. •Then Leah said, 'God has paid 19 me my wages for giving my slave-girl to my husband'. So she named him Issachar. 20 Again Leah conceived and gave birth to a sixth son by Jacob, •saying, 'God has 21 given me a fine gift; now my husband will honour me, for I have borne six children 22 to him'. So she named him Zebulun. •Later she gave birth to a daughter and 23 named her Dinah. 24

Then God remembered Rachel; he heard her and opened her womb. •She 22 conceived and gave birth to a son, saying, 'God has taken away my shame'. •So 23 she named him Joseph, saying, 'May Yahweh give me another son!' 24

How Jacob becomes rich

Tb 12:1 When Rachel had given birth to Joseph, Jacob said to Laban, 'Release me, and 25
then I can go home to my own country. •Give me my wives for whom I have 26 worked for you, and my children, so that I can go. You know very well the work 27
I have done for you.' •Laban said to him, 'If I have won your friendship. . .^b I 28 learned from the omens that Yahweh had blessed me on your account. •So name 29 your wages,' he added 'and I will pay you.' •He answered him, 'You know very 30 well how hard I have worked for you, and how your stock has fared in my charge. 31
The little you had before I came has increased enormously, and Yahweh has 32 blessed you wherever I have been. But when am I to provide for my own House?' 33 Laban said, 'How much am I to pay you?' And Jacob replied, 'You will not have 34 to pay me anything: if you do for me as I propose, I will be your shepherd once 35 more and look after your flock. 36

'Today I will go through all your flock.^c Take out of it every black animal^d 32 among the sheep, and every speckled or spotted one among the goats. Such shall 33 be my wages, •and my honesty will answer for me later: when you come to check 34 my wages, every goat I have that is not speckled or spotted, and every sheep that is 35 not black shall rank as stolen property in my possession.' •Laban replied, 'Good! 36
Let it be as you say.' •That same day he took out the striped and speckled he- 37 goats and all the spotted and speckled she-goats, every one that had white on it, 38 and all the black sheep. He handed them over to his sons, •and put three days' 39 journey between himself and Jacob. Jacob took care of the rest of Laban's flock. 40

Jacob gathered branches in sap, from poplar, almond and plane trees, and 37 peeled them in white strips, laying bare the white on the branches. •He put the 38 branches he had peeled in front of the animals, in the troughs in the channels 39 where the animals came to drink; and the animals mated when they came to drink. 40
They mated therefore in front of the branches and so produced striped, spotted 41 and speckled young. •As for the sheep, Jacob put them apart, and he turned the 42 animals towards whatever was striped or black in Laban's flock. Thus he built 43 up droves of his own which he did not put with Laban's flock. •Moreover, when- 44 ever the sturdy animals mated, Jacob put the branches where the animals could see 45 them, in the troughs, so that they would mate in front of the branches. •But when 46 the animals were feeble, he did not put them there; thus Laban got the feeble, 47 and Jacob the sturdy, •and he grew extremely rich, and became the owner of 48 large flocks, with men and women slaves, camels and donkeys. 49

31 Jacob learned that the sons of Laban were saying, 'Jacob has taken every- 1 thing that belonged to our father; it is at our father's expense that he 2 has acquired all this wealth'. •Jacob saw from Laban's face that things were 3 not as they had been. •Yahweh said to Jacob, 'Go back to the land of your 4 forefathers and to your kindred; and I will be with you'. •So Jacob had Rachel 5 and Leah called to the fields where his flocks were, •and he said to them, 'I can see 6 from your father's face that I am out of favour with him now; but the 6 God of my father has been with me. •You yourselves know that I have worked

 7 for your father with all my strength. •Your father has tricked me, ten times
 8 changing my wages, yet God has not allowed him to harm me. •Whenever he said,
 "The spotted ones shall be your wages", all the animals produced spotted young;
 whenever he said, "The striped ones shall be your wages", all the animals produced 9 striped young. •Thus God has taken your father's livestock and given it to me.
 10 It happened at the time when the animals were on heat, that in a dream I looked up and saw that the males covering the females of the flock were striped or spotted 11 or piebald. •In the dream the angel of God called to me, "Jacob!" And I answered: 16:7+;22:1 12 I am here. •He said, "Look up and see: all the males covering the females of the flock are striped or spotted or piebald, for I have seen all that Laban has done to 13 you. •I am the God of Bethel where you poured oil on a monument, and where 28:18-22 you made a vow to me. Now get ready to leave this country and return to the land of your birth." •
 14 In answer Rachel and Leah said to him, 'Have we any share left in the inher-
 15 itance of our father's House? •Does he not treat us as foreigners, for he has sold 16 us and gone on to use up all our money?'^b •Surely all the riches God has taken Ws10:10 from our father belong to us and to our children. So do all that God has told you.'

 his tent^h in the hills; and Laban pitched camp on Mount Gilead.
 26 Laban said to Jacob, 'What have you done, tricking me and driving my daughletting me know so that I could send you on your way rejoicing, with songs and

c. The text of vv. 32-43 is difficult to interpret; it is possibly composite of 'Yahwistic' and 'Elohistic' tradition and further obscured by glosses. The story, which can have taken shape only among a semi-nomadic people, is clearly ancient. In Eastern flocks the sheep are usually white, the goats black. For his wages Jacob asks the abnormal animals (black sheep and white-spotted goats); Laban agrees, shrewdly as he thinks. Jacob's plot is briefly this: 1. He sees to it that when the goats mate, vv. 37-39, they are in sight of white-striped rods; this affects the formation of the embryo. 2. At the same time he makes sure that the sheep are looking at the black goats in the flock, v. 40. 3. For this operation he selects the robust strains, leaving the weaker animals and their offspring to Laban. In this way Jacob takes his 'honourable' revenge.

d. Hebr. here adds 'speckled and spotted and every

b. It was considered miserly if a father-in-law did not return to his daughter a part of the sum paid over by the husband at the time of marriage.

daughters from me. •But whoever is found in possession of your gods shall not 32 remain alive. In the presence of our brothers, examine for yourself what I have, and take what is yours.' Now Jacob did not know that Rachel had stolen them.
 Laban went into Jacob's tent, and then into Leah's tent and the tent of the two 33 slave-girls, but he found nothing. He came out of Leah's tent and went into Rachel's. •Now Rachel had taken the household idols and put them in the camel's 34 litter, and was sitting on them. Laban went through everything in the tent but found nothing. •Then Rachel said to her father, 'Do not look angry, my lord, 35 because I cannot rise in your presence, for I am as women are from time to time'.
 Laban searched but did not find the idols.

Then Jacob lost his temper and took Laban to task. And Jacob said to Laban, 36
 'What is my offence, what is my crime, that you have set on me? •You have gone 37 through all my belongings; have you found anything belonging to your House?
 Produce it here in the presence of my brothers and yours, and let them decide between the two of us. •In all the twenty years I have been with you, your ewes 38 and your she-goats have never miscarried, and I have eaten none of the rams from your flock. •As for those mauled by wild beasts, I have never brought them back 39 to you, but have borne the loss myself; you claimed them from me, whether I was robbed by day or robbed by night.^j •In the daytime the heat has consumed me, 40 and at night the cold has gnawed at me, and sleep has fled from my eyes. •These 41 twenty years I have been in your house; fourteen years I have worked for you for your two daughters, and six years for your flock; and ten times you have changed my wages. •If the God of my father, the God of Abraham, the Kinsman 42 of Isaac,^k had not been with me, you would have sent me away empty-handed.
 But God has seen my weariness and the work done by my hands, and last night 43
 he delivered judgement.'

A treaty between Jacob and Laban^l

Laban gave Jacob this answer, 'These daughters are my daughters and these 43 sons are my sons; these sheep are my sheep, and all that you see belongs to me.
 But what can I do today about my daughters, and about the sons they have borne?
 Come now, let us make a covenant, you and I . . .,^m and let it serve as a 44 witness between us.'

Then Jacob took a stone and set it up as a monument. •Jacob said to his 45
 kinsmen, 'Collect some stones', and gathering some stones they made a cairn. 46
 They had a meal there, on the cairn, and •Laban called it Jegar-sahadutha while 47
 Jacob called it Galeed.ⁿ •Laban said, 'May this cairn be a witness between us 48 today'. That is why he named it Galeed, •and also Mizpah, because he said, 'Let 49 Yahweh act as watchman between us when we are no longer in sight of each other. •If you ill-treat my daughters or marry other women in addition to my 50 daughters, even though no one be with us, remember: God is witness between us.' •Then Laban said to Jacob, 'Here is this cairn I have thrown up 51 between us, and here is the monument. •This cairn is a witness, and the 52 monument bears witness: I must not pass this cairn to attack you, and you must not pass this cairn and this monument to attack me. •May the God of 53 Abraham and the god of Nahor judge between us.'^o Then Jacob swore by the Kinsman of his father Isaac. •He offered a sacrifice on the mountain and invited 54 his brothers to the meal. They ate the meal, and passed the night on the mountain.

32 Laban rose early next morning, and kissing his sons and daughters he 1 blessed them. Then Laban left to return home. •While Jacob was going on 355 his way angels of God met him, •and on seeing them he said, 'This is God's camp', 2 and he named the place Mahanaim.^a 3

Jacob prepares for his meeting with Esau^b

Jacob sent messengers ahead of him to his brother Esau in the land of Seir, 4 the countryside of Edom, •with these instructions, 'Say this to my lord Esau, 5

"Here is the message of your servant Jacob: I have been staying with Laban till now, and have acquired oxen, beasts of burden and flocks, and men and women slaves. I send news of this to my lord in the hope of winning your approval."

The messengers returned to Jacob and told him, 'We went to your brother Esau, and he is already on his way to meet you; there are four hundred men with him'.

Jacob was greatly afraid and distressed. He divided the people with him, and the flocks and cattle, into two companies, saying, 'If Esau comes to one of the companies and attacks it, the other company will be left to escape'. Jacob said, 'O God of my father Abraham, and God of my father Isaac, Yahweh who said to me, "Go back to your country and family, and I will make you prosper", I am unworthy of all the kindness and goodness you have shown your servant. I had only my staff when I crossed the Jordan here, and now I can form two companies.

I implore you, save me from my brother's clutches, for I am afraid of him; he may come and attack us and the mothers and their children. Yet it was you who said, "I will make you prosper, and make your descendants like the sand on the seashore, so many that it cannot be counted". Then Jacob passed that night there.

From what he had with him he chose a gift for his brother Esau: two hundred she-goats and twenty he-goats, two hundred ewes and twenty rams, thirty camels in milk with their calves, forty cows and ten bulls, twenty she-asses and ten donkeys. He put them in the charge of his servants, in separate droves, and he told his servants, 'Go ahead of me, leaving a space between each drove and the next'.

He gave the first this order: 'When my brother Esau meets you and asks, "To whom do you belong? Where are you going? Whose are those animals that you are driving?" you will answer, "To your servant Jacob. They are a gift sent to my lord Esau. Jacob himself is following."'. He gave the same order to the second and the third, and to all who were following the droves, 'That is what you must say to Esau when you find him. You must say, "Yes, your servant Jacob himself is following"'. For he argued, 'I shall conciliate him by sending a gift in advance; so when I come face to face with him he may perhaps receive me favourably'.

The gift went ahead of him, but he himself spent that night in the camp.

A formal pact regulating the frontier between Laban and Jacob, i.e. between Aram and Israel, v. 52, together with an explanation of the name Gilead = Galed. 2. A private agreement concerning Laban's daughters, wives of Jacob, v. 50, together with an explanation of the name Mizpah 'watch-post' where a stele (massebah) is erected. On the other hand it is possible that we have not here two traditions but simply explanations of each part of the traditional composite name Mizpah of Gilead 'watch-post of Gilead'; the place is known from Jg 11:29 and lies south of the Jabbok in Transjordan. The text has been further obscured by glosses.

m. It is probable that some words of the text have been lost.

n. Jegar-sahadutha is the exact Aramaic equivalent of Gal'ed 'cairn of witness'.

o. Here the text adds 'the god of their fathers', a gloss absent from the Greek and from some Hebr. MSS. In ancient times the gods of each contracting party were invoked as witnesses to a treaty.

32 a. Mahaneh 'camp' explains the name Mahanaim.

b. Jacob, having reached Esau's territory, takes the usual precautions of a caravan approaching hostile country. These precautions are described in two ways, one following the 'Yahwistic' tradition, vv. 4-14a, the other the 'Elohistic', vv. 14b-22. Both traditions agree on Jacob's meek demeanour before Esau, in accordance with 27:41-45 and with what has been said of the two brothers' characters in 25:27 and 27:40.

c. This prayer strikes a religious note surprising in this purely factual context; moreover, it alludes to the Jordan (instead of the Jabbok, v. 23). It is a later elaboration.

d. This enigmatic story, probably 'Yahwistic', speaks of a physical struggle, a wrestling with God from which Jacob seems to emerge victor. Jacob recognises the supernatural character of his adversary and extorts a blessing from him. The text, however, avoids using the name of Yahweh and the unknown antagonist will not give his name. The author has made use of an old story as a means of explaining the name 'Peniel' ('face of God') and the origin of the name 'Israel'. At the same time he gives the story a religious significance: the patriarch holds fast to God and forces from him a blessing; henceforth all who bear Israel's name will have a claim on God. It is not surprising that this dramatic scene later served as an image of the spiritual combat and of the value of persevering prayer (St Jerome, Origen).

them across the stream and sent all his possessions over too. •And Jacob was left alone.

And there was one^e that wrestled with him until daybreak •who, seeing that he could not master him, struck him in the socket of his hip, and Jacob's hip was dislocated as he wrestled with him. •He said, 'Let me go, for day is breaking'. But Jacob answered, 'I will not let you go unless you bless me'. •He then asked, 'What is your name?' 'Jacob', he replied. •He said, 'Your name shall no longer be Jacob, but Israel, because you have been strong^f against God, you shall prevail against men'.^g •Jacob then made this request, 'I beg you, tell me your name', but he replied, 'Why do you ask my name?' And he blessed him there.

Jacob named the place Peniel, 'Because I have seen God face to face,' he said 'and I have survived'.^h •The sun rose as he left Peniel, limping because of his hip. •That is the reason why to this day the Israelites do not eat the sciatic nerve which is in the socket of the hip;ⁱ because he had struck Jacob in the socket of the hip on the sciatic nerve.

The meeting with Esau^a

33 Looking up Jacob saw Esau arriving with four hundred men. Accordingly he divided the children between Leah, Rachel and the two slave-girls. •He put the slave-girls and their children in front, with Leah and her children following, and Rachel and Joseph behind. •He himself went ahead of them and bowed to the ground seven times before going up to his brother. •But Esau ran to meet him, took him in his arms and held him close and wept.^b •Then looking up he saw the women and children. 'Who are these with you?' he asked. Jacob answered, 'The children whom God has bestowed on your servant'. •The slave-girls then came up with their children, and they all bowed low. •Leah also came up along with her children, and they all bowed low. Finally Rachel and Joseph came up and bowed low.

Esau asked, 'What was the meaning of all the company that I have met?'^c •'It is to win my lord's favour' he replied. •'Brother, I have plenty,' Esau answered 'keep what is yours.' •Jacob protested, 'Please, if I have found favour with you, accept the gift I offer. To speak truly, I came into your presence as into the presence of God,^d but you have received me kindly. •So accept the gift I have brought for you; since God has been generous to me, I have all I need.' And he urged him, and Esau accepted.

Esau said, 'Let us break camp and move off; I will lead you'. •But Jacob replied, 'My lord is aware that the children are weak, and that I must consider the sheep and the cows that have calved. If they are driven too hard, even for one day, the whole drove will die. •May it please my lord to go on ahead of his servant. For my part, I will move at a slower pace, to suit the flock I am driving and the children, until I join my lord in Seir.' •Then Esau said, 'But I must at least leave you some of the people accompanying me'. 'Why?' Jacob asked 'All I desire is to win your favour.' •So that day Esau resumed his journey to Seir. •But Jacob left for Succoth, where he built himself a house and made shelters for his livestock; that is why the place was given the name of Succoth.^f

Jacob arrives at Shechem

Jacob arrived safely at the town of Shechem in Canaanite territory, on his return from Paddan-aram. He encamped opposite the town •and for one hundred pieces of silver he bought from the sons of Hamor, the father of Shechem, the piece of land on which he had pitched his tent. •Here he erected an altar which he called, 'El, God of Israel'.

The rape of Dinah^aJg 9:28
Jdt 9:2

1 34 Dinah, who was Jacob's daughter by Leah, went out to visit the women of 2 that region. •Shechem, the son of Hamor the Hivite,^b who was ruler of that 3 region, saw her, carried her off and raped her, and so dishonoured her. •But he 4 was captivated by Dinah, the daughter of Jacob; he fell in love with the young 5 girl and comforted her. •Accordingly Shechem said to his father Hamor, 'Get me this young girl, I want to marry her'. •Meanwhile, Jacob had heard how his daughter Dinah had been dishonoured, but since his sons were out in the countryside with his livestock, Jacob said nothing until they came back. Jg 14:2

A matrimonial alliance with the Shechemites

6 Hamor the father of Shechem went out to talk to Jacob. •When Jacob's sons 7 returned from the countryside and heard the news, these men were outraged and infuriated that Shechem had insulted Israel by raping Jacob's daughter—an 8 offence that could not be overlooked. •Hamor said to them, 'The heart of my son 9 Shechem is set on your daughter; I beg you, let him marry her. •Ally yourselves with us by marriage; give us your daughters and take our daughters for yourselves.
 10 Stay with us and the land shall be open to you to live in or move through or own.'
 11 Shechem said to the father and brothers of the young girl, 'If only I can win your 12 favour, I will give you whatever you ask. •Demand from me a huge bridal price and gifts; I will give you as much as you ask. Only let me marry the young girl.' 2 S 13:12

13 Then came the answer Jacob's sons gave to Shechem and his father Hamor, 14 a crafty answer because he had dishonoured their sister Dinah. •'We cannot do such a thing' they said to them. 'To give our sister to an uncircumcised man would 15 be a disgrace for us. •We can agree only on one condition: that you become like 16 us by circumcising all your males. •Then we will give you our daughters, taking 17 yours for ourselves; and we will stay with you to make one nation. •But if you do not listen to us on this matter of circumcision we shall take our daughter and 18 go.' •Hamor and Shechem, Hamor's son, were pleased with what they heard. •The 19 young man did not hesitate about doing this, for he was deeply in love with Jacob's daughter. Moreover he was the most important person in his father's household. 17:10+

20 Hamor and his son Shechem went to the gate of their town and spoke to their 21 fellow townsmen saying, •'These men are friendly; let them stay with us in the land, and move about as freely as they like. Let us marry their daughters 22 and give our daughters to them. •But these men will agree to stay with us and become a single nation only on this condition: all males must be circumcised as 23 they are. •Will not their livestock, their goods and all their cattle belong to us, 24 if only we agree to let them stay with us?' •All the citizens of the town agreed to the proposal made by Hamor and his son Shechem, and so all the males were circumcised.

e. Lit. 'a man'.

f. The meaning given by the versions to the verb sarah which is found only here and in Ho 12:5. The probable meaning of 'Israel' is 'May God show his strength!', but it is here explained: 'He has been strong against God', a popular etymology.

g. 'you shall prevail' Greek, cf. Vulg.

h. To look upon God is death to man; if he survives, it is by special privilege, see Ex 33:20 +.

i. There is no mention of this ancient food-law elsewhere in the Bible.

33 a. Narrative, for the most part 'Yahwistic', continuing that of 32:4-14a.

b. 'and wept' conj.

c. Not the groups of 32:14b-22 ('Elohistic' tradition) but the first cavalcade of 32:8; Jacob had despaired of it, 32:9, and is now only too glad to offer it as a gift.

d. Another allusion to the name 'Peniel', 'face of God', 32:31.

e. Jacob mistrusts Esau and, letting him go on ahead, takes another direction himself. 'Yahwistic' tradition.

f. The name means a shelter made of branches.

34 a. This chapter combines a domestic and a clan anecdote. In the first, Shechem seduces Dinah and then asks her in marriage; he accepts the required circumcision but is treacherously slain by Simeon and Levi. In the second, Hamor, father of Shechem, proposes a general matrimonial alliance with the sons of Jacob; this is agreed to on condition that the sons of Hamor are circumcised; the agreement is broken by the sons of Jacob who sack the town and slaughter its inhabitants. The anecdotes are attributed respectively to the 'Elohistic' and 'Yahwistic' sources.

b. One of the ancient races of Canaan, 10:17; probably, however, we should read with the Greek 'Horite', one of an enclave of non-semitic, uncircumcised, groups from the north, Dt 2:12 +.

49:6 The treacherous revenge of Simeon and Levi

Now on the third day, when they were still in pain, Jacob's two sons Simeon and Levi, brothers of Dinah, took their swords and marched into the town unsuspected; they killed all the males. • They put Hamor and his son Shechem to the sword, took Dinah from Shechem's house and came away. • Jacob's sons attacked the wounded and pillaged the town because their sister had been dishonoured. • They took away their flocks, cattle, donkeys and whatever there was in the town and in the countryside. • They carried off all their riches, all their little children and their wives, and looted everything to be found in their houses.

13:7;35:5 Jacob said to Simeon and Levi, 'You have done me harm, putting me in bad odour with the people of this land, the Canaanites and the Perizzites. I have few men, whereas they will unite against me to defeat me and destroy me and my family.' • They retorted, 'Is our sister to be treated like a whore?'

Jacob at Bethel^a

28:10-22 35 God said to Jacob, 'Move on now and go to Bethel and settle there. Make an altar there for the God who appeared to you when you were fleeing from your brother Esau.'

Jos 24:26 Jacob said to his family and to all who were with him, 'Get rid of the foreign gods you have with you;^b wash, and change your clothes.^c • We must move on and go to Bethel. There I will make an altar for the God who heard me when I was in distress, and gave me his help on the journey I made.' • They gave Jacob all the foreign gods in their possession, and the earrings that they were wearing. Jacob buried them under the oak tree near Shechem. • They broke camp; a divine terror struck the towns round about, and no one pursued the sons of Jacob.

28:19;48:3 When Jacob arrived at Luz in the land of Canaan—Bethel, in other words—and all the people with him, • he built an altar there, giving the place the name Bethel,^d because it was there that God had appeared^e to him when he was fleeing from his brother. • Deborah, who had been Rebekah's nurse, died and was buried below Bethel, under the oak tree; so they named it the Oak of Tears.

32:29 Once more God appeared to Jacob on his return from Paddan-aram, and blessed him. • God said to him, 'Your name is Jacob, but from now on you shall be named not Jacob but Israel'. Accordingly they named him Israel.

17:1+Ps 45:16Ex 32:13 God said to him, 'I am El Shaddai. Be fruitful and multiply. A nation, indeed a group of nations shall descend from you. Even kings shall be numbered among your descendants. • I give you this land, the land I gave to Abraham and to Isaac; and I will give this land to your descendants after you.' • Then God went up from him.

Jacob raised a monument in the place where he had spoken with him, a stone monument, on which he made a libation and poured oil. • Jacob named the place Bethel where God had spoken with him.

The birth of Benjamin and the death of Rachel

1 S 4:20 They left Bethel, and while they were still some distance from Ephrath, Rachel began to be in labour, and her pains were severe. • But in her difficult delivery the midwife said to her, 'Do not be afraid; you have another son here'. • At the moment when she breathed her last, for she was dying, she named him Ben-oni. His father however named him Benjamin.^f • So Rachel died and was buried on the road to Ephrath, at Bethlehem. • Jacob raised a monument on her grave, and this is the monument of the tomb of Rachel which is still there today.

49:3-4 Reuben's incest

1 Ch 5:1 Israel left and pitched his tent beyond Migdal-eder. • While Israel was living in that district, Reuben went and slept with Bilhah his father's concubine, and Israel learned of it.

The twelve sons of Jacob^a

23 Jacob's sons numbered twelve. •The sons of Leah: Jacob's eldest son Reuben, ^{Rt 4:11}
 24 then Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar and Zebulun. •The sons of Rachel: Joseph ^{1 Ch 2:1} 25 and Benjamin. •The sons of Bilhah, Rachel's slave-girl: Dan and Naphtali. •The 26 sons of Zilpah, Leah's slave-girl: Gad and Asher. These are the sons born to Jacob in Paddan-aram.

Isaac's death^b

27 Jacob reached the house of his father Isaac at Mamre, at Kiriath-arba—or 28 Hebron—where Abraham and Isaac had stayed. •Isaac was one hundred and ^{47:9} 29 eighty years old •when he breathed his last. He died and was gathered to his people, an old man who had enjoyed his full span of life. His sons Esau and Jacob ^{Jb 42:17} buried him.

² Canaan: Adah, the daughter of Elon the Hittite, Oholibamah, the daughter ^{26:34; 28:9}
 3 of Anah, who was the son of Zibeon the Horite, •Basemath, the daughter of 4 Ishmael and sister of Nebaioth. •Adah bore to Esau Eliphaz, Basemath bore 5 Reuel, •Oholibamah bore Jeush, Jalam and Korah. These are the sons of Esau born to him in the land of Canaan.

Esau's migration^b

6 Esau, taking his wives, his sons and daughters, all the members of his household, his livestock, all his cattle and all the goods he had acquired in the land of 7 Canaan, left for the land of Seir^c away from his brother Jacob. •For they had ^{32:4} acquired too much to live together. The land in which they were at that time could ^{13:5-9} 8 not support them both because of their livestock. •That is why Edom settled ^{Dt 2:5} in the mountainous region of Seir. Esau is Edom.

36 a. This is the last we shall hear of Esau. Ch. 36 is a collection of traditions (or documents) of Israelitic or Edomite origin; they deal with Esau's descendants but there is no attempt to force them into agreement either among themselves or with what has been already said (see marginal references).

b. The 'Priestly' tradition, which does not speak of the quarrel between Jacob and Esau, 35:27-29 +, here explains their separation in the same way as it explained that of Abraham and Lot and almost in the same terms.

IV. THE STORY OF JOSEPH^a

1 M 2:53 Joseph and his brothers^b

This is the story of Joseph. 2

Joseph was seventeen years old. As he was still young, he was shepherding the 3 flock with his brothers, with the sons of Bilhah and Zilpah his father's wives.
Joseph informed their father of the evil spoken about them.

Israel loved Joseph more than all his other sons, for he was the son of his old 3 age, and he had a coat with long sleeves made for him. •But his brothers, seeing 4 how his father loved him more than all his other sons, came to hate him so much that they could not say a civil word to him.

5 Now Joseph had a dream,^c and he repeated it to his brothers.^d • ‘Listen’ he 42:9
6 said ‘to this dream I have had. •We were binding sheaves in the countryside; and 50:17
7 my sheaf, it seemed, rose up and stood upright; then I saw your sheaves gather 49:8
8 round and bow to my sheaf.’ •‘So you want to be king over us,’ his brothers
9 retorted ‘or to lord it over us?’ And they hated him still more, on account of his 10 dreams and of what he said. •He had another dream which he told to his brothers. Rv 12:1 11 ‘Look, I have had another dream’ he said. ‘I thought I saw the sun, the moon and eleven stars, bowing to me.’ •He told his father and brothers, and his father 49:8
scolded him. ‘A fine dream to have!’ he said to him. ‘Are all of us then, myself, your mother^e and your brothers, to come and bow to the ground before you?’
His brothers were jealous of him, but his father kept the thing in mind. Dn 7:28
Lk2:19,51

Joseph sold by his brothers^f

12 His brothers went to pasture their father’s flock at Shechem. •Then Israel 42:9 13 said to Joseph, ‘Are not your brothers with the flock at Shechem? Come, I am going to send you to them.’ ‘I am ready’ he replied. •He said to him, ‘Go and 50:17 14 see how your brothers and the flock are doing, and bring me word’. He sent him from the valley of Hebron, and Joseph arrived at Shechem.

15 A man found him wandering in the countryside and the man asked him, ‘What 42:9
16 are you looking for?’ •‘I am looking for my brothers’ he replied. ‘Please tell me Sg 1:7 17 where they are pasturing their flock.’ •The man answered, ‘They have moved on from here; indeed I heard them say, “Let us go to Dothan”’. So Joseph went after his brothers and found them at Dothan.

18 They saw him in the distance, and before he reached them they made a plot 42:21
19 among themselves to put him to death. •‘Here comes the man of dreams’ they 20 said to one another. •‘Come on, let us kill him and throw him into some well; we can say that a wild beast devoured him. Then we shall see what becomes of his dreams.’

21 But Reuben heard, and he saved him from their violence. ‘We must not take 42:22
22 his life’ he said. •‘Shed no blood,’ said Reuben to them ‘throw him into this well in the wilderness, but do not lay violent hands on him’—intending to save him 23 from them and to restore him to his father. •So, when Joseph reached his brothers, 37:4 24 they pulled off his coat, the coat with long sleeves that he was wearing, •and catching hold of him they threw him into the well, an empty well with no water 25 in it. •They then sat down to eat. Tb 3:10

Looking up they saw a group of Ishmaelites who were coming from Gilead, their camels laden with gum, tragacanth, balsam and resin, which they were taking 43:11 26 down into Egypt. •Then Judah said to his brothers, ‘What do we gain by killing 4:10

d The Hebr. here adds ‘chief Korah’ omitted by Sam.

e. The Horites, Dt 2:12 +, are the ancient inhabitants of Seir; Seir is here personified as their ancestor. The Horites were dispossessed by the Edomites, Dt 2:12,22.

f. I.e. ‘before an Israelite king ruled Edom’ rather than the sense understood by the Greek: ‘before a king ruled in Israel’.

g. ‘Hadad’ 1 Ch 1:50 and versions.

37 a. With the exception of ch. 38 and 49 the whole of this final section of Gn is a biography of Joseph. This narrative, unlike what has gone before, proceeds without any visible divine intervention and without any new revelation; it is one long lesson: Providence thwarts mens’ plots and turns their malice to profit. The lesson is explicit in 50:20 (cf. 45:5-8). Betrayed by his brothers, Joseph is rescued by God who makes the betrayal itself serve the divine purpose, for its result—the arrival of Jacob’s sons in Egypt—is the first step in the making of a chosen people. This theme of salvation (‘the survival of a numerous people’, 50:20) runs through the whole of the Old Testament to be enriched in the New. Here, as later with the Exodus, we have a preliminary sketch of the Redemption. Not a few details in the narrative bear witness to a precise knowledge of Egyptian affairs and customs as known to us from the Egyptian sources.

b. V.2 seems to be a remnant of the ‘Priestly’ tradition. The rest of ch. 37 combines the ‘Yahwistic’ and ‘Elohistic’ traditions.

c. Dreams play a large part in Joseph’s story, ch. 40; they are not divine apparitions as in 20:3; 28:12f; 31:11,24, but premonitions.

d. The text adds ‘and they hated him still more’, a gloss absent from the Greek.

e. According to 35:19 Rachel is already dead. The narrative must be following another tradition which puts Rachel’s death and Benjamin’s birth later, v. 3 and 43:29.

f. Two combined sources are discernible here, ‘Elohistic’ and ‘Yahwistic’. According to the former, Joseph’s brothers are for killing him but Reuben, hoping to rescue him later, persuades them to throw Joseph into a well instead; trading Midianites who, unknown to the brothers, were passing that way, extricate Joseph and take him to Egypt. According to the second, Joseph’s brothers are for killing him but Judah suggests selling him to a party of Ishmaelites on their way to Egypt. After this, the two narratives come together again.

Jb 16:18 our brother and covering up his blood?^a •Come, let us sell him to the Ishmael- 27
 Is 26:21 ites, but let us not do any harm to him. After all, he is our brother, and our own Ezk 24:7 flesh.' His brothers agreed.

Now some Midianite merchants were passing, and they drew Joseph up out 28 of the well. They sold Joseph to the Ishmaelites for twenty silver pieces, and Ps105:17 these men took Joseph to Egypt. •When Reuben went back to the well there was 29
 Mt26:15-16 no sign of Joseph. Tearing his clothes, •he went back to his brothers. 'The boy 30
 Ac 7:9 has disappeared' he said. 'What am I going to do?'

37:4 They took Joseph's coat and, slaughtering a goat, they dipped the coat in the 31 blood. •Then they sent back the coat with long sleeves and had it taken to their 32 father, with the message, 'This is what we have found. Examine it and see whether or not it is your son's coat.' •He examined it and exclaimed, 'It is my son's 33 44:28 coat! A wild beast has devoured him. Joseph has been the prey of some animal and has been torn to pieces.' •Jacob, tearing his clothes and putting on a loin- 34 cloth of sackcloth, mourned his son for a long time. •All his sons and daughters 35
 Jr 31:15 came to comfort him, but he refused to be comforted. 'No,' he said 'I will go down 42:38 in mourning to Sheol, beside my son.' And his father wept for him.

Meanwhile the Midianites had sold him in Egypt to Potiphar, one of 36
 Pharaoh's officials and commander of the guard.

The story of Judah and Tamar^a

38 It happened at that time that Judah left his brothers, to go down and stay 1 with an Adullamite called Hirah. •There Judah saw the daughter of a 2 1 Ch 2:3 Canaanite called Shua. He made her his wife and slept with her. •She conceived 3 46:12 and gave birth to a son whom she named Er. •She conceived again and gave birth 4 to a son whom she named Onan. •Yet again she gave birth to a son whom she 5 named Shelah. She was at Chezib when she gave birth to him.

1 Ch 2:3 Judah took a wife for his first-born Er, and her name was Tamar. •But Er, 6
 Judah's first-born, offended Yahweh greatly, so Yahweh brought about his 7 death. •Then Judah said to Onan, 'Take your brother's wife, and do your duty 8
 Dt 25:5 as her brother-in-law,^b to produce a child for your brother'. •But Onan, knowing 9 Mt 22:24 the child would not be his, spilt his seed on the ground every time he slept with his brother's wife, to avoid providing a child for his brother. •What he did was 10 offensive to Yahweh,^c so he brought about his death also. •Then Judah said to 11 his daughter-in-law Tamar, 'Return^d home as a widow to your father, and wait for my son Shelah to grow up', for he was thinking, 'He must not die like his brothers'. So Tamar went back home to her father.

A long time passed, and then Shua's daughter, the wife of Judah, died. After 12 Jg 14:1 Judah had been comforted^e he went up to Timnah to the men who sheared his sheep, himself and Hirah, his Adullamite friend. •This was reported to Tamar, 13
 'Listen, your father-in-law is going up to Timnah for the shearing of his sheep'.
 Pr 7:10 She therefore changed her widow's clothes, wrapped a veil around her, and sat 14 down, heavily swathed, where the road to Enaim branches off the road to Timnah.
 Shelah had now grown up, as she saw, and yet she had not been given to him as his wife.^f

 16 Judah, seeing her, took her for a prostitute, since her face was veiled. •Going up to her on the road, he said, 'Come, let me sleep with you'. He did not know that she was his daughter-in-law. 'What will you give me to sleep with me?' she asked. •'I will send you a kid from the flock' he answered. 'Agreed, if you give 17 me a pledge until you send it' she answered. •'What pledge shall I give you?' he 18 asked. 'Your seal, your cord and the stick you are holding' she answered. He gave them to her and slept with her, and she conceived by him. •Then she rose 19 and left him, and taking off her veil she put on her widow's weeds.

 21 Judah sent the kid by his Adullamite friend to recover the pledge from the woman. But he did not find her. •He inquired from the men of the place, 'Where is the prostitute^g who was by the roadside at Enaim?' 'There has been no prosti-

22 tute there', they answered. •So returning to Judah he said, 'I did not find her. What is more, the men of the place told me there had been no prostitute there.'
 23 'Let her keep what she has' Judah replied 'or we shall become a laughing-stock. At least I sent her this kid, even though you did not find her.'

24 About three months later it was reported to Judah, 'Your daughter-in-law has played the harlot; furthermore, she is pregnant, as a result of her misconduct'.
 25 'Take her outside and burn her'^h said Judah. •But as she was being led off she sent this message to her father-in-law, 'It was the man to whom these things belong who made me pregnant. Look at them' she said 'and see whose seal and cord
 26 and stick these are.' •Judah examined them and then said, 'She is in the right, rather than I. This comes of my not giving her to my son Shelah to be his wife.' He had no further intercourse with her.

27 When the time for her confinement came she was found to have twins in her
 28 womb. •During the delivery one of them put out a hand, and the midwife caught 29 it and tied a scarlet thread to it, saying, 'This is the first to arrive'. •But he drew his hand back, and it was his brother who came out first. Then she said, 'What 30 a breach you have opened for yourself!' So he was named Perez. •Then his brother came out with the scarlet thread on his hand, so he was named Zerah.ⁱ

Joseph's early days in Egypt^a

1 39 Now Joseph had been taken down into Egypt. Potiphar the Egyptian, one 2 of Pharaoh's officials and commander of the guard, bought him from the 3 Ishmaelites who had brought him down there. •Yahweh was with Joseph, and 4 everything went well with him. He lodged in the house of his Egyptian master,
 5 and when his master saw how Yahweh was with him and how Yahweh made 6 everything succeed that he turned his hand to, •he was pleased with Joseph and 7 made him his personal attendant; and his master put him in charge of his 8 household, entrusting everything to him. •And from the time he put him in 9 charge of his household and all his possessions, Yahweh blessed the Egyptian's 10 household out of consideration for Joseph; Yahweh's blessing extended to all his 11 possessions, both household and estate. •So he left Joseph to handle all his pos-
 12 sessions, and with him at hand, concerned himself with nothing beyond the food 13 he ate.

38 a. 'Yahwistic' tradition relating to the origin of the tribe of Judah. Judah dwells apart from his brothers and he associates with the Canaanites. From his union with Tamar, his daughter-in-law, come the clans of Perez and Zerah, Nb 26:21; 1 Ch 2:3f; Perez is David's ancestor, Rt 4:18f, and consequently the Messiah's, Mt 1:3; Lk 3:33. In this way we learn of the mixture of strains in Judah and of its singular destiny among the other tribes (Jg 1:3; Dt 33:7; and cf. all the history that follows).

But one day Joseph in the course of his duties came to the house, and there 11 was not a servant there indoors. • The woman caught hold of him by his tunic 12 and said, 'Sleep with me'. But he left the tunic in her hand and ran out of the house. • Seeing he had left the tunic in her hand and left the house, • she called her 13 servants and said to them, 'Look at this! He has brought us a Hebrew to insult us. 14 He came to me to sleep with me, but I screamed, • and when he heard me scream 15 and shout he left his tunic beside me and ran out of the house.'

She put the tunic down by her side until the master came home. • Then she 16 told him the same tale, 'The Hebrew slave you bought us came to insult me. 17 But when I screamed and called out he left his garment by my side and made 18 his escape.' • When the master heard his wife say, 'This is how your slave treated 19 me', he was furious. • Joseph's master had him arrested and committed to the gaol 20 where the king's prisoners were kept.

Joseph interprets the dreams of Pharaoh's officials^a 40 It happened some time later that the king of Egypt's cup-bearer and his 1 baker offended their master the king of Egypt. • Pharaoh was angry with his 2 two officials, the chief cup-bearer and the chief baker, • and put them under arrest 3 in the house of the commander of the guard, in the gaol where Joseph was a prisoner. • The commander of the guard assigned Joseph to them to attend to 4 their wants, and they remained under arrest for some time.

Now both of them had dreams on the same night, each with its own meaning 5 for the cup-bearer and the baker of the king of Egypt, who were prisoners in the gaol. • When Joseph came to them in the morning, he saw that they looked 6 gloomy, • and he asked the two officials who were with him under arrest in his 7 master's house, 'Why these black looks today?' • They answered him, 'We 8 have had a dream, but there is no one to interpret it'.^b • 'Are not interpretations 41:16 God's business?' Joseph asked them. 'Come, tell me.'

So the chief cup-bearer described his dream to Joseph, telling him, 'In my 9 dream I saw a vine in front of me. • On the vine were three branches; no sooner 10 had it budded than it blossomed, and its clusters became ripe grapes. • I had 11 Pharaoh's cup in my hand; I picked the grapes and squeezed them into Pharaoh's cup, and put the cup into Pharaoh's hand.' • 'Here is the interpretation of it' 12 Joseph told him. 'The three branches are three days. • In another three days 13 Pharaoh will release you and restore you to your place. Then you will hand 14 Pharaoh his cup, as you did before, when you were his cup-bearer. • But be sure 15 to remember me when things go well with you, and do me the kindness of reminding Pharaoh about me, to get me out of this house. • I was kidnapped from the 16 land of the Hebrews in the first place, and even here I have done nothing to warrant imprisonment.'

The chief baker, seeing that the interpretation had been favourable, said to 16 Joseph, 'I too had a dream; there were three trays of cakes on my head. • In the top 17 tray there were all kinds of Pharaoh's favourite cakes, but the birds ate them off the tray on my head.' • Joseph gave him this answer, 'Here is the interpretation of 18 it: the three trays are three days. • In another three days Pharaoh will release you^c 19 and hang you on a gallows, and the birds will eat the flesh off your bones.'

And so it happened; the third day was Pharaoh's birthday and he gave a banquet 20 for all his officials, and he released the chief cup-bearer and the chief baker in the presence of his officials. •The chief cup-bearer he restored to his position as cup-bearer, to hand Pharaoh his cup; •the chief baker he hanged. It was as Joseph had said in his interpretation. •But the chief cup-bearer did not remember Joseph: he forgot him.

Pharaoh's dreams^a

Jb 33:15

41 Two years later it happened that Pharaoh had a dream: he was standing by the Nile, •and there, coming up from the Nile, were seven cows, sleek and fat, and they began to feed among the rushes. •And seven other cows, ugly and lean, came up from the Nile after them; and these went over and stood beside the other cows on the bank of the Nile. •The ugly and lean cows ate the seven sleek and fat cows. Then Pharaoh awoke.

He fell asleep and dreamed a second time: there, growing on one stalk, were seven ears of corn full and ripe. •And sprouting up after them came seven ears of corn, meagre and scorched by the east wind. •The scanty ears of corn swallowed the seven full and ripe ears of corn. Then Pharaoh awoke; it was a dream.

In the morning Pharaoh, feeling disturbed, had all the magicians and wise men of Egypt summoned to him. Pharaoh told them his dream, but no one could interpret it for Pharaoh. ^b •Then the chief cup-bearer addressed Pharaoh, 'Today I must recall my offences. •Pharaoh was angry with his servants and put myself and the chief baker under arrest in the house of the commander of the guard. We had a dream on the same night, he and I, and each man's dream had a meaning for himself. •There was a young Hebrew with us, one of the slaves belonging to the commander of the guard. We told our dreams to him and he interpreted them, giving each of us the interpretation of his dream. •It turned out just as he interpreted for us: I was restored to my place, but the other man was hanged.'

Dn 1:17

Then Pharaoh had Joseph summoned, and they hurried him from prison. He shaved and changed his clothes, and came into Pharaoh's presence. •Pharaoh said to Joseph, 'I have had a dream which no one can interpret. But I have heard it said of you that when you hear a dream you can interpret it.' •Joseph answered Pharaoh, 'I do not count. It is God who will give Pharaoh a favourable answer.'

So Pharaoh told Joseph, 'In my dream I was standing on the bank of the Nile. •And there were seven cows, fat and sleek, coming up out of the Nile, and they began to feed among the rushes. •And seven other cows came up after them, starved, ugly and lean; I have never seen such poor cows in all the land of Egypt. The lean and ugly cows ate up the seven fat cows. •But when they had eaten them up, it was impossible to tell they had eaten them, for they remained as lean as before. Then I woke up. •And then again in my dream, there, growing on one stalk, were seven ears of corn, beautifully ripe; •but sprouting up after them came seven ears of corn, withered, meagre and scorched by the east wind. •The shrivelled ears of corn swallowed the seven ripe ears of corn. I told the magicians this, but no one could tell me the meaning.'

Joseph told Pharaoh, 'Pharaoh's dreams are one and the same: God has revealed to Pharaoh what he is going to do. •The seven fine cows are seven years and the seven ripe ears of corn are seven years; it is one and the same dream. •The seven gaunt and lean cows coming up after them are seven years, as are the seven 40 a. 'Elohistic' narrative with a few modifications.

b. The Egyptians believed that dreams foreshadowed the future.

c. Lit. 'lift up your head' for the sense of granting a favour cf. 2 K 25:27; Jr 52:31. Here, however, there is a grim play on words: the head of the cup-bearer is to be 'lifted up': he will enjoy the king's favour, v. 13; the head of the baker will also be 'lifted up': he is to be hanged. A gloss here adds 'from you'.

41 a. This narrative follows on the preceding and is from the same ('Elohistic') source with which, however, especially from v. 33 onwards, it combines remnants of a parallel tradition ascribed to the 'Yahwistic' source.

b. Egypt was the land of magicians and sages, Ex 7:11,22; 1 K 5:10; Is 19:11-13, but the wisdom God gives his servants eclipses theirs. This theme recurs in the story of Moses, Ex 7-8. Cf., in a different setting, Dn 2.

shrivelled ears of corn scorched by the east wind: there will be seven years of famine. •It is as I have told Pharaoh: God has revealed to Pharaoh what he is going to do. •Seven years are coming, bringing great plenty to the whole land of Egypt, •but seven years of famine will follow them, when all the plenty in the land of Egypt will be forgotten, and famine will exhaust the land. •The famine that is to follow will be so very severe that no one will remember what plenty the country enjoyed. •The reason why the dream came to Pharaoh twice is because the event is already determined by God, and God is impatient to bring it about.

•Pharaoh should now choose a man who is intelligent and wise to govern the land of Egypt. •Pharaoh should take action and appoint supervisors over the land, and impose a tax of one-fifth on the land of Egypt during the seven years of plenty •They will collect all food produced during these good years that are coming. They will store the corn in Pharaoh's name, and place the food in the towns and hold it there. •This food will serve as a reserve for the land during the seven years of famine that will afflict the land of Egypt. And so the land will not be destroyed by the famine.'

Joseph's promotion

Pharaoh and all his ministers approved of what he had said. •Then Pharaoh asked his ministers, 'Can we find any other man like this, possessing the spirit of God?' •So Pharaoh said to Joseph, 'Seeing that God has given you knowledge of all this, there can be no one as intelligent and wise as you. •You shall be my chancellor, and all my people shall respect your orders; only this throne shall set me above you.' •Pharaoh said to Joseph, 'I hereby make you governor of the whole land of Egypt'. •Pharaoh took the ring from his hand and put it on Joseph's. He clothed him in fine linen and put a gold chain round his neck. •He made him ride in the best chariot he had after his own, and they cried before him 'Abrek'.^c This is the way he was made governor of the whole land of Egypt.

Pharaoh said to Joseph, 'I am Pharaoh: without your permission no one is to move hand or foot throughout the whole land of Egypt'. •Pharaoh named Joseph Zaphenath-paneah, and gave him Asenath the daughter of Potiphra, priest of On,^d for his wife. Joseph travelled through the land of Egypt.

Joseph was thirty years old when he appeared before Pharaoh king of Egypt. After leaving Pharaoh's presence Joseph went through the whole land of Egypt. During the seven years of plenty, the soil yielded generously. •He collected all the food of the seven years when there was an abundance^e in the land of Egypt, and allotted food to the towns, placing in each the food from the surrounding countryside. •Joseph stored the corn like the sand of the sea, so much that they stopped reckoning, since it was beyond all estimating.

Joseph's sons

Before the year of famine came, two sons were born to Joseph: Asenath, the daughter of Potiphra priest of On, bore him these. •Joseph named the first-born Manasseh, 'Because' he said 'God has made me forget all my suffering and all my father's household'. •He named the second Ephraim, 'Because' he said 'God has made me fruitful in the country of my misfortune'.^f

Then the seven years of plenty that there had been in the land of Egypt came to an end. •The seven years of famine began to come as Joseph had said. There was famine in every country, but there was bread to be had throughout the land of Egypt. •When the whole country began to feel the famine, the people cried out to Pharaoh for bread. But Pharaoh told all the Egyptians, 'Go to Joseph and do what he tells you'.—•There was famine all over the world.—Then Joseph opened all the granaries and sold^g grain to the Egyptians. The famine grew worse in the land of Egypt. •People came to Egypt from all over the world to buy grain from Joseph, for the famine had grown severe throughout the world.

The first meeting between Joseph and his brothers^a

- 1 42 Jacob, seeing that there was grain for sale in Egypt, said to his sons, 'Why Jdt 5:10 2 do you stand looking at one another? •I hear' he said 'that there is grain Ac7:12 for sale in Egypt. Go down and buy grain for us there, that we may survive and 3 not die.' •So ten of Joseph's brothers went down to buy grain in Egypt. •But 4 Jacob did not send Joseph's brother Benjamin with his brothers. 'Nothing must 42:38 happen to him' he said.
- 5 Israel's sons with others making the same journey went to buy grain, for there Ac 7:10 6 was famine in the land of Canaan. •It was Joseph, as the man in authority over the country, who sold the grain to all comers. So Joseph's brothers went and 7 bowed down before him, their faces touching the ground. •When Joseph saw his brothers he recognised them. But he did not make himself known to them, and he spoke harshly to them. 'Where have you come from?' he asked. 'From the land of Canaan to buy food' they replied.
- 8 So Joseph recognised his brothers, but they did not recognise him. •Joseph, 37:5-11 9 remembering the dreams he had had about them, said to them, 'You are spies.
10 You have come to discover the country's weak points.' •'No, my lord,' they told 11 him 'your servants have come to buy food. •We are all sons of the same man.
12 We are honest men, your servants are not spies.' •'Not so!' he replied 'It is the 13 country's weak points you have come to discover.' •'Your servants are twelve brothers,' they said 'sons of the same man, from the land of Canaan. The young-14 est, we should explain, is at present with our father, and the other one is no more.'
15 Joseph answered them, 'It is as I said, you are spies. •This is the test you are to undergo: as sure as Pharaoh lives you shall not leave unless your youngest brother 16 comes here. •Send one of your number to fetch your brother; you others will remain under arrest, so that your statements can be tested to see whether or not you 17 are honest. If not, then as sure as Pharaoh lives you are spies.' •Then he kept them all in custody for three days.
- 18 On the third day Joseph said to them, 'Do this and you shall keep your lives, 19 for I am a man who fears God. •If you are honest men let one of your brothers be kept in the place of your detention; as for you, go and take grain to relieve the 20 famine of your families. •You shall bring me your youngest brother; this way your words will be proved true, and you will not have to die!' This they did.
21 They said to one another, 'Truly we are being called to account for our brother. 37:18-27
We saw his misery of soul when he begged our mercy, but we did not listen to him 22 and now this misery has come home to us.' •Reuben answered them, 'Did I not 37:22 tell you not to wrong the boy? But you did not listen, and now we are brought 23 to account for his blood.' •They did not know that Joseph understood, because 24 there was an interpreter between them. •He left them and wept.^b Then he went 43:14,30 back to them and spoke to them. Of their number he took Simeon and had him bound while they looked on.

16 selves to Joseph. •When Joseph saw Benjamin with them he said to his chamberlain, 'Take these men to the house. Slaughter a beast and prepare it, for 17 these men are to eat with me at midday.' •The man did as Joseph had ordered, and took the men to Joseph's house.

18 The men were afraid at being taken to Joseph's house, thinking, 'We are being taken there because of the money replaced in our corn-sacks the first time. They will set on us; they will fall on us and make slaves of us, and take our donkeys
19 too.' •So they went up to Joseph's chamberlain and spoke to him at the entrance
20 to the house. •'By your leave, sir,' they said 'we came down once before to buy 21 food, •and when we reached camp and opened our corn-sacks, there was each 22 man's money in the mouth of his sack, to its full amount. But we have brought it 23 back with us, •and we have brought more money with us to buy food. We do 24 not know who put our money in our corn-sacks.' •'Peace to you,' he replied 'do not be afraid. Your God and your father's God has put a treasure in your corn-sacks. Your money reached me safely.'^b And he brought Simeon out to them.

42:27-28

24 The man took the men into Joseph's house. He offered them water to wash 25 their feet, and gave their donkeys fodder. •They arranged their gift while they waited for Joseph to come at midday, for they had heard they were to dine there.

26 When Joseph arrived at the house they offered him the gift they had with them, 27 and bowed before him to the ground. •But he greeted them kindly, asking, 'Is your 28 father well, the old man you told me of? Is he still alive?' •'Your servant our father 29 is well,' they replied 'he is still alive', and they bowed low in homage. •Looking up he saw his brother Benjamin, his mother's son. 'Is this your youngest brother,' he asked 'of whom you told me?' Then he said to him, 'God be good to you, my son'.^c •Joseph hurried out, for his heart was moved at the sight of his brother 30 and he was near to weeping. He went into his room and there he wept. •After 31 bathing his face he returned and, controlling himself, gave the order: 'Serve the 32 meal'. •He was served separately; so were they, and so were the Egyptians who ate in his household, for Egyptians cannot take food with Hebrews: they have a 33 horror of it. •They were placed opposite him each according to his rank, from the 34 eldest to the youngest, and the men looked at one another in amazement. •He had portions carried to them from his own dish, the portion for Benjamin being five times larger than any of the others. They drank with him and were happy.

Tb 7:4

Joseph's cup in Benjamin's sack

1 44 Joseph gave this order to his chamberlain: 'Fill these men's sacks with as 2 much food as they can carry, and put each man's money in the mouth of his sack. •And put my cup, the silver one, in the mouth of the youngest one's sack as well as the money for his grain.' He carried out the instructions Joseph had given.

3 When morning came and it was light, the men were sent off with their donkeys.
4 They had scarcely left the city, and had not gone far before Joseph said to his chamberlain, 'Away now and follow those men. When you catch up with them 5 say to them, "Why did you reward good with evil? •Is this not the one my lord uses for drinking and also for reading omens?"^a What you have done is wrong.' '

c. Vv. 27-28 belong to the 'Yahwistic' tradition which makes the brothers discover their money at the first stopping-place and at the top of the sacks, cf. 43:21. According to the 'Elohistic' tradition (cf. v. 35) they found it at the bottom of the sacks when they reached home. Both traditions agree that the discovery filled the brothers with awe; they saw in it the hand of God.

d. In the 'Yahwistic' tradition, see 43:8-9, Judah and not Reuben is surety for Benjamin's return. Similarly, according to the 'Yahwistic' tradition (37:26) it was Judah, according to the 'Elohistic' Reuben (37:22), who intervened on Joseph's behalf.

e. I.e. the only one of the two sons of the beloved Rachel.

43 a. Excepting a few short glosses ch. 43 and 44 are entirely 'Yahwistic'.

b. The chamberlain has been instructed by Joseph, 42:25, and knows what Joseph intends.

c. Joseph is evidently much older than Benjamin, see 30:22f and 35:16. It is even possible that there was a tradition according to which Benjamin was born after Joseph had been lost, see 37:10+.

44 a. The way in which water fell into a cup, or the sound it made, or the pattern of oil-drops poured into it, were interpreted as omens. This method of divination was common in the ancient East.

So when he caught up with them he repeated these words. •They asked him, ⁶ ‘What does my lord mean? Your servants would never think of doing such a thing.
 Look, the money we found in the mouths of our corn-sacks we brought back to ⁸ you from the land of Canaan. Are we likely to have stolen silver or gold from your master’s house? •Whichever of your servants is found to have it shall die, ⁹ and we ourselves shall be slaves of my lord.’ •‘Very well, then,’ he replied ‘it shall ¹⁰ be as you say. The one on whom it is found shall become my slave, but the rest of you can go free.’ •Each of them quickly lifted his corn-sack to the ground, and ¹¹ each opened his own. •He searched them, beginning with the eldest and ending ¹² with the youngest, and found the cup in Benjamin’s sack. •Then they tore their ¹³ clothes, and when each man had reloaded his ass they returned to the city.

When Judah and his brothers arrived at Joseph’s house he was still there, so ¹⁴ they fell on the ground in front of him. •‘What is this deed you have done?’ Joseph ¹⁵ asked them. ‘Did you not know that a man such as I am is a reader of omens?’
 ‘What can we answer my lord?’ Judah replied ‘What can we say? How can we ¹⁶ clear ourselves? God himself has uncovered your servants’ guilt.^b Here we are then, my lord’s slaves, we no less than the one in whose possession the cup was found.’ •‘I could not think of doing such a thing’ he replied. ‘The man in whose ¹⁷ possession the cup was found shall be my slave, but you can go back safe and sound to your father.’

Judah intervenes

Tb 10:1 Then Judah went up to him and said, ‘May it please my lord, let your servant ¹⁸ have a word privately with my lord. Do not be angry with your servant, for you are like Pharaoh himself. •My lord questioned his servants, “Have you father or ¹⁹ brother?” •And we said to my lord, “We have an old father, and a younger ²⁰ brother born of his old age. His brother is dead, so he is the only one left of his mother, and his father loves him.” •Then you said to your servants, “Bring him ²¹ down to me that my eyes may look on him”.^c •We replied to my lord, “The boy ²² cannot leave his father. If he leaves him, his father will die.” •But you said to ²³ your servants, “If your youngest brother does not come down with you, you will not be admitted to my presence again”. •When we went back to your servant my ²⁴ father, we repeated to him what my lord had said. •So when our father said, ²⁵ “Go back and buy us a little food”, •we said, “We cannot go down. If our young- ²⁶ est brother is with us, we will go down, for we cannot be admitted to the man’s presence unless our youngest brother is with us.” •So your servant our father ²⁷ said to us, “You know that my wife bore me two children. •When one left me, ²⁸
 I said that he must have been torn to pieces. And I have not seen him to this ²⁹ day. •If you take this one from me too and any harm comes to him, you will ³⁰ send me down to Sheol with my white head bowed in misery.” •If I go to your servant my father now, and we have not the boy with us, he will die as soon as ³¹ he sees the boy is not with us, for his heart is bound up with him. •Then your servants will have sent your servant our father down to Sheol with his white head ³² bowed in grief. •Now your servant went surety to my father for the boy. I said: ³³
 If I do not bring him back to you, let me bear the blame before my father all my life. •Let your servant stay, then, as my lord’s slave in place of the boy, I implore ³⁴ you, and let the boy go back with his brothers. •How indeed could I go back to my father and not have the boy with me? I could not bear to see the misery that would overwhelm my father.’

Joseph makes himself known^a

45 Then Joseph could not control his feelings in front of all his retainers, and ¹ he exclaimed, ‘Let everyone leave me’. No one therefore was present with him while Joseph made himself known to his brothers, •but he wept so loudly ² that all the Egyptians heard, and the news reached Pharaoh’s palace.^b

Joseph said to his brothers, ‘I am Joseph. Is my father really still alive?’ His ³ brothers could not answer him, they were so dismayed at the sight of him.^e 50:15

4 Then Joseph said to his brothers, 'Come closer to me'. When they had come closer 5 to him he said, 'I am your brother Joseph whom you sold into Egypt. •But now, do not grieve, do not reproach yourselves for having sold me here, since God 6 sent me before you to preserve your lives.^d •For this is the second year there has been famine in the country, and there are still five years to come of no plough-7 ing or reaping. •God sent me before you to make sure that your race would have 8 survivors in the land and to save your lives, many lives at that. •So it was not you who sent me here but God, and he has made me father^e to Pharaoh, lord of all his household and administrator of the whole land of Egypt.

9 'Return quickly to your father and tell him, "Your son Joseph says this: God 10 has made me lord of all Egypt. Come down to me at once. •You shall live in the country of Goshen^f where you will be near me, you, your children and your 11 grandchildren, your flocks, your cattle and all your possessions. •I will provide for you there, for there are still five years of famine, and I do not want you to be 12 in need, you and your household and all you have." •You can see with your own eyes, and my brother Benjamin can see too that it is my own mouth speaking to 13 you. •Give my father a full report of all the honour I enjoy in Egypt, and of all you have seen. Then hurry and bring my father down here.'

14 Then throwing his arms round the neck of his brother Benjamin he wept; and 15 Benjamin wept on his shoulder. •He kissed all his brothers, weeping over them.
After which his brothers talked with him. Tb7:6;11:9 46:31

Pharaoh's invitation

16 News reached Pharaoh's palace that Joseph's brothers had come, and Pharaoh 17 was pleased to hear it, as were his servants. •Pharaoh told Joseph, 'Say to your 18 brothers, "Do this: load your beasts and go off to the land of Canaan. •Fetch your father and families, and come back to me. I will give you the best the land 19 of Egypt offers, and you shall feed on the fat of the land." •And you, for your part, give them^g this command: "Do this: take waggons from the land of Egypt, 20 for your little ones and your wives. Get your father and come. •Never mind about your property, for the best that the land of Egypt offers is yours." '

The return to Canaan

21 Israel's sons did as they were told. Joseph gave them waggons as Pharaoh 22 had ordered, and he gave them provisions for the journey. •To each and every one he gave a festal garment, and to Benjamin three hundred shekels of silver 23 and five festal garments. •And he sent his father ten donkeys laden with the best that Egypt offered, and ten she-donkeys laden with grain, bread and food for 24 his father's journey. •Then he sent his brothers on their way. His final words to them were, 'Do not be upset^h on the journey'.

25 And so they left Egypt. When they reached the land of Canaan and their 26 father Jacob, •they gave him this report, 'Joseph is still alive. Indeed it is he who is administrator of the whole land of Egypt.' But he was as one stunned, for 27 he did not believe them. •However, when they told him all Joseph had said to them, and when he saw the waggons that Joseph had sent to fetch him, the spirit 28 of their father Jacob revived, •and Israel said, 'That is enough! My son Joseph is still alive. I must go and see him before I die.'

b. This does not mean that they confess a theft, which in fact they had not committed, nor even that they are referring to their original offence against Joseph; it is simply that their present misfortune seems to prove God's anger and shows that they are sinful men.

46 Israel left with his possessions, and reached Beersheba. There he offered 1 sacrifices to the God of his father Isaac. •God spoke to Israel in a vision^b 2 at night, 'Jacob, Jacob', he said. 'I am here', he replied. •'I am God, the God of 3 your father', he continued. 'Do not be afraid of going down to Egypt, for I will make you a great nation there. •I myself will go down to Egypt with you. I myself 4 will bring you back again, and Joseph's hand shall close your eyes.' •Then Jacob 5 left Beersheba. Israel's sons conveyed their father Jacob, their little children and their wives in the waggons Pharaoh had sent to fetch him.

Taking their livestock and all that they had acquired in the land of Canaan, 6 they went to Egypt, Jacob and all his family with him: •his sons and his grand- 7 sons, his daughters and his grand-daughters, in a word, all his children he took with him to Egypt.

Simeon: Jemuel, Jamin, Ohad, Jachin, Zohar, and Shaul the son of the Canaanite 10 woman. •The sons of Levi: Gershon, Kohath, Merari. •The sons of Judah: Er, 11 Onan, Shelah, Perez, and Zerah (though Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan), 12 and Hezron and Hamul, sons of Perez. •The sons of Issachar: Tola, Puvah, 13 Jashub and Shimron. •The sons of Zebulun: Sered, Elon, Jahleel. •These are the 14 sons that Leah had born to Jacob in Paddan-aram, besides his daughter Dinah; 15 in all, his sons and daughters numbered thirty-three.

1 Ch 5:11

Israel sent Judah ahead to Joseph, so that the latter might present himself^e 28 to him in Goshen. When they arrived in the land of Goshen, •Joseph had his 29 chariot made ready and went up to meet his father Israel in Goshen. As soon as he appeared he threw his arms round his neck and for a long time wept on his shoulder. •Israel said to Joseph, 'Now I can die, now that I have seen you again, 30 and seen you still alive'.

45:15f

Then Joseph said to his brothers and his father's family, 'I will go up and 31 break the news to Pharaoh. I will tell him, "My brothers and my father's family 32 who were in the land of Canaan have come to me. •The men are shepherds and look after livestock, and they have brought their flocks and cattle and all their 33 possessions." •Thus, when Pharaoh summons you and asks, "What is your occu- 34 pation?", •you are to say, "Ever since our boyhood your servants have looked after livestock, we and our fathers before us". And so you will be able to stay in the land of Goshen.' For the Egyptians have a horror of all shepherds.^f

Pharaoh grants an audience

- 1 47 So Joseph went and told Pharaoh, 'My father and brothers, along with their flocks and cattle and all their possessions, have come from the land of Canaan and are now in the land of Goshen'. •He had taken five of his brothers, and he now presented them to Pharaoh. •Pharaoh asked his brothers, 'What is your occupation?' and they gave Pharaoh the answer, 'Your servants are shepherds, like our fathers before us'. •They went on to tell Pharaoh, 'We have come to stay for the present in this land, for there is no pasture for your servants' flocks, the land of Canaan is hard-pressed by famine. Now give your servants leave to stay in the land of Goshen.' •Then Pharaoh said to Joseph, •'They may stay in the land of Goshen, and if you know of any capable men among them, put them in charge of my own livestock'.

Another version^a

- 5b Jacob and his sons went to Egypt where Joseph was. Pharaoh, king of Egypt, heard of this and said to Joseph, 'Your father and brothers have come to you. The country of Egypt is open to you: settle your father and brothers in the best region.'^b •Joseph brought his father and presented him to Pharaoh. Jacob blessed Pharaoh. •Pharaoh asked Jacob, 'How many years of life can you reckon?' •'My life of wandering has lasted one hundred and thirty years,' Jacob told Pharaoh 'few years and unhappy, falling short of the years of my fathers in their life of wandering.' •Jacob blessed Pharaoh and left Pharaoh's presence. •Joseph settled his father and brothers, giving them a holding in the land of Egypt, and in the best region of the land, namely the land of Rameses,^c according to Pharaoh's command.
- 12 Joseph provided his father, brothers and all his father's family with food according to the number of their dependants.

Joseph's agrarian policy^d

- 13 There was no bread in the whole land, for the famine had grown so severe that the land of Egypt and the land of Canaan were weakened with hunger. 14 Joseph accumulated all the money there was to be found in the land of Egypt and in the land of Canaan, in return for the grain which men were buying, and he brought the money to Pharaoh's palace.
- 15 When all the money in the land of Egypt and in the land of Canaan had run out, the Egyptians all came to Joseph: 'Give us bread' they said. 'Have we to perish before your eyes? For our money has come to an end.' •Joseph answered, 'Hand over your livestock; I am willing to give you bread in exchange for your livestock, if your money has come to an end'. •So they brought their livestock to Joseph, and Joseph gave them bread, in exchange for horses and livestock, whether sheep or cattle, and for donkeys. Thus he fed them that year with bread, in exchange for all their livestock.
- 18 When that year was over, they came to him the next year, and said to him, 46 a. In this passage two traditions are reconciled: the 'Yahwistic' tradition makes Jacob-Israel set out from Hebron where it had left him, 37:14; the 'Elohistic' makes Beersheba his starting point.

b. The last of the patriarchal theophanies. God commands Jacob to go down to Egypt (the Exodus is already in view, v. 4) just as he had commanded Abraham to set out for Canaan, 12:1.

c. The 'Priestly' editor inserts here a list of Jacob's family; originally it had nothing to do with the descent into Egypt.

d. The Greek adds five descendants of Ephraim and Manasseh, making the total seventy-five as in Ac 7:14.

e. Lit. 'appear before' Sam., Syr.

f. The sentence sounds odd after Pharaoh's remark: it is probably an interpolation. Though giving local colour, it is an anachronism because it suggests the Egyptians' expulsion of the hated Hyksos, the foreign 'Shepherds', which took place at a later date.

47 a. 'Priestly' tradition of the settlement in Egypt.

b. The order here followed (5a,6b,5b,6a) is that of the Greek which adds 'Jacob and his sons... said to Joseph'.

c. Used here the name is an anachronism: it was at a later period that 'Rameses' (either Tanis or Qantir) got its name from Rameses II.

d. This 'Yahwistic' section follows on ch. 41. The Israelites, accustomed to the idea of private property, were surprised by the Egyptian system: almost all the land was crown property. The tradition represented here ascribes the system to Joseph. The moral aspect of confiscation does not interest the author.

'We cannot hide it from my lord: the truth is, our money has run out and the live-stock is in my lord's possession. There is nothing left for my lord except our bodies and our land. •Have we to perish before your eyes, we and our land? Buy us 19 and our land in exchange for bread; we with our land will be Pharaoh's serfs. But give us something to sow, that we may keep our lives and not die and the land may not become desolate.'

Thus Joseph acquired all the land in Egypt for Pharaoh, since one by one the 20 Egyptians sold their estates, so hard-pressed were they by the famine, and the whole country passed into Pharaoh's possession. •As for the people, he reduced 21 them to serfdom^e from one end of Egypt to the other. •The only land he 22 did not acquire belonged to the priests, for the priests received an allowance from Pharaoh and lived on the allowance that Pharaoh gave them. Therefore they did not have to sell their land.

Then Joseph said to the people, 'This is how we stand: I have bought you out, 23 with your land, on Pharaoh's behalf. Here is seed for you so that you can sow the land. •But when harvest comes you must give a fifth to Pharaoh. The other four- 24 fifths you can have for sowing your fields, to provide food for yourselves and your households, and food for your dependants.' •'You have saved our lives' they 25 replied. 'If we may enjoy my lord's favour, we will be Pharaoh's serfs.' •So Joseph 26 made a statute, still in force today, concerning the soil of Egypt: a fifth goes to Pharaoh. The land of the priests alone did not go to Pharaoh.

Jacob's last wishes^f

The Israelites stayed in the land of Egypt, in the country of Goshen. They 27 acquired property there; they were fruitful and increased in numbers greatly. 47:9 Jacob lived seventeen years in the land of Egypt, and the length of his life was a 28 =49:29- hundred and forty-seven years. •When Israel's time to die drew near he called his 32:50:6 son Joseph and said to him, 'If I enjoy your favour, place your hand under my 24:2+ thigh and promise to be kind and good to me, do not bury me in Egypt. •When I 14:3 sleep with my fathers, carry me out of Egypt and bury me in their tomb.' 'I will 1 K 1:47 do as you say' he replied. •'Swear to me' he insisted. So he swore to him, and 28:19;35:6 31 Israel sank back on the pillow.^g 11-12:48:2

Jacob adopts Joseph's two sons and blesses them^a

48 Some time later it was reported to Joseph, 'Your father has been taken 1 ill'. So he took with him his two sons Manasseh and Ephraim. •When 2 Jacob was told, 'Look, your son Joseph has come to you', Israel, summoning his strength, sat up in bed. •'El Shaddai appeared to me at Luz in the country of 3 Canaan,' Jacob told Joseph 'and he blessed me, •saying to me, "I will make you 4 fruitful and increase you in numbers. I will make you a group of peoples and give this country to your descendants after you, to own in perpetuity." •Now your two 5 sons, born to you in the land of Egypt before I came to you in Egypt, shall be mine; Ephraim and Manasseh shall be as much mine as Reuben and Simeon. •But 6 with regard to the children you have had since then, they shall be yours, and they shall be known by their brothers' names for the purpose of their inheritance. 35:16-20 'When I was on my way from Paddan, to my sorrow death took your mother^b 7 Rachel from me, in the land of Canaan, on the journey while we were still some distance from Ephrath. I buried her there on the road to Ephrath at Bethlehem.'

When Israel saw Joseph's two sons, he asked, 'Who are these?' •'They are my 8 sons, whom God has given me here' Joseph told his father. 'Then bring them 9 to me,' he said 'that I may bless them.' •Israel's sight was failing because of his 10 great age, and so he could not see. Joseph therefore made them come closer to him and he kissed and embraced them. •Then Israel said to Joseph, 'I did not 11 think that I should see you again, but God has let me see your family as well'. 50:23 Joseph took them from his lap and bowed to the ground.^c 12

1 Ch26:10 Joseph took hold of the two of them, Ephraim with his right hand so that he 13 should be on Israel's left, and Manasseh with his left hand, so that he should be on 14 Israel's right, and brought them close to him. •But Israel held out his right hand and laid it on the head of Ephraim, the younger, and his left on the head 15 of Manasseh, crossing his hands—Manasseh was, in fact, the elder. •Then he blessed Joseph saying:

‘May God in whose presence my fathers Abraham and Isaac walked, may God who has been my shepherd from my birth until this day, 16 may the angel who has been my saviour from all harm, bless these boys, may my name live on in them, and the names of my fathers Abraham and Isaac.

May they grow and increase on the earth.’

17 Joseph saw that his father was laying his right hand on the head of Ephraim, and this upset him. He took his father's hand and tried to shift it from the 18 head of Ephraim to the head of Manasseh. •Joseph protested to his father, ‘Not 19 like that, father! This one is the elder; put your right hand on his head.’^d •But his father refused. ‘I know, my son, I know’ he said. ‘He too shall become a people; he too shall be great. Yet his younger brother shall be greater than he, and his descendants shall become a multitude of nations.’^e

e. ‘he reduced them to serfdom’ Sam., Greek.

f. ‘Yahwistic’ tradition with a ‘Priestly’ annotation, vv. 27-28.

g. Lit. ‘bowed himself upon the head of his bed’. Through confusing mittah ‘bed’ with matteh ‘staff’ the Greek version makes Jacob ‘bow over his staff’.

48 a. This chapter is an amalgam of several traditions: ‘Yahwistic-Elohistic’, vv. 1-2,7-22; and ‘Priestly’, vv. 3-6. These traditions use Jacob's dying bequest to show why it was that Manasseh and Ephraim, sons of Joseph, became fathers of tribes with the same status as that of Jacob's sons, why also their two tribes prospered and why Ephraim's outstripped Manasseh's.

b. ‘your mother’ Sam., Greek.

c. The children are placed in Jacob's lap (lit. ‘between the knees’), evidently part of a rite of adoption, cf. 16:2 and 30:3. Joseph receives them back and prostrates himself to receive with them his father's blessing.

d. The very gestures of blessing are considered efficacious and the right hand is more beneficent than the left.

e. Ephraim did in fact become the most influential of the northern group of tribes and the nucleus of the future kingdom of Israel.

f. ‘May you be’ Targ., Greek.

g. There is a play on the Hebrew word shekem which means ‘shoulder’ but is also the name of the town and district of Shechem which was to become the property of the sons of Joseph where Joseph himself was to be buried, Jos 24:32. Jacob parcels out the Holy Land just as a paterfamilias, or the presiding personage, assigns the portions in a sacrificial banquet, 1 S 1:4f, the shoulder being one of the choicest parts, 1 S 9:23-24. This is an isolated piece of tradition dealing with Jacob's apportionment of Canaan and an armed conquest of Shechem where, according to 33:19, Jacob had done no more than buy a field.

49 a. These are oracles rather than blessings, cf. v. 1; in words which are themselves operative the patriarch foretells the destiny of his sons, i.e., of the tribes bearing their names. Doubtless the oracles allude to events of the patriarchal age (Reuben, Simeon, Levi) but they deal with a much later historical situation. The high honour assigned to Judah and the tribute paid to the House of Joseph (Ephraim and Manasseh) point to a period when those tribes together played a leading part in the life of the nation; in its final form the poem cannot be earlier than David's time but many parts of it date from before the monarchy. The poem was inserted in Gn at a relatively late date; it is impossible to ascribe it to any of the three great ‘sources’ with any certainty. Cf. the list of tribes in the (earlier) Song of Deborah, Jg 5, and in the (later) Blessings of Moses, Dt 33.

The Egyptians mourned him for seventy days. •When the period of mourning for him was over, Joseph said to Pharaoh's household, 'If I may presume to enjoy your favour, please see that this message reaches Pharaoh's ears, •"My father made me swear an oath: I am about to die, he said, I have a tomb which I dug for myself in the land of Canaan, and there you must bury me. Joseph went up to bury his father, all Pharaoh's servants and the palace dignitaries going up with him, joined by all the dignitaries of the land of Egypt, •as well as all Joseph's family and his brothers, along with his father's family. They left no one in the land of Goshen but their dependants,^b with their flocks and their cattle. •Chariots also and horsemen went up with them; it was a very large retinue. 9

Now therefore, we beg you, 17
37:7-11 forgive the crime of the servants of your father's God.' Joseph wept at the message they sent to him. 15 16

His brothers came themselves and fell down before him. 'We present ourselves before you' they said 'as your slaves.' •But Joseph answered them, 'Do not be afraid; is it for me to put myself in God's place? •The evil you planned to do me has by God's design been turned to good, that he might bring about, as indeed he has, the deliverance of a numerous people. •So you need not be afraid; I myself will provide for you and your dependants.' In this way he reassured them with words that touched their hearts. 18 19 20

So Joseph stayed in Egypt with his father's family; and Joseph lived a hundred and ten years. •Joseph saw the third generation of Ephraim's children, as also the children of Machir, Manasseh's son, who were born on Joseph's lap. •At length Joseph said to his brothers, 'I am about to die; but God will be sure to remember you kindly and take you back from this country to the land that he promised on oath to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob'. •And Joseph made Israel's sons swear an oath, 22 23 24
Ex 13:19 Jos 24:32 Si 49:15 Heb11:22 'When God remembers you with kindness be sure to take my bones from here'. 25

- 26 Joseph died at the age of a hundred and ten; they embalmed him and laid him in his coffin in Egypt. Ex 1:6

y. V. 32 is wanting in Vulg.
50 a. This chapter mingles the 'Yahwistic' and the 'Elohistic' traditions; there is also a trace, vv. 12-13, of the 'Priestly' tradition.

b. The usual translation is 'the small children', but the Hebrew word here and in certain other places has a wider meaning: dependants (43:8; 47:12; 50:21).

c. Goren-ha-atad means 'Threshing-floor of the Bramble'; Abel-mizraim ('Meadow of Egypt') gives opportunity for a play on words ('abel 'meadow' and 'ebel 'mourning'). Neither locality is known. There are traces here of a tradition other than that relating to the family grave at Machpelah, namely that Jacob had prepared a separate tomb for himself, cf. v. 5 and 48:7.

EXODUS

I. THE LIBERATION FROM EGYPT

A. ISRAEL IN EGYPT^a

The prosperity of the Hebrews in Egypt

¹ These are the names of the sons of Israel who went with Jacob to Egypt, ² each with his family: •Reuben, Simeon, Levi and Judah, •Issachar, Zebulun ³ and Benjamin, •Dan and Naphtali, Gad and Asher. •In all, the descendants of ⁴ Jacob numbered seventy persons. Joseph was in Egypt already.^b •Then Joseph ⁵ died, and his brothers, and all that generation. •But the sons of Israel were fruitful ⁶ and grew in numbers greatly; they increased and grew so immensely powerful ⁷ that they filled the land.

The Hebrews oppressed

Then there came to power in Egypt a new king who knew nothing of Joseph. ⁸ 'Look,' he said to his subjects 'these people, the sons of Israel, have become so ⁹ numerous and strong that they are a threat to us. •We must be prudent and ¹⁰ take steps against their increasing any further, or if war should break out, they might add to the number of our enemies. They might take arms against us and so escape out of the country.' •Accordingly they put slave-drivers over the ¹¹ Israelites to wear them down under heavy loads.^c In this way they built the ¹² store-cities of Pithom and Rameses^d for Pharaoh.^e •But the more they were ¹³ crushed, the more they increased and spread, and men came to dread the sons ¹⁴ of Israel. •The Egyptians forced the sons of Israel into slavery, •and made ¹⁵ their lives unbearable with hard labour, work with clay and with brick, all ¹⁶ kinds of work in the fields; they forced on them every kind of labour.

The king of Egypt then spoke to the Hebrew midwives, one of whom was ¹⁵ named Shiprah, and the other Puah. •'When you midwives attend Hebrew ¹⁶ women,' he said 'watch the two stones^f carefully. If it is a boy, kill him; if a girl, let her live.' •But the midwives were God-fearing: they disobeyed the command ¹⁷ of the king of Egypt and let the boys live. •So the king of Egypt summoned the ¹⁸ midwives. 'Why' he asked them 'have you done this and spared the boys?' •'The ¹⁹ Hebrew women are not like Egyptian women,' they answered Pharaoh 'they are ²⁰ hardy, and they give birth before the midwife reaches them.' •God was kind ²¹ to the midwives. The people went on increasing and grew very powerful; •since ²² the midwives revered God he granted them descendants.

Pharaoh then gave his subjects this command: 'Throw all the boys born to ²² the Hebrews into the river,^g but let all the girls live'.

B. EARLY LIFE AND CALL OF MOSES

The birth of Moses^a

- 1 2 There was a man of the tribe of Levi who had taken a woman of Levi as his 2 wife. •She conceived and gave birth to a son and, seeing what a fine child he 3 was, she kept him hidden for three months. •When she could hide him no longer, she got a papyrus basket for him; coating it with bitumen and pitch, she put the 4 child inside and laid it among the reeds at the river's edge. •His sister stood some distance away to see what would happen to him.
 5 Now Pharaoh's daughter went down to bathe in the river, and the girls attending her were walking along by the riverside. Among the reeds she noticed 6 the basket, and she sent her maid to fetch it. •She opened it and looked,^b and saw a baby boy, crying; and she was sorry for him. 'This is a child of one of the 7 Hebrews' she said. •Then the child's sister said to Pharaoh's daughter,
 'Shall I go and find you a nurse among the Hebrew women to suckle the child
 8 for you?' •'Yes, go' Pharaoh's daughter said to her; and the girl went off to find 9 the baby's own mother. •To her the daughter of Pharaoh said, 'Take this child away and suckle it for me. I will see you are paid.' So the woman took the child 10 and suckled it. •When the child grew up, she brought him to Pharaoh's daughter who treated him like a son; she named him Moses because, she said, 'I drew him out of the water'.^c

Moses escapes to Midian^d

- 11 Moses, a man by now,^e set out at this time to visit his countrymen, and he saw what a hard life they were having; and he saw an Egyptian strike a Hebrew, one 12 of his countrymen. •Looking round he could see no one in sight, so he killed the 13 Egyptian and hid him in the sand. •On the following day he came back, and there were two Hebrews, fighting. He said to the man who was in the wrong, 'What 14 do you mean by hitting your fellow countryman?' •'And who appointed you' the man retorted, 'to be prince over us, and judge? Do you intend to kill me as you killed the Egyptian?' Moses was frightened. 'Clearly that business has 15 come to light' he thought. •When Pharaoh heard of the matter he would have killed Moses, but Moses fled from Pharaoh and made for the land of Midian.^f
 And he sat down beside a well.
 16 Now the priest of Midian had seven daughters. They came to draw water and 17 fill the troughs to water their father's sheep. •Shepherds came and drove them
 18 away, but Moses came to their defence and watered their sheep for them. •When

1 a. Vv. 1-5 are from the 'Priestly' source, the remainder of ch. 1 being ascribed to the 'Yahwistic' (vv. 6-14) and 'Elohistic' (vv. 15f) traditions. The author does not describe the life of the Israelite communities in Egypt; he mentions only what is to his purpose. This purpose is to write a religious history: the increase in numbers of Jacob's descendants and the Egyptian persecution are recorded because they lead up to the account of the Exodus and of the Sinaitic Covenant. For the historical setting of these events see Introduction to the Pentateuch.

b. The Greek reads 'seventy-five', cf. Gn 46:27+, and makes 'Joseph was in Egypt' the opening of the verse.

c. For their massive undertakings oriental kings always used forced labour; in Israel, David was to do so, 2 S 20:24, and especially Solomon, 1 K 4:6; 5:28, etc.

d. Residence in the Delta of Pharaoh Rameses II; to be identified either with Tanis or with Qantir.

e. The Egyptian is Per-aa, 'the great House', conventional designation of the Palace or Court and, from the 18th dynasty onwards, of the king's own person.

f. The brick couch on which the woman lay while in labour (or possibly the sex organs of the infant?); Syr. 'the two knees'; the Greek interprets freely 'when they are about to give birth'.

g. The word indicates the Nile, the great river of Egypt, but is also used of its main branches.

2 a. Attributed to the 'Yahwistic-Elohistic' tradition, or else to the 'Elohistic' alone.

b. The Hebr. has '(saw) the child', a gloss absent from the Greek.

c. Popular etymology of Moses' name (Hebr. mosheh) from the verb mashah 'to draw out'.

d. Vv. 11-22 (or, as some think, only 15-22) belong to the 'Yahwistic' tradition.

e. Josephus and Philo give legendary details of Moses' education. Ac 7:22 merely observes that he was instructed in all the wisdom of the Egyptians.

f. Midian lies to the south of Edom and to the east of the Gulf of Aqaba. Gn 25:1-4 connects the Midianites with a group of Arab tribes descended from Abraham's wife Keturah. These nomads frequent the highways of Palestine, Gn 37:28,36, and of the Sinai peninsula, Nb 10:29-32; they raid as far afield as Moab, Gn 36:35, where they later come to blows with the Hebrews, Nb 22:4,7; 25:6-18; 31:1-9; Jos 13:21. They were to be soundly beaten by Gideon, Jg 6-8; cf. Is 9:3; 10:26; Ps 83:9. At 'the end of times' Midian will come and pay homage to Yahweh, Is 60:6.

they returned to their father Reuel,^a he said to them, 'You are back early today!' 'An Egyptian protected us from the shepherds;' they said 'yes, and he drew 19 water for us and watered the flock.' 'And where is he?' he asked his daughters. 20 'Why did you leave the man there? Ask him to eat with us.' •So Moses settled 21 with this man, who gave him his daughter Zipporah in marriage. •She gave birth 22 to a son, and he named him Gershom^b because, he said, 'I am a stranger in a foreign land'.^c

THE CALL OF MOSES

God remembers Israel^d

Ne 9:9 During this long period the king of Egypt died. The sons of Israel, groaning 23 in their slavery, cried out for help and from the depths of their slavery their cry came up to God. •God heard their groaning and he called to mind his covenant 24 with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. •God looked down upon the sons of Israel, and 25 he knew...^e

Moses looked; there was the bush blazing but it was not being burnt up. •'I must go and look at this strange sight, 3 Moses said 'and see why the bush is not burnt.' •Now Yahweh saw him go forward 4 to look, and God called to him from the middle of the bush. 'Moses, Moses!' he said. 'Here I am' he answered. •'Come no nearer' he^d said. Take off your 5 shoes, for the place on which you stand is holy ground. •I am the God of your 6 father,' he said 'the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob.' At this Moses covered his face, afraid to look at God.^e

g. Another tradition makes Jethro father-in-law of Moses (3:1:4:18). Yet another calls him Hobab (Jg 1:16; 4:11). 'Reuel' here may be the result of a mistaken interpretation of Nb 10:29.

h. Popular etymology, accounting only for the first syllable; ger, a resident alien, cf. 12:48.

i. Vulg. (following 18:4) adds 'She gave birth to another whom he named Eliezer because, he said, the God of my father is my help, he has delivered me from the hand of Pharaoh'.

j. 'Priestly' tradition.

k. The verse does not yield satisfactory sense; probably the end is missing.

3 a. This first account (3-4) of Moses' call combines 'Yahwistic' with 'Elohistic' elements. There is a second account, 'Priestly', in 6:2-13 and 6:28-7:7.

b. The 'Elohistic' tradition uses this alternative name for Sinai.

c. God himself as manifesting himself to man. Cf. Gn 16:7+.

d. Yahweh.

e. God's majesty is such that no man can gaze on it and live.

f. Description of the Promised Land frequent in the Pentateuch.

g. Some identify the promised sign with the safe arrival at Sinai, but others break the sentence after 'who have sent you' and hold that the sign described in 4:1-9 has been omitted from this place.

h. According to the 'Yahwistic' tradition the worship of Yahweh went back to the days before the Flood; Gn 4:26. According to the 'Priestly' tradition Yahweh revealed himself to the patriarchs under the name El-Shaddai (cf. Gn 17:1+); Ex 6:2-3. In this passage, which belongs to the 'Elohistic' tradition, it is at this time that God reveals the name Yahweh; by this name he wishes to be invoked in future by the children of Israel. This narrative, a peak of Old Testament revelation, presents two difficulties: the first is philological—the etymology of the name Yahweh; the second is exegetical and theological—the meaning of the narrative as a whole and the significance of the revelation that it conveys. 1. The etymology: attempts have been made to explain the name Yahweh (abridged forms like Yaho, Yah etc. are found in both biblical and non-biblical texts) from various Hebr. roots but there seems little doubt that it is an archaic form of the verb 'to be'. 2. The interpretation: a. It may be that Yahweh is used here to imply the impossibility of giving an adequate definition of God. In semitic thought, knowledge of a name gave power over the thing named; to know a god's name was to be able to call on him and be certain of a hearing. The true God does not make himself man's slave in this way by revealing a name expressive of his essence; this refusal to reveal is contained in the formula Ehyeh asher ehyeh ('I am who I am', 'I am what I am') which, in the third person, becomes Yahweh, 'He is'. Understood in this fashion the name does not define God; nevertheless, for Israel it will always call to mind God's great deliverance of his chosen people and the divine generosity, fidelity and power that prompted it. In Christian thought this interpretation brings out the transcendence of a God for whom man can never find a worthy name. b. Tradition, however, following the Septuagint, has commonly preferred to take Ehyeh asher ehyeh as meaning 'I am the One who is', 'I am who am'; the name Yahweh, 'He is', would then express not necessarily the absolute nature of God's essence as a later philosophy and theology were to state it, but at least God's unlimited existence as opposed to the 'nothingness' of the gods. Cf. Is 42:8+.

i. The verb 'to visit' signifies a special divine intervention whether to save or to avenge.

j. 'unless he is forced by a mighty hand' Greek and Vulg.; 'not even by a mighty hand' Hebr.

Aaron, the mouthpiece of Moses

Jr 1:6-10 Moses said to Yahweh, ‘But, my Lord, never in my life have I been a man 10 of eloquence, either before or since you have spoken to your servant. I am a slow speaker and not able to speak well.’ •‘Who gave man his mouth?’ 11 Yahweh answered him. ‘Who makes him dumb or deaf, gives him sight or leaves him blind? Is it not I, Yahweh? •Now go, I shall help you to speak and tell you 12 what to say.’

7:1-2 ‘If it please you, my Lord,’ Moses replied ‘send anyone you will!’ •At this, 13 the anger of Yahweh blazed out against Moses, and he said to him, ‘There is your brother Aaron the Levite, is there not? I know that he is a good speaker. Here 14 he comes to meet you. When he sees you, his heart will be full of joy. •You will 15 speak to him and tell him what message to give. I shall help you to speak, and him too, and instruct you what to do. •He himself is to speak to the people 16 in your place; he will be your mouthpiece, and you will be as the god inspiring him. •And take this staff into your hand;^b with this you will perform 17 the signs.’

Moses returns to Egypt. He leaves Midian

2:18+ Moses went away and returned to his father-in-law Jethro, and said to him, 18 ‘Give me leave to go back to my relatives in Egypt to see if they are still alive’. And Jethro said to Moses, ‘Go in peace’.

Mt 2:20 Yahweh said to Moses in Midian, ‘Go, return to Egypt, for all those who 19 wanted to kill you are dead’. •So Moses took his wife and his son^c and, putting 20 them on a donkey, started back for the land of Egypt; and Moses took in his hand the staff of God. •Yahweh said to Moses, ‘Now that you are going back 21 to Egypt, be prepared to perform before Pharaoh all the marvels that I have given you power to do. I myself will harden his heart,^d and he will not let the 22 people go. •Then you will say to Pharaoh, “This is what Yahweh says: Israel 23 is my first-born son. •I ordered you to let my son go to offer me worship. You refuse to let him go. So be it! I shall put your first-born to death”.’

Gn32:25-33 The son of Moses circumcised^e

Jos5:2-3+ On the journey, when Moses had halted for the night, Yahweh^f came to meet 24 him and tried to kill him. •At once Zipporah, taking up a flint, cut off her son’s foreskin and with it she touched the genitals^g of Moses. ‘Truly, you are a bridegroom of blood to me!’ she said. •And Yahweh let him live. It was then that she 26 said, ‘bridegroom of blood’ on account of the circumcision.

Moses meets Aaron

Ps105:26 Yahweh said to Aaron, ‘Go into the wilderness to meet Moses’. And so he 27 went, and met him at the mountain of God; and he kissed him. •Moses then 28 told Aaron all that Yahweh had said when he set him his task and all the signs he had ordered him to perform. •Moses and Aaron then went and gathered all 29

30 the elders of the sons of Israel together, •and Aaron told all that Yahweh had said 4:2-9 31 to Moses, and in the sight of the people he performed the signs. •The people were Nb 16:28 convinced, and they rejoiced^a that Yahweh had visited the sons of Israel and Jn 2:11 seen their misery, and they bowed down and worshipped. 14:31

The first audience with Pharaoh^a

1 5 After this, Moses and Aaron went to Pharaoh and said to him, 'This is what Yahweh, the God of Israel, has said, "Let my people go, so that they may 2 keep a feast in the wilderness in honour of me."' •'Who is Yahweh,' Pharaoh replied 'that I should listen to him and let Israel go? I know nothing of Yahweh, 3 and I will not let Israel go.' •'The God of the Hebrews has come to meet us' they replied. 'Give us leave to make a three days' journey into the wilderness to offer sacrifice to Yahweh our God, or he will come down on us with a plague or with 4 the sword.' •The king of Egypt said to them, 'Moses and Aaron, what do you mean by taking the people away from their work? Get back to your labouring.' Ws 19:16
5 And Pharaoh said, 'Now that these common folk have grown to such numbers, do you want to stop them labouring?'

Instructions to the slave-drivers

6 That same day, Pharaoh gave this command to the people's slave-drivers and 7 to the overseers. •'Up to the present, you have provided these people with straw^b for brickmaking. Do so no longer; let them go and gather straw for themselves. 8 All the same, you are to get from them the same number of bricks as before, not reducing it at all. They are lazy, and that is why their cry is, "Let us go and offer 9 sacrifice to our God". •Make these men work harder than ever, so that they do not have time to stop and listen to glib speeches.'

10 The people's slave-drivers went out with the overseers to speak to the people. 11 'Pharaoh has given orders' they said: ' "I will not provide you with straw. •Go out and collect straw for yourselves wherever you can find it. But your output 12 is not to be any less." ' •So the people scattered all over the land of Egypt to 13 gather stubble for making chopped straw. •The slave-drivers harassed them. 'Every day you must complete your daily quota,' they said 'just as you did when 14 straw was provided for you.' •And the foremen who had been appointed for the sons of Israel by Pharaoh's slave-drivers were flogged, and they were asked, 'Why have you not produced your full amount of bricks as before, either yesterday or today?'

The Hebrew foremen complain

15 The foremen for the sons of Israel went to Pharaoh and complained. 'Why 16 do you treat your servants so?' they said. •'No straw is provided for your servants and still the cry is, "Make bricks!" And now your servants have been flogged! . . . ' 17 'You are lazy, lazy' he answered 'that is why you say, "Let us go and offer 18 sacrifice to Yahweh". •Get back to your work at once. You shall not get any straw, but you must deliver the number of bricks due from you.'

4 a. V. 4b interrupts Yahweh's discourse which is resumed in v. 5; before v. 5 we must understand 'Do this' or its equivalent.

b. Moses receives his staff back from God (hence his name 'staff of God', cf. v. 20); it is to be an instrument of wonders, 7:20b; 9:22f; 10:13f; etc. Cf. the staff of Elisha, 2 K. 4:29.

c. 'his son' corr.; 'his sons' Hebr.

d. Mode of expression common among the Hebrews; it ascribes to God the action of men. Cf. Is 6:10 and Mt 13:10-15p.

e. A mysterious narrative difficult to interpret. We have given the commonly accepted translation. Moses is on his way home and Yahweh is bent on killing him (cf. Jacob's struggle with God, Gn 32:25-33). It seems fairly clear it is because Moses is uncircumcised (on circumcision, cf. Gn 17:10+). Zipporah, therefore, circumcises her son and simulates circumcision for her husband by touching his male organ with her son's foreskin.

f. 'Yahweh'; 'the angel of Yahweh' Greek.

g. Lit. 'the feet', cf. Is 6:2; 7:20.

h. 'rejoiced' Greek; 'understood' Hebr.

5 a. Vv. 1-4 (except 3) are 'Elohistic'; the section 5:5-6:1 is 'Yahwistic'.

b. Chopped straw was mixed with the clay to give consistency to the unbaked brick.

c. The Massoretic text of the last part of the v., 'the sin of your people', does not make sense.

The dilemma of the foremen. Moses prays

The foremen for the sons of Israel saw themselves in a very difficult position 19 when told there was to be no reduction in the daily number of bricks. •As they 20 left Pharaoh's presence they met Moses and Aaron who were waiting for them. 14:12 'May Yahweh see your work and punish you as you deserve!' they said to them. 21 'You have made us hated by Pharaoh and his court; you have put a sword into Nb11:11 their hand to kill us.' •Once more Moses turned to Yahweh. 'Lord,' he said 22 to him 'why do you treat this people so harshly? Why did you send me here? Ever since I came to Pharaoh and spoke to him in your name, he has ill-treated 23 this nation, and you have done nothing to deliver your people.' 6 Then Yahweh 1 said to Moses, 'You will see now how I shall punish Pharaoh. He will be forced to let them go; yes, he will be forced to send them out of his land.'

Another account of the call of Moses^a

God spoke to Moses and said to him, 'I am Yahweh. •To Abraham and Isaac 2 3 and Jacob I appeared as El Shaddai; I did not make myself known to them by my name Yahweh. •Also, I made my covenant with them to give them the land 4 of Canaan, the land they lived in as strangers. •And I have heard the groaning 5 of the sons of Israel, enslaved by the Egyptians, and have remembered my covenant. •Say this, then, to the sons of Israel, "I am Yahweh. I will free you of 6 the burdens which the Egyptians lay on you. I will release you from slavery to them, and with my arm outstretched^b and my strokes of power I will deliver you. 2 S 7:24 I will adopt you as my own people,^c and I will be your God. Then you shall 7 know that it is I, Yahweh your God, who have freed you from the Egyptians' burdens. •Then I will bring you to the land I swore that I would give to Abraham, 8 and Isaac, and Jacob, and will give it to you for your own; I, Yahweh, will do 14:12 this!"' •Moses told this to the sons of Israel, but they would not listen to him, 9 so crushed was their spirit and so cruel their slavery.

Yahweh then said to Moses, •'Go to Pharaoh, king of Egypt, and tell him to 10 let the sons of Israel leave his land'. •But Moses answered to Yahweh's face: 12 4:10 'Look,' said he 'since the sons of Israel have not listened to me, why should Pharaoh listen to me, a man slow of speech?'^d •Yahweh spoke to Moses and 13 Aaron and ordered them both to go to Pharaoh, king of Egypt, and to bring the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt.

The genealogy of Moses and Aaron

Nb26:5-14 These are the heads of their families: 14
The sons of Reuben, Israel's first-born: Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron and Carmi: these are the clans of Reuben.
The sons of Simeon: Jemuel, Jamin, Ohad, Jachin, Zohar, and Shaul, son of 15 the Canaanite woman: these are the clans of Simeon.
Gn46:11 Nb 3:17f; 26:57 These are the names of the sons of Levi with their descendants: Gershon, 16 Kohath and Merari. Levi lived for a hundred and thirty-seven years. •The sons 17 of Gershon: Libni and Shimei and their clans.
1 Ch5:28 The sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron and Uzziel. Kohath lived for 18 a hundred and thirty-three years.
1 Ch6:14 The sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi. These are the clans of Levi with their 19 descendants.
2:1-2 Nb26:59 Amram married Jochebed, his aunt, who bore him Aaron and Moses. Amram 20 lived for a hundred and thirty-seven years.
The sons of Izhar were: Korah, Nepheg and Zichri. 21
And the sons of Uzziel: Mishael, Elzaphan and Sithri. 22
Aaron married Elisheba, daughter of Amminadab and sister of Nahshon, 23 and she bore him Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar.
The sons of Korah: Assir, Elkanah and Abiasaph. These are the clans of the 24 Korahites.

- 25 Eleazar, son of Aaron, married one of Putiel's daughters who bore him Phinehas. Nb25:6-13
Jos 22:13

These are the heads of families of the Levites according to their clans.

- 26 It was to this same Aaron and Moses that Yahweh had said, 'Bring the sons 27 of Israel out of the land of Egypt in battle order'. •It was they who spoke with Pharaoh, king of Egypt, about bringing the sons of Israel out of Egypt. It was the same Moses and Aaron.

The narrative of Moses' call resumed

3:1;6:2-13

- 28 On the day when Yahweh spoke to Moses in the land of Egypt, •he said 29 this to him, 'I am Yahweh. Tell Pharaoh, king of Egypt, all that I say to you.'
30 But Moses said to Yahweh's face, 'I am slow of speech, why should Pharaoh listen to me?'

- 1 7 Yahweh said to Moses, 'See, I make you as a god for Pharaoh, and Aaron 2 your brother is to be your prophet. •You yourself must tell him all I command you, and Aaron your brother will tell Pharaoh to let the sons of Israel leave 3 his land. •I myself will make Pharaoh's heart stubborn, and perform many 4 a sign and wonder in the land of Egypt. •Pharaoh will not listen to you, and so I will lay my hand on Egypt and with strokes of power lead out my armies, 5 my people, the sons of Israel, from the land of Egypt. •And all^a the Egyptians shall come to know that I am Yahweh when I stretch out my hand against Egypt 6 and bring out the sons of Israel from their midst.' •Moses and Aaron obeyed;
7 they did what Yahweh commanded them. •Moses was eighty years old, and Aaron eighty-three at the time of their audience with Pharaoh.

C. THE PLAGUES OF EGYPT^b — THE PASSOVER

The staff turned into a serpent

- 8 Yahweh said to Moses and Aaron, •'If Pharaoh says to you, "Produce some 9 marvel", you must say to Aaron, "Take your staff and throw it down in front 10 of Pharaoh, and let it turn into a serpent"'. •To Pharaoh, then, Moses and Aaron duly went, and they did as Yahweh commanded. Aaron threw down 11 his staff in front of Pharaoh and his court, and it turned into a serpent. •Then Pharaoh in his turn called for the sages and the sorcerers, and with their 12 witchcraft the magicians of Egypt did the same. •Each threw his staff down and these turned into serpents. But Aaron's staff swallowed up the staffs of the 13 magicians. •Yet Pharaoh's heart was stubborn and, as Yahweh had foretold, he would not listen to Moses and Aaron.

6 a. 6:2-7:7: 'Priestly' narrative, parallel with 3-4, of the call of Moses. According to this tradition the divine name (v. 2) was revealed in three stages: Elohim, El-Shaddai, Yahweh. The people refuse to listen to Moses (v. 9, cf. 4:31). Aaron will interpret Moses to Pharaoh (7:1) and not, as in 4:10-16, to the people.

b. I.e., 'ready to strike'. Expression frequent in Dt where it is coupled with 'a mighty hand', Dt 4:34; 5:15; 7:19; 26:8, etc.

c. The twin expressions of Israel's election, 'my people', 'your God', occur often in the Pentateuch and in certain of the prophets, e.g., Jeremiah, Ezekiel.

d. Lit. 'uncircumcised of lip'.

7 a. 'all' Sam. and Greek.

b. It is most probable that in this narrative of the plagues we must recognise a variety of traditions, though it is difficult to decide precisely what belongs to each. The 'Priestly' tradition ranges Aaron with Moses against the magicians; the miracles worked by Aaron with the help of the staff are designed to prove that Moses is God's envoy. According to the 'Yahwistic' tradition Moses goes alone to Pharaoh and asks permission to take his people to worship God in the desert; and it is Yahweh himself who inflicts and arrests the threatened plague. It is more difficult to isolate the 'Elohistic' tradition: to it we should perhaps assign the sections in which the miracles are worked by Moses himself, with or without the 'staff of God'. In none of the three traditions thus constituted do we find all ten plagues: the 'Yahwistic' has seven (or six), the others four (or five) each; the death of the first-born is common to all three. The exploit described in the 'Yahwistic' tradition is elaborated in the 'Elohistic' and still further developed in Ps 78 and 105, Ws 11:14-20; 16:1-18:25. Nevertheless, local colour is not lacking, especially in the account of the plagues; these reflect phenomena or natural disasters common in Egypt. But it is more important to note the underlying purpose of the author, namely, to show that these divinely inflicted disasters prove how God's power was being truly exercised on behalf of his people.

people go. •In the morning go to him as he makes his way to the water and wait for him by the bank of the river. In your hand take the staff that turned into a serpent. •Say to him, "Yahweh, the God of the Hebrews, has sent me to say: Let my people go to offer me worship in the wilderness. Now, so far you have not listened. •Here is Yahweh's message: That I am Yahweh you shall learn by this: with the staff that is in my hand^a I will strike the water of the river and it shall be changed into blood. •The fish in the river will die, and the river will smell so foul that the Egyptians will not want to drink the water of it."

Yahweh said to Moses, 'Say this to Aaron, "Take your staff and stretch out your hand over the waters of Egypt, over their rivers and their canals, their marshland, and all their reservoirs, and let them turn to blood throughout the land of Egypt, even down to the contents of every tub or jar"'. •Moses and Aaron did as Yahweh commanded. He raised his staff and in the sight of Pharaoh and his court he struck the waters of the river, and all the water in the river changed to blood. •The fish in the river died, and the river smelt so foul that the Egyptians found it impossible to drink its water. Throughout the land of Egypt there was blood. •But the magicians of Egypt used their witchcraft to do the same, so that Pharaoh's heart was stubborn and, as Yahweh had foretold, he would not listen to Moses and Aaron. •Pharaoh turned away and went back into his palace, taking no notice even of this. •Meanwhile, all the Egyptians dug holes along the banks of the river in search of drinking water; they found the water of the river impossible to drink. •After Yahweh had struck the river, seven days passed.

The second plague: the frogs

Then Yahweh said to Moses, 'Go to Pharaoh and say to him, "This is Yahweh's message: Let my people go to offer me worship. •If you refuse to let them go, know that I will plague the whole of your country with frogs. •The river will swarm with them; they will make their way into your palace, into your bedroom, on to your bed, into the houses of your courtiers and of your subjects, into your ovens, into your kneading bowls. •The frogs will even climb all over you, over your courtiers, and over all your subjects."

Gn 41:8

Yahweh said to Moses, 'Say this to Aaron, "Stretch out your hand, with your staff, over the rivers, the canals, the marshland, and make frogs swarm all over the land of Egypt"'. •So Aaron stretched out his hand over the waters of Egypt, and the frogs came up and covered the land of Egypt. •But the magicians did the same with their witchcraft, and made frogs swarm all over the land of Egypt.

Pharaoh summoned Moses and Aaron, 'Entreat Yahweh' he said 'to rid me and my subjects of the frogs, and I promise to let the people go and offer sacrifice to Yahweh.' •Moses answered Pharaoh, 'Take this chance to get the better of me!^a When I pray on your account and for your courtiers, and for your subjects, what time am I to fix for the frogs to leave you and your subjects and your houses, and stay in the river?' •'Tomorrow' Pharaoh said. 'It shall be as you say' answered Moses. 'By this you shall learn that Yahweh our God has no equal. •The frogs will go from you and your palaces, your courtiers and your subjects; they will stay in the river.' •When Moses and Aaron had gone from Pharaoh's presence, Moses pleaded with Yahweh about the frogs with which he had afflicted Pharaoh. •And Yahweh granted Moses' prayer: in house and courtyard and field the frogs died. •They piled them up in heaps and the land reeked of them. •But as soon as he saw that relief had been granted, Pharaoh became adamant again and, as Yahweh had foretold, he refused to listen to Moses and Aaron.

The third plague: the mosquitoes

Ws 19:10

Then Yahweh said to Moses, 'Say this to Aaron, "Stretch out your rod and strike the dust on the ground: throughout the land of Egypt it will turn into

¹³ mosquitoes”’. •Aaron stretched out his hand, with his staff, and struck the ¹⁷ dust on the ground. The mosquitoes attacked men and beasts; throughout the ¹⁴ land of Egypt the dust on the ground turned into mosquitoes. •The magicians ¹⁸ with their witchcraft tried to produce mosquitoes and failed. The mosquitoes ¹⁵ attacked men and beasts. •So the magicians said to Pharaoh, ‘This is the finger ¹⁹ of God’. But Pharaoh’s heart was stubborn and, as Yahweh had foretold, he refused to listen to Moses and Aaron. Ps105:31

The fourth plague: the gadflies

¹⁶ Then Yahweh said to Moses, ‘Get up early in the morning and wait for ²⁰ Pharaoh as he makes his way to the water. Say to him, “This is Yahweh’s message: ¹⁷ Let my people go to offer me worship. •But if you do not let my people go, I shall ²¹ send gadflies on you, on your courtiers and your palaces. The houses of the ¹⁸ Egyptians will be infested with them, and even the very ground they stand on. ²² But I shall set apart the land of Goshen, where my people live, on that day; ¹⁹ there will be no gadflies there, and so you may know that I, Yahweh, am in ²³ the midst of the land. •I shall make a distinction^b between my people and yours. ²⁰ This sign shall take place tomorrow.”’ •Yahweh did this, and great swarms of ²⁴ gadflies found their way into Pharaoh’s palace, into the houses of his courtiers, and into all the land of Egypt, and ruined the country. Ws 16:9
Gn 47:1f

²¹ Pharaoh summoned Moses and Aaron. ‘Go’ he said ‘and offer sacrifice to ²² your God, but in this country!’ •‘That would not be right’ Moses answered. ²³ ‘We sacrifice to Yahweh our God animals which Egyptians count it sacrilege ²⁴ to slaughter. If we offer in front of the Egyptians sacrifices that outrage them, will ²⁵ they not stone us?’ •‘We must make a three days’ journey into the wilderness to ²⁶ offer sacrifice to Yahweh our God, as he has commanded us.’ •Pharaoh replied, ²⁷ ‘I will let you go to offer sacrifice to Yahweh your God in the wilderness, ²⁸ provided you do not go far. And intercede for me.’ •‘The moment I leave you,’ ²⁹ said Moses ‘I will pray to Yahweh. Tomorrow morning the gadflies will leave ³⁰ Pharaoh and his courtiers and his subjects. Only, Pharaoh must not play false ³¹ again, and refuse to let the people go to offer sacrifice to Yahweh.’ •So Moses ³² went out of Pharaoh’s presence and prayed to Yahweh. •And Yahweh did as Si 45:3
Moses asked; the gadflies left Pharaoh and his courtiers and his subjects; not one remained. •But Pharaoh was adamant this time too and did not let the people go.

The fifth plague: death of the Egyptians’ livestock

¹ 9 Then Yahweh said to Moses, ‘Go to Pharaoh and say to him, “This is the ² message of Yahweh, the God of the Hebrews: Let my people go to offer ³ me worship. •If you refuse to let them go and detain them any longer, •you ⁴ will find that the hand of Yahweh will fall on your livestock in the fields, horse ⁵ and donkey and camel, herd and flock, with a deadly plague. •Yahweh will ⁶ discriminate between the livestock of Israel and of Egypt: nothing shall die of ⁷ all that belongs to the sons of Israel. •Yahweh has fixed the hour. Tomorrow, ⁸ he has said, Yahweh will carry out this threat in all the land.”’ •Next day Yahweh ⁹ kept his word; all the Egyptians’ livestock died, but none owned by the sons ¹⁰ of Israel died. •Pharaoh had inquiries made, but it was true: none was dead of ¹¹ the livestock owned by the sons of Israel. But Pharaoh became adamant again ¹² and did not let the people go. Am 4:10 and before the eyes of Pharaoh let Moses throw it in the air. •It shall spread 9 like fine dust over the whole land of Egypt and bring out boils that break into sores on man and beast all over the land of Egypt.’ •So they took soot from the 10 kiln and stood in front of Pharaoh, and Moses threw it in the air. And on man 11 and beast it brought out boils breaking into sores. •And the magicians could 12 not face Moses, because the magicians were covered with boils like all the other Egyptians. •But Yahweh made Pharaoh’s heart stubborn and, as Yahweh had foretold, he refused to listen to them.

The seventh plague: the hail

Then Yahweh said to Moses, ‘Get up early in the morning and present yourself 13 to Pharaoh. Say to him, “This is the message of Yahweh, the God of the Hebrews: Let my people go to offer me worship. •This time I mean to send 14 all my plagues on you^a and your courtiers and your subjects so that you shall learn that there is no one like me in the whole world. •Had I stretched out my 15 hand to strike you and your subjects with pestilence, you would have been swept from the earth. •But I have let you live for this: to make you see my power and 16 to have my name published throughout all the earth. •High-handed with my people still, you will not let them go. •Tomorrow, therefore, at about this time, 18
I will let fall so great a storm of hail as was never known in Egypt from the day of its foundation. •So now have your livestock, and everything that is yours 19 in the fields put under cover: on man and beast, on all that remains in the fields and is not brought indoors, the hail will fall and they will die.”’ •Some of 20 Pharaoh’s courtiers, terrified by Yahweh’s threat, brought their slaves and livestock indoors, •but those who disregarded Yahweh’s threat left their slaves 21 and livestock in the fields.

Yahweh said to Moses, ‘Stretch out your hand towards heaven so that hail 22 may fall on the whole land of Egypt, on man and beast and all that grows in the fields in the land of Egypt’. •Moses stretched out his staff towards heaven, 23 and Yahweh thundered^b and rained down hail. Lightning struck the earth.
Yahweh rained down hail on the land of Egypt. •The hail fell, and lightning 24 flashing in the midst of it,^c a greater storm of hail than had ever been known in Egypt since it first became a nation. •Throughout the land of Egypt the hail 25 struck down everything in the fields, man and beast. It struck all the crops in the fields, and it shattered every tree in the fields. •Only in the land of Goshen 26 where the Hebrews lived, was there no hail.

Pharaoh sent for Moses and Aaron. ‘This time’ he said ‘I admit my fault. 27
Yahweh is in the right; I and my subjects are in the wrong. •Entreat Yahweh 28 to stop the thunder and the hail; I promise to let you go, and you shall stay here no longer.’ •Moses answered him, ‘The moment I leave the city I will 29 stretch out my hands to Yahweh. The thunder will stop, and there will be no more hail, so that you may know that the earth belongs to Yahweh. •But as 30 for you and your courtiers, I know very well that you have no fear yet of Yahweh our God.’ •The flax and the barley were ruined, since the barley was in the ear and 31
the flax budding. •The wheat and the spelt, being late crops, were not destroyed. 32
Moses left Pharaoh and went out of the city. He stretched out his hands to 33
Yahweh and the thunder and the hail stopped and the rain no longer poured down on the earth. •When Pharaoh saw that rain and hail and thunder had 34 stopped, he sinned yet again. •He became adamant, he and his courtiers. The 35 heart of Pharaoh was stubborn and, as Yahweh had foretold through Moses, he did not let the sons of Israel go.

12 The eighth plague: the locusts

10 Then Yahweh said to Moses, ‘Go to Pharaoh, for it is I who have made 1 his heart and his courtiers stubborn, so that I could work these signs of mine among them; •so that you can tell your sons and your grandsons how 2

- I made fools of the Egyptians and what signs I performed among them, to let you know that I am Yahweh'. •So Moses and Aaron went to Pharaoh. They said to him, 'This is the message of Yahweh, the God of the Hebrews, "How much longer will you refuse to submit to me? Let my people go to offer me worship. •If you refuse to let my people go, then tomorrow I will send locusts over your country. •They shall cover the surface of the soil so thick that the soil will not be seen. They shall devour the remainder that is left to you, all that has survived from the hail; they shall devour all your trees growing in the fields; they shall fill your palaces, the houses of your courtiers, the houses of all the Egyptians. •Your forefathers and their ancestors will never have seen the like since first they lived in the country." ' Then Moses turned away and left Pharaoh's presence. •And Pharaoh's courtiers said to him, 'How much longer is this man to be the cause of our trouble? Let the people go to offer worship to Yahweh their God. Do you not understand that Egypt is now on the brink of ruin?' So Moses and Aaron were brought back to Pharaoh. 'You may go' he said to them 'and offer worship to Yahweh your God. But who are to go?' •'We shall take our young men and our old men' Moses answered. 'We shall take our sons and daughters, our flocks and our herds, because for us it is a feast of Yahweh.' •'May Yahweh be with you if ever I let you and your little ones go!' Pharaoh retorted. 'It is plain you are up to no good. •Oh no! You men^a may go and offer worship to Yahweh, since that is what you wanted.' And with that they were dismissed from the presence of Pharaoh.
- Then Yahweh said to Moses, 'Stretch out your hand over the land of Egypt to bring the locusts. Let them invade the land of Egypt and devour all its greenstuff, all that the hail has left.' •And over the land of Egypt Moses stretched his staff, and Yahweh brought up an east wind over the land and it blew all that day and night. By morning, the east wind had brought the locusts. The locusts invaded the whole land of Egypt. On the whole territory of Egypt they fell, in numbers so great that such swarms had never been seen before, nor would be again. •They covered the surface of the soil till the ground was black with them.^b They devoured all the greenstuff in the land and all the fruit of the trees that the hail had left. No green was left on tree or plant in the fields throughout the land of Egypt.
- Pharaoh sent urgently for Moses and Aaron. 'I have sinned against Yahweh your God,' he said 'and against yourselves. •Forgive my sin, I implore you, this once, and entreat Yahweh your God just to rid me of this deadly plague.' So Moses left Pharaoh's presence and interceded with Yahweh. •Then Yahweh made the wind veer till it blew so strongly from the west^c that it caught up the locusts and carried them off towards the Sea of Reeds. There was not one locust left in the whole land of Egypt. •But Yahweh made Pharaoh's heart stubborn, and he did not let the sons of Israel go.

The ninth plague: the darkness

- Then Yahweh said to Moses, 'Stretch out your hand towards heaven, and let darkness, darkness so thick that it can be felt, cover the land of Egypt'. So Moses stretched out his hand towards heaven, and for three days there was deep darkness over the whole land of Egypt. •No one could see anyone else or move about for three days, but where the sons of Israel lived there was light for them.
- Pharaoh summoned Moses. 'Go and offer worship to Yahweh,' he said

'but your flocks and herds must remain here. Your children may go with you too.' •Moses replied, 'But you must let us have means of offering sacrifices 25 and holocausts to Yahweh our God. •Our livestock, too, must go with us; 26 not one head of cattle must be left behind: it must be from our livestock that we provide for the worship of Yahweh our God; until we reach the place, we do not know ourselves what worship we shall have to offer Yahweh.'

But Yahweh made Pharaoh's heart stubborn, and he refused to let them go. 27 Pharaoh said to Moses, 'Out of my sight! Take care! Never appear before me 28 again, for on the day you do, you die!' •Moses replied, 'You yourself have said it: 29 never again shall I appear before you.'

13:11+ Moses proclaims the death of the first-born

11 Then Yahweh said to Moses, 'One disaster more I shall bring on Pharaoh 1 and on Egypt, just one. After this he will let you go from here. . . ^a Indeed, 2 he will drive you out! •Instruct the people that every man is to ask his neighbour, 2 every woman hers, for silver ornaments and gold.' •And Yahweh gave the 3 people prestige in the eyes of the Egyptians, while Moses himself was a man of great importance in the land of Egypt, and of high prestige with Pharaoh's courtiers and with the people.

Moses said, 'This is Yahweh's message, "Towards midnight I shall pass 4 through Egypt. •All the first-born in the land of Egypt shall die: from the first- 5 born of Pharaoh, heir to his throne, to the first-born of the maidservant at the mill, and all the first-born of the cattle." ^b •And throughout the land of Egypt 6 there shall be such a wailing as never was heard before, nor will be again. •But 7 against the sons of Israel, against man or beast, never a dog shall bark, so that you may know that Yahweh discriminates between Egypt and Israel. •Then all 8 these courtiers of yours will come down to me and bow low before me and say: Go away, you and all the people who follow you! After this, I shall go." ' •And, hot with anger, Moses left Pharaoh's presence.

Then Yahweh said to Moses, 'Pharaoh will not listen to you; so that my 9 wonders may be multiplied in the land of Egypt'. •All these wonders^c Moses 10 and Aaron worked in the presence of Pharaoh. But Yahweh made Pharaoh's heart stubborn, and he did not let the sons of Israel leave his country.

The Passover^a

12 Yahweh said to Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt, •'This month^b is 1 2 to be the first of all the others for you, the first month of your year. Speak to the whole community of Israel and say, "On the tenth day of this 3 month each man must take an animal from the flock, one for each family: one animal for each household. •If the household is too small to eat the animal, 4 a man must join with his neighbour, the nearest to his house, as the number of persons requires. You must take into account what each can eat in deciding 5 the number for the animal. •It must be an animal without blemish, a male 6 one year old; you may take it from either sheep or goats. •You must keep it 6 till the fourteenth day of the month when the whole assembly of the community of Israel shall slaughter it between the two evenings.^c •Some of the blood must 7 then be taken and put on the two doorposts and the lintel of the houses where it is eaten. •That night, the flesh is to be eaten, roasted over the fire; it must 8 be eaten with unleavened bread and bitter herbs. •Do not eat any of it raw 9 or boiled, but roasted over the fire, head, feet and entrails. •You must not 10 leave any over till the morning: whatever is left till morning you are to burn.^d 11 You shall eat it like this: with a girdle round your waist, sandals on your feet, 11 a staff in your hand.^e You shall eat it hastily: it is a passover^f in honour of Yahweh. •That night, I will go through the land of Egypt and strike down all 12 the first-born in the land of Egypt, man and beast alike, and I shall deal out punishment to all the gods of Egypt, I am Yahweh! •The blood shall serve to 13 mark the houses that you live in. When I see the blood I will pass over you and you shall escape the destroying plague⁹ when I strike the land of Egypt. •This day is to be a day of remembrance for you, and you must celebrate it as a feast in Yahweh's honour. For all generations you are to declare it a day of festival, for ever.

The feast of Unleavened Bread

15 "For seven days you must eat unleavened bread. On the first day you are to clean all leaven out of your houses, for anyone who eats leavened bread from 16 the first to the seventh day shall be cut off from Israel. •On the first day you are to hold a sacred gathering, and again on the seventh day. On those days no 17 work is to be done; you are allowed only to prepare your food. •The feast of Unleavened Bread must be kept because it was on that same day I brought your armies out of the land of Egypt. Keep that day from age to age: it is an 18 irrevocable ordinance. •In the first month, from the evening of the fourteenth day and until the evening of the twenty-first day, you are to eat unleavened bread. 19 For seven days no leaven must be found in your houses, because anyone who eats leavened bread will be cut off from the community of Israel, whether he be 20 stranger or native-born. •You must eat no leavened bread; wherever you live you must eat unleavened bread."

Injunctions relating to the Passover

21 Moses summoned all the elders of Israel and said to them, 'Go and choose animals from the flock on behalf of your families, and kill the Passover victim. 22 Then take a spray of hyssop,^a dip it in the blood that is in the basin, and with the blood from the basin touch the lintel and the two doorposts. Let none of 23 you venture out of the house till morning. •Then, when Yahweh goes through Egypt to strike it, and sees the blood on the lintel and on the two doorposts, he will pass over the door and not allow the destroyer^d to enter your homes 24 and strike. •You must keep these rules as an ordinance for all time for you and your children. •When you enter the land that Yahweh is giving you, as he 25 promised, you must keep to this ritual. •And when your children ask you, 27 "What does this ritual mean?" •you will tell them, "It is the sacrifice of the Passover in honour of Yahweh who passed over the houses of the sons of Israel in Egypt, and struck Egypt but spared our houses".' And the people bowed 11 a. The Hebr. text. amended, has 'then he will let you go altogether'.

b. The 'first-born' of the beasts are added here, borrowing from 12:12, because like the first-born of man they are 'first-fruits' dedicated to the godhead.

c. The first nine plagues.

12 a. The long section on the Passover and the feast of Unleavened Bread, 12:1-13:16, combines the 'Yahwistic', 12:29-34, 38-39, and the 'Priestly' traditions, 12:1-20, 43-50, and some editorial additions, 12:24-27; 13:3-16, the style of which is 'Deuteronomic'. With this passage should be compared the liturgical calendars of Lv 23:5-8, Dt 16:1-8, and the legislation of Nb 28:16-25. The two rites may have had separate origins: the Passover is primarily a pastoral feast, offering the first-fruit of the flock; the feast of Unleavened Bread is primarily agricultural, offering the first-fruit of the barley harvest. But they were both springtime festivals and became fused at a very early date. Once associated with a historical occurrence, that decisive event in the history of Israel's election, the deliverance out of Egypt, these rites took on an entirely new religious significance: they recalled how God had saved his people, cf. the explanatory formula accompanying the rite, 12:26-27; 13:8. The Jewish Passover hence becomes a rehearsal for the Christian Passover: the lamb of God, Christ, is sacrificed (the cross) and eaten (the Last Supper) within the framework of the Jewish Passover (the first Holy Week). Thus he brings salvation to the world; and the mystical re-enactment of this redemptive act becomes the central feature of the Christian liturgy, organised round the Mass which is at once sacrifice and sacrificial meal.

b. I.e. of Abib (month of 'young ears of corn'), March-April in our calendar. The month was called Nisan after the Exile.

c. I.e., either between sunset and darkness (Samaritans) or between afternoon and sunset (Pharisees and Talmud).

d. To preclude profanation. The Greek adds 'You shall not break a bone of it', cf. v. 46.

e. Equipped as for a journey.

f. Etymology much disputed. Vulg. explains 'that is, the passing'. But this 'passing' of Yahweh is regularly expressed by a different Hebr. term. The word pesah (Greek: pascha) which is used here means rather that Yahweh 'leaped over' (vv. 13 and 23) the marked houses as one 'skips' names in a list.

g. Or correct to 'and on you (will fall) no stroke of the Destroyer' (cf. v. 23).

h. Aromatic plant used in various rites of purification (Nb 19:6; Ps 51:7; He 9:19).

i. The destroying angel, 1 Co 10:10; Heb 11:28, is the messenger entrusted with the execution of God's vengeance. Cf. Gn 19:1; 2 S 24:16; 2 K 19:35. In these last two places he is called 'angel of Yahweh' but the texts, unlike those quoted in the note to Gn 16:7, distinguish him from God.

down and worshipped. •The sons of Israel then departed, and they obeyed. 28
They carried out the orders Yahweh had given to Moses and Aaron.

The tenth plague: death of the first-born

And at midnight Yahweh struck down all the first-born in the land of Egypt: 29 the first-born of Pharaoh, heir to his throne, the first-born of the prisoner in his dungeon, and the first-born of all the cattle. •Pharaoh and all his courtiers and 30 all the Egyptians got up in the night, and there was a great cry in Egypt, for there was not a house without its dead. •And it was night when Pharaoh 31 summoned Moses and Aaron. 'Get up,' he said 'you and the sons of Israel, and get away from my people. Go and offer worship to Yahweh as you have asked and, as you have asked, take your flocks and herds, and go. And also ask a 32 blessing on me.' •The Egyptians urged the people to hurry up and leave the 33 land because, they said, 'Otherwise we shall all be dead'. •So the people carried 34 off their dough, still unleavened, on their shoulders, their kneading bowls wrapped in their cloaks.

The Egyptians plundered

The sons of Israel did as Moses had told them and asked the Egyptians 35 for silver ornaments and gold, and for clothing. •Yahweh gave the people such 36 prestige in the eyes of the Egyptians, that they gave them what they asked. So they plundered the Egyptians.

Israel's departure^j

The sons of Israel left Rameses for Succoth, about six hundred thousand 37 on the march—all men—not counting their families. •People of various sorts 38 joined them in great numbers; there were flocks, too, and herds in immense droves. •They baked cakes with the dough which they had brought from Egypt, 39 unleavened because the dough was not leavened; they had been driven out of Egypt, with no time for dallying, and had not provided themselves with food for the journey.^k •The time that the sons of Israel had spent in Egypt was four 40 hundred and thirty years.^l •And on the very day the four hundred and thirty 41 years ended, all the array of Yahweh left the land of Egypt. •The night, when 42 Yahweh kept vigil to bring them out of the land of Egypt, must be kept as a vigil in honour of Yahweh for all their generations.

Ordinances for the Passover

Yahweh said to Moses and Aaron, 'This is what is ordained for the Passover: ^m 43
No alien may take part in it, •but any slave bought for money may take part 44 when you have had him circumcised. •No stranger and no hired servant may take 45 part in it. •It is to be eaten in one house alone, out of which not a single morsel 46 of the flesh is to be taken; nor must you break any bone of it. •The whole com- 47 munity of Israel must keep the Passover. •Should a stranger be staying with you,ⁿ 48 and wish to celebrate the Passover in honour of Yahweh, all the males of his household must be circumcised: he may then be admitted to the celebration, for he becomes as it were a native-born. But no uncircumcised person may take part.
The same law will run for the native and for the stranger resident among you.' 49
The sons of Israel all obeyed. They carried out the orders Yahweh had given 50 to Moses and Aaron. •And that same day Yahweh brought the sons of Israel 51 in their armies out of Egypt.

The first-born^a

13 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, 'Consecrate all the first-born to me, ¹ the first issue of every womb, among the sons of Israel. Whether man or beast, this is mine.'

3 Moses said to the people, 'Keep this day in remembrance, the day you came out of Egypt, from the house of slavery, for it was by sheer power that Yahweh brought you out of it; no leavened bread must be eaten. •On this day, in the month of Abib, you are leaving Egypt. •And so, in this same month, when Yahweh brings you to the land of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Amorites, the Hivites, the Jebusites, the land he swore to your fathers he would give you, a land where milk and honey flow, you are to hold this service. •For seven days you will eat unleavened bread, and on the seventh day there is to be a feast in honour of Yahweh. •During these seven days unleavened bread is to be eaten; no leavened bread must be seen among you, no leaven among you in all your territory. •And on that day you will explain to your son, "This is because of what Yahweh did for me when I came out of Egypt". •The rite will serve as a sign on your hand would serve, or a memento on your forehead, and in that way the law of Yahweh will be ever on your lips, for Yahweh brought you out of Egypt with a mighty hand. •You will observe this ordinance each year at its appointed time.

If you do not redeem it, you must break its neck. Of your sons, every first-born of men must be redeemed. •And when your son asks you in days to come, "What does this mean?" you will tell him, "By sheer power Yahweh brought us out of Egypt, out of the house of slavery. •When Pharaoh stubbornly refused to let us go, Yahweh killed all the first-born in the land of Egypt, of man and of beast alike. For this I sacrifice to Yahweh every male that first issues from the womb, and redeem every first-born of my sons." •The rite will serve as a sign on your hand would serve, or a circlet on your forehead, for Yahweh brought us out of Egypt with a mighty hand.'

j. The information provided by vv. 37 and 40 is from the 'Priestly' tradition, 38-39 take up the narrative from 34.

k. The 'Yahwistic' tradition probably regards this as the origin of the Azymer, or feast of Unleavened Bread. For a different explanation, cf. vv. 8,15,18-20.

l. Sam. and Greek 'the stay of the children of Israel and of their fathers in Egypt and Canaan had lasted four hundred and thirty-five years'.

m. The Passover victim, not the feast, vv. 43-50 lay down the conditions for non-Israelites who wish to join in the paschal meal, and explain how the victim is to be prepared. These instructions complete those of vv. 3-11. In all this the Israelite is considered the 'citizen of the land', i.e. the true inhabitant of Canaan.

n. Like the Athenian metechon and the Roman incola, the foreigner who settles in Israel (the ger) has his own charter. The patriarchs themselves had been resident aliens in Canaan, Gn 23:4, as had the Israelites in Egypt, Gn 15:13; Ex 2:22. After the conquest of the Holy Land the roles were reversed: the Israelites became citizens and played the host to resident foreigners, Dt 10:19. These last were subject to the laws, Lv 17:15; 24:16-22, and bound to observance of the sabbath, Ex 20:10; Dt 5:14. They were allowed to make offerings to Yahweh, Nb 15:15-16; they were also permitted to celebrate the Passover, Nb 9:14, provided they accepted circumcision, Ex 12:48. This laid the foundations of the proselytes' charter of the Greek period, already foreshadowed in Is 14:1. These 'strangers' were the 'economically unstable' protected by the law, Lv 23:22; 25:35; Dt 24 passim; 26:12. This last text and Dt 12:12 compare them to the Levites who have no possession in Israel; in Jg 17:7 the Bethlehem Levite is called 'a stranger resident' in Judah; cf. Jg 19:1.

13 a. Vv. 1-2: isolated fragment ('Priestly' tradition?).

b. In Israel's most ancient legal codes, Ex 22:28-29; 34:19-20, the first-born male of men and animals are pronounced God's property. The first-born of beasts are offered in sacrifice, Dt 15:19-20, and a portion goes to the priests, Nb 18:15-18; the donkey is an exception: it is either redeemed or has its neck broken, v. 13; 34:20; Nb 18:15, and this applies to all unclean animals, Lv 27:26-27. The first-born of men are always redeemed, v. 13; 34:19-20; Nb 3:46-47; cf. Gn 22. The texts of Ex 13:14f; Nb 3:13; 8:17 associate this special dedication to God with the deliverance from Egypt and with the tenth plague, Ex 12:29-34. In place of the first-born of Israel, spared on that occasion, the Levites are consecrated to God, Nb 3:12,40-51; 8:16-18.

D. THE CROSSING OF THE SEA OF REEDS^cThe departure of the Israelites^d

Jr 2:2; When Pharaoh had let the people go, God did not let them take the road to 17
Ho 2:17 the land of the Philistines, although that was the nearest way.^e God thought that 14:10-12 the prospect of fighting would make the people lose heart and turn back to Nb 14:1f Egypt. •Instead, God led the people by the roundabout way of the wilderness 18 to the Sea of Reeds. The sons of Israel went out from Egypt fully armed. •Moses 19
Gn 50:25 took with him the bones of Joseph who had put the sons of Israel on solemn Jos 24:32 oath. 'It is sure that God will visit you,' he had said 'and when that day comes you must take my bones from here with you.'

Nb 33:5-6 From Succoth they moved on, and encamped at Etham, on the edge of the 20 wilderness.

40:36+ Yahweh went before them, by day in the form of a pillar of cloud to show 21
Nb 14:15 them the way, and by night in the form of a pillar of fire to give them light:
Dt 1:33 the way, and by night in the form of a pillar of fire to give them light:
Ne 9:12,19 thus they could continue their march by day and by night. •The pillar of cloud 22

From Etham to the Sea of Reeds

14 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •'Tell the sons of Israel to turn back 1 and pitch camp in front of Pi-hahiroth, between Migdol and the sea, 2 facing Baal-zephon. You are to pitch your camp opposite this place, beside the 3 sea. •Pharaoh will think, "Look how these sons of Israel wander to and fro in 4 the countryside; the wilderness has closed in on them". •Then I shall make 5 Pharaoh's heart stubborn and he will set out in pursuit of them. But I shall win 6 glory for myself at the expense of Pharaoh and all his army, and the Egyptians 7 will learn that I am Yahweh.' And the Israelites did this. 8

The Egyptians pursue the Israelites

Ws 19:2; When Pharaoh, king of Egypt, was told that the people had made their 9
Is 51:10; escape, he and his courtiers changed their minds about the people. 'What have 10
63:12 we done,' they said 'allowing Israel to leave our service?' •So Pharaoh had his 11 chariot harnessed and gathered his troops about him, •taking six hundred of the 12 best chariots and all the other chariots in Egypt, each manned by a picked team. 13 Yahweh made Pharaoh, king of Egypt, stubborn, and he gave chase to the 14 sons of Israel as they made their triumphant escape. •So the Egyptians gave 15 chase and came up with them where they lay encamped beside the sea—all the 16 horses, the chariots of Pharaoh, his horsemen, his army—near Pi-hahiroth, 17 facing Baal-zephon. •And as Pharaoh approached, the sons of Israel looked 18 round—and there were the Egyptians in pursuit of them! The sons of Israel were 19 terrified and cried out to Yahweh. •To Moses they said, 'Were there no graves 20 in Egypt that you must lead us out to die in the wilderness? What good have you 21 done us, bringing us out of Egypt? •We spoke of this in Egypt, did we not? 22 Leave us alone, we said, we would rather work for the Egyptians! Better to 23 work for the Egyptians than die in the wilderness!' •Moses answered the people, 24
'Have no fear! Stand firm, and you will see what Yahweh will do to save you 25 today: the Egyptians you see today, you will never see again. •Yahweh will do 26 the fighting for you: you have only to keep still.'

The crossing^a

Yahweh said to Moses, 'Why do you cry to me so? Tell the sons of Israel to 1 march on. •For yourself, raise your staff and stretch out your hand over the sea 2 and part it for the sons of Israel to walk through the sea on dry ground. I for 3 my part will make the heart of the Egyptians so stubborn that they will follow 4 them. So shall I win myself glory at the expense of Pharaoh, of all his army, his 18 chariots, his horsemen. •And when I have won glory for myself, at the expense of Pharaoh and his chariots and his army, the Egyptians will learn that I am Yahweh.

 19 Then the angel of God, who marched at the front of the army of Israel, changed station and moved to their rear. The pillar of cloud changed station 20 from the front to the rear of them, and remained there. •It came between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Israel. The cloud was dark, and the night 21 passed^b without the armies drawing any closer the whole night long. •Moses stretched out his hand over the sea. Yahweh drove back the sea with a strong 22 easterly wind all night, and he made dry land of the sea. The waters parted •and the sons of Israel went on dry ground right into the sea, walls of water to right 23 and to left of them. •The Egyptians gave chase: after them they went, right into 24 the sea, all Pharaoh's horses, his chariots, and his horsemen. •In the morning watch,^c Yahweh looked down on the army of the Egyptians from the pillar of 25 fire and of cloud, and threw the army into confusion. •He so clogged their chariot wheels that they could scarcely make headway. 'Let us flee from the Israelites,' the Egyptians cried 'Yahweh is fighting for them against the Egyp-26 tians!' •'Stretch out your hand over the sea,' Yahweh said to Moses 'that the waters may flow back on the Egyptians and their chariots and their horsemen.' 27 Moses stretched out his hand over the sea and, as day broke, the sea returned to its bed. The fleeing Egyptians marched right into it, and Yahweh overthrew 28 the Egyptians in the very middle of the sea. •The returning waters overwhelmed the chariots and the horsemen of Pharaoh's whole army, which had followed 29 the Israelites into the sea; not a single one of them was left. •But the sons of Israel had marched through the sea on dry ground, walls of water to right and 30 to left of them. •That day, Yahweh rescued Israel from the Egyptians, and Israel 31 saw the Egyptians lying dead on the shore. •Israel witnessed the great act that Yahweh had performed against the Egyptians, and the people venerated Yahweh; they put their faith in Yahweh and in Moses, his servant.

c. This is the true beginning of the Exodus, that is to say the journey of God's people through the desert to the Promised Land; the prophets will look back on this time as the first days of God's marriage with his people, Jr 2:2; Ho 2:15+; 11:1f; Ezk 16:8. Throughout the Bible Yahweh will be the one 'who brought his people out of Egypt', Jos 24:17; Am 2:10; 3:1; Mi 6:4; Ps 81:10. The second part of Isaiah sees the return from Babylon as a second Exodus, Is 40:3+. In Christian tradition, the crossing of the Reed (or Red) Sea and the forty years in the desert have been seen as types of Christ's baptism and forty days in the desert, and consequently as figures of Christian baptism and progress towards heaven.

d. Here the three traditions mingle.

e. The normal highway running parallel with the coast and going by way of Sileh (the modern el-Kantara); there are wells and military posts at intervals along its course.

f. In the Pentateuch we find the divine presence manifested in various ways: the pillar of cloud and the pillar of fire ('Yahwistic' tradition); the 'dark mist' and the cloud ('Elohistic' tradition); finally, coupled with the cloud, the 'glory' of Yahweh, 24:16+, a consuming fire which moves as God moves ('Priestly' tradition), cf. 19:16f+. Mystical theology makes much of these ideas or images.

14 a. Narrative in epic style, made up of various traditions which have preserved and embellished the memory of a decisive act of God in favour of his people.

To the 'Yahwistic' tradition is usually attributed the account in which God uses an east wind to drive back the waters; to the 'Priestly' tradition the account in which Moses divides the waters with a gesture of his hand; to the 'Elohistic' tradition the passages in which the angel of God figures, O.T. tradition consistently regards the 'crossing of the Red Sea' as one of the most, if not the most, striking evidence of Yahweh's intervention on behalf of his people; the episode is equally prominent in Christian tradition from the N.T. onwards, as a figure of the decisive 'exodus' effected by Jesus, and particularly of the baptism by which the Christian enters into it, (1 Co 10:1).

b. 'the night passed' Greek. The Hebr. has 'there was a cloud and darkness; and it lit up the night'. Symmachus 'the cloud was dark on one side and bright on the other'. In Jos 24:7 Yahweh sets a thick mist between Israelites and Egyptians. Our translation is conjectural.

c. The last watch of the night 2-6 a.m.

15 a. The victory chant of v. 21 here becomes a whole psalm of thanksgiving (the first and most famous of the 'canticles' which the Christian liturgy takes from the O.T.); its starting point is the destruction of Pharaoh's army but it goes on to develop the theme of God's power and his care for his people: the wonders of the Exodus, the conquest of Canaan, even the building of the Temple in Jerusalem.

II. ISRAEL IN THE DESERT

Marah^a

Moses made Israel move from their camp at the Sea of Reeds, and they made 22 for the wilderness of Shur where they travelled for three days without finding 23 water. •They reached Marah but the water there was so bitter they could not 24 drink it; this is why the place was named Marah.ⁱ •The people grumbled^j at 25 Moses. 'What are we to drink?' they said. •So Moses appealed to Yahweh, and Yahweh pointed out some wood to him; this Moses threw into the water, and the water was sweetened.

There it was he^k charged them with statute and with ordinance,^l there that he put them to the test.

26 Then he said, •'If you listen carefully to the voice of Yahweh your God and do what is right in his eyes, if you pay attention to his commandments and keep his statutes, I shall inflict on you none of the evils that I inflicted on the Egyptians, for it is I, Yahweh, who give you healing'.
 27 So they came to Elim where twelve water-springs were, and seventy palm trees;
 and there they pitched their camp beside the water.

The manna and the quails^a

1 16 From Elim they set out again, and the whole community of the sons of Israel reached the wilderness of Sin—between Elim and Sinai—on the 2 fifteenth day of the second month after they had left Egypt. •And the whole community of the sons of Israel began to complain against Moses and Aaron in 3 the wilderness •and said to them, 'Why did we not die at Yahweh's hand in the land of Egypt, when we were able to sit down to pans of meat and could eat bread to our heart's content! As it is, you have brought us to this wilderness to starve this whole company to death!'

4 Then Yahweh said to Moses, 'Now I will rain down bread for you from the heavens. Each day the people are to go out and gather the day's portion; I propose 5 to test them in this way to see whether they will follow my law or not. •On the sixth day, when they prepare what they have brought in, this will be twice as much as the daily gathering.'

6 ^bMoses and Aaron said to the whole community^c of the sons of Israel, 'In the evening you shall learn that it was Yahweh who brought you out of the land of 7 Egypt, •and in the morning you shall see the glory of Yahweh, for he has heard your complaints against him—it is not against us you complain, for what are Flights of quail are common over Sinai; the manna is possibly the juice of some local shrub. The narrative asserts some special intervention, under whatever natural forms, by which God fed his people. The Psalms and the Book of Wisdom gratefully recall the gift of manna which, in Christian tradition (as early as Jn 6:26-58), is a figure of the Eucharist, the spiritual food of the Church, the new Israel, on her earthly journey to the Promised Land.

Ps 68:9 Then you will learn that I, Yahweh, am your God." • And so it came about: 13
Ws 19:11 quails flew up in the evening, and they covered the camp; in the morning there was a coating of dew all round the camp. • When the coating of dew lifted, there 14
Nb 11:7-9 on the surface of the desert was a thing delicate, powdery,^d as fine as hoarfrost on the ground. • When they saw this, the sons of Israel said to one another, 15 1 Co 10:3 'What is that?'^e not knowing what it was. 'That' said Moses to them 'is the bread Yahweh gives you to eat. • This is Yahweh's command: Everyone must 16 gather enough of it for his needs, one omer a head, according to the number of persons in your families. Each of you will gather for those who share his tent.'

The sons of Israel did this. They gathered it, some more, some less. • When 17 18 they measured in an omer what they had gathered, the man who had gathered more had not too much, the man who had gathered less had not too little. Each found he had gathered what he needed.

Moses said to them, 'No one must keep any of it for tomorrow'. • But some 19 would not listen to Moses and kept part of it for the following day, and it bred 20 maggots and smelt foul; and Moses was angry with them. • Morning by morning 21 Ws 16:27 they gathered it, each according to his needs. And when the sun grew hot, it dissolved.

Now on the sixth day they gathered twice the amount of food: two omers a 22 head. All the leaders of the community came to tell Moses, • and he said to them, 23
 'This is Yahweh's command: Tomorrow is a day of complete rest, a sabbath 24 sacred to Yahweh. Bake what you want to bake, boil what you want to boil; put aside all that is left for tomorrow.' • So, as Moses ordered, they put it aside 25 for the following day, and its smell was not foul nor were there maggots in it.
 'Eat it today,' Moses said 'for today is a sabbath in honour of Yahweh; you 26 will find none in the field today. • For six days you are to gather it, but on the 27 seventh day—the sabbath—there will be none.' • On the seventh day some of 28
 the people went from the camp to gather it, but they found none. • Then Yahweh 29 said to Moses, 'How much longer will you refuse to keep my commandments and my laws? • Listen! Yahweh has laid down the sabbath for you; for this 30 he gives you two day's food on the sixth day; each of you is to stay where he is; on the seventh day no one is to leave his home.' • So on the seventh day the 31 people abstained from all work.^f

Nb 11:7 The House of Israel named it 'manna'. It was like coriander seed; it was white 32 and its taste was like that of wafers made with honey.

Moses said, 'This is Yahweh's command: Fill an omer with it, and let it be 33 kept for your descendants, to let them see the food that I fed you with in the 34 wilderness when I brought you out of the land of Egypt'. • Moses said to Aaron, 35
 'Take a jar and put in it a full omer of manna and place it before Yahweh, to be 36 kept for your descendants'. • Accordingly, Aaron put a full omer of manna in the 37
 jar,^g as Yahweh had ordered Moses, and placed the manna before the Testimony,^h to be kept there.

Nb 21:5 The sons of Israel ate manna for forty years, up to the time they reached 38
Jos 5:10-12 inhabited country: they ate manna up to the time they reached the frontier of the land of Canaan. • An omer is one-tenth of an ephah. 39

The water from the rock^a 17 The whole community of the sons of Israel moved from their camp in the 1 desert of Zin at Yahweh's command, to travel the further stages; and 2

 they pitched camp at Rephidim^b where there was no water for the people to 3 drink. • So they grumbled against Moses. 'Give us water to drink' they said. 4
 Moses answered them. 'Why do you grumble against me? Why do you put 5
 Yahweh to the test?' • But tormented by thirst, the people complained against 6
 Moses. 'Why did you bring us out of Egypt?' they said. 'Was it so that I should 7 die of thirst, my children too, and my cattle?' • Moses appealed to Yahweh. 8

A battle against the Amalekites^e

⁸ The Amalekites came and attacked Israel at Rephidim. •Moses said to Joshua, 'Pick out men for yourself, and tomorrow morning march out to engage Amalek. I, meanwhile, will stand on the hilltop, the staff of God in my hand.' •Joshua did as Moses told him and marched out to engage Amalek, while Moses and Aaron and Hur went up to the top of the hill. •As long as Moses kept his arms raised, Israel had the advantage; when he let his arms fall, the advantage went to Amalek. But Moses' arms grew heavy, so they took a stone and put it under him and on this he sat, Aaron and Hur supporting his arms, one on one side, one on the other; and his arms remained firm till sunset. •With the edge of the sword Joshua cut down Amalek and his people. •Then Yahweh said to Moses, 'Write this action down in a book to keep the memory of it, and say in Joshua's hearing that I shall wipe out the memory of Amalek from under heaven.' •Moses then built an altar^f and named it Yahweh-nissi •because he said, 'Lay hold of the banner of Yahweh!' •Yahweh is at war with Amalek from age to age!

¹ 18 Jethro priest of Midian, father-in-law of Moses, heard of all that God had done for Moses and for Israel his people, and how Yahweh had brought Israel out of Egypt. •So Jethro, father-in-law of Moses, brought Moses' wife Zipporah—after she had been dismissed^b—•with her two sons. 17 a. 'Yahwistic' and 'Elohistic' elements have been noted in this narrative.

b. A valley in the Sinai range. Nb 20:1-13 makes the district of Kadesh the scene of a similar miracle. Both miracles are referred to, either together or separately, in various biblical passages.

c. 'at Horeb', evidently a reader's gloss. In the opinion of certain rabbis the rock followed the Israelites in their wanderings. Cf. 1 Co 10:4. On the term 'Rock' indicating God, see Ps 18:2+.

d. Massah: trial; Meribah: contention.

e. Attributed to the 'Elohistic' tradition. The Amalekites lived further north in the Negeb and in the mountain country of Seir. Gn 14:7; Nb 13:29; Jg 1:16; 1 Ch 4:42f, which is presumably where Hormah was, Nb 14:39-45, cf. Dt 25:17-19; 1 S 15. Amalek is said to be the grandson of Esau, Gn 36:12 16; it was in fact a nation of great antiquity. Nb 24:20. In the time of the Judges the Amalekites were in alliance with Midianite bandits; they were still formidable in David's day. There is no further mention of them until 1 Ch 4:43 and Ps 83:7.

f. In order to offer thanksgiving sacrifices.

g. 'the banner of Yahweh' corr. in place of 'the throne of Yahweh', Vulg. interpreting Hebr.; this is an etymological explanation of the name 'Yahweh-nissi' here taken to mean 'Yahweh is my banner'.

18 a. Ch. 18, attributed as a whole to the 'Elohistic' tradition, is misplaced: the meeting occurs at Sinai (v. 5) whereas 17:1 and 19:2 place it in Rephidim. The arrangements for the administration of justice (vv. 13-26) are better situated at Sinai, as recorded in Dt 1:9-19.

b. The circumstances are not known.

¶Dt1:9-18 The appointment of judges

On the following day, Moses took his seat to administer justice for the people, 13 and from morning till evening they stood round him. •Observing what labours 14 he took on himself for the people's sake, the father-in-law of Moses said to him, 'Why do you take all this on yourself for the people? Why sit here alone with the people standing round you from morning till evening?' •Moses answered his 15 father-in-law, 'Because the people come to me to bring their enquiries to God.
33:7+ When they have some dispute they come to me, and I settle the differences 16 between the one and the other and instruct them in God's statutes and his Ac 6:3 decisions.' •'It is not right' the father-in-law of Moses said to him 'to take this 17
Nb 11:14 on yourself. •You will tire yourself out, you and the people with you. The work 18 is too heavy for you. You cannot do it alone. •Take my advice, and God will 19 be with you. You ought to represent the people before God and bring their disputes to him. •Teach them the statutes and the decisions; show them the way 20
Nb11:16-17 they must follow and what their course must be. •But choose from the people 21
Nb 1:16 at large some capable and God-fearing men, trustworthy and incorruptible, and appoint them as leaders of the people: leaders of thousands, hundreds, fifties, tens. •Let these be at the service of the people to administer justice at all times. 22
They can refer all difficult questions to you, but all smaller questions they will decide for themselves, so making things easier for you and sharing the burden with you. •If you do this—and may God so command you—you will be able 23 to stand the strain, and all these people will go home satisfied.'

Moses took his father-in-law's advice and did as he said. •Moses chose capable 24
Nb 1:16;25:5 men from the ranks of the Israelites and set them over the people: leaders of 25 thousands, hundreds, fifties, tens. •They were at the service of the people to decided smaller questions by themselves.

Then Moses allowed his father-in-law to go, and he made his way back to 27

e. The end of the v. ‘because in the matter in which they dealt arrogantly with thee’ is probably incomplete or corrupt.

f. By offering sacrifice Jethro acknowledges Yahweh as God. By inviting Aaron and the elders to the sacred meal (which follows the communion sacrifice), cf. Lv 3: 1+, he strengthens his family ties with Israel

19 a. The Covenant with Noah involved the whole human race, Gn 9:9. The Mosaic Covenant will set its seal on God’s choice of a nation and on the promises made to it. Ex 6:6-8 just as the Covenant with Abraham, mentioned in Ex 6:5, seals the first promises, Gn 17. But the Covenant with Abraham was made with a single individual (though also embracing his descendants) and imposed a single obligation, that of circumcision. The Sinaitic Covenant binds the whole nation and the whole nation receives a Law: the Decalogue and the Book of the Covenant. This Law with its subsequent elaborations is to become the charter of Judaism and Si 24: 9-27 will identify it with wisdom. But the Law is also ‘a witness against the nation’, Dt 31:26, because its transgression cancels the promises and invites God’s condemnation. Its role, as at once instruction and deterrent, will be to prepare for the coming of Christ who concludes the New Covenant. St Paul will later expound this transitional function of the Law in answer to Christians who hanker after their old Jewish observance, Ga 3: Rm 7.

b. In ch. 19 there is a mixture of ‘Yahwistic’ and ‘Elohistic’ traditions as well as a number of Deuteronomic elements and editorial additions.

c. The precise time is not given.

d. Tradition locates Mount Sinai in the southern region of the Sinai peninsula at Jebel Musa (7500 ft.) the northern rock-face of which dominates a barren plain surrounded by mountains: the locality admirably satisfies the data of the text. It was at Sinai, called Horeb or Mount of God in the ‘Elohistic’ tradition (Dt: Horeb), that Moses received his vocation, Ex 3:1-4. 17, and had his second meeting with Jethro, Ex 18. At Sinai the Law was given, Ex 19-40; Nb 1-10 (cf. Lv 27-34) and the Covenant concluded, Ex 24:3-8. At Sinai God placed himself at the head of his people for the journey to the Promised Land, Dt 33:2 and Ps 68:8,17 (cf. Jg 5:4f; Hab 3:3f); it was to Sinai that Elijah the prophet returned as to the pure spring of divine revelation, 1 K 19, cf. Si 48:7. Sinai stands for the Old Covenant that was eventually superseded, Ga 4:24f.

e. Hence God can choose whom he will.

f. The Covenant makes Israel God’s sacred possession. Jr 2:3, a consecrated people, Dt 7:6; 26:19, that is to say holy (for the same Hebr. word means ‘sacred’, ‘consecrated’, ‘holy’) as its God is holy, Lv 19:2, cf. 11:44f; 20:7,26. It is also a nation of priests, cf. Is 61:6, because what is sacred is by that very fact related to ritual worship. The promise is to have its complete fulfilment in ‘the Israel of God’, the Church; there the faithful are called ‘saints’, Ac 9:13+, and in union with Christ the Priest they offer God a sacrifice of praise, 1 P 2:5,9; Rv 1:6; 5:10; 20:6.

g. Repetition of 8b, out of place here.

h. ‘You will mark out the limits of the mountain’ Sam. Sanctity and remoteness go together: sanctity involves separation from all that has not the quality of holiness. Where God manifests his presence is forbidden ground, Gn 28:16-17; Ex 3:5; 40:35; Lv 16:2; Nb 1:51; 18:22. For the same reason the ark must not be handled, 2 S 6:7. This idea of the sacred, though primitive, conveys a lesson of enduring worth: that the mystery of God’s greatness is impenetrable and his majesty a thing of awe.

i. It is assumed that sexual relations make men unfit for sacred duties. Cf. 1 S 21:5.

j. The thunderstorm is the chosen scene of God’s self-manifestation, cf. Ps. 18:7; 29:3f; 77:16f; 97:2f; the gale is his herald’s trumpet, the thunder his voice, cf. Ps 29, the cloud (‘Elohistic’ tradition) and the fire (v. 18; ‘Yahwistic’ tradition, see 13:22+) the signs of his presence. Cf. the encounter of Elijah with God in 1 K 19:11-12. The purpose of this theophany is not only to show God’s mastery of nature but also his majesty (the ‘Priestly’ tradition speaks of his ‘glory’ in 24:16f), his sublimity and the religious awe that he inspires. Cf. Dt 5:22f; Jg 5:4f; Ps 68:7f; Hab 3:3-15 recalling this theophany.

B. THE BOOK OF THE COVENANT^a

Law concerning the altar

22 Yahweh said to Moses, 'Tell the sons of Israel this, "You have seen for your- Si 45:5
 23 selves that I have spoken to you from heaven. •You shall not make gods of silver or gods of gold to stand beside me; you shall not make things like this for yourselves.

24 "You are to make me an altar of earth, and sacrifice on this the holocausts and communion sacrifices from your flocks or herds. In every place in which Lv 1:1+; 25 I have my name remembered¹ I shall come to you and bless you. •If you make 3:1+;
 me an altar of stone, do not build it of dressed stones; for if you use a tool on it, 17:1-9 26 you profane it. •You shall not go up to my altar by steps for fear you expose Dt 27:5-6 your nakedness."² 1 M 4:47

Laws concerning slaves

¹ 21 'This is the ruling you are to lay before them: •"When you buy a Hebrew Lv 25:35-46+ slave, his service shall be for six years. In the seventh year he may leave; Dt 15:12-18
 3 he shall be free, with no compensation to pay. •If he came single, he shall leave Lv 25:10,39
 4 single; if he came married, his wife shall leave with him. •If his master gives Jb 31:13

 6 my master and my wife and children; I renounce my freedom", •then his master Dt 15:16-17
 7 pierce his ear with an awl, and he shall be in his service for all time. •If a man Ne 5:5
 sells his daughter as a slave,^a she shall not regain her liberty like male slaves.

k. 'The mountain shook' Hebr.; 'the people trembled' Hebr. and Greek MSS.

l. Lit. 'with a voice'. Elsewhere the term means thunder, cf. 9:23, but possibly here it means an articulate voice.

m. Anticipatory remark; the investiture of priests has not yet been mentioned, cf. ch. 29 and Lv 8.

20 a. In the book as it stands the Decalogue is not linked to the narrative framework, 19:24-25 and 20:18-21. The Decalogue (or 'Ten Words', cf. Ex 34:28; Dt 4:13; 10:4) has come down to us in two forms: the 'Priestly' recension here, and the somewhat different 'Deuteronomic' recension in Dt 5:6-21. It is possible that each of the commandments was originally as short as the 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th; the enlargements may be due to editors, whether 'Priestly' or 'Deuteronomistic.' Two systems of division have been proposed: (a) vv. 2-3, 4-6, 7-8, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, or (b) vv. 3-6, 7, 8-11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17a, 17b. The second of these, drawn up by St Augustine following Deuteronomy, has been adopted by the Church. The Decalogue is the core of the Mosaic Law; as instruction and deterrent (see note a, ch. 19) it is still valid in the New Law: our Lord appeals to the commandments, to which he adds the evangelical counsels, Mk 10:17-21, as the seal of perfection. St Paul's attack on the Law, Rm and Ga, is not directed against these inescapable duties to God and neighbour.

b. Lit. 'There shall be no other gods for you before my face'. This means either 'no other gods in my presence', an assertion of monotheism for an Israel where God is present; or 'no gods interceding between you and me', a statement of the intimacy of God with his people which makes intercessory gods unnecessary.

c. I.e., before their images.

d. Besides perjury, Mt 5:33, and false witness, v. 16 and Dt 5:20, this can also include every irreverent use of the divine name (as Greek and Vulg. have it, with their translation 'in vain').

e. The biblical texts expressly connect the term 'sabbath' with a root meaning 'to desist, to stop work', Ex 16:29-30; 23:12; 34:21. The sabbath is a weekly day of rest dedicated to Yahweh who rested on the seventh day of creation, v. 11, cf. Gn 2:2-3. But while it does homage to God, it also benefits man, Ex 23:12; Dt 5:14. The sabbath is of very ancient origin but its observance gained particular importance after the Exile and became a distinctive mark of Judaism, Ne 13:15-22; 1 M 2:32-41. A legalistic outlook took the joy out of the observance, leaving only a burden which Jesus was to remove, Mt 12:1f p; Lk 13:10f; 14:1f.

f. Vv. 18-21 are dependent on the 'Elohistic' tradition; they would come better after 19:19.

g. 'shook with fear' Sam. Greek.

h. The 'Book of the Covenant' (so named on account of 24:7f which, however, refers rather to the Decalogue) has been inserted here since it elaborates the commandments of the Decalogue, showing their applicability to civil and criminal law. It is attributed to the 'Elohistic' tradition and basically goes back to Moses, though later developments have adapted it to a community already passing from semi-nomadism to a settled way of life. In the Book of the Covenant both law (with God for its author) and custom (sanctioned by divine authority) play their part. Points of contact with the Code of Hammurabi, with the Hittite Code and with the Decree of Horemheb, do not necessarily prove direct borrowing but point rather to a common source, namely to ancient common law diversified according to local and racial requirements. The clauses of the Book of the Covenant may be grouped under three heads according to their subject-matter: civil and penal laws, 21:1-22:20; regulation of ritual, 20:22-26; 22:28-31; 23:10-19; social morality, 22:21-27; 23:1-9. According to their literary form one may distinguish: (a) 21:3-11, 18-22, 26-37; 22:1-16, in the style of ancient eastern jurisprudence; (b) 20:24, 26; 22:20, 27-29; 23:1-3, 6-9, 10-12, 14-19, in the style of the Decalogue; (c) 20:25; 21:22, 24-26; 23:4-5; (d) 21:14, 15-17; 22:17-19.

i. Unlike Dt 12:5, etc., the Book of the Covenant allows more than one place of worship.

j. Presumably the one who offered sacrifice wore only a loincloth, as among the Egyptians.

21 a. I.e. slave and also concubine, cf. following vv.

If she does not please her master who intended her for himself,^b he must let her be bought back: he has not the right to sell her to foreigners, thus treating her unfairly. •If he intends her for his son, he shall deal with her according to the ruling for daughters.^c •If he takes another wife, he must not reduce the food of the first or her clothing or her conjugal rights. •Should he cheat her of these three things she may leave, freely, without having to pay any money.

Homicide

“Anyone who strikes a man and so causes his death, must die. •If he has not lain in wait for him but God has delivered him into his hands,^d then I will appoint you a place where he may seek refuge.^e •But should a man dare to kill his fellow by treacherous intent, you must take him even from my altar to be put to death. •Anyone who strikes his father or mother must die. •Anyone who abducts a man—whether he has sold him or is found in possession of him—must die. •Anyone who curses father or mother must die.

Blows and wounds

“If men quarrel and one strikes the other a blow with stone or fist so that the man, though he does not die, must keep his bed, •the one who struck the blow shall not be liable provided the other gets up and can go about, even with a stick. He must compensate him, however, for his enforced inactivity, and care for him until he is completely cured.

“If a man beats his slave, male or female, and the slave dies at his hands, he must pay the penalty. •But should the slave survive for one or two days, he shall pay no penalty because the slave is his by right of purchase.

“If, when men come to blows, they hurt a woman who is pregnant and she suffers a miscarriage, though she does not die of it, the man responsible must pay the compensation demanded of him by the woman’s master; he shall hand it over, after arbitration. •But should she die, you shall give life for life, •eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot, •burn for burn, wound for wound, stroke for stroke.^f

“When an ox gores a man or woman to death, the ox must be stoned. Its flesh shall not be eaten, and the owner of the ox shall not be liable. •But if the ox has been in the habit of goring before, and if its owner was warned but has not kept it under control, then should this ox kill a man or woman, the ox must be stoned and its owner put to death. •If a ransom is imposed on him, he must pay whatever is imposed, to redeem his life. •If the ox gores a boy or a girl, he must be treated in accordance with this same rule. •If the ox gores a slave, male or female, the owner must pay over to their master a sum of money—thirty shekels—and the ox must be stoned.

“When a man leaves a pit uncovered, or when he digs one but does not cover it, should an ox, or donkey, fall into it, •then the owner of the pit shall make up for the loss: he must pay its owner money, and the dead animal shall be his own. •If one man’s ox harms another’s so that it dies, the owners must sell the live ox and share the price of it; they shall also share the dead animal. But if it is common knowledge that the ox has been in the habit of goring before, and its owner has not kept it under control, he must repay ox for ox; the dead animal shall be his own.

Theft of animals

“If a man steals an ox or a sheep and then slaughters or sells it, he must pay five oxen for the ox, four sheep for the sheep.

¹22 "If a thief is caught breaking in and is struck a mortal blow, there is to Pr6:31 ²be no blood-vengeance for him, •but there shall be blood-vengeance for ³him if it was after dawn. Full restitution must be made; if he has not the means, ⁴he must be sold to pay for what he has stolen. •If the stolen animal is found alive in his possession, ox or donkey or sheep, he must pay double.

Offences demanding compensation

⁴"When a man puts his animals out to graze in a field or vineyard and lets ⁵his beasts graze in another's field, he must make restitution for the part of the field that has been grazed in proportion to its yield. But if he has let the whole field be grazed, he must make restitution in proportion to the best crop recorded in the injured party's field or vineyard.

⁵"When a fire spreads, setting light to thorn bushes and destroying stacked ⁶or standing corn or the field itself, the man responsible for the fire must make full restitution.

⁶"When a man has entrusted money or goods to another's keeping and these Lv5:21-26 ⁷are stolen from his house, the thief, if he can be caught, must repay double.
⁷Should the thief not be caught, the owner of the house must swear before God ⁸that he has not laid hands on the other man's property.

⁸"Whenever there is breach of trust in the matter of ox, donkey, sheep, clothing, ⁹or any lost property for which it is claimed 'Yes, this is it', the dispute shall be brought before God. The person whom God pronounces guilty^a must pay double to the other.

⁹"When a man has entrusted to another's keeping a donkey, ox, sheep, or any ¹⁰beast whatever, and this dies or is injured or carried off, without a witness, ¹⁰an oath by Yahweh shall decide between the two parties whether one man has ¹¹laid hands on the other's property or not. The owner shall take what remains,^b ¹¹the other shall not have to make good the loss. •But if the animal has been ¹²stolen from him, he must make restitution to the owner. •If it has been savaged ¹³by wild beasts, he must bring the savaged remains of the animal as evidence, and he shall not be obliged to give compensation.

Gn 31:39
Am 3:12

¹³"When a man borrows an animal from another, and it is injured or dies in ¹⁴the owner's absence, the borrower must make full restitution. •But if the owner ¹⁵has been present, the borrower will not have to make good the loss. If the owner has hired it out, he shall settle for the price of its hire.

e. In a society where the state had not yet sup-of these cities will be given in Nb 35:11-34; Dt 4:41-43;

e. Or 'the gods', probably the judges as here and in 22:7,8; cf. Ps 82:1.

f. Or 'your grapes and your new wine'. Both translations conjectural.

b. 'do not acquit' Greek; 'for I shall not acquit' Hebr.

c. Or 'eye-witnesses'.

d. The four Pentateuchal traditions have each a calendar of the great religious feasts: Ex 23:14-17 'Elohistic'; Ex 34:18-23 'Yahwistic'; Dt 16:1-16 'Deuteronomistic'; and the 'Priestly' tradition of Lv 23 with which the liturgical regulations of Nb 28-29 correspond. In the various texts appear further details of ritual but the three principal feasts remain those laid down by Ex 23. 1. In Spring the feast of the Unleavened Bread, including the Passover, see notes to 12:1 and 11. 2. The feast of Harvest, called 'feast of Weeks' in Ex 34:22; it was held seven weeks, Dt 16:9, or fifty days, Lv 23:16, after the Passover (hence its Greek name 'Pentecost', Tb 2:1) and marked the end of the wheat harvest; at a later date it also commemorated the giving of the Law on Sinai. 3. The feast of Ingathering of grapes and olives in the autumn; it was called the feast of Tabernacles (or Shelters), Dt 16:13; Lv 23:34, because during the week's festivities the people lived in huts made of branches in the manner of grape-gatherers in the vineyards; these shelters reminded the Israelites of their ancestors' tents in the wilderness, Lv 23:43. Of these three feasts the most popular seems to have been Ingathering or Tabernacles, which is called simply 'the feast' in 1 K 8:2,65; Ezk 45:25. Later, other feasts were added: the religious New Year, Lv 23:24; the Day of Expiation, Lv 16 and 23:27-32; and after the Exile: Purim, Est 9:24; Dedication, 1 M 4:59; the Day of Nikanor, 1 M 7:49.

e. I.e. of the passover.

f. Canaanite custom known from the Ras Shamra texts.

g. The original core of this section is attributed to the 'Elohistic' tradition, but has been completed by editors.

h. This angel appears to be distinguished from God himself, cf. Gn 16:7+, though he performs Yahweh's function. This is a guardian angel, Gn 24:7; Nb 20:16, such as figures later in the Book of Tobit, see Tb 5:4+.

i. The 'name' is considered to be, in some way, the representative of the person himself.

j. In the Canaanite cult, stelae or standing-stones, Hebr. masseboth, were symbols of the male divinity. The Law forbade their worship, cf. this passage and 34:13; Dt 7:5; 12:3; 16:22; Lv 26:1, so also did the prophets, Ho 3:4; 10:1; Mi 5:12. For a purified form of this custom, cf. Gn 28:18 and 22.

k. Lit. 'send my terror' (i.e. the terror that comes from me).

l. Vv. 29 and 30 explain why the conquest took so long; they appear to be a late addition.

m. The desert is the desert of Arabia, the river the Euphrates. The boundaries mentioned are those of Solomon's kingdom as described in 1 K 5:1. Cf. Jg 20:1+.

They saw the God of Israel beneath whose feet there was, it seemed, a sapphire 10 of the sons of Israel: they gazed on God. They ate and they drank.

Yahweh said to Moses, 'Come up to me on the mountain and stay there 12 while I give you the stone tablets —the law and the commandments— that 13
I have written for their instruction'. •Accordingly Moses rose, he and his servant 14
Joshua, and they went up^e the mountain of God. •To the elders he had said, 15
'Wait here for us until we come back to you. You have Aaron and Hur with 16 you; if anyone has a difference to settle, let him go to them.' •And Moses went 17 up the mountain.

The cloud covered the mountain, •and the glory of Yahweh^f settled on the 16 mountain of Sinai; for six days the cloud covered it, and on the seventh day 17
Yahweh called to Moses from inside the cloud. •To the eyes of the sons of 18
Israel the glory of Yahweh seemed like a devouring fire on the mountain top.
Moses went right into the cloud. He went up the mountain, and stayed there for 19 forty days and forty nights.^g

IV. INSTRUCTIONS ON THE BUILDING OF THE SANCTUARY AND ON ITS MINISTERS^a

35:4-29 Contributions for the sanctuary

25
Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •'Tell the sons of Israel to set aside 2 a contribution for me; you shall accept this contribution from every man 3 whose heart prompts him to give it. •You shall accept from them the following 4 contributions: gold, silver and bronze; •purple stuffs, of violet shade and red, 5 crimson stuffs, fine linen, goats' hair; •rams' skins dyed red, fine leather,^b acacia 6 wood; •oil for the lamps, spices for the chrism and for the fragrant incense; 7 onyx stones and gems to be set in ephod and pectoral. •Build me a sanctuary 8 so that I may dwell among them.^c •In making the tabernacle and its furnishings 9 you must follow exactly the pattern I shall show you.

37:1-9 The tabernacle and its furnishings. The ark^d

Nb 3:31
Dt 10:3
'You are to make me an ark of acacia wood, two and a half cubits long, one 10

11 and a half cubits wide, one and a half cubits high. •You are to plate it, inside and 12 out, with pure gold, and decorate it all round with a gold moulding. •You will cast four gold rings for the ark and fix them to its four supports: two rings on 13 one side and two rings on the other. •You will also make shafts of acacia wood 14 plated with gold •and pass the shafts through the rings on the sides of the ark, 15 to carry the ark by these. •The shafts must remain in the rings of the ark and 16 not be withdrawn. •Inside the ark you will place the Testimony^c that I shall give you.

17 “Further, you are to make a throne of mercy,^d of pure gold, two and a half 18 cubits long, and one and a half cubits wide. •For the two ends of this throne of mercy you are to make two golden cherubs;^e you are to make them of beaten 19 gold. •Make the first cherub for one end and the second for the other, and fasten them to the two ends of the throne of mercy so that they make one piece 20 with it. •The cherubs are to have their wings spread upwards so that they overshadow the throne of mercy. They must face one another, their faces towards 21 the throne of mercy. •You must place the throne of mercy on the top of the ark.
 22 Inside the ark you must place the Testimony that I shall give you. •There I shall come to meet you;^f there, from above the throne of mercy, from between the two cherubs that are on the ark of the Testimony, I shall give you all my commands for the sons of Israel.

The table for the offertory bread^g

23 ‘You are to make a table of acacia wood, two cubits long, one cubit wide,

24 a. This ch. seems to combine two traditions. In the ‘Yahwistic’ tradition (vv. 1-2; 9-12) the Covenant is confirmed by a meal in the presence of God; in the ‘Elohistic’ tradition (vv. 3-8) by the sprinkling of blood in the presence of the people at the foot of the mountain.

b. The commands (or words, debarim) which alone are referred to in what follows, may indicate the Decalogue. The ordinances (mishpatim) are possibly those of 21:1-22:17.

c. Moses is the mediator between God and the people; he unites them symbolically by sprinkling the blood of a single victim first on the altar, which represents Yahweh, and then on the people. In this way the pact is ratified by blood, cf. Lv 1:5+, just as the New Covenant is ratified by the blood of Christ.

d. Vv. 12-15a and 18b come from the ‘Elohistic’, vv. 15b-18a (a parallel account) from the ‘Priestly’ tradition.

e. ‘they went up’ Greek; ‘and Moses went up’ Hebr.

f. In the ‘Priestly’ tradition, cf. 13:22+, the ‘glory of Yahweh’ is the manifestation of God’s presence.
 This ‘glory’ is a fire clearly distinguished (here and in 40:34-35) from the cloud that accompanies and surrounds it. The fire and the cloud are images borrowed from the great theophanies with a thunderstorm for their setting, 19:16+, but they have a more profound significance: the brilliant light (which needs no storm for its appearance 33:22, and which later leaves its glow on the face of Moses, 34:29) stands for God’s unapproachable majesty. It fills the newly erected tabernacle, 40:34-35, and will fill the Temple of Solomon, 1 K 8:
 10-11. On the eve of the destruction of Jerusalem Ezekiel sees the glory leaving the city, Ezk 9:3; 10:4, 18-19; 11:22-23; later he sees it returning to the new Temple, Ezk 43:1f; for Ezekiel the ‘glory’ assumes a shining, human form, Ezk 1:26-28. In other texts, and particularly in the Psalms, the glory of Yahweh simply expresses God’s majesty and the honour due to him, often with eschatological overtones; or else it indicates God’s miraculous power, Ex 15:7, cf. the ‘glory’ of Jesus, Jn 2:11; 11:40.

g. Cf. the forty days’ journey of Elijah to Sinai,
 1 K 19:8, and Christ’s forty days in the desert, Mt 4:2p.
 25 a. In chapters 25-31 (‘Priestly’ tradition) there are elements of great antiquity like the ark and the tabernacle which, with the system of worship itself, certainly go back to the time of Moses; but with these are mixed others which reflect the development of worship in the course of the history of Israel. When the author gathers all together under the formula, ‘God said to Moses’, he is asserting the divine authority behind the religious institutions of Israel.

b. Lit. ‘tahash-skin’; meaning uncertain.

c. God was worshipped in those places where he had specially manifested his presence by means of a theophany, Gn 12:7; 28:12-19, etc. Sinai, scene of the greatest theophany of all is the ‘mountain of God’, 3:1; 1 K 19:8, his dwelling place, Dt 33:2; Jg 5:4-5; Hab 3:3;
 Ps 68:8. The ark is the sign of his presence, 25:22;
 cf. 1 S 4:4; 2 S 6:2, and the tabernacle which houses the ark is the dwelling of Yahweh, v. 9 and 40:34; it accompanies the people on their journey, 2 S 7:6, until at last the Temple of Jerusalem becomes God’s house,
 1 K 8:10.

d. The ark was a rectangular chest (3 3/4 × 2 1/4 × 2 1/4 feet); it was carried on poles; resting on it was the ‘propitiatory’ or ‘throne of mercy’, v. 17, and the cherubs, v. 18. For the history of the ark see especially Jos 3:3; 6:4f; 1 S 4-6; 2 S 6; 1 K 8:1-9. It was the sign of God’s presence, cf. note c.

e. I.e. the two tablets on which the Decalogue was written.

f. Or ‘propitiatory’; the Hebr. word is kapporeth, from the root kaphar: ‘to cover’, but also ‘to perform the expiation’, ‘to obliterate’. Yahweh appears on the propitiatory and there speaks with Moses, 25:22; Lv 16:2; Nb 7:89. On the great Day of Atonement the propitiatory was censured and sprinkled with blood, Lv 16:13 and 15.

g. The word corresponds to the Babylonian Karibu, half-human, half-animal tutelary deities guarding the approaches to temples and palaces. Because of their position on the ark Yahweh is said to sit on the cherub-im, 1 S 4:4; 2 S 6:2; 2 K 19:15; Ps 80:1; 99:1. In the Temple of Solomon the cherubs cover the ark with their wings, 1 K 6:23-28. In Ezk 1 and 10 they draw God’s chariot, and in Ps 18:10 he rides on them; cf. also
 Gn 3:24.

h. The meeting place of God with Moses and with the children of Israel, 29:42-43; Lv 1:1. Here Yahweh issues his commands and, through Moses his intermediary, answers the requests of his people, 33:7-11; hence the name ‘tent of meeting’.

i. Lit. ‘loaves of the face’; on these, see Lv 24:5-9 and 1 S 21:5.

•You are to make a lamp-stand of pure gold; the lamp-stand must be of 31 beaten gold, base and stem. Its cups —calyx and petals— must be of one piece 32 with it. •Six branches must extend from the sides of it, three from one side, three 33 from the other. •The first branch is to carry three cups shaped like almond 34 blossoms, each with its calyx and petals; the second branch, too, is to carry 35 three cups shaped like almond blossoms, each with its calyx and petals, and 36

The tabernacle.^a Fabrics and hangings

26 •The tabernacle itself you are to make with ten sheets of fine twined linen, 1 of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, and of crimson stuffs; you are to have 2 these sheets finely brocaded with cherubs. •The length of a single sheet is to 3 be twenty-eight cubits, its width four cubits, all the sheets to be of the same size. 4
Five of the sheets must be joined to each other, and the other five similarly. 5
You must attach loops of violet stuff to the border of the last sheet in one set, 6 and do the same for the border of the last sheet in the other set. •You are to 7 put fifty loops on the first sheet and, matching them one by one, fifty loops on 8 the border of the last sheet in the second set. •And you are to make fifty gold 9 clasps to draw the sheets together.^b In this way the tabernacle will be a unified 10
whole. 11

•You are to make sheets of goats' hair to form a tent over the tabernacle; 12 you will make eleven of these. •The length of a single sheet is to be thirty cubits, 13 its width four cubits, the eleven sheets to be all of the same size. •You must join 14 five of these sheets together into one set, the remaining six into another; the 15 sixth you will fold double over the front of the tent. •You must attach fifty loops 16 to the border of the last sheet in one set, and do the same for the border 17 of the last sheet in the second set.^c •You must make fifty bronze clasps and 18 put them into the loops, so as to draw the tent together and make it a unified 19
whole. 20

•As one sheet of the tent will be left over, half of this extra sheet is to hang 21 over the back of the tabernacle. •The extra cubit on either side along the 22 length of the tent sheets is to hang over the sides of the tabernacle as a covering 23 for it. 24

•For the tent you will further make a covering of rams' skins dyed red, and 25 a covering of fine leather to spread over that. 26

The framework

- 15 'You are to make frames of acacia wood for the tabernacle, these to stand upright. •Each frame is to be ten cubits long and one and a half cubits wide. Nb 3:35
16 Each frame must be fitted with twin tenons;^d for all the frames of the tabernacle Is 4:5
17 you must do this. •You are to make the frames for the tabernacle: twenty frames
18 for the southern side, facing the south country. •You are to make forty silver 19 sockets for putting under the twenty frames thus: two sockets under the first 20 frame to receive its two tenons, and so on for the other frames. •The other side 21 of the tabernacle, on the north, is to have twenty frames •supported by forty 22 silver sockets, two sockets under each frame. •For the back of the tabernacle, on 23 the west, you must make six frames. •You are to make two frames for the corners 24 at the back of the tabernacle. •These frames must be coupled at their lower end and so to the top, up to the level of the first ring; this for the two frames 25 that are to form the two corners. •Thus there will be eight frames with their sixteen silver sockets: two sockets under the first frame and so on.
26 'You are to make crossbars of acacia wood: five to hold together the frames 27 for one side of the tabernacle, •five to hold the frames for the other side of the tabernacle, and five to hold the frames that form the west end of the tabernacle.
28 The middle bar, fixed half-way up, is to run from one end to the other. •The 29 frames are to be plated with gold, and with gold rings on them to take the cross-30 bars which you are to plate with gold. •This is how you are to erect the tabernacle according to the model shown to you on the mountain. 25:40+

The veil

- 31 'You are to make a veil of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, of crimson stuffs, and of fine twined linen; you are to have it finely embroidered with cherubs. 36:35-38
32 You are to hang it on four posts of acacia wood plated with gold and furnished Lv 16
33 with golden hooks and set in four silver sockets. •You must hang the veil from Nb 4:5
the clasps and there behind the veil you must place the ark of the Testimony, 1Heb6:19;9;
and the veil will serve you to separate the Holy Place from the Holy of Holies. 10:19f 34 The throne of mercy you must place on top of the ark inside the Holy of Holies. Lv 4:6-7
35 The table you must set outside the veil, and the lamp-stand on the south side Nb 18:7
36 of the tabernacle, opposite the table. You must put the table on the north side. 25:21
37 For the entrance to the tent you are to make a screen of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, and of crimson stuffs and fine twined linen, the work of a skilled 38 embroiderer. •For this screen you are to make five posts of acacia wood plated with gold, with golden hooks; for these you are to cast five bronze sockets.

The altar of holocaust

- 1 27 'You are to make the altar^a out of acacia wood, a square five cubits long Nb 3:31
2 and five cubits wide, its height to be three cubits. •At its four corners you 2 Ch 1:5
are to put horns,^b the horns to be of one piece with it, plating it with bronze. Lv 4:6-7 3 For the altar you are to make pans for the ashes from the fat, shovels, sprinkling Am 3:14
4 basins, hooks, fire pans; you must make all the vessels for the altar out of Zc 9:5
5 bronze. •You are also to make a grating for it of bronze network, and on the four corners of this fix four bronze rings. •This grating you must set under the 1Ch28:17

26 a. The description of the tabernacle, though minute in detail, is not altogether clear on account of its many technical terms.

b. The covering of the tabernacle is therefore in two great sections; this covering has another above it of stronger material, vv. 7-13, over which again there is a further covering, v. 14.

c. Correction in accordance with v. 4.

d. Each base must have had two mortises into which fitted the tenons at the foot of each frame.

e. The veil shuts off the Holy of Holies, dwelling place of Yahweh, from the worshippers. Only the high priest entered this sanctuary, and then only once a year on the Day of Atonement, Lv 16 (applied to Christ by Heb). The same arrangement is found in the Temple of Solomon, 1 K 6:16, and we read of a veil in the Temple of Herod, Mt 27:51p.

27 a. The altar par excellence, i.e., of holocaust, 1 K 8:64+.

b. The 'horns' jut out from the four corners of the altar and are considered a particularly sacred part of it. Like the horns on the altar of incense, 30:10, they were touched with the blood of sacrifice, 29:12. By laying hold of them the guilty could escape punishment, 1 K 1:50; 2:28.

altar's ledge, below, so that it reaches half-way up the altar. •And for the altar you are to make shafts of acacia wood and plate them with bronze. •These are to be passed through the rings, so that they are on either side of the altar when it is carried. •You are to make the altar hollow, of boards; you will make it in the way that was shown to you on the mountain.

The court^c

•You are to make the court of the tabernacle. Facing the south country, on the southern side, the hangings of the court are to be of fine twined linen, one hundred cubits long for one side. •Their twenty bronze posts are to be set in twenty bronze sockets and to have their hooks and rods of silver. •So too for the northern side there are to be hangings one hundred cubits long, and twenty posts set in twenty bronze sockets, with their hooks and rods of silver. •Across the width of the court, on the western side, there are to be fifty cubits of hangings, carried on ten posts set in ten sockets. •The width of the court on the eastern side facing the sunrise is to be fifty cubits. •On one side of the gateway there are to be fifteen cubits of hangings, carried on three posts set in three sockets. •On the other side of the gateway there are also to be fifteen cubits of hangings, carried on three posts set in three sockets. •The gateway to the court is to consist of a screen twenty cubits wide made of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, of crimson stuffs and fine twined linen, the work of a skilled embroiderer, carried on four posts set in their four sockets. •All the posts enclosing the court are to be connected by silver rods; their hooks are to be of silver, their sockets of bronze. •The length of the court is to be one hundred cubits, its width fifty cubits, its height five cubits. All the hangings are to be made of fine twined linen, and their sockets of bronze. •All the furnishings for whatever use in the tabernacle, all the pegs of it and of the court, must be of bronze.

The oil for the lamps

Nb 4:16

•You are to order the sons of Israel to bring you pure olive oil for the light, and to keep a flame burning there perpetually. •Aaron and his sons are to set this flame in the Tent of Meeting, outside the veil that is before the Testimony. It must burn there before Yahweh from evening to morning perpetually. This is an irrevocable ordinance for their descendants, to be kept by the sons of Israel.

The priestly vestments

Si 45:10

28 •From among the sons of Israel summon your brother Aaron and his sons to be priests in my service: Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar, sons of Aaron. •For Aaron your brother you are to make sacred vestments to give dignity and magnificence. •You are to instruct all the ablest craftsmen, whose ability I have given them,^a to make Aaron's vestments for his consecration to my priesthood. •These are the vestments they must make: pectoral, ephod, robe, embroidered tunic, turban and girdle. They are to make sacred vestments for your brother Aaron and his sons to be priests in my service. •They must use gold, purple stuffs, violet shade and red, crimson stuffs, and fine twined linen.

The ephod^b

Ho 5:4

•They are to make the ephod of gold, purple stuffs, violet shade and red, crimson stuffs, and fine twined linen, the work of a skilled embroiderer. •It must have two shoulder-straps fitted to it to join its two ends together. •The woven band on it to hold it is to be of similar workmanship and form one piece with it: this must be of gold, purple stuffs, violet shade and red, crimson stuffs, and fine twined linen. •You will then take two onyx stones and engrave them with the names of the sons of Israel, •six of their names on one stone, the remaining six on the other, in the order of their birth. •With the art of a jeweller, of an engraver of seals, you are to engrave the two stones with the names of the sons of Israel, and mount them in settings of gold mesh. •You are to fasten the two stones commemorating the sons of Israel to the shoulder-straps of the ephod. In this way Aaron will bear their names on his shoulders in the presence of Yahweh, so as to commemorate them. •You must also make golden rosettes, •and two chains of pure gold twisted like cord; you are to attach these cord-like chains to the rosettes.

30:16
Nb 31:54

The pectoral of judgement

•You are to make the pectoral of judgement, finely brocaded, of the same workmanship as the ephod. You are to make it of gold, purple stuffs, violet shade and red, crimson stuffs, and fine twined linen. •It is to be square and doubled over, a span in length and a span in width. •In this you are to set four rows of stones. Sard, topaz, carbuncle, for the first row; •emerald, sapphire, diamond the second row; •the third row, hyacinth, ruby, amethyst; •the fourth row, beryl, onyx, jasper. These are to be mounted in gold settings. •They are to bear the names of the sons of Israel and, like the names on them, are to be twelve in number. They are to be engraved like seals, each with the name of one of the twelve tribes. •For the pectoral you will make chains of pure gold twisted like cords. •For the pectoral you must make two gold rings and fix them to its two upper corners. •You must fasten the two gold cords to the two rings fixed on the corners of the pectoral. •The other two ends of the cords you must fasten to the two rosettes, so that they will be attached to the shoulder-straps of the ephod, on the front. •You are to make two gold rings and fix them to the two lower corners of the pectoral, on the inner hem, next to the ephod. •You are to make two more gold rings and fix them low down on the front of the two shoulder-pieces of the ephod, close to the join, above the woven band of the ephod. •You must secure the pectoral by passing a ribbon of violet-purple through its rings and those of the ephod, so that the pectoral will sit above the woven band and not come apart from the ephod. •Thus by means of the pectoral of judgement, when Aaron enters the sanctuary, he will bear the names of the sons of Israel on his breast to call them to mind continually in the presence of Yahweh. •To the pectoral of judgement you will add the Urim and the Thummim so that Aaron may have them on his breast when he goes into Yahweh's presence. Thus in the presence of Yahweh Aaron will continually bear on his breast the oracle^d of the sons of Israel.

c. Consecrated space round the sanctuary. This text describes it as fenced in with wood and hangings. It is the equivalent of the courts in the Temple of Jerusalem, 1 K 6:36; Ezk 40; Mt 21:12p; Ac 21:27-30. 28 a. Lit. 'the wise of heart whom I have filled with a spirit of wisdom'.

b. The Old Testament uses the name ephod (meaning uncertain) for three different objects: 1. The ephod which is an instrument of divination, used for consulting Yahweh, see 1 S 2:28+. 2. The ephod bad 'linen loincloth', worn by sacred ministers, see 1 S 2:18+. 3. The ephod of the high priest, a kind of breastplate held in position by a belt and shoulder-straps. To this is said to be attached the 'breastplate of judgement', vv. 15f, in which were the sacred lots, the Urim and Thummim, v. 30; Lv 8:7-8, see 1 S 14:41+. In this way the text connects the high priest's ephod with the oracular ephod; but the relationship is artificial because the description given here of the high priest's vestments applies only to the post-exilic period, whereas there is no evidence for the use, after David's time, of the oracular ephod with its sacred lots—cf. also Jg 8:27 +.

c. Vv. 23-28 of the Hebr. have been abridged in the Greek and placed after v. 29.

d. Lit. 'the judgement, i.e., the oracle, the instrument for judging the children of Israel.

e. For the benefit of the congregation outside the sanctuary, v. 35.

39:27-31 The diadem

^{29:6} 'You are to make a plate of pure gold and engrave on it 'Consecrated to ³⁶
^{W 18:24} Yahweh' as a man engraves a seal. •You will secure this to the turban with a ³⁷
^{Si 45:12} ribbon of violet-purple; it is to be placed on the front of the turban. •Aaron is to ³⁸ ^{Zc 14:20} wear it on his brow, and so take on himself any shortcomings there may be in what the sons of Israel consecrate in any of their sacred offerings.^g Aaron must always wear it on his brow, to draw down on them the goodwill of Yahweh.
^{39:27} The tunic you must weave of fine linen, and make a turban of fine linen, and a ³⁹ girdle, the work of a skilled embroiderer.

The vestments of the priests

'For the sons of Aaron you are to make tunic and girdle and head-dress to give ⁴⁰ ^{30:30} dignity and magnificence. •^hYou will put these on your brother Aaron and his ⁴¹ sons. You will then anoint and investⁱ and consecrate them to serve me in the ^{20:26} priesthood. •You are to make them linen breeches^j to cover their nakedness from ⁴²
^{Si 45:8} loin to thigh. •Aaron and his sons must wear these when they go into the Tent ⁴³ of Meeting and when they approach the altar to serve in the sanctuary, as a precaution against incurring some fault that would mean death. This is an irrevocable ordinance for Aaron and for his descendants after him.

^{Lv 8} Heb 7:26-28 The consecration of Aaron and his sons. Preparations

^{29:23} 29 'This is the ritual you must use for them when you consecrate them to ¹ serve me in the priesthood. Take one young bull and two rams without ^{Lv 2:4} blemish, •unleavened bread, unleavened cakes mixed with oil, and unleavened ² wafers spread with oil, made from fine wheat flour. •You must put these into a ³ basket and present them in the basket, at the same time as the young bull and the two rams.

Their purification, clothing, and anointing

'You are to bring Aaron and his sons to the entrance of the Tent of Meeting ⁴ and they are to be bathed.^a •Take the vestments and dress Aaron in the tunic, ⁵ ^{28:36f;} the robe of the ephod, the ephod, and the pectoral, and gird him with the woven ⁶
^{39:30} band of the ephod. •Put the turban on his head, and on the turban fix the sacred ⁶
^{30:22-23+} diadem. •Then take the chrism and pour it on his head, and so anoint him. ⁷
 •Next, bring his sons and clothe them with tunics. •Pass the girdles round ⁸ their waists and put the head-dresses on their heads. And by irrevocable ordinance ⁹ the priesthood will be theirs. This is how you are to invest Aaron and his sons.

The offerings

'You are to bring the bull in front of the Tent of Meeting. Aaron and his sons ¹⁰ are to lay their hands on its head.^b •Immolate the bull there before Yahweh ¹¹ ^{Lv 1:5+} at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. •Then take some of its blood and with ¹² ^{Lv 4:7} your finger put it on the horns of the altar. Next, pour out the rest of the blood at the foot of the altar. •And then take all the fat that covers the entrails, the ¹³ fatty mass which is over the liver, the two kidneys with their covering fat, and burn them on the altar. •As for the bull's flesh, its skin and its dung, you must ¹⁴ ^{Lv 4:1+} burn them outside the camp, for it is a sin-offering.^c

'Next you are to take one of the rams. Aaron and his sons are to lay their ¹⁵ ^{24:6} hands on its head. •You are to immolate the ram, take up its blood and pour it ¹⁶ out on the surrounds of the altar. •Next, divide the ram in pieces and wash ¹⁷ ^{Lv 1:1+} the entrails and legs and put them on top of the pieces and the head. •Then ¹⁸
^{Lv 1:9+} burn the whole ram on the altar. This will be a burnt offering whose fragrance ¹⁹
^{Si 35:5} will appease^d Yahweh; it will be a holocaust in honour of Yahweh.
^{Ezk 6:13}
^{Ep 5:2}

- 19 'Next you are to take the other ram. Aaron and his sons are to lay their hands 20 on its head. •You are to immolate the ram, take some of its blood and put it on the lobe of Aaron's right ear, on the lobes of his sons' right ears, the thumbs of their right hands, and the big toes of their right feet, and pour out the rest 21 of the blood on the surrounds of the altar. •Then take some of the blood that remains on the altar, together with the chrism, and sprinkle it on Aaron and his vestments and on his sons and their vestments: so that he and his vestments will be consecrated and his sons too, and their vestments.

The investiture of the priests

- 22 'You are to take the fatty parts of the ram: the tail, the fat that covers the entrails, the fatty mass which is over the liver, the two kidneys with their covering 23 fat and also the right thigh, for this is a ram of investiture. •You are to take a loaf 29:2-3 of bread, a cake of bread made with oil, and a wafer, from the basket of 24 unleavened bread placed before Yahweh, •and put it all into Aaron's hands and 25 those of his sons and make the gesture of offering^f before Yahweh. •Then you are to take them back and burn them on the altar, on top of the holocaust, an appeasing fragrance before Yahweh. This will be a holocaust in honour of Yahweh.
 26 'You are to take the breast of the ram of Aaron's investiture and make the 27 gesture of offering before Yahweh; this is to be your portion. •You are to consecrate the breast that has been thus offered, as also the thigh that is set aside —the breast, that is, which has been offered and the thigh that has been set 28 aside from the ram of investiture of Aaron and his sons. •This, by perpetual 8i 45:21 law, will be the portion that Aaron and his sons are to receive from the sons of Israel, since it is the portion set aside, a portion the sons of Israel are to set aside from their communion sacrifices, the portion they owe to Yahweh.
 29 'Aaron's sacred vestments are to pass to his sons after him, and they will 30 wear them for their anointing and investiture. •The son of Aaron who succeeds him in the priesthood and enters the Tent of Meeting to serve in the sanctuary must wear them for seven days.

The sacred meal

- 31 'You are to take the ram of investiture and cook its meat in a holy place.
 32 Aaron and his sons will eat the meat of the ram, and also the bread that is in 8v 8:31 33 the basket, at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. •They are to eat what was used in making atonement for them at their investiture, their consecration.
 34 No layman may eat these; they are holy things. •If any of the meat from the investiture sacrifice, or the bread, should be left till morning, you must put 35 what is left in the fire. It is not to be eaten; it is a holy thing. •For Aaron and his sons you are to do exactly as I have commanded you: you are to take seven 8v 8:33f days over their investiture.

The consecration of the altar of holocaust

- 36 'On each of the days you are also to offer a bull as a sacrifice for sin,

f. Behind this clause lies perhaps the primitive idea, for which there is evidence in Babylonian sources, that the sound of the bells would drive off the demons who haunted the threshold of sanctuaries.

g. The high priest, being consecrated to God, was personally responsible for involuntary ritual shortcomings.

h. The v. anticipates 29:1 and extends to the ordinary priest the anointing reserved to the high priest, 29:7 and Lv 8:12. It is a later addition.

i. Lit. 'you shall fill their hands'. Portions of the victim that the new priest was about to offer were placed in his hands, 29:9; 32:29; Lv 8:27-28; Jg 17:5,12; 1 K 13:33—a symbolic rite to which, in the Roman Ordinal, the 'handing over of instruments' corresponds.

j. For modesty's sake. For the same reason the Book of the Covenant forbids altars with steps, 20:26, though there was to be one in the Temple.

29 a. For the ritual purity required a full bath was necessary, not the washing of 30:19-21.

b. To make the sacrifice their own.

c. Sacrifice for sin, offered for Aaron himself and for his sons.

d. An anthropomorphism for God's acceptance of the offering, cf. also v. 25,41 etc.; Gn 8:21; Lv 1:9; Nb 28:2.

e. Later addition. The Greek puts it before 20b; Sam. after 28; Lv after Lv 8:29 (which corresponds to Ex 29:26).

f. Lit. 'swinging to and fro': the priest held his hand out with the offering and then drew it back.

b. Rich and poor are equal in the sight of God.

c. The directives for the use of chrism, like those for incense (vv. 34-35), are of late origin: all priests are to be anointed but no layman. According to the ancient historical texts only the king is anointed, 1 S 10:1f; 16:1f; 1 K 1:39; 2 K 9:6; 11:12. This anointing makes the king a sacred person: he is the 'anointed of Yahweh', 1 S 24:7; 26:9,11,23; 2 S 1:14,16; 19:22, which is in Hebr. 'the Messiah', in Greek 'the Christ'. In the Psalms the title is often used of David and his dynasty; it came to be used particularly of the King to come, the Messiah, of whom David was the prototype; the New Testament applies the title to Jesus 'the Christ'. According to the ancient 'Priestly' tradition anointing is reserved to the high priest, Ex 29:7,29; Lv 4:3,5,16; 8:12; cf. Zc 4:14. It was later extended to the whole priesthood, 30:30; 28:41; 40:15; Lv 7:36; 10:7; Nb 3:3.

The 14 man who profanes it must be put to death; whoever does any work on that day shall be outlawed from his people. •Work is to be done for six days, but the 15 seventh day must be a day of complete rest, consecrated to Yahweh. Whoever does any work on the sabbath day must be put to death. •The sons of Israel are 16 to keep the sabbath, observing it from generation to generation: this is a lasting covenant. •Between myself and the sons of Israel the sabbath is a sign for ever, 17 since in six days Yahweh made the heavens and the earth, but on the seventh day he rested and drew breath” ’.

33 Yahweh said to Moses, 'Leave this place, with the people you brought out of the land of Egypt, and go to the land that I swore to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob I would give their descendants. •I will send an angel in front of you; I will drive out the Canaanites, the Amorites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, the Jebusites. •Go on to the land where milk and honey flow. I shall not go with you myself—you are a headstrong people—or I might exterminate you on the way.' •On hearing these stern words the people went into mourning, and no one wore his ornaments.

Then Yahweh said to Moses, 'Say to the sons of Israel, "You are a headstrong people. If I were to go with you, even for a moment only, I should exterminate you. Take off your ornaments, then, that I may know how to deal with you!" ' So, from Mount Horeb onwards, the sons of Israel stripped themselves of their ornaments.^a Moses used to take the Tent and pitch it outside the camp, at some distance from the camp. He called it the Tent of Meeting. Anyone who had to consult Yahweh^c would go out to the Tent of Meeting, outside the camp. •Whenever Moses went out to the Tent, all the people would rise. Every man would stand at the door of his tent and watch Moses until he reached the Tent; •the pillar of cloud would come down and station itself at the entrance to the Tent, and Yahweh would speak with Moses. •When they saw the pillar of cloud stationed at the entrance to the Tent, all the people would rise and bow low, each at the door of his tent. •Yahweh would speak with Moses face to face, as a man speaks with his friend. Then Moses would turn back to the camp, but the young man who was his servant, Joshua son of Nun, would not leave the Tent.

Moses prays

Moses said to Yahweh, 'See, you yourself say to me, "Make the people go on", but you do not let me know who it is you will send with me. Yet you yourself have said, "I know you by name and you have won my favour". •If indeed I have won your favour, please show me your ways,^d so that I can understand you and win your favour. Remember, too, that this nation is your own people.'^e Yahweh replied, 'I myself will go with you, and I will give you rest'.^f •Moses said, 'If you are not going with us yourself, do not make us leave this place. By what means can it be known that I, I and my people, have won your favour, if not by your going with us? By this we shall be marked out, I and my people, from all the peoples on the face of the earth.' •Yahweh said to Moses, 'Again I will do what you have asked, because you have won my favour and because I know you by name'.

1. Lit. 'you have filled your hands', 28:41+.

33 a. The text is apparently corrupt.

b. In vv. 7-11 Moses speaks face to face with Yahweh (an impossibility according to v. 20); the verses interrupt the dialogue and are from another tradition.

c. I.e. to ask for an oracle through the agency of Moses who converses alone with God in the Tent, cf. above 18:15. Later, this 'consultation' will be effected through a man of God or through a prophet, 1 K 14:5; 22:5,8; 2 K 3:11; 8:8, etc. or by using the sacred lots, see 1 S 14:41+. On trial by ordeal as a means of discovering God's verdict see Nb 5:11f+.

d. I.e. 'of what nature you are'.

e. Conjectural translation. Greek 'If I have found favour in your eyes show yourself to me; let me see you in order to find favour before you and know that this great nation is your people.' Vulg. 'If therefore I have found favour before you show me your face that I may know you and find favour in your eyes; look on this multitude which is your people.'

f. I.e. the undisturbed occupation of Canaan.

g. See note to 24:16.

h. God, by pronouncing his name, reveals something of himself to Moses. see 3:13-15+.

i. God's sanctity is so removed from man's unworthiness, see Lv 17:1+, that man must perish if he looks on God, cf. Ex 19:21; Lv 16:2; Nb 4:20, or even hears his voice, Ex 20:19; Dt 5:24-26; 18:16. For this reason Moses, Ex 3:6, Elijah, 1 K 19:13, and even the seraphim, Is 6:2, cover their faces in his presence.

The man who remains alive after seeing God is overwhelmed with astonishment and gratitude, Gn 32:31; Dt 5:24, and with awe, Jg 6:22-23; 13:22; Is 6:5. It is a favour God rarely concedes, Ex 24:11; he grants it to Moses his 'friend', Ex 33:11; Nb 12:7-8; Dt 34:10, and to Elijah, 1 K 19:11f, the two who looked on the New Testament theophany, the transfiguration of Christ, Mt 17:3p. Hence in Christian tradition Moses and Elijah (together with St Paul, 2 Co 12:1f) are the three pre-eminent mystics. In the New Testament the 'glory' of God, cf. 33:18 and 24:16+, is manifested in Jesus, Jn 1:14+; 11:40, who alone has gazed on the Father, Jn 1:18; 6:46; 1 Jn 4:12. Man cannot look on God's face except in heaven, Mt 5:8; 1 Jn 3:2; 1 Co 13:12.

34 a. 34:1-28: 'Yahwistic' account of the Covenant, actually parallel with that of 19:1-20:21 but turned into the sequel of the preceding narrative by a reference to the reconstruction of the tablets, vv. 1,4, broken by Moses, 32:19.

b. 'come up to me on the mountain' Greek.

c. Yahweh fulfils his promise, 33:19-23 and reveals his divine attributes, most particularly his loving-kindness.

d. Vv. 10-26 are sometimes called the 'Ritual Decalogue' (though whether ten commandments are to be distinguished is disputed), or better the 'Yahwistic' Book of the Covenant. They lay down the necessary conditions of the Covenant: prohibition of idolatry, observance of the sabbath, as in the Decalogue of Ex 20. Besides these there are ritual ordinances: feasts, first-fruits, sacrifice.

all your people I shall work such wonders as have never been worked in any land or in any nation. All the people round you will see what Yahweh can do, for what I shall do through you will be awe-inspiring. •Mark, then, what I command you today. I mean to drive out the Amorites before you, the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, the Jebusites. •Take care you make no pact with the inhabitants of the land you are about to enter, or this will prove a pitfall at your very feet. •You are to tear down their altars, smash their standing-stones, cut down their sacred poles.^e

‘You shall bow down to no other god, for Yahweh’s name is the Jealous One; he is a jealous God. •Make no pact with the inhabitants of the land or, when they prostitute themselves^f to their own gods and sacrifice to them, they may invite you and you may consent to eat from their victim; •or else you may choose wives for your sons from among their daughters and these, prostituting themselves to their own gods, may induce your sons to do the same.

‘You shall celebrate the feast of Unleavened Bread: you shall eat unleavened bread, as I have commanded you, at the appointed time in the month of Abib, for in the month of Abib you came out of Egypt.

‘All that first issues from the womb is mine:^g every male, every first-born of flock or herd. •But the first-born donkey you must redeem with an animal from your flocks. If you do not redeem it, you must break its neck. You must redeem all the first-born of your sons. And no one is to come before me empty-handed.

‘For six days you shall labour, but on the seventh day you shall rest, even at ploughing time and harvest.

‘You shall celebrate the feast of Weeks, of the first-fruits of wheat harvest, and the feast of Ingathering at the close of the year.

‘Three times a year all your menfolk must present themselves before the Lord Yahweh, the God of Israel.

‘When I have dispossessed the nations for you and extended your frontiers, no one will covet your land, if you present yourselves three times in the year before Yahweh your God.

‘You must not offer the blood of the victim sacrificed to me at the same time as you offer unleavened bread, nor is the victim offered at the feast of Passover to be put aside for the following day.

‘You must bring the best of the first-fruits of your soil to the house of Yahweh your God.

‘You must not boil a kid in its mother’s milk.’

Yahweh said to Moses, ‘Put these words in writing, for they are the terms of the covenant I am making with you and with Israel’.

He stayed there with Yahweh for forty days and forty nights, eating and drinking nothing. He^h inscribed on the tablets the words of the Covenant—the Ten Words.

Moses comes down from the mountainⁱ

When Moses came down from the mountain of Sinai—as he came down from the mountain, Moses had the two tablets of the Testimony in his hands—he did not know that the skin on his face was radiant after speaking with Yahweh. And when Aaron and all the sons of Israel saw Moses, the skin on his face shone so much that they would not venture near him. •But Moses called to them, and Aaron with all the leaders of the community came back to him; and he spoke to them. •Then all the sons of Israel came closer, and he passed on to them all the orders that Yahweh had given him on the mountain of Sinai. •And when Moses had finished speaking to them, he put a veil over his face. •Whenever he went into Yahweh’s presence to speak with him, Moses would remove the veil until he came out again. And when he came out, he would tell the sons of Israel what he had been ordered to pass on to them, •and the sons of Israel would see the face of Moses radiant. Then Moses would put the veil back over his face until he returned to speak with Yahweh.

VI. THE FURNISHING AND BUILDING OF THE SANCTUARY^a

The sabbath rest

- 1 35 Moses assembled the whole community of the sons of Israel and said to 2 them, 'These are the things Yahweh has ordered to be done: •Work is to be done for six days, but the seventh is to be a holy day for you, a day of complete rest, consecrated to Yahweh. Whoever does any work on that day shall 3 be put to death. •You must not light a fire on the sabbath day in any of your homes.'

Nb15:32f

The materials are collected

25:2-7

- 4 Moses spoke to the whole community of the sons of Israel. 'This' he said 'is 5 what Yahweh has commanded: •Set aside a contribution for Yahweh out of your possessions. Let all give willingly and bring this contribution for Yahweh:
6 gold, silver and bronze; •purple stuffs, of violet shade and red, crimson stuffs,
7 fine linen, goats' hair, •rams' skins dyed red and fine leather, acacia wood, •oil
8 for the light, spices for the chrism and for the fragrant incense; •onyx stones
9 and gems to be set in ephod and pectoral. •Let all the most skilled craftsmen 10 among you come and make all that Yahweh has commanded: •the tabernacle, its tent and its covering, its hooks and its frames, its crossbars, its posts, and its 11 sockets; •the ark with its shafts, the throne of mercy and the veil that screens it;
12 the table with its shafts and all the furnishings for it, and the loaves of offering;
13 the lamp-stand for the light, with its accessories, its lamps, and the oil for the 14 light; •the altar of incense with its shafts, the chrism, the fragrant incense, and 15 the screen for the entrance to the tent; •the altar of holocaust with its bronze 16 grating, its shafts, and all the furnishings for it, the basin and its stand; •the 17 hangings of the court, its posts, its sockets, and the screen for the gateway to 18 the court; •the pegs of the tabernacle and of the court, together with their cords; 19 the sumptuous vestments for service in the sanctuary—sacred vestments for Aaron the priest, and his sons' vestments—for the priestly functions.'

Nb 4:5

- 20 Then the whole community of Israel's sons withdrew from Moses' presence.
21 And all those whose heart prompted them to give came, bringing their contribution for Yahweh for making the Tent of Meeting, for all its functions and for 22 the sacred vestments. •They came, men and women, all giving willingly, bringing brooches, rings, bracelets, necklaces, gold things of every kind, all those who 23 had vowed to Yahweh some article of gold. •All those who happened to own purple stuffs, of violet shade or red, crimson stuffs, fine linen, goats' hair, rams' 24 skins dyed red, or fine leather, brought them. •All who could contribute to the collection of silver and bronze brought their contribution for Yahweh. And all who happened to own acacia wood, suitable for any of the work to be done, 25 brought it. •All the skilled women set their hands to spinning, and brought purple stuffs, of violet shade and red, crimson stuffs and fine linen, from what 26 they had spun. •All the women willingly used their special skill and spun the 27 goats' hair. •The leaders brought onyx stones and gems to be set in ephod and incense. •All the men and women whose heart prompted them to contribute to 29 all the work that Yahweh had ordered through Moses to be done—the sons of Israel brought their free offering to Yahweh.

31:2-6 The craftsmen for the sanctuary

38:22 Moses said to the sons of Israel, 'See, Yahweh has singled out Bezalel son of 30
Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah. •He has filled him with the spirit of God 31 and endowed him with skill and perception and knowledge for every kind of craft: •for the art of designing and working in gold and silver and bronze; •for 32 cutting stones to be set, for carving in wood, for every kind of craft. •And on 33 him and Oholiab son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, he has bestowed the 34 gift of teaching. •He has filled them with skill to carry out all the crafts of 35 engraver, damask weaver, embroiderer in purple stuffs, of violet shade and red, in crimson stuffs and fine linen, or of the common weaver; they are able to do work of all kinds, and to do it with originality'.

36 Bezalel and Oholiab and all the skilled craftsmen whom Yahweh had 1 endowed with the skill and perception to carry out all that was required for the building of the sanctuary, did their work exactly as Yahweh had directed.

A halt is called to the collection

Moses then summoned Bezalel and Oholiab and all the skilled craftsmen 2 whose hearts Yahweh had endowed with skill, all whose heart prompted them to offer to do the work. •From Moses they received all that the sons of Israel 3 had brought as contributions for the work of building the sanctuary. As these continued each morning to bring •their offerings, the skilled craftsmen, busy 4 with the various works on the sanctuary, all left their work •and went to tell 5 Moses, 'The people are bringing more than is needed for the work Yahweh has directed us to do'. •At Moses' command, therefore, this proclamation was made 6 throughout the camp: 'Let no one, man or woman, do anything more towards the collection for the sanctuary.' So the people were stopped from bringing any more; •the material they had was enough, and more than enough, to complete 7 all the work.

26:1-11,14 The tabernacle^a

26:1 All the most skilled craftsmen among the workers made the tabernacle. He^b 8 made it with ten sheets of fine twined linen, of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, and of crimson stuffs, finely brocaded with cherubs. •The length of a single sheet 9 was twenty-eight cubits, its width four cubits, all the sheets being of the same size. •He joined five of the sheets together, and the other five similarly. •He 10 attached loops of violet stuff to the border of the last sheet in one set, and did 11 the same for the border of the last sheet in the other set. •He put fifty loops on 12 the first sheet and, matching them one by one, fifty loops on the border of the last sheet in the second set. •He made fifty gold clasps and with them drew the 13 sheets together. In this way the tabernacle was a unified whole.

Next he made sheets of goats' hair to form a tent over the tabernacle; he made 14 eleven of these. •The length of a single sheet was thirty cubits, its width four 15 cubits; the eleven sheets were all of the same size. •He joined five of these sheets 16 together into one set, the remaining six into another. •He attached fifty loops to 17 the border of the last sheet in one set, and fifty loops to the border of the last sheet in the second set. •And he made fifty bronze clasps, so as to draw the tent 18 together and make it a unified whole. •For the tent he made a covering of rams' 19 skins dyed red, and a covering of fine leather to spread over it.

26:15-29 The framework

For the tabernacle he made frames of acacia wood, these to stand upright. 20

²¹ Each frame was ten cubits long and one and a half cubits wide. •Each frame ²² was fitted with twin tenons; this he did for all the frames of the tabernacle. •He made the frames for the tabernacle: twenty frames for the southern side, facing ²⁴ the south country. •He made forty silver sockets for putting under the twenty frames: two sockets under the first frame to receive its two tenons, and so on ²⁵ for the other frames. •For the other side of the tabernacle, on the north, he made Nb 8:7
²⁶ twenty frames •and forty silver sockets, two sockets under each frame. •For the ²⁷ back of the tabernacle, on the west, he made six frames. •And he made two frames ²⁸ for the corners at the back of the tabernacle. •These frames were coupled at their lower end and so to the top, up to the level of the first ring; this he did with the ³⁰ two frames that were to form the two corners. •Thus there were eight frames ³¹ with their sixteen silver sockets; two sockets under each frame. •He made crossbars of acacia wood: five to hold the frames together that were to form ³² one side of the tabernacle, •five on the other side to hold the frames that were to ³³ form the end of the tabernacle on the west. •He made the middle bar, fixed ³⁴ half-way up, to run from one end to the other. •He plated the frames with gold, and put gold rings on them to take the crossbars which he plated with gold.

The veil

26:31-32,
36-37

³⁵ He made the veil of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, of crimson stuffs, and ³⁶ of fine twined linen, skilfully embroidered with cherubs. •For hanging this veil he made four posts of acacia wood and plated them with gold, with golden hooks, ³⁷ and he cast four silver sockets for them. •For the entrance to the tent he made a screen of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, and of crimson stuffs and fine ³⁸ twined linen, the work of a skilled embroiderer. •For the hanging of this he made five posts, and their hooks; their capitals and rods he plated with gold;
 their five sockets were of bronze.

The ark

25:10-15,
17-20

¹ 37 Bezalel made the ark of acacia wood, two and a half cubits long, one and ² a half cubits wide, one and a half cubits high. •He plated it, inside and ³ out, with pure gold, and decorated it all round with a gold moulding. •He cast four gold rings for the ark, attaching them to its four feet: two rings on one side ⁴ and two rings on the other. •He also made shafts of acacia wood plating them ⁵ with gold; •and he passed the shafts through the rings on the sides of the ark, for carrying it. •Also he made of pure gold a throne of mercy, two and a half ⁷ cubits long, and one and a half cubits wide. •For the two ends of this throne ⁸ of mercy he made two golden cherubs; he made them of beaten gold, •the first cherub for one end and the second for the other, and fastened them to the two ⁹ ends of the throne of mercy so that they made one piece with it. •The cherubs had their wings spread upwards so that they overshadowed the throne of mercy.
 They faced one another, their faces towards the throne of mercy.

The table for the offertory bread

25:23-29

¹⁰ He made the table of acacia wood, two cubits long, one cubit wide, and one
¹¹ and a half cubits high. •He plated it with pure gold, and decorated it all round ¹² with a gold moulding. •He fitted it with struts, one hand's breadth wide, and ¹³ decorated these with a golden moulding. •He cast four gold rings for it and ¹⁴ fixed these at the four corners where the four legs were. •The rings lay close ¹⁵ to the struts to hold the shafts for carrying the table. •He made the shafts of ¹⁶ acacia wood and plated them with gold; these were for carrying the table. •He made the furnishings of pure gold for the table: dishes, cups, jars and libation bowls.

b. The singular here replaces the plural: the author the necessary grammatical changes.

25:31-39 The lamp-stand

He made the lamp-stand of pure gold, and made the lamp-stand, base and 17 stem, of beaten gold. Its cups—calyx and petals—were of one piece with it. •Six 18 branches extended from the sides of it, three from one side, three from the other.
 The first branch carried three cups shaped like almond blossoms, each with its 19 calyx and petals; the second branch, too, carried three cups shaped like almond blossoms, each with its calyx and petals, and similarly all six branches extending 20 from the lamp-stand. •The lamp-stand itself carried four cups shaped like almond 21 blossoms, each with its calyx and petals, •thus: one calyx under the first two 22 branches extending from the lamp-stand, one under the next pair, one under the last pair: corresponding to the six branches extending from the lamp-stand.
 The calyxes and the branches were of one piece with the lamp-stand, and the 23 whole was made from a single piece of pure gold, beaten out. •Then he made 24 the lamps for it, seven of them, and its snuffers and trays of pure gold. •He used a talent of pure gold for making the lamp-stand and all its accessories.

30:1-5 The altar of incense. Chrism and incense

He made the altar of incense out of acacia wood. It was one cubit long, and 25 one cubit wide—that is to say, square—and two cubits high; its horns were of one piece with it. •The top of it, its surrounding sides, and its horns, he plated 26 with pure gold, and decorated it all round with a gold moulding. •He fixed two 27 gold rings to it below the moulding on its two opposite sides, to take the shafts used for carrying it. •These shafts he made of acacia wood and plated with gold. 28
 He also made the sacred chrism and the pure, fragrant incense, blending it as 29 perfumers do.

30:22-25,
34-3527:1-8 The altar of holocaust

38 He made the altar of holocaust out of acacia wood, a square five cubits 1 long and five cubits wide, its height three cubits. •At its four corners he put 2 horns, the horns being of one piece with it, and plated it with bronze. •He made 3 all the altar vessels: pans for the ashes, shovels, sprinkling basins, hooks, fire pans;
 he made all the vessels for the altar out of bronze. •He made a grating for it of 4 bronze network which he set under the ledge, below, so that it reached half-way up the altar. •He cast four rings and fixed them on the four corners of the bronze 5 grating to take the shafts. •He made the shafts of acacia wood and plated them 6 with bronze. •He placed these through the rings fixed to the sides of the altar for 7 carrying it, and he made the altar hollow, of boards.

30:18 The bronze basin

1 S 2:22 He made the bronze basin and its bronze support from the mirrors^a of the 8 women who served at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.^b

27:9-19 The court

Ezk 40:5 He made the court. For the southern side of the court, facing the south country, 9 there were one hundred cubits of hangings of fine twined linen. •Their twenty 10 posts with their twenty sockets were of bronze, their hooks and rods of silver.
 For the northern side there were one hundred cubits of hangings; their twenty 11 posts with their twenty sockets were of bronze, their hooks and rods of silver.
 For the western side, fifty cubits of hangings, carried on ten posts set in ten 12 sockets, with their hooks and rods of silver. •Fifty cubits, too, for the eastern side 13 facing the sunrise. •On one side of the gateway there were fifteen cubits of 14 hangings, carried on three posts set in three sockets. •On the other side—either 15 side of the entrance to the court—there were fifteen cubits of hangings with their three posts and three sockets. •All the hangings enclosing the court were of fine 16 twined linen. •The sockets for the posts were of bronze and their hooks of silver, 17 like the plating on their capitals. The posts for the court all had their rods of

- 18 silver. •The screen for the gateway of the court, the work of a skilled embroiderer, was made of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, of crimson stuffs, and fine twined linen. It was twenty cubits long and, along the width of it, five cubits high, like the hangings of the court. •Its four posts with their four sockets were of bronze. The hooks for the posts were of silver, like the plating on their capitals and like their rods. •The pegs for the tabernacle and for the court enclosure were all of bronze.

The amount of metal used^c

- 21 Here is the account of metals used for the tabernacle—the tabernacle of the Testimony—the account drawn up by order of Moses, the work of the Levites under the direction of Ithamar son of Aaron, the priest.
- 22 Bezalel son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, made all that Yahweh 35:30-35
23 had directed Moses to have made. •His partner was Oholiab son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, engraver, damask weaver, embroiderer in purple stuffs, of violet shade and red, in crimson stuffs and fine linen.
- 24 The amount of gold used in the work—the entire work for the sanctuary—(this 2 Ch24:6 25 was gold consecrated by offering) was twenty-nine talents and seven hundred and thirty shekels (reckoning by the sanctuary shekel). •The silver collected when the census of the community was taken weighed one hundred talents and one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five shekels (reckoning by the sanctuary shekel), •one beqa per head, or half a shekel (reckoning by the sanctuary shekel) for everyone of twenty years and over included in the census. These numbered Nb 1
27 six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty. •The hundred talents of Nb1:45-46
28 silver were used for casting the sockets for the sanctuary and for the veil: one hundred sockets out of the hundred talents, or one talent per socket. •With the one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five shekels he made the hooks for the 29 posts, the plating for their capitals, and their rods. •The bronze consecrated by offering amounted to seventy talents and two thousand four hundred shekels, 30 and with this he made the sockets for the entrance of the Tent of Meeting, the 31 bronze altar with its grating of bronze and all the furnishings for it, •the sockets for the enclosure of the court, those for the gateway to the court, all the pegs for the tabernacle, and all the pegs for the court enclosure.

The vestments of the high priest

Lv 8-10

- 1 39 From the purple stuffs, violet shade and red, the crimson stuffs, and the fine linen^a he made sumptuous vestments for service in the sanctuary. They made the sacred vestments for Aaron, as Yahweh had directed Moses.

The ephod

28:6-8

- 2 They made the ephod of gold, purple stuffs, violet shade and red, crimson 3 stuffs, and fine twined linen. •They beat gold into thin plates, and cut these into fine strips to weave into the purple stuffs, violet shade and red, into the crimson 4 stuffs and the fine linen, as does the weaver of damask. •For the ephod they made 5 two shoulder-straps, joined to it at its two ends. •The woven band on it to hold it formed one piece with it and was of similar workmanship: this was of gold, purple stuffs, violet shade and red, crimson stuffs, and fine twined linen, 6 as Yahweh had directed Moses. •They fashioned the onyx stones, mounted in 28:9-12
7 settings of gold mesh and engraved, as a seal is engraved, with the names of the sons of Israel. •They fastened the stones to the shoulder-straps of the ephod, stones commemorating the sons of Israel, as Yahweh had directed Moses.

38 a. The mirrors of antiquity were of polished bronze.

b. The problem of their function has not been resolved: servants, pious women (Greek: who fasted) pilgrims?

c. It is clear that this section is a later addition: the Levites were not yet established, Nb 3, the tax was not yet imposed, Nb 1, nor the distinction between the shekels yet made.

39 a. 'and the fine linen' absent from Hebr.

28:15-28 The pectoral of judgement

They made the pectoral, finely brocaded, of the same workmanship as the ephod, of gold, purple stuffs, violet shade and red, and fine twined linen. •It was square and they doubled it over, a span in length and a span in width. •In this they set four rows of stones. Sard, topaz, carbuncle, for the first row; •emerald, sapphire, diamond, the second row; •the third row, hyacinth, ruby, amethyst; the fourth row, beryl, onyx, jasper. These were mounted in settings of gold mesh. They bore the names of the sons of Israel and, like their names, were twelve in number. They were engraved as seals are, each with the name of one of the twelve tribes. •For the pectoral they made chains of pure gold twisted like cords. They made two gold rosettes and two gold rings, •and they fastened the two gold cords to the two rings fixed on the corners of the pectoral. •The other two ends of the cords they fastened to the two rosettes; they were thus attached to the shoulder-straps of the ephod, on the front. •They made two gold rings and fixed them to the two lower corners of the pectoral, on the inner hem, next to the ephod. •And they made two more gold rings and fixed them low down on the front of the two shoulder-straps of the ephod, close to the join, above the woven band of the ephod. •They secured the pectoral by passing a ribbon of violet-purple through its rings and those of the ephod, so that the pectoral would sit above the woven band and not come apart from the ephod, as Yahweh had directed Moses.

28:31-35 The robe

Then they made the robe of the ephod woven entirely of violet-purple. •The opening in the centre of it was like the neck of a coat of mail; round the opening was a border to keep the robe from tearing. •The lower hem of the robe they decorated with pomegranates of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, crimson stuffs, and fine twined linen. •They also made bells of pure gold and placed them all round the lower hem of the robe between the pomegranates, •bells and pomegranates alternately all round the lower hem of the robe of office, as Yahweh had directed Moses.

28:39-40,42 The vestments of the priests

Then they made the tunics of finely woven linen for Aaron and his sons, •the turban of fine linen, the head-dresses of fine linen, the breeches of fine twined linen, •the girdles of fine twined linen, of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, and of crimson stuffs, finely embroidered, as Yahweh had directed Moses. •They also made the plate, the holy diadem, of pure gold, and engraved on it 'Consecrated to Yahweh', as a man engraves a seal. •They attached to this a ribbon of violet-purple to secure it to the top of the turban, as Yahweh had directed Moses.

So all the work of the tabernacle, the Tent of Meeting, was completed. In carrying it out the sons of Israel had done exactly as Yahweh had directed Moses.

The finished work presented to Moses

They brought to Moses the tabernacle, the Tent and all its furnishings: its hooks, frames, crossbars, posts, sockets; •the covering of rams' skins dyed red, the covering of fine leather, and the screening veil; •the ark of the testimony with its shafts and the throne of mercy; •the table with all its furnishings, and the loaves of offering; •the lamp-stand of pure gold with its lamps—the lamps that were to be set on it—and all its accessories; the oil, too, for the light; •the golden altar, the chrism, the fragrant incense, the screen for the entrance to the tent; the bronze altar with its grating of bronze, its shafts and all its furnishings; the basin and its stand; •the hangings of the court, its posts, its sockets, and the screen for the gateway to the court, its cords, its pegs, and all the furniture for the service in the tabernacle, the Tent of Meeting; •the sumptuous vestments for service in the sanctuary—sacred vestments for Aaron the priest, and vestments 42 for his sons—for the priestly functions. •The sons of Israël had done all the work exactly as Yahweh had directed Moses.

43 Moses examined the whole work, and he could see they had done it as Yahweh had directed him. And Moses blessed them.

The sanctuary erected and consecrated

1 40 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •‘On the first day of the first month you 3 are to erect the tabernacle, the Tent of Meeting, •and place the ark of the 4 Testimony in it, screening it with the veil. •Bring in the table, arranging what is to be set in order on it. Bring in the lamp-stand, too, and set up its lamps.
 5 Place the golden altar of incense in front of the ark of the Testimony, and set 30:6
 6 up the screen at the entrance to the tabernacle. •Place the altar of holocaust
 7 in front of the entrance to the tabernacle, the Tent of Meeting. •Place the basin
 8 between the Tent of Meeting and the altar, and fill it with water. •Set up the 9 enclosure of the court and hang the screen at the gateway of the court. •Then, Lv 8:10 taking the chrism, anoint the tabernacle and everything in it, consecrating it Nb 7:2 10 with its furniture, to make it a holy place. •Anoint the altar of holocaust with all its furnishings; and consecrate the altar which henceforth will be a most holy 11 thing. •Anoint the basin with its stand, and consecrate it. •Bring Aaron and his 12 sons to the entrance of the Tent of Meeting and see that they bathe. •“Then Lv 8-10
 13 clothe Aaron with the sacred vestments, and anoint and consecrate him, to serve 14 me in the priesthood. •Next, bring his sons and clothe them with tunics. •Anoint 30:30 15 them as you have anointed their father, to serve me in the priesthood. This anointing of them is to confer the priesthood on them in perpetuity from generation to generation.’

The divine commands are carried out

16 17 Moses did this; he did exactly as Yahweh had directed him. •The tabernacle
 18 was set up on the first day of the first month in the second year. •Moses erected Nb 7:1
 the tabernacle. He fixed the sockets for it, put up its frames, put its crossbars 19 in position, set up its posts. •He spread the tent over the tabernacle and on 20 top of this the covering for the tent, as Yahweh had directed Moses. •He took the Testimony and placed it inside the ark. He set the shafts to the ark and 21 placed the throne of mercy on it. •He brought the ark into the tabernacle and put the screening veil in place; thus he screened the ark of Yahweh, as Yahweh 22 had directed Moses. •He placed the table in the Tent of Meeting, on the north 23 side of the tabernacle, outside the veil, •and on it arranged the loaves before 24 Yahweh, as Yahweh had directed Moses. •He put the lamp-stand in the Tent
 25 of Meeting, opposite the table, on the south side of the tabernacle; •and he set 26 up the lamps before Yahweh, as Yahweh had directed Moses. •He put the 27 golden altar in the Tent of Meeting in front of the veil, •and on it burnt fragrant
 28 incense, as Yahweh had directed Moses. •Then he put the screen at the entrance 29 to the tabernacle. •He put the altar of holocaust at the entrance to the tabernacle, the Tent of Meeting, and on it offered the holocaust and the oblation, as Yahweh 30 had directed Moses. •He put the basin between the Tent of Meeting and the 31 altar, and filled it with water for the ablutions; •this was for Aaron and his 32 sons^b to wash their hands and feet: •whenever they entered the Tent of Meeting 33 or approached the altar they washed, as Yahweh had directed Moses. •Moses then set up the court round the tabernacle and the altar and placed the screen at the gateway to the court. Thus Moses completed the work.

b. Vulg. omits a few details from 39:17-21 and has two vv. less than Hebr.; the verse numeration does not coincide until the end of the chapter.

40 a. Vulg. here abridges slightly and, from our v. 16 to the end of the chapter, is two verse numbers behind.

b. Hebr. ‘Moses and Aaron and his sons’. A reader may have added the name ‘Moses’ since Moses presented the offerings and performed the functions of a priest (v. 27 and Lv 8) at the investiture of Aaron.

1 Yahweh called Moses, and from the Tent of Meeting addressed him, saying,

1 a. Christian tradition from its early days (cf. Heb 8f) has always considered that this elaborate O. T. ritual portended and paved the way for the one redemptive sacrifice of Christ and for the sacraments of the Church.

b. The sacrifice called 'holocaust' ('wholly burned') was celebrated in Israel from ancient times: Gn 8:20; 22; Jg 6:19-21; 11:31; 12:19-21; 1 S 6:15; 7:9; 1 K 18:21-40. In Lv 1 the emphasis is on its expiatory character but the ancient holocaust was a sacrifice of thanksgiving for some signal divine intervention.

c. Ezk 44:11 assigns the immolation itself to the Levites.

d. The blood was considered the seat of the life-principle Lv 17:11; Dt 12:16 and 23, hence its leading part in sacrificial ritual, cf. below passim, and in covenant making, Ex 24:8. The slaughter of any animal becomes a cultic act and must be performed on an altar, 1 S 14:32f, and, according to the prescription of Lv 17:3f, in the sanctuary itself. To eat flesh with the blood in it is forbidden, Gn 9:4; Lv 3:17; 7:26; 17:12; 19:26; cf. Ac 15:29. Human blood, shed unjustly, cries out for vengeance Gn 4:10; Is 26:21; Ezk 24:7; Jb 16:18+.

e. Here the word is applied to holocaust but it is also used for any portion burned in God's honour, whatever the nature of the sacrifice. This rite confers as it were a 'spiritual' character on the thing offered, which can no longer be considered as material food offered to God and shared with him, cf. Dt 18:1+; on the contrary, it dissolves in smoke as incense does and goes up to God 'as an appeasing fragrance', cf. Ex 29:18+.

The Sacrifice for Sin^a

Ex 29:14
Ezk 46:20

1 4 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

2 "Speak to the sons of Israel and say:

"A man may sin inadvertently against any one of the commandments of Yahweh and do one of the forbidden things; in such a case:

a. Sins of the high priest

3 "If the one who sins is the anointed priest, thus making the people guilty,^b Ex 30:22+
then for the sin which he has committed he is to offer to Yahweh a young bull, 4 an animal from the herd without blemish, as a sacrifice for sin. •He is to bring the bull before Yahweh at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, he is to lay his 5 hand on its head and immolate it before Yahweh. •Then the anointed priest must take a little of the blood of the bull and take it into the Tent of Meeting.
6 He shall dip his finger in the blood and sprinkle it over the veil of the sanctuary 7 seven times, before Yahweh. •Then the priest must put a little of the blood of the bull on the horns of the altar of incense that smokes before Yahweh in the Tent of Meeting, and he is to pour all the rest of the bull's blood at the foot of the altar of holocaust at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.

8 "Of all the fat of this bull offered as a sacrifice for sin, this is what he will kidneys, the fat that is on them and on the loins, the fatty mass which he will 10 remove from the liver and kidneys—exactly as was done with the portion set apart in the communion sacrifice—and the priest must burn these on the altar of holocaust. Si 47:2

2 a. The 'oblation', being an offering of agricultural produce, originates as the rite of a settled population. The burning of the handful of flour 'as an appeasing fragrance' (Ex 29:18 and Lv 1:9+) assimilates the oblation to the holocaust. The oblation is usually accompanied by another, complementary, sacrifice.

b. The azkarah or 'reminder': the portion reminding the worshipper of God, or God of the worshipper?

c. A distinction was drawn between holy and most holy offerings; the latter sanctified everything they touched, Ex 29:37.

d. The prohibition of leaven has probably some connexion with the institution of the Passover, Ex 12:15-20.

e. Salt was believed to have a purifying effect, Ezk 16:4; 2 K 2:20; cf. Mt 5:13. The Assyrians used it in worship and nomad tribes in meals of friendship or of covenant.

f. Under 'oblations' vv. 12-16 classify the ancient practice of offering the first-fruits, cf. Dt 26:1+.

3 a. The communion sacrifice (often called 'peace-offering') was widespread in the semitic world and beyond. It was a sacred banquet at which the worshippers ate one portion of the victim, the other—the blood and the fatty parts, as being the most vital—being made over to the deity. It seems to have been the most commonly celebrated sacrifice in ancient Israel and the central rite of her feasts. Since it was a meal 'shared' with God, it expressed better than any other sacrifice the union of God with his faithful.

b. The word 'food' here and in v. 16 has been replaced in the Greek by 'appeasing fragrance', the better to safeguard God's entirely spiritual nature (cf. Ps 50:13; Dn 14; etc.).

c. Man cannot feed on what is God's, see notes to 1:5 and 3:1.

4 a. The 'sacrifice for sin' expiates ritual faults in which the offended person is Yahweh; but the 'sacrifice of reparation' (called also 'guilt-offering'), 5:14-26, deals with infringements of rights either of God or of neighbour. The imposition of hands makes the victim and the offerer one, cf. Lv 16. To the sacrifice for sin Lv gives the greatest prominence; the Books of Chronicles, and eventually the N.T., will give it new significance.

b. The high priest was God's representative before the nation, and he was also the representative of the nation before God; hence any fault of his involved the nation as a whole.

Nb19:3,9 the bull, must be carried outside the camp^c to a place that is clean, the place 1:16 where the ashes from the fat are thrown away, and the bull must be burnt there.

b. Sins of the community of Israel

"If the whole community of Israel has sinned inadvertently, and without being aware of it has done something that is forbidden by the commandments of Yahweh, •the community is to offer a young bull as a sacrifice for sin, an animal of the herd without blemish, when the sin of which they have been guilty is discovered. The animal must be brought before the Tent of Meeting; •before Yahweh the elders of the community shall lay their hands on the bull's head, and it must be immolated before Yahweh.^d

6:23 "Then the anointed priest is to carry a little of the blood of the bull into the Tent of Meeting. •He is to dip his finger in the blood and sprinkle the veil before Yahweh seven times. •Then he must put a little of the blood on the horns of the altar that stands before Yahweh inside the Tent of Meeting, and then pour out all the rest of the blood at the foot of the altar of holocaust at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.

"Then he is to remove all the fat from the animal and burn it on the altar. He must treat this bull as he did the other for the sacrifice of sin. It is to be treated in the same way; and when the priest has performed the rite of atonement over the people, they will be forgiven.

"He must have the bull taken out of the camp and burn it as he burned the first one. This is the sacrifice for the sin of the community.

c. Sins of leaders in the community

"When a leader sins and inadvertently does one of the things forbidden by the commandments of Yahweh his God, thus rendering himself guilty •(or if anyone draws his attention to the sin thus committed), he is to bring a goat as an offering, a male without blemish. •He is to lay his hand on the goat's head and immolate it in the place where the holocausts are immolated before Yahweh. This is a sacrifice for sin: •the priest is to take a little of the victim's blood on his finger and put it on the horns of the altar of holocaust.^e Then he must pour out its blood at the foot of the altar of holocaust •and burn all the fat on the altar, as with the fat in the communion sacrifice. This is how the priest is to perform the rite of atonement over this leader to free him from his sin, and he will be forgiven.

d. Sins of private individuals

"If one of the people sins inadvertently and makes himself guilty by doing something forbidden by the commandments of Yahweh •(or if anyone draws his attention to the sin he has committed), he is to bring a she-goat as an offering for the sin he has committed, a female without blemish. •He is to lay his hand on the victim's head and immolate it in the place where the holocausts are immolated. •The priest is to take a little of its blood on his finger and put it on the horns of the altar of holocaust. Then he must pour out all the rest of the blood at the foot of the altar. •Then he is to remove all the fat, as the fat was removed for the communion sacrifice, and the priest shall burn it on the altar as an appeasing fragrance for Yahweh. This is how the priest is to perform the rite of atonement over the man, and he will be forgiven.

"If he wishes to bring a lamb as an offering for this kind of sacrifice, he is to bring a female without blemish. •He is to lay his hand on the victim's head and immolate it as a sacrifice for sin in the place where the holocausts are immolated. The priest is to take a little of the blood of this sacrifice on his finger and put it on the horns of the altar of holocaust. Then he must pour out all the rest of the blood at the foot of the altar. •He is to remove its fat as was done for the sheep in the communion sacrifice, and the priest shall burn it all on the altar, in addition to the burnt offering for Yahweh. This is how the priest is to perform the rite of atonement over the man, and he will be forgiven.

Some cases of Sacrifice for Sin

- 1 5 "If anyone sins in any of these following cases:^a 5 "A man should have come forward to give evidence when he heard the formal adjuration,^b having seen the incident or known the facts; but he has not spoken out, and so bears the consequences of his fault; Dt 19:15-20

 3 "or else he touches some human uncleanness, whatever it may be, and contact with it makes him unclean; he does not notice it, then, realising it later, he becomes answerable for it;
 4 "or else a man lets slip some oath to do either evil or good, in any of those matters on which a man may swear unthinkingly; he does not notice it, then, realising it later, he becomes answerable for it; Nb 30:7

- 7 "If he cannot afford an animal of the flock, he is to bring to Yahweh, as a sacrifice of reparation for the sin he has committed, two turtledoves or two young pigeons—one for a sacrifice for sin and the other for a holocaust. •He will bring them to the priest who is to offer first the one intended for the sacrifice for sin. The priest is to wring its neck, but not remove the head. •He must sprinkle the side of the altar with the victim's blood, and then drain out the rest of the blood at the foot of the altar. This is a sacrifice for sin. •Of the other bird he is to make a holocaust according to the ritual. This is how the priest is to perform the rite of atonement over the man for the sin he has committed, and he will be forgiven. 14:21

Lk 2:24
 11 "If he cannot afford two turtledoves or two young pigeons, he is to bring a tenth of an ephah of wheaten flour as an offering for the sin committed; he must not mix oil with it or put incense on it, for it is a sacrifice for sin. •He is to bring it to the priest, who is to take a handful of it as a memorial, and burn this in addition to the burnt offering for Yahweh. This is a sacrifice for sin. •This is how the priest is to perform the rite of atonement over the man for the sin he has committed in any of those cases,^e and he will be forgiven. In this case, the priest has the same rights as in the oblation." 7:10

The Sacrifice of Reparation^f

- 14 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:
 15 'If anyone is guilty of fraud and sins inadvertently by not observing Yahweh's Nb 5:5

c. The camp is holy ground because of God's presence (he 'goes about inside the camp'. Dt 23:15). The animal acts as substitute for the guilty person who should be expelled from the community, cf. the scapegoat. Lv 16:21-22.

d. The same rite is used for the high priest because he is the representative of the community.

e. Neither ruler nor commoner has the sacred rank held by the high priest and by the community, Ezk 44:3; 45:7-12, and the blood of their representative victim is not allowed in the holy tabernacle.

5 a. The words 'any of these (following) cases' appear after v. 4 in the original text but are inserted here for clarity's sake.

b. After summoning the witness the judge calls down a curse on him should he lie or prove evasive.

c. In view of the following paragraphs many correct to 'and, after being ignorant of it, discovers it and becomes guilty'.

d. A solemn, public act.

e. All the cases provided for in 4:22,27.

f. The 'sacrifice of reparation' ('guilt-offering') is closely akin to the 'sacrifice for sin'; it is offered whenever the rights of God or of neighbour are violated. The obligation could be met by a gift of money, 2 K 12:17. In Lv this gift is additional to sacrifice and confession of fault.

5:25;22:16 sacred rights,^g he is to bring to Yahweh as a sacrifice of reparation an unblemished
 Nb 3:47 ram from his flock. This ram is to be valued in silver shekels according to the 2K 12:17 rate of the shekel of the sanctuary.^h This is a sacrifice of reparation. •He must restore what his sin subtracted from the sacred rights, adding one-fifth to the value, and give it to the priest. The priest shall perform the rite of atonement over him with the ram for the sacrifice of reparation and he will be forgiven.

‘If anyone sins and without realising it does one of the things forbidden by the commandments of Yahweh, he must answer for it and must bear the consequences of his fault. •As a sacrifice of reparation he is to bring to the priest an unblemished ram of his flock, subject to valuation. The priest shall perform the rite of atonement over him for the oversight he has committed without realising it and he will be forgiven. •This is a sacrifice of reparation; the man was certainly answerable to Yahweh.’ⁱ

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

Ex22:6-14
 Pr 30:9 ‘If anyone sins and is guilty of fraud against Yahweh by deceiving his neighbour over a deposit or a security, or by withholding something due to him or exploiting him;

‘or if he finds lost property and denies it;

Ex23:1-2 ‘or if he perjures himself about any sin that a man may commit;

‘if he sins and so becomes answerable, he is to restore what he has taken or demanded in excess: the deposit confided to him, the lost property that he found, or any object about which he has perjured himself. He must add one-fifth to the principal and pay the whole to whoever held the property rights on the day when he became answerable. •Then he is to bring an unblemished ram of his flock to Yahweh as a sacrifice of reparation: it must be valued according to the rate paid to the priest for a sacrifice of reparation. •The priest shall perform the rite of atonement over him before Yahweh and he will be forgiven, whatever the act for which he became answerable.’

Priesthood and sacrifice^a

a. Holocaust

6 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

‘Give these orders to Aaron and his sons:

‘This is the ritual for holocaust (that is, the holocaust that stays on the altar brazier all night until morning and is consumed by the altar fire).^b

Ezk44:18 ‘The priest is to put on his linen tunic and cover his body with linen.
 Then he must remove the ashes of the fat of the sacrifice consumed by the altar fire and place them at the side of the altar. •Then he is to take off his clothes and put on others and carry the ashes to some place that is clean, outside the camp.

24:2-4
 2M1:18-36 ‘The fire that consumes the holocaust on the altar must not be allowed to go out. Every morning the priest must make it up with wood. He is to arrange the holocaust on it and burn the fat from the communion sacrifices. •An undying fire is always to burn on the altar; it must not go out.

b. The Oblation

2:1-3 ‘This is the ritual for the oblation:

‘One of the sons of Aaron is to bring it into the presence of Yahweh in front of the altar; •he is to take a handful of the wheaten flour (with the oil and incense which have been added to it); he must burn the memorial on the altar so that its fragrance will appease Yahweh; •and after all this has been done Aaron and his sons shall eat the remainder in the form of unleavened loaves.^c They are to eat it in a sacred place within the precincts of the Tent of Meeting. •The portion I give them of my burnt offering must not be baked with leaven. It is a most holy portion, like the sacrifice for sin and the sacrifice of reparation. •All the males of Aaron's family may eat this portion of Yahweh's burnt offering (this is a perpetual law for all your descendants; and everyone who touches it will be consecrated)."

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:^d

'This is the offering that Aaron and his sons are to make to Yahweh on the day of their anointing: one-tenth of an ephah of wheaten flour as a perpetual oblation, half in the morning and half in the evening. •It must be prepared on the griddle and mixed with oil; you must bring the paste as an oblation in several pieces, offering them as a fragrance that will appease Yahweh. •The priest among the sons of Aaron who is to be anointed in his place shall do the same. This is a perpetual law.

'This entire oblation must be burnt for Yahweh. •Every oblation made by a priest must be a total sacrifice; none of it is to be eaten.'

c. The Sacrifice for Sin

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said, •'Say to Aaron and his sons:

"This is the ritual for the sacrifice for sin:

"The victim for the sacrifice is to be immolated before Yahweh in the place where the holocausts are immolated. It is a most holy thing. •The priest who offers this sacrifice is to eat it. It must be eaten in a holy place within the precincts of the Tent of Meeting. •Everything that touches the flesh of this victim will become consecrated; if any of the blood splashes on clothing, the stain must be cleaned in some holy place. •The earthenware vessel in which the meat is cooked must be broken; if a bronze vessel has been used for the cooking, it must be scrubbed and thoroughly rinsed with water. •Any male who is a priest may eat it. It is a most holy thing. •But no one may eat any of the victims offered for sin, the blood of which has been taken into the Tent of Meeting to make atonement inside the sanctuary. These must be thrown on the fire.

d. The Sacrifice of Reparation

"This is the ritual for the sacrifice of reparation:

"It is a most holy thing. •The victim is to be immolated in the place where the holocausts are immolated, and the priest must pour out the blood on the borders of the altar. •Then he is to offer all the fat: the tail, the fat that covers the entrails, the two kidneys, the fat that is on them and on the loins, the fatty mass which he will remove from the liver and kidneys. •The priest must burn these pieces on the altar as a burnt offering for Yahweh. This is a sacrifice of reparation. Every male who is a priest may eat it. It must be eaten in a holy place; it is a most holy thing.

The rights of the priests

"As with the sacrifice for sin, so with the sacrifice of reparation—the ritual is

g. Lit. 'holy things', i.e. offerings either freely made or laid down by law.

h. The 'shekel' here is either a standard of weight or a coin heavier than the one in common use.

i. Alternative translation 'This is a sacrifice of reparation which he must offer as reparation to Yahweh'.

6 a. Ch. 1-5 deal with sacrificial materials, ch. 6-7 with the duties and privileges of the sacrificing priest.

b. According to Ezk 46:13-15 the continual holocaust demands only one daily sacrifice, in the morning; this coincides with the practice of the monarchical period: 2 K 16:15 speaks of the morning holocaust as distinct from the evening 'oblation' of grain (cf. 1 K 18; 29). According to Ex 29:38-42 and Nb 28:3-8 a morning and an evening holocaust are obligatory. In our passage the morning holocaust is laid down in v. 5 and an evening holocaust is implied in the parenthesis of v. 2, though this is awkwardly phrased and apparently a later addition. The fire always burning on the altar symbolises the continuity of the cult; cf. the ever-burning lamp of Lv 24:2-4.

c. Canaanite ritual sought to portray the explosive energy of natural forces (leaven, banquet and dance, orgies). The levitical ritual, on the other hand, though it loses neither relish for life nor gratitude for the gifts of earth, purges out those elements of pagan ritual that blunt the sense of the sacred or threaten the transcendence of God. Thus the oblation is consumed by the priests alone, leaven is prohibited, contact with all that is not sacred is forbidden, the sobriety of psalm and hymn control the chant, sacred prostitution is roundly condemned.

d. Vv. 12-16, missing from the Greek MS. A, deal with the ceremony of investiture, cf. 8:26; 9:4, and interrupt the more general instructions for ritual.

the same for both. The offering with which he has performed the rite of atonement is to revert to the priest. •The skin of the victim presented by a man to the priest 8
 1:2:1-3 to be offered as a holocaust shall revert to the priest. •Every oblation baked in 9
 2:4-7 the oven, every oblation cooked in the pan or on the griddle shall revert to the 5:11-13 priest who offered it. •Every oblation, mixed with oil or dry, is to revert to all 10
 Nb 5:15 the sons of Aaron without distinction.
 Ezk 44:29

e. The Communion Sacrifice

(i) Sacrifice with Praise^a

“This is the ritual for the communion sacrifice offered to Yahweh: 11

“If it is offered with a sacrifice with praise, there must be added to it an 12 offering of unleavened cakes mixed with oil, unleavened wafers spread with oil, and wheaten flour in the form of cakes mixed with oil. •This offering, then, 13 must be added to the cakes of leavened bread and to the communion sacrifice with praise. •One of the cakes of this offering is to be presented as an offering 14 to Yahweh; it shall revert to the priest who pours out the blood of the communion sacrifice. •The flesh of the victim must be eaten on the day when the offering 15 is made; nothing must remain until the next morning.

(ii) Votive or Voluntary Sacrifices

“If the victim is offered as a votive or a voluntary sacrifice, it is to be eaten on 16 the day it is offered and also on the following day; •but on the third day whatever 17 remains of the victim’s flesh must be thrown on the fire.

General rules

19:7 “If the flesh offered as a communion sacrifice is eaten on the third day, the 18 man who has offered it will not be accepted. He is to receive no credit for it, it is defiled flesh, and the man who eats it shall bear the consequences of his fault.
 “Flesh that has touched anything unclean cannot be eaten; it must be thrown 19 on the fire.

11-16 “Anyone who is clean may eat flesh, •but anyone unclean who eats the flesh 20 of a communion sacrifice offered to Yahweh shall be outlawed from his people.^b
 If anyone touches anything unclean, human or animal, or any foul thing, and 21 then eats the flesh of a communion sacrifice offered to Yahweh, this man shall be outlawed from his people.”

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said, •‘Speak to the sons of Israel, say to them: 22

“You must not eat the fat of ox, sheep or goat. •The fat of an animal that 23 has died a natural death or been savaged by beasts may be used for any other 24 purpose, but you must not eat it. •Anyone who eats the fat of an animal offered 25 as a burnt offering to Yahweh shall be outlawed from his people.

1:5+ “Wherever you live, you must not eat blood, whether it be of bird or of beast. 26
 Anyone who eats blood, whoever he may be, shall be outlawed from his people.” 27

Dt 18:3 The priest’s portion

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said, •‘Speak to the sons of Israel, say to them: 28

1 S 2:13 “Anyone who offers a communion sacrifice to Yahweh is to bring him part 29 of his sacrifice as an offering. •He is to bring Yahweh’s burnt offering—that is, 30 the fat that adheres to the breast—with his own hands. He is to bring it, and Ex 29:24+ also the breast, with which he must make the gesture of offering before Yahweh. 31
 The priest must burn the fat on the altar, and the breast shall revert to Aaron and his sons. •You must set aside the right thigh from your communion sacrifices and 32 give it to the priest. •This right thigh shall be the portion of the son of Aaron 33 who offers the blood and fat of the communion sacrifice. •Thus, I keep back 34 10:14 this breast and thigh out of the communion sacrifices offered by the sons of Nb 6:20 Israel,^c and give these to Aaron the priest and to his sons; this is a perpetual law binding the sons of Israel.”

Conclusion

35 This, then, was the portion^d of Aaron and of his sons in Yahweh's burnt 36 offerings on the day he presented them to Yahweh to be his priests. •This is what the orders of Yahweh bind the sons of Israel to give them on the day they are anointed: this is a perpetual law for all their descendants.

Ex 30:22 +

37 Such then is the ritual for holocaust, oblation, sacrifice for sin, sacrifices of 38 reparation, investiture and communion. •This is what Yahweh commanded Moses on Mount Sinai when he ordered the sons of Israel to make their offerings to Yahweh in the wilderness of Sinai.

II. THE INVESTITURE OF THE PRIESTS

Ordination rites^a

Ex 28:

||40:12-15
6:13-15

1 8 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:
2 'Take Aaron, his sons with him, and the vestments, and the chrism, the bull for the sacrifice for sin, the two rams and the basket of unleavened bread.
3 Then call the whole community together at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.'

4 Moses followed the orders of Yahweh; the community gathered at the entrance 5 to the Tent of Meeting, •and Moses said to them, 'This is what Yahweh has ordered to be done'.

6 He made Aaron and his sons come forward, and washed them with water.

7 He put the tunic on him, passed the girdle round his waist, dressed him in the robe and put the ephod on him. Then he put round his waist the woven band 8 of the ephod with which he clothed him. •He put the pectoral on him, and golden plate on the front; this is the sacred diadem as Yahweh prescribed it to Moses.

21:10-15

Ezk 21:31

10 Then Moses took the chrism and anointed the tabernacle and everything in it, 11 to consecrate them. •He sprinkled the altar seven times, and anointed the altar poured the chrism on Aaron's head, consecrating him by unction.

13 Then Moses made Aaron's sons come forward; he put the tunics on them, passed the girdles round their waists and put on their head-dress, as Yahweh had ordered Moses.

14 Then he had the bull for the sacrifice for sin brought forward. Aaron and his 15 sons laid their hands on the victim's head •and Moses immolated it. Then he took the blood and with his finger put some of it on the horns round the altar, to take away its sin. Then he poured out the rest of the blood at the foot of the 16 altar, which he consecrated by performing the rite of atonement over it. •Then he took all the fat that covers the entrails, the fatty mass which is over the liver, 17 the two kidneys and their fat; and he burnt them all on the altar. •The bull's skin, its flesh and its dung he burnt outside the camp, as Yahweh had ordered Moses.

18 Then he had the ram for holocaust brought forward. Aaron and his sons laid 19 their hands on its head •and Moses immolated it. He poured its blood out on 20 the borders of the altar. •Then he quartered the ram and burned the head, the

7 a. The communion sacrifice may be offered 'in praise', vv. 12-15, or in fulfilment of a vow or as a voluntary offering, vv. 16-17. It is difficult to determine the exact relationship between the three kinds. See Lv 22:29; Dt 12:6,17; Am 4:5; Jr 17:26; 33:11.

b. For a desert nomad to be outlawed from his people is tantamount to sentence of death; here it is a religious condemnation as well: the guilty man loses his title to the divine promise made to Abraham's race.

c. Lit. 'the breast with which the gesture of offering is to be made and the thigh that is to be offered'.

d. This allusion to the first investiture sacrifice introduces its full description in ch. 8-10.

8 a. The ritual for high-priestly investiture appears here as an account of the investiture of Aaron and his sons. It comprises the robing and anointing. vv. 7-13, followed by a sacrifice for sin, necessary for the consecration of the altar, vv. 14-17, next the holocaust, vv. 18-21, and finally the investiture sacrifice, vv. 22-35, which is the ordination proper. In ch. 9 the priests are inducted into their new duties.

pieces and the fat. •He washed the entrails and legs, and burnt the whole ram 21 on the altar. This was a holocaust whose fragrance would appease Yahweh;
a burnt offering for Yahweh, as Yahweh had ordered Moses.

Then he had the other ram brought forward, for the sacrifice of investiture. 22
Aaron and his sons laid their hands on its head •and Moses immolated it. He 23 took some of its blood and put it on the lobe of Aaron's right ear, the thumb of his right hand, and the big toe of his right foot. •Then he made the sons of 24 Aaron come forward and he put some of the blood on the lobes of their right ears, the thumbs of their right hands and the big toes of their right feet. Next Moses poured the rest of the blood on the borders of the altar. •Then he took 25 the fat: the tail, all the fat that is on the entrails, the fatty mass which is over the liver, the two kidneys and their fat, and the right thigh. •From the basket of 26 unleavened bread placed before Yahweh, he took an unleavened cake, a cake of bread made with oil, and a wafer; he placed these on the fat and the right thigh, Ex28:41+ and put it all into Aaron's hands and those of his sons, and made the gesture 27 of offering before Yahweh. •Then Moses took them back and burned them on 28 the altar in addition to the holocaust. This was the sacrifice of investiture^b whose fragrance would appease Yahweh, a burnt offering to Yahweh. •Then 29 Moses took the breast and made the gesture of offering before Yahweh. This was the portion of the ram of investiture that reverted to Moses, as Yahweh had ordered Moses.

Then Moses took the chrism and the blood that was on the altar and 30 sprinkled Aaron and his vestments with it, and his sons and their vestments.
In this way he consecrated Aaron and his vestments, and his sons and their vestments.

Ex 29:31 Then Moses said to Aaron and his sons, 'Cook the meat at the entrance to 31 the Tent of Meeting, and eat it there, as also the bread for the sacrifice of investiture that is in the basket, as I ordered, when I said: Aaron and his sons Ex29:35 are to eat it. •What remains of the meat and bread you will burn. •For seven days 32 you must not leave the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, until the time of your 33 investiture is complete; for your investiture will require seven days. •Yahweh has ordered us to do as we have done today to perform the rite of atonement over 34 you; •and for seven days, day and night, you must remain at the entrance to the 35 Tent of Meeting observing Yahweh's ritual; do this, and you will not die.' For this is the order I received.' •And Aaron and his sons did everything that Yahweh 36 had ordered through Moses.

The priests assume their functions

9 On the eighth day Moses summoned Aaron and his sons and the elders of 1
Israel; •he said to Aaron, 'Take a calf to offer a sacrifice for sin, and a ram 2 for a holocaust, both without blemish, and bring them before Yahweh. •Then 3 say to the sons of Israel, "Take a goat to be offered as a sacrifice for sin, and as a holocaust a calf and a lamb both one year old and without blemish, •and for 4 communion sacrifices an ox and a ram to be immolated before Yahweh; and finally an oblation mixed with oil. For Yahweh will appear to you today.'"

They brought what Moses had commanded in front of the Tent of Meeting; 5 then the whole community came and stood before Yahweh. •Moses said, 'This is 6 what Yahweh has ordered to be done, so that his glory may be visible to you'.
Ex24:16+ Heb5: Moses then addressed Aaron, 'Go to the altar and offer your sacrifice for sin 7 1-4:7:27 and your holocaust, and so perform the rite of atonement for yourself and your family.' Then present the people's offering and perform the rite of atonement for them, as Yahweh has ordered.'

Aaron went to the altar and immolated the calf as a sacrifice for his own sin. 8
Then the sons of Aaron presented the blood to him; he dipped his finger in it 9 and put some on the horns of the altar, and then poured out the rest of the blood at the foot of the altar. •The fat of the sacrifice for sin and the kidneys 10 and the fatty mass which is over the liver, he burned on the altar, as Yahweh had commanded Moses; •the flesh and the skin he burned outside the camp.

Next Aaron immolated the holocaust; his sons handed him the blood and he poured it on the borders of the altar. •Then they handed him the quartered victim, and its head too, and he burned these on the altar. •He washed the entrails and legs and burned them on the altar in addition to the holocaust.

He then presented the people's offering. He took the goat for the people's sacrifice for sin, immolated it, and made a sacrifice for sin with it in the same way as with the first. •Then he had the holocaust brought forward and proceeded according to the ritual. •Next he had the oblation brought forward, took a handful of it and burned it on the altar in addition to the morning holocaust.

Finally, he immolated the ox and the ram as a communion sacrifice for the people. Aaron's sons handed him the blood and he poured it out on the borders of the altar. •The fat of the ox and of the ram—the tail, the fatty covering, the kidneys, the fatty mass over the liver—all of this he laid on the breasts and burned it all on the altar. •With the breasts and the right thigh Aaron made the gesture of offering as Yahweh had ordered Moses.

Then Aaron raised his hands towards the people and blessed them. Having thus performed the sacrifice for sin, the holocaust and the communion sacrifice, he came down •and entered the Tent of Meeting with Moses. Then they came out together to bless the people and the glory of Yahweh appeared to the whole people—a flame leaped forth from before Yahweh and consumed the holocaust and the fat that was on the altar. At this sight the people shouted for joy and fell on their faces.

Complementary legislation^a

a. A lesson in exact observance

10 Nadab and Abihu, sons of Aaron, each took his censer, put fire in it and incense on the fire, and presented unlawful fire before Yahweh, fire which he had not prescribed for them. •Then from Yahweh's presence a flame leaped out and consumed them, and they perished in the presence of Yahweh. •And Moses said to Aaron, 'That is what Yahweh meant when he said:

"In those who are close to me I show my holiness, and before all the people I show my glory"'.^b

Aaron remained silent.

b. Removal of bodies

Moses summoned Mishael and Elzaphan, sons of Aaron's uncle Uzziel, and said to them, 'Come and take your brothers far away from the sanctuary, out of the camp'. •They came and carried them away, still in their tunics, out of the camp, as Moses had ordered.

c. Rules for priestly mourning

Moses said to Aaron and his sons Eleazar and Ithamar, 'Do not disorder your hair nor tear your garments;• you are not going to die. It is with the whole community that he is angry; it is the whole House of Israel that must lament your brothers, the victims of Yahweh's fire. •Do not leave the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, lest you die; for the chrism of Yahweh is on you.' And they obeyed the words of Moses.

d. Wine forbidden

Yahweh spoke to Aaron; he said:

Ezk 44:21 'When you come to the Tent of Meeting, you and your sons with you, do not 8 take wine or strong drink; then you will not die. This is a perpetual law for all 9 your descendants. •And so be it too when you separate the sacred from the 10 profane, the unclean from the clean, •and when you teach the sons of Israel 11 any of the laws that Yahweh has pronounced for them through Moses.'

e. The priests' portion in offerings

6:9-10 Moses said to Aaron and his surviving sons, Eleazar and Ithamar, 'Take the 12 oblation that is left over from Yahweh's burnt offering. Eat the unleavened part 13 of it beside the altar, because it is a most holy thing. •Eat it in a holy place; 13 it is the portion of Yahweh's burnt offering prescribed for you and your sons;
this is the order I have received.

7:34 Nb 6:20 'The breast that was offered up and the thigh that was set aside you will eat 14 in some place that is clean, you, your sons and your daughters with you; this is 15 the portion of the communion sacrifices of the sons of Israel that is prescribed 15 for you and your sons. •The thigh that was set aside and the breast that was 15 offered up, when the fat was burnt, revert to you, to you and your sons with 15 you, after they have been presented before Yahweh by the gesture of offering, 15 in virtue of a perpetual law as Yahweh has ordered.'

f. A special regulation concerning Sacrifice for Sin^d

2 M 9:15 2:11 Then Moses enquired about the goat offered as a sacrifice for sin, and found 16 that they had burnt it. He was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar, Aaron's surviving 16 sons: •'Why' he asked 'did you not eat this victim in the holy place? For it is 17 a most holy thing given to you to take away the fault of the community, by 17 performing the rite of atonement over it before Yahweh. •Since its blood was 18 not taken inside the sanctuary, you should have eaten its flesh there, as I ordered 18 you.' •Aaron said to Moses, 'Today they have offered their sacrifice for sin and 19 their holocaust before Yahweh. If I had been concerned, if I had eaten the victim 19 for sin today, would that have seemed good to Yahweh?' •And when Moses 20 heard this, he was satisfied.

Ac 10:14

11 Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron and said to them, •'Speak to the sons 1 of Israel and say:

"Of all the beasts on the earth these are the animals you may eat:

2 M 6:18 "You may eat any animal that has a cloven hoof, divided into two parts, 3 and that is a ruminant. •The following, which either chew the cud or have a 4 cloven hoof, are the ones that you may not eat: the camel must be held unclean, 4 because though it is ruminant, it has not a cloven hoof; •the hyrax must be held 5 unclean, because though it is ruminant, it has not a cloven hoof; •the hare must 6 be held unclean, because though it is ruminant, it has not a cloven hoof; •the 7 pig must be held unclean, because though it has a cloven hoof, divided into 7 two parts, it is not ruminant. •You must not eat the meat of such animals nor 8 touch their dead bodies; you must hold them unclean.

b. In water

"Of all that lives in water, these you may eat:

"Anything that has fins and scales, and lives in the water, whether in sea or 9 river, you may eat. •But anything in sea or river that has not fins or scales, 10 of all the small water-creatures and all the living things found there, must be 11 held detestable. •You must hold them detestable; you are not to eat their 12 flesh and you must avoid their carcasses. •Anything that lives in water, but has no fins or scales, is to be held detestable.

c. Birds

13 “Among the birds here are those you must hold detestable; they may not be eaten, they are detestable:

14 “The tawny vulture, the griffon, the osprey, •the kite, the several kinds of 15 buzzard, •all kinds of raven, •the ostrich, the screech owl, the seagull, the several 16 kinds of hawk, •horned owl, night owl, cormorant, barn owl, •ibis, pelican, 17 white vulture, •stork, the several kinds of heron, hoopoe and bat.

d. Winged insects

20 “All winged insects that move on four feet^c you must hold detestable. •Of all 21 these winged insects you may eat only the following: those that have legs^d above 22 their feet so that they can leap over the ground. •These are the ones you may eat: the several kinds of migratory locust, solham, hargol and hagab locusts in 23 their several kinds. •But all winged insects on four feet you are to hold detestable.

Contact with unclean animals

24 “By these you will be made unclean. Anyone who touches the carcass of one 25 will be unclean until evening. •Anyone who picks up their carcasses must wash 26 his clothing and will be unclean until evening. •Animals that have hoofs, but not cloven, and that are not ruminant, you are to hold unclean; anyone 27 who touches them will be unclean. •Those four-footed animals which walk on the flat of their foot^e must be held unclean; anyone who touches their carcasses 28 will be unclean until evening, •and anyone who picks up their carcasses must wash his clothing and will be unclean until evening. You are to hold them unclean.

 Nb 19:7

Ex 19:11

e. Small ground beasts

29 “These are the small beasts crawling on the ground that you are to hold 30 unclean: the mole, the rat, the several kinds of lizard: •gecko, koah, letaah, chameleon and tinshameth.

Further rules on contact with things unclean

31 “Of all the small beasts, these are the creatures that you are to hold unclean.
 Anyone who touches them when they are dead will be unclean until evening.

32 “Any object on which one of these creatures falls when it is dead becomes unclean: wooden utensil, clothing, skin, sackcloth—any utensil at all. It must be dipped in water and will remain unclean until evening; then it will be clean.

d. The goat had been sacrificed for the sin of the people, 9:15, and the priests might have been expected to eat it as they ate the other offerings, vv. 12-15, cf. 6: 19-23. But the people's sin is the priest's also, and the same rules have to be applied as in the case of sacrifice for the sin of the high priest. This is probably what Aaron means.

11 a. Behind these regulations lie religious taboos of great antiquity. That is ‘clean’ which is considered worthy to approach God, ‘unclean’ whatever makes a person unfit for ritual worship or whatever is in fact excluded from it. The clean animals are those that can be offered to God, Gn 7:2, the unclean animals those which the pagans offered to their gods or which, since they were displeasing to man, were thought displeasing to God, Lv 11. Other regulations deal with birth, ch. 12, sexual life, 15, death, 21:1,11; Nb 19:11-16; all these are the mysterious province of God, the master of life. A symptom of decay like leprosy, 13:1+, also induces impurity. Because the idea of ‘cleanness’ is related to worship, it is associated with the idea of sanctity, 11:44 and 17:1+. The prophets, however, will go further and insist on the cleansing of the heart, Is 1:16; Jr 33:8, cf. Ps 51:10, thus preparing the way for the teaching of Jesus, Mt 15:10-20p, who releases his followers from ordinances of which only the formalities have been preserved, Mt 23:24-26p. The ancient legislation, however, establishes an ideal of moral purity, safeguarded by positive observances.

b. The classification is not scientific but empirical: the hare, for example, is classed with the ruminants because the movements of its jaw suggest rumination. The identification of some of the animals mentioned is uncertain.

c. Winged insects are called ‘four-footed’ to distinguish them from birds. The locust is not impure. v. 21.

d. ‘those that have legs’ versions; ‘those that have no legs’ Hebr.

e. This means not only the animals that use the entire foot (‘plantigrades’) but all hoofless animals.

If the creature falls into an earthenware vessel, the vessel must be broken; 33 whatever the vessel contains is unclean. •Any food that is eaten will be unclean, 34 even if it is steeped in water; any liquid that is drunk will be unclean, no matter what its container. •Anything on which a carcass of such a creature may fall 35 will be unclean: oven or stove must be destroyed, for unclean they are and unclean they must be for you •(although springs, wells and stretches of water 36 will remain clean);/ anyone who touches a carcass of theirs will be unclean.
 If one of their carcasses falls on any seed whatever, the seed will remain clean; 37 but if the seed has been wet, and a carcass of theirs falls on it, then you must 38 hold it unclean.

Ex 19:11
Nb 19:7 "If one of the animals that you use as food dies, then anyone who touches the 39 carcass will be unclean until evening; •anyone who eats the dead meat must 40 wash his clothing and will remain unclean until evening; anyone who picks up the carcass must wash his clothing and will remain unclean until evening.

 more—in short all the small beasts that crawl on the ground—you must not eat these because they are detestable. •Do not make yourself detestable with 43 all these crawling beasts; do not defile yourself with them, do not be defiled by them. •For it is I, Yahweh, who am your God. You have been sanctified 44 and have become holy because I am holy: do not defile yourself with all these

Conclusion

Such is the law concerning animals, birds, all living creatures that move in 46 water and every creature that crawls on the ground. •Its purpose is to separate 47 the clean from the unclean; creatures that may be eaten from those that must not be eaten.

 “If a woman conceives and gives birth to a boy, she is to be unclean for 2 seven days, just as she is unclean during her monthly periods. •On the eighth day 3 the child’s foreskin must be circumcised, •and she must wait another thirty-three 4 days for her blood to be purified. She must not touch anything consecrated nor go to the sanctuary until the time of her purification is over.

 monthly periods; and she must wait another sixty-six days for her blood to be purified.

Human leprosy^a

a. Swellings, scabs, discolorations

13 Yahweh said to Moses and Aaron, •“If a swelling or scab or shiny spot 1 appears on a man’s skin, a case of leprosy of the skin is to be suspected. 2

The man must be taken to Aaron, the priest, or to one of the priests who are his sons. •The priest must examine the disease on the skin. If the hair on the diseased part has turned white, or if the disease bites into the skin, then it is indeed a case of leprosy, and after examination the priest must declare the man unclean. •But if there is a shiny spot on the skin without any visible depression of the skin and without whitening of the hair, the priest is to isolate the sick person for seven days. •On the seventh day he must examine him, and if he sees with his own eyes that the disease persists though without spreading over the skin, he is to isolate him for a further seven days •and examine him again on the seventh. If he finds that the diseased part is no longer shiny and has not spread over the skin, then the priest is to declare the man clean. It is a scab merely. Having washed his clothing he will be clean.

•But if the scab spreads over the skin after the sick person has been examined by the priest and declared clean, then he must present himself again to the priest. After examining him and certifying the spread of the scab over the skin, the priest must declare him unclean: it is leprosy.

Nb 12:14

b. Chronic leprosy^b

•When a leprous disease strikes a man, he must be taken to the priest, •who must examine him, and if he finds on the skin a whitish swelling with whitening of the hair and an ulcer forming, •then it is chronic leprosy in the skin and the priest must declare him unclean. He is not to isolate him; he is unclean beyond doubt.^c

•But if the leprosy spreads all through the skin, if it covers him entirely from head to foot so far as the priest can see, •then the priest must examine the sick person and, if he finds that the leprosy covers his whole body, declare the sick person^d clean. Since it has all become white, he is clean. • But as soon as an ulcer appears on him, he will be unclean. •After examining the ulcer, the priest is to declare him unclean: the ulcer is unclean, it is leprous. •But if the ulcer becomes white again, the man must go to the priest; •the priest must examine him and if he finds that the disease has turned white, he is to declare the sick person clean: he is clean.

c. Boils

•When a boil^e appears on a man's skin, which, after healing, •leaves in its place a whitish swelling or a shiny spot of reddish white, the man must show himself to the priest. •The priest must examine him, and if he finds a visible depression in the skin and a whitening of the hair, he is to declare him unclean: it is a case of leprosy that has broken out in a boil. •But if on examination the priest finds neither white hair nor depression of the skin, but a fading of the affected part, he is to isolate the sick person for seven days. •If the disease has indeed spread over the skin, he must declare him unclean: it is a case of leprosy.

But if the shiny spot is still restricted and has not spread, then it is the scar of a boil and the priest is to declare the man clean.

d. Burns

•If someone has had a burn, and on the burn an ulcer forms, a shiny spot

f. Water is itself life-giving and purifying.

12 a. Childbirth, like menstruation or seminal discharge, ch. 15, is regarded as a loss of vitality; this loss must be made good by ritual means: union with God, the source of life, is thus re-established.

13 a. 'Leprosy' for the ancient Hebrews includes various serious or trivial skin diseases, 13:1-44, and even signs of decay in clothing, 13:47-59, or on walls, 14:33-53. Diagnostic and precautionary directions are codified and their application entrusted to the priests. These practical measures are derived from primitive idea and practice but in Israel they are used to identify ritual uncleanness and so take on a religious significance. Restoration to the community is accompanied by a ritual like that of 'sacrifice for sin', 14:1-31, 49-53, the 'sin' being, in this case, an affront to the life-giving power of the God of Israel.

b. This time it is a question of distinguishing not real from apparent leprosy but contagious leprosy from other kinds. It seems that Lv regards only the ulcerous form as contagious.

c. No second examination is necessary. The Greek has the opposite 'will isolate him'.

d. Lit. 'the disease'. When the symptoms spread over the surface it is a sign of recovery: the white scabs will drop off.

e. Alternative translation 'ulcer', 'abscess'.

reddish-white or whitish in colour, •then the priest must examine it. If he finds 25 a whitening of the hair or a visible depression of the mark on the skin, this means that leprosy has broken out in the burn. The priest is to declare the man unclean: it is a case of leprosy. •If on the other hand the priest on examination 26 does not find white hair on the mark or depression of the skin, but a fading of the mark, then the priest is to isolate him for seven days. •On the seventh day 27 he must examine him, and if the disease has spread on the skin, he must declare him unclean: it is a case of leprosy. •If the mark is still restricted and has not 28 spread over the skin, but has faded instead, this means that it is only a swelling due to the burn. The priest is to declare the man clean: it is merely a burn scar.

e. Diseases of the scalp and chin

•If a man or a woman has a sore on the head or chin, •the priest must examine 29 this sore; and if he finds a depression visible in the skin, with the hair on it yellow and thin, he must declare the sick person unclean. It is tinea,^f that is to say, leprosy of the head or chin. •If on examining this case of tinea the priest 31 finds no visible depression in the skin nor yellow hair,^g he is to isolate the person so affected for seven days. •He must examine the infected part on the seventh day, 32 and if he finds that the tinea has not spread, that the hair on it is not yellow, and that there is no visible depression in the skin, • the sick person will shave 33 his hair, all except the part affected with tinea, and the priest is to isolate him again for seven days. •He must examine the infected part on the seventh day, 34 and if he finds that it has not spread over the skin, and that there is no visible depression of the skin, the priest is to declare the sick person clean. After washing his clothes he will be clean. •But if after this purification the tinea does spread 35 over the skin, •the priest must examine him; if he finds that the tinea has indeed 36 spread over the skin, this means that the sick person is unclean, and there is no need to verify whether the hair is yellow. •Whereas if, so far as he can see, the 37 tinea is arrested and dark hair is beginning to grow on it, this means that the sick person is cured. He is clean, and the priest is to declare him clean.

f. Rash

•If shiny spots break out on the skin of a man or woman, and if these spots 38 are white, •the priest must examine them. If he finds that these patches are of 39 a dull white, it is a rash that has broken out on the skin: the sick person is clean.

g. Loss of hair

•If a man loses the hair of his scalp, this is baldness of the scalp but the man 40 is clean. •If he loses his hair off the front of the head, this is baldness of the 41 forehead but the man is clean. •If, however, a reddish-white sore appears on 42 scalp or forehead, this means that leprosy has broken out on the man's scalp or forehead. •The priest must examine it, and if he finds a reddish-white swelling 43 on the scalp or forehead, of the same appearance as leprosy of the skin, •this 44 means that the man is leprous: he is unclean. The priest must declare him unclean; he is suffering from leprosy of the head.

A regulation for lepers

Nb 5:2
Lm 4:15
Lk 17:13

•A man infected with leprosy must wear his clothing torn and his hair disorder- 45 ed; he must shield his upper lip and cry, "Unclean, unclean". •As long as the 46 disease lasts he must be unclean; and therefore he must live apart: he must live outside the camp.

Leprosy of clothes

•When a piece of clothing is infected with leprosy—woollen or linen clothing, 47 linen or woollen fabric or covering, leather or leatherwork—•and if this clothing, 48 fabric, covering, leather or leatherwork appears greenish or reddish, it is a case 49

50 of leprosy to be shown to the priest. •The priest must examine the infection 51 and isolate the object for seven days. •If on the seventh day he observes that the infection has spread on the garment, fabric, covering, leather or leatherwork, whatever it may be, it is a case of contagious leprosy and the object is unclean.
 52 He will burn this clothing, fabric, linen or woollen covering, leather article of any kind, on which the infection has appeared; for it is a contagious leprosy which must be destroyed by fire.

53 'But if on examination the priest finds that the infection has not spread on 54 the clothing, fabric, covering, or leather object whatever it may be, •he is to order the infected article to be washed and is to isolate it again for a period of seven 55 days. •After the cleansing he must examine the infection and if he finds that there is no change in its appearance, even though it has not spread, the article is unclean. It must be destroyed by fire; it is infected through and through.

56 'But if on examination the priest finds that the infection has diminished after 57 washing, he is to cut it out of the clothing, leather, fabric or covering. •But if the infection reappears on the same clothing, fabric, covering or leather article whatever it may be, this means that the infection is active and you must destroy 58 by fire whatever is infected. •The clothing, fabric, covering or leather article whatever it may be, from which the infection disappears after washing, is to be clean after it has been washed a second time.

59 'Such is the law for a case of leprosy in a linen or woollen garment, a fabric or covering or leather article whatever it may be, when it is a question of declaring them clean or unclean.'

Purification of lepers

1 14 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

2 14 'This is the law to be applied to a leper on the day he is purified. He must 3 be taken to the priest, •and the priest must go outside the camp. If he finds on 4 examination that the leper is cured of his leprosy, •he shall order the following to be brought for the man's purification: two live birds that are clean, cedar 5 wood, scarlet and hyssop. •Then he is to give orders for one of the birds to be 6 immolated in an earthenware pot over running water. •Then he is to take the live bird, the cedar wood, the scarlet and the hyssop and he must dip all of this (including the live bird) into the blood of the bird immolated over running water.
 7 Then he must sprinkle the man who is to be purified of leprosy seven times, and having declared him clean, must set the live bird free to fly off into the open 8 country. •The man who is undergoing purification is to wash his clothing, shave all his hair, and wash himself; then he will be clean. After this he may return 9 to the camp, although he must remain seven days outside his tent. •On the seventh day he must shave off all his hair—head, beard and eyebrows; he must shave off all his hair. After washing his clothing and his body he will be clean.

10 'On the eighth day, he is to take two lambs without blemish, an unblemished ewe one year old, three-tenths^a of wheaten flour mixed with oil for the oblation, 11 and one log of oil. •The priest who is performing the purification is to station the man who is being purified, with all his offerings, at the entrance to the Tent 12 of Meeting, before Yahweh. •Then he must take one of the lambs and offer it as a sacrifice of reparation, as also the log of oil. With these he is to make the gesture 13 of offering before Yahweh. •Then he must immolate the lamb on that spot inside the sacred precincts where the victims of the sacrifice for sin and of the holocaust are immolated. This offering of reparation, like the sacrifice for sin, reverts to 14 the priest: it is a most holy thing. •The priest must take the blood of this sacrifice and put some of it on the lobe of the right ear, the thumb of the right hand, and 15 the big toe of the right foot of the man who is being purified. •Then he is to take 16 the log of oil and pour a little into the hollow of his left hand. •He must dip a finger of his right hand into the oil in the hollow of his left hand, and with this oil make seven sprinklings with his finger before Yahweh. •Then he is to take a little of the oil that remains in the hollow of his hand and put it on the lobe of the right ear of the man who is being purified, and on the thumb of his right hand and on the big toe of his right foot (this in addition to the blood of the sacrifice of reparation). •The rest of the oil in the hollow of his hand he is to put on the head of the man who is being purified. In this way he will have performed over him the rite of atonement before Yahweh.

•Then the priest must offer the sacrifice for sin, and perform the rite of atonement for uncleanness over the man who is being purified. After this he must immolate the holocaust, •and send up holocaust and oblation on the altar. When the priest has performed the rite of atonement over him in this way, the man will be clean.

5:7-13:12:8

•If he is poor and cannot afford all this, he need take only one lamb, the one for the sacrifice of reparation, and it is to be presented with the gesture of offering to perform the rite of atonement over the man. And he is to take for the oblation only one-tenth of wheaten flour mixed with oil, and the log of oil, •and finally two turtledoves or two young pigeons—if he can afford them—one to be used as a sacrifice for sin and the other for the holocaust. •On the eighth day he must bring them to the priest at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting before Yahweh, for his purification. •The priest is to take the lamb for the sacrifice of reparation and the log of oil, and present them before Yahweh with the gesture of offering. Then he must immolate the lamb for the sacrifice of reparation, take some of its blood and put it on the lobe of the right ear of the man who is being purified, on the thumb of his right hand and on the big toe of his right foot. •He is to pour the oil into the hollow of his left hand, •and with this oil in the hollow of his left hand he must make seven sprinklings with his finger before Yahweh. He is to put some of it on the lobe of the right ear of the man who is being purified, on the thumb of his right hand and on the big toe of his right foot, as he did with the blood of the sacrifice of reparation. •The remainder of the oil in the hollow of his hand he must put on the head of the man who is being purified, performing the rite of atonement over him before Yahweh. •Of the two turtledoves or two young pigeons—if he can afford them—he is to offer a sacrifice for sin with one, and with the other a holocaust together with an oblation—if he can afford them. In this way the priest will have performed before Yahweh the rite of atonement over the person who is being purified.

•Such is the law concerning a person afflicted by leprosy who cannot afford the means for his purification.'

Leprosy of houses

Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron; he said:

•When you reach the land of Canaan, which I am giving you as an inheritance, if I strike a house with leprosy in the land you are to possess, •the owner must come and warn the priest; he must say, "I have seen something like leprosy in the house". •The priest is to give orders for the house to be emptied before he goes to examine the infection; thus nothing in the house will become unclean. Then the priest must go and look at the house; •and if on examination he finds the walls of the house pitted with reddish or greenish depressions,^b the priest is to go out of the house, to the door, and shut it up for seven days. On the seventh day he must go back again, and if on examination he finds that the infection has spread over the walls of the house, •he must give orders for the infected stones to be removed and thrown into some unclean place outside the town. •Then he must have all the inside of the house scraped, and the plaster that comes off must be emptied out into an unclean place outside the town. •The stones must be replaced by new ones and the house given a new coat of plaster.

•If the infection spreads again after the stones have been removed and the 44 house scraped and replastered, •the priest is to come and examine it. If he finds that the infection has spread, this means that there is a contagious leprosy in 45 the house: it is unclean. •It must be pulled down and the stones, woodwork and all the plaster be taken to an unclean place outside the town.

46 'Anyone who enters the house while it is closed will be unclean until evening.
47 Anyone who sleeps there must wash his clothing. Anyone who eats there must 48 wash his clothing. •But if the priest finds, when he comes to examine the infection, that it has not spread in the house since it was plastered, he is to declare the house clean, for the infection is cured.

49 'As a sacrifice for the sin^c of the house, he is to take two birds, cedar wood,
50 scarlet and hyssop. •He must immolate one of the birds in an earthenware pot 51 over running water. •Then he is to take the cedar wood, the hyssop, the scarlet and the live bird, and must dip them into the blood of the bird that was immolated 52 and into the running water. He is to sprinkle the house seven times; •and after having offered a sacrifice for the sin of the house with the blood of the bird,

Nb 5:2

1 15 Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron; he said:

2 'Speak to the sons of Israel and say to them:

3 "When a man has a discharge from his body, that discharge is unclean. •While the discharge continues, the nature of his uncleanness is as follows:

"Whether his body allows the discharge to flow or whether it retains it, he is unclean.

4 "Any bed the man lies on and any seat he sits on shall be unclean.

5 "Anyone who touches his bed must wash his clothing and wash himself and will be unclean until evening.

6 "Anyone who sits on a seat where the man has sat must wash his clothing and wash himself and will be unclean until evening.

7 "Anyone who touches the body of a man so affected must wash his clothing and wash himself and will be unclean until evening.

8 "If the sick man spits on someone who is clean, that person must wash his clothing and wash himself and will be unclean until evening.

9 "Any saddle the sick man travels on will be unclean.

10 "All those who touch any object that may be under him will be unclean until evening.

"Anyone who picks up such an object must wash his clothing and wash himself and will be unclean until evening.

11 "All those whom the sick man touches without washing his hands must wash their clothing and wash themselves and will be unclean until evening.

12 "Any earthenware vessel the sick man touches must be broken and any wooden utensil must be rinsed.

13 "When the man suffering from a discharge is cured, he must allow seven days for his purification. He must wash his clothing and wash his body in running

c. Here again Israel takes over an ancient ritual; its symbolism is expressive but betrays the imperfect idea of God that originally lay behind it.

not only contagious venereal disease but also normal seminal discharge and menstruation. Everything connected with conception and birth is sacred and mysterious, cf. 12:1+.

two young pigeons and come before Yahweh at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and give them to the priest. •The priest is to offer a sacrifice for sin with one of them, and with the other a holocaust. So the priest will perform the rite of atonement over him before Yahweh for his discharge.

Dt 23:11 "When a man has a seminal discharge, he must wash his whole body with water and he shall be unclean until evening. •Any clothing or leather touched by the seminal discharge must be washed and it will be unclean until evening. When a woman has slept with a man, both of them must wash and they will be unclean until evening.

b. Of women

12:2 "When a woman has a discharge of blood, and blood flows from her body, this uncleanliness of her monthly periods shall last for seven days.

2 S 11:4 Est 4:17w 1s 64:5 Ezk 36:17 "Anyone who touches her will be unclean until evening.

Gn 31:34 "Any bed she lies on in this state will be unclean; any seat she sits on will be unclean.

"Anyone who touches her bed must wash his clothing and wash himself and will be unclean until evening.

"Anyone who touches any seat she has sat on must wash his clothing and wash himself and will be unclean until evening. •If there is anything on the bed or on the chair on which she sat, anyone who touches it will be unclean until evening.

"If a man sleeps with her, he will be affected by the uncleanness of her monthly periods. He shall be unclean for seven days. Any bed he lies on will be unclean.

"If a woman has a flow of blood for several days outside the period, or if the period is prolonged, during the time this flow lasts she shall be in the same state of uncleanness as during her monthly periods. •Any bed she lies on during the time this flow lasts will be in the same condition as the bed she lies on during her monthly periods. Any seat she sits on will be unclean as it would be during her monthly periods. •Anyone who touches them will be unclean; he must wash his clothing and wash himself and will be unclean until evening.

"When she is cured of her flow, she will let seven days pass; then she will be clean. •On the eighth day she is to take two turtledoves or two young pigeons and bring them to the priest at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. •With one of them the priest is to offer a sacrifice for sin and with the other a holocaust. This is the way in which the priest will perform the rite of atonement over her before Yahweh for the flow that caused her uncleanness."

Conclusion

'You must warn the sons of Israel of their uncleanness lest they should die because of it, by being a defilement to my tabernacle which is set amongst them.

'Such is the law concerning a man with a discharge, anyone made unclean by a seminal discharge, •a woman in the uncleanness of her monthly periods, a man or a woman with a discharge, a man who sleeps with an unclean woman.'

The great Day of Atonement^a

10:1f 16 After the death of the two sons of Aaron who died through offering unlawful fire before Yahweh, •Yahweh spoke to Moses. He said:

Ex 19:12+; 25:17+; 33:20 Heb 6:19 'Tell Aaron your brother that he must not enter the sanctuary beyond the veil, in front of the throne of mercy that is over the ark, whenever he chooses. He may die; for I appear in a cloud on the throne of mercy.

'This is how he is to enter the sanctuary: with a young bull for a sacrifice for sin and a ram for a holocaust. •He is to put on a tunic of consecrated linen, wear linen on his body, a linen girdle round his waist, and a linen turban on his head. These are the sacred vestments he must put on after washing himself with water.

- 5 'He is to receive two goats for a sacrifice for sin and a ram for a holocaust from 6 the community of the sons of Israel. •After offering the bull as a sacrifice for Heb 5:3
 his own sin and performing the rite of atonement for himself and his family, 7 Aaron must take the two goats and set them before Yahweh at the entrance to 8 the Tent of Meeting. •He is to draw lots for the two goats and allot one to 17:7+ was marked "For Azazel" shall be set before Yahweh, still alive, to perform the rite of atonement over it, sending it out into the desert to Azazel. 16:22

- 11 'Aaron must offer the bull which is to be a sacrifice for his own sin, then he must perform the rite of atonement for himself and for his family, and immolate 12 the bull. •Then he is to fill a censer with live coals from the altar that stands Rv 8:5
 before Yahweh; and to take two handfuls of finely ground aromatic incense.
 13 He is to take these through the veil •and then to put the incense on the fire before Yahweh, and with a cloud of incense he must cover the throne of mercy 14 that is on the Testimony; if he does this, he shall not die. •Then he must take some of the blood of the bull and sprinkle it with his finger on the eastern side of the throne of mercy; in front of the throne of mercy he must sprinkle this blood seven times with his finger.
- 15 'He must then immolate the goat for the sacrifice for the sin of the people, and take its blood through the veil. With this blood he is to do as with the blood 16 of the bull, sprinkling it on the throne of mercy and in front of it. •This is how he is to perform the rite of atonement over the sanctuary for the uncleanness of the sons of Israel, for their transgressions and for all their sins. Ezk 45:18-20

 Yahweh, and perform over it the rite of atonement. He must take some of the blood of the bull and of the goat, and put it on the horns around the altar.
 19 With this blood he must sprinkle the altar seven times with his finger. This is how he will render it clean and sacred, purified and separated^c from the uncleannesses of the sons of Israel.
- 20 'When the atonement of the sanctuary, the Tent of Meeting and the altar is 21 complete, he is to bring the other goat that is still alive. •Aaron must lay his hands on its head and confess all the faults of the sons of Israel, all their transgressions and all their sins, and lay them to its charge. Having thus laid them on the goat's head, he shall send it out into the desert led by a man

16 a. The list of impurities now ends and this chapter describes the yearly ritual that atones for them all. In the editorial process several rites of varying antiquity have been drawn together. The ceremony itself, however, is ancient and, before being assigned to a special day of the year, v. 29, seems to have been attached to the feast of Tabernacles or of New Year. The 'scape-goat' ritual, vv. 8-10, 20-22, 26, has all the characteristics of high antiquity. see following notes. The yearning for expiation expressed in these ancient rituals is satisfied by the unique sacrifice of Christ, Heb 9:6-14.

b. Azazel, as the Syr. version seems to imply, is the name of a demon; according to ancient Hebrew and Canaanite belief he lived in the desert, the barren region where God does not exert his life-giving activity. Cf. v. 22 with refs., and 17:7+.

c. Lit. 'sanctified', see 17:1+.

d. This goat is dedicated to Azazel, v. 10, not that it is sacrificed to him but that it bears away the sins of the people to Azazel's desert haunts. The handing over of the animal and the rite of expiation are performed 'before Yahweh', v. 10, and at the hands of the priest, v. 21; in this way an ancient popular custom is taken over, and purged of demonolatry.

holocaust. He must perform the rite of atonement for himself and for the people; he must burn up the fat of the sacrifice for sin on the altar. 25

23:27-32 'The man who leads out the goat to Azazel must wash his clothing and his body, and then he can return to the camp. •The bull and the goat offered as a sacrifice for sin, whose blood has been taken into the sanctuary for the rite of atonement, are to be taken out of the camp where their skin, flesh and dung are to be burnt. •The man who burns them must wash his clothing and his body, and then he can return to the camp. 26 27 28

'This shall be a perpetual law for you. 29

'On the tenth day of the seventh month you must fast and refrain from work, the native and the stranger who lives among you. •For this is the day on which the rite of atonement shall be performed over you, to purify you. Before Yahweh you will be clean of all your sins. •It shall be a sabbath rest for you and you are to fast. This is a perpetual law. 30 31

'The rite of atonement must be performed by the priest who has been anointed and installed to officiate in place of his father. He is to put on the linen, the sacred vestments, •and to perform the atonement of the sacred sanctuary, the Tent of Meeting and the altar. Then he must perform the rite of atonement over the priests and all the people of the community. •This shall be a perpetual law for you; once a year the rite of atonement must be made over the sons of Israel for all their sins.' 32 33 34

And it was done as Yahweh commanded Moses.

IV. THE LAW OF HOLINESS^a

Immolation and sacrifice

17 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: 1
'Speak to Aaron and his sons and all the sons of Israel and say to them: 2
'This is the word of Yahweh, his command:

Any man of the House of Israel who immolates an ox, lamb or goat, whether inside the camp or outside it, •must first bring it to the entrance to the Tent of Meeting to make an offering of it to Yahweh before his tabernacle;^b and anyone who fails to do this must answer for the blood that is spilt;^c he shall be outlawed from his people. •Thus, the sacrifices that the sons of Israel wish to make in the open country will be brought to the priest, for Yahweh, at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and with them they will make communion sacrifices for Yahweh. •The priest shall sprinkle the blood on the altar of Yahweh that stands at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and he shall burn the fat, and its fragrance will appease Yahweh. •They must no longer offer their sacrifices to the satyrs^d in whose service they once prostituted themselves.^e This is a perpetual law for them and for their descendants." 3 4 5 6 7

'You will also say to them, "Any man of the House of Israel or stranger living among you who offers a holocaust or sacrifice •without bringing it to the entrance to the Tent of Meeting to offer it to Yahweh shall be outlawed from his people. 8 9

"If any man of the House of Israel or stranger living among you eats blood of any kind, I will set my face against the man who has eaten the blood and will outlaw him from his people. •The life of the flesh is in the blood. This blood I myself have given you to perform the rite of atonement for your lives at the altar; for it is blood that atones for a life.^f •That is why I have said to the sons of Israel: None of you nor any stranger living among you shall eat blood. 10 11 12

"If any son of Israel or any stranger living among you catches game or bird that it is lawful to eat, he must pour out its blood and cover it with earth. For the life of all flesh is its blood, and I have said to the sons of Israel: You must not eat the blood of any flesh, for the life of all flesh is in its blood, and anyone who eats it shall be outlawed from his people. 13 14 15

17 a. Holiness is one of the essential attributes of the God of Israel, cf. 11:44-45; 19:2; 20:7,26; 21:8; 22:32f. The original conception is one of separateness, of inaccessibility and of awe-inspiring transcendence, Ex 33:20+. This sanctity communicates itself to everything in God's vicinity and to anything consecrated to him: places, Ex 19:12+; seasons, Ex 16:23; Lv 23:4; the ark, 2 S 6:7+; people, Ex 19:6+, and the priests in particular, Lv 21:6; things, Ex 30:29; Nb 18:9, etc. Because 'holiness' is thought of in relation to worship, it is connected with the idea of ritual cleanliness; in Lv 17-23 the 'law of holiness' is also a 'law of purity'. But the God of Israel makes moral demands and under this influence the primitive notion of 'holiness' undergoes a transformation: avoidance of what was ritually impure becomes abstention from sin; ritual purity develops into spiritual purity, cf. Isaiah's inaugural vision, Is 6:3+. See notes to Lv 1:1 and 11:1.

b. The text is longer in Greek and Sam.

c. See 1:5+. But the requirements of Dt 12:15-16 (see note) are more moderate.

d. The Hebr. word means 'goat'; here it indicates beings of animal form who were thought to haunt deserts and ruins, Is 13:21; 34:14. Azazel was reckoned one of their number, Lv 16:8+. Here and in 2 Ch 11:15 the word is used contemptuously of false gods.

e. Classic image of religious faithlessness, see Ho 1-3+.

f. Or 'by reason of the life (which is in it)'. But cf. Dt 19:21.

18 a. This chapter is a literary unit. It is more akin to Dt than the rest of the 'Law of Holiness'.

b. Lit. 'of the flesh of his body'. To express relationship the Hebrews spoke of an identity of blood, flesh or even bone (Jg 9:2), an identity most perfectly achieved in the union of man and wife. For this reason the prohibitions that follow, whether concerned with blood-relationship or relationship by marriage (vv. 8, 14,16), are all grouped under the prohibition against incest: flesh must not fertilise itself.

c. Pejorative phrase for sexual intercourse.

you must not take the daughter of her son or of her daughter to uncover their nakedness. They are your own flesh;^d it would be incest.

Gn29:27+ Ezk22:10 "You must not take into your harem a woman and her sister at the same time, 18 uncovering the latter's nakedness while the former is still alive.

"You must not approach and uncover the nakedness of a woman who is 19 unclean by reason of her monthly periods.

Ex20:14+ Ezk22:11; 33:25 "You must not give your marriage bed to your neighbour's wife; you would 20 thereby become unclean."

20:2-5 Gn22:1+ 1K16:34 2 K 16:3 Is 57:5,9 Mi 6:7 "You must not hand over any of your children to have them passed^f to 21 Molech,^g nor must you profane the name of your God in this way. I am Yahweh.

Gn19:5+ "You must not lie with a man as with a woman. This is a hateful thing. 22

Dt 27:21 "You must not lie with any animal; you would thereby become unclean. 23

A woman must not offer herself to an animal, to have intercourse with it. This would be a foul thing.

Ezr 9:11 "Do not make yourselves unclean by any of these practices, for it was by such 24 things that the nations that I have expelled to make way for you made themselves unclean.

"The land became unclean; I exacted the penalty for its fault and the land 25 had to vomit out its inhabitants.

"But you must keep my laws and customs, you must not do any of these 26 hateful things, neither native nor stranger living among you. •For all these 27 hateful things were done by the people who inhabited this land before you, and the land became unclean. •If you make it unclean, will it not vomit you out 28 as it vomited the nation that was here before you? •Yes, anyone who does 29 one of these hateful things, whatever it may be, any person doing so must be cut off from his people. •Keep to my rules; do not observe the hateful practices 30 that were observed before you came, then you will not be made unclean by them. I am Yahweh your God."

Ex 15:11 Worship^a

19 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

 tattoo yourselves. I am Yahweh.
- 29 "Do not profane your daughter by making her a prostitute; thus the land will not be prostituted and filled with incest.
- 30 "You must keep my sabbaths and reverence my sanctuary. I am Yahweh.
- 31 "Do not have recourse to the spirits of the dead or to magicians; they will defile you. I am Yahweh your God.
- 32 "You are to rise up before grey hairs, you are to honour old age and fear your God. I am Yahweh.
- 33 "If a stranger lives with you in your land, do not molest him. •You must 34 count him as one of your own countrymen and love him as yourself—for you were once strangers yourselves in Egypt. I am Yahweh your God.
- 35 "Your legal verdicts, your measures—length, weight and capacity—must all be 36 just. •Your scales and weights must be just, a just ephah and a just hin. I am Yahweh who brought you out of the land of Egypt.

 Dt 12:31; 18:10. The rite found its way into Israel, especially in the valley of Ben-Hinnom to the S. of Jerusalem, 2 K 16:3; 21:6; 23:10; Jr 7:31; 19:5f; 32:35;
 Ezk 16:21. Several of these texts interpret this practice as an offering of children to the god Molech (= Melech, the 'king', a divine title) but this interpretation is contested and some authors explain molech as meaning
 'votive sacrifice'.

19 a. This chapter is a literary unit with short introduction and conclusion. Its main theme is the holiness of Yahweh, requiring holiness in his people.

b. Lit. 'things of nothing'.

c. This short paragraph on duty to neighbour is derived from the Decalogue. Similar injunctions are found in all the legislative passages of the Pentateuch.

d. He cannot curse back. Alternative translation
 'the deaf'.

e. By a baseless capital charge.

f. Prohibition against magic, with its incongruous compounds, etc.

g. Hebr. 'they will not be put to death'.

h. Circumcision originally celebrated man's achievement of maturity, Gn 17:10+, and an uncircumcised man was unclean. The fruit of a young tree was by analogy 'uncircumcised', and therefore unclean until consecrated to God.

 pagan customs practised by neighbouring peoples.

Penalties^aa. Offences against true worship

20 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

“Tell the sons of Israel:

“Any son of Israel or any stranger living in Israel must die if he hands over any of his children to Molech. The people of the country must stone him, and I shall set my face against that man and outlaw him from his people; for in handing over his children to Molech he has defiled my sanctuary and profaned my holy name. •If the people of the country choose to close their eyes to the man’s action in handing over his children to Molech, and they do not put him to death, •I myself shall turn my face against him and his clan. I shall outlaw them from their people, him and all those after him who prostitute themselves by following Molech.

“If a man has recourse to the spirits of the dead or to magicians, to prostitute himself by following them, I shall set my face against that man and outlaw him from his people.

“You must make yourselves holy, for I am Yahweh your God.

b. Offences against the family

“You must keep my laws and put them into practice, for it is I, Yahweh, who make you holy. •Hence:

“Anyone who curses father or mother must die. Since he has cursed his father or mother, his blood shall be on his own head.

“The man who commits adultery with a married woman:

“The man who commits adultery with his neighbour’s wife must die, he and his accomplice.

“The man who lies with his father’s wife has uncovered his father’s nakedness. Both of them must die, their blood shall be on their own heads.

“The man who lies with his daughter-in-law: both of them must die; they have defiled each other, their blood shall be on their own heads.

“The man who lies with a man in the same way as with a woman: they have done a hateful thing together; they must die, their blood shall be on their own heads.

“The man who takes a woman and her mother to wife: that is incest. They must be burnt to death—he and they: there must be no incest among you.

“The man who lies with an animal: he must die and the animal must be killed.

“The woman who approaches any animal to have intercourse with it: you shall kill the woman and the animal. They must die, their blood shall be on their own heads.

“The man who takes the daughter of his father or mother to wife: if he sees her nakedness and she sees his, it is a disgrace. They must be executed in public,^b for the man has uncovered the nakedness of his sister and he must bear^c the consequences of his fault.

“The man who lies with a woman during her monthly periods and uncovers her nakedness: he has laid bare the source of her blood, and she has uncovered the source of her blood: both of them must be outlawed from their people.

“You must not uncover the nakedness of your mother’s sister or of your father’s sister, a man has thus uncovered his own flesh, and they must bear the consequences of their fault.

“The man who lies with the wife of his paternal uncle: he has uncovered his uncle’s nakedness, they must bear the consequences of their fault and die childless.

“The man who takes to wife the wife of his brother: that is impurity; he has uncovered his brother’s nakedness, and they shall die childless.

c. Appendix:^d the clean and the unclean

“You must keep all my laws, all my customs, and put them into practice: thus you will not be vomited out by the land where I am taking you to live. •You 23 must not follow the laws of the nations that I expel to make way for you; they practised all these things and for this I have come to detest them. •I have told you already: You shall take possession of their soil, I myself will give you possession of it, a land where milk and honey flow.

25 "I, Yahweh your God, have set you apart from these peoples. •Therefore you must set the clean animal apart from the unclean, the unclean bird apart from the clean. Do not defile yourselves with these animals or birds, or things that creep on the ground: I have made you set them apart as unclean.

Conclusion

26 "Be consecrated to me, because I, Yahweh, am holy, and I will set you apart from all these peoples so that you may be mine.

27 "Any man or woman who is a necromancer or magician must be put to death by stoning; their blood shall be on their own heads."

The holiness of the priesthood

a. The priests

1 21 Yahweh said to Moses:

"Speak to the priests, the sons of Aaron, and say to them:

"None of them is to make himself unclean by going near the corpse of one of his family,^a •unless it be of his closest relations—father, mother, son, daughter, brother. •He may also make himself unclean for his virgin sister: if she is still a close relation since she has not belonged to a man.^b •If a husband,^c he must not make himself unclean for his family; in doing so he would profane himself.^d

5 "They must not wear tonsures, shave the edges of their beards, or gash their bodies. •They shall be consecrated to their God and must not profane the name of their God. For it is they who bring the burnt offerings to Yahweh, the food of their God; and they must be in a holy condition.

7 "They must not marry a woman profaned by prostitution, or one divorced by her husband; for the priest is consecrated to his God.^e

8 You shall treat him as holy, for he offers up the food of your God. He shall be a holy person to you, because I, Yahweh, am holy, who sanctify you.

9 "If the daughter of a man who is a priest profanes herself by prostitution, she profanes her father and must be burnt to death.

b. The high priest

10 "The priest who is pre-eminent over his brother, on whose head the chrism is poured, and who, clothed with the sacred robes, receives investiture, is not to disorder his hair or tear his garments; •he must not go near a dead man's corpse, he must not make himself unclean even for his father or mother. •He must not leave the holy place, so that he may not profane the sanctuary of his God; for he bears on himself the consecration of his God, given by the oil of anointing. I am Yahweh.

13 14 "He must take to wife a woman who is still a virgin. •He must not marry a woman who is a widow or divorced, or profaned by prostitution: only a virgin

20 a. A fresh section dealing with penalties and therefore involving repetition of ordinances already recorded.

b. The only case for which punishment is to be in public.

c. Greek and Sam. read the plural.

d. Terms from ch. 18 recur here.

21 a. Contact with the dead produces uncleanness, Nb 6:9; 19:11-13; 31:19,24; Ezk 44:25-27; cf. Hab 2:13.

b. Marriage, by which woman becomes the 'flesh' of her husband, Gn 2:23, loosens ties of blood.

c. The Greek reads 'suddenly' instead of 'Baal' (husband).

d. Meaning uncertain. 'His family' seems to refer to the wife or one of her relations who become 'his family' by marriage. Other possible translations 'He must not make himself unclean for the sake of a married sister' (this assumes a text-correction); or 'God (here called 'Baal', Master—it can also mean 'husband') must not be made unclean by his people; he would be profaned'.

e. According to Dt 24:1 divorce, it seems, presupposes some physical defect; but in the priest, one flesh with his wife, there must be no defect, vv. 17f.

from his own family may he take to wife. •He must not profane his levitical 15 descendants,⁷ for it is I, Yahweh, who have sanctified him.”

c. Impediments to the priesthood

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: 16

‘Speak to Aaron and say: 17

“None of your descendants, in any generation, must come forward to offer 18
Dt 23:2 the food of his God if he has any infirmity—•no man must come near if he has 18
2 S 5:8 an infirmity such as blindness or lameness, if he is disfigured or deformed, 19
if he has an injured foot or arm, •if he is a hunchback or a dwarf, if he has a 20 disease of the eyes or of the skin, if he has a running sore, or if he is a eunuch. 21
No descendant of Aaron the priest must come forward to offer the burnt offerings 21 of Yahweh if he has any infirmity;⁸ if he has an infirmity, he must not come 22 forward to offer the food of his God.

“He may eat the food of his God, things most holy and things holy; •but he 22 must not go near the veil or approach the altar, because he has an infirmity, and 23 must not profane my holy things; for it is I, Yahweh, who have sanctified them.”

And Moses told this to Aaron, to his sons, and to all the sons of Israel. 24

Holiness in consuming the sacred meal

a. The priests

22 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: 1

‘Speak to Aaron and his sons: let them be consecrated^a through the holy 2 offerings of the sons of Israel, and not profane my holy name; for my sake they 3 are to sanctify it; I am Yahweh. •Tell them this: 3

“Any one of your descendants, in any generation, who in a state of uncleanness 4 approaches the holy offerings consecrated to Yahweh by the sons of Israel, 5 shall be outlawed from my presence. I am Yahweh.

13:15 “Anyone of Aaron’s line who is afflicted with leprosy or with a discharge 4 Hg 2:13 must not eat holy things until he is clean. Anyone who touches something made 5 unclean by a dead body, or has a seminal discharge, •or is made unclean 6 by touching either some creeping thing or some man who has communicated 7 to him his own uncleanness of whatever kind, •in short, anyone who has had any 8 such contact shall be unclean until evening, and must not eat holy things until he 9 has washed his body. •At sunset he will be clean and may then eat holy things, 10 for these are his food.

17:15 “He must not eat an animal that has died a natural death or been savaged by 8
Ezk 4:14 beasts; he would contract uncleanness from it. I am Yahweh.

“Let them keep my rules and not burden themselves with sin. If they profane 9 them, they shall die: it is I, Yahweh, who have sanctified them.

b. Lay people

“No lay person may eat holy things: neither the guest of a priest, nor his 10 hired servant. •But if the priest has acquired a slave by purchase, the slave may 11 eat them like anyone born in the house; for they eat his own food.

“If a priest’s daughter marries a layman, she must not eat the holy portion set 12 aside; •but if she is widowed or divorced and, being childless, has had to return 13 to her father’s house as when she was young, she may eat her father’s food. 14
No lay person may eat of it; •if someone does eat a holy thing by inadvertence, 15 he shall restore it to the priest with one-fifth added.

5:14-16 “They^b must not profane the holy offerings which the sons of Israel have set 15 aside for Yahweh. •To eat these would lay on them a fault demanding a sacrifice 16 of reparation; for it is I, Yahweh, who have sanctified these offerings.”

c. Animals sacrificed

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: 17

- 18 'Tell this to Aaron, to his sons, and to all the sons of Israel:
 "Any man of the House of Israel or any stranger living in Israel who brings an offering either in payment of a vow or as a voluntary gift, and makes 19 a holocaust with it for Yahweh,^c •must, if he is to be acceptable, offer a male 20 without blemish, ox, sheep or goat. •You must not offer one that is blemished; for it would not make you acceptable. Ex 12:5
- 21 "If anyone offers to Yahweh a communion sacrifice, either to fulfil a vow 3:1+;7:11+ or as a voluntary offering, the animal—from the herd or from the flock—must 22 be without blemish if it is to be acceptable; no defect must be found in it. •You 1:3; 3:1
 must not offer to Yahweh an animal that is blind, lame, mutilated, ulcerous, or suffering from skin disease or sore. No part of such an animal shall be laid on the 23 altar as a burnt offering for Yahweh. •As a voluntary offering, you may offer a bull or a lamb that is underdeveloped or deformed; but such will not be 24 acceptable in payment of a vow. •An animal must not be offered to Yahweh if its testicles have been bruised, crushed, removed or cut. You are not to do that 25 in your country, •and you are not to accept any such from the hands of a stranger, to be offered as food for your God. Their deformity is a blemish, and they would not make you acceptable."
- 26 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:
 27 'A calf, lamb, or kid shall stay with its dam seven days after birth. From the 28 eighth day it will be acceptable as a burnt offering to Yahweh. •But no animal, whether cow or ewe, shall be immolated on the same day as its young. Ex 23:19
- 29 'If you offer Yahweh a sacrifice with praise, do it in the acceptable manner;
 30 it must be eaten the same day, with nothing left till the morning. I am Yahweh. 7:11+

d. Final exhortation

- 31 'You must keep my commands and put them into practice. I am Yahweh.
 32 You must not profane my holy name, so that I may be proclaimed holy among 33 the sons of Israel, I, Yahweh who sanctify you. •I who brought you out of the land of Egypt to be your God, I am Yahweh.' 11:44f+;

Unleavened Bread^c for Yahweh. For seven days you shall eat bread without leaven. •On the first day you are to hold a sacred assembly; you must do no heavy 7 work. •For seven days you shall offer a burnt offering to Yahweh. The seventh 8 day is to be a day of sacred assembly; you must do no work.”

Dt26:1+ c. The first sheaf

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:^d 9
 “Speak to the sons of Israel and say to them: 10
 “When you enter the land that I give you, and gather in the harvest there, 11 you must bring the first sheaf of your harvest to the priest, •and he is to present 11 it to Yahweh with the gesture of offering, so that you may be acceptable. The 12 priest shall make this offering on the day after the sabbath, •and on the same day 12 as you make this offering, you are to offer Yahweh the holocaust of an unblemished 13 lamb one year old. •The oblation for that day shall be two-tenths of wheaten 13 flour mixed with oil, a burnt offering whose fragrance will appease Yahweh. The 14 libation is to be one quarter of a hin of wine. •You are to eat no bread, roasted 14 corn or baked bread, before this day, before making the offering to your God.
 This is a perpetual law for all your descendants, wherever you live.

Dt16:9-12 d. The feast of Weeks

“From the day after the sabbath, the day on which you bring the sheaf of 15 offering, you are to count seven full weeks. •You are to count fifty days, to the day 16 after the seventh sabbath, and then you are to offer Yahweh a new oblation. •You 17 must bring bread from your houses to present with the gesture of offering—two 17 loaves, made of two-tenths of wheaten flour baked with leaven; these are 18 first-fruits for Yahweh. •In addition to the bread you must offer seven unblemished 18 lambs one year old, a young bull and two rams, as a holocaust to Yahweh, 19 together with an oblation and a libation, a burnt offering whose fragrance will 19 appease Yahweh. •You are also to offer a goat as a sacrifice for sin, and two lambs 19 one year old as a communion sacrifice. •The priest shall present them before 20
 Yahweh with the gesture of offering, in addition to the bread of the first-fruits.
 These, and the two lambs, are holy things for Yahweh, and will revert to the 20 priest.

“This same day you are to hold an assembly; this shall be a sacred assembly for 21 you; you will do no heavy work. This is a perpetual law for your descendants, wherever you live.

 Ex12:48+

e. The First Day of the Seventh Month

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: 23
 “Speak to the sons of Israel and say to them: 24
 “The first day of the seventh month^e shall be a day of rest for you, a sacred 25 assembly proclaimed with trumpet call. •You must not do any heavy work and you must offer a burnt offering to Yahweh.”

16:1+ f. The Day of Atonement
 Nb29:7-11

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: 26
 “But the tenth day of this seventh month shall be the Day of Atonement. You 27 are to hold a sacred assembly. You must fast, and you must offer a burnt offering to 27 Yahweh. •You are not to do any work that day, for it is the Day of Atonement, 28 on which the rite of atonement will be performed over you before Yahweh your 28
 God. •Indeed, anyone who fails to fast that day shall be outlawed from his people; 29 anyone who works that day I will remove from his people. •No work must 30 be done—this is a perpetual law for your descendants wherever you live. •This 32 is to be a day of sabbath rest for you. You must fast; on the evening of the ninth day of the month, from this to the following evening, you must cease to work.'

g. The feast of Tabernacles

33 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

34 'Speak to the sons of Israel and say to them:

"The fifteenth day of this seventh month shall be the feast of Tabernacles for Yahweh, lasting seven days. •The first day is a day of sacred assembly; you must do no heavy work. •For seven days you must offer a burnt offering to Yahweh. On the eighth day you are to hold a sacred assembly, you must offer a burnt offering to Yahweh. It is a day of solemn meeting; you must do no heavy work.

Conclusion

37 "These are the solemn festivals of Yahweh to which you are to summon the children of Israel, sacred assemblies for the purpose of offering burnt offerings, holocausts, oblations, sacrifices and libations to Yahweh, according to the ritual of each day, •besides the sabbaths of Yahweh and the presents, and the votive and voluntary gifts that you make to Yahweh.

Recapitulation on the feast of Tabernacles^f

39 "But on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when you have harvested the produce of the land, you are to celebrate the feast of Yahweh for seven days. On the first and eighth days there shall be a complete rest. •On the first day you shall take choice fruits, palm branches, boughs of leafy trees and willows from the river bank, and for seven days you shall rejoice in the presence of Yahweh your God. •You are to celebrate a feast for Yahweh in this way for seven days every year. This is a perpetual law for your descendants.

Ne 4:14

42 "You are to keep this feast in the seventh month. •For seven days you are to live in shelters: all natives of Israel must live in shelters, •so that your descendants may know that I made the sons of Israel live in shelters when I brought them out of the land of Egypt. I am Yahweh your God."

Ps118:27

Complementary ritual prescriptions

a. The perpetual flame

1 24 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

2 'Order the sons of Israel to bring you pure olive oil for the lamp-stand, and keep a flame burning there continually. •Outside the veil of Testimony, in the Tent of Meeting, Aaron is to see to this flame. It shall burn there before Yahweh from evening to morning continually. This is a perpetual law for your descendants: 4 Aaron is to see to the lamps on the pure^a lamp-stand before Yahweh, continually.

b. The bread on the Golden Table

5 'You are to take wheaten flour and with it bake twelve cobs, each of two-tenths of an ephah. •Then you must set them in two rows of six on the pure table that 7 stands before Yahweh. •On each row you shall place pure incense. This will be

c. These two feasts, which seem to merge in Dt 16:1-8, are clearly distinguished here.

d. This new oracle interrupts the enumeration of feasts (resumed in v. 15). Apparently the original text of the Law of Holiness has here been supplemented from Nb 15 and 28. In vv. 23-28 there are other interpolations.

e. The first day of each (lunar) month was long kept as a feast by both Israelites and Canaanites (the New Moon, or Neomenia), 1 S 20:5,24; Is 1:13; Am 8:5. Our passage speaks only of the most important of these feasts, that on the first day of the seventh month (i.e. of the year beginning in spring) which for a long time was the first month (of a year that began in autumn).

f. Unlike vv. 34-36 (prohibition of heavy work) the emphasis of this second text is on the joy of the feast, in the manner of Dt 16:13-16; v. 43 links the feast with memories of the desert journey.

24 a. 'Pure', i.e. ritually; or perhaps 'of pure gold'; same alternative for the 'table' of v. 6.

the food offered as a memorial, a burnt offering for Yahweh. •Continually, 8 every sabbath they shall be set before Yahweh. The sons of Israel are to provide them by unending covenant. •They will belong to Aaron and his sons, who shall 9 eat them in a holy place, for they are a most holy portion for him of Yahweh's burnt offerings. This is a perpetual law.'

A case of blasphemy. The law of retaliation^b

Ex 12:38 There was a man whose mother was an Israelite woman and whose father 10 was an Egyptian. He came out of his house and in the camp, surrounded by the sons of Israel, he began to quarrel with a man who was an Israelite. •Now this 11 son of the Israelite woman blasphemed the name and cursed it. So they brought him to Moses (his mother's name was Shelomith daughter of Dibri, of the tribe of Dan). •He was put under guard until the will of Yahweh should be made 12 clear to them.

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

1K21:10 'Take the man who pronounced the curse outside the camp. Let all who have 14 heard him lay their hands on his head, and let the whole community stone him.' •Then say to the sons of Israel:

Jn 19:7 "Any man who curses his God shall bear the burden of his fault. •The one 16 who blasphemes the name of Yahweh^a must die; the whole community must stone him. Stranger or native, if he blasphemes the name, he dies.

Ex 21:12-20 "If a man strikes down^c any human being, he must die. 17

"If a man strikes an animal down he must make restitution for it: a life for 18 a life.

Ex21:25+ "If a man injures his neighbour, what he has done must be done to him: 19 broken limb for broken limb, eye for eye, tooth for tooth. As the injury inflicted, 20 so must be the injury suffered. •The one who strikes an animal down must 21 make restitution for it, and the one who strikes down a man must die. •The 22 sentence you pass shall be the same whether it be on native or on stranger; for I am Yahweh your God."

When Moses had said this to the sons of Israel, they took the man who had 23 pronounced the curse out of the camp and stoned him. In this way the sons of Israel carried out the order of Yahweh to Moses.

The Holy Years^a

a. The Sabbatical Year

25 Yahweh spoke to Moses on Mount Sinai; he said: 1
'Speak to the sons of Israel and say to them: 2

"When you enter the land that I am giving you, the land is to keep a sabbath's rest for Yahweh. •For six years you shall sow your field, for six years you shall 3 prune your vine and gather its produce. •But in the seventh year the land is to 4 have its rest, a sabbath for Yahweh. You must not sow your field or prune your vine, •or harvest your ungathered corn or gather grapes from your untrimmed 5 vine. It is to be a year of rest for the land. •The sabbath of the land will itself 6 feed you and your servants, men and women, your hired labourer, your guest, and all who live with you. •For your cattle too, and the animals on your land, 7 all its produce will serve as food.

b. The Year of Jubilee

"You are to count seven weeks of years—seven times seven years, that is to say 8 a period of seven weeks of years, forty-nine years. •And on the tenth day of the 9 seventh month you shall sound the trumpet; on the Day of Atonement you shall sound the trumpet throughout the land. •You will declare this fiftieth year sacred 10 and proclaim the liberation of all the inhabitants of the land. This is to be a jubilee for you; each of you will return to his ancestral home, each to his own 11 clan. •This fiftieth year is to be a jubilee year for you: you will not sow, you will

 12 The jubilee is to be a holy thing to you, you will eat what comes from the fields.
 13 "In this year of jubilee each of you is to return to his ancestral home. •If you 14 buy or sell with your neighbour, let no one wrong his brother.^b •If you buy from 15 your neighbour, this must take into account the number of years since the 16 jubilee: according to the number of productive years he will fix the price. •The greater the number of years, the higher shall be the price demanded; the less the number of years, the greater the reduction; for what he is selling you is a 17 certain number of harvests. •Let none of you wrong his neighbour, but fear your God; I am Yahweh your God.
 18 "You must put my laws and customs into practice; you must keep them, 19 practise them; and so you shall be secure in your possession of the land. •The land will give its fruit, you will eat your fill and live in security.

The divine guarantee

- 20 "In case you should ask: What shall we eat in this seventh year if we do not 21 sow or harvest the produce? •I have ordered my blessing to be on you every 22 sixth year, which will therefore provide for you for three years.^c •You will have the old produce to eat while you are sowing in the eighth year and even as late 26:10 as the ninth year; you will eat the old produce, while waiting for the harvest of that year.

Consequences of the holiness of land and people

a. The land: redemption of landed property

- 23 "Land must not be sold in perpetuity, for the land belongs to me, and to me Ps 39:12
 24 you are only strangers and guests. •You will allow a right of redemption on all 25 your landed property. •If your brother falls on evil days and has to sell his patrimony, his nearest relation^d shall come to him and exercise his right of redemp- Rt4:1-12 26 tion on what his brother has sold. •The man who has no one to exercise this right can regain his property in this way: when he has found the means to effect 27 the redemption, •he is to calculate the number of years that the alienation would have lasted, repay to the purchaser the sum due for the time still to run, and so 28 return to his property. •If he cannot find the sum for paying the compensation, the property sold shall remain in the possession of the purchaser until the jubilee year. In the jubilee year, the latter must relinquish it and return to his own property.
 29 "If anyone sells a dwelling house that is in a walled town, he shall have the right of redemption until the expiry of the year following the sale. His right of re-30 demption is limited to the year; •and if the redemption has not been effected by the end of the year, this house in the town shall be the property of the purchaser

b. This section interrupts the series of ritual ordinances.

c. The community, defiled by the curse, will be cleansed by the stoning of the guilty man; hands are imposed on him as on the sacrificial animal which is the community's substitute, 1:4; 16:21.

d. 'the name of Yahweh' Greek; 'a name' Hebr.; 'the name' Sam.

e. Fatally, cf. Ex 21:12. These verses reproduce the earlier injunctions of the Book of the Covenant but explicitly associate resident foreigners with full members of Israel (vv. 16b, 20b-22).

25 a. These laws assert God's absolute ownership of the Holy Land; even the soil must observe the sabbath, see Ex 20:8+. The sabbatical year has already been mentioned in the Book of the Covenant, Ex 23:10-11; here the legislation is further defined, Lv 25:1-7. All this supposes a periodical return to the conditions of pastoral life. To this legislation Dt 15:1-11 adds the cancellation of debts. There was also a liberation of Hebrew slaves in the seventh year of their service but not necessarily in a sabbatical year. Ex 21:2; Dt 15: 12-18; in fact, however, it rarely took place, cf. Jr 34:

8-16. To make it less burdensome this liberation was enforced in jubilee years (Lv 25:8-17) which occurred every fifty years and were so called because announced by a trumpet, yobel (cf. the allusion in Is 61:1-2). During this year the fields lay fallow and there was also a general enfranchisement of people and goods: everyone rejoined his own clan and everyone recovered his ancestral property, v. 10. These arrangements made for stability in a society based on the family and on family property. 1 M 6:49-53 shows that the sabbatical year was observed. The Church has taken the custom over and given it spiritual significance: the periodical 'Holy Year' offers special opportunities for Christians to gain remission of their debt to God.

b. This law ensures fair dealing in business; it also attacks the land monopolies denounced in Is 5:8 and Mi 2:2.

c. Three years, i.e. the sabbatical year, the jubilee year and also (since there was no autumn sowing in jubilee year) the following year.

d. Lit. 'his nearest goel', cf. Nb 35:19+.

and his descendants in perpetuity; he need not relinquish it at the jubilee. •But 31 houses in villages not enclosed by walls will be considered as situated in the open country; they carry the right of redemption, and the purchaser must relinquish them at the jubilee.

Nb35:1-8 Jos 21 Ezk 48:13-14 "As regards the towns of the Levites, any property in the towns possessed by 32 them shall carry a perpetual right of redemption in their favour. •If it is a Levite 33 who is affected by the right of redemption, at the jubilee he must come out of the property that was sold and return to his house, to the town in which he has a title to property. / For the houses in the towns of the Levites are their property in the midst of the sons of Israel, •and the arable land depending on these towns 34 cannot be sold, for it is their property for ever.

b. The people: loans and enfranchisement

Ex 12:48+; 22:24 Dt 23: 20-21+ Ws 2:10 Ezk 22:12 "If your brother who is living with you falls on evil days and is unable to 35 support himself with you, you must support him as you would a stranger or a guest, and he must continue to live with you. •Do not make him work for you, do not 36 take interest from him; fear your God, and let your brother live with you. •You 37 are not to lend him money at interest, or give him food to make a profit out of it.
I am Yahweh your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt to give you 38
the land of Canaan and to be your God.

22:33+ 1 S 10:18 "If your brother falls on evil days when he is with you and sells himself to 39 you, •you must not impose a slave's work on him; •he shall be like a hired man or 40 a guest, and shall work with you until the jubilee year. •Then he shall leave you, 41 he and his children; he shall return to his clan and regain possession of his ancestral property. •For they are my servants, these whom I have brought out of 42 Egypt, and they must not be sold like slaves. •You must not be a hard master 43 to him, but you must fear your God.

"The servants you have, men and women, shall come from the nations round 44
you; from these you may purchase servants, men and women. •You may also 45 purchase them from the children of the strangers who live among you, and from their families living with you who have been born on your soil. They shall be your property •and you may leave them as an inheritance to your sons after you, 46 to hold in perpetual possession. These you may have for slaves; but to your brothers, the sons of Israel, you must not be hard masters. •

"If some stranger or settler among you grows rich, and your brother falls 47 on evil days and is in difficulties with him and sells himself to him, to this stranger or settler among you or to one of his descendants, •he shall enjoy the right of 48 redemption after sale, and one of his brothers may redeem him. •His paternal 49 uncle, his uncle's son, or a member of his own family may redeem him; if he has the means, he may redeem himself. •By agreement with his purchaser, he must 50 count the number of years between the year of sale and the jubilee year; the sum of the price of sale must be calculated at the annual rate for these years, his time being valued as that of a hired man. •If there are still many years to run, in 51 proportion to their number he must refund part of his sale price as payment for his redemption. •And if there are only a few years still to run before the jubilee 52 year, he must calculate in proportion to the number of these years what shall be refunded for his redemption, •the calculation being made as if he were hired by 53 the year. You must see that the man is not hardly dealt with.

"If he has not been redeemed in any of these ways, he shall go free in the jubilee 54 year, he and his children with him. •For they are my servants, these sons of 55 Israel; they are my servants whom I have brought out of the land of Egypt. I am Yahweh your God.

e. The levitical cities are thus kept sacred: only the Levites can acquire permanent rights there.

f. Text corrected in accordance with Greek.

g. The regulations of the Book of the Covenant, Ex 21:2f, were made for other social and economic conditions and are here modified. After fifty years (and not seven) the servant may depart, but his status is rather of partner than of slave.

h. Between Israelite and foreigner the common slave law of antiquity is to hold; between Israelite and Israelite, beneficiaries of the divine Covenant, another law obtains. The N.T. brings all nations into the Covenant.

26 a. Central theme of the Law of Holiness. This whole chapter is apparently dependent on Ezekiel.

b. Lit. 'I will break your staff of bread'. On this figure of speech for famine, cf. Ps 105:16.

your bread; they shall dole this bread out by weight, and you shall eat and not be filled.

"And if, in spite of this, you do not listen to me but set yourselves against me, I will set myself against you in fury and punish you sevenfold for your sins. You shall eat the flesh of your own sons, and you shall eat the flesh of your own daughters. •I will destroy your high places and smash your altars of incense; I will pile your corpses on the corpses of your idols, and I will cast you off. •I will reduce your cities to ruins; I will lay your sanctuaries waste; I will no longer breathe the fragrance that would appease me. •I, yes I, will make such a desolation of the land that your enemies who come to live there will be appalled by it. •And I will scatter you among the nations. I will unsheathe the sword against you to make your land a waste and your towns a ruin. •Then the land will observe its sabbaths indeed, lying desolate there, while you are in the land of your enemies. Then indeed the land will rest and observe its sabbaths. And as it lies desolate it will rest, as it never did on your sabbaths when you lived in it. •I will strike fear into the hearts of those of you that are left; in the land of their enemies the sound of a falling leaf shall send them fleeing as men flee from the sword, and they shall fall though there is no one pursuing them. They shall stumble over one another as if the sword were upon them even when there is no one pursuing them. You shall be powerless to stand before your enemies; you shall perish among the nations, and the land of your enemies shall swallow you up. •For their sins, those of you who are left shall perish in the lands of their enemies; they shall perish too for the sins of their fathers added to their own. Then they shall confess their sins and the sins of their fathers, sins by which they betrayed me—worse, by which they set themselves against me.

"I in my turn will set myself against them and take them to the land of their enemies. Then their uncircumcised heart will be humbled, then they will atone for their sins. •I shall remember my Covenant with Jacob, and my Covenant with Isaac and my Covenant with Abraham; and I shall remember the land.

"Abandoned by them, the land will keep its sabbaths, as it lies desolate when they are gone.^a But they must atone for their sin, for they have spurned my customs and abhorred my laws.

"Yet this is not the end. When they are in the land of their enemies, I will not so spurn them or abhor them as to destroy them altogether and break my Covenant with them; for I am Yahweh their God. •For their sake I will remember the Covenant I made with those first generations that I brought out of the land of Egypt in the sight of the nations, that I would be their God, I, Yahweh."

These are the laws, customs and rules which Yahweh laid down between himself and the sons of Israel on Mount Sinai through the mediation of Moses.

Tariffs and estimates^a

a. Persons

27 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

"Speak to the sons of Israel and tell them:

"If anyone vows the value of a person^b to Yahweh and wishes to discharge the vow:

"a man between twenty and sixty years of age shall be valued at fifty silver shekels—the sanctuary shekel; •a woman shall be valued at thirty shekels;

"between five and twenty years, a boy shall be valued at twenty shekels, a girl at ten shekels;

"between one month and five years, a boy shall be valued at five silver shekels, a girl at three silver shekels;

"at sixty years and over, a man shall be valued at fifteen shekels and a woman at ten shekels.

"If the person who made the vow cannot meet this valuation, he must present the person concerned to the priest, and the priest shall set a value proportionate to the resources of the person who made the vow.

b. Animals

- 9 "If it is a question of an animal suitable for offering to Yahweh, any such 10 animal given to Yahweh shall be a consecrated thing. •It cannot be exchanged or a substitute offered—good for bad, bad for good. If one animal is substituted 11 for another, both of them shall be consecrated. •If it is a question of an unclean animal, and not suitable for offering to Yahweh, whatever it may be it must be 12 presented to the priest •and he shall set a value on it, judging it good or bad.
 13 You must abide by his valuation; •but if the person wishes to redeem it, he must add one-fifth to the valuation.

c. Houses

- 14 "If a man consecrates his house to Yahweh, the priest shall set a value on it, judging whether its value is great or little. You must abide by the priest's valuation, 15 but if the man who has vowed his house wishes to redeem it, he must add one-fifth to the valuation, and it shall revert to him.

d. Fields

- 16 "If a man consecrates one of the fields of his patrimony to Yahweh, its value shall be calculated according to its productivity,^c at the rate of fifty silver shekels to one omer of barley.
 17 "If he consecrates the field during the jubilee year, he must stand by this 18 valuation. •But if he consecrates it after the jubilee, the priest shall calculate the price on the basis of the number of years still to run until the next jubilee and the valuation shall be reduced accordingly.
 19 "If he wishes to redeem the field, he shall add one-fifth to the valuation, and the 20 field shall revert to him. •If he does not redeem it but sells it to another, the right 21 of redemption ceases; •when the buyer has to relinquish it at the jubilee year, it becomes a thing consecrated to Yahweh, the same as a field laid under ban: 27:28+
 the man's property passes to the priest.
 22 "If he consecrates to Yahweh a field which he has bought, but which is not 23 part of his patrimony, •the priest shall assess the valuation on the basis of the number of years still to run before the jubilee year; and the man shall pay this 24 sum the same day, as for a thing consecrated to Yahweh. •In the jubilee year, the field shall return to the seller, to the man to whose patrimony the land belongs.
 25 All valuation must be made in sanctuary shekels, at the rate of twenty gerahs to the shekel.

Particular rules for the redemption

a. of first-born

- 26 "No one, however, may consecrate the first-born of his cattle, for it belongs to Ex 13:11+ 27 Yahweh by right: whether ox or sheep, it belongs to Yahweh. •But if it is an unclean animal it may be repurchased at the valuation price with one-fifth added;
 if it is not redeemed, the animal shall be sold at the valuation price.

b. of things under the ban^d

- 28 "Nothing, however, that a man lays under ban for Yahweh may be redeemed; nothing he possesses, whether man, beasts, or fields of his patrimony. What is 29 laid under ban is always a most holy thing and belongs to Yahweh. •A human being laid under ban cannot be redeemed, he must be put to death.

c. Many Hebr. MSS, Sam. and Syr. read 'sanctuary'.

d. Or 'because of them'.

27 a. Relating to the discharge of vows, 7:16; 22:21; Nb 30:3-16; Dt 12:6-12; 23:19, 22-24.

b. Persons may be vowed, cf. Jg 11:30-40; 13:3f; 1 S 1:11.

c. Others render 'in proportion to the seed (used) for it'.

d. The term 'ban' or 'anathema' is borrowed from the vocabulary of the Holy War (Jos 6:17+) and here transferred to whatever is unconditionally vowed to God. According to Lv 27:21; Nb 18:14; Ezk 44:29, the usufruct reverts to the priest. The word 'ban' is also used of things condemned by God, Dt 7:26.

Dt 14:22+ c. of tithes

"All tithes of the land, levied on the produce of the earth or the fruits of trees, 30 belong to Yahweh; they are consecrated to Yahweh. •If a man wishes to redeem 31 part of his tithe, he must add one-fifth to its value.

"In all tithes of flock or herd, the tenth animal of all that pass under the 32
herdsman's staff shall be a thing consecrated to Yahweh; •there must be no 33 picking out of good and bad, no substitution. If substitution takes place, both the animal and its substitute shall be things consecrated without possibility of redemption."'

26:46 These are the commandments that Yahweh laid down for Moses on Mount 34
Sinai, for the sons of Israel.

1 a. This section (ch. 1-4), attributed to the 'Priestly' tradition, presents Israel as a sacred community already fully formed and organised. The Levites are at the very heart of it: this appears from the place assigned to them in the camp and from the nature of their functions; their numbering, too, is connected with the redemption of the first-born (3:43). The taking of a census is itself regarded as an act of religious significance, cf. 2 S 24.

The MSS and versions do not always agree on the numbers.

When the kinship of the sons of Simeon had been established by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, fit to bear arms, were singled out one by one. •The total of these for the tribe of Simeon was fifty-nine thousand three hundred.

When the kinship of the sons of Gad had been established by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, fit to bear arms, were singled out one by one. •The total of these for the tribe of Gad was forty-five thousand six hundred and fifty.

When the kinship of the sons of Judah had been established by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, fit to bear arms, were singled out one by one. •The total of these for the tribe of Judah was seventy-four thousand six hundred.

When the kinship of the sons of Issachar had been established by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, fit to bear arms, were singled out one by one. •The total of these for the tribe of Issachar was fifty-four thousand four hundred.

When the kinship of the sons of Zebulun had been established by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, fit to bear arms, were singled out one by one. •The total of these for the tribe of Zebulun was fifty-seven thousand four hundred.

The kinship of Joseph: when the kinship of the sons of Ephraim had been established by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, fit to bear arms, were singled out one by one. •The total of these for the tribe of Ephraim was forty thousand five hundred. •When the kinship of the sons of Manasseh had been established by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, fit to bear arms, were singled out one by one. The total of these for the tribe of Manasseh was thirty-two thousand two hundred.

When the kinship of the sons of Benjamin had been established by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, fit to bear arms, were singled out one by one. •The total of these for the tribe of Benjamin was thirty-five thousand four hundred.

When the kinship of the sons of Dan had been established by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, fit to bear arms, were singled out one by one. •The total of these for the tribe of Dan was sixty-two thousand seven hundred.

When the kinship of the sons of Asher had been established by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, fit to bear arms, were singled out one by one. •The total of these for the tribe of Asher was forty-one thousand five hundred.

When the kinship of the sons of Naphtali had been established by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, fit to bear arms, were singled out one by one. •The total of these for the tribe of Naphtali was fifty-three thousand four hundred.

Such were the men registered by Moses, Aaron and the leaders of Israel, of whom there were twelve, each representing his patriarchal House. •Every man of Israel of twenty years and over, fit to bear arms, was counted according to his patriarchal House. •Altogether the full total was six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty.^d of the Testimony and to look after its furnishings and its belongings. They are to carry the tabernacle, and all its furnishings, and they are to take care of it and pitch their camp around it. •Whenever the tabernacle is moved the Levites are to be the people to dismantle it; whenever the tabernacle is set up again, they are to do this. Any layman coming near it must be put to death. •The sons of Israel are to pitch their tents in formation each in their own encampment, every man by his standard. •But the Levites are to pitch their tents round the tabernacle of the Testimony. In this way the wrath^e will be kept from falling on the whole community of the sons of Israel. The Levites are to be in charge of the tabernacle of the Testimony.'

The sons of Israel did exactly as Yahweh had ordered Moses. They did as he said.

- 21 Pedahzur. •His command: thirty-two thousand two hundred men.
- 22 'The tribe of Benjamin. Leader of the sons of Benjamin: Abidan son of 7:60
- 23 Gideon. •His command: thirty-five thousand four hundred men.

d. This figure would mean that Israel's total population numbered two-and-a-half million; nor is it consistent with the actual number of fighting men at the time of the Exodus (cf. Jg 5:8); it is doubtless artificial; cf. Ex 38:26.

e. I.e. God's retribution (cf. Dt 29:23-27); this text (and see Lv 10) closely associates this retribution with the presence of God who dwells in the tabernacle and whom the people's irreverence would offend.

15 'You are to take a census of the sons of Levi by families and clans; all the males of the age of one month and over must be counted'.

16 At Yahweh's word, Moses took his census, as Yahweh had ordered. •These 17 are the names of the sons of Levi: Gershon, Kohath and Merari.

Gn 46:11
Ex 6:16-19
1 Ch 6:1

18 These are the names of Gershon's sons by their clans: Libni and Shimei;
19 Kohath's sons by their clans: Amram, Izhar, Hebron and Uzziel; •Merari's 20 sons by their clans: Mahli and Mushi. These are the clans of Levi, grouped according to their patriarchal families.

21 From Gershon are descended the Libnite and the Shimeite clans; these are 22 the Gershonite clans. •Their full number, counting the males of one month and 23 over, came to seven thousand five hundred. •The Gershonite clans pitched their 24 camp behind the tabernacle, on the west side. •The leader of the House of Gershon 25 was Eliasaph son of Lael. •In the Tent of Meeting the sons of Gershon had charge of the tabernacle, the Tent and its covering, the screen for the entrance to the 26 Tent of Meeting, •the hangings in the court, the screen for the entrance to the court surrounding the tabernacle and the altar, and the cords needed for all this work.

Ex 26-27

27 From Kohath are descended the Amramite, the Izharite, the Hebronite and 28 the Uzzielite clans; these are the Kohathite clans. •Their full number, counting the males of one month and over, came to eight thousand three hundred. They were in 29 charge of the sanctuary. •The Kohathite clans pitched their camp on the south side
30 of the tabernacle. •The leader of the house of the Kohathite clans was Elizaphan 31 son of Uzziel. •They were in charge of the ark, the table, the lamp-stand, the altars, the sacred vessels used in the liturgy, and the screen with all its fittings.

Ezk 40:46

Ex 25:10-
40:27:1-8;
30:1-10

32 The chief of the Levite leaders was Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest. He was the head of all those who were in charge of the sanctuary.

33 From Merari are descended the Mahlite and the Mushite clans; these are the 34 Merarite clans. •Their full number, counting the males of one month and over, 35 came to six thousand two hundred. •The leader of the house of the Merarite clans was Zuriel, son of Abihail. They pitched their camp on the north side of 36 the tabernacle. •The sons of Merari were in charge of the framework of the tabernacle, with its crossbars, posts and sockets, all its accessories and fittings, 37 and also the posts round the court, with their sockets, pegs and cords.

Ex 26:15-
30:27:9-19

38 Finally, on the east side, facing the tabernacle and the Tent of Meeting, towards the sunrise, was the camp of Moses and Aaron and his sons, who had charge of the sanctuary on behalf of the sons of Israel. Any layman coming near was to be put to death.

1:51

39 Altogether, the total count of Levites of the age of one month and over, whom Moses numbered by clans as Yahweh had ordered, came to twenty-two thousand.

e. The Levites and the ransoming of the first-born

40 Yahweh said to Moses:

41 'Take a census of all the first-born among the sons of Israel, all the males from the age of one month and over; take a census of them by name. •Then you will present the Levites to me, Yahweh, in place of the first-born of Israel; in the same way you will give me their cattle in place of the first-born cattle of the sons of Israel.'

3:12-13
Ex 13:11+

42 As Yahweh ordered, Moses took a census of all the first-born of the sons 43 of Israel. •The total count, by name, of the first-born from the age of one month and over came to twenty-two thousand two hundred and seventy-three.^e

3 a. Zadok and the priests of the Jerusalem Temple are traced back to Eleazar, 1 Ch 5:30f. Abiathar, the other priest of David's time, is descended, through Ahimelech, from Ithamar, 1 Ch 24:3f, cf. 2 S 20:25.

b. The 'given' (or 'dedicated') ones' are described as lesser ministers of the post-exilic Temple in Ezr 2:43, see note.

c. Greek, Sam. and 12 Hebr. MSS read 'they will be given to me'.

d. Like the first-born, whose place they take, Ex 13:11+, the Levites are God's property; this statute of theirs very simply expresses an ideal that will later flower in Christian priesthood and monasticism.

e. This total is made up of the Levites, v. 39, plus a remainder of those redeemed with a sum of money—a practice that became general later, Ex 13:11+.

Then Yahweh spoke to Moses and said,

16:8 'Take the Levites in the place of all the first-born of Israel's sons, and the Ex13:11+ cattle of the Levites in place of their cattle; the Levites shall be my own, Yahweh's Lv5:15+ own. •For the ransom of the two hundred and seventy-three of the first-born of the sons of Israel in excess of the number of Levites, •you are to take five shekels for each, reckoning by the sanctuary shekel, twenty gerahs to the shekel; •you must then give this money to Aaron and his sons as the ransom price for this extra number.'

Moses received this money as the ransom for this extra number unransomed by the Levites. •He received the money for the first-born of the sons of Israel, one thousand three hundred and sixty-five shekels, sanctuary shekels. •Moses handed over this ransom money to Aaron and his sons, at the bidding of Yahweh, as Yahweh had ordered Moses.

The Levite clans

a. The Kohathites

Dt 10:8 4 Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron. He said:
8:24
1 Ch 23:3 'Take a census of those Levites who are sons of Kohath, by clans and families:
count all the men between thirty and fifty years of age, those fit to bear arms, who are liable for service in the Tent of Meeting.

'These are the duties of the sons of Kohath in the Tent of Meeting: they are to have charge of the most holy things.

Ex26:31-37;
35:12;39:34 'When camp is broken, Aaron and his sons are to come and take down the veil 2 S 6:7+ of the screen. With it they must cover up the ark of the Testimony. •On top of this they must put a covering of fine leather, and spread over the whole a cloth all of violet. Then they are to fix the poles to the ark.

Ex25:23+ 'Over the offertory table they are to spread a violet cloth, and put on it the dishes, cups, bowls and libation jars; the bread of perpetual offering is also to be on it. •Over these they must spread a cloth of scarlet and cover the whole with a covering of fine leather. Then they are to fix the poles to the table.

'They are then to take a cloth of violet and cover the light-bearing lamp-stand, together with the lamps, snuffers, trays and all the oil jars that belong to it.
They are to put it, with all its accessories, on a covering of fine leather and place it on the litter.

Ex30:1-6 'Over the golden altar^a they must spread a violet cloth, and cover that with a covering of fine leather. Then they are to fix the poles to it.

'They are also to take all the other objects used in the service of the sanctuary.
They must put them all on a violet cloth, cover them with a covering of fine leather, and place them together on the litter.

1 Ch 28:17 'When they have removed the ashes from the altar,^b they must spread a scarlet cloth over it, •and place on this all the objects used in the liturgical service, the fire pans, hooks, scoops, sprinkling basins and all the altar vessels. Over the whole they must spread a covering of fine leather. Then they are to fix the poles to it.

7:9 'When Aaron and his sons have finished covering all the sacred objects and all Lv17:1+ their accessories at the breaking of camp, the sons of Kohath are to come to 2 S 6:7+ take up the burden, but without touching any of the sacred things; otherwise they would die. This is the charge entrusted to the sons of Kohath in the Tent of Meeting. •It is to fall to Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, to watch over the oil for the light, the fragrant incense, the perpetual oblation and the chrism; he must watch over the whole tabernacle and everything in it: the sacred objects and their accessories.'

Ex27:20;
30:22-23,
34-38

Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron. He said:

'Do not cut off the tribe of the clans of Kohath from the number of the Levites.
But deal with them in this way, so that they may live on and not incur death when they approach the most holy things: Aaron and his sons must go in and 20 assign to each of them his task and his burden. •In this way they can go in and yet cast not their eyes, even for a moment, on any of the holy things; if they did, they would die.’ Ex 33:21

b. The Gershonites

21 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said to him:

22 ‘Take a census also of the sons of Gershon, by families and clans: •count all 23 the men between thirty and fifty years of age, those fit to bear arms, who are liable for service in the Tent of Meeting.

24 ‘These are the duties of the Gershonite clans, their functions and their burdens. 7:7

25 They are to carry the curtains of the tabernacle, the Tent of Meeting with its covering and the covering of fine leather that goes over it, the screen for the 26 entrance to the Tent of Meeting, •the hangings of the court, the screen for the entrance to the court that surrounds the tabernacle and the altar, the cords and all the accessories, and all the necessary equipment.

27 ‘They are to be responsible for these things. •All the duties of the sons of Gershon—their functions and their tasks—are to be carried out under the 28 direction of Aaron and his sons: you must see that they fulfil their charge. •Such shall be the duties of the Gershonite clans in the Tent of Meeting. Their work will be supervised by Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest.

c. The Merarites

29 ‘You are to count the sons of Merari, by clans and families. •Count all the 30 men between thirty and fifty years of age, those fit to bear arms, who are liable for service in the Tent of Meeting.

31 ‘The burden they are to carry and the duties that are to fall to them in the Tent
32 of Meeting shall be as follows: the framework of the tabernacle, its crossbars, its posts and sockets, •the posts around the court with their sockets, pegs, cords and all their tackle. You are to draw up a list of their names with the burden that each man must carry. 7:8

33 ‘These are the duties of the Merarite clans. All their duties in the Tent of Meeting will be supervised by Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest.’

Census of the Levites

34 Moses, Aaron and the leaders of the community took a census of the sons
35 of Kohath, by clans and families: •of every man between thirty and fifty years
36 of age, fit to bear arms and liable for service in the Tent of Meeting. •The total 37 of their clans was two thousand seven hundred and fifty men. •This was the number of the Kohathite clans, of all those who were liable for service in the Tent of Meeting, whom Moses and Aaron counted at the bidding of Yahweh given through Moses.

38 A census was taken of the sons of Gershon, by clans and families: •of every 39 man between thirty and fifty years of age, fit to bear arms and liable for service
40 in the Tent of Meeting. •By clans and families the total was two thousand six 41 hundred and thirty men. •This was the number of the Gershonite clans, of all those who were liable for service in the Tent of Meeting, whom Moses and Aaron counted at the bidding of Yahweh.

42 A census was taken of the clans of the sons of Merari, by clans and families:
43 of every man between thirty and fifty years of age, fit to bear arms and liable for 44 service in the Tent of Meeting. •The total of their clans was three thousand 45 two hundred men. •This was the number of the Merarite clans, whom Moses and Aaron counted at the bidding of Yahweh through Moses.

46 The total number of Levites, counted according to clans and families by 47 Moses and Aaron and the leaders of Israel—•all the men between thirty and fifty years of age, fit to bear arms and liable for serving or carrying in the Tent of Meeting—•amounted to eight thousand five hundred and eighty. •At the bidding of Yahweh through Moses, the census was taken to assign to every man his duty and his task; they were numbered as Yahweh had ordered Moses.

II. VARIOUS LAWS^a

Dt23:10-15 Expulsion of the unclean

5 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said: 1
9:6;19:11-16 'Order the sons of Israel to put out of the camp all lepers, and all who suffer 2
Lv13:45-46; from a discharge, or who have become unclean by touching a corpse. •Man or 3 15 woman, you must put them out and forbid them the camp. The sons of Israel must not defile in this way the camp where I dwell among them.'

1Co5:7-13 The sons of Israel did so: they put them out of the camp. The sons of Israel 4 2Co6:16-18 did as Yahweh had ordered Moses.
Rv21:27;
22:15

Restitution

Lv5:15-26 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •'Tell the sons of Israel: 5 6

"If a man or woman commits any of the sins by which men break faith with Yahweh, that person incurs guilt.

Si 4:26 "He must confess the sin he has committed and restore in full the amount 7 for which he is liable, with one-fifth added. Payment is to be made to the person whom he has wronged.

"If, however, the latter has no kinsman to whom this restitution can be made, 8 the restitution due to Yahweh reverts to the priest, over and above the ram of atonement with which the priest makes atonement for the guilty man. •For of 9 everything consecrated by the sons of Israel and brought to the priest he has a right to the portion set aside. •Whatever a man consecrates is his own; 10 whatever is given to the priest belongs to the priest."

Oblation in cases of jealousy^b

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •'Say this to the sons of Israel: 11 12

"If anyone has a wife who goes astray and is unfaithful to him, •if some other 13
man sleeps with the woman without the husband's knowledge, if she disgraces herself in secret in this way, without any witness against her, and without anyone 14
Si 9:1 catching her in the act; •then, if a spirit of jealousy comes over the husband and makes him jealous for the wife who has disgraced herself, or again if this spirit of jealousy comes upon him and makes him jealous for his wife even when she is innocent: •the man must bring his wife before the priest, and on her behalf 15
Lv 5:11; make an offering of one-tenth of an ephah of barley meal. He is not to pour oil on it or put incense on it, because this is an 'oblation for jealousy', a memorial 16
Lv 2:2 offering to record a fault.

"The priest is then to bring the woman forward and stand her before Yahweh. 16
Then he shall take living water^c in an earthen jar, and on the water throw dust 17
Dn 13:29 that he has taken from the floor of the tabernacle. •After he has placed the 18 woman before Yahweh, he shall unbind her hair and put in her hands the commemorative oblation (that is, the oblation for jealousy). In his own hands the priest will hold the water of bitterness and of cursing.

"He is then to put the woman on oath. He shall say to her: If it is not true that 19 a man has slept with you, that you have gone astray and disgraced yourself while under your husband's authority, then may this water of bitterness and cursing do you no harm. •But if it is true that you have gone astray, while under 20 your husband's authority, that you have disgraced yourself by sharing your bed Rt 1:17+ with a man other than your husband. . . •Here the priest shall impose an impre- 21 catory oath on the woman. He shall say to her: . . . May Yahweh make of you

- an execration and a curse among your people, making your thigh shrivel and your belly swell! •May this water of cursing enter your bowels to swell your belly and shrivel your organs! The woman must answer: Amen! Amen!
- “Then the priest shall commit these curses to writing and wash them off in the water of bitterness. •He must make the woman drink this water of bitterness and of cursing, and this water of cursing shall go into her and be bitter inside her. Ps109:18
- “The priest shall then take the oblation for jealousy from the woman’s hands, and hold it up before Yahweh with a gesture of offering, and so carry it up to the altar. •He shall take a handful as a memorial, and burn it on the altar. Lv 5:12
- “He shall then make the woman drink the water. •After he has made her drink it, if it is true that she has disgraced herself, deceiving her husband, then the water of cursing that goes into her shall indeed be bitter: her belly will swell and her thigh shrivel, and she will be an execration among her people. •But if she has not disgraced herself and is clean, then she will go unscathed and will bear children.
- “This is the ritual in cases of jealousy, when a woman has gone astray and disgraced herself while under her husband’s authority, •or when a spirit of jealousy has come over a man and made him jealous for his wife. When a husband brings such a woman before Yahweh, the priest must apply this ritual to her in full. •The husband shall be guiltless, but the woman must bear the punishment for her sin.”

The nazirite^a

- Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •“Say this to the sons of Israel: 1 M 3:49
- “If a man or a woman wishes to make a vow, the vow of the nazirite by which he is pledged to Yahweh, •he shall abstain from wine and strong drink, Lk1:15
- and neither drink the juice of grapes, nor eat grapes, fresh or dried. •For the duration of his vow he shall touch nothing that comes from the vine, not even verjuice or lees. •As long as he is bound by his vow, no razor shall touch his head; until the time of his consecration to Yahweh is completed, he remains under vow and shall let his hair grow free. •For the entire period of his consecration to Yahweh he must not go near a corpse, •he must not make himself unclean for either father or mother, for either brother or sister, should they die; Jg 13:5-16:17
- on his head he carries his consecration to his God. •Throughout the whole of his nazirate he is a person consecrated to Yahweh. Jr 35:3-6 Am 2:12
- “If anyone dies suddenly in his presence, and so makes his consecrated hair unclean, he must shave his head on the day of his cleansing, he must shave his head on the seventh day. •On the eighth day, he is to bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons to the priest, at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. The priest must offer one as a sacrifice for sin, and the other as a holocaust; he must then perform over this man the rite of atonement for the defilement that he has contracted from the corpse. The man must consecrate his head that same day; •he must consecrate himself to Yahweh for the period of his nazirate, and he must bring a male yearling lamb as a sacrifice of reparation. The time already spent shall not count, since his hair has become unclean. Lv 21:12 Ac21:23-26
- Lv14:21-31

5 a. These laws (‘Priestly’ tradition) are additional material in the spirit of the Law of Clean and Unclean in Lv 11-16. They resemble the supplementary laws inserted in the Law of Holiness, as in Lv 20:22-25.

b. The judgement of God, or trial by ordeal, was universally practised from ancient times up to the Middle Ages; in the absence of evidence it was considered a guide to a fair decision. Among the Hittites and the Babylonians trial by water was the favourite method, Israelite usage confines trial by ordeal to this present case and attaches Yahwistic ritual to the ancient custom.

c. ‘living water’ Greek; ‘holy water’ Hebr.

6 a. For the period of his vow the nazirite, i.e. ‘vowed’ to God, undertakes to leave his hair uncut, to take no strong drink, and to avoid contact with corpses. The hair is a sign of strength, and the first abstinence signifies that the nazirite allows the divine power to act in him, thus symbolising his dedication to God. (In Gn 49:26 and Dt 33:16 Joseph is called a nazirite). The second abstinence shows that the nazirite refuses a life of ease (cf. the Rechabites, Jr 35:5-8). The third shows that he belongs to God in a special way (cf. the priests in Lv 21:1-2,10-11). Cf. Am 2:11-12 and the examples of this temporary vow in Ac 18:18;21:23-26. A child could be thus dedicated by its mother (without time-limit?): Samson, Jg 13:5-7,14; 16:17; Samuel, 1 S 1:11 (no ‘strong drink’ clause); John the Baptist, Lk 1:15 (‘hair’ clause omitted).

"This is the ritual to be followed by the nazirite on the day when his period of consecration is completed. He is to be led to the entrance of the Tent of Meeting, and must make his offering to Yahweh: for holocaust, a male yearling lamb without blemish; for sacrifice for sin, a yearling ewe lamb without blemish; for communion sacrifice, a ram without blemish, •and a basket of unleavened loaves made of fine flour mixed with oil, and of unleavened wafers spread with oil, with the oblations and libations appropriate to them. •When he has brought all this before Yahweh, the priest must offer the sacrifice for sin and the holocaust for the nazirite. •The nazirite must offer up the communion sacrifice with the ram and the unleavened bread in the basket, and the priest must offer the accompanying oblation and libation. •Then the nazirite shall shave off his consecrated hair at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and taking the locks of his consecrated head, he shall put them in the fire of the communion sacrifice. •The priest is to take the shoulder of the ram, as soon as it is cooked, with an unleavened cake from the basket, and an unleavened wafer. He is to put them into the hands of the nazirite when the nazirite has shaved off his hair. •With them he must make the gesture of offering before Yahweh; as it is a holy thing, it reverts to the priest, in addition to the breast that has been presented and the thigh that has been set aside. After this the nazirite may once more drink wine.

"Such is the ritual for the nazirite. If, besides the hair, he has also vowed a personal offering to Yahweh, he must (apart from anything else that his means allow) fulfil the vow that he has made, in addition to what the ritual prescribes for his hair."

The form of blessing

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •"Say this to Aaron and his sons:

"This is how you are to bless the sons of Israel. You shall say to them:

May Yahweh bless you and keep you.

May Yahweh let his face shine on you and be gracious to you.

May Yahweh uncover his face to you and bring you peace."

^b This is how they are to call down my name on the sons of Israel, and I will bless them.'

III. OFFERINGS OF THE LEADERS

AND CONSECRATION OF THE LEVITES^a

Offering of wagons

⁷ On the day Moses finished setting up the tabernacle, he anointed and consecrated it with all its furniture, as well as the altar and all its accessories. When he had anointed and consecrated it all, •the leaders of Israel made an offering; these were the heads of the patriarchal Houses, who were leaders of tribes and had presided over the census. •They brought their offering before Yahweh: six covered wagons and twelve oxen, one wagon for every two leaders and one ox each. They brought them before the tabernacle. •Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •"Accept these from them, and let them be set apart for the service of the Tent of Meeting. You are to give them to the Levites, to each as his duties require." •Moses took the wagons and the oxen, and gave them to the Levites. •To the sons of Gershon he gave two wagons and four oxen for the duties they had to perform. •To the sons of Merari he gave four wagons and eight oxen, for the duties they had to perform under the direction of Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest. •But to the sons of Kohath he gave none at all, because the sacred charge entrusted to them had to be carried on their shoulders.

Dedication offering

The leaders then made an offering for the dedication of the altar, on the day

12 On the first day an offering was brought by Nahshon son of Amminadab, 2:3
13 of the tribe of Judah. •His offering consisted of: one silver bowl weighing a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver sprinkling bowl weighing seventy shekels (sanctuary shekels), both of them filled, for the oblation, with fine flour mixed 14
15 with oil, •one golden bowl weighing ten shekels, filled with incense, •one young bull, one ram and one male yearling lamb for the holocaust, •one goat for the 16
17 sacrifice for sin, •and, for the communion sacrifice, two oxen, five rams, five kids, and five male yearling lambs. This was the offering of Nahshon son of Amminadab.

18 On the second day an offering was brought by Nethanel son of Zuar, leader 2:5
19 of Issachar. •His offering consisted of: one silver bowl weighing a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver sprinkling bowl weighing seventy shekels (sanctuary shekels), both of them filled, for the oblation, with fine flour mixed with oil, 20 21 one golden bowl weighing ten shekels, filled with incense, •one young bull, 22

25 and five male yearling lambs. This was the offering of Nethanel son of Zuar.

24 On the third day an offering was brought by Eliab son of Helon, leader of 2:7
25 the sons of Zebulun. •His offering consisted of: one silver bowl weighing a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver sprinkling bowl weighing seventy shekels (sanctuary shekels), both of them filled, for the oblation, with fine flour mixed 26
27 with oil, •one golden bowl weighing ten shekels, filled with incense, •one young bull, one ram and one male yearling lamb for the holocaust, •one goat for the 28
29 sacrifice for sin, •and, for the communion sacrifice, two oxen, five rams, five kids, and five male yearling lambs. This was the offering of Eliab son of Helon.

30 On the fourth day an offering was brought by Elizur son of Shedeur, leader 2:10
31 of the sons of Reuben. •His offering consisted of: one silver bowl weighing a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver sprinkling bowl weighing seventy shekels (sanctuary shekels), both of them filled, for the oblation, with fine flour mixed 32
33 with oil, •one golden bowl weighing ten shekels, filled with incense, •one young bull, one ram, and one male yearling lamb for the holocaust, •one goat for the 34
35 sacrifice for sin, •and, for the communion sacrifice, two oxen, five rams, five kids, and five male yearling lambs. This was the offering of Elizur son of Shedeur.

36 On the fifth day an offering was brought by Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai, 2:12
37 leader of the sons of Simeon. •His offering consisted of: one silver bowl weighing a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver sprinkling bowl weighing seventy shekels (sanctuary shekels), both of them filled, for the oblation, with fine flour mixed 38

41 sacrifice for sin, •and, for the communion sacrifice, two oxen, five rams, five kids, and five male yearling lambs. This was the offering of Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai.

42 On the sixth day an offering was brought by Eliasaph son of Reuel, leader of 1:14;2:14
43 the sons of Gad. •His offering consisted of: one silver bowl weighing a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver sprinkling bowl weighing seventy shekels (sanctuary shekels), both of them filled, for the oblation, with fine flour mixed with oil, 44

49 and five male yearling lambs. This was the offering of Eliasaph son of Reuel.

48 On the seventh day an offering was brought by Elishama son of Ammihud, 2:18

the 'Priestly' narrative is now resumed and continues until 10:28.

leader of the sons of Ephraim. •His offering consisted of: one silver bowl weighing a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver sprinkling bowl weighing seventy shekels (sanctuary shekels), both of them filled, for the oblation, with fine flour mixed with oil, •one golden bowl weighing ten shekels, filled with incense, •one young bull, one ram and one male yearling lamb for the holocaust, one goat for the sacrifice for sin, •and, for the communion sacrifice, two oxen, five rams, five kids, and five male yearling lambs. This was the offering of Elishama, son of Ammihud.

2:20 On the eighth day an offering was brought by Gamaliel son of Pedahzur, leader of the sons of Manasseh. •His offering consisted of: one silver bowl weighing a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver sprinkling bowl weighing seventy shekels (sanctuary shekels), both of them filled, for the oblation, with fine flour mixed with oil, •one golden bowl weighing ten shekels, filled with incense, •one young bull, one ram and one male yearling lamb for the holocaust, one goat for the sacrifice for sin, •and, for the communion sacrifice, two oxen, five rams, five kids, and five male yearling lambs. This was the offering of Gamaliel son of Pedahzur.

2:22 On the ninth day an offering was brought by Abidan son of Gideoni, leader of the sons of Benjamin. •His offering consisted of: one silver bowl weighing a hundred and thirty shekels, one sprinkling bowl weighing seventy shekels (sanctuary shekels), both of them filled, for the oblation, with fine flour mixed with oil, •one golden bowl weighing ten shekels, filled with incense, •one young bull, one ram and one male yearling lamb for the holocaust, •one goat for the sacrifice for sin, •and, for the communion sacrifice, two oxen, five rams, five kids, and five male yearling lambs. This was the offering of Abidan son of Gideoni.

2:25 On the tenth day an offering was brought by Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai, leader of the sons of Dan. •His offering consisted of: one silver bowl weighing a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver sprinkling bowl weighing seventy shekels (sanctuary shekels), both of them filled, for the oblation, with fine flour mixed with oil, •one golden bowl weighing ten shekels, filled with incense, •one young bull, one ram, and one male yearling lamb for the holocaust, •one goat for the sacrifice for sin, •and, for the communion sacrifice, two oxen, five rams, five kids, and five male yearling lambs. This was the offering of Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai.

2:27 On the eleventh day an offering was brought by Pagiel son of Ochran, leader of the sons of Asher. •His offering consisted of: one silver bowl weighing a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver sprinkling bowl weighing seventy shekels (sanctuary shekels), both of them filled, for the oblation, with fine flour mixed with oil, •one golden bowl weighing ten shekels, filled with incense, •one young bull, one ram and one male yearling lamb for the holocaust, •one goat for the sacrifice for sin, •and, for the communion sacrifice, two oxen, five rams, five kids, and five male yearling lambs. This was the offering of Pagiel son of Ochran.

2:29 On the twelfth day an offering was brought by Ahira son of Enan, leader of the sons of Naphtali. •His offering consisted of: one silver bowl weighing a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver sprinkling bowl weighing seventy shekels (sanctuary shekels), both of them filled, for the oblation, with fine flour mixed with oil, •one golden bowl weighing ten shekels, filled with incense, •one young bull, one ram and one male yearling lamb for the holocaust, •one goat for the sacrifice for sin, •and, for the communion sacrifice, two oxen, five rams, five kids, and five male yearling lambs. This was the offering of Ahira son of Enan.

These were the offerings made by the leaders of Israel for the dedication of the altar on the day it was anointed: twelve silver bowls, twelve silver sprinkling bowls, and twelve golden bowls. •Each silver bowl weighed a hundred and thirty shekels, and each sprinkling bowl seventy, the silver of these objects weighing in all two thousand four hundred sanctuary shekels. •The twelve golden bowls filled with incense weighed ten shekels each (sanctuary shekels), the gold of these bowls weighing in all a hundred and twenty shekels.

- 87 The sum total of animals for the holocaust: twelve bulls, twelve rams, twelve male yearling lambs, together with their accompanying oblations. For the 88 sacrifice for sin, twelve goats. •The sum total of animals for the communion sacrifice: twenty-four bulls, sixty rams, sixty kids, and sixty male yearling lambs.

These were the offerings for the dedication of the altar, after it had been anointed.

The lamps for the lamp-stand

- 1 8 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said:
2 8 'Say this to Aaron, "When you set up the lamps, the seven lamps must throw their light towards the front of the lamp-stand"^a Ex25:31-39
Lv24:2-4
3 Aaron saw to this. He set up the lamps to the front of the lamp-stand, as 4 Yahweh had ordered Moses. •This lamp-stand was worked in beaten gold, Ex 25:9 including its stem and its petals, which were also of beaten gold. This lamp-stand had been made according to the pattern Yahweh had shown to Moses.

The Levites are offered to Yahweh

- 5 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said:
6 'Separate the Levites from the sons of Israel and purify them. •This is how you are to purify them: you must sprinkle them with lustral water, and they must 19:1-10

7 shave their bodies all over and wash their clothing. They will then be clean. •They must next take a young bull, with the accompanying oblation of fine flour mixed with oil, and you must take a second young bull for a sacrifice for sin. •Then bring the Levites before the Tent of Meeting, and call together the whole
8 community of the sons of Israel. •When you have brought the Levites before 9 Yahweh, the sons of Israel must lay their hands on them.^b •Aaron shall then offer the Levites, making the gesture of offering before Yahweh on behalf of the sons of Israel. From that time, they will be dedicated to the service of Yahweh. 3:6-8 10 'The Levites must then lay their hands on the heads of the bulls, one of which you are to offer as a sacrifice for sin, and the other as a holocaust to Yahweh;
11 this is how the rite of atonement for the Levites is to be performed.^c •Having brought the Levites before Aaron and his sons, you will present them to Yahweh
12 with the gesture of offering. •This is how you are to set the Levites apart from the rest of the sons of Israel, so that they may be mine. •The Levites will then 13 begin their ministry in the Tent of Meeting. Lv 1:4

Ex 29:24+
14 'You must purify them and offer them with the gesture of offering •because they have been made over to me from among the sons of Israel, as 'oblates'. They are to replace those who open the womb, all the first-born; of all the sons
15 of Israel I have taken them for my own. •All the first-born among the sons of Israel, man and beast, do indeed belong to me: the day I struck all the first-born 16 in the land of Egypt, I consecrated them to myself, •and now, in place of all 17 the first-born among the sons of Israel, I have taken the Levites. •From among

b. 'that spoke to him' corr.

c. The sentence, read in this context, means that the consecration of the altar makes communication possible between God and his people (Ezk 43:27) through the mediation of Moses (Ps 99:6f). But it is possible that the text was originally followed by some divine ordinance (either by that of 8:6 or by some command to set forth). If this is so, we should translate 'he heard... Then it (the voice) said to him'.

8 a. Vulg. adds 'Give orders, therefore, that the lamps look towards the north, opposite the table of the loaves of offering; they are to shine in the direction which the lamp-stand faces'.

b. Cf. Lv 1:4. The Levites are treated as an offering; they represent the first-born of Israel, see 3:12-13 and Ex 13:11+.

c. The Levites have to be freed of all worldly contamination. They were substitutes for the first-born and now the sacrificial animals are substitutes for the Levites. Cf. Gn 22.

the sons of Israel I give them to Aaron and his sons, as 'oblates'; on behalf of the sons of Israel, they will minister in the Tent of Meeting and perform the rite of atonement over them, so that none of the sons of Israel may be struck down for approaching^a the sanctuary.'

Moses, Aaron and the whole community of the sons of Israel dealt with the Levites exactly as Yahweh had directed Moses concerning them; this is what the sons of Israel did with them. •The Levites purified themselves and washed their clothes, and Aaron presented them with the gesture of offering before Yahweh. Then he performed the rite of atonement over them to purify them. The Levites were then allowed to perform their ministry in the Tent of Meeting in the presence of Aaron and his sons. As Yahweh had directed Moses concerning the Levites, so it was done to them.

The duration of their ministry

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said:

4:3 'This concerns the Levites. From the age of twenty-five onwards, the Levite must exercise his ministry and do duty in the Tent of Meeting. •After the age of fifty, he is no longer bound to the ministry; he will have no further duties; but he will still help his brothers to ensure the services in the Tent of Meeting, though he himself will no longer have any ministry. See that this is the rule for the ministry of the Levites.'

IV. THE PASSOVER AND THE DEPARTURE

Ex12:1+ Date of the Passover^a

9 Yahweh spoke to Moses, in the wilderness of Sinai, in the second year after the exodus from Egypt, in the first month. He said:

Ex 12:6 'Let the sons of Israel keep the Passover at its appointed time. •The fourteenth day of this month, between the two evenings, is the appointed time for you to keep it. You must keep it with all the laws and customs proper to it.'

Moses gave orders for the sons of Israel to keep the Passover. •They kept it, in the wilderness of Sinai, in the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, between the two evenings. The sons of Israel did exactly as Yahweh had ordered Moses.

Individual cases

5:2:19:11 Jn 11:55 It happened that certain men had become unclean by touching a dead body; they could not keep the Passover that day. They came the same day to Moses and Aaron, •and said to them, 'We have become unclean by touching a dead body. Why should we be forbidden to bring an offering to Yahweh at the proper time with the rest of the sons of Israel?' •Moses answered them, 'Wait there till I learn what orders Yahweh gives about you'.

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •'Say this to the sons of Israel:

'If anyone, among you or your descendants, becomes unclean by touching a dead body or is on a journey abroad, he can still keep a Passover for Yahweh. Such persons shall keep it in the second month, on the fourteenth day, between the two evenings. They are to eat it with unleavened bread and bitter herbs; nothing of it must be left over until morning, nor must they break any of its bones: they must keep this Passover exactly according to the paschal ritual. But if anyone who is clean, or who has not had to go on a journey, fails to keep the Passover, he shall be outlawed from his people. He has not brought the offering to Yahweh at its appointed time, and he must bear the burden of his sin.

Ex12:48+ 'If a stranger is living among you and keeps a Passover for Yahweh, he must keep it in accordance with the laws and customs of the Passover. There is to be only one law among you, for settler and native alike.'

The Cloud

Ex 13:22+;
40:34-38
1:51; 10:34

15 On the day the tabernacle was set up, the Cloud covered the tabernacle, the Tent of the Testimony. From nightfall until morning, it remained over the 16 tabernacle under the appearance of fire. •So the Cloud covered it continually, at night taking the appearance of fire.

17 Whenever the Cloud lifted above the Tent, the sons of Israel broke camp; whenever the Cloud halted, there the sons of Israel pitched camp. •The sons of Israel set out at the command of Yahweh, and at his command they pitched camp.

The people remained encamped as long as the Cloud rested on the tabernacle.
19 If the Cloud stayed for many days above the tabernacle, the sons of Israel paid
20 worship^b to Yahweh and did not break camp. •But if the Cloud happened to stay for only a few days above the tabernacle, they pitched camp at Yahweh's
21 command and broke camp at Yahweh's command. •If the Cloud happened to remain only from evening to morning, they set out when it lifted the next morning. Or, if it stayed for a whole day and night, they set out only when it
22 lifted. •Sometimes it stayed there for two days, a month, or a year; however long the Cloud stayed above the tabernacle, the sons of Israel remained in camp
23 in the same place, and when it lifted they set out. •At Yahweh's command they pitched camp, and at Yahweh's command they broke camp. They paid worship to Yahweh, according to the orders which Yahweh had given through Moses.

The trumpets

1 10 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said:
2 'Make two trumpets; make them of beaten silver; and use them for 3 summoning the community, and for sounding the order to break camp. •When-
4 ever they are sounded, the whole community is to gather round you, at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. •But if only one trumpet is sounded, then only the leaders, the chiefs of Israel's battalions, are to gather round you.

7 be accompanied by a battle cry, •but to assemble the community the trumpets
8 shall be sounded without battle cry. •The sons of Aaron, the priests, are to sound the trumpets; this is a perpetual law for you and your descendants.

I am Yahweh your God.'

The order of march

11 ^c In the second year, in the second month, on the twentieth day of the month,

d. The Greek simply reads 'may approach'.

9 a. The section 9:1-14 (still the 'Priestly' tradition) does not fit into the chronological scheme of ch. 1 (whose starting-point is the second month, 1:1). It supplements the great 'Priestly' rulings on the Passover, Ex 12, with a clause of considerable interest to the Jews of the Dispersion: these were in constant danger of contracting ritual impurity on their journeys, and the time required for purification might make them miss the Passover.

b. Alternative translation 'obeyed the command of Yahweh'.

10 a. The Hebr. word primarily means a sacred war cry, v. 9; 31:6, and cf. Jos 6:5,20; Am 1:14; 2:2; Zp 1:16, etc., part of the ark ceremonial, 1 S 4:5, cf. 2 S 6:15. Each stage of the journey is regarded as a march to battle. With these slogans a king was acclaimed, Nb 23:21, cf. 1 K 1:34,40; they were also used at religious festivals Lv 25:9; Nb 29:1.

b. Greek and Vet. Lat. here add 'At the third blast of the trumpet accompanied by a battle cry, the camps on the west side will set out. At the fourth blast of the trumpet accompanied by a battle cry, the camps on the north side will set out.' Instead of 'south' Sam. reads 'north'.

c. In Syr. Hex. and Sam. this v. is preceded by 'Yahweh said to Moses, 'You have stayed long enough at this mountain. Go, leave here and go to the hill country of the Amorites, to all those who dwell in the Plain, the Uplands, the Lowlands, the Negeb and the sea coast, the land of Canaan, and Lebanon as far as the great river, the river Euphrates. See, I have set the land before you; go and take possession of the land I swore to your fathers Abraham, Isaac and Jacob to give to their descendants after them.'

Ex 33:1 the Cloud lifted over the tabernacle of the Testimony. •The sons of Israel set 12 out, in marching order, from the wilderness of Sinai. In the wilderness of Paran the Cloud came to rest.

1:1:2:1-34 These are the men who set out in the vanguard, at the order of Yahweh 13 given through Moses: •in the vanguard was the standard of the camp of the sons 14 of Judah, in battle array. In command of Judah's force was Nahshon son of Amminadab; •in command of the sons of Issachar, in battle array, was Nethanel 15 son of Zuar; •in command of the tribe of the sons of Zebulun, in battle array, 16 was Eliab son of Helon.

Then, the tabernacle being dismantled, the sons of Gershon and the sons 17 of Merari set out, carrying the tabernacle.

1:5 Then came the standard of the camp of the sons of Reuben, in battle array. 18
In command of Reuben's force was Elizur son of Shedeur; •in command of the 19 tribe of the sons of Simeon, in battle array, was Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai; in command of the tribe of the sons of Gad, in battle array, was Eliasaph son 20 of Reuel.

Then came the sons of Kohath, who carried the sanctuary (the tabernacle 21 was set up before their arrival).

Then came the standard of the camp of the sons of Ephraim, in battle array. 22
In command of Ephraim's force was Elishama son of Ammihud; •in command 23 of the tribe of the sons of Manasseh, in battle array, was Gamaliel son of Pedahzur; •in command of the tribe of the sons of Benjamin was Abidan son 24 of Gideoni.

Last of all, the rearguard of all the camps, came the standard of the camp 25 of the sons of Dan, in battle array. In command of the force of Dan was Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai; •in command of the tribe of the sons of Asher, in battle 26 array, was Pagiel son of Ochran; •in command of the sons of Naphtali, in 27 battle array, was Ahira son of Enan.

Such was the order of march for the sons of Israel, in battle array. So they 28 set out.

Moses' proposal to Hobab^d

V. THE HALTS IN THE WILDERNESS

Taberah

- 1 11 Now the people set up a lament which was offensive to Yahweh's ears, and Yahweh heard it. His anger blazed, and the fire of Yahweh burned
 2 among them: it destroyed one end of the camp. •The people appealed to Moses,
 3 and he interceded with Yahweh and the fire died down. •So the place was called Taberah,^a because the fire of Yahweh had burned among them.

 6 melons, leeks, onions and garlic! •Here we are wasting away, stripped of everything; there is nothing but manna for us to look at!'
 7 The manna was like coriander seed, and had the appearance of bdellium.
 8 The people went round gathering it, and ground it in a mill or crushed it with a pestle; it was then cooked in a pot and made into pancakes. It tasted like cake

Ex 19:10

d. The first of a number of narratives taken not from the 'Priestly' source but from the 'Yahwistic' (with 'Elohistic' insertions). Hobab is a Kenite, Nb 24:1+, of a tribe we subsequently find in league with Judah; it controlled the Hebron district, Jg 1:16; Jos 14:14.

e. The Bedouin still call guides 'the eye of the caravan'.

f. In the Greek this verse is put after v. 36.

g. Translation uncertain. Possibly 'Bring back the thrones...'

11 a. The name probably means 'pasture land' but the author traces it to a similar root which means 'to burn'. According to Dt 9:22f, Taberah is near Kadesh.

b. The narrative of 11:4-34 is made up of two traditions, one displaying a ritualist interest ('Yahwistic'; the quails), the other an interest in the gift of prophecy ('Elohistic'; gift of the spirit to the elders).

or ten or twenty, •but for a full month, until you are sick of it and cannot bear the smell of it, because you have rejected Yahweh who is with you, and have wailed before him saying: Why did we ever leave Egypt?"'

1:46+ Moses said, 'The people round me number six hundred thousand foot soldiers, and you say, "I shall give them meat to eat for a whole month"! •If all the flocks and herds were slaughtered, would that be enough for them? If all the fish in the sea were gathered, would that be enough for them?' •Yahweh answered Moses, 'Is the arm of Yahweh so short? You shall see whether the promise I have made to you comes true or not.'

The spirit given to the elders

Moses went out and told the people what Yahweh had said. Then he gathered seventy elders of the people and brought them round the Tent. •Yahweh came down in the Cloud. He spoke with him, but took some of the spirit that was on him and put it on the seventy elders. When the spirit came on them they prophesied, but not again.^c

Two men had stayed back in the camp; one was called Eldad and the other Medad. The spirit came down on them; though they had not gone to the Tent, their names were enrolled among the rest. These began to prophesy in the camp. The young man^d ran to tell this to Moses, 'Look,' he said 'Eldad and Medad are prophesying in the camp'. •Then said Joshua the son of Nun, who had served Moses from his youth, 'My Lord Moses, stop them!' •Moses answered him, 'Are you jealous on my account? If only the whole people of Yahweh were prophets, and Yahweh gave his Spirit to them all!' •Then Moses went back to the camp, the elders of Israel with him.

The quails

A wind came from Yahweh and it drove quails in from the sea and brought them down on the camp. They lay for a distance of a day's march either side of the camp, two cubits thick on the ground. •The people were up all that day and night and all the next day collecting quails: the least gathered by anyone was ten homers; then they spread them out round the camp. •The meat was still between their teeth, not even chewed, when the anger of Yahweh blazed out against the people. Yahweh struck them with a very great plague.

The name given to this place was Kibroth-hattaavah,^e because it was there that they buried the people who had indulged their greed.

From Kibroth-hattaavah the people set out for Hazeroth, and at Hazeroth they pitched camp.

Hazeroth.^a Complaints of Miriam and Aaron

12 Miriam, and Aaron too, spoke against Moses in connexion with the Cushite woman^b he had taken. (For he had married a Cushite woman.) They said, 'Has Yahweh spoken to Moses only? Has he not spoken to us too?' Yahweh heard this. •Now Moses was the most humble of men, the humblest man on earth.

God's answer

Suddenly, Yahweh said to Moses and Aaron and Miriam, 'Come, all three of you, to the Tent of Meeting'. They went, all three of them, •and Yahweh came down in a pillar of cloud and stood at the entrance of the Tent. He called Aaron and Miriam and they both came forward. •Yahweh said, 'Listen now to my words:

If any man among you is a prophet^c
I make myself known to him in a vision,
I speak to him in a dream.
Not so with my servant Moses:^d

1Co13:12

How then have you dared to speak against my servant Moses?

⁹ The anger of Yahweh blazed out against them. He departed, •and as soon as the cloud withdrew from the Tent, there was Miriam a leper, white as snow! Aaron turned to look at her; she had become a leper.

The prayer of Aaron and Moses

Ex 32:11 +

¹¹ Aaron said to Moses:

‘Help me, my lord! Do not punish us for a sin committed in folly of which we are guilty. •I entreat you, do not let her be like a monster, coming from its mother’s womb with flesh half corrupted.’

¹³ Moses cried to Yahweh, ‘O God,’ he said ‘please heal her, I beg you!’

¹⁴ Then Yahweh said to Moses, ‘If her father had done no more than spit in her face, would she not be a thing of shame for seven days? Let her be shut outside the camp for seven days, and then let her be brought in again.’^f

¹⁵ Miriam was shut outside the camp for seven days. The people did not set out until she returned. •Then the people left Hazeroth, and camp was pitched in the wilderness of Paran.

The reconnaissance in Canaan

Jos 2:1

² 13 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •‘Send out men, one from each tribe, to make a reconnaissance of this land of Canaan which I am giving to the sons of Israel. Send the leader of each tribe.’

Jos 14:6f

³ At Yahweh’s bidding, Moses sent them from the wilderness of Paran. All these men were chiefs among the sons of Israel. •These were their names:^a

For the tribe of Reuben, Shammua son of Zaccur;

⁵ for the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat son of Hori;

⁶ for the tribe of Judah, Caleb son of Jephunneh;

1Ch4:15

⁷ for the tribe of Issachar, Igal son of Joseph;

⁸ for the tribe of Ephraim, Hoshea son of Nun;

⁹ for the tribe of Benjamin, Palti son of Raphu;

¹⁰ for the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiel son of Sodi;

¹¹ for the tribe of Joseph, for the tribe of Manasseh, Gaddi son of Susi;

¹² for the tribe of Dan, Ammiel son of Gemalli;

¹³ for the tribe of Asher, Sethur son of Michael;

¹⁴ for the tribe of Naphtali, Nahbi son of Vophsi;

¹⁵ for the tribe of Gad, Geuel son of Machi.

¹⁶ These were the names of the men whom Moses sent to make a reconnaissance of the land. Then Moses gave to Hoshea son of Nun the name of Joshua.

Jos 1:1 +

¹⁷ Moses sent them to reconnoitre the land of Canaan, ‘Go up into the Negeb; then go up into the highlands. •See what sort of country it is, and what sort of people the inhabitants are, whether they are strong or weak, few or many,

c. The gift was only for a time. Alternative reading (Vulg.) ‘nor did they cease afterwards’.

d. Joshua perhaps, cf. Ex 33:11.

e. Doubtless the name originally suggested ‘the graves of the Taavath’ (name of a tribe) but an alternative etymology gives the author the opportunity of explaining the moral significance of the incident. This place, too, is near Kadesh, according to Dt 9:22.

12 a. Apparently an ‘Elohistic’ narrative but somewhat affected by the ‘Priestly’ tradition.

b. Evidently Zipporah the Midianite, cf. Ex 2:21.

c. The Hebr. defies translation and is here corrected to read as Vulg.

d. Answer to the complaint of v. 2. With the prophetic gift v. 6 (Miriam herself was a prophetess, Ex 15:20). God contrasts his familiarity with Moses cf. Ex 33:11+ and Ex 33:20+. By way of exception certain others were given a share in the divine spirit, Nb 11:15. God is to raise up prophets after Moses’ death, Dt 18:15,18+, but Moses will remain the greatest of them all, Dt 34:10, until the Baptist comes, the forerunner of the new covenant, Mt 11:9-11p.

e. For ‘form’ Greek and Syr. read ‘glory’.

f. For ‘brought in again’ the Greek has ‘purified’.

13 a. This list should be compared with that of ch. 1, which also begins with Reuben, but the names are different—several of them being found among the contemporaries of David.

what sort of country they live in, whether it is good or poor; what sort of towns 19
 1 M 2:56 they have, whether they are open or fortified; • what sort of land it is, fertile 20 or barren, wooded or open. Be bold, and bring back some of the produce of the country.'

It was the season for early grapes. • They went up to reconnoitre the land, 21 from the wilderness of Zin to Rehob, the Pass of Hamath.^b • They went up 22 by way of the Negeb as far as Hebron, where the Anakim lived, Ahiman, Sheshai and Talmi. (Hebron was founded seven years before Tanis in Egypt.) • They 23 came to the Valley of Eshcol; there they lopped off a vine branch with a cluster of grapes, which two of them carried away on a pole, as well as pomegranates and figs. • This place was called the Valley of Eshcol^c after the cluster which 24
 the sons of Israel had cut there.

Dt 1:25f; 9:22 The envoys' report

At the end of forty days, they came back from their reconnaissance of the 25 land. • They sought out Moses, Aaron and the whole community of Israel, 26 in the wilderness of Paran, at Kadesh. They made their report to them, and to the whole community, and showed them the produce of the country.

They told them this story, 'We went into the land to which you sent us. 27
 Ex 3:8 It does indeed flow with milk and honey; this is its produce. • At the same time, 28 its inhabitants are a powerful people; the towns are fortified and very big; yes, and we saw the descendants of Anak there. • The Amalekite holds the Negeb 29 area, the Hittite, Amorite and Jebusite the highlands, and the Canaanite the sea coast and the banks of the Jordan.'

Caleb harangued the people gathered about Moses: 'We must march in,' 30
 he said 'and conquer this land: we are well able to do it'. • But the men who 31 had gone up with him answered, 'We are not able to march against this people; they are stronger than we are'. • And they began to disparage the country they 32 had reconnoitred to the sons of Israel, 'The country we went to reconnoitre is a country that devours its inhabitants. Every man we saw there was of enormous Dt 2:10+ size. • Yes, and we saw giants there (the sons of Anak, descendants of the Giants). 33
 We felt like grasshoppers, and so we seemed to them.'

||Dt 1:26-32 The rebellion of Israel

Ne 9:17 14 At this, the whole community raised their voices and cried aloud, and 1
 Ex 14:11+ the people wailed all that night. • Then all the sons of Israel grumbled 2 against Moses and Aaron, and the whole community said, 'Would that we had died in the land of Egypt, or at least that we had died in this wilderness! • Why 3 Ac 7:40 does Yahweh bring us to this land, only to have us fall by the sword, and our wives and young children seized as booty? Should we not do better to go back to Egypt?' • And they said to one another, 'Let us appoint a leader and go back to Egypt'. 4

Before the whole assembled community of the sons of Israel, Moses and 5 1 Co 10:5 Aaron fell down, face to the ground. • Joshua son of Nun and Caleb son 6 Dt 1:36 Si 46:7 of Jephunneh, two of those who had reconnoitred the country, tore their garments; • and they said to the entire community of the sons of Israel, 'The land 7 we went to reconnoitre is a good land, an excellent land. • If Yahweh is pleased 8 with us, he will lead us into this land and give it to us. It is a land where milk and honey flow. • Do not rebel against Yahweh. And do not be afraid of the people of 9 this land; we shall gobble them up. Their tutelary shadow has gone from them so long as Yahweh is with us.^a Do not be afraid of them.'

Ex 17:5; 32:7-14+ The anger of Yahweh. Moses makes an appeal

The entire community was talking of stoning them, when the glory of 10
 Yahweh appeared at the Tent of Meeting to all the sons of Israel. • And Yahweh 11 said to Moses:

'How long will this people insult me? How long will they refuse to believe 12 in me despite the signs I have worked among them? •I will strike them with pestilence and disown them. And of you I shall make a new nation, greater and mightier than they are.' Ex 32:10

Gn 12:2

13 Moses answered Yahweh:

'But the Egyptians already know that you, by your own power, have brought Dt 32:26
14 this people out from their midst. •They have said as much to the inhabitants of this country. They already know that you, Yahweh, are in the midst of this people, and that you show yourself to them face to face; that it is you, Yahweh, whose cloud stands over them, that you go before them in a pillar of cloud Ex33:14f;
15 by day and a pillar of fire by night. •If you destroy this people now as if it were 34:9-10

It is now you must display your power, according to those words you spoke, •"Yahweh is slow to anger and rich in graciousness, forgiving faults and transgression, and yet letting nothing go unchecked, punishing the father's fault in the sons to the third and 11Ex34:6-7

Moses reported these words to all the sons of Israel, and the people set up 39 a great outcry. •Then they rose early and set out for the heights of the highlands 40 saying, 'Look, we are setting out for this place, since Yahweh has told us that we have sinned'. •Moses replied, 'Why disobey the command of Yahweh? Nothing 41 will come of it. •Do not go up, for Yahweh is not among you; do not get your- 42 selves beaten by your enemies. •Yes, there facing you are the Amalekite and the 43
Canaanite, and you will fall to their swords because you have turned away from Yahweh, and Yahweh is not with you.' •Yet they set out presumptuously towards 44 the heights of the highlands. Neither the ark of the covenant of Yahweh nor 45 Moses left the camp. •The Amalekite and the Canaanite who lived in that hill country came down and defeated them, and harried them all the way to Hormah.

VI. LAWS GOVERNING SACRIFICES. POWERS OF PRIESTS AND LEVITES^a

Ex29:40f
Lv 23:18 The oblation to accompany sacrifices

15 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •'Tell this to the sons of Israel: 1
"When you have arrived in the land where you are to live, the land I give to 2 you, •and you make burnt offering to Yahweh either as a holocaust or as a 3 sacrifice, whether in payment of a vow, or as a voluntary gift, or on the occasion of one of your solemn feasts—taking from your herds and flocks to make an appeasing fragrance for Yahweh—•the offerer must bring, as his personal gift to 4 Yahweh, an oblation of one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour mixed with one quarter of a hin of oil. •You must also make a libation of wine, one quarter of a hin to 5 each lamb, in addition to the holocaust or sacrifice. •For a ram, you must make 6 an oblation of two-tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with one-third of a hin of oil, •and a libation of one-third of a hin of wine, offering it as an appeasing 7 fragrance for Yahweh. •If you offer a bull as a holocaust or sacrifice, in payment of 8 a vow or as a communion sacrifice for Yahweh, •you must offer in addition to 9 the beast an oblation of three-tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with half a hin of oil, •and you must offer a libation of half a hin of wine, as a burnt 10 offering, an appeasing fragrance for Yahweh. •This must be done for every 11 bull, every ram, every lamb or kid. •Whatever the number of victims you 12 have for sacrifice, you must do the same for each of them, however many there are.

"This must be done by every man of your own people when he makes a burnt 13 offering, an appeasing fragrance for Yahweh. •Any stranger living among you, or 14 among your descendants, will also make a burnt offering, an appeasing fragrance for Yahweh: just as you act, so must •the assembly.^b There shall be only one law 15 for you and for the settler among you. This is a law that shall bind your descendants always: before Yahweh, you and the settler are alike. •There is to be one law 16 only, and one statute for you and for the stranger who lives among you."

The first-fruits of bread

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •'Speak to the sons of Israel and say to 17
them:

"When you have entered the land to which I am bringing you, •you must set 19
aside a portion for Yahweh when you eat the bread of this country. •You must 20 set aside one loaf as the first-fruits of your meal; you must set this offering

Ex12:48 +

9:14;15:29f
Lv17:13;
24:22

- 21 aside like the one set aside from your threshing. •You are to set aside for Yahweh a portion of the best of your meal. This applies to your descendants.

Atonement for faults of inadvertence

- 22 "If through inadvertence you fail in any of these commands that Yahweh has 23 given to Moses •(every single precept that Yahweh has laid on you through Moses, from the day he gave his commands and onwards to your descendants), 24 this is what must be done:

"If it is an inadvertence of the community, the community as a whole must make a holocaust of a young bull, an appeasing fragrance for Yahweh, with the prescribed accompanying oblation and libation, and a he-goat must be offered 25 as a sacrifice for sin. •The priest must perform the rite of atonement over the entire community of the sons of Israel, and pardon will be given, since it was an inadvertence. When they have brought their offering as a burnt offering to Yahweh, and have presented their sacrifice for sin before Yahweh to make amends for 26 their inadvertence, •pardon will be given to the entire community of the sons of Israel, as also to the stranger who lives among them, since the entire people has sinned through inadvertence.

27 "If it is an individual who has sinned by inadvertence, he must offer a yearling 28 kid in sacrifice for sin. •The priest must perform the rite of atonement before Yahweh over the person who has gone astray by this sin of inadvertence; when 29 the rite of atonement has been performed over him, he will be forgiven, •whether he is a native, one of the sons of Israel, or a stranger living among them. There shall be only one law among you for the man who sins by inadvertence.

30 "But the man who sins deliberately, whether native or stranger, outrages 31 Yahweh himself. Such a man must be outlawed from his people; •he has despised the word of Yahweh and broken his command. This man must be entirely outlawed, since his sin is inseparable from him." °

Breaking the sabbath

32 While the sons of Israel were in the wilderness, a man was caught gathering 33 wood on the sabbath day. •Those who caught him gathering wood brought 34 him before Moses, Aaron and the whole community. •He was kept in custody, 35 because the penalty he should undergo had not yet been fixed. •Yahweh said to Moses, 'This man must be put to death. The whole community must stone him 36 outside the camp.' •The whole community took him outside the camp and stoned him till he was dead, as Yahweh had commanded Moses.

Ex20:8+;
31:12-17;
35:1-3

Tassels on garments^d

37 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •'Speak to the sons of Israel and tell them
38 to put tassels on the hems of their garments, and to put a violet cord on this tassel
39 at the hem. •You must have a tassel, then, and the sight of it will remind you of all the commands of Yahweh. You are to put them into practice then, and no longer follow the desires of your heart and your eyes, which have led you to make wantons of yourselves.

40 'This will remind you of all my commandments; put them into practice, 41 and you will be consecrated to your God. •It is I, Yahweh your God, who have brought you out of the land of Egypt so that I may be your God, I Yahweh your God.'

Dt 22:12

Mt 9:20;
23:5

15 a. 'Priestly' tradition resumed. The story of the revolt of Korah, Dathan and Abiram is here most significant: it proves that God has established an authority within the community and it demonstrates the primacy of Aaron. To this some other laws and related episodes have been added.

b. I.e. 'as you do now, so must the assembly do in the future'.

c. An enactment of great importance which appears to make forgiveness impossible when the fault is deliberate (lit. 'with a high hand'). At this period, however we must not look for an exact definition of 'deliberation'.

d. Ancient representations of Palestinian costume show tassels hanging from all round the hem (so also Dt 22:12), but in the Jewish period the tassels were almost always confined to its four corners. Jesus himself followed this practice, Mt 9:20, but condemned the ostentation that often went with it, Mt 23:5.

The rebellion of Korah, Dathan and Abiram^a

Lv10:1-3
Dt 11:6
Ps106:16-18
Si45:18-20
Jude 11

16 Korah son of Izhar, son of Kohath, son of Levi took...^b Dathan and 1 Abiram sons of Eliab, and On son of Peleth (Eliab and Peleth were sons 2 of Reuben) •rebelled against Moses, together with two hundred and fifty of the 3 sons of Israel, leaders of the community, prominent in the solemn feasts, men of 4 repute. •These joined forces against Moses and Aaron saying to them, 'You take 5 too much on yourselves! The whole community and all its members are 6 consecrated, and Yahweh lives among them. Why set yourselves higher than the 7 community of Yahweh?' 8

Ex 19:6

Moses, when he heard this, threw himself face downward on the ground. 9 2Tm2:19 Then he said to Korah and all his followers, 'Tomorrow morning Yahweh will 10 reveal who is his, who is the consecrated man that he will allow to come near him. 11
The one he allows to come near is the one whom he has chosen. •This is what 12
you are to do: take the censers of Korah and all his followers, •fill them with fire 13 and, tomorrow, put incense in them before Yahweh. Yahweh will choose the one 14 who is the consecrated man. Sons of Levi, you take too much on yourselves!' 15

8:14-19

Moses said to Korah, 'Listen to me now, you sons of Levi! •Is it not enough 16 for you that the God of Israel has singled you out from the community of Israel, 17 and called you close to himself for service in the tabernacle of Yahweh, to stand 18 before this community and perform the sacred rites on their behalf? •He has 19 called you to be near him, you and all your brother Levites with you, and now 20
you aspire to the office of priesthood as well! •Against Yahweh himself you have 21 joined forces, you and your followers: for what is Aaron that you should complain 22
against him?' 23

Ex 3:8+

Moses summoned Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab. They replied, 24
'We will not come. •Was it not enough to take us from a land where milk and 25
honey flow to die in this wilderness, without seeking to lord it over us now? 26
There is no land flowing with milk and honey that you have brought us to, 27 nor have you given us fields and vineyards for our inheritance. Do you expect 28 this people to be blind? We will not come.' •Moses flew into a rage and said to 29 Yahweh, 'Pay no heed to their offering. I have not taken so much as a donkey 30 from them, nor have I harmed any of them.' 31

1S12:3-5

The punishment

Moses said to Korah, 'You and all your followers, come tomorrow into the 32 presence of Yahweh, you and they, and Aaron too. •Let every man bring his 33
censer, put incense in it, and carry his censer before Yahweh—two hundred and 34 fifty censers. You and Aaron also, each of you bring his censer.' •So every man 35 took his censer, filled it with fire, and put incense in it. And they stood at the 36 entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and Moses and Aaron with them. •Then, when 37
Korah had assembled the whole community to confront these two at the entrance 38 to the Tent of Meeting, the glory of Yahweh appeared to the whole community. 39

17:9

Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron. He said, •'Stand apart from this assembly, 40
I am going to destroy them here and now'. •They threw themselves face down- 41
ward on the ground, and cried out, 'O God, God of the spirits that give life to 42
every living thing, will you be angry with the whole community for one man's 43 sin?' •Yahweh answered Moses and said, •'Say this to the community, "Stand 44 clear of the dwelling of Korah" '.^c 45

Moses stood up and went to Dathan and Abiram; the elders of Israel followed 46
him. •He said to the community, 'Stand away, I beg you, from the tents of these 47 perverse men, and touch nothing that belongs to them, for fear that with all 48 their sins you too will be swept away'. •So they moved away from the dwelling 49
of Korah. 50

Ex3:12;
4:30-31

Dathan and Abiram had come out and were standing at their tent doors, 51 with their wives and their sons and their young children. •Moses said, 'By this 52
you will know that Yahweh himself has sent me to perform all these tasks and 53

29 that this is not my doing. •If these people die a natural death such as men Jn2:11 + ▲ 30 commonly die, then Yahweh has not sent me. •But if Yahweh does something utterly new, if the earth should open its mouth and swallow them, themselves and all that belongs to them, so that they go down alive to Sheol,^d then you will know that these men have rejected Yahweh.'

31 The moment he finished saying all these words, the ground split open under Jb 40:13 and all Korah's men and all their belongings.

33 They went down alive to Sheol, they and all their possessions. The earth Jb 2:6 34 closed over them and they disappeared from the midst of the assembly. •At their Pr 1:12; cries all the Israelites around them ran away. For they said, 'The earth must 5:6;9:18;

The censers

 they have been brought before Yahweh and consecrated, let the metal be hammered into sheets to cover the altar. They will be an object-lesson to the sons of Israel.'

⁴
³⁹ Eleazar the priest took the bronze censers which had been carried by the men who were destroyed by the fire. They were hammered into sheets to cover the Aaron's line, may come near Yahweh with incense to burn, under pain of suffering 16 a. Most critics grant that two parallel narratives are fused in these chapters The 'Yahwistic' or 'Elohistic' (vv. 1b-2a, 12-15, 25-34) is concerned with the political revolt of the Reubenites, Dathan and Abiram; the 'Priestly' (vv. 1a, 2b-11, 16-24, 27a, 35) with the religious claim of the Kohathites against the Aaronites.

Aaron's branch

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •'Tell the sons of Israel to give you a^{16,17} branch,^{1,2} one for each patriarchal family; let their leaders together give you twelve branches for their patriarchal families. Write the name of each on his branch; and on the branch of Levi write the name of Aaron, because the leader of the families¹⁸ of Levi must have a branch too. •Then put them in the Tent of Meeting before¹⁹ the Testimony, the place where I meet you.⁴ •The man whose branch sprouts²⁰ will be the one I have chosen; this is how I shall put an end to the complaints⁵ that the sons of Israel make against you.'

Moses spoke to the sons of Israel, and all their leaders gave him one branch²¹ each, twelve branches in all for their patriarchal families; Aaron's branch was among them. •Moses placed them before Yahweh in the Tent of the Testimony. On the following day Moses came to the Tent of the Testimony and there,²² already sprouting, was Aaron's branch, standing for the House of Levi. Buds had²³ opened, flowers had blossomed, and almonds had already ripened. •Moses took²⁴ all the branches away from before Yahweh and brought them back to all the sons of Israel; they examined them and each one took back his own branch.⁶

^{20:8} Then Yahweh said to Moses, 'Put back Aaron's branch before the Testimony,²⁵ where it will have its prescribed place, a sign to these rebels. It will stop them¹⁰ complaining to me any more, and they will not die.' •Moses did as Yahweh had²⁶ ordered. That is what he did.¹¹

Dt18:1-8 Atonement: the function of the priesthood

The sons of Israel said to Moses, 'We are lost! We are dead men! We are²⁷ all dead men! •Anyone who goes near the tabernacle of Yahweh with an offering¹² will die. Are we to be doomed to the last man?'²⁸

You and your sons with you shall bear the burden of the transgressions of your priesthood. •Let your brothers of the³ branch of Levi, your father's tribe, come with you too. They are to join you and serve you, yourselves and your sons, before the Tent of the Testimony. •They are⁴ to be at your service and the service of the whole Tent. Provided they do not come near the sacred vessels or the altar, they will be in no more danger of death⁵ than you. •They are to join you, they are to take charge of the Tent of Meeting for⁶ the entire ministry of the Tent, and no layman shall come near you. •You must⁷ take charge of the sanctuary and charge of the altar, and the wrath will never again fall on the sons of Israel. •I myself have chosen your brothers, the Levites,⁸ from among the sons of Israel as a gift to you. Every undefiled person in your house may eat them. •All in Israel on which the ban is laid shall be yours. •Every first-born brought to Yahweh shall be yours, of all living creatures, whether man or beast; nevertheless you must redeem the first-born of man, and you must redeem the first-born of an unclean beast. •You must redeem it in the month in which it is born at the price of five shekels, each of sanctuary weight—which is twenty gerahs. •The first-born of cow, sheep and goat, these alone you shall not redeem. They are holy: you must sprinkle their blood on the altar and burn the fat as a burnt offering, an appeasing fragrance for Yahweh; •the meat shall be yours, together with the breast that has been presented with the gesture of offering, and the right thigh. •All that the sons of Israel set aside for Yahweh from the holy things, this I give to you, and to your sons and daughters, by perpetual ordinance. d. The word 'branch', like the corresponding Hebr., expresses the symbolism here intended: a 'branch' of a family; cf. the 'shoot' of Is 11:1.

e. 'you' is here in the singular (Greek); Hebr. has plural.

f. Probably following on 16:34. The distinction here made is not between Aaronites and Levites but between Levites and laymen.

18 a. I.e. Levi. The Levites (cf. 3:5-10) are here associated with the Aaronites in their ministry of atonement for the people (cf. Lv 16:16), but only as assistants.

b. I.e. in all that pertains to sacrifice and to the ritual performed in the Holy of Holies.

c. The offering is 'given back' because it was God who first gave it; for the same reason a defect in the offering is fraud, Lv 5:15f.

d. Legislation from the 'Priestly' narrative; it stands midway between Dt 14:28-29; 26:12 (where once every three years the Levite is allowed only a share in the tithe) and Nb 35:1-8 (where a cession of land takes the place of the tax).

e. I.e. to the Levites who, in v. 31, are addressed directly.

^{Dt 21:3} ‘They are to bring you a red heifer without fault or blemish, one that has never borne the yoke. •You will give it to Eleazar the priest. It must be taken ³

^{Ex12:22+ Lv14:4-6} his presence: hide, flesh, blood, and the dung too, must be burnt. •Then the ⁷ priest is to take cedar wood, hyssop and cochineal red, and throw them on the fire where the heifer is burning. •Then he must wash his clothing and bathe his ⁸ body in water; after which he may go back to the camp, though he will remain ⁹ unclean until evening. •The man who has burnt the heifer must wash his ¹⁰ clothing and bathe his body in water and will remain unclean until evening. •The ¹¹ ^{2Ch13:12} man who gathers up the ashes of the heifer must be ritually clean; he will deposit ¹²
^{Lv4:11-12} them outside the camp, in a clean place. They must be kept for the ritual use of the ¹³
^{Heb9:13} community of the sons of Israel for making lustral water; it is a sacrifice for sin. ¹⁴
The man who has gathered up the ashes of the heifer must wash his clothing ¹⁵ body of a man that has died, and has not purified himself, defiles the tabernacle ¹⁵ of Yahweh; such a man must be outlawed from Israel because the lustral waters ¹⁶ have not flowed over him; he is unclean, and his uncleanness remains in him.

This is the law when a man dies in a tent. Anyone who goes into the tent, or ¹⁷ anyone who is already there, shall be unclean for seven days. •Equally unclean ¹⁸ of natural causes, or the tomb. •The man who is clean must sprinkle the unclean ²² on the third and the seventh day, and on the seventh day he will have freed him ²³ from his sin. The man who is unclean must then wash his clothing and bathe ²⁴ himself in water, and by evening he will be clean. •If an unclean man fails to ²⁵ purify himself in this way, he must be cut off from the community, for he would ²⁶ defile the sanctuary of Yahweh. The lustral waters have not flowed over him, ²⁷ and he is unclean.

‘This is to be a perpetual law for them. The person who sprinkles the lustral ²⁸ and anyone who touches it shall be unclean until evening.'

The waters of Meribah

Ex 17:1-7

 desert of Zin. The people settled at Kadesh. It was there that Miriam died and was buried.

2 There was no water for the community, and they were all united against Moses of Yahweh into this wilderness, only to let us die here, ourselves and our cattle?

 5 Why did you lead us out of Egypt, only to bring us to this wretched place? It is full view of them, order this rock to give water. You will make water flow for them out of the rock, and provide drink for the community and their cattle.'

9 Moses took up the branch from before Yahweh, as he had directed him. •Then 10 Moses and Aaron called the assembly together in front of the rock and addressed them, 'Listen now, you rebels. Shall we make water gush from this rock for water gushed in abundance, and the community drank and their cattle too.

1 M 5:47

19 a. Ch. 19 is one connected whole; the water of purification, vv. 17-22, mixed with the ashes of a red heifer that has been slain and burnt outside the camp (vv. 1-10) is used to remove the defilement incurred through contact with the dead, vv. 11-16. The rite is alluded to only once elsewhere, Nb 31:23 (and see Heb 9:13); it gives legal status to an ancient, half-magical, custom by giving it the character of a sacrifice of atonement for sin, v. 17, and cf. vv. 4-5 with Lv 16:27; v. 8 with Lv 16:28. Certain other practices of this kind were taken over by the Mosaic Law, Lv 14:2-7; Nb 5:17-28; Dt 21:1-9.

b. The purity regulations of Lv 11-16 did not mention contact with the dead.

20 a. The narratives of this section derive from the great 'Yahwistic' and 'Elohistic' collections; they draw upon several traditions of varying outlook which they either place side by side or, in many cases, fuse together; it is difficult to distinguish these traditions precisely.

The main theme is the steady advance of God's chosen people despite all opposition.

b. The exact nature of the sin remains doubtful. The editor seems to have toned down some episode that reflected no credit on Moses or Aaron. In Dt 1:37 it is the abandonment of the campaign against Canaan (with Moses' consent) that brings on this punishment; it is therefore probable that our v. 12 relates to ch. 14, and not to the Meribah incident. In order to allow for another tradition, according to which Yahweh himself was opposed to the campaign (14:39-45), the editor may have removed our text from ch. 14 and inserted it here near the story of Aaron's death. The existence of two differing traditions would be adequately explained by the division of the Israelites themselves: some, with Moses, passed round the southern extremity of Edom; others, with Caleb, captured Hormah and advanced from the south; cf. Nb 21:1-3; Jg 1:9-16.

c. Just before this verse Sam. and Syr. Hex. insert certain phrases taken from Dt 3:24-28 and 2:2-6.

Ex23:20+ cried to Yahweh. He listened to us and sent an angel to bring us out of Egypt.
 21:22 Now we are here at Kadesh, a town on the borders of your territory. •We ask 17 permission to pass through your land. We will not cross any fields or vineyards; we will not drink any water from the wells; we will keep to the king's highway without turning to right or left until we are clear of your frontiers.' •Edom 18 Dt 2:29 answered, 'You shall not pass through my country; if you do, I will come out to attack you'. •The answer of the sons of Israel was, 'We will keep to the high 19 road; if we use any of your water for myself and my cattle, I will pay for it.
 I am asking only to pass through on foot.' •Edom replied, 'You shall not pass', 20 and Edom marched out to meet them with many men and in great force. •At 21
 Ex 15:15 Edom's refusal to allow Israel a passage through his territory, Israel turned away.

33:38-39 The death of Aaron Dt 10:6

They set out from Kadesh, and the whole community of the sons of Israel 22
 Is 63:1 came to Mount Hor.^a •Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron at Mount Hor, on the 23

Moses did as Yahweh ordered. In the sight of the whole community they 27

 Eleazar his son; and Aaron died there on top of the mountain. Then Moses and Eleazar came back down the mountain. •The whole community saw that Aaron 29

e. Edom included Mount Seir, Dt 2:8, and the plateau east of the Arabah. Moab, 21:11f, was bounded on the south by the Zered which flows into the Dead Sea, cf. Dt 2:13f; on the north the Moabites had been driven back to the Arnon by the Amorites who in their turn were expelled by the Israelites, cf. Jos 13:7-33. After Ahab's death Moab was again a threat 2 K 3. cf. Is 15f and Jr 48. Ammon lay further to the east on the upper reaches of the Jabbok, Nb 21:24, cf. Dt 2:19; its capital, the modern Amman, was later captured by David, 2 S 11f; in Jeremiah's time, however, Ammon had taken the place of Gad in Transjordan, Jr 49:1-6. The Edomites, Moabites and Ammonites were Aramaean peoples closely related to the Hebrews; in Gn 36:1-9 (cf. 25:24-30) Edom is associated with Esau, and in Gn 19:30-38 Lot is the father of Moab and Ammon.

and all his people and his country. Deal with him as you dealt with Sihon, king of the Amorites, who lived in Heshbon.' •So they defeated him, his sons and all 35 his people; not one of them escaped. And they took possession of his country.

Balak son of Zippor saw all that Israel had done to the Amorites, •and Moab 2 was seized with panic before this people because of their immense number. 3

Moab was afraid of the sons of Israel; •he said to the elders of Midian, 'Here 4 is a horde now cropping everything round us as an ox crops the grass of the fields'.

Now Balak son of Zippor was king of Moab at the time. •He sent messengers 5 to summon Balaam son of Beor, at Pethor^c on the river, in the land of the sons of Amaw, saying, 'Look how this people coming from Egypt has overrun the 6 whole countryside; they have settled at my door. •Come, please, and curse this people for me, for they are stronger than I am. We may then be able to defeat 6 them and drive them out of the country. For this I know: the man you bless is blessed, the man you curse is accursed.'

1 S9:7+ The elders of Moab and the elders of Midian set out, taking the fee for the 7 divination with them. They found Balaam and gave him Balak's message. •He 8 said to them, 'Stay the night here, and I will answer as Yahweh directs me.'
So the chiefs of Moab stayed with Balaam. •God came to Balaam and said, 9
'Who are these men staying with you?' •Balaam gave God this answer, 'Balak 10 son of Zippor has sent me this message, •"Look how this people coming from 11 Egypt has overrun the whole countryside. Come and curse them for me; I may then be able to defeat them and drive them out." ' •God said to Balaam, 'You are 12 not to go with them. You are not to curse this people, for they are blessed.'
In the morning Balaam rose and said to the chiefs sent by Balak, 'Go back to 13 your country, for Yahweh will not let me go with you'. •So the chiefs of Moab 14 rose and returned to Balak and said, 'Balaam would not come with us'.

And again Balak sent chiefs, more numerous and more renowned than the 15 first. •They came to Balaam and said, 'A message from Balak son of Zippor, 16
'Do not refuse, I beg you, to come to me. •I will load you with honours and do 17 whatever you say. Come, I beg you, and curse this people for me.' ' •Balaam 18 answered the envoys of Balak, 'Even if Balak gave me his house full of silver and gold, I could not go against the order of Yahweh my God in anything, great 19 or small. •Now please stay the night here yourselves, and I will learn what else

20 Yahweh has to tell me.' •God came to Balaam during the night and said to him, 'Have not these men come to summon you? Get up, go with them. But you 21 must do nothing except what I tell you.' •In the morning Balaam rose and saddled his she-donkey^d and set out with the chiefs of Moab.

Balaam's donkey^e

22 His going kindled the wrath of Yahweh,^f and the angel of Yahweh took his stand on the road to bar his way. He was riding his donkey and his two servants
23 were with him. •Now the donkey saw the angel of Yahweh standing on the road, a drawn sword in his hand, and she turned off the road and made off across country. But Balaam beat her to turn her back on to the road. Jos 5:13

24 The angel of Yahweh then took his stand on a narrow path among the vineyards, with a wall to the right and a wall to the left. •The donkey saw the angel of Yahweh and brushed against the wall, grazing Balaam's foot. Balaam beat her again.

26 The angel of Yahweh moved and took up his stand in a place so narrow that 27 there was no room to pass, right or left. •When the donkey saw the angel of Yahweh, she lay down under Balaam. Balaam flew into a rage and beat her with his stick.

28 Then Yahweh opened the mouth of the donkey, who said to Balaam, 'What 29 have I done to you? Why beat me three times like this?' •Balaam answered the donkey, 'Because you are playing the fool with me! If I had had a sword in my 30 hand, I would have killed you by now.' •The donkey said to Balaam, 'Am I not your donkey, and have I not been your mount from your youth? In all this time, have I ever failed to serve you?'^g He answered, 'No'. 2P2:16

31 Then Yahweh opened the eyes of Balaam. He saw the angel of Yahweh standing on the road, a drawn sword in his hand; and he bowed down and fell 32 prostrate on his face. •And the angel of Yahweh said to him, 'Why did you beat your donkey three times like that? I myself had come to bar your way; while I am 33 here your road is blocked.^h •The donkey saw me and turned aside from me three times. You are lucky she did turn aside, or I should have killed you by now, 34 though I would have spared her.' •Balaam answered the angel of Yahweh, 'I have sinned.ⁱ I did not know you were standing in my path. However, if you 35 are angry with me, I will go back.' •The angel of Yahweh answered Balaam, 'Go with these men, but only say what I tell you to say.' So Balaam went with the chiefs sent by Balak.

Balaam and Balak

b. Ch. 22-24 combine in one narrative materials (sometimes inconsistent) from two traditions, 'Yahwistic' and 'Elohistic'. Ch. 23 is mostly from the 'Elohistic' tradition, ch. 24 from the 'Yahwistic'; in ch. 22 both traditions overlap. This lengthy narrative offers an unusual example of the prophetic function. Balaam is a soothsayer from the Euphrates; his god is Yahweh, 22:18, etc., perhaps because he is temporarily attracted by the new religion brought from the desert by the Israelites. (It is also possible, though there is no sure evidence, that Yahweh was worshipped outside Israel). He is an enemy of the Israelites (cf. marginal references) and yet, against his will, he repeatedly blesses them. He is forced to do so by God's irresistible spirit which opposes the curse and imposes the blessing; thus catastrophe is averted and fortune assured, because blessings and curses are regarded as efficacious, and once uttered cannot be revoked, cf. Gn 27:33.

c. Pethor (on 'the river', i.e. Euphrates) and the land of Amaw (with Hebr., against 'Ammon' of Sam., Syr., Vulg.) are known from the cuneiform texts.

Balaam set out with Balak. They came to Kiriath-huzoth. •Balak sacrificed 39 altar. •Balaam then said to Balak, 'Stand beside your holocausts. I will go; 3 perhaps Yahweh will allow me to meet him. Whatever he shows me I shall tell 4 you.' And he withdrew to a bare hill.

The oracles of Balaam

God came to meet Balaam, who said to him, 'I have prepared the seven altars 4 and offered a holocaust of one bull and one ram on each altar'. •Yahweh then 5 put a word into his mouth and said to him, 'Go back to Balak and that is what 6 you must say to him'. •So Balaam went back to him, and found him still standing 6 beside his holocaust, with all the chiefs of Moab. •Then he declaimed his poem.^b 7
He said:

'Balak brought me from Aram,

"Come, curse Jacob for me;
come, denounce Israel".

with me to another place. What you see from here is only the fringe of this 14 people, you do not see them all. Curse them for me over there.' •He led him to 15 the Field of Spies, towards the summit of Pisgah. There he built seven altars and offered a holocaust of one bull and one ram on each altar. •Balaam said to 16 Balak, 'Stand beside these holocausts. I will wait^e over there.' •God came to 17

Israel at Peor^a

25 Israel settled at Shittim.^b The people gave themselves over to debauchery 1 with the daughters of Moab.^c •These invited them to the sacrifices of their 2 gods, and the people ate^d and bowed down before their gods. •With Israel thus 3 committed to the Baal of Peor, the anger of Yahweh blazed out against them.

4 Yahweh said to Moses, 'Take all the leaders of the people. Impale them for Yahweh, here in the sun; then the burning anger of Yahweh will turn away from Israel.' Moses said to the judges in Israel, 'Every one of you must put to death those of his people who have committed themselves to the Baal of Peor'.

6 A man of the sons of Israel came along, bringing the^e Midianite woman into his family, under the very eyes of Moses and the whole community of the sons of Israel as they wept at the door of the Tent of Meeting. When he saw this, Phinehas the priest, son of Eleazar son of Aaron, stood up and left the assembly, seized a lance, followed the Israelite into the alcove, and there ran them both through, the Israelite and the woman, right through the groin. And the plague that had struck the sons of Israel was arrested. In the plague twenty-four thousand of them had died.

11 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, 'Phinehas the priest, son of Eleazar son of Aaron, has turned my wrath away from the sons of Israel, because he was the only one among them to have the same zeal as I have; for this I did not make an end, in my zeal, of the sons of Israel. Proclaim this, therefore: To him I now grant my covenant of peace. For him and for his descendants after him, this covenant shall ensure the priesthood for ever. In reward for his zeal for his God, he shall have the right to perform the ritual of atonement^f over the sons of Israel.'

14 The Israelite who was killed (he who had been killed with the Midianite woman) was called Zimri son of Salu, leader of one of the patriarchal Houses of Simeon. The woman, the Midianite who was killed, was called Cozbi, daughter of Zur, chief of a clan, of a patriarchal House in Midian.

17 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, 'Harry the Midianites and strike them down, for they have harassed you with their guile in the Peor affair and in the affair of Cozbi their sister, daughter of a prince of Midian, the woman who was killed the day the plague came on account of Peor'.

VIII. FURTHER LEGISLATION^a

The census

19 After this plague, 26 Yahweh spoke to Moses and to Eleazar son of Aaron, the priest. He said:

e. Israel.

f. Text uncertain. For 'carcase' the Massoretes understood 'nations'.

g. In the ancient East the star signified a god and, consequently, the deified king. See also Is 14:12. Here the word seems to refer to the Davidic dynasty from which the Messiah was to come.

h. For 'sceptre' the Greek reads 'a man'; for 'brows' it has 'chiefs'. The same Hebr. word means 'sides' (of the head) and 'frontiers'.

i. Here referring to Bedouin tribes. The poem goes on to enumerate those of Israel's enemies who lived on the borders of Canaan.

j. 'enemies': transposed from v. 18 where Hebr. has it after 'Seir'. 'Ar', cf. 22:36, in place of Hebr. 'city'.

k. Following Sam.

l. Play on words: qen, 'nest' and qyn, 'Kain' (the latter is here a textual restoration demanded by the rhythm). The Kenites were nomads (cf. 1 Ch 2:55 where they appear as brethren of the Rechabites) intimately associated with Midian (cf. Nb 10:29 and Jg 1:16). They were driven back by the Edomites (the Beor of v. 22 appears to be the Edomite king of Gn 36:32) but penetrated as far as Amalekite territory, Jg 1:16; 1 S 15:4-6, cf. 27:10 and 30:29, and even as far as the Esdraelon plain, Jg 4:11,17; 5:24. There is evidently a connection between Kain and Kenaz; Kenaz was father of Othniel who was brother (or nephew?) of 'Caleb the Kenizzite' (who, according to other passages, was of Judah), Nb 32:12; Jos 14:6,14; 15:17; Jg 1:13; 3:9-11; 1 Ch 4:13. In Gn 15:19 the Kenizzites are listed between Kenites and Kadmonites (the 'sons of the East' of Gn 29:1; Jg 6:3; etc.); in Gn 36:11-12 Kenaz is described as grandson of Esau and half-brother of Amalek—which suggests that they were neighbours rather than blood-relations.

m. Text very uncertain, corr. conjectural. 'Asshur' here, and in v. 24, is not Assyria but the nation mentioned in Gn 25:3 and 2 S 2:9.

n. These words are found only in the Greek. Og was king of Bashan, territory of the Asshurites, cf. 21:33, etc.

o. Lit. (with slight corr.) 'people of the isles'. These 'peoples of the sea' (the term includes the Philistines) descended on Egypt and Palestine in the 13th century.

p. Cyprus, and also the eastern Mediterranean seaboard.

q. Text corrected as in v. 20.

25 a. Continuing the story of Israel's contact with her neighbours. The passage, 'Priestly' in outlook, establishes the right of Phinehas to the priesthood; it is therefore a sequel to 20:22-29.

b. On Shittim or Abel-hash-shittim see Jos 2:1+.

c. What follows concerns the Midianites rather than the Moabites.

d. The sacred banquet of semitic communion sacrifices.

e. She is presumed known.

f. Alternative translation 'It is the reward of his zeal for his God and of having made atonement'.

26 a. These new and varied enactments are all of the 'Priestly' tradition.

So Moses and Eleazar the priest spoke to the people in the plains of Moab, 3 near the Jordan opposite Jericho. They counted:

(As Yahweh had ordered Moses and the sons of Israel on their coming 4 out of the land of Egypt:) Men of twenty years and over:

Ex 6:14
1 Ch 5:3 Reuben, the first-born of Israel. The sons of Reuben: for Hanoch, the 5 Hanochite clan; for Pallu, the Palluite clan; •for Hezron, the Hezronite clan; 6 for Carmi, the Carmite clan. •These were the Reubenite clans. They numbered 7 forty-three thousand seven hundred and thirty men.

Laws concerning vows

Lv27:1+

2 Moses spoke to the leaders of the tribes of the sons of Israel. He said, 'This is what Yahweh has ordered:

4 "If a woman makes a vow to Yahweh or takes a formal pledge during her youth, while she is still in her father's house, •and if he hears about this vow or pledge made by her and says nothing to her, her vow, whatever it may be, shall be binding, and the pledge she has taken, whatever it may be, shall be binding. •But if the father on the day he learns of it expresses his disapproval of it, then none of the vows or pledges she has taken shall be binding. Yahweh will not hold her to it, since her father has expressed his disapproval.

7 "If, being bound by vows or by a pledge voiced without due reflection, she then marries, •and if her husband hears of it but says nothing on the day he learns of it, her vows shall be binding and the pledges she has taken shall be binding. •But if on the day he learns of it he expresses his disapproval to her, this will annul the vow that she has made or the pledge that binds her, voiced without due reflection. Yahweh will not hold her to it.

10 "The vow of a widow or a divorced woman and all pledges taken by her are binding on her.

11 "If she has made a vow or taken a pledge under oath while in her husband's house, •and if when the husband learns of it he says nothing to her and does not express disapproval to her, then the vow, whatever it is, shall be binding, and the pledge, whatever it is, shall be binding. •But if the husband when he hears of them annuls them on the day he learns of them, no word of her mouth, vow or pledge, shall be binding. Since the husband has annulled them, Yahweh will not hold her to them.

14 "Every vow or oath that is binding on the wife^a may be endorsed or annulled by the husband.

15 "If by the following day the husband has said nothing to her, it means that he endorses her vow, whatever it may be, or her pledge, whatever it may be. He endorses them if he says nothing on the day he learns of them. •But if he annuls them a longer time after he learnt of them, then he must bear the burden of the wife's fault."

17 These are the laws ordained by Yahweh to Moses, concerning the relationship between man and wife, and between a father and his daughter while still young and living in her father's home.

IX. BOOTY AND ITS ALLOCATION^a

The holy war against Midian

1 31 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, 'Exact full vengeance for the sons of Israel on the Midianites. Afterwards you will be gathered to your people.'

Ex2:15+

30 a. Lit. 'that binds her to afflict her soul'. The expression commonly means 'to fast' but commentators are agreed that it has a wider sense here.

31 a. Availing itself of certain traditional data this section introduces regulations for the conduct of the holy war, for the division of the booty and, especially, for the sharing out of the Holy Land itself. 'Priestly' tradition.

Moses said to the people, 'Some of you must take arms to wage Yahweh's 1 25:17-18 campaign against Midian, to carry out the vengeance of Yahweh on Midian. •Put 4 a thousand men in the field from each of the tribes of Israel.'

Jg 21:10 In this way Israel's hosts provided twelve thousand men equipped for war, 5
one thousand from each tribe: •Moses put them in the field, one thousand from 6 25:6-13 each tribe, with Phinehas, son of Eleazar the priest, to go with them carrying the 10:9 sacred vessels and the trumpets for sounding the alarm.

They waged the campaign against Midian, as Yahweh had ordered 7
Moses, and they put every male to death. •And further, they killed the kings 8 Jos13:21-22 of Midian, Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur and Reba, the five Midianite kings; they also put Balaam son of Beor to the sword. •The sons of Israel took the Midianite 9 women captive with their young children, and plundered all their cattle, all their flocks and all their goods. •They set fire to the towns where they lived and all 10 their encampments. •Then, taking all their booty, all that they had captured, 11 man and beast, •they took the captives, spoil and booty to Moses, Eleazar 12 the priest and all the community of the sons of Israel, at the camp in the plains of Moab, near the Jordan opposite Jericho.

The slaughter of the women and purification of the booty

Moses, Eleazar the priest, and all the leaders of the community went out of 13
the camp to meet them. •Moses was enraged with the commanders of the army, 14
the captains of thousands and the captains of hundreds, who had come back from this military expedition. •He said, 'Why have you spared the life of all 15 25 the women? •These were the very ones who, on Balaam's advice, perverted the 16 sons of Israel and made them renounce Yahweh in the affair at Peor: hence the 17
Jg 21:11 plague which struck the community of Israel. •So kill all the male children. 17
Kill also all the women who have slept with a man. •Spare the lives only of the 18 young girls who have not slept with a man, and take them for yourselves. •As 19 19:11-22 for you, you must camp for seven days outside the camp, all of you who have killed a man or touched a corpse. Purify yourselves, you and your prisoners, on the third and seventh days; •purify also all clothing, everything made of skin, 20 everything woven of goats' hair and everything made of wood.'

Eleazar the priest said to the soldiers who had come back from this campaign, 21
'This is a statute of the Law which Yahweh has commanded Moses. •Whereas 22
the gold, silver, bronze, iron, tin and lead, •everything that can withstand fire, 23 must be passed through the fire and it will be clean, yet it must still be purified 19:1-10 with lustral water.^b Whatever cannot resist fire you must pass through water.

'Wash your clothes on the seventh day and you will then be clean. You may 24 then come back to the camp.'

The allocation of the booty

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said: 25

'With Eleazar the priest and the heads of families in the community, count 26 1 S 30:24 the spoils and the captives, man and beast. •Then share out the spoil, half and 27 half, between those who fought the campaign and the rest of the community.
Jg 8:25 As Yahweh's portion you will set aside, from the share of the combatants who 28 took part in the campaign, one out of every five hundred persons, oxen, donkeys and sheep. •These are to be taken from the half share which is their due, and 29 given to Eleazar the priest as an offering to Yahweh. •From the half which is 30 due to the sons of Israel, you will take one out of every fifty persons, oxen, donkeys, sheep, and all other animals, and give them to the Levites who have charge of the tabernacle of Yahweh.'

Moses and Eleazar the priest did as Yahweh had ordered Moses. •The 31 32 spoils, the remainder of the booty captured by the soldiers, came to six hundred and seventy-five thousand head of small stock, •seventy-two thousand head of 33 cattle, •sixty-one thousand donkeys, •and in persons, women who had never 34 35

36 slept with a man, thirty-two thousand in all. •Half was assigned to those who had taken part in the war, namely three hundred and thirty-seven thousand 37 five hundred head of small stock, •of which Yahweh's portion was six hundred 38 and seventy-five, •thirty-six thousand head of cattle, of which Yahweh's portion 39 was seventy-two. •Thirty thousand five hundred donkeys, of which Yahweh's
 40 portion was sixty-one, •and sixteen thousand persons, of which Yahweh's
 41 portion was thirty-two. •Moses gave Eleazar the priest the portion set aside for Yahweh, in accordance with Yahweh's instructions to Moses.

42 As for the half due to the sons of Israel, which Moses had separated from 43 that of the combatants, •this half, the community's share, came to three hundred 44 and thirty-seven thousand five hundred head of small stock, •thirty-six thousand 45 head of cattle, •thirty thousand five hundred donkeys •and sixteen thousand
 46 persons. •From this half, the share of the sons of Israel, Moses took one out 47 of every fifty, man and beast, and gave them to the Levites who had charge of the tabernacle of Yahweh, in accordance with Yahweh's instructions to Moses.

18:26-32

The offerings^c

Jg8:24-27

48 The commanders of the hosts who had fought the campaign, the captains
 49 of thousands and the captains of hundreds, came to Moses •and said, 'Your servants have numbered the soldiers under their command: not one is missing.
 50 And further, we bring as an offering for Yahweh the gold ornaments we have found, armlets and bracelets, signet rings, earrings and brooches, to have the 51 rite of atonement performed over us before Yahweh.' •Moses and Eleazar the 52 priest accepted this gold from them, all this jewellery. •This offering of gold given by them to Yahweh amounted to sixteen thousand seven hundred and fifty shekels, all given by the captains of thousands and the captains of hundreds.

8 Moses said to the sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben, 'Your brothers are 9 off to the war—are you content to stay here? •Why do you keep the sons of 10 Israel from entering the land that Yahweh has given them? •This is what your 11 fathers did when I sent them from Kadesh-barnea to inspect the land. •They went up as far as the Valley of Eschol and inspected the land; but they kept 12 the sons of Israel from entering the land that Yahweh had given them. •Hence 13 the wrath of Yahweh blazed out that day and he swore this oath, •"If ever these men of twenty years and over, who came out from Egypt, set eyes on the land that I promised on oath to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob...^b For they have not followed me faithfully, •except Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite, and Joshua son of Nun: these indeed have followed Yahweh faithfully.'" •The wrath

c. Like vv. 21-25 this passage appears to be an addition. Its theology is more developed: the war, holy

of Yahweh blazed out against Israel and he made them wander in the wilderness for forty years, until the generation that offended Yahweh had all disappeared. And now you, you rise up in your father's place, offshoot of sinful stock, to add still more to the burning wrath of Yahweh against Israel! •If you turn away from him, he will prolong the time spent in the wilderness, and you will bring about the ruin of all this people.'

They came to Moses and said, 'We would like to build sheepfolds here for our flocks and towns for our young children. •We ourselves will take up arms to lead the sons of Israel until we have brought them to the place appointed for them: only our young children will stay in the fortified towns, safe from the inhabitants of the country. •We will not return to our homes until every one of the sons of Israel has taken possession of his inheritance. •For we shall have no inheritance with them on the other bank of the Jordan or beyond, since our inheritance has fallen to us here, east of the Jordan.'

Moses said to them, 'If you do as you have said, if you are prepared to fight before Yahweh, •and if all those of you who bear arms cross the Jordan before Yahweh, until he has driven all his enemies before him, •then, once the land has become subject to Yahweh, you may go back; you shall be free of your obligation towards Yahweh and Israel, and this land shall be your inheritance before Yahweh. •But if you do not, you will sin against Yahweh, and be sure your sin will find you out. •Build towns, then, for your young children and folds for your flocks; but do what you have promised.'

The sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben said to Moses, 'Your servants will do as you order, sir. •Our children, our wives, our flocks and all our livestock will stay in the towns of Gilead, •but your servants, every man armed for war, will cross over to fight before Yahweh as you have ordered.'

Then Moses gave directions about them to Eleazar the priest, to Joshua son of Nun, and to the leaders of the patriarchal Houses of the tribes of Israel. Moses said to them, 'If the sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben, all who bear arms, cross the Jordan with you to fight before Yahweh, then once the land is in your power, you will give them the land of Gilead for their possession. •But if they do not cross over in arms with you, then they must have their possessions with you in the land of Canaan.'

The sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben replied, 'What Yahweh has said to your servants, we will do. •We will cross in arms before Yahweh into the land of Canaan; but you must give us possession of our inheritance beyond the Jordan.' •Moses gave them—the sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben and the half-tribe of Manasseh son of Joseph—the kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites, the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, the land and the towns contained within its boundaries, the frontier towns of the land.

The sons of Gad built Dibon, Ataroth, Aroer, •Atroth-shophan, Jazer, Jogbehah, •Beth-nimrah, Beth-haran, fortified towns, and folds for the flocks.

The sons of Reuben built Heshbon, Elealeh, Kiriathaim, •Nebo, Baal-meon (their names were changed), Sibmah. They gave names to the towns they had built.

The sons of Machir son of Manasseh went to Gilead. They conquered it and drove out the Amorites who were there. •Moses gave Gilead to Machir son of Manasseh, and he settled there. •Jair son of Manasseh went and seized their encampments and called them Encampments of Jair. •Nobah went and seized Kenath with its outlying villages, and called it Nobah after himself.^d

The stages of the Exodus^a

33 Here are the stages of the journey made by the sons of Israel when they came out in a body from the land of Egypt, under the leadership of Moses and Aaron. •Moses recorded their starting-points in writing whenever they broke camp on Yahweh's orders. Here are the stages according to their starting-points.

- 3 They left Rameses in the first month. It was on the fifteenth day of the first month, on the day following the Passover, that the sons of Israel set out triumphantly in the sight of all Egypt. •The Egyptians were burying those of their own people whom Yahweh had struck down, all their first-born; Yahweh had carried out his judgement on their gods. Ex 14:8

The boundaries of Canaan

34 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •“Give the sons of Israel this order: ¹ “When you go into the land (of Canaan), this is the territory that will be your inheritance. This is the land of Canaan defined by its boundaries.

“The southern part of your country will stretch from the wilderness of Zin, on the borders of Edom. Your southern boundary will start on the east at the end of the Salt Sea. •It will then turn south towards the Ascent of the Scorpions and go by Zin to end in the south at Kadesh-barnea. Then it will go towards Hazar-addar and pass through Azmon. •From Azmon the boundary will turn towards the wadi of Egypt and end at the Sea.”

“Your seaboard will be the Great Sea; this will be your western boundary.

“This will be your northern boundary. You will draw a line from the Great Sea to Mount Hor, •then from Mount Hor you will draw a line to the Pass of Hamath, and the boundary will end at Zedad. •From there it will go on to Ziphron and end at Hazar-enan. This will be your northern boundary.

“You will then draw your eastern boundary from Hazar-enan to Shepham. The boundary will go down from Shepham towards Riblah on the east side of Ain. Further down it will keep to the eastern shore of the Sea of Chinnereth. The frontier will then follow the Jordan and end at the Salt Sea.

“This will be your land with the boundaries surrounding it.”

Ex 33:52

Moses then laid this charge on the sons of Israel:

“This is the land you are to apportion by lot, which Yahweh has ordered to be made over to the nine tribes and the half-tribe. •The tribe of the sons of Reuben with its patriarchal Houses and the tribe of the sons of Gad with its patriarchal Houses have already been given their heritage; the half-tribe of Manasseh has also been given its heritage. •These two tribes and the half-tribe have been given their heritage beyond the Jordan opposite Jericho, to the east, towards the sunrise.”

The leaders in charge of the allocation

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said:

“These are the names of those who will share out the land: Eleazar the priest and Joshua son of Nun, •and you will take one leader from each tribe to share out the land. •Here are the names of these men:”

For the tribe of Judah, Caleb son of Jephunneh;

for the tribe of the sons of Simeon, Shemuel son of Ammihud;

for the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad son of Chislon;

for the tribe of the sons of Dan, the leader Bukki son of Jogli;

for the sons of Joseph: for the tribe of Manasseh, the leader Hanniel son of Ephod;

and for the tribe of the sons of Ephraim, the leader Kemuel son of Shiphtan;

for the tribe of the sons of Zebulun, the leader Elizaphan son of Parnach;

for the tribe of the sons of Issachar, the leader Paltiel son of Azzan;

for the tribe of the sons of Asher, the leader Ahihud son of Shelomi;

for the tribe of the sons of Naphtali, the leader Pedahel son of Ammihud.”

35 a. The system of private vengeance, in vogue among the Arabs of today. The 'avenger of blood', or goel, is the victim's nearest relative, Gn 4:15; 9:6; Dt 19:12; cf. 2 S 14:11. The goel is also the official protector of his relations: he is especially bound to prevent the alienation of their landed property, Lv 25:23-25; Rt 4:3f. Later, the term is used of God, the goel of Israel, Is 41:14; Jr 50:34; Ps 19:14. The basic idea is that of protection.

him not meaning to hit him, •or without seeing him dropped a stone on him 23 and wished him no harm, •then the community must decide in accordance with 24 these rules between the one who struck the blow and the avenger of blood, •and 25 so rescue the killer from the avenger of blood. They will send him back to the city of refuge where he had sought sanctuary, and there he will stay until the death of the high priest who has been anointed with the holy oil. •If the killer 26 should leave the bounds of the city of refuge where he has sought sanctuary and the avenger of blood encounters him outside the bounds of his city of refuge, 27 the avenger of blood may kill him without fear of reprisal; •since the killer 28 should stay in his city of refuge until the death of the high priest; only after the death of the high priest is he free to go back to the land where he has his

A wife's inheritance

36 Then the heads of families in the clan of the sons of Gilead, son 1 of Machir, son of Manasseh, one of the clans of Joseph's sons, came forward.

They spoke before Moses and the leaders, the heads of families of Israel's sons, 2 and said:

27:1-11 'Yahweh has ordered my lord to give the land to the sons of Israel, sharing it out by lot; and my lord has been ordered by Yahweh to give the inheritance of our brother Zelophehad to his daughters. •Now, if they marry 3 someone from another tribe in the sons of Israel, their property will be taken away from the inheritance of our fathers. The property of the tribe to which they will belong will be increased, and the property allotted to us diminished. •And when 4 Lv25:1+ the jubilee comes round for the sons of Israel, the property of these women will be added to the inheritance of the tribe to which they then belong, and lost to the inheritance of our own patriarchal tribe.'

Moses, at Yahweh's bidding, gave the following ruling to the sons of Israel. 5
He said:

'The tribe of the sons of Joseph is in the right. •This is Yahweh's ruling 6 for the daughters of Zelophehad: "They may marry whom they please, providing they marry into a clan of their father's tribe. •The heritage of the sons of Israel 7 is not to be transferred from tribe to tribe; every man of the sons of Israel is to remain bound to the heritage of his patriarchal tribe. •Every daughter who has 8 a heritage in one of the tribes of the sons of Israel must marry into a clan of her own paternal tribe, so that the sons of Israel may each preserve the heritage of his father."^a •No heritage may be transferred from one tribe to another: every 9 tribe of the sons of Israel will stay bound to its own heritage."

The daughters of Zelophehad did as Yahweh had ordered Moses. 10
Mahlah, Tirzah, Hoglah, Milcah and Noah, daughters of Zelophehad, married 11 the sons of their father's brothers. •Since they married into the clans of the 12 sons of Manasseh son of Joseph, their heritage reverted to the tribe of their father's clan.

DEUTERONOMY

I. INTRODUCTORY DISCOURSES

A. THE FIRST DISCOURSE OF MOSES

Its time and place

1 These are the words spoken beyond Jordan to the whole of Israel. (In the wilderness, in the Arabah facing Suph, between Paran and Tophel, Laban, Hazeroth and Dizahab. •It is eleven day's march from Horeb by way of Mount Seir to Kadesh-barnea.)^a •It was in the fortieth year, on the first day of the eleventh month, that Moses spoke to the sons of Israel as Yahweh had ordered. He had defeated Sihon king of the Amorites, who lived at Heshbon, and Og king of Bashan, who lived at Ashtaroth and Edrei. •There, in the land of Moab beyond the Jordan, Moses set himself to expound this Law. He said:^b

The final instructions at Horeb

•Yahweh our God said to us at Horeb, "You have stayed long enough at this mountain. •Move on from here, continue your journey, go to the highlands of the Amorites, to those who make their home in the Arabah, in the highlands, in the lowlands, in the Negeb and in the coastland; go into the land of Canaan and to Lebanon as far as the great river Euphrates. •This is the land I have made over to you; go and take possession of the land that Yahweh swore to give to your fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and to their descendants after them."

•It was then that I told you: I cannot carry the burden of you by myself. Yahweh your God has multiplied you, till now you are like the stars of heaven in number. •And Yahweh your God is going to increase you a thousand times more, and bless you as he promised. •So how can I carry the heavy burden of you and your bickerings, all by myself? •Bring me wise men, shrewd and tested, out of each of your tribes, therefore, and I will make them your leaders. And you answered me, "Your plan is a good one". •And so I selected tribal leaders for you, wise men and tested, and appointed them to lead you: captains of thousands, hundreds, fifties, tens, and scribes for your tribes too. •At that same time I told your judges: You must give your brothers a fair hearing and see justice done between a man and his brother or the stranger who lives with him. •You must be impartial in judgement and give an equal hearing to small and great alike. Do not be afraid of any man, for the judgement is God's. Should a case be too difficult, bring it to me and I will hear it. •And I gave you directions at that time for everything you were to do.

•Kadesh: the Israelites lose faith

•So we left Horeb and came to the vast and terrible wilderness you have seen. We made for the highlands of the Amorites, as Yahweh our God had ordered, and arrived at Kadesh-barnea. •It was then that I said to you: Now you have reached these Amorite highlands which Yahweh our God is giving to us. •See, Yahweh your God has made over this land to you. March in, take possession of it as Yahweh the God of your fathers ordered you; do not be afraid or discouraged. •Then you all came to me and said, "Let us send men ahead of us to explore the country; they will report to us which way we must go and what towns we shall come to". •This seemed good advice to me and I selected twelve of your men, one from each tribe. •These men made towards the highlands and went up into them; they reached the Valley of Eshcol and reconnoitred it. •They collected some of the fruit of the country and brought it down to us; and they made us this report, "It is a prosperous land that Yahweh our God has given us". Yet you refused to go up into it and you rebelled against the voice of Yahweh your God. •You grumbled in your tents; "It is because he hates us" you said "that Yahweh brought us out of the land of Egypt to put us under the power of the Amorites and so destroy us. •What kind of place are we making for? Our own brothers have made us lose heart: It is a people, they say, bigger and stronger than we are; their cities are immense, with walls reaching to the sky. And we saw Anakim there too."

•And I said to you: Do not take fright, do not be afraid of them. •Yahweh your God goes in front of you and will be fighting on your side as you saw him fight for you in Egypt. •In the wilderness, too, you saw him: how Yahweh carried you, as a man carries his child, all along the road you travelled on the way to this place. •But for all this, you put no faith in Yahweh your God, •who had gone in front of you on the journey to find you a camping ground, by night in the fire to light your path, by day in the cloud.

•Yahweh heard this talk of yours and, in his anger, took this oath, •"Not one of these men, this perverse generation, shall see the rich land that I swore to give to your fathers, •except Caleb son of Jephunneh. He shall see it. To him and to his sons I will give the land he has set foot on, for he has followed Yahweh in all things". •Yahweh was angry with me too, on your account. "You shall not go in either" he said. •"Your servant Joshua son of Nun, he shall be the one to enter. Give him encouragement, for it is he who shall bring Israel to take possession of the land. •But your little ones who, you said, would be seized as booty, these children of yours who do not yet know good from evil, these shall go in there; I will give it to them and they shall possess it. •As for you, turn round, go back into the wilderness, in the direction of the Sea of Suph."

•You answered me then, "We have sinned against Yahweh our God. We will go up and fight as Yahweh our God has ordered us." And each one of you buckled on his arms and blithely marched up into the highlands. •But Yahweh said to me, "Tell them this: Do not go up and fight. I am not among you. You will be defeated by your enemies." •And I did tell you, but you would not listen, and you rebelled against the voice of Yahweh: you still dared to go up into the highlands. •The Amorites, who live in that country of hills, came swarming out against you like bees, pursued you and struck you down in Seir and as far away as Hormah. •And when you returned you shed tears in the presence of Yahweh, but he did not listen to your cries and paid no heed to you. •For many a day you had to stay at Kadesh, your full tally of days.

Israel's relations with Edom and Moab

2 •We turned round, therefore, and made for the wilderness, in the direction of the Sea of Suph, as Yahweh had ordered me. For many days we wandered

1 a. The parenthesis of vv. 1b-2 sums up the previous stages of the Israelites' journey from Sinai. The 'wilderness' is that which lies to the east of Moab. The 'Arabah facing Suph' is the depression (here indicated by a few proper names) running from the Dead Sea to the Gulf of Aqaba (an inlet of the Red Sea). The last stage mentioned is from Kadesh to Sinai-Horeb, a journey of eleven days.

b. Here begins the first discourse of Moses. It recalls the conquest and reminds Israel of the obligations arising from the fact of divine election. Though it declares that disloyalty will be punished with exile, it opens up the prospect of repentance, forgiveness and return.

c. The wisdom which is referred to here is of the practical order.

long enough in these highlands. Go north. •And give the people this order: You³ are about to pass through the territory of your kinsmen, the sons of Esau who⁴ live in Seir. They are frightened of you; but take care •not to provoke them. For⁵
I will give you none of their land, no, not so much as a foot’s length of it. I have⁶ given the highlands of Seir to Esau as his domain.^a •Pay them in money for⁷ what food you eat; and pay them in money for all the water you drink. •Yahweh⁸ your God has blessed you in all you do; he has watched over your journeying through this vast wilderness. Yahweh your God has been with you these forty years and you have never been in want.”

•So we passed beyond those kinsmen of ours, the sons of Esau who live in⁹ Seir, by the Arabah and Elath and Ezion-geber road; then, changing direction, we took the road towards the wilderness of Moab. •And Yahweh said to me,¹⁰ “Make no attack on Moab and do not provoke him to fight, for I will give you none of his land. I have given Ar into the possession of the sons of Lot.” •(At one¹¹ time the Emim lived there, a great and numerous people, tall as the Anakim;^b and, like the Anakim, they were accounted Rephaim, though the Moabites call¹² them Emim. •The Horites,^c too, lived in Seir at one time; these, however, were dispossessed and exterminated by the sons of Esau who settled there in place of them, just as Israel did in their own land, the heritage they received from Yahweh.) •“Forward, then! Cross the wadi Zered!”¹³

The arrival in Transjordan

•And so we crossed the wadi Zered. •Now from Kadesh-barnea to the wadi¹⁴ Zered our wanderings had taken thirty-eight years, so that the whole generation of men fit for war was lost to the camp, as Yahweh had sworn to them. •The¹⁵ hand of Yahweh fell upon them in the camp until they had perished entirely.
When all the men fit for war had been carried off by death from among the people,¹⁶ down to the last man, •Yahweh said this to me, •“You are now about to cross Ar,¹⁷ the land of Moab, •and to approach the frontier of the sons of Ammon. Make¹⁸ no attack on them and do not provoke them, for I will give you none of the¹⁹ land belonging to the sons of Ammon. I have given it to the sons of Lot as their domain.” •(This also was accounted a land of Rephaim; at one time the²⁰ Rephaim lived there, though the Ammonites call them Zamzummim, •a great²¹ and numerous people, tall as the Anakim. Yahweh exterminated them before the advancing Ammonites who dispossessed them and settled there in place of them, •just as he had exterminated the Horites in front of the sons of Esau who²² live in Seir, so that they dispossessed them and settled there in place of them and are still there now. •It was the same with the Avvites who had their encampments²³ as far as Gaza: the Caphtorim, coming from Caphtor,^d exterminated them, settling there in place of them.) •“Break camp, set out and cross the wadi Arnon. See,²⁴
I am putting Sihon the Amorite, king of Heshbon, at your mercy, and his country too. Set about the conquest; engage him in battle. •Today and henceforth²⁵
I spread the terror and fear of you among the peoples under all heaven: all who hear the sound of your coming will tremble and be in dread.”

The conquest of Sihon’s kingdom

•So from the wilderness of Kedemoth^e I sent envoys to Sihon king of Heshbon²⁶ with this message of peace: •I mean to pass through your land. I shall go my²⁷ way, straying neither right nor left. •What food I eat, sell me in return for money;²⁸ and I will pay for all the water I drink. Only give me leave to march through, just as the sons of Esau who live in Seir gave me leave, and the Moabites who live²⁹ in Ar, until I cross the Jordan into the land that Yahweh our God is giving to us.
•But Sihon king of Heshbon would not give us leave to pass through his land:³⁰ Yahweh your God has made his spirit obstinate and his heart stubborn, so as to leave him at your mercy, as he still is. •And Yahweh said to me, “You see, I have³¹ begun to deliver Sihon and his land over to you. Set about the conquest; seize his land." •Sihon then, with all his people, marched out against us to give battle at Jahaz. •And Yahweh our God delivered him over to us: we defeated him, with his sons and all his people. •Then we captured all his cities and laid whole towns under ban, men, women, children; we spared nothing •but the livestock which we took as our spoil, as also the plunder from the towns we captured. •From Aroer on the height above the wadi Arnon, and from the town at the bottom of the ravine, as far as Gilead, not one town was beyond our reach; Yahweh our God delivered them all over to us. •The country of the Ammonites alone you did not go near, neither the region of wadi Jabbok nor the towns of the hill country, nor anywhere forbidden us by Yahweh our God.

3 •We then turned in the direction of Bashan and went up there. And Og king of Bashan marched out against us, he and all his people, to give battle at Edrei. And Yahweh said to me, "Do not be afraid of him, for I have put him at your mercy, with all his people and his land. Deal with him as you dealt with Sihon the king of the Amorites who lives in Heshbon." •So Yahweh our God put Og king of Bashan at our mercy too, with all his people. We struck him down and not a thing remained to him. •We captured all his towns at that time; there was not a town of theirs we did not take: sixty towns, the whole confederation of Argob, Og's capital in Bashan, •all strongholds enclosed in high walls and fortified with gates and bars, not to mention the Perizzite^a towns, which were very many. •We laid them under ban as we had done with Sihon king of Heshbon, laying the whole town, men, women, children, under the ban; •but we seized the livestock and the spoil from these towns as our plunder. •So at that time we took the land of the two Amorite kings beyond Jordan, from the wadi Arnon to Mount Hermon •(the Sidonians call Hermon Sirion and the Amorites call it Senir): •all the towns of the tableland, all Gilead, and all Bashan as far as Salecah and Edrei, the capital cities of Og in Bashan. •(Og king of Bashan was the last survivor of the Rephaim; his bed was the bed of iron^b that can be seen at Rabbah-of-the-Ammonites, nine cubits long and four wide, in the common cubit.) •At that time, therefore, we occupied this land, onwards from Aroer on the wadi Arnon. To Reuben and Gad I gave half the highlands of Gilead with its towns. •To the half-tribe of Manasseh I gave the rest of Gilead and the whole of Bashan, Og's kingdom. (The whole confederation of Argob and the whole of Bashan is called the country of the Rephaim. •Since Jair son of Manasseh occupied the whole confederation of Argob as far as the frontiers of the Geshurites and Maacathites, he gave his name to those towns that are still called^c the Encamp-

2 a. The Edomites, descendants of Abraham, with the Moabites and Ammonites, vv. 9 and 19, descended from Lot, have (like the Israelites) been settled by God in territories formerly belonging to other races whose names are recorded in vv. 10-12 (see notes). On Edom, Moab, Ammon, see Nb 20:23+.

b. The Anakim, like the Emim, Rephaim, Zam-zummim and Zuzim, were the remnants of the prehistoric inhabitants of Palestine and Transjordan, cf. vv. 20f and Gn 14:5. They were associated with the legendary Nephilim, Nb 13:33 and Gn 6:4, and were supposed to have built the megalithic monuments, cf. Dt 3:11. The Rephaim still occupied Bashan, Dt 3:13; Jos 12:4f; 13:12, but their name survived even in Judaea (the Vale of Rephaim to the S.W. of Jerusalem, Jos 15:8; 18:16; 2 S 5:18); the last descendants of Rapha, their eponymous ancestor, were overcome by David's warriors, 2 S 21:16-22, cf. 1 Ch 20:4-8. The word rephaim was also used for the shades in Sheol, cf. Jb 26:5f. In Joshua's time the Anakim were still the dominant power in the highlands of Hebron and in the coastal districts, Jos 11:21f; 14:12-15; 15:13-15; 21:11.

c. The Horites are possibly the survivors of the Hurrites, mentioned in cuneiform texts, one of the non-semitic races of the Near East. The Horites were still flourishing in Abraham's day, cf. Gn 14:6, but were absorbed by the Edomites, cf. Dt 2:22, when the latter established themselves in the highlands of Seir, east of the Arabah. The name Seir is used also for the ancestor of the race, and Gn 36:20-30 gives a list of clans descended from Seir the Horite. A wife and a daughter-in-law of Esau are Horites, Gn 36:1f, 12, cf. 22, and in vv. 40f are named as Edomite clan chiefs, indicating the fusion of the two races.

The last instructions of Moses

Jos 1:13 'Then I gave you this command: Yahweh your God has given you this land for your own. All you fighting men must take up arms and march at the head of your brothers, the sons of Israel. •Only your wives, your children and your flocks (you have many flocks, I know) shall stay behind in the towns I have given you, •until such time as Yahweh settles your brothers as he has settled you, and they too occupy the land that Yahweh your God is giving them beyond the Jordan; then you shall return, each to the domain I have given you. •I then gave Joshua this order: You can see with your own eyes all that Yahweh has done to these two kings; Yahweh will do the same to all the kingdoms through which you pass. •Do not be afraid of them: Yahweh your God himself is fighting for you. •And I pleaded then with Yahweh. •My Lord Yahweh, I said, you that have begun to reveal your greatness and your power to your servant, you whose works and mighty deeds no one in heaven or on earth can rival, •may I not go across and see this prosperous land beyond the Jordan, this prosperous country of hills, and Lebanon? •But because of you, Yahweh was angry with me and would take no notice of me. "Enough!" he said "Speak to me no more of this. •Climb to the top of Pisgah; let your eyes turn towards the west, the north, the south, the east. Look well, for across this Jordan you shall not go. •Give Joshua your instructions; encourage him, strengthen him; for it is he who shall go across at the head of his people; it is he who shall put them in possession of the land that you will see."

Jos 1:6

Nb25:1-18 'So we stayed in the valley close to Beth-peor.

The apostasy at Peor. Where true wisdom lies

4 'And now, Israel, take notice of the laws and customs that I teach you today, and observe them, that you may have life and may enter and take possession of the land that Yahweh the God of your fathers is giving you. •You must add nothing to what I command you, and take nothing from it, but keep the commandments of Yahweh your God just as I lay them down for you. •You can see with your own eyes what Yahweh has done at Baal-peor; all the followers of the Baal of Peor have been wiped out from among you by Yahweh your God; but all of you who stayed faithful to Yahweh your God are still alive today. See, as Yahweh my God has commanded me, I teach you the laws and customs that you are to observe in the land you are to enter and make your own. •Keep them, observe them, and they will demonstrate to the peoples your wisdom and understanding. When they come to know of all these laws they will exclaim, "No other people is as wise and prudent as this great nation". •And indeed, what great nation is there that has its gods so near as Yahweh our God is to us whenever we call to him?^a •And what great nation is there that has laws and customs to match this whole Law that I put before you today?

The revelation at Horeb; its demands

'But take care what you do and be on your guard. Do not forget the things your eyes have seen, nor let them slip from your heart all the days of your life; rather, tell them to your children and to your children's children. •The day you stood at Horeb in the presence of Yahweh your God, Yahweh said to me, "Call the people round me that I may let them hear my words, that they may learn to fear me all the days they live on earth, and teach this to their children". •So you came and stood at the foot of the mountain, and the mountain flamed to the very 12 sky, a sky darkened by cloud, murky and thunderous.^b •Then Yahweh spoke to you from the midst of the fire; you heard the sound of words but saw no shape, 13 there was only a voice. •And Yahweh revealed his covenant to you and commanded you to observe it, the Ten Sayings which he inscribed on two tablets of 14 stone. •He ordered me then to teach you the laws and customs that you were to observe in the land towards which you are going to make it your own.^c 15 'Take great care what you do, therefore: since you saw no shape on that day 16 at Horeb when Yahweh spoke to you from the midst of the fire, •see that you do not act perversely, making yourselves a carved image in the shape of anything 17 at all: whether it be in the likeness of man or of woman, •or of any beast on the 18 earth, or of any bird that flies in the heavens, •or of any reptile that crawls on 19 the ground, or of any fish in the waters under the earth. •When you raise your eyes to heaven, when you see the sun, the moon, the stars, all the array of heaven, do not be tempted to worship them and serve them. Yahweh your God has allotted 20 them to all the peoples under heaven, •but as for you, Yahweh has taken you, and brought you out from the furnace of iron, from Egypt, to be a people all his own, as you still are today.

Of punishment to come, and of conversion

21 'Yahweh has been angry with me on your account; he has sworn that I shall not cross the Jordan or enter the prosperous land which Yahweh your God is 22 giving you as your heritage. •Yes, I am to die in this country; I shall not go across this Jordan; you will go over and take possession of that rich land. •Take 23 care therefore not to forget the covenant which Yahweh your God has made with you, by making a carved image of anything that Yahweh your God has forbidden 24 you; •for Yahweh your God is a consuming fire, a jealous God.^d 25 'When you have begotten children and grandchildren and you have lived long in the land, if you act perversely, making a carved image in one shape or another, 26 doing what displeases Yahweh and angers him, •on that day I will call heaven and earth to witness against you; and at once you will vanish from the land which you are crossing the Jordan to possess. You shall not live there long; you 27 shall be utterly destroyed. •Yahweh will scatter you among the peoples, and only a small number of you will remain^e among the nations where Yahweh will have 28 driven you. •There you will pay service to gods that human hands have made, of wood and of stone, that cannot see or hear, eat or smell.
 29 'But you will seek Yahweh your God from there, and if you seek him with all 30 your heart and with all your soul, you shall find him. •In your distress, all that I have said will overtake you,^f but at the end of days^g you will return to Yahweh 31 your God and listen to his voice. •For Yahweh your God is a merciful God and will not desert or destroy you or forget the covenant he made on oath with your fathers.

The splendour of the divine election

32 'Put this question, then, to the ages that are past, that went before you, from the time God created man on earth: Was there ever a word so majestic, from one 33 end of heaven to the other? Was anything ever heard? •Did ever a people hear the 4 a. Whereas the other Pentateuchal traditions emphasise the distance between God and man, cf. Ex 33:20+, Dt calls attention to God's loving intimacy with his people in whose midst he dwells, 12:5. This same outlook is found in the narrative of the dedication of the Temple, 1 K 8:10-29, and the idea recurs in Ezk 48:35. The N.T. gives it supreme expression, cf. Jn 1:14+.

B. THE SECOND DISCOURSE OF MOSESⁱ

Its time and place

19:7-13 Then Moses set apart three cities to the east, beyond the Jordan, •where a man 41
Ex21:13 + might find refuge who had killed his fellow unwittingly and with no previous feud 42
Nb35:6,13 against him: by taking flight to one of these cities he could save his life. •These 43
Jos 20:8 were, for the Reubenites, Bezer in the wilderness on the tableland; for the Gadites, Ramoth in Gilead; for the Manassites, Golan in Bashan.

This is the Law which Moses put before the sons of Israel. •These are the 44 decrees and laws and customs that Moses proclaimed to the sons of Israel when 45 they came out of Egypt, •beyond the Jordan in the valley near Beth-peor, in the 46 land of Sihon the Amorite king who lived at Heshbon. Moses and the sons of 47 Israel had defeated him when they came out of Egypt, •and had taken possession 48 of his land and of the land of Og king of Bashan—two kings of the Amorites 49 to the east beyond the Jordan, •from Aroer on the height above the wadi Arnon as far as Mount Sirion (which is Hermon)—•and of all the Arabah east of the Jordan as far as the Sea of the Arabah, at the foot of the slopes of Pisgah.

Moses called the whole of Israel together and said to them:

God's election and his favour

- 7 'If Yahweh set his heart on you and chose you, it was not because you out-and to keep the oath he swore to your fathers that Yahweh brought you out with his mighty hand and redeemed you from the house of slavery, from the power that I lay down for you today.

- 12 'Listen to these ordinances, be true to them and observe them, and in return
Yahweh your God will be true to the covenant and the kindness he promised 13 your fathers solemnly. •He will love you and bless you and increase your numbers;
he will bless the fruit of your body and the produce of your soil, your corn, your wine, your oil, the issue of your cattle, the young of your flock, in the land he 14 swore to your fathers he would give you. •You will be more blessed than all peoples. No man or woman among you shall be barren, no male or female of 15 your beasts infertile. •Yahweh will keep all sickness far from you; he will not afflict you with those evil plagues of Egypt which you have known, but will save them for all those who hate you.

show them no pity, do not serve their gods, for otherwise you would be ensnared.

6 a. The 'laws and customs' properly so called are not enumerated until after the discourse, 12:1f.

b. Another translation sometimes adopted 'Listen, Israel: Yahweh is our God, Yahweh alone', but it is more likely that we have here a declaration of monotheistic faith. This verse was later to be used as the opening words of the Shema, a prayer still central to Jewish piety.

c. This love, echo of God's love for his people, 4:37; 7:8; 10:15, embraces the fear of God, the duty of service and the observance of precepts, 6:13; 10:12-13; 11:1; cf. 30:2. Outside Dt there is no explicit command to love God but its equivalent is found in 2 K 23:25 and Ho 6:6. Though the command does not appear, the Psalms and the prophetic books, especially Hosea and Jeremiah, are full of the love of God. Jesus, quoting Dt 6:5, lays it down as the greatest commandment of all, Mt 22:37f: with it goes fear, the fear of a son, not of a slave, 1 Jn 4:18.

7 a. Such a conventional list of six or seven pre-Israelite Palestinian peoples recurs, with slight variations, in 20:17 and in Gn 15:20; Ex 3:8,17; 13:5; 23:23; 33:2; 34:11; Jos 3:10; 9:1; 11:3; 12:8; 24:11; Jg 3:5; 1 K 9:20; Ezr 9:1; Ne 9:8; 2 Ch 8:7. The Canaanites represent the original semitic population of Palestine. The Amorites are later semitic arrivals (end of 3rd millennium). The 'Yahwistic' tradition prefers the former name, the 'Elohistic' normally uses the latter; Jos 11:3 makes a geographical distinction between them, cf. Jos

9:10. The Hittites are a people of Asia Minor; the term is here used in a vague sense: it indicates a non-semitic people resident in Palestine, Gn 23. The Gergashites, Perizzites and Hivites are of least importance. The Jebusites are the ancient inhabitants of Jerusalem, 2 S 5:9+.

b. Declaring Israel's election, as in 14:2. To 'find himself a nation' God made use of wonders, 4:34, cf. 4:20; 26:7-8. Vv. 7-8 of this chapter explain the reason for God's choice, namely, loyalty to the promises which, of his own loving will, he had made to the Fathers, cf. 4:37; 8:18; 9:5; 10:15. This choice, ratified by the covenant (v. 9; 5:2-3), makes Israel a dedicated people (v. 6; 26:19). The idea of election, strongly emphasised in Dt, pervades the O.T. Israel is a nation set apart, Nb 23:9, God's people, Jg 5:13, consecrated, Ex 19:6+, a covenanted race, Ex 19:1+, God's son, Dt 1:31+, the nation of Immanuel, ('God-with-us'), Is 8:10. The election marks Israel off from the world but the prophets foretell the recognition of Israel's God by all nations and the universality of salvation Zc 14:16; Is 49:6; 45:14+. The coming of Jesus inaugurates this 'messianic' era.

c. Alternative translation 'allowing no substitute he destroys' (cf. Jr 32:18). The v. emphasises individual responsibility, cf. Dt 24:16, an advance on Ex 34:7; Ezekiel has still to come.

Israel's conduct at Horeb; Moses intercedes

- 7 'Remember; never forget how you provoked Yahweh your God in the wilderness. From the day you came out of the land of Egypt you have been rebels against Yahweh. •At Horeb you provoked Yahweh, and Yahweh was so angry with you that he was ready to destroy you. •I had gone up the mountain to receive the tablets of stone, the tablets of the covenant that Yahweh was making with you. I stayed forty days and forty nights on the mountain, eating no bread, drinking no water. •Yahweh gave me the two stone tablets inscribed by the finger of God, and all the words on them that Yahweh had spoken to you on the mountain from the midst of the fire on the day of the Assembly. •At the end of the forty days and forty nights, after he had given me the two tablets of stone, the tablets of the covenant, •Yahweh said to me, "Leave this place, go down quickly, for your people whom you brought out of Egypt have broken faith. They have been quick to leave the way I marked out for them; they have made themselves an idol of cast metal." •Then Yahweh said to me, "I have seen this people, and what a headstrong people they are! •Let me destroy them, and wipe out their name from under heaven, and make out of you a nation mightier and greater than they."
- 15 'So I went down the mountain again and it was blazing with fire, and in my hands were the two tablets of the covenant. •And I looked and there you were, you had been sinning against Yahweh your God. You had made yourself a calf of cast metal; you had been quick to leave the way Yahweh marked out for you. •I seized the two tablets and with my two hands threw them down and broke them before your eyes. •Then I fell prostrate before Yahweh; as before, I passed forty days and forty nights eating no bread and drinking no water, for all the sin you had committed in doing what was displeasing to Yahweh, thus arousing his anger. •For I was afraid of this anger, of the fury which so roused Yahweh against you that he was ready to destroy you. And once more Yahweh heard my prayer. •Yahweh was enraged with Aaron too and was ready to destroy him, and I pleaded for Aaron also.^a •That work of sin, the calf you had made, I took and burned and broke to pieces, and grinding it to fine dust I threw its dust into the stream that comes down from the mountain.

d. According to Dt 9:3 the conquest was to be swift and the existing populace was to be exterminated. The idealised conspectus of Jos 10-11 however (cf. Jos 10:1+) must be measured against the more realistic account of the Book of Judges, cf. Jg 1:1+. The conquest was, in fact, long-drawn-out and the indigenous peoples were allowed to remain; for an explanation cf. Jg 2:6+.

8 a. Yahweh makes all things by his word and so gives life to Israel by means of the commandments (miswah) that issue (mosa) from his mouth. On this text, cited in Mt 4:4p, see Am 8:11; Ne 9:29; Pr 9:1-5; Ws 16:26; Si 24:19-21; Jn 6:30-36, 68+.

9 a. It is possible that this v. and vv. 22-24 are additions.

Israel sins again. A prayer of Moses

At Taberah too and at Massah and Kibroth-hattaavah you provoked Yahweh. 22
And when Yahweh wanted you to leave Kadesh-barnea, saying, "Go up and take 23 possession of the land I have given you", you rebelled against the command of Yahweh your God and did not believe him or listen to his voice. •You have been 24 rebels against Yahweh from the day he first knew you.^b

•So I fell prostrate before Yahweh and lay there these forty days and forty 25 nights, for Yahweh had said he would destroy you. •And I pleaded with Yahweh. 26
My Lord Yahweh, I said, do not destroy your people, your heritage whom in your greatness you have redeemed, whom you have brought out of Egypt with your mighty hand. •Remember your servants, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; take 27 no notice of this people's stubbornness, their wickedness, and their sin, •so that 28 it may not be said in the land from which you brought us, "Yahweh was not able to bring them to the land he promised them. It was because he hated them that he brought them out, to die in the wilderness." •But they are your people and your heritage whom you brought out by your great power and your outstretched arm.

The ark of the covenant; the choice of Levi

10 Yahweh then said to me, "Cut two stone tablets like the first, and come 1 up to me on the mountain. Make an ark of wood; •on the tablets I shall 2 inscribe the words that were on the first tablets, which you broke, and you will put them in the ark." •So I made an ark of acacia wood, cut two stone tablets 3 like the first and went up the mountain with the two tablets in my hand. •And 4 he inscribed the tablets as he had inscribed them before with the Ten Sayings that Yahweh had spoken to you on the mountain from the middle of the fire on the day of the Assembly. Then Yahweh gave them to me. •I came down the 5 mountain again and put the tablets in the ark I had made, and there they stayed as Yahweh had commanded me.

^a The sons of Israel left the wells of the Bene-jaakan for Moserah, where 6 Aaron died; he was buried there, and his son Eleazar succeeded him in the priesthood. •From there they set out for Gudgodah, and from Gudgodah for 7 Jotbathah, a land of water-streams. •Yahweh then set apart the tribe of Levi 8 to carry the ark of Yahweh's covenant, to stand in the presence of Yahweh, to do him service and in his name to pronounce blessing as they still do today.
Levi therefore has no share or inheritance with his brothers: Yahweh is his 9 inheritance, as Yahweh your God told him.

•And I, as before, stayed on the mountain forty days and forty nights. And 10 again Yahweh heard my prayer and agreed not to destroy you. •And Yahweh 11 said to me, "Now go on your way at the head of this people, that they may go and take possession of the land I swore to their fathers I would give them".

Circumcision of the heart

•And now, Israel, what does Yahweh your God ask of you? Only this: to fear 12 Yahweh your God, to follow all his ways, to love him, to serve Yahweh your God with all your heart and all your soul, •to keep the commandments and laws of 13
Yahweh that for your good I lay down for you today.

•To Yahweh your God belong indeed heaven and the heaven of heavens,^b the 14 earth and all it contains; •yet it was on your fathers that Yahweh set his heart 15 for love of them, and after them of all the nations chose their descendants, you yourselves, up to the present day. •Circumcise your heart then and be obstinate 16 no longer;^c •for Yahweh your God is God of gods and Lord of lords, the great 17 God, triumphant and terrible, never partial, never to be bribed. •It is he who 18 sees justice done for the orphan and the widow, who loves the stranger and gives him food and clothing. •Love the stranger then, for you were strangers in the 19 land of Egypt. •It is Yahweh your God you must fear and serve; you must cling 20

- 21 to him; in his name take your oaths. •He it is you must praise, he is your God: for you he has done these great and terrible things you have seen with your own eyes;
 22 and though your fathers numbered only seventy when they went down to Egypt, Yahweh your God has made you as many as the stars of heaven.

Israel's lessons

- 11 'You must love Yahweh your God and always keep his injunctions, his laws, his customs, his commandments. •Mark, this day, how it was you who received the instruction, not your sons. They have not known or seen the lessons of Yahweh your God, his greatness, the might of his hand, the strength of his arm, •the signs and the deeds he performed in Egypt itself against Pharaoh and all his land; •what he did to the armies of Egypt, to their horses and their chariots, how he poured the waters of the Sea of Reeds over them as they pursued you, leaving no trace of them to this day; •what he did for you in the wilderness before you reached this place; •what he did to Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab the Reubenite, how, right in the midst of all Israel, the earth opened its mouth and swallowed them with their households, their tents and all their retinue.

 10 'For the land which you are to enter and make your own is not like the land of Egypt from which you came, where you sowed your seed and watered it by tread^a like a vegetable garden. •No, the land into which you are to cross to make it your own is a land of hills and valleys watered by the rain from heaven. Yahweh your God takes care of this land, the eyes of Yahweh your God are on it always, from the year's beginning to its end. •And it is most sure that if you faithfully obey the commandments I enjoin on you today, loving Yahweh your God and serving him with all your heart and all your soul, •"I^b will give your land rain in season, autumn rain and spring, so that you may harvest your corn, your wine, your oil; •I shall provide grass in the fields for your cattle, and you will eat and have all you want". •Take care your heart is not seduced, that you do not go astray, serving other gods and worshipping them, •or the anger of Yahweh will blaze out against you, he will shut up the heavens and there will be no rain, the land will not yield its produce and you will quickly die in the prosperous land that Yahweh is giving you.

b. 'he knew you' Greek and Sam.

10 a. Vv. 6-9 interrupt the account (resumed in v. 10) of the events at Sinai. It is probable that they are a later addition. They seek to dissociate the levitical priesthood from Aaron's sin by explaining that the powers of the priesthood derived from Moses' institution of the ark of the covenant and were conferred in the days of Eleazar, many years after the departure from Horeb.

b. In Hebr. the genitive is used to express the superlative. The 'heaven of heavens' means the highest heavens.

c. Circumcision signified membership in God's people, Gn 17:10+. But this membership brought spiritual obligations with it: 'circumcision of the heart', Jr 4:4+.

11 a. Probably alluding to a waterwheel operated by the foot.

b. Here it is God speaking; the transition is abrupt.

'For if you faithfully keep and observe all these commandments that I enjoin on you today, loving Yahweh your God, following all his ways and clinging to him, •Yahweh will dispossess all these nations for you, and you shall dispossess nations greater and more powerful than yourselves. •Wherever the sole of your foot treads shall be yours; your territory shall stretch from the wilderness and from Lebanon, from the river, the river Euphrates, to the Western Sea. •No man will be able to stand against you; Yahweh your God will make you feared and dreaded throughout the land that you tread, just as he promised you.

'See, I set before you today a blessing and a curse: •a blessing, if you obey the commandments of Yahweh our God that I enjoin on you today; •a curse, if you disobey the commandments of Yahweh your God and leave the way I have marked out for you today, by going after other gods you have not known. •And when Yahweh your God has brought you into the land which you are to enter and make your own, you shall set the blessing on Mount Gerizim and the curse on Mount Ebal. •These mountains, as you know, are beyond the Jordan on the westward road, in the land of the Canaanites who live in the Plain, opposite Gilgal,^c near the Oak of Moreh. •You shall indeed cross the Jordan to enter and make the land your own that Yahweh your God is giving you. You shall possess it and you shall live in it, •and you must keep and observe all the laws and customs that I set before you today.

II. THE DEUTERONOMIC CODE^a

12 'Now these are the laws and customs that you must keep and observe, in the land that Yahweh the God of your fathers has granted you to possess, for as long as you live in that land.

A. RELIGIOUS OBSERVANCES

The place of worship^b

'You must destroy completely all the places where the nations you dispossess have served their gods, on high mountains, on hills, under any spreading tree; you must tear down their altars, smash their pillars, cut down their sacred poles, set fire to the carved images of their gods and wipe out their name from that place.

'Not so are you to behave towards Yahweh your God. •You must seek Yahweh your God only in the place he himself will choose from among all your tribes, to set his name there and give it a home. •There you shall bring your holocausts and your sacrifices, your tithes, the offerings from your hands, your votive offerings and your voluntary offerings, the first-born of your herd and flock; there you will eat in the presence of Yahweh your God and be thankful for all that your hands have presented, you and your households blessed by Yahweh your God.^c

'You must not act as we do here today: every man does what seems right to him, •for as yet you have not come to the resting place and the inheritance that Yahweh your God is giving you. •You are about to cross the Jordan and live in the land that Yahweh your God grants you to inherit; he will give you relief from all the enemies that surround you, and you shall live in security. •To the place chosen by Yahweh your God as a home for his name, to that place you are to bring all that I command you: your holocausts and your sacrifice, your tithes, the offerings from your hands, and all the best of your possessions that you vow to Yahweh. •There you shall rejoice in the presence of Yahweh your God, you and your sons and daughters, your serving men and women, and the Levite who lives in your towns, since he has no share or inheritance with you.

Regulations concerning sacrifice^d

- 13 'Take care you do not offer your holocausts in all the sacred places you see;
 14 only in the place that Yahweh chooses in one of your tribes may you offer your holocausts and do all I command you.
- 15 'Still, whenever you want you may slaughter and eat flesh in any of your towns, as much as the blessing of Yahweh affords you. Clean or unclean may 16 eat it, just as if it were gazelle or deer.' •Only you must not consume the blood but pour it out like water on the ground.
- 17 'In your towns you may not consume the tithes of your corn, your wine or your oil, or the first-born of your herd or flock, or any of your votive offerings
 18 or voluntary offerings, or anything your hands have presented. •You must eat these in the presence of Yahweh your God in the place Yahweh your God chooses and there alone, you and your son and daughter, your serving man or woman and the Levite who lives in your towns. You shall rejoice in the presence 19 of Yahweh your God over all that your hands have presented. •In your land take care never to neglect the Levite.
- 20 'When Yahweh your God enlarges your territory as he has promised you, and you say, "I should like to eat meat", if you want to eat meat you may eat as much 21 as you like. •If the place in which Yahweh your God chooses to set his name is too far away, you may slaughter any of your herd or flock that Yahweh has given you in the way that I have laid down for you; you may eat in your towns
 22 as much as you will. •But you must eat it as you would gazelle or deer; clean or unclean alike may eat it. •Only take care not to consume the blood, for the 23 blood is the life, and you must not consume the life with the flesh. •You must not consume it but pour it out like water on the ground. •You must not consume
 24 eyes of Yahweh. •But the holy things you have and those you have vowed you must go and take to the place that Yahweh chooses. •The holocaust of flesh and blood you must offer on the altar of Yahweh your God; and, in your sacrifices, the blood must be poured out on the altar of Yahweh your God; the flesh you
 25 may eat yourselves. •Be faithful in keeping all the instructions that I give you and obey them, so that you and your sons after you may be happy for always, doing what is good and right in the eyes of Yahweh your God.

Against Canaanite cults

- 29 'When Yahweh your God has annihilated in front of you the nations that you are to dispossess, and when you have dispossessed them and made your home 30 in their country, •be careful you are not caught in a trap: do not imitate them once they have been destroyed in front of you, or go enquiring after their gods, saying, "How did these nations worship their gods? I will go and do the same."
 31 This is not the way for you to behave towards Yahweh your God. For Yahweh detests all this and hates what they have done for their gods, even burning their sons and daughters in the fire for their gods.

c. Not the Gilgal of Jos 4:19 (see note), and probably not the same as in 2 K 2:1, but somewhere in the neighbourhood of Shechem.

12 a. On this code see Introduction to the Pentateuch. Moses' second discourse is concluded in 26:16-28:69.

b. The aim of this law, like that of the prophets, is to preserve the Yahwistic ritual from Canaanite contamination, by destroying the 'high places' where Canaanite rites were practised and by decreeing a single place of worship (ultimately Jerusalem). This centralisation did not obtain in the time of the Judges, Jg 6:28; 13:16, or even in the days of Solomon, 1 K 3:4, but is an essential feature of the deuteronomic legislation.

It was to be one of the principal objectives in Josiah's programme of reform, 2 K 23.

c. The Deuteronomic Code frequently emphasises the joy of the ritual meal and of the liturgical feasts.

d. As a consequence of the legislation for a single sanctuary, a distinction is drawn between the slaughter and the sacrificial killing of animals; the first may be performed anywhere, the second only in the chosen sanctuary. Lv 17:3f makes no such distinction. Cf. also 1 S 14:32f.

e. This flesh was not forbidden.

Against the enticements of idolatry

Jr23:9-14 'If a prophet or a dreamer of dreams arises among you and offers to do a sign² or a wonder for you, •and the sign or wonder comes about; and if he then says³ to you, "Come, then, let us follow other gods (whom you have not known) and⁴ serve them", •you are not to listen to the words of that prophet or to the dreams⁵ of that dreamer. Yahweh your God is testing you to know if you love Yahweh⁶ your God with all your heart and all your soul. •Yahweh your God you shall⁷ follow, him you shall fear, his commandments you shall keep, his voice you shall⁸ obey, him shall you serve, to him shall you cling. •That prophet or that dreamer⁹ of dreams must be put to death, for he has preached apostasy from Yahweh¹⁰ your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt and redeemed you from¹¹ the house of slavery, and he would have made you turn aside from the way¹² that Yahweh your God marked out for you. You must banish this evil from¹³ among you.

'If your brother, the son of your father^a or of your mother, or your son or⁷ daughter, or the wife you cherish, or the friend with whom you share your life,⁸ if one of these secretly tries to entice you, saying, "Come, let us serve other gods",⁹ whom neither you nor your fathers have known, •gods from among those of the¹⁰ peoples far or near surrounding you, from one end of the earth to the other,¹¹ you must not give way to him, nor listen to him, you must show him no pity, you¹² must not spare him, you must not conceal his guilt. •No, you must kill him; your¹³ hand is to be the first raised against him in putting him to death, the hand of¹⁴ all the people will come next. •You must stone him to death, for he has tried¹⁵ to lure you away from Yahweh your God who brought you out of the land of¹⁶ Egypt, from the house of slavery. •All Israel shall hear of it and be afraid and¹⁷ never again commit such wickedness among you.

Jdt 16:19 'If you hear that in one of the towns which Yahweh your God has given you¹³ for a home, •there are men, scoundrels^b from your own stock, who have led¹⁴ fellow citizens astray, saying "Come, let us serve other gods" whom you have¹⁵ not known, •it is your duty to look into the matter, examine it, and inquire¹⁶ most carefully. If it is proved and confirmed that such a hateful thing has taken¹⁷ place among you, •then you must kill all the inhabitants of that town without¹⁸ giving any quarter; you must lay it under ban, the town and all it contains.¹⁹
You must gather all the wealth of it in the public square, and set fire to the town²⁰ and all its goods, offering it all to Yahweh your God. It shall be a ruin for all²¹ time, never to be built again. •From what is thus banned you must keep nothing²² back, so that Yahweh may turn from the ferocity of his anger and show you²³ mercy, and have pity on you and increase your numbers as he swore to your²⁴ fathers; •that is, provided you listen to the voice of Yahweh your God, keeping²⁵ all the commandments of his that I enjoin on you today, and doing what is right²⁶ in the eyes of Yahweh your God.

Against an idolatrous practice

14 'You are sons of Yahweh your God. You must not gash yourselves or¹ shave your foreheads for one who is dead.^a •For you are a people conse-² crated to Yahweh your God, and Yahweh has chosen you to be his very own³ people out of all the peoples on the earth.

Clean and unclean animals

Ezk 4:14 'You must eat nothing that is detestable. •These are the animals you may⁴ eat: ox, sheep, goat, •deer, gazelle, roebuck, ibex, antelope, oryx, mountain⁵ sheep. •You may eat any animal that has a divided and cloven hoof and that⁶ is a ruminant. •Of those, however, that are ruminant and those that have a divided⁷ and cloven hoof you may not eat the following: the camel, the hare and the⁸ hyrax, which are ruminant but have no cloven hoof; you must hold them unclean.⁹
So also the pig, which though it has a cloven hoof is not ruminant; you must¹⁰ hold it unclean. You must not eat the meat of such animals nor touch their dead bodies.

9 'Of all that lives in water you may eat the following: whatever has fins and 10 scales may be eaten. •But you must not eat anything that has not fins and scales:
you must hold it unclean.

11 'You may eat all clean birds, •but the following birds you must not eat: the 12 tawny vulture, the griffon, the osprey, •the kite and the several kinds of buzzard,^b
13 all kinds of raven, •the ostrich, the screech owl, the seagull, the several kinds 14 of hawk, •owl, barn owl, ibis, •pelican, white vulture, cormorant, •stork, the 15 several kinds of heron, hoopoe and bat. •You are to hold all winged insects to be 16 unclean and must not eat them. •You may eat anything winged that is clean.

21 'You must not eat any animal that has died a natural death. You may give it for food to the alien who lives in your towns, or sell it to a foreigner.

13 a. 'son of your father' with Sam. and Greek.

b. Lit. 'sons of Belial'. Probable meaning 'worthless', hence 'scoundrels'. In time, 'Belial' came to be taken as a proper name connected with the power of evil, cf. Ps 18:4+ ('Belial' in N.T., 2 Co 6:15, and the apocryphal writings).

c. Following the shorter, Greek, text.

14 a. Commonly interpreted as a prohibition of the cult of the dead. The prophets, however, do not appear to doubt the lawfulness of these practices as a ritual of domestic mourning. Am 8:10; Is 22:12; Jr 41:5; Ezk 7:18; it may be conjectured, therefore, that the 'one who is dead' is the god Baal whose death was commemorated at the beginning of summer, cf. Dt 26:14; 1 K 18:28, when the vegetation withered.

b. The Hebr. adds 'the raah'.

c. Tithe is paid to the owner of the land: it is therefore due to Yahweh who owns the land of Israel. According to Dt the produce of the soil is tithed and the tithe taken to the Temple (14:22-27 and 12:6-7, 17-19). Every third year, vv. 28-29, it becomes the property of the poor. According to Nb 18:21-32 the tithe is paid, as God's due, to the Levites; these make a tenth of it over to the priests. According to Lv 27:32-33 cattle are also tithed. Dt 14:25 and Lv 27:31 envisage payment in money.

You may not sacrifice the passover in any of the towns that Yahweh your God 5 gives you; •but only in the place where Yahweh your God chooses to give his 6 name a home, there you must sacrifice the passover, in the evening at sunset,

- 7 at the hour at which you came out of Egypt. •You must cook it and eat it in the place Yahweh your God chooses, and in the morning you are to return and 8 go to your tents. •For six days you shall eat unleavened bread; on the seventh day there shall be an assembly for Yahweh your God; and you must do no work.

B. ON THE LAW OF RETALIATION

Homicide and cities of refuge

- 1 19 'When Yahweh your God has annihilated the nations whose land Yahweh Ex21:13-

Nb 35:9-34+
Jos20:1-9
- 2 your God gives you, and you have dispossessed them and you live in their
- 3 towns and in their houses, •you are to set aside three cities in the land Yahweh is
- 4 giving you for your possession. •You must keep the approaches to them in good
- 5 order and divide into three parts the area of the land Yahweh your God is giving
- 6 into your possession, so that any homicide may be able to find a refuge in them.
- 7 Here is the case of how a man may save his life by taking refuge there.

'If anyone has struck his fellow accidentally, not having any previous feud with him •(for example, he goes with his fellow into the forest to cut wood; his arm swings the axe to fell a tree; the head slips off the handle and strikes his companion dead), that man may take refuge in one of these cities and save his

6 life. •It must not be allowed that the avenger of blood, in the heat of his anger, should pursue the killer and that the length of the road should help him to overtake and fatally wound him; for the man has not deserved to die, having had no previous feud with his companion.

- 7 'I command you therefore: You are to set aside three cities, •and if Yahweh 4:41-43
- 8 your God enlarges your territory, as he swore to your fathers he would, and gives
- 9 you the whole land he promised to give your fathers—•provided you keep and

b. 'They will hold an inquiry' Sam. and Greek.

c. Not a verbatim quotation, but the thought is expressed in Nb 14:3f; cf. Ex 13:17 and 14:11f.

d. Apparently these vv. allude to Solomon, cf. 1 K 10:26f and ch. 11.

e. Some render 'he will get the priests to write...'

18 a. 'foods offered': in Hebr. ishe, a term of Sumerian origin for the food offered to the god; this is the meaning here and in 1 S 2:28. Lv and the 'Priestly' tradition connect the word with esh, fire; hence 'sacrifice by fire', 'burnt offering', cf. Lv 1:9+.

b. And which must revert to him when the jubilee comes round. The text of the end of the verse is uncertain.

c. Institution of the prophetic (as 17:14-20^b is of the royal) office; it is ascribed by Moses to Yahweh at the time of the manifestation at Horeb, cf. Ex 20:19-21 and Dt 5:23-28. In N.T. St Peter, Ac 3:22-26, and St Stephen, Ac 7:37, refer to this text. The Jewish expectation of a Messiah-Prophet, a second Moses, is based on this passage. St John's gospel emphasises the parallels between Jesus and Moses, cf. Jn 1:17+.

d. Distinction between true and false prophet was an urgent problem (1 K 22; Jr 28). Two criteria are offered: loyalty to the religion of Israel, cf. Dt 13, and fulfilment of the prediction, 18:22. See Introduction to the Prophets.

observe all the commandments I enjoin on you today, loving Yahweh your God and always following his ways—then to those three cities you will add three more. In this way, innocent blood will not be shed in the land Yahweh your God gives 10 for your inheritance; otherwise there would be blood-guilt on you.

19:21 'But if it happens that a man has a feud with his fellow and lies in wait for 11 him and falls on him and wounds him fatally and he dies, and the man takes refuge in one of these cities, •the elders of his own town shall send to have him 12 seized and hand him over to the avenger of blood to die.^a •You are to show him 13 no pity. Witnesses

Lv 5:1 'A single witness cannot suffice to convict a man of a crime or offence of any 15 kind; whatever the misdemeanour, the evidence of two witnesses or three is required to sustain the charge.

War and combatants

Nb31:1-2
Jos 1:9 20 'When you go to war against your enemies and see horses and chariots and 1 an army greater than your own, you must not be afraid of them; Yahweh your God is with you, who brought you out of the land of Egypt. •When you 2 are about to join battle the priest is to come forward and address the people. He is to say to them, "Listen, Israel; now that you are about to join battle against 3 your enemies, do not be faint-hearted. Let there be no fear or trembling or alarm as you face them. •Yahweh your God goes with you to fight for you against your 4 enemies and to save you."

Ex33:14;
34:9-10 Then the scribes are to address the people in words like these: 5

1M3:56
28:30 "Is there any man here who has built a new house and not yet dedicated it? 5 Let him go home lest he die in battle and another perform the dedication.

"Is there any man here who has planted a vineyard and not yet enjoyed its 6 fruit? Let him go home lest he die in battle and another enjoy its fruit.

25:4 Is there any man here who has betrothed a wife and not yet taken her? Let 7 him go home lest he die in battle and another take her."

'The scribes shall also address the people like this: 8

Jg 7:3 "Is there any man here who is fearful and faint of heart? Let him go home 9 lest he make his fellows lose heart too."

'And when the scribes have finished speaking to the people, commanders will 9 be appointed to lead them.

7:1-5 Captured towns

'When you advance to the attack on any town, first offer it terms of peace. 10 If it accepts these and opens its gates to you, all the people to be found in it shall 11 do forced labour for you and be subject to you. •But if it refuses peace and offers 12

- 13 resistance, you must lay siege to it. •Yahweh your God shall deliver it into your 14 power and you are to put all its menfolk to the sword. •But the women, the children, the livestock and all that the town contains, all its spoil, you may take for yourselves as booty. You will devour the spoil of your enemies which Yahweh your God has delivered to you. 1 K 9:21
Ws 12:6
- 15 'That is how you will treat the far-distant towns not belonging to the nations 16 near you. •But as regards the towns of those peoples which Yahweh your God 1 K 9:21 gives you as your own inheritance, you must not spare the life of any living thing.
 17 Instead, you must lay them under ban, the Hittites, Amorites, Canaanites, 18 Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites, as Yahweh your God commanded, •so that they may not teach you to practise all the detestable practices they have in honour of their gods and so cause you to sin against Yahweh your God.
- 19 'If, when attacking a town, you have to besiege it for a long time before you capture it, you must not destroy its trees by taking an axe to them: eat their fruit but do not cut them down. Is the tree in the fields human that you should 20 besiege it too? •Any trees, however, which you know are not fruit trees, you may mutilate and cut down and use to build siege-works against the hostile town until it falls.

The unidentified murderer

- 1 21 'In the land Yahweh is giving you as your possession, if a murdered man Nb 19:18 is discovered lying in open country and it is not known who killed him, 2 your elders and scribes^a must go and measure the distance between the victim and 3 the surrounding towns, •and establish which town is nearest the victim. Then the elders of that town are to take a heifer that has not yet been put to work or 4 used as a draught animal under the yoke. •And the elders of that town must bring the heifer down to a watercourse that is never dry at a spot that has been neither ploughed nor sown, and there by the watercourse they must break the 5 heifer's neck. •And the priests, the sons of Levi, shall then come forward, for these are the men Yahweh your God has chosen to do him service and to bless in the name of Yahweh, and it is their business to settle all cases of dispute or of 6 violence. •All the elders of the town nearest the murdered man shall then wash
 7 their hands in the watercourse, over the slaughtered heifer. •They are to pronounce these words, "Our hands did not shed this blood and our eyes saw 8 nothing. •Cover^b your people Israel whom you have redeemed, Yahweh, and let no innocent blood be shed among your people Israel." So they will be covered

Women taken in war

1 S 1:2,8 and the unloved both bear him children, and if the first-born son is of the unloved wife, •then when the man comes to bequeath his goods to his sons, he may not 16
treat the son of the wife whom he loves as the first-born at the expense of the son of the wife he does not love, the true first-born. •He must acknowledge as 17
Gn25:31 first-born the son of the wife he does not love and give to him a double share of his estate, for this son is the first-fruit of his strength, and the right of the first-born is his.

The rebellious son

Pr 19:18; 'If a man has a stubborn and rebellious son who will not listen to the voice 18

this woman and when I slept with her I did not find the evidence of her virginity", 15 the girl's father and mother must take her and produce the evidence of her 16 virginity before the elders of the town at the gate. •The girl's father shall then declare to the elders, "I gave this man my daughter for a wife and he has turned 17 against her, •and now he taxes her with misconduct: I found no evidence of virginity in your daughter, he says. But the evidence of my daughter's virginity 18 is here." And they shall spread the cloth out before the elders of the town. •Then 19 the elders of the town shall take the man and flog him •and fine him one hundred silver shekels for publicly defaming a virgin of Israel, and give this money to the girl's father. She shall remain his wife and as long as he lives he may not repudiate her.

20 'But if the accusation that the girl cannot show the evidence of virginity is if the man has met the betrothed girl in the open country and has taken her by nothing to the girl, for hers is no capital offence. The case is like that of a man 27 who attacks and kills his fellow; •for he came across her in the open country and the betrothed girl could have cried out without anyone coming to her rescue.

Ex 22:15

28 'If a man meets a virgin who is not betrothed and seizes her and lies with

c. Expressing a friendliness not witnessed elsewhere in the Bible: there is no sign of it after the capture of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar, supported by the Edomites, cf. Ob and Ps 137:7.

d. Sacred prostitution was a feature of Canaanite cult, cf. Baal of Peor, Nb 25, and had affected Israel, 1 K 14:24; 22:47; 2 K 23:7; Ho 4:14. 'Dog' is an opprobrious term for a male prostitute.

24 a. Lit. 'you are not to go to sleep in his pledge' because originally the 'pledge' was a mantle, Ex 22:25f.

b. A text of great importance for the doctrine of individual responsibility.

The levirate^a law

‘If brothers live together and one of them dies childless, the dead man’s wife 5 must not marry a stranger outside the family. Her husband’s brother must come to her and, exercising his levirate, make her his wife, •and the first son she bears 6 shall assume the dead brother’s name; and so his name will not be blotted out in Israel. •But if the man declines to take his brother’s wife, she must go to the 7 elders at the gate and say, “I have no levir willing to perpetuate the name of his brother in Israel; he declines to exercise his levirate in my favour”. •The elders 8 of the town shall summon the man and talk to him. If he appears before them, and shall say, “I refuse to take her”, •then she to whom he owes levirate shall 9 go up to him in the presence of the elders, take the sandal off his foot, spit in his face, and pronounce the following words, “This is what we do to the man who does not restore his brother’s house”, •and the man shall be surnamed in 10 Israel, House-of-the-Unshod.^b

Modesty in brawls

‘When two men are fighting together, if the wife of one intervenes to protect 11 her husband from the other’s blows by putting out her hand and seizing the other by the private parts, •you shall cut her hand off and show no pity. 12

Appendices

‘You are not to keep two different weights in your bag, one heavy, one light. 13
You are not to keep two different measures in your house, one large, one small. 14
You must keep one weight, full and accurate, so that you may have a long life 15 in the land that Yahweh your God is giving you. •For anyone who does things 16 of this kind and acts dishonestly is detestable to Yahweh your God.

‘Remember how Amalek treated you when you were on your way out of 17
Egypt. •He met you on your way and, after you had gone by, he fell on you from 18
the rear and cut off the stragglers; when you were faint and weary he had no fear of God. •When Yahweh your God has granted you peace from all the enemies 19 surrounding you in the land Yahweh your God is giving you to possess as an inheritance, you are to blot out the memory of Amalek from under heaven.
Do not forget.

First-fruits^a

26 ‘When you come to the land Yahweh your God is giving you for an inherit- 1 ance, when you have taken possession of it and are living in it, •you must 2 set aside the first-fruits of all the produce of the soil raised by you in the land

Yahweh your God chooses to give his name a home. •You must go to the priest 3 then in office and say to him, “Today I declare to Yahweh my God that I have come to the land Yahweh swore to our fathers he would give us”.

‘The priest shall then take the pannier from your hand and lay it before the 4 altar of Yahweh your God. •Then, in the sight of Yahweh your God, you must 5 make this pronouncement:^b

“My father was a wandering Aramaean. He went down into Egypt to find refuge there, few in numbers; but there he became a nation, great, mighty, and strong. •The Egyptians ill-treated us, they gave us no peace and inflicted harsh 6 slavery on us. •But we called on Yahweh the God of our fathers. Yahweh heard 7 our voice and saw our misery, our toil and our oppression; •and Yahweh brought 8 us out of Egypt with mighty hand and outstretched arm, with great terror, and with signs and wonders. •He brought us here and gave us this land, a land where 9

III. CONCLUDING DISCOURSE

A. END OF THE SECOND DISCOURSE

Israel, the people of Yahweh

- 16 ‘Yahweh your God today commands you to observe these laws and customs; you must keep and observe them with all your heart and with all your soul.
- 17 ‘You have today made this declaration^d about Yahweh: that he will be your God, but only if you follow his ways, keep his statutes, his commandments, his ordinances, and listen to his voice. •And Yahweh has today made this declaration about you: that you will be his very own people as he promised you, but only if you keep all his commandments; •then for praise and renown and honour he will set you high above all the nations he has made, and you will be a people consecrated to Yahweh, as he promised.’

2 S 7:24

The writing of the Law

- 1 27 Moses and the elders of Israel gave the people this command: ‘Keep all the commandments I enjoin on you today.^a •After you have crossed the Jordan into the land Yahweh your God is giving you, you are to set up tall stones and coat them with lime •and write on them all the words of this Law, the moment

Jos 8:32

25 a. From the Latin levir, brother-in-law, translating the Hebrew yabam. A widow who has no son is taken to wife by her brother-in-law; the eldest son of this marriage is reckoned the dead husband's, whose heir he becomes. This law (found also in Assyrian and Hittite legislation) had for its purpose the perpetuation of the family name and the stability of the family property. The story of Tamar, Gn 38, emphasises the first, the story of Ruth the second; in Rt 4 the privileges and duties of the levir are extended to the ‘avenger’, see Nb 35:19+. According to Dt the obligation applies only to brothers living together, and is optional. The custom still obtained in later Judaism despite opposition from certain quarters, cf. Mt 22:23f.

b. This ritual signifies that the man has declined his obligation, cf. Rt 4:8+. From being joint owner with his brother he now becomes sole owner of the house and property but for refusing to marry the widow he must bear this contemptuous epithet.

26 a. The first-born of man and beast is God's, Ex 13:11+; similarly the first-fruits of the soil are consecrated to him, Ex 22:28; 23:19; 34:26; Lv 2:12,14; 23:10-17; Dt 18:4. According to Nb 18:12 they revert to the priests, cf. Ezk 44:30.

b. This profession of faith reminds Israel of the divine choice, of deliverance from Egypt and of the gift of the Promised Land, see 7:6+.

c. The reference is perhaps to idolatrous rites rather than to the cult of the dead, cf. 14:1+.

d. The covenant is represented here as a solemn contract with the Deuteronomic Code for content.

27 a. The verse interrupts the discourse (resumed in v. 2); it may have been written in after the insertion here of an older section (vv. 4-8 and 11-26) naming Ebal as the place of worship, a section which, it seems, was followed by ch. 31. Moses' discourse is resumed in v. 9.

you cross to enter the land Yahweh your God is giving you, a land where milk and honey flow, as Yahweh the God of your fathers promised you.

‘And when you have crossed the Jordan, you are to set up these stones on 4
 Jos8:30-31 Mount Ebal,^b as today I command you, and you are to coat them with lime.
 Jos 8:31 There you must build Yahweh your God an altar of stones that no iron tool has 5

Then Moses and the levitical priests said to all Israel: 9

‘Be silent, Israel, and listen. Today you have become a people for Yahweh 9 your God. •You must listen to the voice of Yahweh your God and observe the 10 commandments and laws I enjoin on you today.’

Jos8:33-35 And the same day Moses gave the people this order: •‘When you have crossed 11

1 These are the words of the covenant which Yahweh ordered Moses to make with the sons of Israel in the land of Moab, in addition to the covenant he had made with them at Horeb.^d

B. THE THIRD AND LAST DISCOURSE

The exodus and the covenant recalled

- 2
29 Moses called the whole of Israel together and said to them: Ex 19:4
- 3 •You have seen all that Yahweh did before your eyes in the land of Egypt, 4:29;
30:1,14
- 4 to Pharaoh, to his servants and to his whole land. •the great ordeals your own eyes witnessed, the signs and those great wonders. •But until today Yahweh has Is 29:10
Jr 5:20
Kml11:8
- 5 given you no heart to understand, no eyes to see, no ears to hear.^a 2:7
- 6 •For forty years I led you in the wilderness; the clothes on your back did not wear out and your sandals did not wear off your feet. •You had no bread to eat, you drank no wine, no strong drink, learning thus that I, Yahweh, am your God. 2:30-35;
3:12-16
- 7 When you reached this place, Sihon king of Heshbon and Og king of Bashan came out against us to do battle, but we defeated them. •We conquered their land and gave it as an inheritance to Reuben, Gad and the half-tribe of Manasseh. 32:28
Jos 1:8
2 K 2:3
- 8 •Keep the words of this covenant and observe them and you will thrive in all Jos 9:21
- 9 you do. •All of you stand here today in the presence of Yahweh your God: your heads of tribes, your elders, your scribes, all the men of Israel, •with your children and your wives (and the stranger too who is in your camp, whether he cuts wood or draws water for you),^b •and you are about to enter into the covenant of Yahweh your God, a covenant ratified with dire sanctions, which he has made with you today, •and by which, today, he makes a nation of you and he himself becomes a God to you, as he has promised and as he has sworn to your fathers Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

The covenant and generations to come

14 •Not with you alone do I make this covenant today and pronounce these sanctions, •but with him also who is not here today, as well as with him who stands with us here in the presence of Yahweh our God. 15

c. The threat of Egyptian plagues and of a second slavery recalls the favours commemorated in the introductory discourse: this balance suggests that the very power that saved may yet destroy.

d. Referring back to the whole of the second discourse (which begins in ch. 5 and includes the Deuteronomic Code). By this general conclusion the law that was received in Moab is related to the Decalogue of Horeb.

29 a. The keynote of the third discourse: God must prepare the 'heart' before man can understand his ways.

b. The lower orders, often of non-Israelite extraction, Jos 9:27.

‘Yes, you know those among whom we lived in Egypt, those through whose lands we journeyed, the nations through whom we have passed. •You have seen their abominations and their idols, the wood, the stone, the silver and gold they have in their countries.

‘Let there be no man or woman among you, no clan or tribe, whose heart turns away from Yahweh your God today to go and serve the gods of those nations. Let there be no root among you bearing fruit that is poisonous and bitter. •If, after hearing these sanctions, such a man should bless himself in his heart and say, “I may follow the dictates of my own heart and still lack nothing; much water drives away thirst”,^c •Yahweh will not pardon him. The wrath and jealousy of Yahweh will blaze against such a man; every curse written in this book will fall on him, and Yahweh will blot out his name from under heaven. Yahweh will single him out from all the tribes of Israel to his destruction, in accordance with all the curses of the covenant written in the Book of this Law.

‘The future generation, your children who are to come after you, as also the stranger from a distant country, will see the plagues of that land and the diseases Yahweh will inflict on it, and will exclaim, •“Sulphur, salt, scorched earth, the whole land through! No one will sow, nothing grow, no grass spring ever again. Like this, Sodom and Gomorrah were overthrown, Admah and Zeboiim, which Yahweh overthrew in his anger and his wrath.” •And all the nations will exclaim, “Why has Yahweh treated this land like this? Why this great blaze of anger?” And people will say, “Because they deserted the covenant of Yahweh, the God of their fathers, the covenant he made with them when he brought them out of the land of Egypt; •because they went and served other gods and worshipped them, gods they had not known, gods that were no part of their heritage from him, •for this the anger of Yahweh has blazed against this land, bringing on it all the curses written in this book. •In anger, in fury, in fierce wrath Yahweh has torn them from their country and flung them into another land where they are today.”

IV. THE LAST DAYS OF MOSES

Joshua and his mission

- 1 31^a Moses proceeded to address these words to the whole of Israel, 'I am 3:1-28
 2 one hundred and twenty years old now, and can no longer come and go
 3 as I will. Yahweh has said to me, "You shall not cross this Jordan". •It is Yahweh 3:1-28 your God who will cross it at your head to destroy these nations facing you 4 and dispossess them; and Joshua too shall cross at your head, as Yahweh has Nb21:24-25
 5 said. •Yahweh will treat them as he treated Sihon and Og the Amorite kings
 6 and their land, destroying them. •Yahweh will hand them over to you, and you
 7 will deal with them in exact accordance with the commandments I have enjoined
 8 on you. •Be strong, stand firm, have no fear of them, no terror, for Yahweh 1:29-30 your God is going with you; he will not fail you or desert you.' Jos 1:9 9 Then Moses summoned Joshua and in the presence of all Israel said to him, 1 K 8:57
 'Be strong, stand firm; you are going with this people into the land Yahweh swore Jos 1:6
 to their fathers he would give them; you are to give it into their possession.
 8 Yahweh himself will lead you; he will be with you; he will not fail you or desert
 you. Have no fear, do not be disheartened by anything.'

The ritual reading of the Law

2 K 23:1f

- 9 Moses committed this Law to writing and gave it to the priests, the sons of Levi, who carried the ark of Yahweh's covenant, and to all the elders of Israel.
 10 And Moses gave them this command: 'At the end of every seven years, at the 11 time fixed for the year of remission, at the feast of Tabernacles, •when the whole

c. Taking the quotation marks from this clause, some translate 'so that moist soil and dry alike would be swept away'—a proverbial expression for total destruction; and the Greek reads 'so that the sinless may not be destroyed together with the sinners'.

30 a. A recurring lesson in the wisdom literature is that wisdom, the fount of joy, is inaccessible; cf. Jb 28 (but contrast Pr 8:1f). Nevertheless, God reveals it through the Law, Si 24:23-34; Ps 119.

b. The theology of the Word of God has its roots in this personification; it ripens in the wisdom books, cf. Pr 8:22+ and Ws 7:22+, and comes to maturity in the prologue of the fourth gospel, cf. Jn 1:1+. St Paul applies this text to 'the word of faith', Rm 10:6-8.

c. 'If you obey the commandments of Yahweh your God' Greek.

31 a. A composite chapter. It is probable that vv. 1-3a, 14a, 15, 23, are a part of the ancient documents used in ch. 27, that vv. 9-13, 24-27 belong to the earlier edition of Dt which included the discourse containing the Code, and lastly that vv. 3b-8, 16-22, 28-30 were added by the editor who combined the two groups. In the second group the Law itself stands as witness against guilty Israel; in the final editorial addition it is the canticle of ch. 32 that thus witnesses.

of Israel comes to look on the face of Yahweh your God in the place he chooses, you must proclaim this Law in the hearing of all Israel. •Call the people together, 12 men, women, children, and the stranger who lives with you, for them to hear it and learn to fear Yahweh your God and keep and observe all the words of this Law. •Their children, who as yet do not know it, shall hear it and learn to fear 13 Yahweh your God for as long as you live in the land that you are crossing the Jordan to possess.'

Yahweh's instructions

Ex25:22+ Yahweh said to Moses, 'And now the time draws near when you must die. 14 Summon Joshua and take your stand at the Tent of Meeting, that I may give him his orders.' And Moses and Joshua came and took their stand at the Tent of Meeting. •And Yahweh showed himself at the Tent in a pillar of cloud; the 15 pillar of cloud stood at the door of the Tent.

Ws 14:12
Ezk 16:15 Yahweh said to Moses, 'And now you will soon be sleeping with your fathers. 16 This people will start playing the harlot, following the alien gods of the land they are invading. They will desert me and break this covenant of mine that I have made with them. •On that day my anger shall blaze against them; I will forsake 17 them and hide my face from them. A host of disasters and misfortunes will 32:20
Is 59:2
Mi 3:4 overtake them to devour them, and when that day comes they will say, "If such disasters overtake me, surely Yahweh my God cannot be with me?" •Yes 18 indeed, I shall hide my face that day for all the evil they have done by turning to other gods.

The song of witness

'Now write down this song which you must use; teach it to the sons of Israel, 19 put it into their mouths that it may be a witness on my behalf against the sons of Israel; •against Israel whom I am bringing into the land I swore to his fathers 20 I would give him, a land where milk and honey flow; against Israel who will eat 32:15 and take his fill and grow fat, then turn to other gods to serve them, and despise me and break my covenant. •When a host of disasters and misfortunes overtake 21 him, this song shall stand as witness against him, for his descendants must not forget it. Yes, even today, before I have brought him to the land I promised on oath, I know what plans he has in mind.' •So on that same day, Moses wrote 22 out this song and taught it to the sons of Israel.

Jos 1:9 He gave Joshua son of Nun this order: 'Be strong and stand firm, for you are 23 to bring the sons of Israel to the land I swore I would give them, and I myself will be with you.'

The Law placed beside the ark^b

When Moses had finished writing in a book the words of this Law to the very 24 end, •he gave this command to the Levites who carried the ark of Yahweh's 25 covenant: •'Take this Book of the Law and put it beside the ark of the covenant 26 of Yahweh your God. Let it lie there as a witness against you. •For I know how 27 defiant you are and how stubborn. If today while I am still alive and with you, you defy Yahweh, how much more will you defy him after my death!

Israel assembles to hear the song

30:19 'Gather round me all the elders of your tribes, and your scribes, so that I may 28 let them hear these words and call heaven and earth to witness against them. For I know that after my death you are sure to act perversely; you will leave the 29 way I have marked out for you; in days to come disaster will fall on you for doing what is displeasing to Yahweh, provoking him by your behaviour.'

Then in the hearing of Israel's full assembly Moses spoke the words of this 30 song to the very end:

A. THE SONG OF MOSES^a

- 1 32 'Listen, heavens, while I speak;
earth, hear the words that I am saying.
- 2 May my teaching fall like the rain,
may my word drop down like the dew,
like showers on fresh grass and light rain on the turf.
- 3 For I proclaim the name of Yahweh.
Oh, tell the greatness of our God!^b
- 4 'He is the Rock, his work is perfect, for all his ways are Equity.
A God faithful, without unfairness, Uprightness itself and Justice.
- 5 They have acted perversely, those he begot without blemish,^c a deceitful and underhand brood.
- 6 Is this the return you make to Yahweh?
O foolish, unwise people!
Is not this your father, who gave you being,^d who made you, by whom you subsist?
- 7 Think back on the days of old,
think over the years, down the ages.
Ask of your father, let him teach you;
of your elders, let them enlighten you.
- 8 When the Most High gave the nations their inheritance, when he divided the sons of men, he fixed their bounds according to the number of the sons of God;^e but Yahweh's portion was his people, Jacob his share of inheritance.
- 10 'In the waste lands he adopts him,
in the howling desert of the wilderness.
He protects him, rears him, guards him
as the pupil of his eye.
- 11 Like an eagle watching its nest,
hovering over its young,
he spreads out his wings to hold him,
he supports him on his pinions.
- 12 'Yahweh alone is his guide,
with him is no alien god.
- 13 He gives him the heights of the land to ride,
he feeds him on the yield of the mountains,
he gives him honey from the rock to taste,
and oil from the flinty crag;
- 14 curds from the cattle, milk from the flock,
with rich food of the pastures,

(You grew fat, gross, bloated.)

He disowned the God who made him,

Youth and maid alike shall perish,

suckling and greybeard both together.

I should crush them to dust, I said,

26

I should wipe out their memory among men,

did I not fear the boasting of the enemy.

27

But let not their foes be mistaken!

Let them not say: Our own power wins the victory,

Yahweh plays no part in this.

What a nation of short sight it is;

28

in them there is no understanding.

Were they wise, they would succeed,

29

they would be able to read their destiny.^j

How else could one man rout a thousand,

30

how could two put ten thousand to flight,

were it not that their Rock has sold them,

that Yahweh has delivered them up?

"But their rock is not like our Rock;

31

- our enemies are no intercessors.^k
- 32 For their stock springs from the vinestock of Sodom and from the groves of Gomorrah:
their grapes are poisonous grapes,
their clusters are envenomed;
33 their wine is the poison of serpents,
the vipers' cruel venom.
34 But he,^l is he not something precious to me,^m sealed inside my treasury?
35 Vengeance is mine, and requital,ⁿ for the time when they make a false step.
For it is close, the day of their ruin;
their doom^o comes at speed.
36 (For Yahweh will see his people righted, he will take pity on his servants.)
For he will see to it that their power fails, that, serf or freeman, there is not one remaining.
37 Where are their gods? he will ask then,
the rock where they thought to take refuge, 38 who ate the fat of their sacrifices and drank the wine of their libations?
Let these arise and help you,
let these be the shelter above you!
39 See now that I, I am He,
and beside me there is no other god.
It is I who deal death and life;
when I have struck it is I who heal
(and none can deliver from my hand).
40 "Yes, I lift up my hand to heaven, and I say: As surely as I live for ever, 41 when I have whetted my flashing sword
I will take up the cause of Right,
I will give my foes as good again,
I will repay those who hate me.
42 I will make my arrows drunk with blood, and my sword shall feed on flesh:
the blood of wounded and captives,
the skulls of the enemy leaders." 43 "Heavens, rejoice with him,
let the sons of God pay him homage!
Nations, rejoice with his people,
let God's envoys tell of his power!
For he will avenge the blood of his servants,
he will give his foes as good again,

Jos 19:10-23

q. Lit. 'perform the rite of expiation over', a phrase common in ritual texts, Ex 25:17+.

r. Here Greek inserts 31:22 and for 'song' reads 'Law'.

s. Continuing 31:27. The 'words' are the words of the Law (v. 46) not of the canticle. V. 48 follows on v. 44.

33 a. These blessings, the text of which has suffered badly in course of transmission, are extremely ancient. The archaic vocabulary and the tribal situation suggest a period after the conquest but earlier than David. Cf. the blessings of Jacob, Gn 49.

b. A verse difficult to interpret and archaic in vocabulary. Yahweh rises, as a star rises, and leads the tribes from Sinai through the desert to the foothills of Mount Pisgah, cf. 3:17 and 4:49.

c. I.e. the gathered clans.

d. The 'forefathers' are the patriarchs and the 'holy ones' their descendants. The text of the v. is uncertain. e. Evidently a gloss.

f. Vv. 4-5 are still part of the introduction. 'Jeshurun' is Israel, cf. 32:15.

g. The headline of Reuben's blessing has dropped from the text. This tribe soon lost its importance. 'five too' is a correction; Hebr. could be rendered 'despite the small number of his warriors'.

h. Allusion to a period when Judah was separated from the rest of Israel: the time either of the divided kingdom or, more probably, of the conquest.

i. 'Grant to Levi' Greek.

j. 'The Most High' corr. 'hillsides', lit. 'shoulders' (cf. the 'shoulder' of a mountain). Allusion to Jerusalem; the original site of the city was called 'the shoulder of the Jebusite', Jos 15:8.

k. I.e. where the patriarchs once lived, cf. Gn 49:26. But the phrase tends to acquire a cosmic sense, cf. Hab 3:6.

l. Cf. Gn 49:26. 'consecrated' translates nazir, cf. Nb 6:1+.

m. A term often used for gods in the ancient East. This blessing awards Joseph (i.e. Ephraim and Manasseh) the primacy which Jacob assigned to Judah, Gn 49.

THE HISTORICAL BOOKS

INTRODUCTION

TO THE BOOKS OF

JOSHUA, JUDGES, RUTH

SAMUEL AND KINGS

In the Hebrew Bible the Books of Joshua, Judges, Samuel and Kings are called 'The Early Prophets'; the 'Later Prophets' being Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel and the twelve Minor Prophets. A tradition ascribing these books to 'prophets' was responsible for the use of this title: Joshua was credited with the book of that name, Samuel with the Books of Judges and of Samuel, Jeremiah with the Books of Kings. Though we are accustomed to refer to these as 'historical' books, the term 'Prophets' suits them well since they are written from a religious standpoint and are concerned chiefly with the relationship between Israel and God, and Israel's obedience—above all its disobedience—to the word ministered through the prophets. Indeed, the part played by the prophets in these books is considerable: Samuel, Gad, Nathan, Elijah, Elisha, Isaiah, Jeremiah, and others of lesser note, and the Books of Kings provide us with the historical background for the ministry of the pre-exilic 'writing' prophets.

These books are therefore related to those that follow, but they are also related to those that precede them. Their content forms a direct continuation of the Pentateuch: at the end of Deuteronomy Moses names Joshua as his successor and dies; this is the starting-point of the Book of Joshua. A literary unity has even been claimed as existing between the two groups, and efforts have been made to establish the persistence of the pentateuchal 'documents' or 'sources' to the end of Joshua (thus constituting a 'Hexateuch') and even to the end of the Books of Kings. But this 'documentary theory', doubtful for the Pentateuch itself, appears quite inapplicable to the subsequent books. On the other hand, there is an affinity of doctrine and vocabulary between these books and Deuteronomy. This is less marked in some of the books than in others but is discernible in all. For this reason many scholars now suppose that Deuteronomy is the first chapter of a religious history on the grand scale, reaching to the end of Kings. Deuteronomy having provided the historical basis for the doctrine of the election of Israel, and having outlined the theocratic constitution resulting from it, the Book of Joshua then proceeds to show how this chosen people established itself in its Promised Land; the Book of Judges recounts Israel's repeated defections and returns to grace; the two Books of Samuel deal first with the crisis that led to a monarchical régime and imperilled the theocratic ideal and then go on to show how this ideal achieved reality under David; the Books of Kings tell of the decline that set in during the reign of Solomon and how, notwithstanding the devotion of a few subsequent kings, Israel's obstinate infidelity brought down God's judgement on his people. The separation of Deuteronomy from this literary unit may have occurred when it was decided to assemble all the material relating to the person and work of Moses (cf. Introduction to the Pentateuch).

This hypothesis seems sound but should be supplemented by two relevant observations. In the first place, oral traditions or written documents of varying ages and characteristics, most of them already assembled in groups, were the raw material of the deuteronomic editor; moreover, the editorial hand has been lighter on some parts than on others. This explains how it is that the books, or large sections of the books, preserve their individual character. Secondly, this deuteronomic editing was not a single process: each book shows traces of having passed through more than one process of editing. The Books of Kings, to take the clearest example, went through at least two editions: one just after the reform under Josiah, the other during the Exile. (For further details, see the notes on the individual books.)

In their final form, therefore, these books are the product of a school, of a number of devout men profoundly influenced by the outlook of Deuteronomy, men who meditated on the history of their nation and extracted a religious lesson from it. At the same time they have handed on not only an account of the outstanding events in the history of Israel but also traditions or texts that date back to the heroic age of the Conquest. That the literary form chosen is that of 'sacred history' does not diminish the importance of these books for the historian, while giving them special value for the believer. From them the latter will not only learn to see the hand of God in all world events, but in God's exacting love for his chosen people will recognise the slow preparation for the New Israel, the community of the faithful.

The Book of Joshua falls into three parts: a. the conquest of the Promised Land, ch. 1-12; b. the partition of the territory between the tribes, ch. 13-21; c. the last days of Joshua, especially his last discourse and the assembly at Shechem, ch. 22-24. It is rightly conceded by Jewish tradition that the book was not written by Joshua. Various sources have been used. In Part One we find (ch. 2-9) a group of traditions, running parallel at times, connected with the Benjaminite shrine at Gilgal, and (ch. 10-11) two records of battles, Gibeon and Merom, associated respectively with the conquest of the south and north. The story of the Gibeonites, ch. 9, is dovetailed into 10:1-6, thus joining up two narratives which, in all probability, were brought together at the beginning of the monarchical period. Part Two is topographical. Ch. 13 identifies the territories of Reuben, Gad and the half-tribe of Manasseh; according to Nb 32 and Dt 3:12-17 Moses had already established these in Transjordan. Ch. 14-19 combine a pre-monarchical description of the tribal boundaries with lists of towns; these lists, at least in part, must be assigned a date subsequent to the political schism, since the catalogue of towns of Judah is much more exhaustive than that for the other tribes. There are two supplementary lists: the cities of refuge, ch. 20, an institution of great antiquity, cf. Ex 21:13, and the levitical towns, ch. 21; this second list probably derives from the times of David and Solomon. In Part Three, ch. 22, dealing with the return of the Transjordanian tribes and their building of an altar by the Jordan, comes from a separate tradition of uncertain age; ch. 24 represents an ancient tradition about the assembly at Shechem and the sacred pact concluded by the tribes.

It is not easy to determine to what extent these various component parts, some very ancient, had been assembled before the deuteronomic editors set to work. To these editors we may assign (in addition to minor modifications) the introduction of ch. 1, the catalogue of ch. 12, the insertion of 8:30-35. That

ch. 24, modified in accordance with the outlook of Deuteronomy, has been preserved side by side with ch. 23 (which a deuteronomic writer has modelled on ch. 24) is an indication that there were two successive editions of the book.

In the Book of Joshua the conquest of the whole Promised Land appears as the result of collective tribal action under Joshua's leadership. On the other hand, it is admitted that the conquest was not complete, 13:1-6; 17:12-16, that some sections of the people took action in their own interests, 14:6-13; 15:13-19, and that the war was not without its setbacks, 19:47. These reservations are confirmed by the first chapter of Judges in which each tribe is depicted as fighting to win its own territory, often without success, and Joshua plays no part. This must be fairly close to what actually happened. It is even likely that these independent thrusts were initiated before the crossing of the Jordan and that detachments of Judah and of Simeon, in association with allied groups like the Calebites and Kenites, left Kadesh to make their incursions from the south, cf. especially Jg 1:16-17, cf. Nb 21:3, and Jg 1:9-15, cf. Jos 15:13-19. It is likely that certain northern groups did not go down into Egypt and did not join the Israelite confederacy until the assembly at Shechem when they adopted the Yahwistic religion of the tribes newly arrived from the desert, Jos 24. Whether this was so or not, the sacred pact at Shechem was momentous: it welded the tribes together and was the one guarantee of political unity until the monarchy was established. For the events of Joshua exact dating is scarcely possible but the Israelite invasion of Canaan may be placed within the last thirty years of the 13th century; this date is suggested by the chronology adopted for the Exodus (cf. Introduction to the Pentateuch), by contemporary history and by the data of Palestinian archaeology.

The Book of Joshua presents an idealised and simplified picture of a complex history the details of which we can only conjecture. It is idealised: the epic of the deliverance from Egypt has its continuation in the conquest during which God intervenes miraculously to help his people. It is simplified: all is centred round the heroic figure of Joshua: it is he who leads the House of Joseph to war, ch. 1-12, and to him is ascribed the assignment of tribal territories (though this did not take effect at once) ch. 13-21. Joshua holds the centre of the stage throughout and the book ends with his farewell and death, ch. 23; 24:29-31. The Fathers of the Church saw in him a foreshadowing of Jesus: both bore the name 'saviour' and both led their followers through the waters (the one of Jordan, the other of baptism) to a promised land, while the conquest and division of the territory are an image of the progressive expansion of the Church.

True to the Old Testament outlook, the land of Canaan is the dominant theme of the whole book: the people that had found God in the desert now receives its own country at God's hand. Yahweh fought for Israel, 23:3,10; 24:11-12, and gave for its inheritance the land he had promised to the Fathers, 23:5,14.

The Book of Judges is made up of three unequal parts: a. introduction, 1:1-2:5; b. body, 2:6-16:31; c. two appendices, the first dealing with the migration of the Danites and the founding of the sanctuary at Dan, ch. 17-18, the second with the war waged on the Benjaminites for their crime at Gibeah, ch. 19-21.

The story of the Judges is confined to the body of the book. The term 'judges' (shophetim, cf. the suffetes, or magistrates, of Tyre and Carthage) does not mean administrators of justice but 'governors', the people's war leaders and deliverers. Occasionally, as for example Gideon and notably Deborah and Barak, they act for a whole group of tribes. In birth, temperament and policy they differ widely, but their vocation is the same: they have a grace, or 'charisma'; they are divinely chosen to save. This is the insistent note of the passages prelude the story of each of the six 'major' Judges, Othniel, Ehud, Deborah and Barak, Gideon, Jephthah, Samson: the Israelites betray Yahweh, he hands them over to their enemies, they plead with him, he sends a saviour—the Judge. Once the deliverance has been effected there is an interval of peace, after which the Israelites' relapse begins again. This recurring pattern and the explanation given for it in 2:6-3:6 and in 10:6-16 so closely resemble the teaching of Deuteronomy that we cannot but recognise the hand of deuteronomic editors.

In this deuteronomic edition ancient sources have been used, but their individuality has been respected. Some were themselves composite: the stories of Gideon and of Jephthah existed in several forms, and the Song of Deborah, ch. 5, has a prose counterpart (influenced by Jos 11) in ch. 4. These elements had been brought together before the deuteronomic editorial work began. When the brief references to the 'minor' Judges were inserted is not known (Shamgar, 3:31; Tola and Jair, 10:1-5, Ibzan, Elon and Abdon, 12:8-15).

The beginning of the great central section of the book (2:6-9) is almost a verbatim repetition of the end of Joshua, Jos 24:28-31; one book is therefore the continuation of the other. This sequence, however, is broken by Jg 1:1-2:5; this passage records a tradition concerning the settlement in Canaan, a tradition parallel with that of Joshua and the historical value of which we have already remarked; but this ancient source has itself been given a deuteronomic setting, 1:1 and 2:1-5. The story of Abimelech, ch. 9, and the appendices, ch. 17-21, have also been added; these sections derive from traditions of great antiquity and their contribution to the social and religious history of Israel is considerable. They were untouched by the earliest deuteronomic editing of Judges but were apparently incorporated later to form a link with the Books of Samuel (the continuation of the great deuteronomic opus): Abimelech's shortlived kingship and Jotham's ominous fable prepare the reader for the conflicting views on the institution of the monarchy in 1 S 8-12, while the two appendices describe the religious and moral chaos of a period when 'there was no king in Israel', Jg 17:6 and 19:1. All this is an indication that this book passed through several editions.

The original work, ch. 2-16, contains a number of chronological data which, added together, yield a total of 410 years for the period of the Judges. This figure is at variance with 1 K 6:1 which allows only 480 years for the period between the Exodus and the building of Solomon's Temple; it agrees still less with the historical evidence which puts the Israelite entry into Canaan at the end of the 13th century and the beginning of the reign of David at a little before 1000 B.C. Clearly the chronology of this book is frankly schematic, cf. the recurrence of the number, forty, a generation's length, of its multiple, eighty and of its fraction, twenty; moreover, whole periods are added together which in fact overlapped, since the various oppressions and deliverances never affected the whole country at one time but only a part of it. The period of the Judges covered not more than one-and-a-half centuries, the victory of Taanach under Deborah and Barak in 1125 marking its central point.

Granted this chronology, it is still not easy to fit into it the rest of the information furnished by Judges. All that can be said is that the victory of Taanach preceded the Midianite invasion (Gideon) and the Philistine incursions (Samson).

The principal fact to emerge is that the antagonists of Israel during this troubled age were not only the Canaanites, original occupiers of the land (like those of the Jezreel plain, defeated by Deborah and Barak) but also the neighbouring peoples like the Moabites (Ehud) the Ammonites (Jephthah), the Midianites (Gideon) and the Philistine newcomers (Samson). Against these threats each section of the nation defended its own territory. At times, however, neighbouring groups would make common cause, 7:23; on the other hand, protests might be registered by some powerful tribe against its exclusion from a share in the plunder, 8:1-3; 12:1-6. The Song of Deborah, ch. 5, indicts the tribes that refused to fight; strangely enough, Judah and Simeon are not even mentioned.

The territory of these two tribes lay to the south, cut off from the rest of Israel by Canaanite Gezer, by the Gibeonite towns and by Jerusalem, and their isolation favoured the stirrings of the future schism. Contrastingly, in the north the battle of Taanach had left the Israelites masters of the plain of Jezreel and thus brought about the alliance of the House of Joseph with the northern tribes. A common faith, however, held the various sections firmly together: all the Judges were sincere worshippers of Yahweh and the shrine of the ark at Shiloh was a rallying point for the whole people. Moreover, common struggles stiffened the national spirit, and when in the days of Samuel all were threatened, they met the common peril as a united people.

For the Israelites the lesson of this book was that oppression is the punishment for impiety, and that victory was one of the consequences of returning to God. The author of Ecclesiasticus praises the Judges for their constancy, Si 46:11-12, and the Letter to the Hebrews sees in their success the reward of faith; they belong to the 'cloud of witnesses' who encourage the Christian to renounce sin and to undergo his trials with fortitude, Heb 11:32-34; 12:1.

The short Book of Ruth is placed after Judges in the Septuagint, Vulgate, and modern versions. In the Hebrew Bible it figures among the 'Writings' as one of the five megilloth, or 'scrolls', read on the principal feasts, Ruth being used at Pentecost. This arrangement as conditioned by the liturgy was possibly not the original one. Furthermore, although its action is placed in the period of the Judges (Rt 1:1) the book does not form part of the deuteronomic corpus which runs from Joshua to the end of Kings.

It tells the story of Ruth the Moabitess who, after the death of her husband, a man from Bethlehem, refuses to leave her mother-in-law, Naomi; levirate law is invoked and she weds Boaz, a relation of her husband's. Of this marriage Obed was born who was to be the grandfather of David. The main purpose of the book is to show, 2:12, how trust in God is rewarded and how God's goodness is not constricted by frontiers. That a woman of Moab should be privileged to become the great-grandmother of David gives a particular value to this narrative; nor is there any reason to doubt its historical foundation.

The date of the book is disputed. Many believe it late, but the arguments are not conclusive and occasional archaisms point rather to the pre-exilic period. The universalist tendency of the book does not conflict with such a view, and is its enduring lesson: St Matthew underlines it when he includes Ruth's name in his genealogy of Christ, Mt 1:5.

The Books of Samuel constituted, in the Hebrew Bible, one single work.

The division into two books dates back only to the Greek translation which, moreover, grouped Samuel and Kings under the one title 'The Four Books of Kingdoms' (called in the Vulgate 'The Four Books of Kings'). The Hebrew Samuel is equivalent to the first two of these. It owes its name to its traditional attribution to the prophet Samuel.

There are five sections: a. Samuel, 1 S 1-7; b. Samuel and Saul, 1 S 8-15; c. Saul and David, 1 S 16-2 S 1; d. David, 2 S 2-20; e. appendices, 2 S 21-24.

The work is not from one hand: it mingles, or places side by side, various traditions relating to the beginnings of the monarchical period. The story of the ark in Philistine hands, 1 S 4-6, is followed by the royalist account of the institution of the monarchy, 1 S 9; 10:1-16; 11, a prelude to the war of liberation, ch. 13-14. In these chapters Samuel is the inspired prophet, God's instrument in choosing Saul. The Samuel sequence has been completed by an account of the prophet's childhood, 1 S 1-3, and the rejection of Saul, ch. 15, which leads up to the anointing of David, 16:1-13. An interwoven narrative of lesser antiquity represents Samuel as the last of the Judges, ch. 7; it continues with an anti-royalist account of the institution of the monarchy, ch. 8; 10:17-24; 12. In 1 S 17-2 S 1, where doublet narratives abound, parallel traditions have been assembled; they are, it seems, of equal antiquity and relate to the early years of David and to his clash with Saul. Connected with the oldest stratum of 1 Samuel are: the narratives relating to David's period of rule in Hebron, the war against the Philistines, the capture of Jerusalem, the return of the ark, 2 S 2-6. The prophecy of Nathan, ch. 7, is also of great antiquity but has passed through several hands; ch. 8 is an editorial summary. 2 S 9 is the first chapter of a long story which ends only in 1 K 1-2: it is a history of David's family and the disputed succession, written by an eye-witness in the first half of the reign of Solomon. The account is interrupted by 2 S 21-24, a collection of short passages of varying origin dealing with the reign of David.

It is possible that other literary groups, besides the lengthy history of 2 S 9-20, were formed some time in the first two centuries of the monarchy, namely, the earliest Samuel cycle and the two histories of Saul and David (1 S 17-2 S 1). It is further possible that these groups had already been combined by about 700 B.C., though the books did not reach definitive form until they were gathered into the great deuteronomic historical work a little before, or during, the Exile. Even so, the influence of Deuteronomy is less obvious here than in Judges and Kings. It is most noticeable in the earlier chapters (especially 1 S 7 and 12) and may possibly be traced in one of the editions of Nathan's prophecy, 2 S 7; but the narrative of 2 S 9-20 has remained almost untouched.

The Books of Samuel cover a period from the rise of the monarchy to the end of the reign of David. Philistine expansion (the battle of Aphek was fought about 1050) threatened the very existence of Israel and made monarchical government a necessity. Saul (c. 1030) first appears as one of the line of Judges, but his recognition by all the tribes invests him with a wider and a lasting authority: monarchy has begun. The war of liberation begins and the Philistines are driven back to their own frontiers, 1 S 14; henceforth the engagements take place on the borders of Israelite territory, 1 S 17 (Valley of the Terebinth), 28 and 31 (Gilboa). The battle of Gilboa ends in disaster, and Saul dies on the field, c. 1010. National unity is once more in jeopardy: at Hebron the men of Judah proclaim David king; the northern tribes set up a rival, Ishbaal, son of Saul, who had taken refuge in Transjordan. The assassination of Ishbaal, however, clears the way for unity and the northern tribes acknowledge David's sovereignty.

The Second Book of Samuel does no more than summarise the political consequences of the reign of David which were nevertheless far-reaching. The Philistines had been repelled for good, unification of the national territory was completed by the absorption of the Canaanite enclaves, in particular Jerusalem which became the political and religious capital of the kingdom. The whole of Transjordan was reduced to submission and David extended his authority to include the Aramaeans of southern Syria. This notwithstanding, when David died, c. 970, national unity had not in fact been achieved: Israel and Judah, the two sections of his kingdom, were frequently at loggerheads: the revolt of Absalom was backed by the men of the north and the slogan of Sheba the Benjaminite, 'To your tents, Israel!' was a signal for rebellion. The signs already pointed to the disruption of the kingdom.

The Books of Samuel have a religious lesson to teach: they reveal the conditions in which a kingdom of God on earth might be expected to function and what difficulties it would experience. The ideal was achieved only in the times of David: before him Saul's failure, after him the sins of his successors, thwarted it, calling down the judgement of God and procuring the ruin of the nation. The promises made to the House of David, from the prophecy of Nathan onwards, sustained and nourished the messianic hope. The New Testament refers three times to Nathan's prophecy, Ac 2:30; 2 Co 6:18; Heb 1:5. Jesus is presented as a descendant of David, and when the people salute him as 'son of David' they are acknowledging him as Messiah. Between David and Christ the chosen saviour, king of God's holy nation, persecuted by his own people, the Fathers see a significant likeness.

1 and 2 Kings, like 1 and 2 Samuel, were originally one book in the Hebrew Bible. In the Greek translation they are numbered not '1 and 2' but '3 and 4' (3 and 4 Kingdoms), and in the Vulgate (3 and 4 Kings).

They are a continuation of the Books of Samuel, and 1 K 1-2 are the concluding chapters of the lengthy document of 2 S 9-20. The long account of the reign of Solomon, 1 K 3-11, gives a detailed account of his excelling wisdom, his riches and the magnificence of his building, particularly of the Temple of Jerusalem. It was an age of splendour but not of conquest—the conquering spirit of the reign of David had disappeared, an age of conservatism, organisation and (most significantly) of exploitation. This last aggravated the existing hostility between North and South, and when Solomon died, in 931, the kingdom split in two: to the political secession of the northern tribes was added religious schism, 1 K 12-13. From 1 K 14 to 2 K 17 the history of the twin kingdoms of Israel and Judah is described in parallel; it is a history of fraternal strife but also of attacks from without: Egypt attacks Judah, the Aramaeans attack the northern tribes. But the danger becomes more acute with the intervention of Assyrian armies in this part of the world—in the 9th century first and then, more decisively, in the 8th when Samaria falls to their onslaught in 721, Judah having already accepted vassalage. The story of Judah, the remainder of the kingdom, is continued in 2 K 18-25:21 until the destruction of Jerusalem in 587. The narrative is mainly concerned with two reigns, each remarkable for a national revival and a religious reform: the reign of Hezekiah, 2 K 18-20, and that of Josiah, 2 K 22-23. The major political events of this period are Sennacherib's invasion in 701 when Hezekiah was king and, under Josiah, the collapse of Assyria and the rise of the Chaldaean empire. Judah was forced to submit to the new master of the east but shortly afterwards she rebelled. Punishment was swift: in 598 Nebuchadnezzar's armies captured Jerusalem and deported part of its population; ten years later, incipient revolt provoked Nebuchadnezzar to further action which ended in the destruction of Jerusalem and a second deportation, 587. Two brief appendices, 2 K 25:22-30, bring the Books of Kings to a close.

The books themselves explicitly mention three of their sources: a History of Solomon, the Annals of the Kings of Israel, the Annals of the Kings of Judah. But there were others: the concluding chapters of the great Davidic document, 1 K 1-2; a description of the Temple, 'Priestly' in origin, 1 K 6-7; and notably a history of Elijah written towards the end of the 9th century and a history of Elisha of a slightly later date; both of which underlie the Elijah and Elisha cycles (respectively, 1 K 17-2 K 1 and 2 K 2-13). The narratives of the reign of Hezekiah in which Isaiah figures, 2 K 18:17-20:19, are derived from the prophet's disciples.

Where the use of sources has not interfered, events are narrated according to a uniform plan: each reign is treated separately and completely and each is introduced and concluded by a scarcely varying formula which always includes a verdict on the king's religious conduct. By reason of the 'original sin' of the Northern Kingdom (the erection of the shrine at Bethel) all the kings of Israel are judged guilty; of the kings of Judah only eight are praised for their fidelity to Yahweh's commands and on six occasions this praise is qualified by the reservation 'the high places were not destroyed'. Only Hezekiah and Josiah win unstinted approval.

The criterion of these verdicts is clearly the law of Deuteronomy on the unique sanctuary. And further, the discovery of Deuteronomy in the reign of Josiah and the religious reform that this discovery inspired mark the climax of this entire history, and the whole work is a demonstration of the fundamental teaching of Deuteronomy, repeated in 1 K 8 and 2 K 17, namely, that the nation will be blessed if it respects God's covenant, punished if it does not. The influence of Deuteronomy is also traceable in the literary style of the editor's enlargements of, or comments on, his sources.

It is not improbable that a first deuteronomistic edition was made before the Exile and before the death of Josiah at Megiddo in 609, with the eulogy of Josiah in 2 K 23:25 (minus the concluding words) marking the end of the original work. A second edition, also deuteronomistic, was compiled during the Exile—after 562 if we assign to it the present conclusion of the book (2 K 25:22-30), and a little earlier if we suppose that this second edition ended with the story of the second deportation (2 K 25:21 reads like a conclusion). Finally, certain additions were made to the work during or after the Exile.

The Books of Kings must be read as they were written: as a story of salvation. The ingratitude of the chosen people and the successive ruin of the two sections of the nation seem to thwart God's design. But a small body of faithful people remain who have not 'bowed the knee to Baal'; this remnant of Zion loyal to the covenant guarantees the future. That God's design cannot be frustrated is shown by the astonishing persistence of the Davidic dynasty to which the messianic promise had been made. The whole work ends, in its final form, with the favour shown to Jehoiachin, as if with a dawning of redemption.

THE BOOK OF JOSHUA

I. THE CONQUEST OF THE PROMISED LAND

A. THE PREPARATIONS

The summons to enter the Promised Land

- 1 When Moses the servant of Yahweh was dead,^a Yahweh spoke to Joshua son 2 of Nun,^b Moses' adjutant. He said, "Moses my servant is dead; rise—it is time—and cross the Jordan here, you and all this people with you, into the 3 land which I am giving the sons of Israel. •Every place you tread with the soles 4 of your feet I shall give you as I declared to Moses that I would. •From the wilderness and Lebanon to the great river Euphrates and to the Great Sea 5 westwards, this shall be your territory." •As long as you live, no one shall be able to stand in your way: I will be with you as I was with Moses; I will not leave you or desert you.

Faithfulness to the Law is a condition of God's aid

- 6 'Be strong and stand firm, for you are the man to give this people possession 7 of the land that I swore to their fathers I should give to them. •Only be strong and stand firm and be careful to keep all the Law which my servant Moses laid on you. Never swerve from this to right or left, and then you will be happy in 8 all you do. •Have the book of this Law always on your lips; meditate on it day and night, so that you may carefully keep everything that is written in it.
9 Then you will prosper in your dealings, then you will have success. •Have I not told you: Be strong and stand firm? Be fearless then, be confident, for go where you will, Yahweh your God is with you.'

Aid from the tribes beyond the Jordan

- 10 Then Joshua gave the officers of the people this order: "Go through the camp 11 and say to the people, "Get provisions ready, for in three days you will cross the Jordan here and go on to take possession of the land which Yahweh your 12 God is giving you as your very own"'. •Then to the Reubenites and Gadites 13 and the half-tribe of Manasseh, Joshua said, "Remember what Yahweh's servant Moses told you, "Yahweh your God, granting you a place to find rest, has given 14 you this land". •Your wives, your little ones and your cattle may remain in the land that Moses gave you beyond the Jordan. But all you who are fighting men must go over with your weapons in front of your brothers and fight with them

1 a. The book is thus represented as the continuation of Dt and, adopting the style and outlook of Dt, draws on various traditions to describe Israel's entry into the Promised Land and its establishment there.

b. On Joshua's name, his part in the reconnaissance of the Promised Land, his loyalty, and his appointment as Moses' successor, cf. Ex 17:9; 24:13; 33:11; Nb 11:28; 13:8,16; 14:5f,30,38; 27:15-23; Dt 3:21,28; 31:7-8,14,23;

c. The boundaries assigned to the country destined for conquest (cf. Gn 15:18; Dt 1:7; 11:24, see Jg 20:1+) go far beyond those of the country partitioned in ch. 13-19. After 'Euphrates' Hebr. adds 'the whole country of the Hittites', omitted by Greek.

Joshua's spies at Jericho^a

 Nb 13 2 Joshua son of Nun sent out two spies secretly from Shittim.^b He said, 'Go out 1
 Mt 1:5 and explore the country at Jericho'. They went, and they entered the house of a harlot called Rahab; there they lodged. • Word of this was brought to the 2 king of Jericho, 'Take notice, some men from the Israelites have come here tonight to reconnoitre the country'. • Then the king of Jericho sent a message 3 Jm 2:25 to Rahab, 'Send out the men who came to you and are lodging in your house, for they have come to reconnoitre the whole country'. • But the woman took 4 the two men and hid them; and she answered, 'True, the men came to me, but I did not know where they came from. • When the city gate was about to be 5 closed at nightfall, the men went out and I cannot say where they went. Follow them quickly, you may still overtake them.'

She had taken them up to the roof and hidden them under stalks of flax she 6 had heaped up there. • The king's men pursued them towards the Jordan, as far 7 as the fords, and the gate was shut once the pursuers had gone through.

The pact between Rahab and the spies

Heb11:31-
 Jm2:25 The others had not yet lain down when Rahab came up to them on the roof. 8
 She said to them, 'I know that Yahweh has given you this land, that we ourselves 9 are afraid of you and that all who live in this territory have been seized with 10 9:9-10
 Ex 14 terror at your approach; • for we have heard how Yahweh dried up the Sea of 10
 Nb21:23f, 33f Reeds before you when you came out of Egypt and what you did with the two 5:1 Amorite kings across the Jordan, Sihon and Og, whom you put under the ban. 11
 When we heard this, our hearts failed us, and no courage is left in any of us to stand up to you, because Yahweh your God is God both in heaven above and 12 on earth beneath.^c • Swear to me now by Yahweh, then, since I myself have 12 shown you kindness, that you too will show kindness to the people of my father's 13 house, and will give me a sure sign of this; • that you will spare the lives of my 13 father and mother, my brothers and sisters and all who belong to them, and 14 will preserve us from death.' • Then the men answered her, 'If we do not, it is 14 we, not you, who will deserve to die, unless you tell of our agreement. When 15 6:22-25 Yahweh has given us the land, we will deal with you kindly and faithfully.' 15
 1 S 19:12
 Ac 9:25
 2Co 11:33 Rahab let them down from the window by a rope, for her house was against the 15 city wall and she lived inside the wall itself. • She said, 'You must make for the 16 hills, to escape your pursuers. Hide there for three days till the pursuers have 17 returned, and then go on your way.' • The men answered, 'We for our part will 17 be free of the oath you made us swear, except on these conditions. • When we 18 enter your land you must use this sign: you must tie this scarlet cord to the 18 window from which you let us down, and you must gather with you in your 19 house your father and mother and brothers and all your family. • If anybody 19 passes through the doors of your house to go out, his blood shall be on his own 20 2S1:16+ head and we are not to blame; but the blood of all who stay with you in the house shall be on our heads if a hand is laid on any of them. • If you make this 20 talk of ours known, we shall be free of the oath that you made us swear.' • She 21 replied, 'Let it be as you say'. She let them go, and they left. Then she tied the scarlet cord to the window.^d

The spies return

- 22 They left her and made for the hills. They stayed there for three days, till the pursuers had returned, having scoured the countryside without finding them.
- 23 Then the two men came down again from the hills, crossed the river and came
- 24 to Joshua son of Nun; and they told him all that had happened to them. •They said to Joshua, 'Yahweh has delivered the whole country into our hands, and its inhabitants all tremble already at the thought of us'.

B. THE CROSSING OF THE JORDAN^a

Before the crossing

- 1 3 Early in the morning, Joshua struck camp and set out from Shittim with all the Israelites. They reached the Jordan and camped there before they crossed.
- 2 Three days later, the officers went through the camp •and gave the people these instructions, 'When you see the ark of the covenant of Yahweh your God and the levitical priests carrying it, you must leave the place where you are standing and follow the ark, •so that you know which way to take; you have never gone
- 4b this way before. •Between you and the ark, however, keep a distance of some
- 5 thousand cubits;^b do not go near it.' •Joshua said to the people, 'Sanctify yourselves for tomorrow, because tomorrow Yahweh will work wonders among you'.
- 6 Then he said to the priests, 'Take up the ark of the covenant, and cross at the head of the people'. They took up the ark of the covenant and moved to the front of the people.

Dt 9:3

Ex 19:10,15

The final instructions

- 7 Yahweh said to Joshua, 'This very day I will begin to make you a great man in the eyes of all Israel, to let them be sure that I am going to be with you
- 8 even as I was with Moses. •As for you, give this order to the priests carrying the ark of the covenant: "When you have reached the brink of the waters of the
- 9 Jordan, you are to stand still in the Jordan itself"'. •Then Joshua said to the
- 10 Israelites, 'Come closer and hear the words of Yahweh your God'. •Joshua said, 'By this you shall know that a living God is with you and without a doubt will expel the Canaanite, the Hittite, the Hivite, the Perizzite, the Girgashite, the
- 11 Amorite and the Jebusite. •Look, the ark of Yahweh,^c the Lord of the whole
- 12 earth, is about to cross the Jordan at your head. •Choose twelve men at once of Christ.

e. According to the Book of Joshua (though not of Judges) the conquest is to be a national affair and not the result of isolated tribal thrusts from various directions.

2 a. Ch. 2-9 are a collection of traditions emanating from the Benjaminite shrine of Gilgal, 4:19+. These traditions have no literary relationship with those found in the first four books of the Pentateuch.

b. Shittim (the Acacias) indicates that part of the plain just to the north-east of the Dead Sea, Nb 25:1; 33:49.

c. The text credits Rahab with a profession of faith in the manner of Dt, cf. Dt 4:39. Rahab was saved by her faith, Heb 11:31, and justified by her works, Jm 2:25. As a woman of non-Israelite stock who by her faith and charity secured the safety of her family she became, for the Fathers, a symbol of the Church. In Hebr. her name is not the same as that of Rahab the mythical monster, Jb 9:13; 7:12+, which stands for Egypt in Ps 87:4.

d. Vv. 17-21, occurring too late in the narrative, seem to derive from a different tradition (v. 20 is parallel with v. 14) and there is no further mention of the scarlet cord. It is in keeping with their allegorical interpretation of Rahab (cf. note to v. 11) that some of the Fathers see in the scarlet cord a symbol of the blood

3 a. There is a deliberate parallelism between the narrative of the crossing of the Jordan and entry into Canaan, 3:1-5:12, and the narrative of the Exodus from Egypt; the editor himself calls attention to it, 3:7; 4:14, 23. Yahweh halts the Jordan just as he dried up the Sea of Reeds (3:7-4:18; Ex 14:5-31); the ark of Yahweh leads the Israelites like the pillar of cloud or of fire (3:6-17; 4:10-11; Ex 13:21-22; 14:19-20); Joshua plays the part that Moses played in the Exodus (Jos 3:7; 4:14); and just as the adults of the Exodus period were circumcised, so in their turn are their desert-born children (Jos 5:2-9); the manna that had served Israel in the desert, Ex 16, ceases as soon as the Israelites enter Canaan, Jos 5:12, and the Passover is celebrated in Gilgal after the second 'crossing', Jos 5:10, as it had been celebrated in Egypt before the first, Ex 12:1-28; 13:3-10. Thus, with Joshua the events of the Exodus receive their first fulfilment; the Passion and resurrection of Christ repeat and fulfil those events at the spiritual level, cf. 1 Co 10:1. The Fathers therefore regard Joshua as prefiguring his namesake, Jesus.

b. A sabbath day's journey, about half a mile. This parenthesis, which contradicts v. 4b, voices a scruple born of a strong sense of God's awe-inspiring presence resting on the ark, 2 S 6:7+.

c. 'the ark of Yahweh' corr. following v. 13.

from the tribes of Israel, one man from each tribe. •As soon as the priests with the ark of Yahweh, the Lord of the whole earth, have set their feet in the waters of the Jordan, the upper waters of the Jordan flowing down will be stopped in their course and stand still in one mass.¹³

The river crossed

Accordingly, when the people struck camp to cross the Jordan, the priests carried the ark of the covenant in front of the people. •As soon as the bearers of the ark reached the Jordan and the feet of the priests who carried it touched the waters (the Jordan overflows the whole length of its banks throughout the harvest season)^d •the upper waters stood still and made one heap over a wide space^e—from Adam to the fortress of Zarethan—while those flowing down to the Sea of the Arabah, that is, the Salt Sea, stopped running altogether. The people crossed opposite Jericho. •The priests who carried the ark of the covenant of Yahweh stood still on dry ground in mid-Jordan, and all Israel continued to cross dry-shod till the whole nation had finished its crossing of the river.

The twelve memorial stones

^{Ezk 47:13} 4 When the whole nation had finished crossing the Jordan, Yahweh spoke to ^{3:12} Joshua, •‘Choose out twelve men from the people, one man from each tribe, ^{Ex 24:4} and give them this command: “Take from here, from mid-Jordan, twelve stones;^a carry them with you and set them down in the camp where you pass the night”’. Joshua called the twelve men he had marked out among the Israelites, one man for each tribe, •and told them, ‘Pass on before the ark of Yahweh your God into mid-Jordan, and each of you take one stone on his shoulder, matching the number of the tribes of Israel, •to make a memorial of this in your midst; for when in days to come your children ask you, “What do these stones mean for you?”, •you will tell them, “The waters of the Jordan separated in front of the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, and when it crossed the Jordan, the waters of the river vanished. These stones are an everlasting reminder of this to the Israelites.”’ •The Israelites did as Joshua told them; they took twelve stones from mid-Jordan to match the number of the tribes of Israel, as Yahweh had told Joshua; they carried them over to the camp and set them down there. •Then Joshua set up twelve stones in mid-Jordan in the spot where the feet of the priests who carried the ark had rested; they are there even now.^b

The crossing ends

The priests carrying the ark stood still in mid-Jordan until everything was done that Yahweh had directed Joshua to tell the people, all as Moses had instructed Joshua; and the people hurried across. •When they were all over, the ark of Yahweh then crossed, with the priests at the head of the people. •The Reubenites, the Gadites and the half-tribe of Manasseh crossed over armed in front of the Israelites, as Moses had ordered them. •They were some forty thousand warriors in arms, and they crossed before Yahweh, ready for battle, towards the plain of Jericho. •That day Yahweh made Joshua great in the sight of all Israel, and they honoured him as they had honoured Moses as long as he lived. •Yahweh said to Joshua, •‘Tell the priests carrying the ark of the testimony to come up from the Jordan’. •And Joshua commanded the priests: •‘Come up from the Jordan!’ •Now when the priests carrying the ark of the covenant of Yahweh came up from the Jordan, their feet had no sooner touched the bank than the waters of the Jordan returned to their bed and ran on overflowing as before.

Gilgal is reached^c

It was the tenth day of the first month when the people came up from the Jordan and made their camp at Gilgal, east of Jericho. •As for the twelve stones

- 21 that had been taken from the Jordan, Joshua set them up at Gilgal. •Then he said to the Israelites, 'When your children in days to come ask their fathers, =4:6-7 22 "What is the meaning of these stones?" •tell them this, "You see the Jordan.
 23 Israel crossed over it dry-shod, •because Yahweh your God dried up the waters of the Jordan in front of you until you had crossed, just as Yahweh your God Ex 14:21 had done with the Sea of Reeds, which he dried up before us till we had crossed 24 it; •so that all the peoples of the earth may recognise how mighty the hand of 1 S 17:46
 Yahweh is, and that you yourselves may always stand in awe of Yahweh your God."'

The peoples west of the Jordan are terrified

- 1 5 When all the kings of the Amorites in the country west of Jordan and all the kings of the Canaanites in the coastal region heard that Yahweh had dried up the waters of the Jordan before the Israelites until they had crossed it,^a their hearts grew faint and their spirit failed them as the Israelites drew near. 2:11

The Hebrews are circumcised at Gilgal

- 2 At this time Yahweh said to Joshua, 'Make knives of flint and circumcise Gn 17:10+
 3 the Israelites again'.^b •Joshua made knives of flint and circumcised the Israelites on the Hill of Foreskins.
 4 The reason why Joshua circumcised them was this. All the males of the people who had come out of Egypt of age to bear arms had died in the wilderness on their 5 journey after leaving Egypt. •Now all the people who came out had been circumcised; but those who had been born in the wilderness—in the journey through 6 it when Egypt was left behind—none of these had been circumcised, •because Nb 14:20-35 for forty years the Israelites travelled through the wilderness, until all the nation had died out, that is, the men who had come out of Egypt of age to bear arms; they had not obeyed the voice of Yahweh, and Yahweh had sworn to them never to let them see the land that he had sworn to our fathers to give us, a land where 7 milk and honey flow. •But in place of these he set their sons, and these it was Ex 3:8
 that Joshua circumcised, for they were uncircumcised, since they could not be 8 circumcised on the journey. •When the circumcising of the whole nation was 9 over, they stayed to rest in the camp till they were well again; •and Yahweh 1 S 17:26 said to Joshua, 'Today I have taken the shame of Egypt^c away from you'. Hence that place has been called Gilgal until now.^d

The Passover kept

- 10 The Israelites pitched their camp at Gilgal and kept the Passover there on 11 the fourteenth day of the month, at evening in the plain of Jericho. •On the 12 morrow of the Passover they tasted the produce of that country, unleavened bread and roasted ears of corn, that same day. •From that time, from their

d. This flood occurs in March and April when the snows of Hermon melt; this is harvest time in the lower Jordan valley.

e. According to an Arab historian, something similar happened in A.D. 1267: landslides dammed the river in this area (Adama-Damieh) for several hours.

4 a. 'from mid-Jordan, twelve stones' Greek.

b. The narrative shows signs of two distinct traditions which it has placed side by side. The first account, deriving from the sanctuary at Gilgal, connects the circles of stones that were to be seen there, 4:19+, with the crossing of the twelve tribes. The second account, 'Priestly' in origin, locates the twelve stones in the Jordan itself, so that henceforth they were invisible; this account evidently dates back to the time when the prophets were attacking the heterodox worship at Gilgal.

c. The word gilgal means 'ring of stones'; it was used as a proper name for several places, cf. Dt 11:30; 2 K 2:1. Joshua's Gilgal lies between the Jordan and Jericho at Khirbet En-Natale, about 2½ miles from the river. This ancient centre of worship became the chief sanctuary of Benjamin: the upright stones were said to be relics of the crossing of Jordan, 4:1-8, 21-24; they served to mark the circumcising of the people and celebration of the first Passover in Canaan, 5:9-10, and also the solemn promise made to the Gibeonites, 9:15. This first camp west of Jordan remained the headquarters of the campaign, 10:6; 14:6. Gilgal was still an important centre of political and religious life in the days of Saul, cf. 1 S 11:15+. The prophets preached against the cult practised there, Ho 4:15; 9:15; 12:12; Am 4:4; 5:5.

5 a. 'they had' versions; 'we had' Hebr.

b. The author reckons the circumcision of the people at the time of the Exodus, v. 5, as the first. Hebr. here adds 'a second time'.

c. The 'shame' lies in being uncircumcised, as the author believes the Egyptians were.

d. Play on words: Gilgal is connected with galal (to take, or roll, away).

Ex16:1+ first eating of the produce of that country, the manna stopped falling. And having manna no longer, the Israelites fed from that year onwards on what the land of Canaan yielded.^e

C. THE CONQUEST OF JERICHO

Prelude: a theophany^f

Nb22:23 When Joshua was near Jericho, he raised his eyes and saw a man standing 13
1Ch21:16 there before him, grasping a naked sword. Joshua walked towards him and said
Ex 23:20 to him, 'Are you with us or with our enemies?' •He answered, 'No, I am captain 14 Rv19:11-16 of the army of Yahweh, and now I come. . . ' Joshua fell on his face to the ground and worshipped him and said, 'What are my Lord's commands to his servant?'
Ex 3:5 The captain of the army of Yahweh answered Joshua, 'Take your sandals off 15
Ex19:12+ your feet, for the place you are standing on is holy'. And Joshua obeyed.

The taking of Jericho^a 2M12:15 6 Now Jericho had been carefully barricaded against the Israelites; no one came 1 out, no one went in. •Then Yahweh said to Joshua, 'Now I am delivering 2 Jericho and its king into your hands. All you fighters, •valiant warriors, will 3 march round the town and make the circuit once, and for six days you will do the same thing. •(But seven priests will carry seven trumpets in front of the ark.) 4 On the seventh day you will go seven times round the town (and the priests will blow their trumpets). •When the ram's horn rings out (when you hear the sound 5 of the trumpet), the whole people must utter a mighty war cry^b and the town wall will collapse then and there; then the people can storm the town, each man going straight ahead.'

Joshua son of Nun (called the priests and said to them, 'Take up the ark 6 of the covenant, and seven priests are to carry seven trumpets of ram's horn in front of the ark of Yahweh'. •He) said to the people, 'Forward! March round 7 the town (and let the vanguard march before the ark of Yahweh).' •All was done 8 Dt 9:3 as Joshua ordered the people. (Seven priests carrying the seven trumpets of ram's horn in front of Yahweh moved onwards and blew their trumpets; the ark of the covenant of Yahweh came behind them, •the vanguard marched in 9 front of the priests with their trumpets, the rearguard followed behind the ark;
the men marched, the trumpets sounded.)

Joshua had given the people the following order: 'Do not shout, do not utter 10 even a word; let nothing be heard from you till the day when I say: Raise the war cry. Then you are to shout.'

(At Joshua's command, the ark of Yahweh went round the town and made 11 the circuit once; then they returned to the camp and spent the night there.) Joshua rose early (and the priests took up the ark of Yahweh. •Bearing the 12 seven ram's horn trumpets, the seven priests walked before the ark of Yahweh 13 sounding their trumpets as they went, while the vanguard marched before them and the rearguard behind the ark of Yahweh, and the march went on to the sound of the trumpet.)

They marched once round the town (on the second day) and returned to the 14 camp, and so on for six days. •On the seventh day they rose at dawn and marched 15 seven times round the town in the same manner. Only on that day did they march round seven times. •At the seventh time (the priests blew their trumpets and) 16 Joshua said to the people, 'Raise the war cry, because Yahweh has given the town into your hands.

Jericho placed under the ban^c

Lv27:28-29 'The town and everything inside it must be set apart for Yahweh under a ban; 17 be covetous and take anything that is under the ban; that would lay the 19 whole camp of Israel open to the same ban and bring disaster on it. •All the silver and all the gold, all the things of bronze and things of iron are consecrated to Yahweh and must be put into his treasury.’

- 20 The people shouted, the trumpets sounded. When they heard the sound of the trumpet, the people raised a mighty war cry and the wall collapsed then and there. At once the people stormed the town, every man going straight ahead; 21 and they captured the town. •They enforced the ban on everything in the town: men and women, young and old, even the oxen and sheep and donkeys, massacring them all.

Rahab's house preserved

2:1-21

- 22 Joshua said to the two men who had reconnoitred the country, ‘Go into the harlot's house, and bring out the woman with all who belong to her, so as to 23 keep your oath to her’. •The young men who had been spies went in and brought out Rahab and her father and mother and brothers and all who belonged to her.
They brought out all her clansmen too and set them in safety outside the camp 24 of Israel. •They burned the town and all within it except the silver and gold and things of bronze and iron; these they put into the treasury of Yahweh's house.
25 But Rahab the harlot, her father's household and all who belonged to her, these Joshua spared. She has dwelt among Israel until now, because she concealed the messengers Joshua sent to reconnoitre Jericho.

Jg 1:25

A curse upon Jericho's restorer

- 26 At that time Joshua made them take this oath before Yahweh:

‘Cursed be any man who comes forth and builds this town up again!
On his eldest son he shall lay its foundations, on his youngest set up its gates.’

1K 16:34

- 27 Yahweh was with Joshua, and Joshua's fame spread all through the country.

The ban defied

- 1 7 But the sons of Israel incurred guilt by violating the ban. Achan son of Carmi, son of Zabdi, son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, laid his hands on something that fell under the ban, and the anger of Yahweh flared out against the Israelites.

Ho 4:15

e. The eating of unleavened bread and roasted corn (marking the arrival of Israel in an agricultural country) took on a religious character because of the Passover, which in turn required circumcision. The ceasing of the manna indicated that the desert period was over.

f. Vv. 13-15 are the remains of a lost tradition: this theophany consisted of a revelation and instructions to Joshua, v. 14; these doubtless concerned the conquest, conceived of as Yahweh's personal undertaking. There is perhaps a relationship between this and the similarly isolated passage of Jg 2:1-5. There is certainly a further parallel with the Exodus: the scene recalls the Burning Bush and the commission of Moses.

6 a. The narrative as it stands unites two different tactical approaches: one is a perambulation of the walls in silence followed by the great war cry; the other is a procession with the ark to the sound of the sacred trumpets, to show that God is with Israel, cf. 1 S 4:3f. These two accounts evidently derive from separate traditions. The second of the two is bracketed in the text.

b. On this sacred war cry, cf. Nb 10:5+.

c. The ‘ban’, herem in Hebr., makes over all that is captured to God; hence men and animals are killed and booty given to the sanctuary. The ban is a religious act, a rule for holy war, and may either depend on a divine command, Dt 7:1-2; 20:13f; 1 S 15:3, or on a vow made to assure victory, Nb 21:2. Failure to observe it is sacrilege and its punishment is severe, Jos 7, cf. 1 S 15:16-23, though the regulation is sometimes qualified, Nb 31:15-23; Dt 2:34-35; 3:6-7; 20:13-14; Jos 8:26-27. The conception of God as a merciful father will later correct this primitive interpretation of his absolute dominion, cf. Ws 1:13 and especially the N.T., Mt 5:44-45.

7 a. ‘to Ai’ Greek; the Hebr. adds ‘which is near Beth-aven’ (‘house of nothingness’), a gloss which calls Bethel by its later, insulting, name, Ho 4:15 etc. and cf. Am 5:5, Ai (meaning ‘the ruin’) is the modern et-Tell (‘ruin’ in Arabic). In the times of Joshua the place was in ruins but could serve as a defensive position for the people of the district (Bethel).

They came back to Joshua and said, 'There is no need for all the people to go up; 3 let some two or three thousand men go and attack Ai. Spare the whole people such a toil; the enemy are not many.' •Some three thousand men of the people 4 marched up to Ai, but broke before the townsmen. •These killed some thirty-six 5 of them and drove the men back from the town gate to Shebarim; there on the slope they made havoc of them. Then the people lost heart and their courage melted away.

Joshua's prayer

Joshua tore his garments and prostrated himself before the ark of Yahweh 6 till nightfall; the elders of Israel did as he did, and all poured dust on their heads. Ex32:11-14 And Joshua said, 'Alas, Lord Yahweh, why did you bring this nation across 7 the Jordan only to deliver us into the power of the Amorite and destroy us? I wish we had won a place to live in on the other side of the Jordan! •Forgive 8 me, Lord, but what can I say, now that Israel has turned its back on the enemy? The Canaanites will hear of it, and all the inhabitants of the country; they will 9 unite against us to wipe our name off the face of the earth. What are you going to do for your great name?'

Yahweh's answer

Yahweh answered Joshua, 'Stand up! Why are you lying prostrate like this? 10 Israel has sinned; they have violated the covenant I ordained for them. Yes, 11 they have taken what was under the ban, stolen and hidden it and put it into their baggage. •That is why the sons of Israel cannot stand up to their foes; why 12 they have turned their backs on their enemies, because they have come under the ban themselves. I will be with you no longer unless you remove what is under the ban from among you.^b

'Rise and call the people together and say to them, "Sanctify yourselves for 13 tomorrow, because Yahweh the God of Israel declares: The ban is now among you, Israel; you can never stand up to your enemies until you take what is under the ban from among you". •In the morning therefore you will come forward 14 tribe by tribe, and then the tribe that Yahweh marks out by lot will come forward clan by clan, and the clan that Yahweh marks out by lot will come forward 15 family by family, and the family that Yahweh marks out by lot^c will come forward man by man. •And then the man taken with the thing that is banned 15 is to be delivered over to the fire, he and all that belongs to him, because he has violated the covenant with Yahweh and committed an infamy in Israel.'

Ac5:1-10 The culprit brought to light and punished

1 S 10:20 Joshua rose early; he made Israel come forward tribe by tribe, and the lot 16 marked out the tribe of Judah. •He called up to him the clans of Judah, and the 17 lot marked out the clan of Zerah. He called up the clan of Zerah, family by family, and Zabdi was marked out. •Then Joshua called up the family of Zabdi, 18 man by man, and it was Achan son of Carmi, son of Zabdi, son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, who was chosen by the lot.

1 S 6:5 Then Joshua said to Achan, 'My son, give glory to Yahweh the God of Israel, 19 and pay him homage; tell me what you have done and hide nothing from me'. Achan answered Joshua, 'Yes, I am the man who has sinned against Yahweh 20 the God of Israel, and this is what I have done. •When I saw among the spoil 21 a fine robe from Shinar and two hundred shekels of silver and an ingot of gold weighing fifty shekels, I coveted them and took them. They are hidden there in the ground inside my tent, and the silver is underneath.'

Joshua sent out messengers; they ran to the tent, and the robe was indeed 22 hidden inside the tent, and the silver was underneath. •They took everything 23 from inside the tent and brought it to Joshua and the elders of Israel and laid it out before Yahweh.

- 24 Then Joshua took Achan son of Zerah, with the silver and the robe and the ingot of gold and led him up to the Vale of Achor—and with him his sons and daughters, his oxen and donkeys and sheep, his tent and everything that belonged to him. All Israel went with him. Ho 2:17
- 25 Joshua said, 'Why did you bring evil on us? May Yahweh bring evil on you today!' And all Israel stoned him.^d
- 26 A great cairn was reared over him,^e which is still there today. Then Yahweh ceased from his burning anger. It was then that the place was given the name, the Vale of Achor,^f which it is still called now.

D. THE TAKING OF AI

The command given to Joshua

- 1 8 Then Yahweh said to Joshua, 'Be fearless now, and be confident. Take all Jg 20:29 your fighting men with you, and march out against Ai. I will put into your 2 power the king of Ai, his people, his town and his territory. •You are to do with Ai and its king as you did with Jericho and its king. As regards booty, you may take the goods and the cattle—no more. Take up a concealed position against the city, to the rear of it.'

Joshua's stratagem

- 3 Joshua prepared to march against Ai with all the fighting men. He chose 4 thirty thousand men from among the bravest and sent them out by night •after giving them these instructions, 'Listen! You are to take up a concealed position against the town, but at the rear not far from the town, and mind you all keep 5 alert! •I and all the people with me will go forward till we are near the town, and when the people of Ai come out against us as they did the first time, we will
6 run before them. •Then they will follow close behind us, and we shall draw them away from the town, because they will think, "They are running from us as they
7 did last time". •Then you will rise from your concealed position and seize the town; Yahweh your God will deliver it into your hands. •When you have captured
8 the town, set fire to it. These orders must be carried out. See to it! The orders
9 come from me.' •Joshua sent them off, and they made their way to the concealed position, at a point between Bethel and Ai, to the west of Ai. Joshua spent the 10 night among the people, •then, rising early next day, mustered the people and marched on Ai; he and the elders of Israel marched at the head of the people.
11 All the warriors with him marched up towards the front of the town; they pitched 12 camp north of Ai, with the ravine between Joshua and the town. •He took some five thousand men^a and concealed these between Bethel and Ai, to the west of 13 the town. •The people pitched their camp north of the town, while the concealed position lay to the west. Joshua spent that night in the valley itself.

The battle of Ai

- 14 When the king of Ai saw how things lay, he and all his people hurried out to engage Israel on the slope facing the Arabah; he did not know that an ambush
15 had been laid against him to the rear of the town. •Joshua and all Israel with him

b. The violation of the 'anathema', or 'ban', is a sacrilege, 6:17+, and the whole community is contaminated (it becomes 'anathema') by the presence of the booty that has been pilfered. The community can only be released from the effects of the ban, when these have been executed on the guilty individual.

c. Cf. Saul designated king by lot, 1 S 10:20-21, and Jonathan found guilty, 1 S 14:40-42. Explicitly in the latter case, and probably in others, identification was effected by the sacred lots, used for consulting God, cf. 1 S 2:28+; 14:41+. Cf. also Jon 1:7.

d. The Hebr. adds 'and they burned them with fire and stoned them', referring respectively to Achan's goods and family.

e. A felon's burial, cf. the king of Ai, 8:29, Absalom, 2 S 18:17, and the similar treatment of the five Canaanite kings, Jos 10:27.

f. Cf. Is 65:10; Ho 2:17. The name is here explained by 'achar', 'to bring misfortune', v. 25.

let themselves be driven back, taking flight towards the wilderness. •All the 16 people who were in the town followed them in loud pursuit, and in pursuing Joshua they left the town itself unguarded. •Not a man was left behind in Ai,^b 17 all had gone out in pursuit of Israel; and in pursuing Israel they left the town undefended.

8:26
Ex17:8-15
2K13:14-19 Then Yahweh said to Joshua, 'Point the javelin in your hand at Ai; for 18
I am about to put the town in your power'. Then Joshua pointed the javelin in his hand towards the town.^c •No sooner had he stretched out his hand than 19 the men in ambush rose quickly from their position, ran forward and entered the town; they captured it and quickly set it on fire.

Disaster for the people of Ai

When the men of Ai looked back, they saw smoke rising from the town into 20 the sky. None of them had the chance to run one way rather than another, for the people fleeing towards the wilderness turned back on their pursuers. •For when 21 Joshua and all Israel saw that the town had been seized by the men in ambush, and saw the smoke rising from the town into the sky, they turned round and attacked the men of Ai. •The others came out from the town to engage them, so that the 22 men of Ai found themselves surrounded by Israelites, some on this side and some on that. These set about them till not one was alive and none left to flee;
but the king of Ai was captured alive, and brought to Joshua. •When Israel 23 had finished killing all the inhabitants of Ai in the open ground and where they 24 followed them into the wilderness, and when all to a man had fallen by the edge of the sword, all Israel returned to Ai and slaughtered all its people •The 25 number of those who fell that day, men and women together, was twelve thousand, all people of Ai.

The ban; the destruction of the town

8:18-19 Joshua did not draw back the hand with which he had pointed the 26 javelin until he had dealt with all the dwellers in Ai as with men under a ban.
For booty, Israel took only the cattle and the spoils of the town, according to the 27 order Yahweh had given to Joshua. •Then Joshua burned Ai, making it 28 a ruin for evermore, a desolate place even today. •He hanged the king of Ai 29 from a tree till evening; but at sunset Joshua ordered his body to be taken down from the tree. It was then thrown down at the entrance to the town gate and a great cairn was reared over it; and that is still there today.

E. SACRIFICE ON MOUNT EBAL: THE LAW READ THERE^d

The altar of undressed stones

Then Joshua built an altar to Yahweh the God of Israel on Mount Ebal, 30 as Moses, Yahweh's servant, had ordered the sons of Israel, as is written 31 in the Book of the Law of Moses, 'an altar of undressed stones that no iron tool has ever worked'. On this they offered holocausts to Yahweh and offered communion sacrifices as well.

The reading of the Law

There Joshua wrote on the stones a copy of the Law which Moses had written 32 for the Israelites. •Then, on both sides of the ark, and facing the levitical priests 33 who carried the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, all Israel with their elders and scribes and judges—strangers as well as Israelites born—all took their places, half of them in front of Mount Gerizim and half in front of Mount Ebal,^e as Moses the servant of Yahweh had ordered originally for the blessing of the people of Israel. •After this, Joshua read all the words of the Law—the blessing 34 and the cursing—exactly as it stands written in the Book of the Law. •Of every 35 word laid down by Moses there was not one left unread by Joshua in the presence of the full assembly of Israel, with the women and children there, and the strangers living among the people.

F. THE TREATY BETWEEN ISRAEL AND THE GIBEONITES

A coalition against Israel

- 1 9 Hearing these things, all the kings on this side of the Jordan, in the highlands Jg 1:9
and in the lowlands, all along the coast of the Great Sea towards Lebanon, the Hittites, the Amorites, the Canaanites, the Perizzites, the Hivites and the Dt 7:1+ 2 Jebusites, •formed an alliance to fight together against Joshua and Israel.

The ruse of the Gibeonites^a

- 3 When the inhabitants of Gibeon heard what Joshua had done to Jericho and 10:6 4 to Ai, •they decided to resort to trickery. They set out provided with supplies, 2 S 21:2
having loaded their donkeys with old sacks and with old wineskins that had 5 burst and been sewn up again. •The sandals on their feet were worn out and patched, the garments they wore were threadbare. The bread they took with them to eat was all dry and crumbling.
6 They came to Joshua in the camp at Gilgal, and speaking to him and the men of Israel, they said, 'We come from a distant country, so make a treaty with us'.
7 The men of Israel answered these Hivites, 'It may be that you live in our neigh-8 bourhood; how then can we make a treaty with you?' •They answered Joshua,
'We are your servants'. But Joshua asked them, 'Who are you and where do you 9 come from?' •They answered, 'Your servants have come from a country very far away, because of the fame of Yahweh your God; for we have heard of him 2:10 10 and all that he has done in Egypt •and all that he has done to the two Amorite kings whose realm was beyond the Jordan, Sihon the king of Heshbon and Og 11 the king of Bashan who lived at Ashtaroth. •Then our elders and all the people of our country said to us, "Take provisions with you for the journey; go to meet them and say to them: We are your servants; so make a treaty with 12 us". •Here is our bread; it was warm when we took it from home for our journey the day we set out to come to you, and now you see it is dry and 13 crumbling. •These wineskins were new when we filled them; you see they have burst; and our clothes and sandals are all worn out from travelling such a long way.'
14 The leaders partook of the provisions they offered and did not consult the 15 oracle of Yahweh.^b •Joshua granted them peace and made a treaty with them guaranteeing their lives, and the leaders of the community ratified it by oath.
16 Now it so happened that three days after the treaty had been made, it became known that they were a neighbouring people whose home was in the midst of 17 Israel. •The Israelites set out from the camp and came to their towns,^c which 18 were Gibeon, Chephirah, Beeroth and Kiriath-jearim. •The Israelites did not attack them because the leaders of the community had sworn to them by Yahweh the God of Israel, but the community grumbled at the leaders.

b. 'Ai' Greek; the Hebr. adds 'Bethel'.

c. Not merely a signal but a gesture effective in itself like that of Moses in Ex 17:9,11.

d. Vv. 30-35, interrupting the narrative of the conquest (in 9:6, Joshua is still at the camp at Gilgal), come from the deuteronomistic editor; he owes vv. 32-35 to Dt 27 and vv. 30-31 to an independent tradition.

e. Carrying Dt 27 into effect, cf. Dt 11:29. The incident takes place west of Shechem which is overlooked on the north by Ebal, on the south by Gerizim. Later, possibly in the time of Nehemiah, the schismatic Samaritan temple was built on Gerizim; it was desecrated by Antiochus Epiphanes, 2 M 6:2; cf. 5:23. Jesus alludes to the worship there, Jn 4:21.

crated by Antiochus Epiphanes, 2 M 6:2; cf. 5:23. Jesus alludes to the worship there, Jn 4:21.

9 a. The 'Gibeonites' live not only in Gibeon (el-Jib, N.W. of Jerusalem) but also in the three neighbouring towns named in v. 17. They constitute a non-Canaanite enclave, cf. 11:19, hence their isolation and their wish for an alliance with the Israelites.

b. The Israelite leaders eat Gibeonite food and ipso facto enter into an alliance with them, Gn 31:46f.

c. 'to their towns' Greek; Hebr. adds 'on the third day'.

The Gibeonites' place in the community

All the leaders declared in full assembly, 'Since we have sworn an oath to 19 them by Yahweh the God of Israel, we cannot touch them. •This is what we 20 will do with them: we will let them live, lest otherwise we bring the wrath on ourselves because of the oath we swore to them.' •The leaders went on, 'Let 21 them live, but let them be wood-cutters and water-carriers in the service of the whole community'. The community did^d as the leaders had said. •Joshua 22 sent for the Gibeonites and asked them, 'Why did you trick us with those words, "We live very far away", when in fact you live right among us? •From 23 now you are accursed, and you shall never cease being serfs, wood-cutters and water-carriers in the house of my God.'^e •They answered Joshua, 'We 24 did it because your servants had become convinced that Yahweh your God had ordered Moses his servant to give you this whole country and destroy all its inhabitants before you; also because, as you advanced on us, we were extremely afraid that you would kill us. That was why we did this. •Now, see, we are in 25 your power; do with us whatever you think right and good.' •What he did with 26 them was this. He saved them from the hands of the Israelites, and they did not kill them.^f •But from that day forward, Joshua made them wood-cutters and 27 water-carriers for the community, and bound them, down to the present day, to wait on Yahweh's altar wherever Yahweh might choose.

G. FIVE AMORITE KINGS FORM A COALITION^a

THE SOUTH OF PALESTINE IS SUBDUED

Five kings make war on Gibeon

10 Now it happened that Adoni-zedek the king of Jerusalem was told that 1 Joshua had conquered Ai and put the town under a ban, dealing with Ai and its king as he had dealt earlier with Jericho and its king; and also that the inhabitants of Gibeon had made their peace with Israel and entered their community. •There was consternation at this, since Gibeon was as important 2 a town as one of the royal towns themselves, and larger than Ai, while all its citizens were fighting men. •Then Adoni-zedek the king of Jerusalem sent word to Hoham 3 the king of Hebron, Piram the king of Jarmuth, Japhia the king of Lachish and Debir the king of Eglon, •'Join me and help me to conquer Gibeon, because 4 it has made peace with Joshua and the Israelites'. •The five Amorite kings 5 joined forces and set off together, that is, the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish and the king of Eglon, they and all their armies with them; they besieged Gibeon and attacked it.

Joshua comes to the rescue of Gibeon

9:3-14 The men of Gibeon sent word to Joshua in the camp at Gilgal, 'Do not 6 desert your servants; come up here quickly to save us and help us, because all the Amorite kings living in the mountains have allied themselves against us'. Joshua came up from Gilgal in person, bringing all the fighting men and all the 7 bravest of his army with him. •Yahweh said to Joshua, 'Do not be afraid of 8 these men; I have delivered them into your power; not one of them will be able to stand against you'. •Having marched from Gilgal throughout the night, 9 Joshua caught them unawares.

Si 46:4-6 Aid from on high

Jg 5:20 Yahweh drove them headlong before Israel, defeating them completely at 10 Is 28:21 Gibeon; furthermore, he pursued them towards the descent of Beth-horon and harassed them as far as Azekah, and as far as Makkedah. •And as they fled 11 from Israel down the descent of Beth-horon,^b Yahweh hurled huge hailstones from heaven on them all the way to Azekah, which killed them. More of them

'Sun, stand still over Gibeon, and, moon, you also, over the Vale of Aijalon'.
13 And the sun stood still, and the moon halted, till the people had vengeance on their enemies.

Si 46:4
Hab3:11-12

- Is this not written in the Book of the Just?^d The sun stood still in the middle 14 of the sky and delayed its setting for almost a whole day. •There was never a day like that before or since, when Yahweh obeyed the voice of a man, for 15 Yahweh was fighting for Israel. •Then Joshua, and all Israel with him, returned to the camp at Gilgal.^e

2K20:10-11

The five kings in the cave at Makkedah

- 16 As for those five kings, they had fled and hidden in the cave of Makkedah, 17 and news of this was brought to Joshua. 'The five kings' the message ran 'have 18 been found hiding in the cave at Makkedah.' •Joshua answered, 'Roll great 19 stones to the mouth of the cave and post men there to keep guard. •And you, do not stay there idle; pursue the enemy, cut off their line of retreat and do not let them enter their towns, for Yahweh your God has put them in your power.'

- 20 When Joshua and the sons of Israel had routed them completely and were near to slaughtering the last of them, the survivors who had escaped alive took refuge 21 in their fortresses. •The people came back to Joshua's camp at Makkedah; they were all safe and sound, and no one dared to attempt anything against the Israelites.

- 22 Then Joshua said, 'Clear the mouth of the cave, and bring the five kings out 23 to me'. •They did so, bringing him the five kings from the cave; the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish and 24 the king of Eglon. •When these kings had been brought to him, Joshua assembled all the men of Israel and said to the officers of the men of war who had fought with him, 'Come forward and put your feet on the necks of these kings!' They 25 came forward and put their feet on their necks. •'Do not be afraid; have confidence,' Joshua went on 'be resolute, for this is how Yahweh shall deal 26 with all the enemies you fight.' •With this Joshua struck and killed them and had them hanged on five trees; they hung there till evening.

Ps 110:1

- 27 At the hour of sunset Joshua gave his order; they were taken down from the trees and thrown into the cave where they had been hiding. Great stones were laid at the mouth of the cave, and these are still there today.

The conquest of the southern towns of Canaan^f

- 28 The same day, Joshua took Makkedah, striking the town and its king with the edge of the sword; he delivered them over to the ban, with every living creature there, and let no one escape; and he treated the king of Makkedah as he had treated the king of Jericho.

e. Cf. 1 K 9:20-21, and especially the two classes of menials in the pre-exilic Temple, the Nethinim and the Servants of Solomon, Ezr 2:43+.

f. The violation of this treaty by Saul was expiated in the reign of David, 2 S 21:1-14.

10 a. Ch. 10 and 11 are different in literary form from the preceding ch.: the conquest of the whole south, and after this of the whole north, of the land, effected by all the united tribes under Joshua's leadership, is described as the result of two expeditions against the allied Canaanite kings. This is at variance with other passages of this book, 13:1-6; 14:6-13; 15:13-19; 17:12,16, and also with the outline at the beginning of Judges, Jg 1, in which the conquest is seen to be slow and incomplete, with each tribe acting for itself. This latter presentation is closer to the historical fact, but the Book of Joshua, to give an overall picture of the conquest, associates events with Joshua with which he had nothing to do, or which took place after his time.

b. The regular route for invaders, cf. Saul's pursuit of the Philistines, 1 S 14:23,31.

c. Greek; the Hebr. adds 'in the sight of Israel'. Two lines from a popular song enable the narrator to develop his story in the epic manner. They were originally a rhetorical appeal for time to secure victory, cf. 1 S 14:24.

d. An ancient collection of poems now lost; it is quoted again in 2 S 1:18.

e. In v. 21, on the other hand, the camp is at Makkedah, south of Azekah, v.10—an indication of the composite nature of this ch.

f. Note the formal presentation of this material, cf. 10:1+.

Joshua, and all Israel with him, went on from Makkedah to Libnah and attacked it. •This, too, with its king, Yahweh gave into the power of Israel; and Israel struck every living creature there with the edge of the sword, and left none alive, and treated its king like the king of Jericho.

Jg 1:29+ Joshua, and all Israel with him, went on from Libnah to Lachish, and besieged it and attacked it. •Yahweh gave Lachish into the power of Israel and Israel took it on the second day and struck it and every living creature there with the edge of the sword, as they had treated Libnah. •Then Horam the king of Gezer marched up to help Lachish, but Joshua struck him and his people down until not one was left alive.

Joshua, and all Israel with him, went on from Lachish to Eglon. They besieged it and attacked it. •They took it the same day and struck it with the edge of the sword. Every living creature there he delivered over to the ban that day, as he had treated Lachish.

Jg 1:10-15 Joshua, and all Israel with him, went on up from Eglon to Hebron. They attacked it, •took it and struck it with the edge of the sword, with its king, all the places belonging to it and every living creature in it. As he had treated Eglon, so here, he left not a man alive. He delivered it over to the ban, with every living creature in it.

15:15f Joshua, and all Israel with him, turned aside to Debir and attacked it. •He took it and its king and all the places belonging to it; they struck them with the edge of the sword, and every living creature there they delivered over to the ban. He left none alive. As he had treated Hebron, as he had treated Libnah and its king, so he treated Debir and its king.

The southern conquests recapitulated

Jg 1:9 Thus Joshua subdued the whole land: the highlands, the Negeb, the lowlands, the hillsides, and all the kings in them. He left not a man alive and delivered every single soul over to the ban, as Yahweh the God of Israel had commanded. Joshua conquered them from Kadesh-barnea to Gaza, and the whole region of Goshen as far as Gibeon. •All these kings and their kingdoms Joshua mastered in one campaign, because Yahweh the God of Israel fought for Israel. •And then Joshua, and all Israel with him, returned to the camp at Gilgal.

H. THE CONQUEST OF THE NORTH^a

A coalition of northern kings

11 When Jabin the king of Hazor^b heard these things, he sent word of them to Jobab the king of Madon, to the king of Shimron, the king of Achshaph and the kings in the northern highlands and in the valley south of Chinneroth, and those of the lowlands and the hillsides of Dor westwards. •Eastwards and westwards lived the Canaanite; in the highlands the Amorite and Hivite and Perizzite and Jebusite; under Hermon the Hittite, in the land of Mizpah. •They set out with all their troops, a horde as countless as the sands of the sea, with innumerable horses and chariots.

The victory at Merom

These kings, having all agreed on a meeting place, came and encamped near one another at the waters of Merom, to fight against Israel. •Then Yahweh said to Joshua, 'Have no fear of these men, for by this time tomorrow Israel shall see them all cut to pieces; you shall hamstring their horses and burn their chariots'. Joshua and all his warriors caught them unawares by the waters of Merom^c and fell on them. •Yahweh delivered them into the power of Israel, who defeated them and pursued them to Sidon the Great and to Misrephoth-maim westwards and to the Vale of Mizpah eastwards; Israel harried them till not one was left

- 9 to escape. •Joshua treated them as Yahweh had ordered; he hamstringed 2 S 8:4
their horses and burned their chariots.^d

The capture of Hazor and of the other northern towns

- 10 Joshua then came back and captured Hazor, putting its king to the sword.
11 Hazor in earlier days was the capital of all these kingdoms. •And they put to the sword every living creature there, because of the ban. Not a soul was left 12 there, and lastly Hazor was burned. •Joshua conquered all these royal cities and their kings and struck them with the edge of the sword because of the ban, as Moses the servant of Yahweh had ordered.
13 Yet of all these towns standing on their mounds Israel burned none, apart from 14 Hazor which Joshua gave to the flames. •As for the spoils of these towns and the cattle, the Israelites took them for themselves. But they struck all the human beings with the edge of the sword, and wiped them all out; they did not leave one living soul.

The orders of Moses carried out by Joshua

- 15 What Yahweh had ordered his servant Moses, Moses in turn had ordered Joshua, and Joshua carried it out, leaving nothing unaccomplished that 16 Yahweh had ordered Moses. •Thus Joshua mastered the whole country: the highlands, the whole Negeb and the whole land of Goshen, the lowlands, the Arabah, the highlands and the lowlands of Israel.
17 From Mount Halak, which rises towards Seir, to Baal-gad in the Vale of Lebanon below Mount Hermon, he captured all their kings, struck them down 18 and slaughtered them. •For many a day Joshua had made war on all these kings;
19 no city had made peace with the Israelites except the Hivites who lived at Gibeon; 9:3+ 20 all the rest they conquered in battle. •For Yahweh had ordained that the hearts Ex 4:21 of these men should be stubborn enough to fight against Israel, so that they might be mercilessly delivered over to the ban and be wiped out, as Yahweh had ordered Moses.^e

The Anakim wiped out

- 21 Then Joshua came and wiped out the Anakim^f from the highlands, from Hebron, from Debir, from Anab, from all the highlands of Judah and all the 22 highlands of Israel; he delivered them and their towns over to the ban. •No more 23 Anakim were left in Israelite territory except at Gaza, Gath and Ashdod. •Joshua mastered the whole country, just as Yahweh had told Moses, and he gave it to Israel as an inheritance according to their division by tribes. 15:13-14

5 Ashdod, Ashkelon, Gath and Ekron; the Avvites are in •the south.) The whole country of the Canaanites from Arah,^c which the Sidonians hold, to Aphekah
6 and the boundary of the Amorites, •and then the country of the Gebalites with all Lebanon eastwards from Baal-gad at the foot of Mount Hermon to the Pass of Hamath.

Nb 32
Dt3:12-17

A general survey

- 8 As for the other half-tribe of Manasseh,^f this and the Reubenites and Gadites had already received the allotted inheritance given them by Moses beyond the Jordan eastwards; Moses the servant of Yahweh had then assigned them
9 the country onward from Aroer, which lies on the edge of the wadi Arnon, and from the town within the gorge itself; all the tableland from Medeba to 10 Dibon; •all the towns of Sihon the king of the Amorites, who had reigned in 11 Heshbon, to the boundary of the Ammonites. •Then Gilead and the territory of the Geshurites and Maacathites with all the highlands of Hermon and with 12 the whole of Bashan, including Salecah; •and in Bashan the whole kingdom of Og, who had reigned in Ashtaroth and Edrei and was the last survivor of 13 the Rephaim. Moses had conquered and dispossessed these two kings. •But the Israelites did not dispossess the Geshurites or the Maacathites, and therefore 14 Geshur and Maacah even now still form part of Israel. •To the tribe of Levi

b. 'Symoon' Greek; 'Shimron-meron' Hebr.
c. 'Galilee' Greek; Hebr. has 'Gilgal'.

13 a. These places never became part of Israel although included in the ideal plan of the Holy Land (Jos 1:4) and in the outline of Nb 34:1-12: to the south, the Philistine territory and the Geshurites, cf. 1 S 27:8, and also the Avvites, cf. Dt 2:23; to the north, the territory of the Sidonians, i.e. Phoenicia. The section 13:1-7 is editorial and introduces the geographical document.

b. The Philistines originated in Caphtor, Dt 2:23; Am 9:7; Jr 47:4f, i.e. from Crete or Asia Minor. It is perhaps by anticipation that they are mentioned in Gn 21:32-34 and 26:1-18. It was not until about 1200 that they established a mass settlement in Palestine (named after them) on the maritime plain. V. 4 lists their five provinces, cf. Jg 3:3 and Jl 4:4. They were not Semites, nor did they practise circumcision. In the time of the Judges and of Saul they were bitter enemies of Israel; they were driven back by David, but maintained control of the coastal districts.

c. 'from Arah' conj.; Hebr. has 'and the cave'.

d. 'from the Jordan... boundary' is absent from Hebr.

e. This section gathers its data from Nb 32 and Dt 3:12-17; it adds place-names but, unlike the account of the tribes west of Jordan, it offers no description of the tribal territories. The Israelites themselves were not sure of the topography of these tribes, and Reuben and Gad are spoken of as a unity, Nb 32:1f; Dt 3:12; Jos 1:12, etc. It was not long before the two tribes shrank under pressure from Ammonite and Moabite expansion, cf. for Reuben Gn 49:4; Dt 33:6, for Gad Gn 49:19 and his absence from the Song of Deborah, Jg 5. The origins of the half-tribe of Manasseh are obscure; its settlement in Gilead was not perhaps as early as this but had some connexion with the episode of Jos 17:4f.

f. 'As for the other half-tribe of Manasseh' restored.

alone no inheritance was given; Yahweh the God of Israel was their inheritance,^g as he had told them.

Gn49:3-4
Dt 33:6 The tribe of Reuben

Moses had given the tribe of the sons of Reuben a portion according to their 15 clans. •Thus the land they received stretched from Aroer, on the edge of the 16 wadi Arnon, and the town within the gorge itself, and all the tableland up to Jr 48:21 Medeba, •and Heshbon and all the towns on the tableland: Dibon, Bamoth-baal, 17
Beth-baal-meon, •Jahaz, Kedemoth, Mephaath, •Kiriathaim, Sibmah and 18
Zereth-shahar in the highlands of Gor; •Beth-peor, the slopes of Pisgah, 20
Beth-jeshimoth, •all the towns on the tableland and the whole kingdom of Sihon 21 the king of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon; he had been defeated by Ex2:15+ Moses, and with him the princes of Midian, Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur and Reba, 22
Nb22:2+; vassals of Sihon who used to live in this country. •As for Balaam son of Beor, 23 31:8 the soothsayer, the Israelites had put him to the sword with others they had slaughtered. •Thus the land of the Reubenites stretched to the Jordan. This was 23 the inheritance of the sons of Reuben according to their clans, with the towns and their outlying villages.

Gn49:19
Dt33:20-21
1 Ch 5:11 The tribe of Gad

Moses had given the tribe of Gad, the sons of Gad, a portion according to 24 their clans. •The land they received was Jazer, all the towns of Gilead, half the 25 country of the Ammonites as far as Aroer facing Rabbah, •and from Heshbon 26 to Ramath-mizpeh and Betonim, and from Mahanaim as far as the territory of Lo-debar, •and lastly, in the valley: Beth-haram, Beth-nimrah, Succoth, and 27 Zaphon, the rest of the kingdom of Sihon the king of Heshbon. The Jordan was their boundary to the lower end of the Sea of Chinnereth, on the eastern side of the Jordan. •This was the inheritance of the sons of Gad according to their 28 clans, with the towns and their outlying villages.

The half-tribe of Manasseh

Moses had given the half-tribe of the sons of Manasseh^h a portion according 29 to their clans. •The land they received stretched from Mahanaim right through 30 Bashan, with the whole kingdom of Og the king of Bashan and all the Encampments of Jair in Bashan, sixty towns. •Half of Gilead, with Ashtaroth and Edrei, 31 the royal cities of Og in Bashan, were allotted to the sons of Machir son of Manasseh, to half of the sons of Machir according to their clans.

This was the apportioning made by Moses in the plains of Moab, beyond the 32
13:14 Jordan and facing Jericho eastwards. •But to the tribe of Levi Moses had given 33 no inheritance; Yahweh the God of Israel is their inheritance, as he has told them.

B. THE THREE GREAT TRIBES WEST OF JORDAN DESCRIBED^a

Introduction

14 These are the portions that the Israelites received as an inheritance in the 1 land of Canaan, assigned to them by Eleazar the priest and by Joshua son of Nun and by the heads of the families of the tribes of Israel. •They made the 2 apportionment by lot,^b as Yahweh had ordered through Moses for the nine tribes and the half-tribe. •Moses had given the two-and-a-half tribes beyond the 3 21 Nb35:1-8 Jordan their own inheritance but had given the Levites no inheritance among them. •The sons of Joseph were two tribes, Manasseh and Ephraim. No portion 4
Nb 34 in the land was given the Levites except certain towns to live in, with the pasture lands adjoining for their cattle and property. •In apportioning the land, the 5 Israelites did as Yahweh had ordered Moses to do.

The portion of Caleb^c

- 6 Certain sons of Judah came to Joshua at Gilgal, and Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite said to him, 'You know what Yahweh said to Moses the man of God at Kadesh-barnea concerning you and me. •I was forty years old when Moses the servant of Yahweh sent me from Kadesh-barnea to reconnoitre this country, and of this I most faithfully made report to him. •But the brothers who had gone up with me discouraged the people, whereas I myself did the whole will of Yahweh my God. •That day Moses swore this oath, "Be sure of this, that the land your foot has trodden shall be an inheritance for you and your children for ever, because you have done the whole will of Yahweh my God". From then till now, Yahweh has kept me alive in accordance with his promise. It is forty-five years since Yahweh made this promise to Moses (it was while Israel was journeying through the wilderness), and now I am eighty-five years old. •Today I am still as strong as the day when Moses sent me out on that errand; for fighting, for going and coming, I am as strong now as then. •It is time you gave me the highlands that Yahweh promised me then. You heard then how it was peopled by the Anakim and how its towns were great and strong. If Yahweh is with me, I shall drive them out as Yahweh said.'
- 13 Joshua blessed Caleb son of Jephunneh and gave him Hebron as an inheritance. And hence Hebron down to the present day has remained the possession of Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite, because he did the whole will of Yahweh the God of Israel. •The name of Hebron in earlier times was Kiriath-arba. Arba had been the greatest man of the Anakim.
- And the country had rest from war.

The tribe of Judah

- 15 The portion falling to the tribe of the sons of Judah according to their clans was near the boundary of Edom, from the wilderness of Zin to Kadesh south-westwards. •Their southern boundary began at the end of the Salt Sea, at the bay that faces south; •it proceeded south of the Ascent of Akrabbim, crossed through Zin and up to the south of Kadesh-barnea, passed Hebron, went up to Addar and from there turned to Karka, •skirted Azmon, came out at the wadi of Egypt and ended at the sea. This will be your southern boundary. Eastwards, the boundary was the Salt Sea as far as the mouth of the Jordan. The boundary to the north began at the bay at the mouth of the Jordan. •This boundary went up to Beth-hoglah, passed along north of Beth-arabah and reached the Stone of Bohan son of Reuben. •The boundary went up to Debir from the Vale of Achor and turned^a towards the circle of stones opposite the Ascent of Adummim, south of the wadi; the boundary went on to the waters of En-shemesh and ended at En-rogel. •Then it went on up the wadi Ben-hinnom, coming from the south to the flank of the Jebusite,^b that is to say Jerusalem, and climbed to the crest of the mountain barring the wadi Hinnom, westward and at the northern end of the plain of Rephaim. •From the mountain top the boundary bent towards the source of the Waters of Nephtoah, passed from there towards Mount Ephron and then turned towards Baalah, that is to

The long section 14:1-19:49 combines several documents: a pre-monarchical description of tribal boundaries and also lists of towns, especially detailed in the cases of Judah (Simeon) and Benjamin. These documents, joined together and annotated (with echoes of Jg 1 in particular), give a picture of the occupation of the country under the leadership of Joshua.

b. 'they made the apportionment' Greek.

c. Caleb was a Kenizzite, vv. 6 and 14—not an Israelite therefore, cf. Nb 24:21+. His clan came from southern Palestine. cf. 'the Negeb of Caleb', 1 S 30:14; from Kadesh onwards, Nb 13-14, we find Caleb's clan associated with Israel and in particular with Judah. It occupied the Hebron district, 14:14; 15:13-19; Jg 1:12-15, and was absorbed by Judah, cf. the genealogies in 1 Ch 2:8,42;4:11 The clan may have entered Canaan from the south with other Israelite or assimilated groups, cf. Nb 20:12+.

15 a. Hebr. adds 'to the north'.

b. The 'flank' or 'shoulder' of the Jebusite, cf. 18:16, is the slope of the hill on which ancient Jerusalem stood, cf. 2 S 5:9+.

country of Seir, skirted the northern slope of Mount Jearim, that is to say Chesalon, went down to Beth-shemesh and through Timnah, •reached the north 11 side of Ekron, turned towards Shikkeron, passed by the Hill of Baalah, then on to Jabneel, and ended at the sea. •The western boundary was the Great Sea 12 itself. This was the boundary that enclosed the lands assigned to the clans of the sons of Judah.

The Calebites occupy the territory of Hebron

14:6 +
||Jg1:10-15 Caleb son of Jephunneh was given a portion among the sons of Judah in 13 accordance with the order given by Yahweh to Joshua. Joshua gave him Kiriath-arba,^c the chief city of the Anakim, which is now Hebron. •Caleb drove 14 the three sons of Anak out of it: Sheshai, Ahiman and Talmi, descended from Anak. •From there he marched up against the inhabitants of Debir, the name 15 of which was once Kiriath-sepher. •Then Caleb said, 'To the man who conquers and captures Kiriath-sepher, I will give my daughter Achsah to wife'. •The man 17 who captured it was Othniel son of Kenaz, Caleb's brother; Caleb gave him his daughter Achsah to wife. •When she came to her husband, he urged her^d 18 to ask her father for a field. Then she jumped down from her donkey, and Caleb asked her, 'What do you want?' •She answered, 'Grant me a favour; since you 19 have banished me to the wilderness of the Negeb, at least grant me some springs of water'. So he gave her the upper springs and the lower springs.

This was the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Judah according to their 20 clans.

The tribe of Ephraim

Gn49:22-26
Dt33:13-17

1 16 The portion awarded by lot to the sons of Joseph stretched from the Jordan opposite Jericho eastwards. From Jericho onwards the boundary climbed the highlands to the wilderness of Bethel; •it left Bethel-luz and went on towards the boundary of the Archites at Ataroth; •then passed downwards and westwards to the boundary of the Japhletites as far as the border of Lower Beth-horon, as far as Gezer, and from there it reached the sea. •This was the inheritance of the sons of Joseph, Manasseh and Ephraim. 1 Ch 7:24

5 As regards the territory of the sons of Ephraim according to their clans, the boundary of their inheritance to the east was Ataroth-addar as far as Upper Beth-horon, •and it ended at the sea...^a Michmethath to the north; and the boundary turned east to Tanaath-shiloh and ran beyond it on the east to Janoah; it went down from Janoah to Ataroth and Naarah, then touched Jericho and ended at the Jordan. •From Tappuah the boundary went westwards to the wadi Kanah and ended at the sea. This was the inheritance of the tribe of Ephraim according to their clans, •as well as the towns set apart for the Ephraimites inside the inheritance of the sons of Manasseh, all those towns and their villages. Jg 1:29+

10 The Canaanites living in Gezer were not driven out; they have remained in Ephraim to the present day, but are obliged to do forced labour.

The tribe of Manasseh

Gn49:22-26
Dt33:13-17

1 17 A portion was awarded by lot to Manasseh, because he was Joseph's first-born son. To Machir, Manasseh's eldest son and father of Gilead, there fell, as was right for a fighting man, the country of Gilead and Bashan. Nb 26:29
Jg 5:14

2 And portions were also given to Manasseh's other sons, according to their clans: to the sons of Abiezer, the sons of Helek, the sons of Asriel, the sons of Shechem, the sons of Hephher, the sons of Shemida: these were the clans of the male children of Manasseh son of Joseph. •Zelophehad son of Hephher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, had no sons, only daughters, whose names are these: Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah and Tirzah. •These came to the priest Eleazar and to Joshua the son of Nun and to the leaders, and said, 'Yahweh ordered Moses to give us an inheritance among our brothers'. According to Yahweh's order, therefore, they were given an inheritance among the brothers of their father. •In this way there fell to Manasseh ten portions besides the country of Gilead and Bashan which lies across the Jordan, •since Manasseh's daughters received an inheritance as well as his sons. The country of Gilead itself belonged to Manasseh's other sons. •The boundary of Manasseh was, on the side of Asher, Michmethath, which is opposite Shechem, and thence continued to the right^a to Jashib at the spring of Tappuah. The territory of Tappuah belonged to Manasseh, but Tappuah on Manasseh's border belonged to the sons Jg 6:11

c. The old name for Hebron, Kiriath-arba, cf. Gn 23:2; 35:27; Jos 14:15; Jg 1:10, etc., means 'town of the four' (referring either to the four districts of the town or to the four clans living there, Anak and his three sons, cf. Dt 2:10+). In Jos 14:15, Arba has become the name of an individual.

of Ephraim. •The boundary passed down to the wadi Kanah (south of the wadi were the Ephraimite towns, besides those which Ephraim had among the towns of Manasseh, the territory of Manasseh being north of the wadi), and it ended at the sea. •Southwards Ephraim, northwards Manasseh, both bounded by the sea; they touched Asher to the north and Issachar to the east. •In Issachar and in Asher, Manasseh had Beth-shean and its dependent towns, Ibleam and its dependent towns, the inhabitants of Dor and En-dor and their dependent towns, the inhabitants of Taanach and Megiddo and their dependent towns, and a third of the Nepheth. •But because the sons of Manasseh could not take possession of these towns, the Canaanites managed to hold their own in the country. •However, when the Israelites became stronger, they put the Canaanites to forced labour, though they never drove them out.

The sons of Joseph occupy forest country^b

The House of Joseph spoke thus to Joshua, 'Why have you given me for inheritance only one share, only one portion, when my people are many because Yahweh has so blessed me?' •Joshua answered, 'If your people are so many, go up to the woodland region and clear yourselves the forest of the country of the Perizzites and the Rephaim, since the highlands of Ephraim are too small for you'. •The sons of Joseph answered, 'The highlands are not enough for us, and what is more, all the Canaanites living in the plain have iron chariots, and so have those in Beth-shean and its dependent towns, and those in the plain of Jezreel'. •Joshua said to the House of Joseph, to Ephraim and Manasseh, 'You are a large population and one of great strength; you shall not have one share only •but a mountain shall be yours; it is covered with woods, but you must clear it, and its boundaries shall be yours, since you cannot^c drive out the Canaanite because of his iron chariots and his superior strength'.

C. THE SEVEN OTHER TRIBES DESCRIBED

The land survey for these seven tribes

18 The whole community of the Israelites assembled at Shiloh,^a and the Tent of Meeting was set up there; the whole country was now subdued and at their disposal. •But among the Israelites there were still seven tribes left which had not received their inheritance. •Then Joshua said to them, 'How much more time will you waste before taking possession of the land which Yahweh the God of your fathers has given to you? •Choose three men from each tribe, for me to send up and down the country so that they can make a survey with a view to its apportioning, and then come back to me. •They must divide the land into seven portions. Judah will remain in his territory to the south, and those of the House of Joseph will remain in their territory to the north. •You are to survey the land in seven sections and bring your findings to me here, so that I can cast lots for you before Yahweh our God. •For the Levites have no portion with the rest of you; the priesthood of Yahweh is to be their inheritance; and Gad and Reuben and the half-tribe of Manasseh have received their inheritance beyond the Jordan eastwards, as Moses, Yahweh's servant, gave it to them.'

The men set off. To those who were to survey the country Joshua gave this order: 'Off you go, survey and map the whole country, and then come back here to me; I shall cast lots for you before Yahweh at Shiloh'. •So the men left, and went up and down the country, making a sevenfold list in writing of all the towns and bringing it back to Joshua in the camp at Shiloh.

Joshua cast lots for them before Yahweh at Shiloh, and there Joshua apportioned the land among the Israelites according to their groupings.

The tribe of Benjamin

One portion fell to the tribe of the sons of Benjamin according to their clans:

their territory lay, as it proved, between that of the sons of Judah and the sons 12 of Joseph. • Their northern boundary began at the Jordan, climbed to the northern flank of Jericho, rose through the highlands westwards and ended at the 13 wilderness of Beth-aven. • Thence it continued towards Luz, southwards to the flank of Luz, which is now Bethel; then downwards to Ataroth-addar, on the 14 mountain south of Lower Beth-horon. • The boundary curved, and on the western side turned southward, from the mountain that faces Beth-horon from the south and ended at Kiriath-baal, which is now Kiriath-jearim, a city of the 15 sons of Judah. This was the western side. • On the south side the boundary ran from the edge of Kiriath-jearim towards Gasin,^b emerged by the waters of the 16 spring of Nephtoah, • continued to the skirts of the mountain facing the Vale of Ben-hinnom, north of the plain of the Rephaim, then down into the Vale 15:8 + 17a of Hinnom, south of the flank of the Jebusite and reaching En-rogel. • It then Jg 19:10 curved northwards, going on to En-shemesh; it came out at the circles of stones 18 facing the Ascent of Adummim, • then went on to Cheteph in sight of the Arabah 17b and down to the Arabah and • the Stone of Bohan son of Reuben, • then reached 19 the flank of Beth-hoglah to the north. The boundary stopped at the northern bay of the Salt Sea, at the southern end of the Jordan. This was the southern 20 border. • The Jordan itself was the eastern border. Such was the inheritance of the sons of Benjamin, with the boundaries defining it.

The towns of Benjamin

21 The towns of the tribe of the sons of Benjamin, according to their clans, were 22 Jericho, Beth-hoglah, Emek-keziz; • Beth-arabah, Zemaraim, Bethel; • Avvim, 24 Parah, Ophrah; • Chephar-ammoni, Ophni, Geba: twelve towns and their villages.
 15,26 27 Gibeon, Ramah, Beeroth; • Mizpeh, Chephirah, Mozah; • Rekem, Irpeel, 2 S 4:2
 28 Taralah; • Zela Haeleph, Jerusalem,^c Gibeah and Kiriath: fourteen towns with Jg 19:10 their villages. This was the inheritance of the sons of Benjamin, according to their clans.

The tribe of Simeon^a

1 19 The second portion awarded by lot came to Simeon, the tribe of the sons of Simeon, according to their clans; their inheritance was encircled by the 2 inheritance of the sons of Judah. • For their portion they had Beersheba, Shema,
 3,4 Moladah; • Hazar-shual, Balah, Ezem; • Eltolad, Bethul, Hormah; • Ziklag, 5 Beth-marcaboth, Hazar-susah; • Beth-lebaoth and Sharuhē: thirteen towns and 6 their villages; • Ain, Rimmon, Ether and Ashan: four towns and their villages.
 7 With these go all the villages lying outside these towns as far as Baalath-beer,
 8 Ramah of the Negeb. This was the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Simeon 9 according to their clans. • The inheritance of the sons of Simeon was taken out of the portion of the sons of Judah, because the share of the sons of Judah was too large for them; this is why it was within the inheritance of the sons of Judah that the sons of Simeon were given theirs.

 to Japhia. •Thence it went on, eastwards and towards the sunrise, to Gath- 13
 hepher and Ittah-kazin; it came out at Rimmon and turned towards Neah.
 Then northwards the boundary bent towards Hannathon and ended at the plain 14

The tribe of Issachar

The fourth portion came to Issachar, to the sons of Issachar, according to 17 their clans. •Their territory reached to Jezreel and included Chesulloth and 18 Shunem; •Hapharaim, Shion, Anaharath; •Dobrath, ^bKishion, Ebez; •Remeth 19,20 and En-gannim, En-haddah and Beth-pazzez. •Their boundary touched Tabor 22

The tribe of Asher

The fifth portion came to the tribe of the sons of Asher, according to their 24 clans. •Within their territory were Helkath, Hali, Beten, Achshaph, •Allam- 25 melech, Amad and Mishal; on the west it touched Carmel and the streams of the 26
 Libnath; •on the other side it went eastwards to Beth-dagon, touching Zebulun 27 and the Vale of Iphtahel northwards, then Beth-emek and Neiel beyond; it ended at Cabul. To the north it took in •Abdon, Rehob, Hammon and Kanah 28 as far as Sidon the Great. •The boundary then turned back towards Ramah 29 and on to the stronghold of Tyre and Hosah, and ended at the sea. Mahalab, Achzib, •Acco, Aphek, Rehob: twenty-two towns with their villages. •This was 30 the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Asher, according to their clans; these 31 towns with their villages.

The tribe of Naphtali

To the sons of Naphtali came the sixth portion, to the sons of Naphtali 32 according to their clans. •Their territory went from Heleph and the Oak of 33 Zanaannim to Adami-negeb, to Jabneel as far as Lakkum, and ended at the Jordan. •The westward boundary ran to Aznoth-tabor and thence passed on to 34 Hukkok, touching Zebulun southwards, Asher westwards and the Jordan eastwards. •The fortified towns were Ziddim, Zer, Hammath, Rakkath, Chinnereth; 35
 Adamah, Ramah, Hazor; •Kedesh, Edrei, En-hazor; •Yiron, Migdalel, Horem, 36,37
 Beth-anath, Beth-shemesh: nineteen towns with their villages. •This was the 38 inheritance of the sons of Naphtali according to their clans; the towns with their 39 villages.

The tribe of Dan^c

To the tribe of the sons of Dan came the seventh portion according to their 40 clans. •Within the territory of their inheritance were Zorah, Eshtaol, Irshemesh; 41
 Sha-alabbin, Aijalon, Ithlah; •Elon, Timnah, Ekron, •Eltekeh, Gibbethon, 42,43 Baalath; Jehud, Bene-berak, Gath-rimmon; •Me-jarkon and Rakkon with the 44 territory facing Joppa. 45

But the territory of the sons of Dan resisted them; and therefore the sons of 47
 Dan went up and attacked Leshem and captured it and put it to the sword.
 Having seized the town they settled in it, and changed the name of Leshem to Dan after Dan their ancestor. •This was the inheritance of the tribe of the sons 48 of Dan, according to their clans: these towns with their villages.

24:30
 Jg 2:9

So ended the drawing of lots for the country and the apportioning of it.^d 49
 And the Israelites gave Joshua son of Nun an inheritance among them; •at the 50 command of Yahweh, they gave him the city he had asked for, Timnath-serah in the highlands of Ephraim; he rebuilt the city and settled there.

51 These are the inheritances which Eleazar the priest, Joshua son of Nun, and the heads of each family apportioned by lot among the tribes of Israel at Shiloh, in Yahweh's presence, at the door of the Tent of Meeting; and thus the apportioning of the land was finished.

D. PRIVILEGED CITIES

The cities of refuge^a

¹ 20 Yahweh said to Joshua, "Speak to the Israelites and say to them, "Choose ² the cities of refuge of which I spoke to you through Moses, "towns ³ where a man who has killed accidentally, unwittingly, may find sanctuary; they ⁴ are to be your refuge from the avenger of blood. "The man who has killed may seek sanctuary in one of these towns; he must stop at the entrance of the town gate and explain his case to the elders of the place. They shall let him enter ⁵ the town and assign him a place to live with them. "If he is pursued by the avenger of blood, they are not to give him up to him, since he has killed his neighbour ⁶ unwittingly, with no long-cherished hatred against him. "The man who has killed must remain in that town until he has appeared for judgement before the community, until the death of the high priest then in office. Only then may the man who has killed go back to his own town and his own house, to the town from which he has fled." "

⁷ For this purpose they designated Kedesh in Galilee, in the highlands of Naphtali, Shechem in the highlands of Ephraim, and Kiriath-arba, ⁸ which is now Hebron, in the highlands of Judah. "Across the Jordan and on the east facing Jericho, in the wilderness on the tableland, they chose Bezer of the tribe of Reuben, Ramoth-gilead of the tribe of Gad, and Golan ⁹ in Bashan of the tribe of Manasseh. "These were the towns marked out for all the Israelites and for the stranger living among them, so that any man might find sanctuary there if he had killed accidentally, and might escape the hand of the avenger of blood until he had appeared for judgement before the community.

The levitical cities^a

¹ 21 Then the heads of families among the Levites came to Eleazar the priest and to Joshua son of Nun and the heads of families of the tribes of Israel—² they were then at Shiloh in the land of Canaan. They said to them, 'Yahweh ordered through Moses that we should be given towns to live in, with the ³ adjoining pasture lands for our cattle'. "So because of Yahweh's order the Israelites gave the Levites these towns from their inheritance, and with them ⁴ the adjoining pasture lands. "Lots were cast for the clans of the Kohathites.
To the Levites, the sons of Aaron the priest, fell thirteen towns from the tribes ⁵ of Judah, Simeon and Benjamin; "the other sons of Kohath received, clan by

c. The tribe of Dan first settled to the west of Benjamin but was harried by the Amorites, Jg 1:34-35, and even more by the Philistines, cf. the story of Samson, Jg 13-16. Most of the Danites emigrated northward to the sources of the Jordan, Jg 18. The migration took place at the beginning of the period of the Judges; it is taken as an already accomplished fact by Jg 5:17 (Dan, coupled with Asher, is associated with the coast of Phoenicia); Gn 49:17 (Dan lies on a trade route); Dt 33:22 (Dan is near Bashan). Part of Dan's original territory was repopulated by Calebites, 1 Ch 2:42-50.

d. The document describing the territory of the tribes ends here, see 14:1+. Vv. 49b-51 are an editorial addition.

20 a. Ch. 20-21 complement the account of the division of the land. Ch. 20 makes provision for the law of asylum of Ex 21:13+, and names six cities of refuge in accordance with the prescription of Nb 35 and Dt 19.

21 a. Levi is not an independent political unit and is awarded no territory, 13:14,33; 14:3-4; 18:7, but the Levites are allowed residence in certain towns and rights over the adjacent pastures, cf. Nb 35:1-8. The towns are the six cities of refuge of ch. 20, and forty-six more, chosen from the various tribes. The date of this catalogue is disputed: it may go back to the time of David and Solomon.

the sons of Gershon, clan by clan, fell thirteen towns from the tribes of Issachar, Asher, Naphtali and the half-tribe of Manasseh in Bashan. •To the sons of Merari, 7 clan by clan, fell twelve towns from the tribes of Reuben, Gad and Zebulun.

These towns and the adjoining pasture land, the Israelites gave by lot to the 8
Levites, as Yahweh had ordered through Moses.

The portion of the Kohathites

1 Ch 6:50 From the tribe of Judah and the tribe of Simeon they gave the towns named 9 below;^c •this was the portion of the sons of Aaron from the clans of the Koha- 10 thites, of the sons of Levi; for theirs was the first portion. •They gave them 11 14:13-14 Kiriath-arba, the chief city of the Anakim, which is now Hebron, in the highlands of Judah, with the pasture lands round it. •But the fields and villages of this 12 town they gave into the possession of Caleb son of Jephunneh as his property.
To the sons of Aaron the priest they gave Hebron, the city of refuge for men 13 who had killed, and the adjoining pasture lands; also Libnah with its pasture lands, •and Jattir, Eshtemoa, •Holon, Debir, •Ashan, Juttah and Beth-shemesh, 14,15 each with its pasture lands: nine towns taken from these two tribes. •From 17 1 Ch 7:8 the tribe of Benjamin, Gibeon and Geba with their pasture lands, •and Anathoth and Almon with theirs: four towns. •The towns of the priests, the sons of 18
Aaron, were thirteen towns in all, with their pasture lands. 19

1 Ch 6:51 To the clans of the sons of Kohath, to the remaining Levites of the sons of 20
Kohath, the lot assigned towns belonging to the tribe of Ephraim. •They were 21 given the city of refuge, Shechem, with its pasture lands, in the highlands of Ephraim, together with Gezer, •Kibzaim and Beth-horon, each with its 22 pasture lands: four towns. •From the tribe of Dan, Elteke, Gibbethon, •Aijalon 23 and Gath-rimmon with their pasture lands: four towns. •From the half-tribe 24 of Manasseh, Taanach and Jibleam with their pasture lands: two towns. •In all: 25 26 ten towns with their pasture lands for the remaining clans of the sons of Kohath.

The portion of the sons of Gershon

To the sons of Gershon who were of levitical clans were given the city of 27 refuge Golan in Bashan and also Ashtaroth, each with its pasture lands: two towns, both from the half-tribe of Manasseh. •From the tribe of Issachar, 28 Kishion, Dobrath, •Jarmuth and En-gannim, each with its pasture lands: four towns. •From the tribe of Asher, Mishal, Abdon, •Helkath and Rehob, each 29 with its pasture lands: four towns. •From the tribe of Naphtali, Kedesh the city 30 of refuge in Galilee, Hammoth-dor and Rakkath, each with its pasture lands: 31 three towns. •The towns for the Gershonites according to their clans were thirteen 32 towns in all with their pasture lands. 33

The portion of the sons of Merari

To the clans of the sons of Merari, the remainder of the Levites, fell four 34 towns with their pasture lands from the tribe of Zebulun, Jokneam, Kartah, Rimmon^d and Nahalal; •from beyond the Jordan and from the tribe of Reuben, 35
the city of refuge Bezer in the wilderness on the tableland, Jahaz, •Kedemoth 36 and Mephaath, each with its pasture lands: four towns;^e •from the tribe of Gad 37
the city of refuge Ramoth-gilead, Mahanaim, •Heshbon and Jazer, each with 38 its pasture lands: four towns. •The towns allotted clan by clan to the sons of 39
Merari, to the remainder of the levitical clans, were twelve towns in all. 40

The towns thus granted to the Levites in Israelite territory were in all forty- 41 eight, with their pasture lands. •For all these towns, the town itself and the 42 pasture land round it went together. This was true of every town named.

The end of the apportioning

So it was that Yahweh gave the Israelites all the land he had sworn to give 43

- 44 their fathers. They took possession of it and settled there. •Yahweh granted them peace on all their frontiers just as he had sworn to their fathers, and of all their enemies not one had managed to stand against them. Yahweh had given all 45 their enemies into their hands. •Of all the promises that Yahweh had made to the House of Israel, not one failed; all were fulfilled.

III. JOSHUA FINISHES HIS COURSE

A. THE RETURN OF THE EASTERN TRIBES.

THE QUESTION OF THEIR ALTAR^a

The tribes from across the Jordan are sent home

- 1 22 Then Joshua summoned the Reubenites, the Gadites and the half-tribe of 2 Manasseh •and said to them, 'You have faithfully observed all that Moses the servant of Yahweh ordered you, and whenever I have given you an
3 order you have obeyed me. •Despite the fact that the campaign has lasted such a very long time, you have never deserted your brothers; at every point you
4 have obeyed the orders of Yahweh your God. •Now that Yahweh your God has granted your brothers the rest he promised them, go back to your tents, to the land given into your possession by Moses the servant of Yahweh, beyond 5 the Jordan. •But take great care to practise the commandments and the Law which Moses the servant of Yahweh gave you: love Yahweh your God, follow his paths always, keep his commandments, be loyal to him and serve him with all your heart and soul.'

1:12-18
Nb 32:6-32

Heb 4:8

Dt 6:5+

- 6 Joshua blessed them and sent them away; they went home to their tents.
7 Moses had given a territory in Bashan to one half of the tribe of Manasseh; to the other half Joshua gave another among their brothers on the west bank of the 8 Jordan. As Joshua sent them home to their tents he blessed them •and said to them, 'You are going back to your tents with great wealth, with cattle in plenty, with silver and gold, bronze and iron and great quantities of clothing; share these spoils of your enemies with your brothers'.

An altar is built beside the Jordan^b

- 9 The Reubenites, the Gadites and the half-tribe of Manasseh went home again; they left the Israelites at Shiloh in the land of Canaan, and made their way back to the land of Gilead, the territory which belonged to them and where they had settled in accordance with the order of Yahweh given through Moses.
10 When they came to the circles of stones at the Jordan which are in Canaanite territory, the Reubenites, the Gadites and the half-tribe of Manasseh built an 11 altar there beside the Jordan, an imposing altar of great size. •This came to the ears of the Israelites. 'See,' the word went round 'the Reubenites, the Gadites and the half-tribe of Manasseh have built this altar facing the land of Canaan near the circles of stones at the Jordan, beyond the territory of the Israelites.'^c 12 At this news, the whole community of the children of Israel mustered at Shiloh, ready to march against them and make war on them.

e. Vv. 36-37, omitted by the official Massoretic text, are found in many Hebr. MSS and are included here with corrections from the Greek.

22 a. Ch. 22 comes from a separate tradition which the author has adjusted to the outlook of Deuteronomy.

b. This episode probably took place in the period of the Judges; the Ephraimites, who were in possession of ark and sanctuary, henceforth opposed any further proliferation of altars. But in fact each tribe had its own sanctuaries, some of them held in honour from patriarchal times, others associated with the memory of some more recent divine manifestation. The period of centralised worship (demanded by Dt 12:4-14, 17-19, 26-28) was still far off. 2 K 5:17, however, shows that Yahwistic worship outside the promised land was inconceivable.

c. V. 11, which locates the altar on the far side of Jordan, is an addition.

The eastern tribes rebuked

Nb 25:7,11f</sup> The Israelites sent the priest Phinehas son of Eleazar to the Reubenites, the Gadites and the half-tribe of Manasseh, in the land of Gilead, and with him ten leading men, one leader and head of his family from each tribe in Israel; every one of them was head of his family among the clans of Israel. When they came to the Reubenites, the Gadites and the half-tribe of Manasseh in the land of Gilead, this is what they said to them:

'This is our message to you from the whole community of Yahweh: What do you mean by this treachery committed against the God of Israel? Why turn aside from Yahweh today, building yourselves an altar, an act of rebellion today against Yahweh himself?

Dt 4:3</sup> 'Was the sin at Peor not enough, the sin from which we are not cleansed even now, in spite of the plague that ravaged the whole community of Yahweh? Since then, you have stopped following Yahweh today, since you set yourselves in revolt against him today, tomorrow his anger will be roused against the whole community of Israel.

'Do you think your territory is unclean? Then cross over into the territory of Yahweh, where his tabernacle is, and choose a home among us. But do not rebel against Yahweh or make us accomplices in rebellion by building an altar to vie with the altar of Yahweh our God. When Achan son of Zerah betrayed his trust in the matter of the ban, did not the wrath come down on the whole community of Israel, although he was only one man? Did he not have to die for his sin?'

The tribes from across the Jordan clear their name

The Reubenites, the Gadites and the half-tribe of Manasseh spoke in their turn and answered the heads of the clans of Israel:

^{Dt 10:17} 'The God of gods, Yahweh, the God of gods, Yahweh well knows, and let Israel know it too: if there has been defiance or treachery on our part against Yahweh, let him not save us today; or if we have built an altar to turn away from Yahweh and offer holocaust and oblation and communion sacrifice on it, let Yahweh punish us for it! The truth is, we acted from fear and for this reason: one day your children might say to ours, "What link have you with Yahweh the God of Israel? Has not Yahweh set the boundary of the Jordan between us and you, you sons of Reuben and sons of Gad? You have no share in Yahweh." Thus your children might be the cause of stopping ours from paying reverence to Yahweh.

'So we said to each other, "Let us build this altar, not for holocausts or other sacrifices but as a witness between us and you and among our descendants after us, proving that we do indeed worship Yahweh with our holocausts, our victims and our communion sacrifices in his presence. So that one day your children will not be able to say to ours: You have no share in Yahweh. But if ever it were to happen that they said such a thing to us or to our descendants in the future, we should say to them: Look at this structure, Yahweh's altar, made by our ancestors not for holocausts or other sacrifices but as a witness between us and you." We have no intention of defying Yahweh or turning away from serving him today by building an altar for holocausts or oblations or sacrifices to vie with the altar of Yahweh our God that stands before his tabernacle!'

Peace restored

When Phinehas the priest, the leaders of the community and the heads of the clans of Israel who were with him heard the words spoken by the sons of Gad and of Reuben and of Manasseh, they approved of them. Then the priest Phinehas son of Eleazar said to the sons of Reuben and sons of Gad and sons of Manasseh, 'Now we clearly see that Yahweh is among us, because you have not committed any treachery against him; this means you have saved the children of Israel from the punishment of Yahweh'.

- 32 The priest Phinehas son of Eleazar and the leaders left the Reubenites and the Gadites and returned from the land of Gilead to the land of Canaan and 33 the Israelites, to whom they brought back this answer. •The Israelites were pleased to hear this; they gave thanks to God and spoke no more of marching against them and making war and ravaging the country where the sons of Reuben
 34 and of Gad had settled. •The Reubenites and the Gadites named the altar. . . .^d Gn31:48-52
 'Because' they said 'it will be a witness between us that Yahweh is God'. Jg 6:24

B. JOSHUA'S LAST WORDS TO THE PEOPLE^a

Joshua sums up his work

- 1 23 Long after Yahweh had given Israel rest from all the enemies round 2 them—Joshua was old now, far advanced in years—Joshua summoned 13:1;14:10;
 all Israel, their elders, chief men, judges and scribes, and said to them, 'I myself 24:29
 3 am old, far advanced in years; •you for your part have witnessed all that Yahweh your God has done to all these nations before your eyes; Yahweh your God
 4 himself has fought for you. •Now as an inheritance for your tribes, I have apportioned you by lot the peoples who still remain to be conquered, no less than those that I have wiped out between the Jordan and the Great Sea in the west.
 5 Yahweh your God will himself drive them out before you; he will cast them out 13:6
 before you and you will take possession of their country as Yahweh your God promised you.

A rule of life among foreign peoples

- 6 'Therefore stand firm to keep and fulfil all that is written in the Book of the 7 Law of Moses, never turning aside from it to right or left, •never mingling with Dt 7:1-6 the peoples who are still left beside you. Do not utter the names of their gods, Ex 23:13 do not swear by them, do not serve them and do not bow down before them.
 8 No; you must be loyal to Yahweh your God as you have been till now. •Because 9 of this, Yahweh has driven out great and powerful nations before you, and no
 10 one so far has been able to resist you. •One man of you could rout a thousand of them, because Yahweh your God himself fought for you as he had promised 11 you. •Be very careful, as you value your life, to love Yahweh your God. Dt 6:5+
 12 'But if you prove faithless, if you make friends with the remnant of those Dt 7:1-6
 13 peoples who are still left beside you, if you form kinships with them and intermarry, •then know for certain that Yahweh your God will no longer drive these peoples before you; instead, they will be a snare and a pitfall for you, a scourge to your sides and thorns in your eyes, till you vanish from this good land which Yahweh your God has given you.
 14 'And now today I must go the way of all the earth. Acknowledge with all your heart and soul that of all the promises of good that Yahweh your God has made you, not one has failed: all have been fulfilled, and not one has failed. 21:45
 15 'But just as every promise of good made to you by Yahweh your God has Dt 28 been fulfilled for you, so also will Yahweh fulfil against you all his threats of evil, even to driving you out of the good land that Yahweh your God has given you.
 16 'For if you violate the covenant which Yahweh your God has demanded of you, if you go and serve other gods and bow down before them, then Yahweh's

Dt 4:26 anger will be roused against you and you will quickly vanish from the good land that he has given you.'

C. THE GREAT ASSEMBLY AT SHECHEM^a

Israel's vocation set forth once more

24 Joshua gathered all the tribes of Israel together at Shechem;^b then he called 1 the elders, leaders, judges and scribes of Israel, and they presented themselves before God. •Then Joshua said to all the people: 2

Gn11:27-32 Ps 45:10 'Yahweh the God of Israel says this, "In ancient days your ancestors lived beyond the River—such was Terah the father of Abraham and of Nahor—and they served other gods. •Then I brought your father Abraham from beyond the 3 River and led him through all the land of Canaan. I increased his descendants and gave him Isaac. •To Isaac I gave Jacob and Esau. To Esau I gave the mountain 4 country of Seir as his possession. Jacob and his sons went down into Egypt. Gn25:19-26; 27:36:1-8 Then I sent Moses and Aaron and plagued Egypt with the wonders that I worked 5 there. So I brought you out of it. •I brought your ancestors out of Egypt, and 6 you came to the Sea; the Egyptians pursued your ancestors with chariots and horsemen as far as the Sea of Reeds. •There they called to Yahweh, and he 7 spread a thick fog between you and the Egyptians, and made the sea go back on them and cover them. You saw with your own eyes the things I did in Egypt. Nb21:21-35 Dt 2:26-3:11 Ps 78:55 Then for a long time you lived in the wilderness, •until I brought you into the 8 land of the Amorites who lived beyond the Jordan; they made war on you and I gave them into your hands; you took possession of their country because Nb22:24 Jg 11:24 I destroyed them before you. •Next, Balak son of Zippor the king of Moab 9 arose to make war on Israel, and sent for Balaam son of Beor to come and curse you. •But I would not listen to Balaam; instead, he had to bless you, and I saved 10 you from his hand.

"When you crossed the Jordan and came to Jericho, those who held Jericho 11 fought against you, as did the Amorites and Perizzites, the Canaanites, Hittites, Girgashites, Hivites and Jebusites, but I put them all into your power. •I sent 12 out hornets in front of you, which drove the two Amorite kings before you; Ex 23:28 Dt 7:20 Ps 44:3 D6:10-13 this was not the work of your sword or your bow. •I gave you a land where you 13 never toiled, you live in towns you never built; you eat now from vineyards and olivegroves you never planted."

Israel chooses Yahweh

Gn 35:2 Ezk 20:3 'So now, fear Yahweh and serve him perfectly and sincerely; put away the 14 gods that your ancestors served beyond the River and in Egypt, and serve Yahweh. •But if you will not serve Yahweh, choose today whom you wish to serve, 15 whether the gods that your ancestors served beyond the River, or the gods of the Amorites in whose land you are now living. As for me and my House, we will serve Yahweh.'

Ex 19:8;24:3 The people answered, 'We have no intention of deserting Yahweh and 16 serving other gods! •Was it not Yahweh our God who brought us and our 17 ancestors out of the land of Egypt, the house of slavery, who worked those great wonders before our eyes and preserved us all along the way we travelled and among all the peoples through whom we journeyed? •What is more, Yahweh 18 drove all those peoples out before us, as well as the Amorites who used to live in this country. We too will serve Yahweh, for he is our God.'

Then Joshua said to the people, 'You cannot serve Yahweh, because he is 19 a holy God, he is a jealous God who will not forgive your transgressions or your sins. •If you desert Yahweh to follow alien gods he in turn will afflict and destroy 20 you after the goodness he has shown you.' •The people answered Joshua, 'No; 21 it is Yahweh we wish to serve'. •Then Joshua said to the people, 'You are 22 witnesses against yourselves that you have chosen Yahweh, to serve him'. They answered, 'We are witnesses'. •'Then cast away the alien gods among you and give your hearts to Yahweh the God of Israel!' •The people answered Joshua, 'It is Yahweh our God we choose to serve; it is his voice that we will obey'.

The covenant at Shechem

That day, Joshua made a covenant for the people; he laid down a statute and ordinance for them at Shechem. •Joshua wrote these words in the Book of the Law of God. Then he took a great stone and set it up there, under the oak in the sanctuary of Yahweh, •and Joshua said to all the people, 'See! This stone shall be a witness against us^c because it has heard all the words that Yahweh has spoken to us: it shall be a witness against you in case you deny your God.' Then Joshua sent the people away, and each returned to his own inheritance.

Gn 33:18-20

24 a. Part One (vv. 2-13): Joshua asks his hearers to recognise God's interventions on behalf of Israel, cf. the profession of faith in Dt 6:21-24 and 26:5-9. Part Two (vv. 14-24): all declare for Yahweh and renounce pagan gods. Part Three (vv. 25-28): the covenant is adopted and its statutes committed to writing. An ancient tradition underlies this ch.; it possibly implies something more than a renewal of the Sinaitic covenant, namely, an offer of the Yahwistic faith to associated groups which had not experienced either the marvels or the revelation of the desert period. However this may be, the pact of Shechem confirmed the religious unity, and thus preserved the political unity, of the tribes: it was to have a decisive effect on the history of the nation.

b. Shechem with its central position was suitable for tribal gatherings, cf. also 1 K 12; and its history made it the ideal place for making this religious pact: Abraham had built an altar there, Gn 12:6-7, Jacob had bought land there, Gn 33:18-20, and there had buried the idols brought from Mesopotamia, Gn 35:2-4.

c. Cf. the heap of stones, Gn 31:48,52, the altar, Jos 22:26f, and the stèle, Is 19:19-20, set up as 'witnesses'.

d. Vv. 28-31 are almost exactly repeated at the beginning of the second introduction to Judges, showing how the two books have been edited together.

e. This same title was given to Moses, 1:1; cf. Dt 34:5, and later to David, Ps 18: pref; 89:3,20, presages of the 'servant of Yahweh', Is 42:1+.

f. The Septuagint adds 'There (in Timnath-serah) they laid with him, in the tomb where they had buried him, the flint knives with which he had circumcised the Israelites at Gailala when he had led them out of Egypt as the Lord ordered him; and they are there even today'.

g. Joshua and Eleazar die where Moses and Aaron should have died—in the Promised Land. Even the bones of Joseph, precursor of Israel in Egypt, are brought back to the land that had been given to the patriarchs. Thus, with the Book of Joshua, the return from Egypt is completed.

h. The Septuagint adds 'Then the Israelites went away, each to their own place and to their own town. The Israelites worshipped Astarte and Astaroth and the gods of the nations round them. The Lord delivered them over into the hands of Eglon, king of Moab, who oppressed them for eighteen years.' Cf. Jg 3:14.

THE BOOK OF JUDGES

I. FIRST INTRODUCTION^a

A. SUMMARY ACCOUNT OF THE SETTLEMENT IN CANAAN

The settlement of Judah, Simeon, Caleb and the Kenites

Ex33:7+ 1 After the death of Joshua the Israelites consulted Yahweh, 'Which of us 1 20:18 1 shall march up first against the Canaanites to attack them?' •And Yahweh 2 answered, 'Judah is to attack first; I am delivering the country straight into his hands'. •Then Judah said to Simeon his brother,^b 'March with me into the 3 territory allotted to me; we will attack the Canaanite, and then I in my turn will march with you into your allotted territory'. And Simeon marched with him. •So Judah marched up, and Yahweh delivered the Canaanites and Periz- 4 zites into their hands, and they routed ten thousand men at Bezek. •They came 5 Jos10:1-27 on Adoni-zedek^c at Bezek, joined battle with him and routed the Canaanites and Perizzites. •Adoni-zedek took to flight, but they followed and captured 6 him and cut off his thumbs and big toes. •Then Adoni-zedek said, 'Seventy 7 kings with their thumbs and big toes cut off used to pick up the crumbs under my table. As I did to others, so God does to me.' He was taken to Jerusalem,^d Jos 15:63 and there he died. •(The sons of Judah attacked Jerusalem and took it: they 8
1:21 put its people to the sword and set fire to the city.)^e
2S 5:6+

After this the sons of Judah went down to attack those Canaanites living 9 in the highlands and in the Negeb and the lowlands. •Then Judah marched 10 against the Canaanites in Hebron—in earlier times the name of Hebron was Kiriath-arba—and they overcame Sheshai and Ahiman and Talmai. •From there 11 they marched against the inhabitants of Debir—in earlier times the name of Debir was Kiriath-sepher. •Caleb said, 'To the man who conquers and captures 12
Kiriath-sepher, I will give my daughter Achsah to wife'. •The man who captured 13 3-9:10 it was Othniel son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother; Caleb gave him his 1Ch4:13 daughter Achsah to wife. •When she came to her husband, he urged her^f 14 to ask her father for a field. Then she jumped down from her donkey, and Caleb asked her, 'What do you want?' •She answered, 'Grant me a favour; since you 15 have banished me to the wilderness of Negeb, at least grant me some springs of water'. So Caleb gave her the upper springs and the lower springs.

4:11 The sons of Hobab the Kenite, father-in-law of Moses,^g went up with the 16
Nb10:29-32; sons of Judah from the city of palms into the wilderness in the Negeb of Judah 24:21+; Ex2:16+ at the Ascent of Arad; they went and lived with the Amalekites.

Ex17:8+ Then Judah set out with his brother Simeon. They overcame the Canaanites 17 who lived in Zephath and delivered it over to the ban; hence the town was Nb14:45; given the name of Hormah. •But Judah did not take^h Gaza with its territory 18
20:12+; or Ashkelon with its territory or Ekron with its territory; •they could not 19b
21:1-3 drive out the inhabitants of the plain, because they had iron chariots.ⁱ •Yahweh 19a
Jos 17:16 was with Judah, and Judah subdued the highlands.

1:10+ As Moses had directed, Hebron was given to Caleb, and he drove the three 20
Dt 2:10 sons of Anak out of it. •As regards the Jebusites living in Jerusalem, the sons 21
Jos 15:69

of Benjamin did not drive them out, and even now the Jebusites are still living in Jerusalem with the sons of Benjamin. Ps106:34▲

The settlement of the House of Joseph

- 22 In the same way, the House of Joseph went up against Bethel,^j and Yahweh Jos 12:16
23 was with them. •The House of Joseph made a reconnaissance of Bethel. The Jos 7:2 +
24 name of the city used to be Luz. •The scouts saw a man coming out of the city, Gn28:19 25 and said to him, 'If you show us how to enter the city, we will spare you'. •He showed them a way into the city. They put the inhabitants to the sword but 26 let the man go, and all his clan with him. •The man went off to the country Jos 6:23 of the Hittites and built a town which he called Luz; that is its name even yet.

The settlement of the northern tribes and the Edomites

- 27 Manasseh did not subdue Beth-shean and its outlying villages, or Taanach Jos12:21; and its villages. He did not drive out the inhabitants of Dor and its outlying 17:11-13 villages, or of Ibleam and its villages, or of Megiddo and its villages; in those 28 parts the Canaanites held their ground. •But when the Israelites became stronger, they subjected the Canaanites to forced labour, though they did not drive them
29 out.^k •Nor did Ephraim drive out the Canaanites in Gezer;^l thus the Canaanites Jos10:33;
30 went on living there among them. •Zebulun did not drive out the inhabitants 12:12;
of Kitron or of Nahalol. The Canaanites remained among Zebulun, but were 16:10
31 subjected to forced labour. •Asher did not drive out the inhabitants of Acco Jos19:10-15
32 or of Sidon or Ahlab, or Achzib...^m or Aphik or Rehob. •So the Asherites lived among the Canaanite inhabitants of the country, for they did not drive
33 them out. •Naphtali did not drive out the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh or of Jos19:32-33
Beth-anath; they settled among the Canaanite inhabitants of the country; but the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh and of Beth-anath were compelled to do forced 34 labour for them. •The Amorites drove back the Danites into the highlands 17:1 + 35 and would not allow them to enter the plain below. •The Amorites held Jos19:47 their ground at Har-heres and Shaalbim, but when the hand of the House of Jacob grew heavier, they were subjected to forced labour.
36 The territory of the Edomitesⁿ begins at the Ascent of Akrabbim, runs to Nb34:3-5 the Rock and continues on upwards. Jos 15:3

The angel of Yahweh tells Israel of ills to come^a

- 1 2 The angel of Yahweh^b went up from Gilgal to Bethel^c and came to the 6:7-10
House of Israel; and he said, '...and I brought you out of Egypt and led Ps106:34 you into this land which I swore to give your fathers. I said: I shall never break Dt 7:1-5 1 a. General view of the situation in Palestine after the death of Joshua. The Israelites establish themselves in Canaan slowly and painfully (contrast the Joshua account, cf. Jos 10:1+); tribes, and even clans, fight as isolated units; for the most part they occupy the highlands; they have no success against the towns in the plain, nor do they massacre the conquered but only subjugate them. This account, so close to the facts, appears to derive from an ancient document, but the part played by Judah has been subsequently enhanced to bring out the religious significance of that tribe. 2:1-5 adopts a different standpoint.

b. The tribes are personified under the names of their eponymous ancestors. Simeon and Judah will eventually merge, Jos 19:1+.

c. 'Adoni-zedek', following Jos 10:1-3.

i. Judah is therefore isolated from the rest of Israel cf. Jg 5 and Dt 33:7.

j. Jos does not mention this capture of Bethel; on the other hand, Jg does not record the capture of Ai which is near Bethel, Jos 8.

obeyed my orders. What is it that you have done? •Very well, I now say this: 3
I am not going to drive out these nations before you. They shall become your oppressors,^d and their gods shall be a snare for you.' •When the angel of 4 Yahweh had spoken these words to all the Israelites, the people began to groan 20:26 and weep. •And they called the name of the place Bochim,^e and offered sacrifices 5 to Yahweh there.

II. SECOND INTRODUCTION

GENERAL REFLECTIONS ON THE AGE OF THE JUDGES^f

The end of Joshua's life

Ex 23:30 Then Joshua told the people to go, and the Israelites went away, each to his 6
||Jos24:28 own possession, to occupy the land. •The people served Yahweh throughout the 7
||Jos24:31 lifetime of Joshua and the lifetime of those elders who outlived Joshua and had ||Jos24:29 known all the great deeds that Yahweh had done for the sake of Israel. •Joshua 8 son of Nun, the servant of Yahweh, died when he was a hundred and ten years Jos 19:50 old. •They buried him on the estate he had received for inheritance, at Timnath- 9 heres in the highlands of Ephraim, north of Mount Gaash. •And when 10 that generation too had been gathered to its fathers, another generation followed it which knew neither Yahweh nor the deeds that he had done for the sake of Israel.

The unfaithfulness of succeeding generations; their punishment

Ps106:36 Then the sons of Israel did what displeases Yahweh^g and served the 11
Baals. •They deserted Yahweh, the God of their ancestors, who had brought them 12 out of the land of Egypt, and followed other gods from the gods of the peoples round them. They bowed down to these; they provoked Yahweh; •they deserted 13 10:6 Yahweh to serve Baal and Astarte.^h •Then Yahweh's anger flamed out against 14
Dt 32:30 Israel. He handed them over to pillagers who plundered them; he delivered 15 1 S 7:14 them to the enemies surrounding them, and they were not able to resist them.
1 K 11:5 In every warlike venture, the hand of Yahweh was there to foil them, as Ps106:41 Yahweh had warned, as Yahweh had sworn to them. Thus he reduced them
Dt29:15-46 to dire distress.ⁱ

The judges. No lasting conversion

Then Yahweh appointed judges^j for them, and rescued the men of Israel from 16 the hands of their plunderers. •But they would not listen to their judges. They 17 prostituted themselves^k to other gods, and bowed down before these. Very quickly they left the path their ancestors had trodden in obedience to the orders of Yahweh; they did not follow their example. •When Yahweh appointed 18 judges for them, Yahweh was with the judge and rescued them from the hands of their enemies as long as the judge lived, for Yahweh felt pity for them as they groaned under the iron grip of their oppressors. •But once the judge 19 was dead, they relapsed and behaved even worse than their ancestors. They followed other gods; they served them and bowed before them, and would not give up the practices and stubborn ways of their ancestors at all.

Why foreign nations were left in the land

Then Yahweh's anger flamed out against Israel, and he said, 'Since this 20 people has broken the covenant I laid down for their ancestors, since they have

- 21 not listened to my voice, 'in future I will not evict any of the nations that Joshua 22 left in the land when he died'; 'this was to test them by means of these nations, to see whether Israel would or would not tread the paths of Yahweh as once 23 their ancestors had trodden them. 'So Yahweh allowed these nations to remain;
 he did not hurry to drive them out, and did not deliver them into the hands of Joshua.

The peoples who remained

- 1 3 These are the nations that Yahweh let remain, to use them to test all those 2 in Israel who had never known war in Canaan '(this was only in the interest of the generations of the sons of Israel, to teach them the art of war, those at 3 least who had never known the former wars): 'the five chiefs of the Philistines, all the Canaanites, the Sidonians, and the Hittites^a who lived in the range of 4 Lebanon, from the uplands of Baal-hermon to the Pass of Hamath. 'They were used to put Israel to the test and see if they would keep the orders that 5 Yahweh had given their fathers through Moses. 'The Israelites lived among the Canaanites and Hittites and Amorites, the Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites; 6 they married the daughters of these peoples, gave their own daughters in marriage to their sons, and served their gods.

TOLD IN EPISODES^b

A. OTHNIEL

- 7 The Israelites^c did what displeases Yahweh. They forgot Yahweh their God 8 and served the Baals and the Asherahs. 'Then Yahweh's anger flamed out against Israel: he handed them over to Cushan-rishathaim the king of Edom,^d and the Israelites were enslaved by Cushan-rishathaim for eight years.
 9 The Israelites cried to Yahweh, and Yahweh raised up for the Israelites a deliverer who rescued them, Othniel son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother.
 10 The spirit of Yahweh came on him;^e he became judge in Israel and set out to fight. Yahweh delivered the king of Edom, Cushan-rishathaim, into his 11 hands, and he overcame Cushan-rishathaim. 'Then the land enjoyed rest for forty years.

d. 'oppressors' versions.

e. 'Bochim': 'the Weepers', a place near Bethel, unidentified.

f. The moral lesson of the whole book is contained in this second introduction: under Joshua's leadership the people remain faithful, v. 7, but subsequently desert Yahweh, vv. 10-12. God punishes them by abandoning them to their foes, vv. 14,15; nevertheless, he provides them with deliverers, 'judges', who bring them back to the worship of the true God, vv. 16,18. But without the judge to lead them they relapse, v. 19. This didactic theme is that of the deuteronomistic editor who has insinuated it by means of prefaces and conclusions to the story of each judge, 3:7,12-15; 4:1f; 6:10; 8:33; 10:6f, etc. But the editor has retained and included other more ancient explanations of Israel's reverses. The first is that God's purpose in allowing Israel's antagonists to survive was to train his people for warfare, 3:1-2. A second, that he wished to put their fidelity to the test by contact with the indigenous pagans, 2:22-23; 3:4, as a punishment for Israel's disloyalty; there are traces of this opinion in Jos 23:4-13. A third explanation, cf. Ex 23:29 and Dt 7:22, is that the native peoples were preserved to prevent the country being overrun by wild animals. Ws 12:3-22 will eventually attribute the delay to God's merciful patience: he gives the native peoples time to repent before their extermination.

g. Lit. 'did what was evil in the sight of Yahweh', a recurring formula of Jg and Dt.

h. 'Astarte'; Hebr. has 'the Astartes'. In the Bible the phrase 'Baal and Astarte' or, in the plural, 'the Baals and Astartes' is the common expression for the Canaanite divinities. Baal, 'the Lord', is the male god; Astarte, the Assyrian Ishtar, is the goddess of love and fecundity. The name Asherah, another female divinity of the same type, cf. Ex 34:13+, is sometimes used instead, 3:7; 2 K 23:4, etc.

i. Following Greek and Dt 28:52.

j. See Introduction to Joshua-Kings.

k. Customary figure of speech for idol-worship.

3 a. 'Hittites', following Jos 11:3 and 2 S 24:6; 'Hivites' Hebr.

b. Examples taken from history now illustrate the moral thesis of 2:10-19, formulas from which recur from time to time in this narrative.

c. Here indicating Judah and Simeon only; these southern tribes were threatened by Edomite raids.

d. Read 'Edom' and not 'Aram' Hebr. (so also v. 10) and omit 'Naharaim'.

e. The divine appointment and function of the judge is expressed by God's 'taking possession' of him, cf. 6:34; 11:29; 13:25; 14:6,19 and cf. 1 S 11:6 and 16:13. The judges are 'inspired' as the prophets were, and the same expression is used in both cases, Nb 24:2; 1 S 10:6,10; 19:20,23; cf. Is 42:1; 59:21.

B. EHUD^f

1 S 12:9 When Othniel son of Kenaz died, •once again the men of Israel began to do 12 what displeases Yahweh, and Yahweh gave Eglon the king of Moab power over Israel, because they had done what displeases Yahweh. •Eglon in alliance with 13 the sons of Ammon and Amalek marched against Israel and conquered them and took possession of the city of palms.^g •The Israelites were enslaved by 14
Eglon the king of Moab for eighteen years.

1 Ch 8:4 Then the Israelites cried to Yahweh, and Yahweh raised up a deliverer for 15 them, Ehud the son of Gera the Benjaminite; he was left-handed. The men of Israel appointed him to take their tribute to Eglon the king of Moab. •Ehud 16 made a dagger—it was double-edged and a cubit long—and strapped it on under his clothes, over his right thigh. •He presented the tribute to Eglon the king 17 of Moab. This Eglon was a very fat man. •Having presented the tribute, Ehud 18 went off again with the men who had carried it; •but he himself, on reaching the 19 Idols of Gilgal,^h turned and went back and said, 'I have a secret message for you, O king'. The king replied, 'Silence!' and all who were with him went out.

Jdt 8:5 Then Ehud went in. The king sat in the cool retreat of his upper room; he was 20 alone. Ehud said to him, 'I have a message from God for you, O king'. The king immediately stood up from his seat. •Then Ehud, using his left hand, drew 21 the dagger he was carrying on his right thigh and thrust it into the king's belly.
The hilt too went in after the blade, and the fat closed over the blade, for Ehud 22 left the dagger in his belly; then he went out through the window.ⁱ •Ehud went 23 out by the porch; he had shut and locked the doors of the upper room behind him.

When he had gone, the servants came back and looked; the doors of the 24 upper room were locked. They thought, 'He is probably covering his feet' in the inner part of the cool room'. •They waited until they no longer knew what to 25 think, for he still did not open the doors of the upper room. At length they took the key and unlocked the room; their master lay on the ground, dead.

While they were waiting, Ehud had fled. He passed the Idols and escaped 26 to safety in Seirah. •When he reached the territory of Israel^k he sounded the 27 6:35 horn in the highlands of Ephraim, and the Israelites came down with him from the hills, with him at their head. •And he said to them, 'Follow 28 12:5 me, because Yahweh has delivered your enemy Moab into your hands'. So they followed him, cut Moab off from crossing the fords of the Jordan and let no one across. •On that occasion they beat the Moabites, some ten thousand men, 29 all tough and seasoned fighters, and not one escaped. •That day, Moab was 30 humbled under the hand of Israel, and the land enjoyed rest for eighty years.

C. SHAMGAR^l

D. DEBORAH AND BARAK^a

Israel oppressed by the Canaanites

1S12:11+ 4 When Ehud died, once again the Israelites began to do what displeases 1
Jos11:1+ Yahweh, •and Yahweh handed them over to Jabin the king of Canaan^b 2 1 S 12:9 who reigned at Hazor. The commander of his army was Sisera, who lived in Harosheth-ha-goiim.

Then the Israelites cried to Yahweh; for Jabin had nine hundred chariots 3 plated with iron and had cruelly oppressed the Israelites for twenty years.

Deborah

- 4 At this time Deborah was judge in Israel, a prophetess,^c the wife of Lappidoth.
 5 She used to sit under Deborah's Palm^d between Ramah and Bethel in the highlands of Ephraim, and the Israelites would come to her to have their 6 disputes decided. •She sent for Barak son of Abinoam from Kedesh in Naphtali. She said to him, 'This is the order of Yahweh, the God of Israel: ↗ Heb11:32
 "March to Mount Tabor and take with you ten thousand men from the sons
 7 of Naphtali and the sons of Zebulun. •I will entice Sisera, the commander of Jabin's army, to encounter you at the wadi Kishon with his chariots and 8 troops; and I will put him into your power.'" •Barak answered her, 'If you come with me, I will go; if you will not come, I will not go, for I do not know how to choose the day when the angel of Yahweh will grant me success'.^e ↗ Ps83:9 9 'I will go with you then,' she said 'but, the way you are going about it, the glory will not be yours;^f for Yahweh will deliver Sisera into the hands of a 10 woman.' Then Deborah stood up and went with Barak to Kedesh, •and there Barak summoned Zebulun and Naphtali. Ten thousand men marched behind him, and Deborah marched with him. 4:14
Gn16:7+

Heber the Kenite

- 11 Heber the Kenite had cut himself off from the tribe of Kain and the clan of the sons of Hobab, the father-in-law of Moses; he had pitched his tent near the Oak of Zaanannim, not far from Kedesh. 1:16+
Nb24:21+

Sisera routed

- 12 When Sisera heard that Barak son of Abinoam was encamped on Mount Tabor, •he called for all his chariots—nine hundred chariots plated with iron—and all the troops he had. He summoned them from Harosheth-ha-goiim 13 to the wadi Kishon. •Deborah said to Barak, 'Up! For today is the day Yahweh has put Sisera into your power. Yes, Yahweh marches at your head.' And Barak charged down from Mount Tabor with ten thousand men behind^d him. 4:8;5:19 14 At Barak's advance, Yahweh struck terror into Sisera, all his chariots and all his troops. Sisera leapt down from his chariot and fled on foot. •Barak pursued the chariots and the army as far as Harosheth-ha-goiim. Sisera's whole army fell by the edge of the sword; not one man escaped. Ex 14:14

Sisera slain

- 17 Sisera meanwhile fled on foot towards the tent of Jael, the wife of Heber the Kenite. For there was peace between Jabin the king of Hazor and the family of Heber the Kenite. •Jael came out to meet Sisera and said to him, 'My lord, stay here with me; do not be afraid!' He stayed there in her tent, and she covered 18 him with a rug. •He said to her, 'Please give me a little water to drink, for I am

f. The narrative records a Moabite invasion of the country west of Jordan in the neighbourhood of Jericho and the highlands of Ephraim. It combines two very similar accounts: in the first, Eglon has his residence to the east of Gilgal, vv. 19 and 26, beyond Jordan in Moabite territory; in the second, v. 28, the incident takes place west of Jordan, probably at the Jericho oasis.

g. Here meaning Jericho.

h. As the name Gilgal implies, cf. Jos 4:19+, here there is a ring of upright stones: either rough-hewn idols or, more probably, the stones of the ancient cromlech inscribed with idolatrous emblems.

i. The end of the verse is absent from the Greek and is uncertain.

j. Euphemism: to relieve nature.

k. 'the territory of Israel' Greek; Hebr. omits.

l. Some textual witnesses put this brief passage after 16:31. As it is, it amputates the story of Ehud from that of Deborah, 4:1, and is a later insertion (at the end of the period of the Judges, as the mention of Philistines suggests). A 'Shamgar, son of Anath' appears also in the song of Deborah, 5:6, where he is apparently a Canaanite despot.

4 a. Faced with a coalition of northern Canaanite princes, the tribes are about to make their first attempt at effective unity. The deuteronomistic editor makes use of a prose narrative, ch. 4, and then, 5, of a poem of greater antiquity.

b. Since Canaan was never one kingdom we are to understand 'a Canaanite king', who was with some probability master of the plain of Esdraelon. The name Jabin is taken from Jos 11, but according to the poem of ch. 5 it was Sisera who was the Israelites' opponent.

c. Deborah dispenses justice on the authority of Yahweh.

d. 'Palm' corr.

e. 'for... success' Greek. Barak wants to be able to consult Yahweh (cf. Ex 33:7+) through Deborah during the campaign.

f. 'the glory will not be yours' corr.

thirsty'. She opened the skin that had milk^a in it, gave him some to drink and covered him up again. •Then he said to her, 'Stand at the tent door, and if anyone comes and questions you —if he asks, "Is there a man here?", say, "No".' •But Jael the wife of Heber took a tent-peg, and picked up a mallet; she crept up softly to him and drove the peg into his temple right through to the ground. He was lying fast asleep, worn out; and so he died.^b •And now Barak came up in pursuit of Sisera. Jael went out to meet him and said, 'Come in, and I will show you the man you are looking for'. He went into her tent; Sisera lay dead, with the tent-peg through his temple.

Israel delivered

Thus God that day humbled Jabin the king of Canaan before the Israelites. And the Israelites bore down more and more heavily on Jabin the king of Canaan, until he was utterly destroyed.

5 a. There is no doubt that this victory song, a masterpiece of ancient Hebrew literature, was composed when the events were fresh in its author's mind. It witnesses to the unity of worship that henceforth held the tribes together: Yahweh had come to the rescue of his people and his was the triumph; savage as it is, the song is instinct with genuine love for the God of Israel. Manasseh is here represented by Machir, first-born of Manasseh, cf. Jos 17:1. Gilead, v. 17, stands either for Gad (who does not otherwise appear) or for the Transjordanian half-tribe of Manasseh, Jos 13:29f. Four of the ten groups named did not rally to the call. E. GIDEON AND ABIMELECH^a

1. THE CALLING OF GIDEON

Israel oppressed by the Midianites

- 1S12:11+ 6 The Israelites did what displeases Yahweh; Yahweh gave them over for seven 1
Ex2:15+ years into the hands of Midian, •and Midian bore down heavily on Israel. 2 1 S 13:6 To escape from Midian the Israelites used the mountain clefts and the caves 3 and shelters. •Whenever Israel sowed seed, Midian would march up with Amalek 4 and the sons of the East;^b they would march up against Israel •and encamp 5 on their territory and destroy the produce of the country as far as Gaza. They 6 7:12
Lv 26:16 left Israel nothing to live on, not a sheep or ox or donkey, •for they came 7
Dt28:31f up as thick as locusts with their own cattle and their tents; they and their camels were past counting, they overran and pillaged the country. •Thus Midian brought 8 1 S 7:2 Israel to great distress, and the Israelites cried to Yahweh.

2:1-5+ A message from a prophet

- When the Israelites cried to Yahweh because of Midian, •Yahweh sent a 7 1 S 10:18 prophet to the Israelites. This was his message, 'Thus Yahweh speaks, the God 8 of Israel. "It was I who brought you out of Egypt and led you out of a house 9 of slavery. •I rescued you from the power of the Egyptians and the power of all who oppressed you. I drove them out before you and gave you their land, 10 and I said to you: I am Yahweh your God. Do not reverence the gods of the Amorites in whose land you now live. But you have not listened to my words."

The angel of Yahweh appears to Gideon

11 The angel of Yahweh^c came and sat under the terebinth at Ophrah^d which belonged to Joash of Abiezer. Gideon his son was threshing wheat inside the 12 winepress to keep it hidden from Midian, •when the angel of Yahweh appeared^e 13 to him and said, 'Yahweh is with you, valiant warrior!' •Gideon answered him, 'Forgive me, my lord, but if Yahweh is with us, then why is it that all this is happening to us now? And where are all the wonders our ancestors tell us of when they say, "Did not Yahweh bring us out of Egypt?" But now Yahweh has deserted us; he has abandoned us to Midian.'

14 At this Yahweh turned to him and said, 'Go in the strength now upholding you, and you will rescue Israel from the power of Midian. Do I not send you 15 myself?' •Gideon answered him, 'Forgive me, my lord, but how can I deliver Israel? My clan, you must know, is the weakest in Manasseh and I am the least 16 important in my family.' •Yahweh answered him, 'I will be with you and you shall 17 crush Midian as though it were a single man'. •Gideon said to him, 'If I have found favour in your sight, give me a sign that it is you who speak 18 to me.^f •I beg you, do not go away until I come back. I will bring you my offering^g and set it down before you.' And he answered, 'I will stay until you return'.

19 Gideon went away and prepared a young goat and made unleavened cakes with an ephah of flour.^h He put the meat into a basket and the broth into a pot, 20 then brought it all to him under the terebinth. As he came near, •the angel of Yahweh said to him, 'Take the meat and unleavened cakes, put them on this 21 rock and pour the broth over them'. Gideon did so. •Then the angel of Yahweh reached out the tip of the staff in his hand and touched the meat and unleavened cakes.ⁱ Fire sprang from the rock and consumed the meat and unleavened cakes, 22 and the angel of Yahweh vanished before his eyes. •Then Gideon knew this was the angel of Yahweh, and he said, 'Alas, my Lord Yahweh! I have seen 23 the angel of Yahweh face to face!' •Yahweh answered him, 'Peace be with you; 24 have no fear; you will not die'. •Gideon built an altar there to Yahweh and called it Yahweh-Peace. This altar still stands at Ophrah of Abiezer.

25 Now that night Yahweh said to Gideon, 'Take your father's fattened calf,^k and pull down the altar to Baal belonging to your father and cut down the

s. A town in Naphtali, south of Kadesh.

t. Probably a gloss derived from 4:11, 17, 21.

u. 'She stretched out' following Greek.

v. 'looks' following Greek. Cf. the expectation of Atossa, mother of Darius, in the Persae of Aeschylus.

w. Text corr. Hebr. 'spoil of two dyed stuffs, a piece of embroidery, dyed stuff, two pieces of embroidery for the neck of the spoil'.

x. 'who love you' Greek and Lat.; 'who love him' Hebr.

6 a. The story of Gideon is instructive of Israel's condition at this time. The Hebrews had taken to agriculture and, like the other settled peoples, were threatened by nomad incursions. To some extent they had adopted the worship of the Baalim, the local gods who guaranteed the annual yield of wheat and oil. A select few remained faithful to Yahweh. The deuteronomistic editor has made use of two, or possibly three, documents originating in the Northern Kingdom.

b. The semitic tribes who roamed the Syro-Arabian desert east of the Jordan, cf. Nb 24:21+.

c. Referred to as 'Yahweh' in vv. 14, 16, 23. In v. 22 Gideon identifies Yahweh and his 'angel'. Cf. Gn 16:7+.

d. A sacred tree, cf. 4:5; 9:37, etc.; Jos 24:26. Ophrah is to the north of Beisan.

e. In human shape evidently, cf. Gn 18:1.

f. Gideon realises that he is addressing a supernatural being.

g. The 'oblation' of Lv 2; Gideon is thinking of a 'communion sacrifice'.

h. A kid, the most suitable sacrificial animal; a measure of flour; loaves unleavened, because otherwise 'unclean'; all are placed on a rock, a primitive rite characteristic of peasants fresh from nomadic life.

i. Yahweh transforms the communion sacrifice into a holocaust. Heavenly fire consecrates the place as a shrine. The end of the verse is misplaced (in v. 23, Yahweh is still present).

j. Second account of Gideon's call. 'Gideon' means 'he who pulls, or cuts, down'.

enquiries and declared, 'Gideon son of Joash has done it'. •Then the townspeople 30 said to Joash, 'Bring out your son for he must die, since he has destroyed the altar to Baal and cut down the sacred post that stood beside it'. •Joash answered 31 all those mustered round him, 'Would you plead for Baal? Would you champion his cause? (Let anyone who pleads for Baal be put to death before dawn.)ⁱ If he is a god, let him plead for himself, now that Gideon has destroyed his altar.'
That day Gideon was given the name of Jerubbaal,^m because, they said, 'Baal 32 must plead against him, seeing that he has destroyed his altar'.

The call to arms

Then all Midian and Amalek and the sons of the East joined forces, crossed 33
the Jordan and encamped in the plain of Jezreel. •And the spirit of Yahweh 34 came on Gideon; he sounded the horn and Abiezer rallied behind him. •He sent 35 messengers throughout Manasseh, and Manasseh too rallied behind him; he sent messengers to Asher, Zebulun and Naphtali, and they too marched out to meet him.

The trial with the fleece

Gideon said to God, 'If you really mean to deliver Israel by my hand, as you 36 have declared, •see now, I spread out a fleece on the threshing-floor; if there 37 is dew only on the fleece and all the ground is left dry, then I shall know that you will deliver Israel by my hand, as you have declared'. •And so it happened. 38 Gideon rose the next morning, squeezed the fleece and wrung enough dew out of the fleece to fill a drinking cup. •Then Gideon spoke to God again, 'Do not 39 be angry with me if I speak once again. Let me make trial with the fleece just once more. Let the fleece alone be dry, and let there be dew on the ground all round it.' •And God did so that night. The fleece alone stayed dry, and there 40 was dew on the ground all round it.

Yahweh cuts down the numbers of Gideon's army

Dt8:17-18
Is10:13-15
Am 6:13

7 Jerubbaal (that is, Gideon) got up very early, as did all the people with him; 1 he pitched camp at En-harod;^a the camp of Midian was north of his, under the Hill of Moreh in the valley. •Then Yahweh said to Gideon, 'There are too 2 many people with you for me to put Midian into their power; Israel might claim the credit for themselves at my expense: they might say, "My own hand has rescued me". •Therefore, make this proclamation now to the people: "Let 3 anyone who is frightened or fearful go home!"' Gideon put them to the test.^b Twenty-two thousand men went home, and ten thousand were left.

Dt 20:8
1 M 3:561 S 14:6
Jdt 9:11

Yahweh said to Gideon, 'There are still too many people. Take them down 4 to the waterside and I will sift them there. If I say of a man: He is to go with you, that man is to go with you. And if I say of a man: He is not to go with you, that man is not to go.' •So Gideon took the people down to the 5 waterside, and Yahweh said to him, 'All those who lap the water with their tongues, as a dog laps, place these on one side. And all those who kneel down

6 to drink, place these on the other side.^c • The number of those who lapped with their tongues^d was three hundred; all the rest of the people had knelt to drink.
 7 Then Yahweh said to Gideon, 'With the three hundred who lapped the water I will rescue you and put Midian into your power. Let all the others go back, every man to his own home.' • Gideon made the people give him what pitchers and horns they had,^e then sent away all the Israelites, each to his own tent, keeping only the three hundred with him. The camp of Midian was below his own in the valley.

Ps 83:9

An omen of victory

9 Now it came about that in the night Yahweh said to him, 'Get up and go down to the camp. I am putting it into your power. • However, if you are afraid to make the assault, go down first to the camp with your servant Purah; • listen to what they are saying; you will be encouraged by it and then you will march against the camp.' So with his servant Purah he went down to the outposts of the camp.

12 Midian and Amalek and all the sons of the East stretched through the valley as thick as locusts; their camels were innumerable like the sand on the seashore.
 13 Gideon came up just as a man was telling his comrade a dream; he was saying, 'I had a dream: a cake made of barley bread came rolling through the camp of Midian; it reached the tent, struck against it^f and turned it upside down'. • His comrade answered, 'This can be nothing else than the sword of Gideon son of Joash the Israelite. God has put Midian and all the camp into his power.' • When Gideon heard the dream thus told and interpreted, he fell to his knees; then he returned to the camp of Israel and said, 'On your feet, for Yahweh has put the camp of Midian into your power!'

The surprise attack

16 Gideon then divided his three hundred men into three companies. To each man he gave a horn and an empty pitcher, with a torch inside each pitcher.
 17 He said to them, 'Watch me, and do as I do. When I reach the edge of the camp, whatever I do, you do too. • When I sound the horn, I and those with me, then you too must sound your horns all round the camp and shout, "For Yahweh and for Gideon!"'

19 Gideon and his hundred companions reached the edge of the camp at the beginning of the middle watch, when the new sentries had just been posted;
 20 they sounded their horns and smashed the pitchers in their hands. • The three companies sounded their horns and smashed their pitchers; with their left hands they grasped the torches, with their right hands the horns ready to blow; and 21 they shouted, 'For Yahweh and for Gideon!'^g • And they stood still, spaced out all round the camp. Then the whole camp woke^h and the Midianites fled, 22 shouting. • While the three hundred kept sounding their horns, Yahweh made every man in the camp turn his sword against his comrade. They all fled as far as Beth-shittah towards Zarethan,ⁱ as far as the bank of Abel-meholah opposite Tabbath.

Abiezer? •Into your power Yahweh^b has given the chieftains of Midian, Oreb 3 and Zeeb. Can what I managed to do compare with what you have done?' And at these words their anger left them.

3. GIDEON MAKES WAR BEYOND THE JORDAN. GIDEON'S END

Gideon pursues the enemy beyond the Jordan

Gideon reached the Jordan and crossed it, but he and his three hundred 4 companions were tired out and famished.^c •So he said to the men of Succoth, 5
'Please give my followers a few loaves of bread, because they are tired out, and I am pursuing Zebah and Zalmunna,^d the kings of Midian'. •The chieftains of 6 Succoth answered, 'Give bread to your army? Are the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna already in your grasp?' •And Gideon answered, 'Very well! When 7 Yahweh has put Zebah and Zalmunna into my power, I will tear your flesh with desert thorn and briar.' •From there he went up to Penuel and asked the 8 men of Penuel the same thing; they answered as those of Succoth had done.
And to those of Penuel he made a similar reply, 'When I return victorious, 9
I will destroy this tower'.

The defeat of Zebah and Zalmunna

Zebah and Zalmunna were in Karkor with their army, about fifteen thousand 10 men, all who remained of the army of the sons of the east. Those who had fallen were a hundred and twenty thousand fighting men. •Gideon went up the 11 nomads' way,^e eastwards of Nobah and Jogbehah, and routed the army when it thought itself in safety. •Zebah and Zalmunna fled. He pursued them; he 12 took the kings of Midian prisoner, both Zebah and Zalmunna. And he utterly destroyed the army.^f

Gideon's acts of vengeance

After the battle, Gideon returned by the Ascent of Heres.^g •He seized a young 13 man, one of the people of Succoth, and questioned him, and the young man 14 wrote down the names of the chieftains and elders of Succoth for him—seventy-seven men. •Then Gideon came to the people of Succoth and said, 'Here you 15 see Zebah and Zalmunna, about whom you taunted me and said, "Are the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna already in your grasp, for us to give bread to your tired troops?"' •Then he seized the elders of the city, and took desert thorn 16 and briar and tore^h the men of Succoth with them. •He destroyed the tower of Penuel and slaughtered the townsmen. •Then he said to Zebah and Zalmunna, 17
'The men you killed at Tabor—what were they like?' They answered, 'They 18 looked like you. Every one of them carried himself like the son of a king.' •Gideon 19 replied, 'They were my brothers, the sons of my own mother; as Yahweh lives, if you had spared their lives I would not kill you'. •Then he ordered Jether his 20 eldest son: 'Stand up and kill them'. But the boy did not draw his sword; he 21 dared not; he was still only a lad. •Then Zebah and Zalmunna said, 'Stand up yourself, and strike us down; for as a man is, so is his strength'. Then Gideon stood up and killed Zebah and Zalmunna; and he took the crescents from round their camels' necks. 9:54

Gideon triumphant. His end

22 The men of Israel said to Gideon, 'Rule over us, you and your sons and 1 S 8:7
 23 your grandson,^j because you have rescued us from the power of Midian'. •But Gideon answered them, 'It is not I who shall rule over you, nor my son; Yahweh 24 must be your lord'. •But Gideon went on, 'Let me make one request of you.
 Let every man of you give me one of the rings out of his spoils'—for the Ex 32 25 vanquished army had golden rings, because they were Ishmaelites. •They answered, 'Gladly'. So he spread out his cloak, and on it they threw, every man 26 of them, a ring taken from their spoils.^k •The weight of the golden rings he had asked for reached seventeen hundred shekels of gold, besides the crescents and the earrings and purple garments worn by the kings of Midian, and besides the 27 collars round their camels' necks, too. •Of all this, Gideon made an ephod^l and put it in his own city of Ophrah. After him, all Israel prostituted themselves to it, and it was a snare for Gideon and his family. Nb31:28f, 29 So Jerubbaal son of Joash withdrew and lived in his own house. •Gideon had 31 seventy sons begotten by him, for he had many wives. •His concubine, who 32 lived in Shechem, bore him a son too, whom he called Abimelech.^m •Gideon 9 son of Joash was blessed in his old age; he died, and was buried in the tomb of Joash his father, at Ophrah of Abiezer.

Israel relapses into idolatry

33 After Gideon's death, the people of Israel again began to prostitute themselves 9:4 34 to the Baals, and took Baal-berithⁿ for their god. •The Israelites no longer remembered Yahweh their God, who had rescued them from all the enemies 35 round them. •And towards the family of Jerubbaal—Gideon—they remained ungrateful for all its good deeds to Israel.

Remind yourselves also that I am your own flesh and blood.^c •His mother's brothers 3 spoke of him to all the leading men of Shechem in these terms, and their hearts inclined towards Abimelech, for they told themselves, 'He is our brother'. 8:33+ So they gave him seventy shekels of silver from the temple of Baal-berith, and 4 with this Abimelech paid worthless scoundrels to follow him. •Then he went 5 to his father's house at Ophrah and murdered his brothers, the seventy sons of 2 K 10: 1-17:11:1 Jerubbaal, on the selfsame stone.  21 Then Jotham took flight; he escaped and made his way to Beer; and there he remained, to be out of the reach of his brother Abimelech.

The men of Shechem revolt against Abimelech

- 22 Abimelech ruled over Israel for three years.^h •Then God sent a spirit of 1S16:14+
 23 discord between Abimelech and the leaders of Shechem, and the leaders of 1K22:23 24 Shechem rebelled against Abimelech. •And this was so that the crime committed against Jerubbaal’s seventy sons should be avenged,ⁱ and their blood recoil on their brother Abimelech who had murdered them and on those leaders of 25 Shechem who had helped him to murder his brothers. •To spite him, the leaders of Shechem put men in ambush on the mountain tops, and these robbed anyone 26 travelling their way.^j Abimelech was told of this. •Gaal son of Ebed,^k with his brothers, happened to pass through Shechem and won the confidence of the 27 leaders of Shechem. •They went out into the countryside to harvest their vineyards; they trod the grapes and held rejoicings and went into the temple 28 of their god. They ate and drank there^l and cursed Abimelech. •Then Gaal son of Ebed exclaimed, ‘Who is Abimelech, and what is Shechem, that we should be his slaves? Would it not be more fitting for the son of Jerubbaal and Zebul Gn 34 his delegate to serve^m the men of Hamor, the father of Shechem? Why should 29 we be his slaves? •Who will put this people under my command? Then I would drive Abimelech out and say to him:ⁿ Reinforce your army and come and 30 fight.’ •Zebul the governor of the city was told what Gaal son of Ebed had 31 said, and he was furious. •He sent messengers to Abimelech at Arumah, bidding them tell him, ‘Listen! Gaal son of Ebed has come to Shechem with his brothers, 32 and they are stirring up the town against you.’ •Move, therefore, under cover of dark, you and the men you have with you, and take up concealed positions 33 in the countryside; •then in the morning at sunrise leave them quickly and advance against the town. When Gaal and his men come out to meet you, do 34 with him as occasion serves.’ •So Abimelech set off under cover of dark with all the men he had and took up concealed positions opposite Shechem, in four 35 companies. •And as Gaal son of Ebed came out and paused at the entrance to the gate of the town, Abimelech and the men with him rose from their ambush.
 36 Gaal saw these men and said to Zebul, ‘Look, there are men coming down from the tops of the mountains!’ Zebul answered, ‘You mistake the shadow of the 37 mountains for men’. •But Gaal said again, ‘Look, there are men coming down prophetic circles in the Northern Kingdom, which were opposed to the monarchical system, cf. Jotham’s fable. But the narrative also reveals the peaceful coexistence of Israel and Canaan in the early days of Hebrew settlement in Palestine: Abimelech, who succeeds Gideon, reigns over the Canaanites as well as over the Israelites.

e. One of the earliest examples of didactic poetry in Israelite literature. It betrays a mistrust of the monarchy such as we find in 1 S 8. Olive, fig, and vine, trees of value for man, refuse kingship as serving no useful purpose; these represent Jerubbaal, cf. 8:23. The thornbush, fruitless and noxious, accepts it: this is Abimelech.

f. The mention of ‘good faith’ in v. 15 leads to a second moral now drawn from the fable; it concerns not the king but his supporters. The ‘good faith’ of the Shechemites is no more apparent in Abimelech’s case than previously in Jerubbaal’s. Total ruin will be the result, cf. what follows.

from the Navel of the Land, and another band is on its way from Diviners' Oak'.^p •Then Zebul said to him, 'What has become of your boasting now, you who said, "Who is Abimelech that we should be his slaves?"' Are not these the men you made light of? Sally out now, then, and fight them.' •So Gaal sallied out at the head of the leaders of Shechem and fought with Abimelech. But Abimelech drove Gaal before him; Abimelech went in pursuit of Gaal who fled before him, and many of his men fell dead before they reached the town gate. •Then Abimelech went back to^q Arumah, and Zebul drove out Gaal and his brothers and prevented them from living in Shechem.

Shechem destroyed and Migdal-shechem taken

Next day the people went out into the country, and Abimelech was told of this. •He took his men, divided them into three companies and lay in wait in the fields. When he saw the people leaving the town, he bore down on them and cut them to pieces. •While Abimelech and the company with him advanced and took up their post at the entrance to the town gate, the two other companies fell on everyone in the fields and slaughtered them. •All that day Abimelech attacked the town. He stormed it and slaughtered the people inside, razed the town and sowed it with salt.^r •On hearing this, the leading men of Migdal-shechem took refuge in the crypt of the temple of El-berith.^s •As soon as Abimelech heard that all the leaders of Migdal-shechem had gathered there, he went up to Mount Zalmon with all his men. Then taking an axe in his hands, he cut off the branch of a tree, picked it up and put it on his shoulder, and said to the men with him, 'Do what you have seen me do, and do it quickly'. •So all his men set to work cutting down branches, one each; then they followed Abimelech and heaped the branches on the crypt, and set it on fire over those inside.^t All the inhabitants of Migdal-shechem perished too, about a thousand men and women.

The siege of Thebez: the death of Abimelech

Then Abimelech marched against Thebez, besieged it and stormed it. •In the middle of the town there was a fortified tower in which all the men and women and all the leading men of the town took refuge. They locked the door behind them and climbed up to the roof of the tower. •Abimelech reached the tower and attacked it. As he was approaching the door of the tower to set it on fire, a woman threw down a millstone on his head and crushed his skull. •He called his armour-bearer at once and said to him, 'Draw your sword and kill me, that no one may say of me, "A woman killed him"'. His armour-bearer ran him through, and he died. •When the men of Israel saw that Abimelech was dead, they withdrew, each to his own home.

Thus God made the evil recoil on Abimelech that he had done to his father by murdering his seventy brothers, •as God made all the wickedness of the people of Shechem recoil on their own heads too. And so the curse of Jotham son of Jerubbaal came true for them.

Oppression by the Ammonites

6 Again the Israelites began to do what displeases Yahweh. They served the Baals and the Astartes, and the gods of Aram and Sidon, the gods of Moab and those of the Ammonites and Philistines. They deserted Yahweh and served him no more. •Then Yahweh's anger flamed out against Israel and he gave them over into the power of the Philistines and the power of the Ammonites, who from that year onward crushed and oppressed the men of Israel for eighteen years—all the Israelites who lived beyond the Jordan, in the Amorite country in Gilead. •The Ammonites also crossed the Jordan to fight Judah, Benjamin and the House of Ephraim, and Israel's distress was very great. •Then the Israelites cried to Yahweh and said, 'We have sinned against you, because we have turned from Yahweh our God to serve the Baals'. •And Yahweh said to the Israelites, 'When the Egyptians and the Amorites, the Ammonites and the Philistines,^d •the Sidonians and Amalek and Midian^e oppressed you and you cried to me, did I not rescue you from their power? •But you on your part have turned from me and served other gods; and so I shall rescue you no more. Go and cry to the gods you have chosen. Let them rescue you in your time of trouble.' •The Israelites answered Yahweh, 'We have sinned. Do with us as you think fit; only do rescue us today.' •They got rid of the foreign gods that they had, and served Yahweh, and he could bear Israel's suffering no longer.

17 The Ammonites mustered and pitched their camp in Gilead. The Israelites rallied and camped at Mizpah.^f •Then the people, the chieftains of Gilead, said to each other, 'Who will volunteer to fight the sons of Ammon? He shall be made leader of all the inhabitants of Gilead.'

Jephthah lays down his terms

11 Jephthah the Gileadite was a valiant warrior. He was the son of a harlot. Gilead was Jephthah's father,^a •but Gilead's wife also bore him sons, and the sons of this wife, when they grew up, drove Jephthah out, saying, 'You are to have no share in our father's inheritance, because you are the son of an alien woman'. •Jephthah fled from his brothers and made his home in the land of Tob. Worthless followers gathered round him and used to go raiding with him.^b

5 Some time after this, the Ammonites took up arms against Israel. •And when the Ammonites had attacked Israel, the elders of Gilead went to fetch Jephthah from the land of Tob. •'Come' they said 'and be our commander, and we can fight the Ammonites.' •But Jephthah answered the elders of Gilead, 'Was it not you who hated me and drove me out of my father's house? Why come to me when you are in trouble?' •The elders of Gilead answered Jephthah, 'That is exactly why we have come back to you. Come with us; fight the Ammonites and be our leader, leader of all the inhabitants of Gilead.'^c •Jephthah answered the elders of Gilead, 'If you take me home to fight the Ammonites and Yahweh puts them at my mercy, I am to be your leader?' •The elders of Gilead answered Jephthah, 'Yahweh be witness between us. May we be accursed if we do not do as you have said!' •So Jephthah set off with the elders of Gilead. The people set him at their head as leader and commander; and Jephthah repeated all his conditions at Mizpah in Yahweh's presence.^d

The following narrative shows traces of re-editing and possibly derives from varying traditions, probably of Transjordanian origin. Jephthah, cast off by his family, becomes an outlaw chief. When danger threatens he is invited to return; the conditions he lays down are in fact a claim to kingship. Jephthah is pre-eminently the judge of the land of Gilead. The war between Ephraim and Gilead shows how far Israel is from unification.

Jephthah negotiates with the Ammonites^e

Dt12:19f,27 Jephthah sent messengers to the king of the Ammonites to say to him, 'What is the trouble between us, for you to come and make war on my country?' •The king of the Ammonites answered Jephthah's messengers, 'The reason is that when Israel came up from Egypt, they seized my land from the Arnon to the Jabbok and the Jordan. Give it back peaceably now.' •Jephthah sent messengers to the king of the Ammonites •with this answer, 'Jephthah says this: "Israel seized neither the land of Moab nor the land of the Ammonites. •When Israel came out of Egypt, they passed through the wilderness to the Sea of Reeds and reached Kadesh. •Then Israel sent messengers to the king of Edom to say to him: Please let us pass through your country, but the king of Edom would not listen. They sent similarly to the king of Moab, but he refused, and Israel remained at Kadesh; •later they made their way through the wilderness, going round the countries of Edom and Moab until they were to the east of Moab territory. The people encamped beyond the Arnon but did not cross the border of Moab, for the Arnon itself is the boundary there. •Then Israel sent messengers to Sihon the king of the Amorites, who ruled at Heshbon. Israel's message was: Please let us pass through your country to our destination. •But Sihon would not let Israel pass through his territory; he mustered his whole army; they encamped at Jahaz, and he then joined battle with Israel. •Yahweh the God of Israel delivered Sihon and his whole army into the power of Israel; Israel defeated them and took possession of the whole country of the Amorites who lived in that region. •Thus they came to occupy the whole country of the Amorites, from the Arnon to the Jabbok and from the wilderness to the Jordan. And now that Yahweh the God of Israel has driven the Amorites out before his people Israel, will one such as you dispossess us? •Do you not possess all that Chemosh your god took from its owners?^f In the same fashion, whatever Yahweh our God took from its owners, that we possess too. •Are you a better man than Balak son of Zippor, the king of Moab? Did he challenge Israel? Did he make war against them? •When Israel settled in Heshbon and its outlying villages, or in Jazer and its villages, or in any of the towns on the banks of the Jordan^g (three hundred years), why did you not recover those places then?^h •I for my part have committed no sin against you, rather, you for your part are wronging me by making war on me. Let Yahweh the Judge give judgement today between the sons of Israel and the king of the Ammonites.'" •But the king of the Ammonites took no notice of the message Jephthah had sent him.

Jephthah's vow and his victory

3:10+ The spirit of Yahweh came on Jephthah, who crossed Gilead and Manasseh, passed through to Mizpah in Gilead, and from Mizpah in Gilead made his way to the rear of the Ammonites. •And Jephthah made a vow to Yahweh, 'If you deliver the Ammonites into my hands, •then the first person to meet me from the door of my house when I return in triumph from fighting the Ammonites shall belong to Yahweh, and I will offer him up as a holocaust'.ⁱ •Jephthah marched against the Ammonites to attack them, and Yahweh delivered them into his power. •He harassed them from Aroer almost to Minnith (twenty towns) and to Abel-keramim. It was a very severe defeat, and the Ammonites were humbled before the Israelites.

Ezk 27:17

As Jephthah returned to his house at Mizpah, his daughter came out from it to meet him; she was dancing to the sound of timbrels. This was his only child; apart from her he had neither son nor daughter. •When he saw her, he tore his clothes and exclaimed, 'Oh my daughter, what sorrow you are bringing me! Must it be you, the cause of my ill-fortune! I have given a promise to Yahweh, and I cannot unsay what I have said.' •She answered him, 'My father, you have given a promise to Yahweh; treat me as the vow you took binds you to, since Yahweh has given you vengeance on your enemies the Ammonites.' Then she said to her father, 'Grant me one request. Let me be free for two months. I shall go and wander in the mountains, and with my companions bewail my virginity.'^k •He answered, 'Go', and let her depart for two months. So she went away with her companions and bewailed her virginity in the mountains. •When the two months were over, she returned to her father, and he treated her as the vow that he had uttered bound him.^l She had never known a man. From this comes this custom in Israel •for the daughters of Israel to leave home every year and to lament the daughter of Jephthah the Gileadite for four days every year.

War between Ephraim and Gilead.^a The death of Jephthah

12 The men of Ephraim mobilised; they crossed the Jordan, making for Zaphon, and said to Jephthah, 'Why did you go to fight the Ammonites without asking us to go with you? We shall burn you and your house.' •Jephthah answered them, 'My people and I were hard put to it, the Ammonites pressed us hard. I summoned you to help me, but you did not rescue me from their hands. •When I saw that no one came^b to my help, I took my life in my hands and marched against the Ammonites, and Yahweh handed them over to me. Why then today come up against me to make war on me?' •Then Jephthah mustered all the men of Gilead and joined battle with Ephraim, and the men of Gilead routed Ephraim, because these kept saying, 'You are no more than deserters from Ephraim, you Gileadites in the heart of Ephraim and Manasseh'. Then Gilead cut Ephraim off from the fords of the Jordan, and whenever an Ephraimite fugitive said, 'Let me cross', the men of Gilead asked him, 'Are you an Ephraimite?' If he answered 'No', •they said, 'Then say Shibboleth'.^c He would say 'Sibboleth', since he could not pronounce the word correctly. Thereupon they seized and slaughtered him by the fords of the Jordan. There perished in this way forty-two thousand men of Ephraim.

Samson's birth foretold

1 S 12:9 13 Again the Israelites began to do what displeases Yahweh, and Yahweh 1
Jos 13:2+ delivered them into the hands of the Philistines for forty years.

Jos 15:33 There was a man of Zorah of the tribe of Dan, called Manoah. His wife 2
Gn 11:30;18 1 S 1 was barren, she had borne no children. •The angel of Yahweh^b appeared to this 3
2 Ch 2:53 woman and said to her, 'You are barren and have had no child.^c •But from now 4
Heb 13:1f on take great care. Take no wine or strong drink, and eat nothing unclean.
For you will conceive and bear a son. No razor is to touch his head, for the 5
Nb 6:1+ 1 S 1:11 boy shall be God's nazirite from his mother's womb. It is he who will begin to 1 S 9:6 rescue Israel from the power of the Philistines.' •Then the woman went and 6 told her husband, 'A man of God has just come to me; his presence was like the presence of the angel of God, he was so majestic. I did not ask him where he came from, and he did not reveal his name to me. •But he said to me, "You 7 will conceive and bear a son. From now on, take no wine or strong drink, and eat nothing unclean. For the boy shall be God's nazirite from his mother's womb to his dying day."'

The angel appears a second time

Then Manoah pleaded with Yahweh and said, 'I beg you, Lord, let the man 8 of God that you sent come to us once again and instruct us in what we must do with the boy when he is born'. •Yahweh^d heard Manoah's prayer for favour, 9 and the angel of Yahweh visited the woman again as she was sitting in the field; her husband Manoah was not with her. •The woman ran quickly and told 10 her husband: 'Look,' she said 'the man who came to me the other day has appeared to me again'. •Manoah rose and followed his wife, and he came to the man and 11 said to him, 'Are you the man who spoke to this woman?' He answered, 'I am'.
Manoah went on, 'When your words are fulfilled, what is to be the boy's rule 12 of life? How must he behave?' •And the angel of Yahweh answered Manoah, 13
'The things that I forbade this woman, let him refrain from too.^e •Let him taste 14

nothing that comes from the vine, let him take no wine or strong drink, let him 15 eat nothing unclean, let him obey all the orders I gave this woman.' •Manoah then said to the angel of Yahweh, 'Do us the honour of staying with us while 16b we prepare a kid for you'. •For Manoah did not know this was the angel Tb 12:19
 16a of Yahweh. •The angel of Yahweh said to Manoah, 'Even if I did stay with you, I would not eat your food; but if you wish to prepare a holocaust, 17 offer it to Yahweh'.^f •Manoah then said to the angel of Yahweh, 'What is your 18 name, so that we may honour you when your words are fulfilled?' •The angel 19 of Yahweh replied, 'Why ask my name? It is a mystery.'^g •Then Manoah took the kid and the oblation and offered it as a holocaust on the rock to Yahweh 20 who works mysteries.^h •As the flame went up heavenwards from the altar, the angel of Yahweh ascended in the flame in the sight of Manoah and his wife, 21 and they fell face downwards on the ground. •After this, the angel of Yahweh did not appear any more to Manoah and his wife, by which Manoah understood 22 that this had been the angel of Yahweh. •And Manoah said to his wife, 'We 23 are certain to die, because we have seen God'. •His wife answered him, 'If Yahweh had meant to kill us, he would not have accepted a holocaust and 24 oblation from our hands; he would not have told us all these things.'ⁱ •The woman gave birth to a son and called him Samson. The child grew, and Yahweh blessed

Samson marries

1 14 Samson went down to Timnah, and there he noticed one of the daughters
 2 of the Philistines. •He came up again and told his father and mother this. 'At Timnah' he said 'I noticed one of the daughters of the Philistines. Get 3 her for me, then, to be my wife.' •His father and mother said to him, 'Is there no woman among those of your own clan or among your whole nation, for you to seek a wife among these uncircumcised Philistines?' But Samson answered 4 his father, 'Get this one for me; get her, because I like her'. •His father and mother did not know that all this came from Yahweh, who was seeking an occasion for quarrelling with the Philistines; since at this time the Philistines had Israel in their power.
 5 Samson went down to Timnah,^a and as he reached the vineyards of Timnah
 6 he saw a young lion coming roaring towards him. •The spirit of Yahweh seized on him, and though he had no weapon in his hand he tore the lion in pieces as a 7 man tears a kid; but he did not tell his father or mother what he had done. •He 8 went down and talked to the woman, and he liked her. •Not long after this,
 Samson came back to marry her. He went out of his way to look at the carcass 9 of the lion, and there was a swarm of bees in the lion's body, and honey. •He took up some honey in his hand and ate it as he went along. On returning to his father and mother, he gave some to them, which they ate too, but he did not 13 a. The story of Samson supposes the existence of an historical personage, a Danite peasant of prodigious strength who fought single-handed against the Philistines. In this a very ancient tradition saw the hand of God: Samson's strength was divine in origin, it was attributable to the spirit of God, 13:25; 14:6,19; 15:14; 16:28, or possibly to his nazirite vow, ch. 13; 16:17a; it was therefore a gift from Yahweh, 16:28. Popular imagination subsequently elaborated this theme.

Samson's riddle

1 K 10 Then Samson said to them, 'Let me ask you a riddle. If you find the answer 12
Ezk 17 within the seven days of the feast, I will give you thirty pieces of fine linen and thirty festal robes. •But if you cannot find the answer, then you in your turn 13 must give me thirty pieces of fine linen and thirty festal robes.' 'Ask your riddle,' they replied 'we are listening.' •So he said to them: 14

'Out of the eater came what is eaten, and out of the strong came what is sweet'.

But three days went by and they could not solve the riddle.

16:5-21 On the fourth day^c they said to Samson's wife. 'Cajole your husband into 15 telling you the answer to the riddle, or we will burn you and your father's house together. Did you invite us here to rob us?' •Then Samson's wife fell on his 16 neck in tears and said, 'You only hate me, you do not love me. You have asked my fellow countrymen a riddle and not even told me the answer.' He said to her, 'I have not even told my father or mother, why should I tell you?' •She wept 17 on his neck for the seven days their feast lasted. She was so persistent that on the seventh day he told her the answer, and she in turn told her fellow countrymen what the answer to the riddle was.

So on the seventh day, before Samson entered the bridal room,^d the men 18 of the town said to him:

'What is sweeter than honey, and what stronger than a lion?'

He retorted:

'If you had not ploughed with my heifer,
you would never have guessed my riddle'.

Then the spirit of Yahweh seized on him. He went down to Ashkelon, killed 19 thirty men there, took what they wore and gave the festal robes to those who had answered the riddle, then burning with rage returned to his father's house. Then Samson's wife was given to the companion who had been his best man. 20

Samson sets fire to the crops of the Philistines

1 S 12:9

15 Not long after this, at the time of the wheat harvest, Samson went back 1 to see his wife; he had brought a kid for her; he said, 'I wish to go to my wife in her room'. But her father would not let him enter. •'I felt sure' he said 2 'that you had taken a real dislike to her, so I gave her to your companion. But would not her younger sister suit you better? Have her instead of the other.' Samson answered them, 'I can only get my own back on the Philistines now 3 by doing them some damage'. •So Samson went off and caught three hundred 4 foxes, then took torches and turning the foxes tail to tail put a torch between each pair of tails. •He lit the torches and set the foxes free in the Philistines' 5 cornfields. In this way he burned both sheaves and standing corn, and the vines and olive trees as well.

2 S 14:30

The Philistines asked, 'Who has done this?' and received the answer, 'Samson, 6 who married the Timnite's daughter; his father-in-law took the wife back again and gave her to his companion instead'. Then the Philistines went up and burned the woman and her family^a to death. •Samson said to them, 'Since this is how 7 you behave, I swear I will not rest till I have had my revenge on you'. •And he 8 fell on them for all he was worth and caused great havoc. Then he went down to the cave in the Rock of Etam, and stayed there.

The donkey's jawbone

- 9 The Philistines came up and encamped in Judah and made a foray against Lehi. 2 S 23:11
- 10 The men of Judah said to them, 'Why are you attacking us?' They answered, 'We have come to seize Samson and to do to him what he did to us'.
- 11 Then three thousand of the men of Judah went down to the cave in the Rock of Etam and said to him, 'Do you not know that the Philistines have us in their power? Now what have you done to us?' He answered, 'What they did to me
- 12 I did to them'. •Then they said to him, 'We have come down to take you, to hand you over to the Philistines'. He said to them, 'Swear to me not to kill me
- 13 yourselves'. •They answered, 'No; we only want to bind you and hand you over to them; we certainly do not want to kill you'. Then they bound him with two new ropes and brought him up from the Rock.
- 14 As he approached Lehi, and the Philistines came running towards him with triumphant shouts, the spirit of Yahweh seized on Samson; the ropes on his arms became like burnt strands of flax and the bonds melted off his hands.
- 15 Catching sight of the fresh jawbone of a donkey, he reached out and snatched
- 16 it up; then with it he struck down a thousand men. •And Samson said:

'With the jawbone of a donkey I have thrashed them;^b with the jawbone of a donkey I have struck down a thousand men'.

- 17 And with this, he hurled the jawbone from him; and that is why the place was called Ramath-lehi.^c •And as he was thirsty, he called on Yahweh and said, 'You yourself have worked this great victory by the hand of your servant; and
- 19 now must I die of thirst and fall into the hands of the uncircumcised?' •Then God opened a hollow in the ground, the hollow there is at Lehi, and water gushed out of it. Samson drank; his vigour returned and he revived. And therefore
- 20 this spring was called En-hakkore;^d it is still at Lehi today. •Samson was judge 16:31 in Israel in the days of the Philistines for twenty years.

The gates of Gaza

- 1 16 From here Samson went on to Gaza, and seeing a harlot there he went 1 S 12:9

into her house. •The news was told to the men of Gaza, 'Samson has arrived'. They surrounded the place and kept watch for him at the gate of the town. All that night they made no move, thinking, 'We will wait till daybreak;
- 3 then we will kill him'. •Samson however stayed in bed till midnight, and rising at midnight, he seized the doors of the town gate and the two posts as well; he tore them up, bar and all, hoisted them on to his shoulders and carried them to the top of the hill facing Hebron and there he left them.^a

Samson is betrayed by Delilah

- 4 After this, Samson fell in love with a woman in the Vale of Sorek; she was Si 9:2

b. Perhaps a nickname with possible meaning 'informer'.

c. They seek the magical knowledge they feel necessary to defeat preternatural strength.

Delilah said to Samson, 'Please tell me where your great strength comes from, and what would be needed to bind you and tame you'. •Samson answered, 'If I were bound with seven new bowstrings that had not yet been dried, I should lose my strength and become like any other man'. •The chiefs of the Philistines brought Delilah seven new bowstrings that had not yet been dried and she took them and bound him with them. •She had men concealed in her room, and she shouted, 'The Philistines are on you, Samson!' Then he snapped the bowstrings as a strand of tow snaps at a touch of the fire. So the secret of his strength remained unknown.

Then Delilah said to Samson, 'You have been laughing at me and telling me lies. But now please tell me what would be needed to bind you.' •He answered, 'If I were bound tightly with new ropes that have never been used, I should lose my strength and become like any other man'. •Then Delilah took new ropes and bound him with them, and she shouted, 'The Philistines are on you, Samson!' She had men concealed in her room, but he snapped the ropes round his arms like thread.

Then Delilah said to Samson, 'Up to now you have been laughing at me and telling me lies. Tell me what would be needed to bind you.' He answered, 'If you wove the seven locks of my hair into the warp of the web and fixed the peg^d firmly, I should lose my strength and become like any other man'. •She lulled him to sleep, then wove the seven locks of his hair into the warp, fixed the peg and shouted, 'The Philistines are on you, Samson!' He woke from his sleep and pulled out both stuff and peg. So the secret of his strength remained unknown.

Delilah said to him, 'How can you say you love me when you do not trust me? Three times now you have laughed at me and have not told me where your great strength comes from.' •And day after day she persisted with her questions, and allowed him no rest, till he grew tired to death of it. •At last he told her his whole secret; he said to her, 'A razor has never touched my head, because I have been God's nazirite from my mother's womb. If my head were shorn, then my power would leave me and I should lose my strength and become like any other man.' •Then Delilah realised he had told his whole secret to her; she had the chiefs of the Philistines summoned and given this message, 'Come just once more: he has told his whole secret to me'. And the chiefs of the Philistines came to her with the money in their hands.^e •She lulled Samson to sleep in her lap, and summoned a man who sheared the seven locks off his head. Then he began to lose his strength,^f and his power left him. •She cried, 'The Philistines are on you, Samson!' He awoke from sleep, thinking, 'I shall break free as I did before and shake myself clear'. But he did not know that Yahweh had turned away from him.^g •The Philistines seized him, put out his eyes and took him down to Gaza. They fettered him with a double chain of bronze, and he spent his time turning the mill in the prison.

But the hair that had been shorn off began to grow again.

Samson's revenge and death

The chiefs of the Philistines assembled to offer a great sacrifice to Dagon their god^h and to rejoice. They said:

'Into our hands our god has delivered
Samson our enemy'.

And as soon as the people saw their god, they acclaimed him, shouting his praises:

'Into our hands our god has delivered
Samson our enemy,
the man who laid our country waste and killed so many of us'.

25 And as their hearts were full of joy, they shouted, 'Send Samson out to amuse us'.
 26 So Samson was brought out of prison, and he performed feats for them; then 27 he was put to stand between the pillars. •But Samson said to the boy who was 28 leading him by the hand, 'Lead me where I can touch the pillars supporting the 29 building, so that I can lean against them'. •Now the building was crowded with 30 men and women. All the chiefs of the Philistines were there, while about three 31 thousand men and women were watching Samson's feats from the roof. •Samson called on Yahweh and cried out, 'Lord Yahweh, I beg you, remember me; give me strength again this once, and let me be revenged on the Philistines at one blow for my two eyes'. •And Samson put his arms round the two middle pillars supporting the building, and threw all his weight against them, his right arm against one and his left arm against the other; •and he cried out, 'May I die with the Philistines!' He thrust now with all his might, and the building fell on the chiefs and on all the people there. Those he killed at his death outnumbered those he had killed in his life. •His brothers and his father's whole family came down and carried him away. They took him up and buried him between Zorah and Eshtaol in the tomb of Manoah his father. He had been judge in Israel for twenty years. 1 S 7:15

IV. ADDITIONS

A. THE SANCTUARY OF MICAH AND THE SANCTUARY OF DAN^a

The household shrine of Micah

¹
 2a 17 In the highlands of Ephraim there was a man called Micayehu.^b •He 1:34 said to his mother, 'The eleven hundred silver shekels which were taken from you and concerning which you uttered a curse, going on to say—I heard it 3b with my own ears—•“I solemnly declare that of my own free will I consecrate this silver to Yahweh,^c to make a carved image (and an idol of cast metal)”^d—3c I myself have that silver; I was the one who took it, •and now I give it back 3a to you'. •His mother answered, 'May my son be blessed by Yahweh!' •And Micayehu gave her back the eleven hundred silver shekels.
 4 Then his mother took two hundred silver shekels and gave them to the metal-worker. From them he made a carved image (and an idol of cast metal), and 5 this was placed in the house of Micah, •who built a shrine for it, and then made an ephod and teraphim, and installed one of his sons to act as priest for him.^e 6 In those days there was no king in Israel, and every man did as he pleased. IS2:28 +

f. 'who sheared' versions; 'and she sheared' Hebr. 'he began to lose his strength' versions; 'she began to torment him' Hebr.

g. Because the nazirite vow had been broken.

h. Amorite god of fertility worshipped in Palestine, cf. the place-name Beth-dagon, Jos 15:41; 19:27; the god was adopted by the Philistines, cf. 1 S 5:2f.

17 a. This story, possibly derived from the fusion of two texts, or from a primitive story later completed, is of very ancient origin. It reflects the anarchy of Israel before the monarchy, 18:1; cf. 19:1; 21:25, and the abuses that had crept into Yahwism: namely, idolatrous forms of worship and the sacrilegious innovations of Micah and the Danites in establishing a shrine for their own use yet lacking the sanction of a divine apparition, cf. Ex 19:12+. Hence the underlying disapproval of the Danite shrine which was later to be associated with Jeroboam's schismatic worship, 1 K 12:30. Micah and the Danites, however, remain sincere Yahwists. For their priest they want a Levite, a custodian of the Mosaic tradition. The Danite migration seems to have taken place at the beginning of the period of the Judges, Jos 19:47-48, cf. Jos 17:14-18. The episode belongs to the period when the tribes were establishing themselves with difficulty, each acting on its own account, cf. Jg 1:1+.

b. Micayehu 'Who is like Yahweh?', here and in v. 3a; elsewhere abbreviated to Micah.

c. The silver thus became sacred and to use it for profane purposes would have called down the divine curse. Vv. 2-3 have evidently suffered some confusion; our text, going by the sense, restores the order.

d. The phrase 'idol of cast metal' juxtaposed with the 'carved image' is possibly an addition. The reference is to two idolatrous forms of the Yahwistic cult, cf. 1 K 12:28-30.

e. I.e. according to the ancient custom authorising the head of clans and families to exercise the functions of priest themselves and to appoint their own priests. The rest of the narrative will however show that the superior rights of the Levites were admitted nonetheless.

There was a young man of Bethlehem in Judah,^f of the clan of Judah, who⁷ was a Levite and resided there as a stranger. •This man left the town of Bethlehem⁸ in Judah to look for a place where he could find a home. In his travels he came to the highlands of Ephraim and to Micah's house. •Micah asked him,⁹ 'Where do you come from?' The other answered him, 'I am a Levite from Bethlehem in Judah. I am travelling and looking for a place where I can find a home.' •Micah said to him, 'Stay here with me; be a father and a priest for me,¹⁰ and I will give you ten silver shekels a year, and food and clothing'; and he urged the Levite. •The Levite agreed to remain in the man's house, and the¹¹ young man became like one of his sons to him. •Micah installed the Levite;¹² the young man became Micah's priest and stayed in his house. •And Micah¹³ said, 'Now I know that Yahweh will prosper me, because I have this Levite as my priest'.

The Danites go in search of a territory

18 In those days there was no king in Israel.¹ Now in those days the tribe of Dan was in search of a territory to live in, because up till then no territory had fallen to them among the tribes of Israel. From their clan the Danites sent five brave men^a from Zorah and Eshtaol to² reconnoitre the country and explore it. They said to them, 'Go and explore the country'. The five men came to the highlands of Ephraim and to Micah's house, and spent the night there. •When they were near Micah's house, they³ recognized the voice of the young Levite, and turning that way they said to him, 'Who brought you here? What are you doing here? What is keeping you here?' •He answered, 'Micah has done such and such for me. He pays me a wage⁴ and I act as his priest.' •They replied, 'Then consult God and find out for us⁵ whether the journey we are making will be successful'. •The priest replied, 'Go in peace; the journey you are making is under the eye of Yahweh'. •So the⁷ five men set out, and came to Laish. They saw that the people there lived in security like the Sidonians, peaceful and trusting, that nothing lacked there of all that the earth yields, and that they were far from the Sidonians and had no relations with the Aramaeans.^b •Then they went back to their kinsfolk at Zorah⁸ and Eshtaol, and when these asked them, 'What can you tell us?' •they⁹ answered, 'We went and passed through the country as far as Laish. We saw that the people there live in security like the Sidonians. They are far from Sidon and have no relations with Aram. Up, and let us march against them, for we have seen the country and it is very good. But you—why stand there speechless? Set out for Laish without delay and take possession of the country.'^c •When you¹⁰ reach it, you will find a defenceless people. The country is wide; God has put in your power a place where there is nothing lacking of all that man can want on earth.'

The migration of the Danites

13:2;18:2 So men of the tribe of Dan set out from Zorah and Eshtaol, six hundred¹¹ of them, armed for war. •They went up and camped at Kiriath-jearim in Judah;¹² and for this reason the place is still called the Camp of Dan today. It lies west of Kiriath-jearim. •From there they entered the highlands of Ephraim and¹³ came to Micah's house.

2K23:24 Then the five men who had been to explore the country spoke to their brothers¹⁴ and said, 'Do you know that there is an ephod in these houses, and teraphim and a carved image (and an idol in cast metal)? So now think what you have to do.' •They turned aside and went to the young Levite's dwelling in Micah's¹⁵ house, and greeted him. •^dWhile the six hundred men of the Danites, armed¹⁶ for war, stood at the threshold of the gate, •the five who had set out to explore¹⁷ the country went on into the house and took the carved image and ephod and teraphim (and the idol of cast metal), while the priest remained at the threshold

18 of the gate with the six hundred men armed for war. •These men, having entered Micah's house, took the carved image, the ephod and the teraphim (and the idol of cast metal). But the priest said, 'What are you doing?' •They answered, 'Hush! Put your hand over your mouth and come with us. You shall be a father and a priest for us. Is it better for you to be priest for one man's household, or 20 to be priest for a tribe and clan in Israel?' •The priest was overjoyed; he took the ephod and teraphim and the carved image and set off in the middle of the band of men.

21 They left by the way they came, putting the women,^e children, cattle and 22 valuables in front of them. •They had gone some way from Micah's home when the neighbours with houses next to his gave the alarm and set off in pursuit
23 of the Danites. •And as they shouted after them, the Danites turned round and 24 asked Micah, 'What is all this shouting about?' •He answered, 'You have taken away the god I made for myself; you have taken away the priest as well. You go on your way, and what is left for me? How can you ask me, "What is this about?"'
25 The Danites answered, 'Let us hear no more from you, or men may lose their tempers and fall on you. You may bring about your own destruction and that 26 of your household.' •So the Danites went on their way; and since Micah saw they were the stronger, he turned and went home.

Laish taken. Dan and its sanctuary founded

27 So taking with them the god that Micah had made and the priest who had served him, the Danites marched against Laish, against a peaceful and trusting 28 people. They slaughtered all the inhabitants and set the town on fire. •There was no one to help the town because it was a long way from Sidon and had no relations with the Aramaeans. It lay in the valley running towards Beth-rehob.
29 They rebuilt the town and settled in it, •and called it Dan after Dan their father who had been born to Israel, although the town was originally called Laish.
30 The Danites erected the carved image for their own use. Jonathan son of Gershom, son of Moses,^f and his sons after him were priests for the tribe of Dan till the 31 day when the inhabitants of the country were carried away into exile. •The carved image that Micah had made they enshrined for their own use, and there it stayed as long as the house of God remained at Shiloh.^g

B. THE CRIME AT GIBEAH AND THE WAR AGAINST BENJAMIN^a

The Levite of Ephraim and his concubine

1 19 In those days, when there was no king in Israel, there was a man, a Levite, 2 whose home was deep in the highlands of Ephraim. He took as 3 concubine a woman from Bethlehem in Judah. •In a fit of anger^b his concubine left him and returned to her father's house at Bethlehem in Judah, and she stayed 4 there for some four months. •Her husband set out to visit her, to reason with her and fetch her back; he had his servant and two donkeys with him. As he approached the house of the girl's father, the father saw him and came very 5 joyfully to meet him. •His father-in-law, the father of the girl, made him his

b. 'nothing lacked there' corr. 'the Aramaeans' Greek; 'the man' Hebr.; so also in v. 28.

c. Verse corrected, following Greek.

d. The repetitions in vv. 16-18 suggest the use of two sources.

e. 'the women' is absent from the text.

nasseh'. Jonathan is the young Levite of 17:7-13.

g. In fact, the sanctuary of Dan remained, 2 K 10:29, after the one at Shiloh had been destroyed, 1 S 4.

19 a. The narrative combines several ancient traditions: one is connected with the sanctuary at Mizpah, another with the one at Bethel. It emphasises the moral demands God makes on his people; the crime of Gibeah rouses the indignation of Israel and the Benjaminites are punished. But no part of the people of God can be allowed to perish; the reduced tribe of Benjamin will recover.

b. Versions; Hebr. 'she played the harlot against him'.

So they whiled away the time till the day began to decline, and the two of them ate together. The husband was preparing to leave with his concubine and his servant when 9 his father-in-law, the father of the girl, said to him, 'Look, the day is drawing towards evening. Spend the night here and enjoy yourself. Early tomorrow you can go and return to your tent.'^c •But the man would not stay the night there; 10 he got up and set off and came within sight of Jebus^d—that is, Jerusalem. He had with him two donkeys saddled, and his concubine and his servant.

The crime of the men of Gibeah^e

By the time they were near Jerusalem, the day was fast going. The servant 11 said to his master, 'Please let us leave the road now and enter this Jebusite town and spend the night there'. •His master answered, 'We will not enter 12 a town of foreigners, of people who are not Israelites; we will go on to Gibeah instead'. •He went on to say to the servant, 'Come on, we will try to reach one 13 or other of those places, either Gibeah or Ramah, and spend the night there'. So they kept on, continuing their journey. As they approached Gibeah in 14 Benjamin the sun was already setting. •So they turned that way to spend the 15 night in Gibeah. Inside the town, the Levite sat down in the middle of the public square, but no one offered to take them into his house for the night.^f

But an old man came their way, who was returning at nightfall from his 16 work in the fields. He was a man from the highlands of Ephraim, and a foreigner resident in Gibeah, the men of the place being Benjaminites. •Raising 17 his eyes, he saw the traveller sitting in the public square of the town; the old man asked him, 'Where have you come from? Where are you going?' •The other 18 answered, 'We are on our way from Bethlehem in Judah to a place deep in the highlands of Ephraim. That is where I come from. I have been to Beth- 19 lehem in Judah and now I am going home,^g but no one has offered to take me into his house, •although we have straw and provender for our donkeys, and 20 I have bread and wine as well for myself and this maidservant and the young man who is travelling with your servant; we are short of nothing.' •The old 21 man answered, 'Welcome to you! Let me see to all your needs; you cannot spend the night in the public square.' •So he took him into his house and gave the 21 donkeys provender. The travellers washed their feet, then ate and drank.

Gn 19:4f As they were at their cheerful meal, some men from the town, scoundrels, 22 came crowding together round the house; they battered on the door and said to the old man, the master of the house, 'Send out the man who has come into your house, so that we can abuse him'. •Then the master of the 23 house went out to them and said, 'No, my brothers; I implore you, do not commit this crime. This man has become my guest; do not commit such an infamy.^h •Here is my daughter; she is a virgin;ⁱ I will give her 24 to you. Possess her, do what you please with her, but do not commit such an infamy against this man.' •The men would not listen to him. So the Levite 25 took his concubine and brought her out to them. They had intercourse with her and outraged her all night till morning; when dawn was breaking they let her go.

At daybreak the girl came and fell on the threshold of her husband's host, 26 and she stayed there till it was full day. •In the morning her husband got up and 27 opened the door of the house; he was coming out to continue his journey when he saw the woman who had been his concubine lying at the door of the house with her hands on the threshold. •He said to her, 'Stand up; we must go'. There was no answer. Then he laid her across his donkey and began the journey home. Having reached his house, he picked up his knife, took hold of his concubine, and limb by limb cut her into twelve pieces; then he sent her all through the land of Israel.^f •^hHe instructed his messengers as follows, 'This is what you are to say to all the Israelites, "Has any man seen such a thing from the day the Israelites came out of the land of Egypt, until this very day? Ponder on this, discuss it; then give your verdict."' And all who saw it declared, 'Never has such a thing been done or been seen since the Israelites came out of the land of Egypt'.

The Israelites pledge themselves to avenge the crime at Gibeah

20 So all the sons of Israel came out, and the whole community,^a from Dan to Beersheba^b and the land of Gilead, gathered together as one man in the presence of Yahweh at Mizpah. •The leaders of all the people and all the tribes of Israel were present at this assembly of the people of God, four hundred thousand foot soldiers who could handle the sword.^c •The Benjaminites heard that the sons of Israel had gone up to Mizpah... Then the sons of Israel said, 'Tell us how this crime was committed'. •The Levite, the husband of the murdered woman, spoke in reply and said, 'I had come with my concubine to Gibeah in Benjamin, to spend the night there. •The men of Gibeah rose against me and in the night surrounded the house where I was lodging; as for me, they wanted to kill me, and as for my concubine, they raped her to death. •Then I took my concubine, cut her in pieces and sent her throughout all the territory that Israel inherited because these men have committed an infamy in Israel. •You have all met together here, men of Israel. Discuss the matter and make your decision here and now.' •All the people stood up as one man and said, 'Not one of us will return to his tent, not one of us will go back to his house. •Now, this is what we shall do to Gibeah. We will cast lots,^d and select ten men from every hundred from each of the tribes of Israel, and a hundred from every thousand, and a thousand from every ten thousand; they will collect food for the army, for those who will go and punish Gibeah^e in Benjamin for the infamy they have committed in Israel.' •So all the men of Israel mustered against that town, united as one man.

d. The town had already long been known as Jerusalem, cf. 2 S 5:9+. The name Jebus (used for Jerusalem in v. 11, Hebr.) is a gloss, the form being derived from the name of the earliest inhabitants of Jerusalem, the Jebusites, cf. also 1 Ch 11:4f.

The first encounters

The Benjaminites left their towns and mustered at Gibeah to fight the Israelites. •The Benjaminites from these various towns had counted their numbers that day, and in all there were twenty-five thousand men⁹ who could handle the sword, besides the inhabitants of Gibeah. •In this great army were seven hundred picked men who could fight with both hands; every one of these could sling a stone at a hair and not miss it. •The men of Israel also took a count. Without Benjamin, there were four hundred thousand of them who could handle the sword; all experienced fighters. •They set off and went up to Bethel to consult God. The Israelites put the question, 'Which of us should go out first to attack the Benjaminites?' And Yahweh answered, 'Judah shall go first'.

In the morning the Israelites marched out and pitched their camp facing Gibeah. •Then advancing to engage Benjamin they drew up their line in front of the town. •But the Benjaminites sallied out from Gibeah and that day killed twenty-two thousand Israelites, who were left on the field. •^hThe Israelites went and wept before Yahweh until evening; then they consulted Yahweh; they asked, 'Shall we join battle again with the sons of our brother Benjamin?' Yahweh answered, 'March against him'. •Then the army of the people of Israel took heart afresh; and again they drew up their line for battle in the same place as the day before. •This second day the Israelites advanced on the Benjaminites; but again this second day Benjamin sallied out from Gibeah against them and killed eighteen thousand Israelites, who were left on the field; they were all experienced fighters who could handle the sword.ⁱ •Then all the Israelites and the whole people went up to Bethel; they wept and sat in Yahweh's presence; they fasted all day till the evening and offered holocausts and communion sacrifices before Yahweh; •then the Israelites consulted Yahweh. The ark of the covenant of God was there in those days, •and Phinehas son of Eleazar son of Aaron was the priest who ministered at it at that time. They said, 'Ought we to go again and fight the sons of our brother Benjamin, or should we stop?' Yahweh answered, 'March; for tomorrow I shall deliver him into your power'.

Benjamin is conquered and wiped out^j

Then Israel stationed men in ambush round Gibeah. •On the third day the Israelites marched against the Benjaminites and, just as before, they drew up their line in front of the town. •The Benjaminites made a sally against them and let themselves be drawn away from the town. As before, they began by killing those of the people who were on the road that runs up to Bethel and on the road that runs up to Gibeon;^k and there in the open country they killed about thirty men of Israel. •The Benjaminites thought, 'They have had to fall back in front of us as before'; but the Israelites decided, 'Let us take to flight and draw them away from the town along the highroads. •Then the main body of the army of Israel, leaving its position, will form up for battle at Baal-tamar, but meanwhile the Israelites in ambush will rush forward from their position west of Geba.'^l •Then ten thousand picked men, chosen from the whole of Israel, appeared before Gibeah. The battle was fierce. The Benjaminites did not suspect the disaster hanging over them. •Yahweh defeated Benjamin before Israel, and on that day the Israelites killed twenty-five thousand one hundred men of Benjamin, all men who could handle the sword. •The Benjaminites, seeing themselves defeated...^m

The men of Israel had given ground to Benjamin because they relied on the ambush they had set against Gibeah. •The men in ambush quickly poured out and reached Gibeah and put the whole town to the sword. •For it had been agreed between the Israelite army and the troops in ambush that these should raise a smoke signal from the town, •whereupon the Israelites in the thick of the battle would turn about. Now Benjamin had begun by killing men of the Israelite army, about thirty of them; so they were thinking, 'Plainly we have routed them

40 now as we did before'. •But the signal, a column of smoke, began to rise from the town, and the Benjaminites looking back saw the whole town going up in 41 flames to the sky. •Then the Israelites turned about, and the Benjaminites were seized with terror, for they saw that disaster was imminent.

42 They retreated before Israel, making for the wilderness, but the main body of Israel pressed them hard, while the others coming out of the town surprised 43 and slaughtered them from the rear.^a •They hemmed the Benjaminites in, pursued 44 them relentlessly and crushed them opposite Geba on the east.^o •Eighteen 45 thousand men of Benjamin fell, all of them brave men. •The survivors turned and ran, and fled into the wilderness and towards the Rock of Rimmon. On 46 Benjaminites to Geba and killed two thousand of them. •The total number of Benjaminites who fell that day was twenty-five thousand men who could handle
47 the sword, all of them brave men. •Six hundred men had escaped into the wilderness, to the Rock of Rimmon, and there they stayed for four months.
48 The men of Israel went back to the Benjaminites, and put all the males in the towns to the sword, the cattle too, and all that came their way. And they set on fire all the towns that they came to in Benjamin.

The Israelites relent^a

1 21 The men of Israel had sworn this oath at Mizpah, 'Not one of us will give
2 his daughter in marriage to Benjamin'.^b •The people went to Bethel and stayed there until evening, sitting before God with groans and bitter weeping.
3 They said, 'Yahweh, God of Israel, why must this be Israel's lot, to lose one
4 of its tribes today?' •The next day the people got up early and built an altar
5 there; they offered holocausts and communion sacrifices. •Then the Israelites said, 'Which of all the tribes of Israel has not come to the assembly in Yahweh's presence?' For they had sworn a solemn oath threatening death to anyone who would not come into Yahweh's presence at Mizpah.

6 Now the Israelites were sorry for Benjamin their brother; 'Today,' they said
7 'one tribe has been cut off from Israel. •What shall we do to find wives for those who are left, since we have sworn by Yahweh not to give them any of our own daughters in marriage?'

The maidens of Jabesh given to the Benjaminites

8 Then they asked the question, 'Which of the tribes of Israel has not come into Yahweh's presence at Mizpah?' It was discovered that no one from Jabesh-gilead 9 had come to the camp for the assembly; •for the people had been counted over,
10 and not one of the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead was there. •Then the community sent twelve thousand of their bravest men there, with these orders: 'Go and 11 slaughter all the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead, the women and children too. •This is what you must do. You are to put all the males and all women who have slept with a male under the ban, but you are to spare the maidens.' They obeyed

21 a. The final editor has collected and juxtaposed several traditions concerning the restoration of Benjamin, hence the repetitions in the text. According to one tradition, the men of Jabesh are made to give their daughters to the surviving Benjaminites since they alone can do so without breaking an oath. According to a second tradition, the people of Jabesh are massacred for having refused to attend the assembly of Israel, but their unmarried girls are spared. According to a third, the Benjaminites seize the maidens during the feast at Shiloh. The narrative calls attention to the solidarity of the tribes: they are forced to cut off the guilty tribe, but cannot tolerate this 'breach in Israel'.

b. Thus severing Benjamin completely from the community of Israel.

the orders.^c • Among the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead they found four hundred 12 young virgins who had never slept with a man, and brought them to the camp (at Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan).

Then the whole community sent messengers to offer peace to the Benjaminites 13 who were at the Rock of Rimmon. • Benjamin returned, and they were given 14 those women from Jabesh-gilead who had been left alive; but there were not enough for all.

The daughters of Shiloh are carried off

The people were sorry for Benjamin because Yahweh had made a breach in 15 the tribes of Israel. • And the elders of the community said, 'What shall we do 16 to find wives for the survivors, since the women of Benjamin have been wiped out?' • They went on, 'How can we preserve a remnant^d for Benjamin so 17 that a tribe may not be blotted out from Israel? • We ourselves cannot give them 18 our own daughters in marriage.' For the Israelites had sworn this oath, 'Cursed be any man who gives a wife to Benjamin!'

1 S 1:3+ 'But yet' they said 'there is Yahweh's feast which is held every year at Shiloh.'^e 19
(This town lies north of Bethel, east of the highway that runs from Bethel up to Shechem, and south of Lebonah.) • So they gave this advice to the Benjaminites, 20
'Place yourselves in ambush in the vineyards. • Keep watch there, and when the 21 daughters of Shiloh come out to dance in groups together, you too come out of the vineyards: seize a wife, each one of you, from the daughters of Shiloh and make for the land of Benjamin. • If their fathers or brothers come to complain 22 to you, we shall say to them, "Forgive them because each one of them has taken^f a wife for himself, as men do in war. For if you had given them brides, you would have broken your oath, and so would have sinned." ' • The Benjaminites did this, 23 and from the dancers they had captured, they chose as many wives as there were men; then they set off, returned to their inheritance, rebuilt their towns and settled in them.

Then the Israelites went away, each to rejoin his own tribe and clan, and 24 returned from Shiloh each to his own inheritance.

THE BOOK OF RUTH

I. RUTH AND NAOMI

1 In the days of the Judges famine came to the land and a certain man from Bethlehem of Judah went—he, his wife and his two sons—to live in the country of Moab. •The man was called Elimelech, his wife Naomi and his two sons, Mahlon and Chilion;^a they were Ephrathites from Bethlehem of Judah. They came to the country of Moab and settled there. •Elimelech, Naomi's husband, died, and she and her two sons were left. •These married Moabite women: one was named Orpah and the other Ruth. They lived there about ten years. •Then both Mahlon and Chilion also died and the woman was bereft of her two sons and her husband. •So she and her daughters-in-law prepared to return from the country of Moab, for she had heard that Yahweh had visited^b his people and given them food. •So, with her daughters-in-law, she came away from the place where she was living and they took the road back to the land of Judah.

1 S 17:12
Mi 5:1

8 Naomi said to her two daughters-in-law, 'Go back, each of you to her mother's house. May Yahweh be kind to you as you have been to those who have died and to me. •Yahweh grant that you find rest, each of you, in the house of a husband.' And she kissed them. But they wept aloud •and said to her, 'No, we will go back with you to your people'. •And Naomi said, 'You must return, my daughters; why come with me? Have I any more sons in my womb to make husbands for you?'^c •Return my daughters, go, for I am too old now to marry again. Even if I said there is still hope for me, even if I were to have a husband this very night and bear sons, •would you be prepared to wait until they were grown up? Would you refuse to marry for this? No, my daughters, I should then be deeply grieved for you, for the hand of Yahweh has been raised against me.' •And once more they started to weep aloud. Then Orpah kissed her mother-in-law and went back to her people.^d But Ruth clung to her.

15 Naomi said to her, 'Look, your sister-in-law has gone back to her people and to her god. You must return too; follow your sister-in-law.'

16 But Ruth said, 'Do not press me to leave you and to turn back from your company, for

'wherever you go, I will go, wherever you live, I will live.
Your people shall be my people, and your God, my God.^e
Wherever you die, I will die

1 a. The names may be fictitious and chosen for their meaning: the two sons, who die young, are Mahlon ('sickness') and Chilion ('pining away'); Orpah means 'she who turns away' (1:14), Ruth 'the beloved', Naomi 'my fair one', Elimelech 'my God is king'.

b. Ex 3:16+. The 'visitation' is here an act of divine favour, not of judgement.

c. In accordance with levirate law, Dt 25:5-10+.

d. 'and went back to her people' Greek.

e. Whereas Orpah returns to Moab and its god Chemosh, Ruth chooses Yahweh's territory and his people; in doing so she will have no other God but him. The Moabites were themselves excluded from Yahwistic ceremonial worship, Dt 23:4.

and there I will be buried.

and more also,^f

Seeing that she was determined to go with her, Naomi said no more. 18

Gn17:1 +
Ex 15:23
Mi 1:12

The two of them went on until they came to Bethlehem. Their arrival there 19 set the whole town astir, and the women said, 'Can this be Naomi?' •But she 20 said to them, 'Do not call me Naomi, call me Mara,^g for Shaddai has marred me bitterly.

Jb 1:21

'Filled full I departed,
Yahweh brings me back empty.
Why call me Naomi, then,
since Yahweh has given witness against me and Shaddai has afflicted me?' 21

This was how Naomi, she who returned from the country of Moab, came 22 back with Ruth the Moabite her daughter-in-law. And they came to Bethlehem at the beginning of the barley harvest.

II. RUTH IN THE FIELDS OF BOAZ

2:20 2 Now Naomi had a kinsman on her husband's side, well-to-do and of 1 Elimelech's clan. His name was Boaz.

Lv19:9-10;
23:22

Dt24:19-22

Ruth the Moabite said to Naomi, 'Let me go into the fields and glean 2 among the ears of corn^a in the footsteps of some man who will look on me with 3 favour'. And she said to her, 'Go, my daughter'. •So she set out and went to 3 glean in the fields after the reapers. And it chanced that she came to that part of the fields which belonged to Boaz of Elimelech's clan. •Now Boaz, as it 4 happened, had just come from Bethlehem. 'Yahweh be with you!' he said to the reapers. 'Yahweh bless you!' they replied. •Boaz said to a servant of his who 5 was in charge of the reapers, 'To whom does this young woman belong?'^b •And 6 the servant in charge of the reapers replied, 'The girl is the Moabite, the one who came back with Naomi from the country of Moab, •and she said, "Please 7 let me glean and gather the ears of corn after the reapers". So she came and has been on her feet^c from morning till now.'

Ps129:7-8
Lk 1:28

Boaz said to Ruth, 'Listen, my daughter, and understand this. You are not 8 to glean in any other field, do not leave here but stay with my servants.^d •Keep 9 your eyes on whatever part of the field they are reaping and follow behind.
I have ordered my servants not to molest you. And if you are thirsty, go to the pitchers and drink what the servants have drawn.' •Then she fell on her face, 10 bowing to the ground. And she said to him, 'How have I so earned your favour that you take notice of me, even though I am a foreigner?' •And Boaz answered her, 11
'I have been told all you have done for your mother-in-law since your husband's death, and how you left your own father and mother and the land where you were born to come among a people whom you knew nothing about before you came here. •May Yahweh reward you for what you have done! May rich 12 recompense be made to you by Yahweh, the God of Israel, to whom you have come, to find shelter beneath his wings.' •Then she said, 'May I find favour in 13 your eyes, my lord, since you have given me courage and spoken kindly to your maidservant, though indeed I am not the equal of one maidservant of yours'.

Ps 17:8;
91:1,4

When it was time to eat Boaz said to her, 'Come, eat some of this bread and 14 dip your piece in the wine'. Ruth sat with the reapers and Boaz made a heap^e of roasted grain for her and she ate till her hunger was satisfied, and she had some left over. •Then she got up to glean and Boaz gave orders to his servants, 'Let her 15 glean among the sheaves themselves,' he said 'and do not check her. •And see 16

- you pull a few ears of corn from the bundles and let them fall. Let her glean them, and do not scold her.' •So she gleaned in the field till evening. Then she beat out what she had gleaned and it came to about an ephah of barley.
- 18 And taking it with her, she went into the town. She showed her mother-in-law what she had gleaned and also showed her the food she had set aside after satisfying her hunger, and gave it to her. •And her mother-in-law said to her, 'Where did you glean today? Where have you been working? Blessed be the man who took notice of you!' Then Ruth told her mother-in-law in whose field she had worked, 'The name of the man with whom I have been working today' she said 'is Boaz'. •Then Naomi said to her daughter-in-law, 'May he be blessed by Yahweh who does not withhold his kindness from living or dead! This man' Naomi added 'is a relative of ours. He is one of those who has the right of 2:1 redemption over us.'^f •Then Ruth said to her mother-in-law, 'He also said to me, "Stay with my servants until they have gathered in all my harvest"'. •And Naomi said to Ruth, her daughter-in-law, 'It is better for you, my daughter, to go with his servants than to go to some other field where you might be molested'.
- 23 So Ruth stayed with the servants of Boaz and gleaned until the barley and wheat harvests were done. And she went on living with her mother-in-law.^g

III. BOAZ SLEEPS

- 1 3 Then Naomi, her mother-in-law, said to her, 'My daughter, is it not my duty 2 to see you happily settled? •And is not Boaz, with whose servants you were, our kinsman? Now tonight he is winnowing the barley at the threshing-floor. 3 Come, wash and anoint and dress yourself. Then go down to the threshing-floor. Do not make yourself known to him before he has finished eating and drinking. 4 But when he settles down to sleep, take careful note of the place where he lies, then go and turn back the covering at his feet and lie there yourself. He will tell 5 you what to do.' •And Ruth said to her, 'I will do all you say'.
- 6 So she went down to the threshing-floor and did all that her mother-in-law 7 had told her. •When Boaz had eaten and drunk, he was in a happy mood and went to lie down by the heap of barley. Then she came quietly and turned back 8 the covering at his feet and lay there. •In the middle of the night the man started 9 up and looked about him; and there lying at his feet was a woman. •'Who are you?' he said; and she replied, 'I am Ruth, your maidservant. Spread the skirt of your cloak over your servant for you have right of redemption over me.'^a
- 10 'May Yahweh bless you, my daughter,' said Boaz 'for this last act of kindness^b of yours is greater than the first, since you have not gone after young men, poor 2:11 or rich. •Have no fear then, my daughter, I will do whatever you ask, for the 12 people of Bethlehem all know your worth. •But, though it is true I have right of 2:20 redemption over you, you have a kinsman closer than myself. •Stay here for tonight, and in the morning if he wishes to exercise his right over you, very well, let him redeem you. But if he does not wish to do so, then as Yahweh lives, I will 14 redeem you. Lie here till morning.' •So she lay at his feet till morning. Boaz^c

f. Lit. 'he is one of our goellim', Nb 35:19#. Here the duty of Elimelech's closest relative, his goel, seems to be twofold: to prevent the alienation of his land, Lv 25:23-25, by redeeming his field, Rt 4:4, and to raise up children to him by marrying Ruth, cf. Dt 25:5-10+. Boaz however is not the closest relative, Rt 3:12.

g. In the versions ch. 3 begins with these words.

3 a. By this gesture Ruth asks Boaz, her goel, to marry her, cf. Dt 23:1; 27:20; Ezk 16:8.

b. This act of filial piety, of 'kindness', on Ruth's part consists in wishing to provide a legal descendant for Elimelech, her father-in-law, by choosing to marry his relative, Boaz.

c. 'Boaz' corr.; 'She' Hebr.

rose before the hour when one man can recognise another, 'For' said he 'it must not be known that this woman came to the threshing-floor'. •Then he said 15 to her, 'Bring the cloak you are wearing and hold it out'. She held it out while he put six measures of barley into it and then gave it to her to carry. And she went into the town.

When Ruth came back, her mother-in-law asked her, 'How did things go with 16 you, my daughter?' Then she told her all that the man had done for her. •'He 17 gave me these six measures of barley,' she added 'and he said to me, "You must not go back to your mother-in-law empty-handed".' •Naomi replied, 'Wait, my 18 daughter, and see how things will go, for he will not rest until it is settled, and settled today'.

IV. BOAZ MARRIES RUTH

4 Meanwhile Boaz had gone up to the gate of the town and sat down, and the 1 relative of whom he had spoken chanced to come past. Boaz said to him, 'Come here, man, and sit down'; and he came and sat down. •Then Boaz picked out 2 ten of the town's elders and said to them, 'Sit down here', and they sat down. Then Boaz said to the man who had right of redemption, 'Naomi, who has come 3 back from the country of Moab, is selling the piece of land that belonged to our Lv 25:25 brother, Elimelech. •I thought I should tell you about this and say: Buy it in the 4 presence of the men who are sitting here and in the presence of the elders of my people. If you want to use your right of redemption, redeem it; if you do not, tell me so and I shall know, for there is no one but you to redeem it except me, though I come after you, myself.' And he said, 'I am willing to redeem it'. •But 5
Dt25:5-10 Boaz continued, 'On the day you purchase the land from Naomi, you purchase Ruth the Moabiteess also, the wife of the dead man,^a and so restore his name to his inheritance'. •And the man with right of redemption said, 'Then I cannot use 6 my right of redemption, without jeopardising my own inheritance. As I cannot use my right of redemption, exercise the right yourself.'^b •Now in former times 7
Dt25:9-10 it was the custom in Israel, in matters of redemption or exchange, to confirm the transaction by one of the parties removing his sandal and giving it to the other. In Israel this was the form of ratification in the presence of witnesses.
Ps 60:8; 108:9 So when the man with right of redemption said to Boaz, 'Purchase it for yourself', 8 he took off his sandal.^c

Then Boaz said to the elders and all the people, 'You are witnesses this day 9 that I buy from Naomi all that belonged to Elimelech, to Chilion and to Mahlon. •You are witnesses too that I buy Ruth the Moabiteess, Mahlon's 10 widow, to be my wife, to keep the name of the dead man in his inheritance, so that the dead man's name may not die out among his brothers and at the gate of his town.' •All the people at the gate said, 'We are witnesses'; and the elders 11 said, 'May Yahweh make the woman who is to enter your House like Rachel and Leah who together built up the House of Israel.

And through the children Yahweh will give you by this young woman, may your 12 House become like the House of Perez^a whom Tamar bore to Judah.'

So Boaz took Ruth and she became his wife. And when they came together, 13 Yahweh made her conceive and she bore a son. •And the women said to Naomi, 14 'Blessed be Yahweh who has not left the dead man^e without next of kin this day to perpetuate his name in Israel. •The child will be a comfort to you and the 15 prop of your old age, for your daughter-in-law who loves you and is more to you than seven sons has given him birth.' •And Naomi took the child to her 16 own bosom and she became his nurse.^f

4 a. Elimelech, the head of the family. Ruth is reckoned his widow; Mahlon, through whom she is related to Elimelech, does not count.

b. The goel has the right to prevent the alienation of the land, and the man agrees to do this. But Boaz combines the two things, i.e. purchase of the land and marriage with Ruth, in accordance with levirate law. The child of this marriage will be Elimelech's legal heir and the land will revert to him. The first goel is afraid he will lose by the transaction and so renounces his prerogative in favour of Boaz.

c. The custom mentioned in Dt 25:9-10 has a different significance. There it is the woman herself who shows her contempt for the man who is unwilling to marry her on behalf of his dead brother, her husband. Here the gesture merely validates a contract of exchange. To put one's foot on a field, or to throw a sandal on to it, is to take possession of it, Ps 60:8; 108:9. The sandal thus becomes the symbol of the right of ownership.

By taking it off and handing it to the purchaser the owner transfers this right to him.

d. Ancestor of Boaz and Ephrathah.

e. 'the dead man' corr.

f. Naomi is the child's legal mother just as Elimelech is his legal father.

g. Obed = servant (i.e. of Yahweh).

h. The dutifulness of Ruth and Boaz thus makes Naomi the ancestress of King David.

i. This second genealogy cannot be the work of the author of Ruth. The whole point of the story is that the name of Elimelech is perpetuated (4:5,10) through the devotion of Ruth and Boaz; but in v. 21 Boaz is listed as Obed's father and the name of Obed's legal father, Elimelech, does not appear. But another lesson, of universal interest, emerges: it is a foreigner, Ruth, who is the ancestress of David and through him of Christ. The gospel will call attention to this.

The pilgrimage to Shiloh

Jr 7:12 1 There was a man of Ramathaim,^a a Zuphite from the highlands of Ephraim 1 whose name was Elkanah son of Jeroham, son of Elihu, son of Tohu, son of Zuph, an Ephraimite. •He had two wives, one called Hannah, the other Peninnah; 2 Peninnah had children but Hannah had none. •Every year this man used to go 3 up from his town to worship and to sacrifice to Yahweh Sabaoth^b in Shiloh.^c
The two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, were there as priests of Yahweh.
One day Elkanah offered sacrifice. He used to give portions to Peninnah and 4 to all her sons and daughters; •to Hannah, however, he would give only one 5 portion, although he loved her more, since Yahweh had made her barren. •Her 6 rival would taunt her to annoy her, because Yahweh had made her barren.
And this went on year after year; every time they went up to the temple 7 of Yahweh^d she used to taunt her. And so Hannah wept and would not eat.
Then Elkanah her husband said to her, 'Hannah, why are you crying and why 8 are you not eating? Why so sad? Am I not more to you than ten sons?'

The prayer of Hannah

Now after they had eaten in the hall, Hannah rose and took her stand before 9 Yahweh,^e while Eli the priest was sitting on his seat by the doorpost of the temple of Yahweh. •In the bitterness of her soul she prayed to Yahweh with many 10 tears •and made a vow, saying, 'Yahweh Sabaoth! If you will take notice of 11
the distress of your servant, and bear me in mind and not forget your servant and give her a man-child, I will give him to Yahweh for the whole of his life and no razor shall ever touch his head'.^f

Nb6:1+
Jg 13:5;16:17

While she prayed before Yahweh which she did for some time, Eli was watching 12 her mouth, •for she was speaking under her breath; her lips were moving but 13 her voice could not be heard. He therefore supposed that she was drunk^g •and 14 said to her, 'How long are you going to be in this drunken state? Rid yourself of your wine.' •'No, my lord,' Hannah replied 'I am a woman in great trouble; 15
I have taken neither wine nor strong drink—I was pouring out my soul before Yahweh. •Do not take your maidservant for a worthless woman; all this time 16
I have been speaking from the depth of my grief and my resentment.' •Then Eli 17 answered her: 'Go in peace,' he said 'and may the God of Israel grant what you have asked of him'. And she said, •'May your maidservant find favour in your 18 sight'; and with that the woman went away; she returned to the hall^h and ate and was dejected no longer.

The birth and consecration of Samuel

They rose early in the morning and worshipped before Yahweh and then set 19 out and returned to their home in Ramah. Elkanah had intercourse with Hannah

Is 10:29

- 20 his wife and Yahweh was mindful of her. •She conceived and gave birth to a son, and called him Samuel 'since' she said 'I asked Yahweh for him.'^j
- 21 When a year had gone by, •the husband Elkanah went up again with all his family to offer the annual sacrifice to Yahweh and to fulfil his vow. •Hannah, however, did not go up, having said to her husband, 'Not before the child is weaned.'^j Then I will bring him and present him before Yahweh and he shall stay there for ever.'^k
- 22 •Elkanah her husband then said to her, 'Do what you think fit; wait until you have weaned him. May Yahweh bring about what you have said.'^k So the woman stayed behind and nursed her child until his weaning.
- 23 When she had weaned him, she took him up with her together with a three-year old bull, an ephah of flour and a skin of wine, and she brought him to the temple of Yahweh at Shiloh; and the child was with them. •They slaughtered the bull and the child's mother came to Eli. •She said, 'If you please, my lord. As you live, my lord, I am the woman who stood here beside you, praying to Yahweh. •This is the child I prayed for, and Yahweh granted me what I asked him. •Now I make him over to Yahweh for the whole of his life. He is made over to Yahweh.'

There she left him,ⁱ for Yahweh.

The song of Hannah^a

Ps 2: 18
Lk 1:45-55

'My heart exults in Yahweh,
my horn is exalted in my God,
my mouth derides my foes,
for I rejoice in your power of saving.

1 a. Also called Ramah.

b. I.e. 'Yahweh of armies'; not only nor primarily the hosts of Israel, but the stars and heavenly powers too, and indeed all the cosmic forces, cf. Gn 2:1, under God's command. This ancient title is associated with the ark, cf. 1 S 4:3, the sacred emblem protecting Israel when Yahweh wages war with his people on their enemies. The title is used freely in the major prophets (with the exception of Ezekiel) and in the Psalms.

c. Now Seilun, about twelve miles S. of Nablus. This was the home of the ark in the period of the Judges, possibly even in the time of Joshua, cf. Jos 18:1+; its sanctuary there was destroyed, cf. Jr 7:12; 26:6,9; Ps 78:60, probably by the Philistines after the defeat recorded in 1 S 4. The yearly pilgrimage was that of the feast of Tabernacles.

d. In the desert the shrine of the ark was a tent, but at Shiloh a stone building, cf. 1:9; 3:2,3,15.

e. Phrase corrected, in accordance with Greek.

f. As with Isaac, Samson, and John the Baptist, God intervenes: Samuel is born of a mother who was barren; she dedicates the unborn child to God as a minister in the sanctuary. The uncut hair is, like Samson's, a sign of this dedication. But it is not explicitly said that Samuel is to be a nazirite, cf. Nb 6:1+, Jg 13:5.

g. People usually prayed aloud. Feastdays were sometimes an occasion for heavy drinking, Is 22:13; Am 2:8. Hence Eli's suspicion.

h. 'she returned to the hall' Greek.

i. A derivation from the root shaal (to ask) would give Shaul, 'Saul'. Biblical etymology is often, as here, content with a certain similarity of sound. The actual derivation of 'Samuel' is from Shem-El, 'the name of God'.

j. Infants were weaned late.

k. 'what you have said' versions; 'what he has said' Hebr.

l. 'she left him' in accordance with 2:11a; 'he worshipped' Hebr.

2 a. This song has been called the prototype of the Magnificat, but its tone is much more impersonal. It is a messianic hymn expressing the hopes of the 'poor', cf. Zp 2:3+, and ending with a reference to the messianism. It has been put into Hannah's mouth because of the allusion to the 'barren woman' in v. 5b. The text of vv. 1, 3, 5, 10, 11 has been corrected.

Ps 113:9 Is 54:1	the barren woman bears sevenfold, but the mother of many is desolate.
Dt 32:39 Ws 16:13 Ps 30:3 Jn 5:21 Tb 4:19 Jb 5:11 Ps 75:7; 147:6 Lk 1:52 Mtl 3:5	Yahweh gives death and life, brings down to Sheol and draws up; Yahweh makes poor and rich, he humbles and also exalts.	6 7
Ps 149:4	He raises the poor from the dust, he lifts the needy from the dunghill to give them a place with princes, and to assign them a seat of honour; for to Yahweh the props of the earth belong, on these he has poised the world.	8
Ps 75:3; 104:5 Jb 9:6;38 Ps 121:3	He safeguards the steps of his faithful but the wicked vanish in darkness (for it is not by strength that man triumphs). The enemies of Yahweh are shattered, the Most High thunders in the heavens.	9 10
Ps 98:9 Ps 18:50 Ps 89:24	Yahweh judges the ends of the earth, he endows his king with power, he exalts the horn of his Anointed.'

Then she left for Ramah, but the boy stayed to minister to Yahweh in the 11 presence of Eli the priest.

The sons of Eli

Now the sons of Eli were scoundrels; they cared nothing for Yahweh •nor 12 for the rights of the priests as regards the people.^b Whenever a man offered a 13 sacrifice, the priest's servant would come with a three-pronged fork in his hand while the meat was being cooked; •he would thrust this into cauldron or pan, 14 or dish or pot, and the priest claimed for his own whatever the fork brought up.
That was how they behaved with all the Israelites who came there to Shiloh.
The priest's servant would even come up before the fat had been burnt and say 15 to the man who was making the sacrifice, 'Give the priest meat for him to roast.
He will not take boiled meat from you, but raw.' •Then if the man replied, 16 •'Let them first burn the fat and then take for yourself whatever you wish', he would retort, 'No! You must give it to me now or I will take it by force'. •This 17 sin of the young men was very great in the sight of Yahweh, because they treated the offering made to Yahweh with contempt.

Samuel at Shiloh

Samuel was in the service of Yahweh; the boy wore a linen loincloth round 18 him.^c •His mother used to make him a little tunic which she brought him each 19 year when she came up with her husband to offer the yearly sacrifice. •Then Eli 20 would bless Elkanah and his wife and say, 'May Yahweh grant you an heir by this woman in place of the one she has made over to Yahweh.' And then they would go home. •Yahweh visited Hannah; she conceived and gave birth to 21 three sons and two daughters. Meanwhile the boy Samuel grew up in the presence of Yahweh.

More about the sons of Eli

Though now very old, Eli came to hear of everything that his sons were 22 doing to all Israel.^d •And he said to them, 'Why do you do these things I hear^e 23 from all the people? •No, my sons! The reports I hear are not good...^f •If man 24 25

sins against man, God will be the arbiter, but if he sins against Yahweh, who will intercede for him?' But they did not listen to their father's words, for Yahweh was determined to bring them to their deaths.^g

- 26 Meanwhile the boy Samuel went on growing in stature and in favour both with Yahweh and with men. Si 46:13
Lk 2:52

Future punishment is announced^h

- 27 A man of God came to Eli and said to him, 'Yahweh says this, "Did I not reveal myself to your father'sⁱ House when they were in Egypt, slaves of the household of Pharaoh. •I chose them out of all the tribes of Israel to be my priests, to go up to my altar, to burn incense, to carry the ephod;^j and to your father's House I granted all the burnt offerings of the sons of Israel. Why do you look with envious eyes on the sacrifice and the offering I have ordered, honouring your sons more than me, by letting them grow fat on the best part of all the offerings of my people Israel?^k •Whereas—it is Yahweh the God of Israel who speaks—I had said that your House and your father's House would walk in my presence for ever,^l now, however,—it is Yahweh who speaks—far be this from me. For those who honour me I honour in my turn, and those who despise me are esteemed as nothing. •So, the days are coming when I will break your strength and the strength of your father's House, till there is not one old man left in your House. •Like an envious enemy you will look on all the good that I shall do to Israel, but there shall be not one old man left in your House for ever. •One of you I will keep at my altar for his eyes to perish and his soul to wither, but the bulk of your House shall perish by the sword of men.^m •What happens to your two sons Hophni and Phinehas shall be a sign for you: on the one day both shall die. •I will raise up a faithful priest for myself; he shall do whatever I plan and whatever I desire. I will build him an enduring House and he will walk in the presence of my Anointed for ever. •And all that survive of your House will come and beg him on their knees for a silver piece or a loaf of bread and say: Please give me some priestly task, so that I can have a scrap of bread to eat." God calls Samuel^a

- 1 3 Now the boy Samuel was ministering to Yahweh in the presence of Eli; it was rare for Yahweh to speak in those days; visions were uncommon. 2 One day, it happened that Eli was lying down in his room. His eyes were beginning to grow dim; he could no longer see. •The lamp of God had not yet gone out, and Samuel was lying in the sanctuary of Yahweh where the ark of God was,^b when Yahweh called, 'Samuel! Samuel!' He answered, 'Here I am'. Ex 27:20f

b. Eli's sons ignore the regulations governing the priest's share.

c. In Hebrew, ephod, a priestly vestment, cf. 2 S 6:14; 22:18. It is to be distinguished from the ephod, an instrument of divination; cf. v. 28 and note. On the high priest's ephod, see Ex 28:6+.

d. The Hebr. adds 'and how they slept with the women who served at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting', a gloss suggested by Ex 38:8.

e. The Hebr. adds 'these wicked deeds', a gloss.

f. The conclusion of this verse is corrupt. Hebr. 'causing the people of Yahweh to sin'.

g. As elsewhere in the Bible, Ex 4:21; Jos 11:20; Is 6:9-10, etc., the 'hardening' of the sinner is attributed to Yahweh as its ultimate cause. But this form of expression in no way denies man's free will.

h. The episode is apparently a subsequent insertion; it makes the briefer passage of 3:11-14 unnecessary. The death of Hophni and Phinehas, 4:11, is to be merely an omen, v. 34, of the coming misfortunes foretold in v. 33: the massacre of the priests of Nob, Eli's descendants, 22:18-19 (with the exception of Abiathar 22:22-23, later deposed by Solomon, 1 K 2:27), and (in v. 35) the substitution of Zadok's family which, from the time of Solomon onwards, enjoys the favour of the king, 'the Lord's anointed'; and also, in v. 36, the humiliating situation of the provincial priests after the reform under Josiah, 2 K 23:9.

i. Levi.

j. Not a vestment worn, like the ephod of v. 18, but something that is 'carried', 14:3; 23:6; 30:7, and that holds the sacred lots by which Yahweh is consulted, 14:18f; 23:9f; 30:8, see 14:41+. We meet it in the period of the Judges, Jg 17:5; 18:14f (Gideon's ephod, Jg 8:26f, is apparently an idolatrous emblem), but it is not mentioned in post-Davidic narratives (one allusion in Ho 3:4).

k. Text and meaning uncertain; so also v. 32.

l. I.e. would serve him faithfully and enjoy his favour.

m. 'his eyes', 'his soul', Greek; 'your eyes', 'your soul' Hebr. 'the sword' Greek.

3 a. By this first revelation Samuel is consecrated prophet. It is not a dream; the voice awakens Samuel. Nor is it a 'vision' except in the wide sense, since Samuel hears but does not see Yahweh.

b. Above this ark is where Yahweh manifests his presence and issues his commands, cf. Ex 25:22; Is 6.

Then he ran to Eli and said, 'Here I am, since you called me'. Eli said, 'I did 5 not call. Go back and lie down.' So he went and lay down. •Once again Yahweh 6 called, 'Samuel! Samuel!' Samuel got up and went to Eli and said, 'Here I am, since you called me'. He replied, 'I did not call you, my son; go back and lie down'. •Samuel had as yet no knowledge of Yahweh and the word of Yahweh 7 had not yet been revealed to him. •Once again Yahweh called, the third time. 8 He got up and went to Eli and said, 'Here I am, since you called me'. Eli then understood that it was Yahweh who was calling the boy, •and he said to Samuel, 9 'Go and lie down, and if someone calls say, "Speak, Yahweh, your servant is listening"'. So Samuel went and lay down in his place.

Yahweh then came and stood by, calling as he had done before, 'Samuel! 10 Samuel!' Samuel answered, 'Speak, Yahweh, your servant is listening'. •Then 11 Yahweh said to Samuel, 'I am about to do such a thing in Israel as will make the ears of all who hear it ring. •On that day, I will carry out against Eli 12 everything I have spoken about his House,^c from beginning to end. •You are to 13 tell him that I condemn his House for ever because he has known that his sons have been cursing God, yet he has not corrected them. •Therefore—I swear 14 it to the House of Eli—neither sacrifice nor offering shall ever expiate the guilt of the House of Eli.'

Then Samuel lay still until the morning, when he opened the doors of 15 Yahweh's temple. He was afraid to tell the vision to Eli, •but Eli called him and 16 said, 'Samuel, my son'. 'Here I am' he answered. •'What message did he give 17 you?' Eli asked; 'do not hide it from me. May God do this to you, and more, if you keep back anything of what he said to you.' •Samuel then told him 18 everything, keeping nothing back from him. Eli said, 'He is Yahweh; let him do what he thinks good'.

Samuel grew up and Yahweh was with him and let no word of his fall to 19 the ground. •All Israel from Dan to Beersheba came to know that Samuel was 20 accredited as a prophet of Yahweh. •Yahweh continued to appear in Shiloh, for 21 he revealed himself to Samuel,^d 4 and the word of Samuel went out to all 1 Israel. By then, Eli was very old and his sons still persisted in their wicked behaviour towards Yahweh.^a

B. THE ARK IN PHILISTINE HANDS^b

The defeat of the Israelites and capture of the ark

It happened at that time that the Philistines mustered to fight Israel and Israel went out to meet them in battle, encamping near Ebenezer while the 29:1 Philistines were encamped at Aphek.^c •The Philistines drew up their battle line 2 Jos13:2+ against Israel, the battle was hotly engaged, and Israel was defeated by the Philistines and about four thousand of their army were killed^d on the field. The troops returned to the camp and the elders of Israel said, 'Why has Yahweh 3 Nb10:35f 2 S 11:11 allowed us to be defeated today by the Philistines? Let us fetch the ark of our God^e from Shiloh so that it may come among us and rescue us from the power of our enemies.'^f •So the troops sent to Shiloh and brought away the ark of 4 Yahweh Sabaath, he who is seated on the cherubs; the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, came with the ark. •When the ark of Yahweh arrived in the camp, 5 all Israel gave a great shout^g so that the earth resounded. •When the Philistines 6 heard the noise of the shouting, they said, 'What can this great shouting in the Hebrew camp mean?' And they realised that the ark of Yahweh had come into the camp. •At this the Philistines were afraid; and they said, 'God has come to 7 the camp'. 'Alas!' they cried 'This has never happened before. •Alas! Who 8 will save us from the power of this mighty God? It was he who struck down Egypt with every kind of plague!^h •But take courage and be men, Philistines, 9 or you will become slaves to the Hebrews as they have been slaves to you. Be

- 10 men and fight.' •So the Philistines joined battle and Israel was defeated, each man fleeing to his tent. The slaughter was great indeed, and there fell of the 11 Israelites thirty thousand foot soldiers. •The ark of God was captured too, and the two sons of Eli died, Hophni and Phinehas.

The death of Eli

- 12 A Benjaminite ran from the battle line, reaching Shiloh that same day, his 13 clothes torn and dust on his head. •When he arrived, Eli was there, sitting on his seat beside the gate watching the road,ⁱ for his heart trembled for the ark of God. This man, then, came to the town bringing the news, whereupon cries
14 filled the town. •Eli heard the uproar and asked, 'What does this great outcry mean?' The man made haste and told Eli. —•Eli was ninety-eight years old;
15 his gaze was fixed; he was blind.—•The man said to Eli, 'I have come from the camp. I escaped from the ranks today'. 'My son,' said Eli 'what has 16 happened?' •The messenger replied, 'Israel has fled before the Philistines; the army has been utterly routed. What is worse, your two sons are dead and the 17 ark of God has been captured.' •When he mentioned the ark of God, Eli fell backward off his seat by the gate; his neck was broken and he died, for he was old and heavy. He had ruled^j Israel for forty years.

The death of the wife of Phinehas

- 19 Now his daughter-in-law, the wife of Phinehas, was with child and near her time. When she heard the news that the ark of God had been captured and that her father-in-law and husband were dead she crouched down and gave birth, 20 for her labour pains came on. •When she was at the point of death, the women standing round her said, 'Do not be afraid; you have given birth to a son'. But 21 she did not answer and took no notice. •She named the boy Ichabod,^k saying, 'The glory has gone from Israel', thinking of her father-in-law and husband and 22 of the capture of the ark of God. •She said, 'The glory has gone from Israel, because the ark of God has been captured'.

3 temple of Dagon, setting it down beside Dagon.^c •Next morning the people of Ashdod went to the temple of Dagon^d and there lay Dagon face down on the ground before the ark of Yahweh. They picked Dagon up and put him back
4 in his place. •But early next morning there lay Dagon face down again on the ground before the ark of Yahweh, and Dagon's head and two hands were lying severed on the threshold; only the trunk of Dagon was left in its place.^e

b. This episode, 4:1-7, has only superficial connections with the preceding: the mention of Shiloh and of Eli and his sons. Samuel no longer figures. The ark (cf. Ex 25:10+ and 2 S 6:7+) is now the main theme. In content, flavour and geographical setting, it is related to the story of Samson, Jg 13-16. At first an independent unit, it has been used to introduce the royalist account of the institution of the monarchy, ch. 9-11, which is followed by the resumption of the Philistine wars, ch. 13-14. For the continuation of the history of the ark we must pass to 2 S 6 and then to 1 K 8:1-11.

b. One of the five Philistine towns like Gath, v. 8, and Ekron, v. 10. Cf. 6:17 and Jos 13:2+.

c. As a trophy captured from the defeated god.

d. 'went to the temple of Dagon' Greek.

e. 'the trunk of Dagon' versions.

This is why the priests of Dagon and indeed all who enter Dagon's temple do ⁵ not step on the threshold of Dagon in Ashdod to the present day.^f

The hand of Yahweh weighed heavily on the people of Ashdod and struck ⁶ terror into them,^g afflicting them with tumours, in Ashdod and its territory. When the men of Ashdod saw what was happening they said, 'The ark of the God ⁷ of Israel must not stay here with us, for his hand lies heavy on us and on Dagon our god'. •So they summoned all the Philistine chiefs to them, and said, 'What ⁸ shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel?' They decided, 'The ark of the God of Israel must go away to Gath'. So they took the ark of the God of Israel to Gath. •But after they had taken it there, the hand of Yahweh lay heavy on ⁹ that town and a great panic broke out; the people of the town, from youngest to oldest, were struck with tumours that he brought out on them. •They then sent ¹⁰ the ark of God to Ekron, but when it came to Ekron the Ekronites shouted, 'They have brought us the ark of the God of Israel to bring death to us and our people'. •They summoned all the Philistine chiefs and said, 'Send the ark ¹¹ of the God of Israel away; let it go back to where it belongs and not bring death to us and our people'—for there was mortal panic throughout the town; the hand of God was very heavy there. •The people who did not die were struck ¹² with tumours and the wailing from the town went up to heaven.

The return of the ark

¹6 The ark of Yahweh was in Philistine territory for seven months. •Then the ² Philistines called for their priests and diviners and asked, 'What shall we do with the ark of Yahweh? Tell us how to send it back to where it belongs.' •They ³ replied, 'If you do send the ark of the God of Israel away, you must not send it away empty; you must pay him a guilt-offering. Then you will be healed and you will know why his hand would not turn away from you.' •They then asked, ⁴ 'What guilt-offering ought we to pay him?' They answered, 'In proportion to the number of the Philistine chiefs, five golden tumours and models of your rats,^a for the plague was the same for you all as for your chiefs. •So you must ⁵ make models of your tumours and models of the rats that ravage your country, and you must pay honour to the God of Israel.^b Then perhaps he will lighten his hand on you and your gods and your country. •Why should you be as ⁶ stubborn as Egypt and Pharaoh were? After he had brought evil on them, did they not let them leave? •Now, then, take and fit out a new cart, and two milch cows ⁷ that have never borne the yoke.^c Then harness the cows to the cart and take their calves back to the byre.^d •Then take the ark of Yahweh, place it on the ⁸ cart, and put the golden objects which you are paying him as guilt-offering in a box beside it; then let it go its own way. •Watch it; if it goes up the road to ⁹ its own territory, to Beth-shemesh, then it was he^e who did us this great harm; but if not, then we will know it was not his hand that struck us, but that this happened to us by chance.'

The people did this. They took two milch cows and harnessed them to the ¹⁰ cart and shut up their calves in the byre. •Then they placed the ark of Yahweh ¹¹ on the cart, with the box and the golden rats and the models of their tumours.

The cows made straight for Beth-shemesh keeping to the one road, lowing as ¹² they went and turning neither to right nor to left. The Philistine chiefs followed them as far as the boundaries of Beth-shemesh.

The ark at Beth-shemesh

The people of Beth-shemesh were reaping the wheat harvest in the plain ¹³ when, raising their eyes, they saw the ark and went joyfully to meet it. •When ¹⁴ the cart came to the field of Joshua of Beth-shemesh it stopped. There was a large stone^f there, and they cut up the wood of the cart and offered the cows as a holocaust to Yahweh. •The Levites^g had taken down the ark of Yahweh and ¹⁵ the box containing the golden objects beside it, and placed all this upon the large stone. The men of Beth-shemesh offered holocausts that day and offered sacrifices to Yahweh. •When the five Philistine chiefs had seen this, they went back to Ekron the same day. •These were the golden tumours the Philistines paid as guilt-offering to Yahweh: one for Ashdod, one for Gaza, one for Ashkelon, one for Gath, one for Ekron; •as also the golden rats to the number of all the Philistine towns of the five chiefs, from fortified towns to open villages. The large stone on which they placed the ark of Yahweh is a witness^h to the present day in the field of Joshua of Beth-shemesh. •Of the people of Beth-shemesh the sons of Jeconiah had not rejoiced when they saw the ark of Yahweh, and he struck down seventyⁱ of them. The people mourned because Yahweh had struck them so fiercely.^j

The ark at Kiriath-jearim

The men of Beth-shemesh then said, 'Who can stand his ground before Yahweh this holy God; to whom shall we let him go up, away from us?' •So they sent messengers to the inhabitants of Kiriath-jearim^k saying, 'The Philistines have sent back the ark of Yahweh; come down and take it up to your town'.
 1 7 The men of Kiriath-jearim came and, taking up the ark of Yahweh, brought it to the house of Abinadab on the hill, and consecrated Eleazar^a his son to guard the ark of Yahweh.

Samuel, judge and liberator^b

From the day the ark settled in Kiriath-jearim a long time passed, twenty years, and the whole House of Israel longed for Yahweh. •Then Samuel said to the whole House of Israel, 'If you are returning to Yahweh with all your heart, put aside the foreign gods you now have, and the Astartes too, and set your heart on Yahweh and serve him alone; and he will deliver you from the hand of the Philistines'. •And the Israelites put aside the Baals and Astartes and served Yahweh alone.
 5 Then Samuel said, 'Mustering all Israel at Mizpah^c and I will plead with Yahweh for you'. •So they mustered at Mizpah and drew water and poured it out before Yahweh. They fasted that day and declared, 'We have sinned against Yahweh'. And it was at Mizpah that Samuel was judge over the Israelites.
 7 The Philistines came to hear that the children of Israel had mustered at Mizpah and the Philistine chiefs marched against Israel. The Israelites heard of this and grew afraid of the Philistines. •They said to Samuel, 'Do not cease calling on Yahweh our God to save us from the power of the Philistines'. •Then Samuel took a sucking lamb and offered it as a holocaust to Yahweh, and he called on Yahweh on behalf of Israel and Yahweh answered his prayer. •While

7 a. Though not a Levite, cf. Jg 17:5.

b. This chapter does not continue the preceding narrative. Here Samuel plays the leading part after the fashion of a 'judge', or leader raised up by God; he is credited, vv. 13-14, with the liberation actually brought about by Saul and David. This paves the way for the anti-royalist version of the institution of the monarchy, 8; 10:17-24; 12.

c. To the N. of Jerusalem. The ancient custom of Israel was to gather 'before Yahweh' in some sanctuary, v. 6.

Samuel was offering the holocaust the Philistines approached to give Israel battle, but Yahweh thundered with a great noise that day against the Philistines and threw them into a panic, and so they were routed before Israel. •The men 11 of Israel then went out from Mizpah in pursuit of the Philistines and struck them down as far as below Beth-car.^d •Then Samuel took a stone and erected 12 it between Mizpah and Jeshanah and gave it the name Ebenezer,^e saying, 'Thus far has Yahweh aided us'.

So the Philistines were humbled and no longer came into Israelite territory; 13 the hand of Yahweh lay on the Philistines all Samuel's lifetime. •The towns the 14 Philistines had taken from Israel were given back to them, from Ekron to Gath, and Israel freed their territory from the power of the Philistines. There was peace, too, between Israel and the Amorites.

Samuel was judge over Israel as long as he lived. •Each year he went on 15 circuit through Bethel and Gilgal and Mizpah and judged Israel in all these 16 places. •He would then return to Ramah, for his home was there; there too he 17 judged Israel. And there he built an altar to Yahweh.

II. SAMUEL AND SAUL

A. THE INSTITUTION OF THE MONARCHY^a

The people ask for a king^b

When Samuel grew old, he appointed his two sons as judges^c over Israel. 1
The name of the first-born was Joel, that of the younger Abijah; they were 2 judges in Beersheba. •But his sons did not follow his ways; they wanted money, 3 taking bribes and perverting justice. •Then all the elders of Israel gathered 4 together and came to Samuel at Ramah. •'Look,' they said to him 'you are 5 old, and your sons do not follow your ways. So give us a king to rule 6 over us, like the other nations.'^d •It displeased Samuel that they should say, 7
'Let us have a king to rule us', so he prayed to Yahweh. •But Yahweh said to 8
Samuel, 'Obey the voice of the people in all that they say to you, for it is not you 9 they have rejected; they have rejected me from ruling over them. •All they have 10 done to me from the day I brought them out of Egypt until now—they deserted 11 me and served other gods—they are doing now to you. •Well then, obey their 12 voice; only, you must warn them solemnly and instruct them in the rights of 13 the king who is to reign over them.'

The disadvantages of the monarchy

All that Yahweh had said Samuel repeated to the people who were asking 10 him for a king. •He said, 'These will be the rights of the king who is to reign 11 over you.^e He will take your sons and assign them to his chariotry and cavalry, 12 and they will run in front of his chariot. •He will use them as leaders of 13 a thousand and leaders of fifty; he will make them plough his ploughland and 14 harvest his harvest and make his weapons of war and the gear for his chariots. 15
He will also take your daughters as perfumers, cooks and bakers. •He will take 16 the best of your fields, of your vineyards and olive groves and give them to his 17 officials. •He will tithe your crops and vineyards to provide for his eunuchs and 18 his officials. •He will take the best of your manservants and maidservants, of 19 your cattle^f and your donkeys, and make them work for him. •He will tithe your 20 flocks, and you yourselves will become his slaves. •When that day comes, you 21 will cry out on account of the king you have chosen for yourselves, but on that day God will not answer you.'

The people refused to listen to the words of Samuel. They said, 'No! We 19 want a king, •so that we in our turn can be like the other nations; our king 20 shall rule us and be our leader and fight our battles.' •Samuel listened to all 21

- 22 that the people had to say and repeated it in the ears of Yahweh. •Yahweh then said to Samuel, 'Obey their voice and give them a king'. Samuel then said to the men of Israel, 'Go back, each to your own town'.^g

Saul and his father's she-donkeys^a

- 1 9 Among the men of Benjamin there was a man named Kish son of Abiel, son of Zeror, son of Becorath, son of Aphiah; a Benjaminite and a man of rank. •He had a son named Saul,^b a handsome man in the prime of life. Of all the Israelites there was no one more handsome than he; he stood head and shoulders taller than the rest of the people. •Now some of the she-donkeys of Saul's father Kish had strayed, so Kish said to Saul, 'My son, take one of the servants with you and be off; go and look for the she-donkeys'. •They passed through the highlands of Ephraim and passed through the land of Shalishah, but did not find them; they passed through the land of Shaalim, they were not there; they passed through the land of Benjamin, but did not find them. •When they came to the land of Zuph, Saul said to the servant who was with him, 'Come, let us go back or my father will stop worrying over the she-donkeys and start being anxious about us'. •He answered, 'Look, there is a man of God in this town,^c a man held in honour; everything he says comes true. Let us go there, then; perhaps he will be able to guide us on the journey we have undertaken.' •Saul replied to the servant, 'But if we do go, what can we take to the man? The bread in our sacks has gone, and we have no present to offer the man of God. What can we give him?'^d •Again the servant answered Saul, 'Look,' he said 'I have a quarter of a silver shekel here; I will give it to the man of God and he shall tell us our road.' •Then Saul said to his servant, 'Well said! Come, let us go.' And they went off to the town where the man of God was.

- 11 As they were going up the slope to the town they came across some girls going out to draw water, and said to them, 'Is the seer^e there?' —•Formerly in Israel when a man used to go to consult God he would say, 'Come, let us go to the seer', for a man who is now called a 'prophet' was formerly called a 'seer'. —•The girls replied, 'Yes, the seer is ahead of you. e. I.e. 'stone of help'. The Ebenezer of 4:1 is situated elsewhere.

8 a. A turning point of Israel's political and religious history. The sanctuary of the ark of Shiloh has been destroyed and unity is menaced as the Philistine threat increases. A section of the people (repeating the offer made to Gideon, Jg 8:22f, and cf. the attempt made by Abimelech, Jg 9:1f) asks for a king 'such as other nations have', but others hold the opposite view that Yahweh, Israel's only lord, should be left to provide leaders as circumstances required, as he did in the days of the Judges. These two schools of thought find a voice in the anti-royalist, ch. 8; 10:17-24; 12, and royalist, 9:1-10:16; 11, versions of the institution of the monarchy, here placed side by side. The royalist view ultimately prevails, but Saul, the first king, is scarcely distinguishable from the judges who preceded him; he is Yahweh's own choice, 9:16; 10:24, and is possessed by his spirit, 10:10, and wins the people over by a feat of arms, 11:5-11. The monarchy, however, only achieves its full development in David, an outstanding personality in whom the religious and civil functions of the Israelite monarchy are harmoniously combined, and whose political position does not interfere with the duties of the Lord's anointed. But none of his successors achieves this ideal again, and David remains the model of that future king through whom God is to bring about the salvation of his people, namely the Messiah, the Anointed of the Lord.

b. This anti-royalist account continues the story of ch. 7.

c. Not, however, leaders raised up by God to deliver his people, such as the judges and Samuel himself, ch. 7, but officials appointed to administer justice.

d. Israel forgets that it is not like other nations; in following their example and casting off Yahweh, its true king, it denies its special vocation.

e. The details that follow reflect a state of affairs not known until the days of Solomon and after; this satire implies extensive experience.

f. Following the Greek.

g. The end of the verse is by an editor: the 'dismissal of the people' makes it possible for him to insert 9:1-10:16 (royalist version) into this anti-royalist account which was originally followed by 10:17-24.

9 a. Another narrative, not connected with the preceding. Saul is its central figure, Samuel appears not as a judge but as a prophet whom Saul meets by chance. The monarchy is willed by God; the first king is his chosen one. This is the opening of the royalist (the more ancient) version which continues as far as 10:16 and is resumed in ch. 11.

b. I.e. 'asked for' (from God).

c. Ramah, Samuel's town.

d. One consults a prophet only after making him a present, Nb 22:7; 1 K 14:3; 2 K 4:42; 5:15; 8:8. Cf. Am 7:12; Mi 3:11; Ezr 13:19.

e. A rare word for 'prophet', used in ancient prose narrative. Hence the explanatory gloss of v. 9, which is to be read after v. 11.

f. 'the seer... come' following Greek.

Nb33:52 for the people are having a sacrifice today on the high place.^g •You will meet 13 him as soon as you enter the town before he goes up to the high place for Lv 3:1+ the meal. The people will not eat until he comes, since he must bless the sacrifice; then the people invited eat afterwards.^h Go up now and you will soon find him.'

10:1
Ex3:7,10 So they went up to the town, and as they were going through the gate Samuel 14 came out in their direction on his way to the high place. •Now Yahweh had 15 given Samuel a revelation the day before Saul came, saying, 'About this time 16 tomorrow I will send to you a man from the land of Benjamin; you are to anoint him as prince over my people Israel, and he will save my people from the power of the Philistines; for I have seen the distress of my people and their crying has come to me'. •When Samuel saw Saul, Yahweh told him, 'That is the 17 man of whom I told you; he shall rule my people'. •Saul accosted Samuel in the 18 gateway and said, 'Tell me, please, where the seer's house is?' •Samuel replied 19 to Saul, 'I am the seer. Go up ahead of me to the high place. You are to eat with me today. In the morning I shall take leave of you and tell you all that is in your heart. •As regards the she-donkeys you lost three days ago, do not 20 worry about them; they have been found already. Besides, for whom is all the wealth of Israel destined, if not for you and all your father's House?'ⁱ •Saul 21 then replied, 'Am I not a Benjaminite, from the smallest^j of Israel's tribes?
And is not my family the least of all the families of the tribe of Benjamin? Why do you say such words to me?'

Samuel then took Saul and his servant and brought them into the hall and 22 gave them a place at the head of those invited; there were about thirty of them.
Samuel said to the cook, 'Serve the portion I gave you, which I told you to 23 put on one side'. •The cook then took up the leg and the tail and set it in front 24 of Saul, saying, 'There! The part that has been kept is set before you. Eat!'...^k
So, Saul ate that day with Samuel.

From the high place they came down to the town. On the housetop they 25 spread out coverlets for Saul and he lay down.^l

The return of Saul

- 9 As soon as Saul had turned his back to leave Samuel, God changed his heart
10 and all these signs were accomplished that same day. •From there^g they came 19:20-24 to Gibeah, and there was a group of prophets coming to meet him; the spirit of 11 God seized on him and he fell into ecstasy in their midst. •When all who knew 11:6
Nb11:25
him previously saw him prophesying with the prophets, the people said to each other, 'What has happened to the son of Kish? Is Saul one of the prophets too?' 12 One of the group retorted, 'And who is their father?'^h And this is the origin of the proverb: Is Saul one of the prophets too? 19:24
13 When Saul's ecstasy had passed he went back into the houseⁱ •and his uncle 14 asked him and his servant, 'Where have you been?' He replied, 'In search of the she-donkeys; and when we saw we could not find them, we went to Samuel.'
15 Saul's uncle then said, 'Tell me, now, what did Samuel say to you?' •Saul said 16 to his uncle, 'He only told us that the donkeys were already found', but he said nothing to him about the kingship of which Samuel had spoken.

Saul is chosen king by lot^j

- 17 Samuel called the people together to Yahweh at Mizpah •and said to the 7:5+ 18 Israelites, 'Yahweh the God of Israel has spoken and says, "I brought Israel Jg 6:8-9

he who saved you from all your calamities and desperate straits; and you have said, "No,^k you must set a king over us". Well then, take your positions before Yahweh according to your tribes and clans.'
20 Samuel then made all the tribes of Israel come forward, and the lot fell to Jos 7:16-18 21 the tribe of Benjamin. •He then made the tribe of Benjamin come forward clan by clan, and the lot fell to the clan of Matri; he then made the clan of Matri come forward man by man, and the lot fell to Saul son of Kish. They looked for him but he was not to be found.
22 Once again they consulted Yahweh, 'Has the man come here?'^l 'There he is,' 23 Yahweh answered 'hidden among the baggage'. •So they ran and brought him out and, as he stood among the people, he was head and shoulders taller than 9:2;16:7

g. The 'high place' was a shrine set on a hilltop near a town. The custom was Canaanite, but Israel substituted Yahweh for Baal, Jg 6:25f, and the high places were for many years tolerated by the orthodox, 1 K 3:4f, until their prohibition by the law imposing a single sanctuary. Dt 12:2+.

b. The word omitted is incomprehensible in the Hebr. The 'frontiers' are those between Benjamin and Ephraim; Saul is on his way from there. Ancient tradition (and cf. Jr 31:15) located Rachel's tomb there; later it was said to be near Bethlehem where it is still shown, cf. the gloss of Gn 35:19.

They have been compared with the dervishes of today. Israel's neighbours (cf. the prophets of Baal, 1 K 18:25-29) were familiar with this lower form of religious life, which was long tolerated in the cult of Yahweh, 1 K 18:4. The 'prophets' reappear, with diminished frenzy, in Elisha's company, 2 K 2:3+. The great prophets of Israel are of a different quality, see Introduction to the Prophets.

has chosen? Of all the people there is none to equal him.' And all the people acclaimed him, shouting, 'Long live the king!'

Samuel explained the royal constitution to the people and inscribed it in a book which he placed before Yahweh. He then dismissed all the people, each to his own home. •Saul too went home to Gibeah and with him went the mighty men^m whose hearts God had touched. •But there were some scoundrels who said, 'How can this fellow save us?' They despised him, and offered him no present.

Victory over the Ammonites^a

About a month later,^b 11 Nahash the Ammonite marched up and laid 1 siege to Jabesh-gilead. All the men of Jabesh said to Nahash, 'Make a treaty with us and we will be your subjects'. •But Nahash the Ammonite said 2 to them, 'I will make a treaty with you on this condition, that I put out all your right eyes; I shall inflict this disgrace on the whole of Israel'. •The elders of 3 Jabesh said to him, 'Give us seven days' grace while we send messengers throughout the territory of Israel, and if no one comes to our help, we will go over to you'. •The messengers came to Gibeah of Saul, and reported this 4 to the people, and all the people began to lament and weep.

Now Saul was just then coming in from the fields behind his oxen, and he 5 said, 'What is wrong? Why are the people weeping?' They explained to him what the men of Jabesh had said. •And the spirit of Yahweh seized on Saul 6 when he heard these words, and his fury was stirred to fierce flame. •He took 7 a yoke of oxen and cut them in pieces which he sent by messengers throughout the territory of Israel with these words: 'If anyone will not march with Saul,^c 8 this shall be done with his oxen!' At this, a dread of Yahweh fell on the people and they marched out as one man. •He inspected them at Bezek; there were 9 three hundred thousand Israelites and thirty thousand of Judah.^d •He then said to the messengers who had come, 'This is what you must say to the men of Jabesh-gilead, "Tomorrow by the time the sun is hot help will reach you"'. The messengers went and reported this to the men of Jabesh who were overjoyed; they said to Nahash,^e 'Tomorrow we will go over^f to you and you can do 10 what you like to us'.

The next day, Saul disposed the army in three companies; they burst into the middle of the camp in the last watch of the night and struck down the Ammonites until high noon. The survivors were so scattered that not two of them were left together.

Saul is proclaimed king^g

The people then said to Samuel, 'Who said, "Is Saul to reign over us?" Hand 12 the men over for us to put them to death.' •'No one is to be put to death today' 13 Saul replied 'for today Yahweh has brought victory to Israel.' •Then Samuel said to the people, 'Come, let us go to Gilgal and reaffirm the monarchy there'.

So all the people went to Gilgal and there they proclaimed Saul king before 15 Yahweh at Gilgal. They offered communion sacrifices there before Yahweh; and Saul and all the men of Israel rejoiced greatly.

Samuel gives way to Saul^h

12 Samuel said to all Israel, 'I have faithfully done all you asked of me, and 1 I have appointed a king over you. •In future it is the king who will lead you. As for me, I am old and grey, and my sons are here among you. I have led you from my youth until today. •Here I am. Testify against me before 3 Yahweh and before his anointed. Whose ox have I taken? Whose donkey have I taken? Have I ever wronged or oppressed anyone? Have I ever taken a bribe from anyone? If so I will here and now requite you.' •'You have neither wronged 4 nor oppressed us' they said 'nor accepted a bribe from anyone.' •He said to them, 5

'Yahweh is witness against you and his anointed is witness today that you have found nothing in my hands?' 'He is witness' they replied.

- 6 Samuel then said to the people,^b 'Yahweh is witness,^c he who raised up

Revolt against the Philistines^a with Saul at Michmash and in the highlands of Bethel, and a thousand ² with Jonathan^c at Geba^d of Benjamin; the rest of the people Saul sent home, each man to his own tent.^e

10:5;14:1-15 Jonathan smashed the Philistine pillar which was at Gibeah^f and the Philistines ³ learned that the Hebrews had risen in revolt. Saul had the trumpet sounded ⁴ throughout the country, •and the whole of Israel heard the news: Saul has ⁵ smashed the Philistine pillar, and now Israel has incurred the enmity of the ⁶ Philistines. So all the people rallied behind Saul at Gilgal. •The Philistines ⁷ mustered to do battle with Israel, three thousand^g chariots, six thousand horse and a force as numerous as the sand on the seashore. They came up and pitched camp at Michmash, to the east of Beth-aven.^h •When the men of Israel saw ⁸ that their situation was desperate, since they were hard pressed, they hid in ⁹ caves, in holes, in crevices, in vaults, in wells. •Many, too, crossed over the ¹⁰ Jordan fords into the territory of Gad and Gilead. ¹¹

15 Samuel breaks with Saulⁱ

Saul was still at Gilgal and all the people who followed him were trembling.^j 10:8 He waited for seven days, the period Samuel had fixed, but Samuel did not ⁸ come to Gilgal and the army, deserting Saul, was dispersed. •So Saul said, ⁹
'Bring me the holocaust and the communion sacrifices'; and he offered the holocaust. •Just as he was completing the offering of the holocaust Samuel ¹⁰ came, and Saul went out to meet him and greet him, •but Samuel said, 'What ¹¹ have you done?' Saul replied, 'I saw the army deserting me and dispersing, and you had not come at the time fixed, while the Philistines were mustering at Michmash. •So I thought: Now the Philistines are going to fall on me at ¹² Gilgal and I have not implored the favour of Yahweh. So I felt obliged to act and I offered the holocaust myself.' •Samuel answered Saul, 'You have acted ¹³ like a fool. If you had^k carried out the order Yahweh your God commanded you, Yahweh would have confirmed your sovereignty over Israel for ever. •But ¹⁴ now your sovereignty will not last; Yahweh has searched out a man for himself after his own heart^l and designated him leader of his people, since you have not carried out what Yahweh ordered you.' •Samuel then rose and left Gilgal ¹⁵ to continue his journey.

Those of the people who remained followed Saul as he went to join the warriors, and went from Gilgal to Geba^m of Benjamin. Saul inspected the force that was with him; there were about six hundred men.

Preparations for warⁿ

Saul, his son Jonathan, and the force that was with them took up their quarters ¹⁶
14:15 in Geba of Benjamin while the Philistines camped at Michmash.^o •The raiding ¹⁷ contingent came out from the Philistine camp in three companies: one made for Ophrah in the land of Shual; •another for Beth-horon; and the third for the ¹⁸ height overhanging the Valley of the Hyenas, towards the wilderness.^p

There was not a single smith in the whole land of Israel, because the ¹⁹ Philistines had reasoned: We must prevent the Hebrews from forging swords or spears. •Hence all the Israelites were in the habit of going down to the Philistines ²⁰ to sharpen every ploughshare, axe, mattock or goad. •The price was two-thirds ²¹ of a shekel for ploughshares and axes, and one-third for sharpening mattocks and straightening goads.^q •So it was that on the day of the battle of Michmash^r ²² no one in the whole army with Saul and Jonathan had either sword or spear in his hand, except, however, Saul and his son Jonathan.

14:15 A Philistine outpost left for the Pass of Michmash.

Jonathan attacks the outpost

- 1 14 One day, Jonathan son of Saul said to his armour-bearer, 'Come on, let us go across to the Philistine outpost in the pass'.^a But he did not warn his father. •Saul was on the outskirts of Geba, sitting under the pomegranate tree that stands near the threshing-floor;^b the force with him numbered about six hundred men. •Ahijah son of Ahitub, brother of Ichabod son of Phinehas, son of Eli, the priest of Yahweh at Shiloh, was wearing the ephod. The force did not know that Jonathan had left.
- 4 In the pass that Jonathan was trying to cross to reach the Philistine outpost there is a rocky spur on one side and a rocky spur on the other; one is called Bozez, the other Seneh. •The first spur stands to the north facing Michmash, the other to the south facing Geba. •Jonathan said to his armour-bearer, 'Come on, let us go across to the outpost of these uncircumcised men; perhaps Yahweh will do something for us, for nothing can prevent Yahweh from giving us victory, whether there are many or few of them'. •His armour-bearer said to him, 'Do just as your heart tells you; as for me, my heart is^c with you'. •Jonathan then said, 'Look, we will go across to these people and let ourselves be seen. If they say to us, "Do not move till we come to you" we shall stay where we are and not go up to them. •But if they say, "Come up to us" we will go up, for that will be the sign^d for us that Yahweh has given them into our power.'
- 11 When they both let themselves be seen by the Philistine post, the Philistines said, 'Look, the Hebrews are coming out of the holes where they have been hiding'. •The men of the post then hailed Jonathan and his armour-bearer. 'Come up to us,' they said 'we have something to tell you.' Jonathan then said to his armour-bearer, 'Follow me up; Yahweh has given them into the power of Israel'. •Jonathan climbed up, hands and feet, with his armour-bearer behind him. The Philistines fell before Jonathan, and his armour-bearer, coming behind, finished them off. •This first blow that Jonathan and his armour-bearer struck accounted for about twenty men...^e

Battle is engaged

- 15 There was panic in the camp and in the countryside; all the men in the outpost, and the raiding contingent too, were terrified; the earth shook; it was a very panic of God. •Saul's lookout men in Geba^f of Benjamin could see the camp scattering in all directions. •Saul then said to the force that was with him,

13 a. Ch. 13 is composite. Vv. 16-18 and 23 belong to the primitive account which is continued in ch. 14. Vv. 3-15 are of later origin. There will be no further allusion to this first rejection of Saul, apparently an anticipation of ch. 15.

i. The tragedy of King Saul: though he is Yahweh's chosen one and the saviour of his people, ch. 11 and 14, Yahweh casts him off, ch. 13 and 15. The Bible, from the preference shown to Jacob rather than to Esau, Gn 25:23, cf. Rm 9:13, from Israel's own election, Dt 7:6; Am 3:2, to the calling of the apostles, teaches the free bestowal of God's choice. But it teaches also that persistence in God's favour depends on the faithfulness of the one chosen: Saul betrayed his choice.

Jonathan defies Saul's orders

Saul had imposed a great fast^k that day, laying the people under an oath, 'Cursed be the man who eats food before evening, before I have had my revenge on my enemies!' So no one so much as tasted food.

Now there was a honeycomb lying on the ground;^l •but when the people came up to the honeycomb, though the swarm had gone^m no one put a hand to his mouth for fear of the oath. •But Jonathan, not having heard his father lay the oath on the people, put out the end of the stick he was holding, thrust it into the honeycomb and put his hand to his mouth; then his eyes brightened. But one of the men spoke up. 'Your father' he said 'has bound the people with a strict oath to the effect that anyone who eats food today will be accursed.'ⁿ Jonathan replied, 'My father has done the nation a disservice. See how much brighter my eyes are now that I have eaten this mouthful of honey. •By the same token, if the people had eaten their fill of the booty they took from the enemy today, would not the defeat of the Philistines have been all the greater?'

The people commit a ritual fault

Jos10:10-12 They struck at the Philistines that day from Michmash as far as Aijalon until the people were utterly weary. •They flung themselves on the booty and, taking sheep, oxen and calves, slaughtered them there on the ground and ate them with the blood. •News of this came to Saul. 'Look,' they said 'the people are sinning against Yahweh, eating with the blood.' At which he replied to those who brought the news,^o 'Roll me a large stone here'.^p •Then he said, 'Scatter through the people and say to them, "Let each man bring me his ox or his sheep; slaughter them here and eat, not sinning against Yahweh by eating with the blood"'. All the people then brought what each one had^q that night, and they slaughtered them there. •Saul built an altar to Yahweh; it was the first altar he had built to Yahweh.

The guilt of Jonathan is discovered, but he is saved by the people

Saul said, 'Let us go down under cover of darkness and pursue and plunder the Philistines until dawn; we shall not leave one of them alive'. 'Do whatever you think right' they replied. But the priest said, 'Let us approach God here'.^r Saul consulted God, 'Shall I go down and pursue the Philistines? Will you give them into Israel's power?' But he gave him no reply that day. •Then Saul said, 'Come forward, all you leaders of the people; consider carefully where today's sin may lie; •for as Yahweh lives who gives victory to Israel, even if it be in Jonathan my son, he shall be put to death'. And not one of all the people answered him. •Then to all Israel he said, 'Stand on one side, and I and Jonathan my son will stand on the other'. And the people replied to Saul, 'Do as you think right'. •Then Saul said, 'Yahweh, God of Israel, why did you not answer your servant to-day? If the fault lies on me or on my son Jonathan,

- O Yahweh, God of Israel, give Urim: if the fault lies on your people Israel, give 42 Thummim.^s Jonathan and Saul were indicated and the people went free. •Saul said, 'Cast the lot between me and my son Jonathan'; and Jonathan was indicated.
 43 Saul then said to Jonathan, 'Tell me what you have done'. Jonathan said, 'I only ate a mouthful of honey off the end of the stick I was holding. Here I am.
 44 I am ready to die.' •Saul said, 'May God do this to me and more if you do not 45 die, Jonathan'. •But the people said to Saul, 'Must Jonathan die after winning this great victory for Israel? Never let it be so! As Yahweh lives, not one hair of his head shall fall to the ground, for his deeds today have been done with the help of God.' And so the people ransomed^t Jonathan and he was not put to death.
 46 Saul decided not to pursue the Philistines, and the Philistines returned to their own territory.

Summary of Saul's reign^u

- Saul consolidated his rule over Israel and fought against all his enemies everywhere: against Moab, the Ammonites, Edom, Beth-rehob, the king of 48 Zobah, the Philistines; wherever he turned he was victorious.^v •He did great deeds of valour; he defeated the Amalekites and delivered Israel from the power of their plunderers.
 49 The sons of Saul were: Jonathan, Ishvi^w and Malchishua. The names of his 50 two daughters were: the elder, Merab, and the younger, Michal. •The name of Saul's wife was Ahinoam daughter of Ahimaaz. The name of his army 51 commander was Abner son of Ner; he was Saul's uncle. •Kish the father of Saul, and Ner the father of Abner were the sons of Abiel.
 52 There was fierce war against the Philistines throughout Saul's lifetime. Any strong man or man of valour that caught Saul's eye he recruited into his service.^x

The holy war against the Amalekites^a

r. To consult the ephod, cf. 30:8.

s. This verse, restored in accordance with the versions, shows how the ephod was used for divination: it held two lots (small sticks, or dice?) called Urim and Thummim (the meaning of the words is uncertain), their import being determined according to convention. The one drawn out gave the divine answer—a simple 'yes' or 'no', cf. 23:10-12. The process was frequently a long one. The care of the sacred lots was reserved to the levitical priests, Nb 27:21; Dt 33:8. After the reign of David the practice was discontinued and never resumed, cf. Ezr 2:63 = Ne 7:65. But the name was still used for part of the high priest's vestment, cf. Ex 28:30; Lv 8:8, and Ex 28:6+.

t. Like some victim dedicated to Yahweh, Ex 13:13-15; 34:20; Lv 27:27. But possibly the verb simply means 'to set free'.

u. A summary like that of 7:13-15 (Samuel) and 2 S 8 (David). Cf. also 2 S 3:2-5; 5:13-16; 20:23-26.

v. 'he was victorious' Greek; 'he acted wickedly' Hebr.

w. I.e. 'the man of Yahweh'. The same person is called Ishbaal, 'the man of the Master', in 1 Ch 8:33, and Ishbosheth, 'the man of shame', in the Hebr. of 2 S 2:8, etc. where 'shame' is substituted for 'Baal', the name of the Canaanite god.

x. The beginnings of a professional army as distinct from the national mass levy.

15 a. Ch. 15 makes no mention of Saul's first rejection, 13:8-15, and is not connected with the anti-royalist version of ch. 12, since it only condemns Saul and not the monarchical system. Nevertheless, it emphasises the opposition, inherent in the Israelite monarchy, between purely civil policy and the demands of Yahweh, an opposition revealed in the struggle between King and Prophet (Saul and Samuel, Achab and Elijah, Hezekiah and Isaiah, Zedekiah and Jeremiah).

strike down Amalek; put him under the ban with all that he possesses. Do not spare him, but kill man and woman, babe and suckling, ox and sheep, camel and donkey".^a

Saul summoned the people and reviewed them at Telaim: two hundred 4 thousand foot soldiers (and ten thousand men of Judah). •Saul went to the city 5 of Amalek and lay in ambush in the river bed. •Saul said to the Kenites, 'Go, 6 leave your homes among the Amalekites or I may destroy you with them, for you were friendly to all the sons of Israel when they came up from Egypt'. So the Kenites moved away from the Amalekites.

Saul then defeated the Amalekites, starting from Havilah in the direction of 7 Shur, which is to the east of Egypt. •He took Agag king of the Amalekites 8 alive and, executing the ban, put all the people to the sword. •But Saul and the 9 army spared Agag with the best of the sheep and cattle, the fatlings and lambs and all that was good. They did not want to put those under the ban; they only put under the ban what was poor and worthless.^b

Saul is rejected by Yahweh

Gn6:6+

The word of Yahweh came to Samuel, •'I regret having made Saul king, 10 for he has turned away from me and has not carried out my orders'. Then 11 Samuel was deeply moved, and all night long he cried out to Yahweh.

In the morning Samuel went to meet Saul; word was brought him that Saul 12 had gone to Carmel^c to raise himself a monument, and had passed on again 13 and gone down to Gilgal. •When Samuel reached Saul, Saul said to him, 'Blessed 14 may you be by Yahweh! I have carried out Yahweh's orders'. •But Samuel 15 replied, 'Then what is the meaning of this bleating of sheep in my ears, and the lowing of oxen I hear?' •Saul said, 'They have brought them from Amalek 16 because the people spared the best of the sheep and oxen to sacrifice them to Yahweh, your God; the rest we put under the ban'.

Then Samuel said to Saul, 'Stop! Let me tell you what Yahweh said to me 16 last night.' Saul said, 'Tell me'. •Samuel continued, 'Small as you may be in 17 your own eyes, are you not head of the tribes of Israel? Yahweh has anointed you king over Israel. •Yahweh sent you on a mission and said to you, "Go, put 18 these sinners, the Amalekites, under the ban and make war on them until they are exterminated". •Why then did you not obey the voice of Yahweh? Why did 19 you fall on the booty and do what is displeasing to Yahweh?' •Saul replied to 20 Samuel, 'But I did obey the voice of Yahweh. I went on the mission which Yahweh gave me; I brought back Agag king of the Amalekites; I put the 21 Amalekites under the ban. •From the booty the people took the best sheep and oxen of what was under the ban to sacrifice them to Yahweh your God in 22 Gilgal.' •But Samuel replied:^d

III. SAUL AND DAVID

A. DAVID AT COURT

David is anointed^a

- 1 16 Yahweh said to Samuel, 'How long will you go on mourning over Saul when I have rejected him as king of Israel? Fill your horn with oil and go. I am sending you to Jesse of Bethlehem, for I have chosen myself a king among 2 his sons.' •Samuel replied, 'How can I go? When Saul hears of it he will kill me.'
 Then Yahweh said, 'Take a heifer with you and say, "I have come to sacrifice
 3 to Yahweh". •Invite Jesse to the sacrifice, and then I myself will tell you what you must do; you must anoint to me the one I point out to you.'
 4 Samuel did what Yahweh ordered and went to Bethlehem. The elders of the town came trembling to meet him and asked, 'Seer, have you come with 5 good intentions towards us?' •'Yes,' he replied 'I have come to sacrifice to Yahweh. Purify yourselves and come with me to the sacrifice.' He purified Jesse and his sons and invited them to the sacrifice.
 6 When they arrived, he caught sight of Eliab and thought, 'Surely Yahweh's 7 anointed one stands there before him', •but Yahweh said to Samuel, 'Take no notice of his appearance or his height for I have rejected him; God does not see^b as man sees; man looks at appearances but Yahweh looks at the heart'.

b. 'poor and worthless' versions. Saul and the people have failed in their execution of the ban which should have fallen on all living things, even though their motive is not to deprive Yahweh of the best of the booty but to sacrifice it to him, v. 15. Saul acts in good faith, and in this lies his tragedy: his sin consists in choosing his individual way of honouring God, with a view to his own popularity. He seeks to compromise between Yahweh who has chosen him and the people who have acknowledged him as king; he has not declared for God alone.

c. A town to the S. of Hebron, cf. 25:2f. The modern Kermel, it lies on Saul's way from the Negeb to Gilgal.

d. Samuel does not condemn sacrificial practice as a whole, but obedience of the heart is what pleases God, not mere external ritual. To practise the second against God's will is to do homage to something that is not God, to be guilty of idolatry, a crime here suggested by 'sorcery' and the mention of teraphim, tutelary idols of houses and property, Gn 31:19,30f; 1 S 19:13. On consulting teraphim cf. Ez 21:21.

e. 'a crime of teraphim' Symmachus.

f. Vv. 24-28 seem to be an addition preludeing the narrative of David's anointing, ch. 16.

g. There are no witnesses of the interview, and Saul's rejection does not become effective immediately (because the king has confessed his fault?). Samuel agrees to support Saul's authority by accompanying him to the sanctuary.

h. 'reluctantly' text uncertain. 'death is a bitter thing' following Greek; 'the bitterness of death is removed' Hebr. (in this reading, Agag believes he has been spared).

i. The ban is now enforced.

j. Though see 19:22-24 which records a different tradition.

16 a. The episode appears to derive from the prophetic tradition and remains unrelated to the subsequent history in which David is anointed at Hebron by the men of Judah, 2 S 2:4, and then by the elders of Israel, 2 S 5:3, without any further mention of the present anointing of which, according to 17:28, and despite 16:13, Eliab has no knowledge.

b. 'God sees' Greek.

for, a boy^e of fresh complexion, with fine eyes and pleasant bearing. Yahweh said, 'Come, anoint him, for this is the one'. •At this, Samuel took the horn of 13 oil and anointed him where he stood with his brothers; and the spirit of Yahweh seized on David^d and stayed with him from that day on. As for Samuel, he rose and went to Ramah.

David takes service with Saul^e

Now the spirit of Yahweh had left Saul and an evil spirit from Yahweh^f 14 filled him with terror. •Saul's servants said to him, 'Look, an evil spirit of God 15 is the cause of your terror. •Let our lord give the order, and your servants 16 who wait on you will look for a skilled harpist; when the evil spirit of God troubles you, the harpist will play and you will recover.'^g •Saul said to his 17 Si 11:2 servants, 'Find me a man who plays well and bring him to me'. •One of the soldiers then spoke up. 'I have seen one of the sons of Jesse the Bethlehemite' he said; 'he is a skilled player, a brave man and a fighter, prudent in speech, a man of presence, and Yahweh is with him.' •At this, Saul sent messengers to 19
Jesse, saying, 'Send me David your son who is with the sheep'. •Jesse took five^h 20 loaves, a skin of wine and a kid, and sent them to Saul by David his son. •And so 21 David came to Saul and entered his service; Saul loved him greatly and David became his armour-bearer. •Then Saul sent to Jesse saying, 'Let David enter 22 my service; he has won my favour'. •And whenever the spirit from God troubled 23 Saul, David took the harp and played; then Saul grew calm, and recovered, and the evil spirit left him.

1 M 4:30 Si 47:4 Goliath defies the Israelite army

17 The Philistines mustered their troops for war; they assembled at Socoh, 1 which is a town of Judah, and pitched camp between Socoh and Azekah, in 2 S 23:9 Ephes-dammim. •Saul and the Israelites also mustered, pitching camp in the 2
Valley of the Terebinth, and drew up their battle line to meet the Philistines.
These took their stand on the hills one side and the Israelites on the hills the 3 other side, with the valley between them.

One of their shock-troopers stepped out from the Philistine ranks; his name 4 2 S 21:19 was Goliath,^a from Gath; he was six cubits and one span tall. •On his head was 5 a bronze helmet and he wore a breastplate of scale-armour; the breastplate weighed five thousand shekels of bronze. •He had bronze greaves on his legs and 6 2 S 21:19 a bronze javelin across his shoulders. •The shaft of his spear was like a weaver's 7 beam, and the head of his spear weighed six hundred shekels of iron. A shieldbearer walked in front of him.

17:23 He took his stand in front of the ranks of Israel and shouted, 'Why come 8 out and range yourselves for battle? Am I not a Philistine and are you not the slaves of Saul? Choose a man and let him come down to me. •If he wins in a fight 9 with me and kills me, we will be your slaves; but if I beat him and kill him, you shall become our slaves and be servants to us.' •The Philistine then said, 'I challenge the ranks of Israel today. Give me a man and we will fight in single combat.'
When Saul and all Israel heard these words of the Philistine they were dismayed 11 and terrified.

David arrives in the camp

16:10f
Rt 1:2+ David was the son of an Ephrathite from Bethlehem of Judah whose name 12

- was Jesse; Jesse had eight sons and, by Saul's time, he was old and well on in years.^b •The three eldest sons of Jesse followed Saul to the war. The names of the three sons who went to the war were: the first-born Eliab, the second Abinadab and the third Shammah. •David was the youngest; the three eldest followed Saul. (David alternated between serving Saul and looking after his father's sheep at Bethlehem.^c •Morning and evening for forty days the Philistine advanced and took his stand.) •Jesse said to David his son, 'Take your brothers this ephah of roasted grain and these ten loaves, and hurry to your brothers' camp. •And take these ten cheeses to their commanding officer;^d ask after your brothers' health and bring some token from them; •they are with Saul and all the Israelites in the Valley of the Terebinth fighting the Philistines.'
- David rose early in the morning and, leaving the sheep with someone to guard them, took up his load and went off as Jesse had ordered him; he came to the encampment just as the troops were leaving to take up battle stations, shouting the war cry. •Israel and the Philistines drew up their lines facing one another. David left the bundle in charge of the baggage guard, ran to the battle line and went to ask his brothers how they were.
- While he was talking to them, the shock-trooper (his name was Goliath, the Philistine from Gath) came up from the Philistine ranks and made his usual speech, and David heard it. •As soon as the Israelites saw this man, they all ran away from him and were terrified. •The Israelites said, 'Have you seen this man coming up now? He is coming to challenge Israel. The king will lavish riches on the man who kills him and give him his daughter in marriage and grant his father's House the freedom of Israel.'
- Then David asked the men who were standing near him, 'What reward will the man have who kills this Philistine and removes the disgrace from Israel? Who is this uncircumcised Philistine who dares insult the armies of the living God?' The people replied as before, 'That is how the man will be rewarded who kills him'. •Now Eliab his elder brother heard him talking to the men and his anger flared up against David. 'Why have you come down here?' he said. 'Whom have you left in charge of those few sheep out there in the wilderness? I know your insolence and your wicked heart; you have come to watch the battle.' •David retorted, 'What have I done? Must I not even speak?' •And he turned away from him to address another and asked the same question; and the people answered as before. •But David's words were noted and reported to Saul, who sent for him.

c. 'a boy' conji.

d. 'The spirit of God' possesses David without external manifestation and in close association with the anointing: this is the grace bestowed on one consecrated. The name 'David' is an ancient semitic word for 'commander', 'military leader'.

e. David's early association with Saul is recounted in two traditions. According to one, David is summoned to court as a minstrel and becomes Saul's armour-bearer, 16:14-23, in which capacity he accompanies the king in the Philistine war, 17:1-11, and distinguishes himself in single combat, 17:32-53 (fusion of both traditions). According to the second, David is a young shepherd unknown to Saul; he visits his soldier brothers at the very moment the Philistine champion is gibing at the Israelites, 17:12-30. (v. 31 is a link-verse and the first tradition is then resumed, 17:32-53). Saul then summons the young hero and enlists him in his service, 17:55-18:2.

f. The spirit of Yahweh (cf. Jg 3:10+) leaves Saul, 15:23, and he is 'possessed' by an evil spirit which is said to be 'of God', vv. 15-16, cf. 18:10; 19:9, because the Israelite ascribed everything to God, the ultimate Cause. (Cf. the 'evil spirit' of Jg 9:23, the spirit of lies, 1 K 22:19-23, the spirit of giddiness, Is 19:14, the spirit of lethargy, Is 29:10). Knowing himself rejected by God and deserted by Samuel, the hot-tempered king suffers attacks of madness, 18:10f; 19:9f.

g. The ancients commonly used music either to summon the good spirit, cf. 10:5, or to expel the evil spirit.

h. 'five' conji.

17 a. 2 S 21:19 assigns the defeat of Goliath to one of David's warriors—the more ancient tradition, as it seems. Possibly the original tradition behind ch. 17 spoke only of David's victory over an unnamed opponent, 'the Philistine'.

b. 'in years' versions. The ancient Greek version omits vv. 12-13.

c. Editorial gloss inserted to harmonise the two traditions, see 16:14+.

d. Lit. 'commander of their thousand'.

e. Resumption of the first tradition (v. 32 follows on v. 11). The two traditions are then fused.

Saul made David put on his own armour and put a bronze helmet on his head and gave him a breastplate to wear, •and over David's armour he buckled his own sword; but not being used to these things David found he could not walk. 'I cannot walk with these,' he said to Saul 'I am not used to them.' So they took them off again.^f

David and Goliath

He took his staff in his hand, picked five smooth stones from the river bed, put them in his shepherd's bag, in his pouch, and with his sling in his hand he went to meet the Philistine. •The Philistine, his shield-bearer in front of him, came nearer and nearer to David; •and the Philistine looked at David, and what he saw filled him with scorn, because David was only a youth, a boy^g of fresh complexion and pleasant bearing. •The Philistine said to him, 'Am I a dog for you to come against me with sticks?' And the Philistine cursed David by his gods. •The Philistine said to David, 'Come over here and I will give your flesh to the birds of the air and the beasts of the field'. •But David answered the Philistine, 'You come against me with sword and spear and javelin, but I come against you in the name of Yahweh Sabaoth, the God of the armies of Israel that you have dared to insult. •Today Yahweh will deliver you into my hand and I shall kill you; I will cut off your head, and this very day I will give your dead body and the bodies of the Philistine army to the birds of the air and the wild beasts of the earth, so that all the earth may know that there is a God in Israel, •and that all this assembly may know that it is not by sword or by spear that Yahweh gives the victory, for Yahweh is lord of the battle and he will deliver you into our power.'

No sooner had the Philistine started forward to confront David than David left the line of battle and ran^h to meet the Philistine. •Putting his hand in his bag, he took out a stone and slung it and struck the Philistine on the forehead; the stone penetrated his forehead and he fell on his face to the ground. Thus David triumphed over the Philistine with a sling and a stone and struck the Philistine down and killed him. David had no sword in his hand. •Then David ran and, standing over the Philistine, seized his sword and drew it from the scabbard, and with this he killed him, cutting off his head.

The Philistines saw that their champion was dead and took to flight. •The men of Israel and of Judah started forward, shouting their war cry, and pursued the Philistines as far as the approaches of Gath and the gates of Ekron. The Philistine wounded lay all along the road from Shaaraim as far as Gathⁱ and Ekron. •From their determined pursuit of the Philistines the Israelites returned and plundered their camp. •And David took the Philistine's head and brought it to Jerusalem; the man's armour he kept in his own tent.^j

David the conqueror of Goliath is presented to Saul^k

When Saul saw David going to engage the Philistine he said to Abner, his army commander, 'Abner, whose son is that boy?' 'On your life, O king,' Abner replied 'I do not know.' •So the king said, 'Find out whose son the lad is'.

57 When David came back after killing the Philistine, Abner took him and 58 brought him before Saul, with the Philistine's head in his hand. •Saul asked him, 'Whose son are you, young man?' David replied, 'The son of your servant Jesse of Bethlehem'.

18 After David had finished talking to Saul, Jonathan's soul became closely bound to David's and Jonathan came to love him as his own soul.^a •Saul kept him by him from that day forward and would not let him go back to his father's house. •Jonathan made a pact with David to love him as his own soul;
he took off the cloak he was wearing and gave it to David, and his armour too, even his sword, his bow and his belt.^b •Whenever David went out, on whatever mission Saul sent him, he was successful, and Saul put him in command of the fighting men; he stood well in the people's eyes and in the eyes of Saul's officers too.

The first stirrings of jealousy in Saul^c

6 On their way back, as David was returning after killing the Philistine, the women came out to meet King Saul from all the towns of Israel, singing and 7 dancing to the sound of tambourine and lyre and cries of joy; •and as they danced the women sang:

8 Saul was very angry; the incident was not to his liking. 'They have given David the tens of thousands,' he said 'but me only the thousands; he has all but the 9 kingship now.' •And Saul turned a jealous eye on David from that day forward.

10 On the following day an evil spirit from God seized on Saul and he fell into a fit of frenzy while he was in his house. David was playing the harp as on other 11 days and Saul had his spear in his hand. •Saul brandished the spear; 'I am going to pin David to the wall' he said. But David twice evaded him.^d

Saul had made up his mind, 'Let it be not my hand that strikes him down, but 18 the hand of the Philistines!' •David replied to Saul, 'Who am I and what is my ancestry^f and my father's family in Israel, that I should be the king's son-in-law?'

she was given in marriage to Adriel of Meholah.

b. The accoutrement is part of the man, cf. 24: 5-6; 2 K 2:13f; Rt 3:9; Jonathan's gesture thus expresses his devotion for David, v. 1.

18 a. The friendship of David and Jonathan is an attractive feature of the subsequent bitter episodes; it lasts till Jonathan's death.

14:49;25:44
2 S 3:13

Now Michal the daughter of Saul fell in love with David. When Saul heard this he was pleased. •He thought, 'Yes, I will give her to him, but she will prove a snare for him and the hand of the Philistines will strike him'. (Twice^g Saul said to David, 'Now you shall be my son-in-law'.) •Saul then gave this command to his servants, 'Talk secretly to David and say, "Look, the king is pleased with you and all his servants love you; it is time you became the king's son-in-law"'. The king's servants repeated these words in David's ear, and David replied, 'Does it strike you as an easy thing for me to become the king's son-in-law, poor and of humble position as I am?' •Saul's servants then reported back what David had said. •Saul replied, 'Tell David this, "The king desires no settlement^h except a hundred foreskinsⁱ of the Philistines, for vengeance on the king's enemies"'. Saul was planning that David should fall by the hand of the Philistines.

17:26+

His servants brought this message to David and he was delighted at the thought of becoming the king's son-in-law. The time had not yet expired •when David rose and set off, he and his men, and killed two hundred of the Philistines. David brought back their foreskins and counted them out before the king so that he could be the king's son-in-law. Saul then gave him his daughter Michal in marriage.

Saul now realised that Yahweh was with David, and that all the House of Israel^j loved him; •then Saul feared David all the more and became David's lasting enemy. •The leaders of the Philistines went out to battle, but every time they went out to battle David was more successful than all Saul's officers, and his name was held in great honour.

18:1;20:1f Jonathan intervenes on behalf of David^a

19 Saul told Jonathan his son and all his servants of his intention to kill David. Now Jonathan, Saul's son, held David in great affection; •and so Jonathan warned David; 'My father Saul is looking for a way to kill you,' he said 'so be on your guard tomorrow morning; hide away in some secret place. Then I will go out and keep my father company in the fields where you are hiding, and will talk to my father about you; I will find out what the situation is and let you know.'

So Jonathan spoke well of David to Saul his father; he said, 'Let not the king sin against his servant David, for he has not sinned against you, and what he has done has been greatly to your advantage. •He took his life in his hands when he killed the Philistine, and Yahweh brought about a great victory for all Israel. You saw it yourself and rejoiced; why then sin against innocent blood in killing David without cause?' •Saul was impressed by Jonathan's words and took an oath, 'As Yahweh lives, I will not kill him'. •Jonathan called David and told him all these things. Then Jonathan brought him to Saul, and David attended on him as before.

B. THE FLIGHT OF DAVID

=18:10-11 Saul's attempt on David's life

War broke out again and David went out to fight against the Philistines; he inflicted a great defeat on them and they fled before him. •An evil spirit from Yahweh came on Saul while he was sitting in his house with his spear in his hand; David was playing the harp. •Saul tried to pin David to the wall with his spear, but he avoided Saul's thrust and the spear stuck in the wall. David fled and made good his escape.

20:1f David is saved by Michal

Ps 59 That same night^b •Saul sent agents to watch David's house, intending to kill him in the morning. But Michal, David's wife, warned him, 'If you do not escape 12 tonight, you will be a dead man tomorrow'. •Then Michal let David down through the window, and he made off and took to flight and so escaped.

Jos 2:15

13 Michal then took the teraphim, laid it on the bed, put a tress of goats' hair on 14 its head and covered it with a garment. •When Saul sent the agents to arrest 15 David, she said, 'He is ill'. •Saul, however, sent the agents back to see David, 16 saying, 'Bring him to me on his bed for me to kill him'. •So they went in, and 17 there on the bed was the teraphim with the tress of goats' hair on its head! •Then Saul said to Michal, 'Why have you deceived me like this and let my enemy go, and so make his escape?' Michal answered Saul, 'He said to me, "Let me go or I will kill you" '.

Saul and David at Ramah with Samuel^c

18 So David fled and made his escape, and he went to Samuel at Ramah and told him all that Saul had done to him; he and Samuel went and lived in the huts.^d

19 Word was brought to Saul, 'David is in the huts at Ramah'. •Saul accordingly 20 sent agents to capture David; when they saw^e the company of prophets prophesying, and Samuel there as their leader, the spirit of God came on Saul's agents, 21 and they too fell into an ecstasy. •Word of this was brought to Saul and he sent other agents, and they, too, fell into an ecstasy; Saul then sent a third group of agents, and they fell into an ecstasy too.

22 He then went to Ramah himself and, coming to the well of the threshing-floor on the bare hill,^f asked, 'Where are Samuel and David?' And someone answered, 23 'Why, they are in the huts at Ramah'. •He went on from there to the huts at Ramah and the spirit of God came on him too, and he went on his way in an ecstasy 24 until he came to the huts at Ramah. •He too stripped off his clothes and he too fell into an ecstasy in the presence of Samuel, and falling down lay there naked all that day and night. Hence the saying: Is Saul one of the prophets too?

1 20 David then fled from the huts at Ramah.^b And he went and talked to Jonathan, 'What have I done, what is my guilt and what is my sin
2 against your father that he is seeking my life?' •He answered, 'You must not think that. He will not kill you. Look, my father does nothing, important or unimportant, without confiding it to me; why should he hide this from me? It is not true.'
3 But David swore this solemn oath, 'Your father knows very well that I enjoy your favour, and thinks, "Jonathan must not come to know of this or he will be grieved". But as Yahweh lives and as you yourself live, there is only a step between me and death.'

4 Then Jonathan said to David, 'What do you want me to do for you?'
5 David replied, 'Look, tomorrow is New Moon^c and I should be sitting at table since you have united yourself with him by a pact in Yahweh's name. But if 9

I am guilty, then kill me yourself—why take me to your father?" •Jonathan 9 replied, 'You must not think that. If I had certain knowledge that my father 10 was set on bringing evil upon you, would I not tell you?' •David then said to 10
Jonathan, 'Who will let me know if your father gives you a harsh answer?'^e

•Come,' Jonathan said to David 'let us go out into the fields.' So the pair of 11 them went out into the fields. •Then Jonathan said to David, 'Yahweh the God 12 of Israel be witness! I will sound my father this time tomorrow; if all is well 12 as concerns David and I do not then inform him, •then may Yahweh do this to 13 Jonathan and more! If my father thinks fit to do you some harm, I will inform 13 you and send you away, and you will go unharmed. And may Yahweh be with 14 you as he used to be with my father.^f •If I am still alive, show me Yahweh's own 14 kindness; if I die, •never withdraw your own kindness from my House. When 15 Yahweh cuts off every one of David's enemies from the face of the earth, •let 16 not the name of Jonathan be cut off with the House of Saul, or Yahweh will 16 demand a reckoning of David.'^g •Once again Jonathan swore the solemn oath^h 17 to David because he loved him as his own soul.

Jonathan said to him, 'Tomorrow is New Moon; your absence will be noticed, 18 for your place will be empty. •The day after tomorrow your absence will be very 19 marked, and you must go to the place where you hid on the day of the deed,ⁱ and you must stay beside the heap of stones there. •For my part, the day after 20 tomorrow I shall be shooting arrows towards it as though at a target. •Then 21
I shall send a servant to say, "Go and find the arrow". If I say to the servant,
"The arrow is this side of you, get it", come by all means, because it will be safe 22 for you and there will be nothing to fear as sure as Yahweh lives. •But if I say 22 to the youth, "The arrow is ahead of you", then be off, for Yahweh himself sends 23 you away. •And as regards the agreement we made, you and I, why, Yahweh is 23 witness between us for ever.'

So David hid in the fields; New Moon came and the king sat down to his 24 meal. •He sat in his usual place, the place by the wall, with Jonathan seated 25 facing him and Abner sitting next to Saul; but David's place was empty. •Saul 26 said nothing that day, thinking, 'Something has happened; he is unclean'.^j •On 27 the day after New Moon, the second day, David's place was still empty. •Saul 28 said to his son Jonathan, 'Why did not the son of Jesse come to the meal either yesterday or today?' •Jonathan answered Saul, 'David asked urgent leave of 29 me to go to Bethlehem. "Please let me go," he said "for we are holding the clan sacrifice in the town and my brothers have ordered me to attend. So now if 30 you approve of this, let me take my leave and see my brothers." That is why he has not come to the king's table'.

Then Saul's anger flared up against Jonathan and he said to him, 'You son 30 of a wanton! Do I not know that you are in league with the son of Jesse to your own disgrace and the disgrace of your mother's nakedness? •As long as the son 31 of Jesse lives on the earth neither your person nor your royal rights are secure.
Now, send and bring him to me; he is condemned to death.' •Jonathan answered 32
Saul his father and said, 'Why should he die? What has he done?' •But Saul 33 brandished his spear at him to strike him down, and Jonathan knew then that his father had already made up his mind^k that David should die. •Hot with 34 anger Jonathan rose from the table and took no food that second day of the New Moon, being grieved on David's account because his father had insulted him.

Next morning Jonathan went out into the fields for the agreed meeting with 35
David, taking a young servant with him. •He said to his servant, 'Run and find 36 the arrows I am going to shoot', and the servant ran while Jonathan shot an arrow ahead of him. •When the servant reached the place where Jonathan had shot 37 the arrow, Jonathan shouted after him, 'Is not the arrow ahead of you?' •Again 38

Jonathan shouted after the servant, 'Be quick, hurry, do not stand about'.
 39 Jonathan's servant picked up the arrow and brought it back to his master. • The servant suspected nothing; only Jonathan and David knew what was meant.
 40 Jonathan then gave his weapons to his servant and said, 'Go and carry them 41 to the town'. • When the servant went off, David rose from beside the hillock and fell with his face to the ground and bowed down three times. Then they 42 kissed each other and both shed many tears.ⁱ • Then Jonathan said to David,
 'Go in peace. And as regards the oath that both of us have sworn in the name of Yahweh, may Yahweh be witness between you and me, between your descend-43 ants and mine for ever.'^m 21 David then rose and left, and Jonathan went back to the town.

David and the priest at Nob

2 David went to Nob,^a to Ahimelech the priest.^b Ahimelech came out trembling

 4 to Ahimelech the priest, 'The king has given me an order and said to me, "Let no one know anything of the mission I am sending you on, nor of the order I am giving you". As regards my soldiers, I have arranged to meet them at such and 5 such a place.^c • Meanwhile, if you have five loaves of bread to hand, give them

Is 10:32
Mk 2:26

6 David replied to the priest, 'Certainly, women are forbidden us, as always when I set off on a campaign. The soldiers' things are pure. Though this is a profane journey, they are certainly pure today as far as their things are con-7 cerned.'^e • The priest then gave him what had been consecrated, for the only 8 bread there was the bread of offering which is taken away from the presence of Yahweh to be replaced by warm bread when it is removed.

8 Now one of Saul's servants happened to be there that day, detained in the 9 presence of Yahweh; his name was Doeg the Edomite and he was the chief of Saul's guardsmen.^f

Ps 52
22:9f

9 David then said to Ahimelech, 'Have you no spear or sword here to hand?
 I did not bring either my sword or my weapons with me, because the king's 10 business was pressing.' • The priest replied, 'The sword of Goliath the Philistine whom you killed in the Valley of the Terebinth is over there wrapped up in a cloth behind the ephod;^g if you wish to take it, do so, for there is no other here'.
 David said, 'There is none like it; give it to me'.

17:51,54;
31:10

David with the Philistines^h

11 That day David left, fleeing from Saul and went to Achish the king of Gath.

Ps 34:56

e. The question presupposes that a meeting would be dangerous. The answer is given in v. 18ff. Vv. 11-17 are an addition anticipating the passing of Saul's authority to David.

f. Vv. 12-13 corr.

g. Vv. 14-16: text badly corrupted, restored with help of Greek.

h. 'swore' Greek; 'made (David) swear' Hebr.

i. Reference to an unrecorded episode. The text of vv. 19-20 is uncertain.

j. According to Lv 15:16; Dt 23:11, an 'accident', an involuntary pollution, makes a man unclean till evening.

k. Lit. 'it was already decided on his father's part' Greek.

l. Lit. 'wept copiously' conj. Text uncertain.

m. Vv 40-42 have been added; there is no point in the arrow stratagem unless David and Jonathan cannot meet.

21 a. On the eastern slope of Mt. Scopus, E. of Jerusalem, then still in Canaanite hands; a traveller from Benjamin to Judah had to by-pass it. The episode prepares for 22:9-23.

b. A descendant of Eli, 22:9, and brother of (or possibly to be identified with) Ahijah, 14:3. The priests of Shiloh had fled to Nob after the disaster of ch. 4.

c. Following Greek.

d. The loaves of offering. They were reserved for the priests, Lv 24:5-9. Exception to this law was admitted in the time of David, but ritual purity was essential.

e. Difficult verse. We adopt this interpretation: though the journey had no religious purpose, David and his companions behaved as on a military expedition for which continence was a religious obligation, cf. Dt 23:11; their 'things' (euphemism) are pure.

f. Lit. 'runners' conj., cf. 22:17.

g. This ephod is apparently not the ephod from which lots were drawn, 2:28+, but possibly an emblem of the divinity, like Gideon's ephod, Jg 8:27.

h. Independent tradition of David's flight; it anticipates the narrative of ch. 27 and, with a touch of humour, portrays David's cunning.

But the servants of Achish said, 'Is not this David, the king of the country?'¹²
Was it not of him they sang in the dance:¹¹

18:7;29:5

"Saul has killed his thousands,
and David his tens of thousands"?"

David pondered these words and became very frightened of Achish the king of Gath. •When their eyes were on him he played the madman and, when they held him, feigned lunacy. He would drum¹³ on the doors of the gate and let his spittle run down his beard.¹²
¹³

Achish said to his servants, 'You can see this man is mad. Why bring him to me?' •Have I not enough madmen without your bringing me this one to weary me with his antics? Is he to join my household?¹⁵

C. DAVID THE OUTLAW

David begins his wanderings

2 S 23:13
Ps 63
Mi 1:15

22 David left there and and took refuge in the Cave of Adullam;^a his brothers¹ and all his father's family heard of it and joined him there. •All the oppressed, those in distress, all those in debt, anyone who had a grievance, gathered round him and he became their leader. There were about four hundred men with him.²

David went from there to Mizpah in Moab and said to the king of Moab, 'Allow my father and mother to stay with you^b until I know what God intends to do for me'. •He left them^c with the king of Moab and they stayed with him³ all the time that David was in the stronghold.⁴

But the prophet Gad^d said to David, 'Do not stay in the stronghold; go⁵ and make your way into the land of Judah.' So David went away and came to the forest of Hereth.

The massacre of the priests of Nob

Ps 52

Saul came to hear that David and the men with him had been discovered. Saul was at Gibeah, seated under the tamarisk on the high place, spear in hand, with his officers standing round him. •'Listen, men of Benjamin,' Saul said to his officers standing round him, 'is the son of Jesse ready to give you all fields and vineyards and to make all of you commanders of thousands and commanders of hundreds •that you all conspire against me? No one told me when my son made a pact with the son of Jesse; none of you felt sorry^e for me or told me when my son incited my servant to become my enemy, as is now the case.'⁶

Doeg the Edomite then spoke up—he was standing near Saul's officers: 'I saw the son of Jesse come to Nob,' he said 'to Ahimelech son of Ahitub. This man consulted Yahweh for him, gave him provisions and also the sword of Goliath the Philistine.' •Then the king sent and summoned the priest Ahimelech son of Ahitub and his whole family, the priests of Nob; they all came to the king.

Saul said, 'Now listen, son of Ahitub'. He answered, 'I am here, my lord'. 'Why have you conspired against me,' Saul said 'you and the son of Jesse, giving him bread and a sword and consulting God on his behalf, for him to rebel against me as is now the case?' •Ahimelech answered the king, 'Who among all your servants is as faithful as David, son-in-law to the king, captain^f of your bodyguard, honoured in your household? •Was today the first time I ever consulted God on his behalf? Far be it from me to do otherwise! Let not the king bring any charge against his servant or against his whole family, for your servant knew nothing whatever of the whole affair.' •But the king answered, 'Most surely you shall die, Ahimelech, you and your whole family'.

The king said to the guardsmen who were standing beside him, 'Step forward and put the priests of Yahweh to death, for they too have supported David,

- they knew he was making his escape yet did not tell me'. But the king's servants would not lift a hand to strike the priests of Yahweh. •The king then said to Doeg, 'You step forward and strike the priests'. Doeg the Edomite stepped forward and struck the priests himself, that day killing eighty-five men who wore the linen ephod. •As for Nob, the town of the priests, Saul put it to the sword, men and women, children and infants, cattle and donkeys and sheep. 2:18+
 One son only of Ahimelech son of Ahitub escaped. His name was Abiathar, and he fled away to join David •and told him that Saul had slaughtered the priests of Yahweh. •David said to Abiathar, 'I knew that day, when Doeg the Edomite was there, he would be sure to inform Saul. I am responsible^g for the death of all your kinsmen. •Stay with me, have no fear, for he who seeks your life seeks mine too; you will be safe with me.'^h 23:6

David at Keilah

- 23 They brought the news to David, 'The Philistines are fighting against Keilah and are plundering the threshing-floors'. •David consulted Yahweh, 'Shall I go and fight these Philistines?' Yahweh answered David, 'Go and fight the Philistines and save Keilah'. •But David's men said to him, 'We go in fear here in Judah; how much more, then, if we go to Keilah to fight against the Philistines?' So David consulted Yahweh again and Yahweh replied, 'Be on your way; go down to Keilah for I will give the Philistines into your power'. •So David and his men went to Keilah and fought the Philistines, and carried off their cattle and inflicted a great defeat on them. Thus David saved the inhabitants of Keilah. Now when Abiathar son of Ahimelech took refuge with David, he went down to Keilah with the ephod in his hand.^a 22:20-23
 When word was brought to Saul that David had gone to Keilah he said, 'God has delivered him^b into my power, for he has walked into a trap by going into a town with gates and bars'. •Saul called all the people to arms, to go down to Keilah and besiege David and his men. •David, however, was aware that Saul was plotting evil against him and said to Abiathar the priest, 'Bring the ephod'. 2:28+
 David said, 'Yahweh, God of Israel, your servant has heard that Saul is preparing to come to Keilah and destroy the town because of me. • Will Saul come down as your servant has heard? Yahweh, God of Israel, I beg you, let your servant know.' Yahweh replied, 'He will come down'. •Then David asked, 'Will the townsmen of Keilah hand me and my men over to Saul?' Yahweh replied, 'They will hand you over'.^d •At this, David made off with his men, about six hundred in number; they left Keilah and went where they could. When the news was brought to Saul that David had escaped from Keilah, he abandoned the expedition.
 David stayed in the wilderness, in the strongholds; he stayed in the mountains, in the wilderness of Ziph;^e Saul searched for him continually, but God did not deliver him into his power.

Here the prophecy of David's accession is explicit, and Jonathan is content with second place, v. 17. Is this the tenor of the pact of v. 18, and was there a conspiracy of the two friends against Saul? Cf. 20:30; 22:8.

g. 'was afraid' conj.

18:1 At that time he was at Horesh in the wilderness of Ziph. •Jonathan son of Saul set off and went to David at Horesh and encouraged him in the name of God. •‘Have no fear,’ he told him ‘for the hand of my father Saul will not reach you; you are the one who is to reign over Israel, and I shall be second to you. Saul my father is himself aware of this.’ •And the two made a pact in the presence of Yahweh. David stayed at Horesh and Jonathan went home.

David has a narrow escape from Saul

26:1f Ps 54 Now some men of Ziph went up to Saul at Gibeah. ‘Is not David in hiding among us’ they said ‘in the strongholds at Horesh, on the Hill of Hachilah to the south of the wastelands? •Now whenever you wish to go down, O king, do so; it will be our task to deliver him into the king’s power.’ •Saul replied, ‘May you be blessed by Yahweh, for coming to help me. •Go now, make surer still. Find out and note the place his footsteps hurry to,^h for I have been told he is very cunning. •Take careful notice of all the hiding places where he lurks, and come back to me when you are certain. I will then come to you; and if he is in the country, I will track him down through all the clans of Judah.’

So they set off and went to Ziph ahead of Saul. Meanwhile, David and his men were in the wilderness of Maon, in the plain to the south of the wastelands. When Saul and his men set out in search of him, David was informed of it and went down to the rockⁱ that is in the wilderness of Maon. Saul heard of this and pursued David into the wilderness of Maon. •Saul and his men proceeded along one side of the mountain, David and his men along the other. David was hurrying to get away from Saul, while Saul with his men was trying to outflank^j David and his men and so capture them, •when a messenger came to Saul and said, ‘Come at once, the Philistines have invaded the country’. •So Saul broke off his pursuit of David and went to fight the Philistines. This is why that place is called the Rock of Divisions.

=26 David spares Saul

24 David went away from there, and stayed in the strongholds of Engedi.^a 1 When Saul returned from pursuing the Philistines, he was told, ‘David is now in the wilderness of Engedi’. •Saul thereupon took three thousand men chosen from the whole of Israel and went in search of David and his men east of the Rocks of the Wild Goats. •He came to the sheepfolds^b along the route 4 where there was a cave, and went in to cover his feet.^c Now David and his men were sitting in the recesses of the cave; •David’s men said to him, ‘Today is the day of which Yahweh said to you, “I will deliver your enemy into your power, do what you like with him”’. David stood up and, unobserved, cut off the border of Saul’s cloak. •Afterwards David reproached himself for having cut off 6 the border of Saul’s cloak.^d •He said to his men, ‘Yahweh preserve me from 7 doing such a thing to my lord^e and raising my hand against him, for he is the anointed of Yahweh’. •David gave his men strict instructions, forbidding them 8 to attack Saul.

9:26+;31:4
2 S 1:14

Saul then left the cave and went on his way. •After this, David too left the cave and called after Saul, ‘My lord king!’ Saul looked behind him and David bowed to the ground and did homage. •Then David said to Saul, ‘Why do you listen to the men who say to you, “David means to harm you”? •Why, your own eyes have seen today how Yahweh put you in my power in the cave and how I refused^f to kill you, but spared you. “I will not raise my hand against my lord,” I said “for he is the anointed of Yahweh.” •O my father, see, look at the border of your cloak in my hand. Since I cut off the border of your cloak, yet did not kill you, you must acknowledge frankly that there is neither malice nor treason in my mind. I have not offended against you, yet you hunt me down to take my life. •May Yahweh be judge between me and you, and may Yahweh avenge me on you; but my hand shall not be laid on you. •(As the old 14

- proverb says: Wickedness goes out from the wicked, and my hand will not be laid on you.)^g •On whose trail has the king of Israel set out? On whose trail are you in hot pursuit? On the trail of a dead dog! On the trail of a single flea! 2 S 9:8;16:9
- 16 May Yahweh be the judge and decide between me and you; may he take up my cause and defend it and give judgement for me, freeing me from your power.'
- 17 When David had finished saying these words to Saul, Saul said, 'Is that your voice, my son David?' And Saul wept aloud. •'You are a more upright man than I,' he said to David 'for you have repaid me with good while I have repaid you with evil. •Today you have crowned your goodness towards me^h since Yahweh had put me in your power yet you did not kill me. •When a man comes on his enemy, does he let him go unmolested? May Yahweh reward you for the goodness you have shown me today. •Now I know you will indeed 26:25
- 22 reign and that the sovereignty in Israel will be secure in your hands. •Now swear to me by Yahweh that you will not cut off my descendants after me nor blot out my name from my family.' •This David swore to Saulⁱ and Saul went home while David and his men with him went back to the stronghold.

The death of Samuel

=28:3

- 1 25 Samuel died and the whole of Israel assembled to mourn him. They buried him at his home in Ramah.

The story of Nabal and Abigail

David then set off and went down to the wilderness of Maon.^a

- 2 Now there was a man in Maon whose business was at Carmel, a man of 15:12+ means who owned three thousand sheep and a thousand goats. He was engaged in shearing his sheep at Carmel. •The man's name was Nabal and his wife's Abigail. She was a woman of intelligence and beauty, but the man was brutish and ill-mannered. He was a Calebite.
- 4 When David learned in the wilderness that Nabal was at his sheepshearing, he sent ten soldiers, saying to them,^b 'Go up to Carmel, visit Nabal and greet him in my name. •You are to say this to my brother,^c "Peace to you, peace to your House, peace to all that is yours! •I hear that you have the shearers; now your shepherds were with us and we did not molest them, nor did they find anything missing all the time they were at Carmel. •Ask your soldiers and they will tell you. May these soldiers win your favour, for we come on a day of feasting. Whatever you have to hand please give to your servants and to David your son."'
- 9 David's soldiers came and said all this to Nabal in David's name, and waited. 10 Then Nabal answered David's soldiers, 'Who is David? Who is the son of Jesse? 11 There are many servants nowadays who run away from their masters. •Am I to take my bread and my wine^d and the meat I have slaughtered for my shearers and give it to men who come from I do not know where?' •David's soldiers turned away and went back the way they had come, and they told all this to David. 13 Then David said to his men, 'Every man buckle on his sword!' And they buckled on their swords, and David buckled on his too; about four hundred men followed David while two hundred remained with the baggage.

Now one of the servants had brought the news to Abigail, Nabal's wife. 14 He said, 'David sent messengers from the wilderness to greet our master, but he flared out at them. •Now these men were very good to us; they did not molest 15 us and we did not find anything missing all the time we were out in the fields while we were in their neighbourhood. •They were a protection to us night and 16 day, all the time we were in their neighbourhood minding the sheep. •Now bear 17 this in mind and see what you can do, for the ruin of our master and of his whole House is decided on, and he is so ill-tempered no one can say a word to him.'

Abigail hastily took two hundred loaves, two skins of wine, five sheep ready 18 prepared, five measures of roasted grain, a hundred bunches of raisins and two hundred cakes of figs and loaded them on donkeys. •She said to her servants, 19 'Go on ahead of me, I will follow you'—but she did not tell her husband.

As she was riding her donkey down behind a spur of the mountain, David 20 and his men happened to be coming down in her direction; and she met them. •Now David had decided, 'It was a waste of time guarding all this man's 21 property in the wilderness. Nothing was missing of all he had, and yet he returned evil for good. •May God do this to David^e and more if by morning 22 I leave one male^f alive of all those who belong to him!' •As soon as Abigail 23 saw David she quickly dismounted from the donkey and, falling on her face before David, bowed down to the ground. •She fell at his feet and said, 'Let me 24 take the blame, my lord. Let your servant speak in your ear; listen to the words of your servant. •Pay no attention to this ill-tempered man Nabal for his 25 nature is like his name; "Brute"^g is his name and brutish his character. But I your servant did not see the soldiers my lord had sent. •And now, my lord, 26 as Yahweh lives and as your soul lives, by Yahweh who kept you from the crime of bloodshed and from taking vengeance with your own hand, may your enemies, and all those who plan evil against my lord become like Nabal.^h •As 27 for the present your servant brings my lord, let it be given to the soldiers of my lord's own following. •I ask you to forgive your servant's fault, for then 28 Yahweh will grant my lord a lasting dynasty, for my lord is fighting the battles of Yahweh, and in all your life there is no wickedness to be found in you. Should men set out to hunt you down and try to take your life, my lord's life 29 will be kept close in the satchel of lifeⁱ with Yahweh your God, while as for the lives of your enemies he will fling them away, as from a sling. •When Yahweh 30 has done for my lord all the good he has promised you, when he has made you prince over Israel, •you do not want to have any reason to grieve or feel remorse 31 at having shed blood needlessly and avenged yourself with your own hand. And when Yahweh has shown his goodness to my lord, then remember your servant.'

David said to Abigail, 'Blessed be Yahweh, the God of Israel, who sent you 32 to meet me today! •Blessed be your wisdom and blessed you yourself for restraining me today from the crime of bloodshed and from avenging myself 33 with my own hand! •But as Yahweh the God of Israel lives, he who kept me from harming you, had you not hurried out to meet me, I swear that Nabal would not have had one male left alive by the morning.' •David then 34 accepted from her what she had brought him and said, 'Go home in peace; see, I have listened to you and have granted your request'.

Abigail returned to Nabal. He was holding a feast, a princely feast, in his 36 house; Nabal was in high spirits, and as he was very drunk she told him nothing at all till it was daylight. •In the morning then, when the wine had left him, 37 his wife told him all that had happened and his heart died inside him and he became like a stone. •About ten days later Yahweh struck Nabal, and he died. 38

When David heard that Nabal was dead, he said, 'Blessed be Yahweh who 39 has avenged the insult I received at Nabal's hands and has restrained his servant from doing evil; Yahweh has brought Nabal's wickedness down on his own head.'

David then sent Abigail an offer of marriage. •When David's servants came to Abigail at Carmel, they said, 'David has sent us to you to take you to him as his wife.' •She rose and bowed down her face to the ground. 'Consider your servant a slave' she said 'to wash the feet of my lord's servants.' •Quickly Abigail stood up again and mounted a donkey; followed by five of her slave-girls she followed David's messengers and became his wife.

David had also married Ahinoam of Jezreel and he kept them both as wives. •Saul had given Michal his daughter, the wife of David, to Palti son of Laish, from Gallim.

David spares Saul^a

26 Now the men of Ziph came to Saul at Gibeah. 'Is not David in hiding?' they said 'on the Hill of Hachilah on the edge of the wastelands?' •So Saul set off and went down to the wilderness of Ziph, accompanied by three thousand men chosen from Israel to search for David in the wilderness of Ziph. •Saul pitched camp on the Hill of Hachilah, which is on the edge of the wastelands, by the roadside. David was then living in the wilderness and saw that Saul was coming after him there. •Accordingly, David sent out spies and learned that Saul had indeed arrived. •Setting off, David went to the place where Saul had pitched camp. He saw the place where Saul and Abner son of Ner commander of his army were lying. Saul was lying inside the camp with the troops bivouacking round him.

Speaking to Ahimelech the Hittite and Abishai son of Zeruiah and brother of Joab, David said, 'Who will come down with me into the camp of Saul?' Abishai answered, 'I will go down with you'. •So in the dark David and Abishai made their way towards the force, where they found Saul lying asleep inside the camp, his spear stuck in the ground beside his head, with Abner and the troops lying round him.

Then Abishai said to David, 'Today God has put your enemy in your power; so now let me pin him to the ground with his own spear. Just one stroke! I will not need to strike him twice.' •David answered Abishai, 'Do not kill him, for who can lift his hand against Yahweh's anointed and be without guilt? •As Yahweh lives,' David said 'Yahweh himself will strike him down, whether his time to die comes, or he goes out to battle and perishes then. Yahweh forbid that I should raise my hand against Yahweh's anointed! But now take the spear beside his head and the pitcher of water and let us go away.' David took the spear and the pitcher of water from beside Saul's head, and they made off. No one saw, no one knew, no one woke up; they were all asleep, for a deep sleep from Yahweh had fallen on them.

David crossed to the other side^b and halted on the top of the mountain a long way off; there was a wide space between them. •David then called out to the troops and to Abner son of Ner, 'Abner, will you not answer?' Abner replied, 'Who is that calling?' •David said to Abner, 'Are you not a man? Who is your like in Israel? Why did you not guard your lord the king then? Some man of the people came to kill the king your lord. •What you did was not well done. As Yahweh lives, you all deserve to die since you did not guard your lord, Yahweh's anointed. Look where the king's spear is now, and the pitcher of water that was beside his head.'

Then Saul recognised David's voice and said, 'Is that your voice, my son David?' David answered, 'It is my voice, my lord king. •Why does my lord pursue his servant?' he said. 'What have I done? What evil am I guilty of? •May

We have here either two similar events to which oral, and then written, tradition has given the same contours; or else (more probably) a duplicate narrative, i.e. two similar ways of illustrating David's magnanimity and his respect for the sacred office of the king, 'the anointed of Yahweh', cf. 9:26+.

my lord king now listen to the words of his servant: if Yahweh himself has incited you against me, let him accept an offering; but if men have done it, may they be accursed before Yahweh, for now they have driven me out so that I have no share in the heritage of Yahweh. They have said, "Go and serve other gods".^c •So now, do not let my blood fall to the ground out of the presence of Yahweh;^d for the king of Israel has gone out in quest of my life^e as a man hunts a partridge on the mountains.²⁰

Saul replied, 'I have sinned. Come back, my son David; I will never harm you again since you have shown such respect for my life today. Yes, my course has been folly and my error grave.' •David answered, 'Here is the king's spear. Let one of the soldiers come across and take it. •Yahweh repays everyone for his uprightness and loyalty. Today Yahweh put you in my power, but I would not raise my hand against Yahweh's anointed. •Just as today your life counted for much in my sight, so shall my life count for much in the sight of Yahweh and he will deliver me from all distress.'²¹

Then Saul said to David, 'May you be blessed, my son David! You will do great things and will succeed.' Then David went on his way and Saul returned home.²⁵

D. DAVID AMONG THE PHILISTINES

He takes refuge at Gath

27 'One of these days' David thought 'I shall perish at the hand of Saul. I can do no better than escape^a to the land of the Philistines;^b then Saul will give up tracking me through the length and breadth of Israel and I shall be safe from him.' •So David set off and went, he and the six hundred men who were with him, down to Achish son of Maach the king of Gath. •He settled at Gath with Achish, he and his men, each with his family and David with his two wives, Ahinoam of Jezreel and Abigail the wife of Nabal from Carmel. •When news reached Saul that David had fled to Gath, he stopped searching for him.¹

David as vassal of the Philistines

David said to Achish, 'If you will grant me a favour, let me be given a place in one of the country towns for me to settle in. Why should your servant live in the royal city with you?' •So that day Achish gave him Ziklag,^c and for this reason Ziklag has been the property of the kings of Judah^d to the present day. The length of time that David stayed in Philistine territory was a year and four months.^{29:3}

David and his men went out on raids against the Geshurites, Girzites and Amalekites, for these are the tribes inhabiting the region that goes from Telam^e in the direction of Shur and as far as the land of Egypt. •David laid the countryside waste and left neither man nor woman alive but took the sheep and oxen, donkeys, camels and garments and came back, bringing them to Achish. •Achish would ask, 'Where did you go raiding today?' David would reply, 'Against the Negeb of Judah', or 'the Negeb of Jerahmeel', or 'the Negeb of the Kenites.'^{1 Ch 2:25} But David never brought a man or woman back alive to Gath 'in case' as he thought 'they inform against us and say, "David did such and such"'. This was David's practice all the time he stayed in Philistine territory. •Achish trusted David. 'He has made himself hated by his own people Israel' he thought 'and so will be my servant for ever.'^{Ex 17:8+ Jos 13:2 1 S 15}

The Philistines go to war against Israel

28 At that time the Philistines mustered their forces for war to fight Israel, and Achish said to David, 'It is understood that you join forces with me, you and your men?' •David answered Achish, 'In that case, you will soon see what your servant can do.' ^a Achish replied to David, 'Right, I shall appoint you as my permanent bodyguard.'

Saul and the witch of En-dor^b

- 5 Saul mustered all Israel and they encamped at Gilboa. •When Saul saw the Philistine camp he was afraid and there was a great trembling in his heart.

- 8 And so Saul, disguising himself and changing his clothes, set out accompanied by two men; their visit to the woman took place at night. 'Disclose the future to me' he said 'by means of a ghost. Conjure up the one I shall name to you.' •The woman answered, 'Look, you know what Saul has done, how he has swept the necromancers and wizards out of the country; why are you setting a trap for my life, then, to have me killed?' •But Saul swore to her by Yahweh, 'As Yahweh lives,' he said 'no blame shall attach to you for this business.'
- 11 Then the woman asked, 'Whom shall I conjure up for you?' He replied, 'Conjure up Samuel'.
- 12 Then the woman saw Samuel and, giving a great cry, she said to Saul, 1 K 14:2

The woman answered Saul, 'I see a ghost^e rising up from the earth'.^f •'What is he like?' he asked. She answered, 'It is an old man coming up; he is wrapped in a cloak'. Then Saul knew it was Samuel and he bowed down his face to the ground and did homage.
- 15 Then Samuel said to Saul, 'Why have you disturbed my rest, conjuring me up?' Si 46:20
- Saul replied, 'I am in great distress; the Philistines are waging war against me, and God has abandoned me and no longer answers me either by prophet or dream; and so I have summoned you to tell me what I must do'. •Samuel said, 'And why do you consult me, when Yahweh has abandoned you and is with 15:27-28

f. The Negeb is the sparsely populated, mainly pastoral district lying to the S. of Palestine. It belongs to the men of Judah and their allies, such as the Kenites, cf. also 30:14. David represents his raids as made against these; in fact they are made against the marauders from the desert and win him the favour of the men of Judah.

The narrator seems to share the popular belief in ghosts (though he regards it unlawful to consult them); the Fathers and commentators, however, seek an explanation of the incident itself: divine power, demonic activity, the woman's trickery. Doubtless, as in other seances, credulity and trickery were at work; but the incident is presented as a genuine recalling of Samuel's spirit (hence the woman's fear) to foretell the future. Cf. 1 Ch 10:13 (LXX) and Si 46:20.

than with the heads of these men here? •Is not this the David of whom they 5 sang in the dance:

18:7:21-12

"Saul has killed his thousands,
David his tens of thousands?"

So Achish called David and said, 'As Yahweh lives, you are loyal, and to 6 me it seems only right you should accompany me in the campaign, for I have found nothing wrong in you from the day you came to me to the present time.
But you are not acceptable to the leaders. •So go back, and go in peace, rather 7 than antagonise the leaders of the Philistines.'

'But what have I done,' David asked Achish 'what fault have you had to 8 find with your servant from the day I entered your service to the present time, for me not to be allowed to go and fight the enemies of my lord the king?'^c

28:14-17, 20:19-28 Achish answered, 'You know^d that in my sight you are as blameless as an angel 9 of God; but the Philistine leaders have said, "He must not go out with us to battle". •So now, get up early in the morning, you and your master's servants 10 who came with you, and go to the place I assigned you. Let there be no rancour in your heart, for to me you are blameless.^e You must get up early in the morning and when it is light enough you must be off.'

So David rose early, he and his men, and set off in the morning to return 11 to the land of the Philistines. The Philistines went up to Jezreel.

The campaign against the Amalekites

30 Now by the time David and his men reached Ziklag on the third day, the 1 Amalekites had raided the Negeb and Ziklag; they had stormed Ziklag and

- 2 burnt it down. •They had taken the women captive with all those^a who were there, both small and great. They had not killed anyone, but taken the prisoners
3 and gone on their way. •When David and his men arrived, they found the town
4 burnt down and their wives and sons and daughters taken captive. •Then David and the people with him wept aloud till they were too weak to weep any more.
5 David's two wives had been taken captive, Ahinoam of Jezreel and Abigail the wife of Nabal from Carmel. 27:3
- 6 David was in great trouble, for the people were talking of stoning him; all the people were bitter in soul, each for his sons and daughters. But David took 7 courage from Yahweh his God. •To the priest Abiathar son of Ahimelech David 8 said, 'Bring me the ephod'. Abiathar brought the ephod to David. •Then David consulted Yahweh, 'Am I to go in pursuit of these raiders? Shall I overtake them?' 2:28 +
The answer was, 'Go in pursuit; you will certainly overtake them and rescue the 9 captives'. •David accordingly set off with the six hundred men who were with 10 him, and reached the wadi Besor.^b •David then continued the pursuit with four hundred men, two hundred staying behind who were too exhausted to cross the wadi Besor.
- 11 Out in the country they found an Egyptian and brought him to David. They 12 gave him bread which he ate, and water to drink; •they also gave him a piece of fig cake and two bunches of raisins; he ate these and his spirits revived, for he had neither eaten bread nor drunk water for three days and three nights.
13 David then said to him, 'Whose man are you and where do you come from?' He answered, 'I am a young Egyptian, the slave of an Amalekite; my master abandoned me because I fell sick three days ago. •We raided the Negeb of the Cherethites,^c and the Negeb of Judah, and the Negeb of Caleb too, and we burnt
14 Ziklag down.' •David said, 'Will you lead me down to these raiders?' He replied, 'Swear to me by God not to kill me or hand me over to my master and I will lead you down to these raiders'. 27:10
- 15 And when he led him down there they were, scattered over the whole countryside, eating, drinking and rejoicing, because of the enormous booty they 16 had taken from the land of the Philistines and from the land of Judah. •David struck them down from dawn till evening, putting them under the ban.^d None Jos6:17 +
17 escaped except for four hundred soldiers who mounted camels and fled. •David set free all whom the Amalekites had captured. David set his two wives free also.
18 Nothing was missing, whether small or great, booty or sons and daughters,^e
19 everything that had been captured; David brought all back. •They captured the flocks and herds as well and drove them in front of him. 'This is David's booty' they shouted.
- 20 Then David came to the two hundred men who had been too exhausted to follow him, those he had left at the wadi Besor; they came out to meet David and the troops with him, and, approaching David and the troops, asked^f how 21 they had fared. •But all the rogues and scoundrels among the men who had gone with David said, 'They did not go with us so we will not give them any of the booty we have rescued, though each can take his wife and children away
22 and go'. •But David said, 'Do not act like this after what^g Yahweh has done for us; he has protected us, delivering into our hands the raiders who set on us.
23 Who would agree with you on this? No:

THE SECOND BOOK OF SAMUEL

David learns of Saul's death^a 4:10

- 1 After the death of Saul, David returned from his rout of the Amalekites and 2 spent two days in Ziklag. •On the third day a man came from the camp
 3 where Saul had been, his garments torn and earth on his head. When he came 4 to David, he fell to the ground and did homage. •‘Where do you come from?’
 5 David asked him. ‘I have escaped from the Israelite camp’ he said. •David said 6 to him, ‘What happened? Tell me.’ He replied, ‘The people have fled from the 7 battlefield and many of them have fallen. Saul and his son Jonathan are dead
 8 too.’
 9 David then asked the young soldier who brought the news, ‘How do you
 10 know that Saul and his son Jonathan are dead?’ •‘I happened to be on Mount 11 Gilboa,’ the young soldier replied ‘and there was Saul, leaning on his spear, 12 with the chariots and the cavalry pressing him hard. •Then he turned round 13 and saw me, and shouted to me. I answered, “Here I am”. •He said, “Who are 14 you?” “An Amalekite” I replied. •Then he said, “Stand over me and kill me, for 15 a giddiness has come on me, though my life is wholly in me still”. •So I stood 16 over him and killed him, because I knew that once he fell he could not survive.
 Then I took the crown he wore on his head and the bracelet on his arm, and I have brought them here to my lord.’
 17 Then David took hold of his garments and tore them, and all the men with 18 him did the same. •They mourned and wept and fasted until the evening for 19 Saul and his son Jonathan, for the people of Yahweh and for the House of 20 Israel, because they had fallen by the sword.
 21 David said to the young soldier who had brought the news, ‘Where are you 22 from?’ ‘I am the son of a resident alien,’ he answered ‘an Amalekite.’ •David 23 said, ‘How is it you were not afraid to lift your hand to destroy Yahweh’s
 24 anointed?’ •Then David called one of his soldiers. ‘Come here,’ he said ‘strike 25 him down.’ The man struck him and he died. •‘Your blood be on your own head,’ David said^b ‘for your own lips gave evidence against you when you said, “I killed Yahweh’s anointed”.’

I. DAVID

A. DAVID KING OF JUDAH

David consecrated king at Hebron

Ex 30:11

1 S2:28+

2 After this David consulted Yahweh. 'Shall I go up to one of the towns of 1 Judah?' he asked. Yahweh answered, 'Go up'. 'Which shall I go to?' David 2 asked. 'To Hebron'^a was the reply. •So David went up, with his two wives, 3 Ahinoam of Jezreel and Abigail the wife of Nabal from Carmel. •The men who 4 were with him, David made go up too, each with his family, and they settled 5 in the towns of Hebron.^b •There the men of Judah came and anointed David 6 king over the House of Judah.^c

David's message to Jabesh

1 S31:11-13

They told David that the people of Jabesh-gilead had given Saul burial, 5 so David sent messengers to the men of Jabesh-gilead. 'May you be blessed by 6 Yahweh' he said 'for doing this kindness to Saul your lord, and for burying 7 him. •And now may Yahweh show kindness and faithfulness to you! I too shall 8 treat you well because you have done this.'^d •And now take courage and be men 9 of valour. Saul your lord is dead, but the House of Judah has anointed me to be 10 their king.'^e

Abner makes Ishbaal king over Israel

1 S14:49+

Abner son of Ner, Saul's army commander, had taken Ishbaal/^f son of Saul 8 and brought him over to Mahanaim.^g •He had made him king over Gilead, 9 over the Ashurites,^h over Jezreel and Ephraim and Benjamin, and indeed over 10 all Israel. •Ishbaal son of Saul was forty years old when he became king of 11 Israel, and he reigned for two years. Only the House of Judah supported David.

- 11 The length of David's reign over Judah in Hebron was seven years and six months.ⁱ =5:5

War between Israel and Judah. The battle of Gibeon

- 12 Abner son of Ner with Ishbaal's followers marched out from Mahanaim to 13 Gibeon. •Joab son of Zeruiah with David's followers also marched out,^{20:8} encountering them by the Pool of Gibeon.^j There they halted, one party on one side of the pool, and the other opposite.
 14 Then Abner said to Joab, 'Let the young soldiers come forward and hold 15 a contest before us'.^k 'Let them come forward' Joab replied. •So they came forward and were numbered off, twelve from Benjamin for Ishbaal son of Saul, 16 and twelve of David's followers. •Each caught his adversary by the head and drove his sword into his side so that they all fell together. Hence the place was called the Field of Sides;^l it is at Gibeon.
 17 That day a very fierce battle took place, and Abner and the men of Israel
 18 were beaten by David's followers. •The three sons of Zeruiah were there, Joab, 19 Abishai, and Asahel. Now Asahel was as swift-footed as a wild gazelle. •Asahel^{23:24} set off in pursuit of Abner turning neither to right nor to left as he went in pursuit 20 of him. •Abner turned. 'Asahel,' he said 'is that you?' He answered, 'It is'.^{1Ch27:7} 21 'Turn to your right or your left,' Abner said 'catch one of the soldiers and take 22 his spoil.' But Asahel would not break off the pursuit. •Again Abner spoke to Asahel, 'Stop pursuing me, unless you want me to strike you to the ground;
 23 and then how could I look your brother Joab in the face again?'^m •But he refused to turn away, so Abner struck him in the belly with the buttⁿ of his spear so that the spear came out at his back; and he fell there and died on the spot. On coming to the place where Asahel had fallen and died, everyone halted.
 24 Joab and Abishai took up the pursuit of Abner and at sunset reached the 25 Hill of Ammah, which is to the east of the valley, on the road to Giah.^o •The Benjaminites gathered behind Abner in close formation and halted at the top 26 of the Hill of Ammah.^p •Abner called out to Joab, 'Is the sword to go on eating its fill for ever?' he said. 'Do you not know that this will end in disaster? How long will it be before you order these people to stop pursuing their brothers?' 27 'As Yahweh^q lives,' Joab replied 'if you had not spoken, these men would not 28 have given up the pursuit of their brothers until morning.'^r •Joab then sounded the trumpet and all the troops halted; they pursued Israel no further and fought no more.
 29 All that night Abner and his men made their way through the Arabah;^s they crossed the Jordan and, marching throughout the morning, came to Mahanaim.
 30 Joab, giving up the pursuit of Abner, mustered his whole force; David's followers 31 had lost nineteen men in addition to Asahel, •but had killed three hundred and 32 sixty of Benjamin, Abner's men. •They took up Asahel and buried him in his father's tomb, which is at Bethlehem. Then Joab and his men marched throughout the night and day dawned as they reached Hebron.

c. David had won supporters in Judah, 1 S 27:10-12; 30:26-31. He was later to be anointed by the elders of Israel, 5:3. This form of the tradition knows nothing of Samuel's anointing of the young David, 1 S 16:1-13.

3 So the war dragged on between the House of Saul and the House of David, 1 but David grew steadily stronger, and the House of Saul ever weaker.

5:13-16 11Ch3:1-4 The sons born to David at Hebron

13:1 Sons were born to David at Hebron: his first-born Amnon, by Ahinoam of 2
Jezreel; •his second Chileab, by Abigail the wife of Nabal from Carmel; the 3
13:37a third Absalom the son of Maacah, daughter of Talmai king of Geshur;^a •the 4
1 K 1:5 fourth Adonijah the son of Haggith; the fifth Shephatiah the son of Abital; •the 5 sixth Ithream, by Eglah wife of David. These were born to David at Hebron.

The rift between Abner and Ishbaal

This is what took place during the war between the House of Saul and the 6
House of David. Abner took complete control in the House of Saul. •Now there 7 21:8-10 was a concubine of Saul's named Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah, and Abner took her. Ishbaal said to Abner, 'Why have you slept with my father's concubine?'^b At these words of Ishbaal Abner flew into a rage. 'Am I a dog's head?'^c he 8 shouted. 'Here am I full of goodwill towards the House of Saul your father, his brothers and his friends, not leaving you to the hands of David, and now you find fault with me about a woman! •May God do this to Abner and more 9 3:18;5:2 if I do not bring about what Yahweh has promised on oath to David, •to take 10
1 S 25:30 the sovereignty from the House of Saul, and set up the throne of David over Israel and Judah, from Dan to Beersheba.'^d •Ishbaal dared not say a single 11 word in answer to Abner, because he was afraid of him.

Abner negotiates with David

Abner sent messengers to say to David, '...•Come to an agreement with 12 me and I will give you my support to win all Israel over to you'. •'Very well,' 13
David said 'I will come to an agreement with you. I impose one condition 1S18:20-27 however; you will not be admitted to my presence unless you bring me Michal, Saul's daughter, when you come to see me.' •David then sent messengers to 14 Ishbaal son of Saul. 'Give me back my wife Michal,' he said 'whom I won with a hundred foreskins of the Philistines.' •So Ishbaal sent for her to be taken from 15
1 S 25:44 her husband Paltiel son of Laish. •Her husband set off with her and followed 16 16:5 her, weeping, as far as Bahurim; but Abner said to him, 'Go back', and he went.

•Now Abner had conferred with the elders of Israel. 'For a long time now' 17
he said 'you have wanted David for your king. •Now you must take action; 18 3:10+ Yahweh has given this promise about David, "By the hand of my servant David I will deliver my people Israel from the hands of the Philistines and all their enemies'." •Abner also spoke to the men of Benjamin, and then went to 19 Hebron to tell David all that had been agreed by Israel and the House of Benjamin.

Abner accompanied by twenty men came to David at Hebron, and David 20 held a feast for Abner and the men who were with him. •Then Abner said to 21 David, 'I must be off. I am going to rally all Israel to my lord the king. They will make an alliance with you, and you will reign over all that you desire.'
So David allowed Abner to go, and he went unmolested.

The murder of Abner

The followers of David were just then coming back with Joab from a raid, 22 bringing a great amount of booty with them. Abner was no longer with David at Hebron, since David had allowed him to go, and he had gone unmolested.
When Joab arrived and the whole force that was with him, Joab was told, 'Abner 23 son of Ner has been to the king and he has allowed Abner to go away unmolested'.
Then Joab went to the king. 'What have you done?' he said. 'Abner comes to 24 you and you allow him to go unmolested? Why? •Do you not know Abner son 25 of Ner? He came to trick you, to know your every move, to find out what you are doing.'

- 26 Joab left David's presence and sent messengers after Abner and these,
 27 unknown to David, brought him back from the Well of Sirah. •When Abner reached Hebron, Joab drew him apart to the side of the gate as if to have a word with him in private, and there struck him in the belly. And so, for the blood
 28 of Joab's brother Asahel, he died. •Afterwards when David heard of this, he said, 'I and my kingdom are innocent for ever before Yahweh of the blood of 29 Abner son of Ner; •may it fall on the head of Joab and on all his family! May the House of Joab never lack men with the discharge or the leprosy, or only 30 fit to hold a distaff, or falling by the sword, or short of bread!' •(Joab and his brother Abishai had murdered Abner because he killed their brother Asahel 31 at the battle of Gibeon.) •David then said to Joab and all the troops who were with him, 'Tear your garments, put on sackcloth, and mourn before Abner';
 32 and King David walked behind the bier. •They buried Abner at Hebron, and the king wept aloud at Abner's grave, and the people all wept too. •The king made this lament over Abner:

'Should Abner have died as a fool dies?

- 34 Your hands were not tied, your feet not chained;
 you fell as a man falls at the hands of criminals.'

And all the people wept once more over him.

- 35 They all tried then to persuade David to have some food while it was still daylight, but David took this oath, 'May God do this to me and more if I taste 36 bread or anything whatever until the sun is down!' •All the people took note of this and it pleased them; indeed, everything the king did pleased the people.
 37 That day all the people and all Israel understood that the king had no part in the death of Abner son of Ner.
 38 The king said to his officers, 'Do you not know that in Israel a prince, a great 39 man, has fallen today? •I, though I am king by anointing,^h am weak at this present time, and these men, the sons of Zeruiah, are too ruthless for me. May Yahweh pay back the wrong-doer in proportion to the wrong he has done.'

The murder of Ishbaal

- 1 4 When Ishbaal son of Saul heard the news that Abner had died at Hebron, 2 his heart failed him, and the whole of Israel was alarmed. •Now Ishbaal son of Saul had two freebooting chieftains; one was called Baanah, the other Rechab. They were the sons of Rimmon of Beeroth, and Benjaminites—for 3 Beeroth is regarded as belonging to Benjamin. •The people of Beeroth had taken refuge in Gittaim where they have remained to this day as resident aliens.
 4 "Jonathan son of Saul had a son with crippled feet. He was five years old when the news about Saul and Jonathan came from Jezreel. His nurse picked him up and fled, but as she hurried away he fell and was lamed. His name was Meribbaal.^b

3 a. To the E. of the Lake of Tiberias.

b. 'and Abner took her' Greek. By appropriating one of Saul's concubines Abner sets himself up as a claimant to the throne, since the harem of the deceased king passed to his successor, see 12:8, 16:20-22 and 1 K 2:22.

c. The text adds 'of Judah', absent from the Greek.
 d. We are not told on what occasion this promise was made to David.

e. Some words are corrupt; lit. 'where he was, saying: Whose is a country?'

f. Vv. 17-19 are by a later editor. Many in Israel favoured David even during the lifetime of Saul, 1 S 18:7, 16, 28, still more under Ishbaal, Saul's colourless successor.

g. Though not shackled in any way, Abner died unresisting. This would have proved him a fool, were it not that he had been killed by treachery.

h. Meaning uncertain. David excuses himself for his inability to proceed against the assassins: it is too soon after his consecration and he commits their punishment to God. In the end he bequeathes this task to Solomon, 1 K 2:5-6, cf. 31-34.

4 a. A piece of information alien to the context. Its purpose is possibly to remind the reader that, Ishbaal excepted, Saul's only heir was a cripple.

b. 'Meribbaal' here and subsequently, as in 1 Ch 8:34; 9:40. To avoid mention of the Canaanite Baal the Hebr. of 2 S altered the name to 'Meribosheth' (meaning uncertain 'he who diffuses (?) shame'). Similarly, Ishbosheth was read for Ishbaal, 2:8+, and Jerubbesheth for Jerubbaal, 11:21.

The sons of Rimmon of Beeroth, Rechab and Baanah, set out; they came 5 to Ishbaal's house at the hottest part of the day when he was taking his midday rest. •The woman who kept the door had been cleaning wheat, and she had 6 drowsed off to sleep. Rechab and his brother Baanah stole by •and entered the 7 house where Ishbaal was lying in his bedroom on his bed. They struck and killed him and cut off his head; and taking the head with them, they travelled all night by the road of the Arabah.^c •They brought Ishbaal's head to David at Hebron. 8 'Here' they said to the king 'is the head of Ishbaal son of Saul, your enemy, who sought your life. Yahweh has avenged my lord the king today on Saul and on his offspring.'

But David answered Rechab and his brother Baanah by saying, 'As Yahweh 9 1:1-16 lives, who has delivered me from all adversity, •the man who thought to bring me good news when he told me Saul was dead, this man I seized and killed at Ziklag, rewarding him for his good news. •How much more when bandits 11 have killed an honest man in his house, and on his bed! Am I not bound to demand account of his blood from you, and wipe you from the earth?'^d •Then 12 David gave an order to his soldiers, who put them to death, cut off their hands and feet, and hung them up beside the Pool of Hebron. Ishbaal's head they took and buried in Abner's grave at Hebron.

B. DAVID KING OF JUDAH AND OF ISRAEL

David is anointed king of Israel

5 All the tribes of Israel then came to David at Hebron. 'Look' they said 1 Dt 17:15 'we are your own flesh and blood. •In days past when Saul was our king, 2 3:10+ it was you who led Israel in all their exploits; and Yahweh said to you, "You are 1 S 18:16 the man who shall be shepherd of my people Israel, you shall be the leader of Israel". ' •So all the elders of Israel came to the king at Hebron, and King David 3 made a pact with them at Hebron in the presence of Yahweh, and they anointed David king of Israel.

David was thirty years old when he became king, and he reigned for 4 =2:11 forty years. •He reigned in Hebron over Judah for seven years and six months; 5 1:1 Ch 3:4 then he reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel and Judah for thirty-three years.^a

The capture of Jerusalem^b

David and his men marched on Jerusalem against the Jebusites living there. 6 Jos 15:63 Jg 1:8;19:10 These said to David, 'You will not get in here. The blind and the lame will hold 1 K 3:1 you off.'^c (That is to say: David will never get in here.) •But David captured the 7 Is 29:3 fortress of Zion, that is, the Citadel of David. •That day David said, 'Whoever 8 Mt 21:14-15 strikes the Jebusites and goes up by the conduit...'^d As for the blind and the lame, David hated them in his soul.^e (Hence the saying: the blind and the lame 9 Lv 21:18 shall not enter the Temple.) •David went to live in the fortress and called it the 9 Ps 78:69; Citadel of David.^f David then built a wall round it, from the Millo going 89:132:13 inwards.^g •David grew greater and greater, and Yahweh, God of Sabaoth, was 10 Gn 39:2 with him. 1 S 13:+

Hiram king of Tyre sent envoys to David with cedar wood and carpenters 11 1 K 5:15 and stonemasons, who built David a palace. •David then knew that Yahweh 12 1:1 Ch 14:1-2 had confirmed him as king over Israel, and for the sake of his people Israel was making his reign glorious.

The sons born to David in Jerusalem

After coming from Hebron, David took other concubines and wives in 13 3:2-5 Jerusalem, and sons and daughters were born to him. •These are the names 14 1:1 Ch 14:3-7 of those born to him in Jerusalem: Shammua, Shobab, Nathan, Solomon, 15 Ibhar, Elishua, Nepheg, Japhia, •Elishama, Eliada, Eliphelet. 16 1:1 Ch 3:5-8

'Will you deliver them into my power?' Yahweh answered David, 'Attack! I will most surely deliver the Philistines into your power.' •Accordingly David went to Baal-perazim and there defeated them. David said, 'Yahweh has made a breach in my enemies for me like a breach the waters make'. For this reason 21 that place was called Baal-perazim.^k •They had left their gods behind them there, and David and his men carried them off.
22 Again the Philistines marched up and deployed in the Valley of the Rephaim. 23 David consulted Yahweh, who answered, 'Do not attack them from the front; 24 go round to their rear and engage them opposite the balsam trees. •When you hear the sound of steps^l in the tops of the balsam trees, advance, for that will 25 be Yahweh going out ahead of you to rout the army of the Philistines.' •David did as Yahweh had ordered and routed the Philistines from Gibeon as far as the Pass of Gezer.^m

c. The Jordan valley, cf. 2:29.

d. David's indignation is sincere. Nevertheless, Ishbaal's death, following on Abner's, assures him the throne of Israel, 5:1-3.

5 a. David, already anointed king by the men of Judah, 2:4, is now acknowledged by the men of Israel. The two groups remain distinct however (David is king 'over all Israel and Judah'), and internal dissension troubles this united kingdom right up to the time of the final division, 1 K 12.

b. This took place after the victories over the Philistines described in vv. 17-25.

c. They consider the position impregnable: cripples could defend it.

d. 'goes up' conj. The sentence would be completed 'will receive such and such a reward'. But the text is uncertain. The 'conduit' (if this is what the word means) is the tunnel bored through the hill of ancient Jerusalem as a way down to the Well of Gihon (1 K 1:33f) without having to leave the city. Resolute men could climb up it into the town. The text of 1 Ch 11:6 is easier 'The first to strike down a Jebusite will become leader and commander. Joab was first to go up.'

e. These words are alien to the context and are absent from Ch.

f. David's choice is explained by Jerusalem's central position between the northern and southern tribes. The city's name is attested as early as 2000 B.C. The old Jebusite town (Dt 7:1+) was built on Mt Zion between the Valleys of the Kidron and the Tyropoean. It was overlooked on the N. by the spur of Ophel, 2 Ch 27:3, and by the height on which David was to erect an altar, 2 S 24:16f, and Solomon the Temple, 1 K 6; Solomon's palaces were later built to the S. of the Temple, 1 K 7. The city soon spread over the large hill to the W., the northern wall of which had twice to be pushed further N., 2 K 14:13+. The water system (v. 8+) was improved, particularly by Hezekiah, 2 K 20:20+. In 587 Nebuchadnezzar destroyed the city, 2 K 25, but rebuilding of the Temple was completed in 515, Ezr 6:15, and of the walls in 445, Ne 2-6. Antiochus Epiphanes built the citadel of the Akra opposite the Temple, 1 M 1:33+, and the Hasmonaeans turned it into a palace, Lk 23:7; Herod, however, set up his official residence more to the W., Herod also made the ancient citadel of the Temple, Ne 7:2, into a huge fortress, the Antonia, and rebuilt the Temple, Jn 2:20. The city was ultimately destroyed by Titus in 70 A.D.; cf. Lk 21:20. Mentioned for the first time in the Bible together with its priest-king Melchizedek, Gn 14:18+; Ps 76:2, and destined to be, under David, the political and religious capital of Israel, Jerusalem (or Zion) eventually becomes the symbol of God's chosen people, Ezk 23; Is 62. It is the home of Yahweh, Ps 76:2+, and of his Anointed, Ps 2 and 110, the future meeting place of all the nations, Is 2:1-5; 60. With the vision of the new Jerusalem, Is 54:11, the Bible closes, Rv 21f.

g. 'a wall' corr. 'the town' Ch. On the 'Millo' see 1 K 9:15. This wall 'going inwards' must have run along the Tyropoean valley; it was soon to be inside the city which was expanding westwards.

h. 'all Israel' Ch; 'Israel' Hebr.

i. To Adullam perhaps, 1 S 22:1-5. Jerusalem was evidently not yet captured.

j. Sunken plain to the S.W. of Jerusalem, Jos 15:8; 18:16; cf. Dt 2:10+.

k. Perez means 'breach', cf. Gn 38:29.

l. The advancing tread of Yahweh.

m. 'Gibeon' Ch and Greek ('Gabaon'). Gezer is just within Philistine territory; the enemy is forced back to his own country.

6 a. This narrative takes up the story of the ark where a previous narrator left it, 1 S 7:1. By receiving the ark where Yahweh manifests his presence, Ex 25:8+; Dt 4:7+, Jerusalem is no longer the political capital only, but the religious centre, the holy city of Israel.

b. 'Baalah' cf. Ch. The old name of Kiriath-jearim, Jos 15:9, cf. Jos 15:60; 18:14.

c. 'Uzzah walked' conj.

Ps68:24f; 150:3,5 danced before Yahweh with all their might, singing^d to the accompaniment of lyres, harps, tambourines, castanets, and cymbals. •When they came to the 6 threshing-floor of Nacon, Uzzah stretched his hand out to^e the ark of God and steadied it, as the oxen were making it tilt. •Then the anger of Yahweh blazed 7 out against Uzzah, and for this crime^f God struck him down on the spot, and he died there beside the ark of God. •David was displeased that Yahweh had 8

1 K 8:1 broken out against Uzzah, and that place was called Perez-uzzah,^g as it still is now. David went in fear of Yahweh that day. 'However can the ark of Yahweh 9 come to me?' he said. •So David decided not to take the ark into the Citadel 10 of David and took it to the house of Obed-edom of Gath. •The ark of Yahweh 11 remained in the house of Obed-edom of Gath for three months, and Yahweh blessed Obed-edom and his whole family.

11 Ch 15: 1-29 Ps 24:7 Word was brought to King David that Yahweh had blessed the family of 12 Obed-edom and all that belonged to him on account of the ark of God. David accordingly went and brought the ark of God up from Obed-edom's house to the Citadel of David with great rejoicing. •When the bearers of the ark of Yahweh 13 had gone six paces, he sacrificed an ox and a fat sheep. •And David danced 14 whirling round before Yahweh with all his might, wearing a linen loincloth round him.^h •Thus David and all the House of Israel brought up the ark of 15 Yahweh with acclaim and the sound of the horn. •Now as the ark of Yahweh 16 entered the Citadel of David, Michal the daughter of Saul was watching from the window and saw King David leaping and dancing before Yahweh; and she 17 despised him in her heart. •They brought the ark of Yahweh in and put it in position inside the tent that David had pitched for it; and David offered holo- 18 causts before Yahweh, and communion sacrifices. •And when David had finished offering holocausts and communion sacrifices, he blessed the people in the name 19 of Yahweh Sabaoth. •He then distributed among all the people, among the whole multitude of Israelites, men and women, a roll of bread to each, a portion 20 of dates,ⁱ and a raisin cake. Then they all went away, each to his own house.

As David was coming back to bless his household Michal, the daughter of 20 Saul, went out to meet him. 'What a fine reputation the king of Israel has won himself today,' she said 'displaying himself^j under the eyes of his servant- 21 maids, as any buffoon might display himself.' •David answered Michal, 'I was dancing for Yahweh, not for them. As Yahweh lives,^k who chose me in preference to your father and his whole House to make me leader of Israel, Yahweh's 22 people, I shall dance before Yahweh •and demean myself even more. In your eyes I may be base, but by the maids you speak of I shall be held in honour.'^l 23 And to the day of her death Michal, the daughter of Saul, had no children.

The prophecy of Nathan^a

7 Once David had settled into his house and Yahweh had given him rest from 1 all the enemies surrounding him, •the king said to the prophet Nathan, 2 'Look, I am living in a house of cedar while the ark of God dwells in a tent'. Nathan said to the king, 'Go and do all that is in your mind, for Yahweh 3 is with you'.

But that very night the word of Yahweh came to Nathan:

'Go and tell my servant David, "Thus Yahweh speaks: Are you the man to 4 build me a house to dwell in? •I have never stayed in a house from the day I 5 brought the Israelites out of Egypt until today, but have always led a wanderer's life in a tent. •In all my journeying with the whole people of Israel, did I say 6 to any one of the judges^b of Israel, whom I had appointed as shepherds of Israel my people: Why have you not built me a house of cedar?" •This is what you 7 must say to my servant David, "Yahweh Sabaoth says this: I took you from the pasture, from following the sheep, to be leader of my people Israel; I have been with you on all your expeditions; I have cut off all your enemies 8 before you. I will give you fame as great as the fame of the greatest on 9 17 Nathan related all these words to David and this whole revelation.

David's prayer^g

- 18 King David then went in and, seated before Yahweh,^h said:
 19 ‘Who am I, Lord Yahweh, and what is my House, that you have led me as far as this? •Yet in your sight, Lord Yahweh, this is still not far enough, and you make your promises extend to the House of your servant for a far-distant

d. ‘with all their might singing’ Greek, Ch.

e. ‘his hand out to’ Ch.

f. Meaning very uncertain. Ch ‘because he had laid his hand on the ark’. The ark was terrible to its foes, 1 S 5, or to those who treated it with disrespect, 1 S 6:19. Our text goes further; the ark where Yahweh sits enthroned is sacred and may not be handled. Behind this primitive conception of the sacred (cf. Lv 17:1+) lies an acute sense of God's terrible majesty, cf. Ex 33:20+. The Priestly code provides for this instinct: even the Levites may not approach the ark without mortal peril until it has been covered by the priests, Nb 4:5, 15:20. Nor do they touch it but carry it on shafts, Ex 25:14.

g. ‘Uzzah's Breach’, cf. 5:20. Popular etymology: Yahweh has brought destruction (lit. ‘broken through’) on Uzzah.

h. A priestly garment; David has just offered sacrifice and is about to give a blessing, v. 18.

i. Interpretation conjectural.

j. He wore nothing but a loincloth, cf. Ex 20:26 and 28:42-43.

k. Following the Greek.

l. ‘In your eyes’ Greek. The whole episode brings out the simplicity and earnestness of David's devotion.
 7 a. The prophecy is built round a contrast: David is not to build a house (a temple) for God, v. 5; God is to build a House (a dynasty) for him, v. 11. The substance of the prophecy is the perpetuity of the Davidic dynasty in Israel, vv. 12-16. David himself thus understood it, vv. 19, 25, 27, 29, cf. 23:5; so also Ps 89:29-37; 132:11-12. The oracle, therefore, stretches beyond Solomon, David's immediate successor, to whom it is applied by v. 13 (an addition) and by 1 Ch 17:11-14; 22:10; 28:6 and 1 K 5:19; 8:16-19. There is an interplay of light and shade in the prophecy, however, and it allows us a glimpse of one privileged descendant who is to enjoy God's special favour. It is the first in the series of prophecies relating to the Davidic Messiah, Is 7:14+; Mi 4:14+; Hg 2:23+. Ac 2:30 applies the text to Jesus.

b. ‘judges’ Ch; ‘tribes’ Hebr.

c. Vv. 10-11a (corr.; cf. Greek and Ch), which extend the prophecy to the whole of Israel, seem to be an addition.

d. Probably an addition, cf. note a above. If this verse is omitted, the prophecy displays an affection for the old customs of the desert, vv. 6-7, and a mis-giving with regard to the Temple such as one finds in the (later inserted) v. 27 of 1 K 8, in the prophets, Is 66:1-2, and even in Stephen's discourse, Ac 7:48.

e. Not yet a messianic title as in Ps 2:7 and Heb 1:5 (cf. 2 Co 6:18): God will deal with David's descendants as a father with his son, chastising them as men do, cf. Ps 89:30-33. 1 Ch 17:13 applies the text to the Messiah and therefore suppresses the second part of the verse.

f. ‘before me’ Greek and some MSS; ‘before thee’ Hebr.

g. A prayer of praise and thanksgiving for the promise of vv. 8-16.

h. In the tent where the ark was.

i. The text adds, lit. ‘and this is the instruction of man’, which here makes no sense.

j. ‘your servant's’ Greek, Ch; ‘your word's’ Hebr. ‘this dog of yours’ conj.; ‘according to your heart’ Hebr. The whole verse is uncertain.

k. To avoid giving the impression that these gods actually existed, the scribal tradition modified the Hebr. text (here restored in accordance with Ch and versions), eliminating even the suggestion that false gods could do for their people what Yahweh could do for Israel.

l. ‘Lord Yahweh’ conj.; ‘Yahweh God’ Hebr.

 kindness for Jonathan's sake?' •Now there was a servant of Saul's household 2 whose name was Ziba, and they called him to David. 'You are Ziba?' the king asked. 'At your service' he answered. •The king said, 'Is there no one still left 3 of Saul's family for me to show him God's kindness?' 'There is still one of Jonathan's sons,' Ziba answered the king 'a man with crippled feet.' •'Where is he?' the king asked. Ziba replied, 'He is living in the household of Machir son of Ammiel at Lo-debar'. •So King David sent to have him brought from the house of Machir son of Ammiel at Lo-debar.

On entering David's presence, Meribbaal^b son of Jonathan, son of Saul, fell on his face and did homage. David said, 'Meribbaal!' He answered, 'I am at your service'. •Then David said, 'Do not be afraid; I intend to show you kindness for your father Jonathan's sake. I will restore all the land of Saul your father to you and you shall always eat at my table.' •And Meribbaal did homage. 'What is your servant' he said 'that you should show favour to a dead dog like me?'

Then the king called Ziba, Saul's servant, and said, 'Everything belonging to Saul and his family I give to your master's son. •You must work the land for him, you and your sons and your slaves; you must harvest the produce to provide food for your master's family^c to eat. But Meribbaal, your master's son, shall always take his meals at my table.' Now Ziba had fifteen sons and twenty slaves. •Ziba said to the king, 'Your servant will do everything my lord the king has ordered his servant'.

So Meribbaal ate at David's table like one of the king's sons. •Meribbaal had a young son whose name was Mica. All those who lived in Ziba's house became Meribbaal's servants. •Meribbaal lived in Jerusalem, since he always ate at the king's table. He was crippled in both feet.

2. THE AMMONITE WAR — BIRTH OF SOLOMON

David's ambassadors are insulted

||1 Ch 19:1-5

10 After this, the king of the Ammonites died and his son Hanun succeeded him. •David thought, 'I will show the same kindness for Hanun son of Nahash as his father showed me'. And through his servants David sent him his condolences on his father's death. But when David's servants reached the land of the Ammonites, •the Ammonite leaders said to Hanun their master, 'Do you imagine David means to honour your father when he sends you messengers of sympathy? On the contrary, the reason why David has sent his servants to you

8 a. Summary of the campaigns of David's reign. The Ammonite war is not mentioned because it is to be described, ch. 10-12, in connection with the story of Bathsheba.

b. Two unintelligible words. Accepted translation 'control of the capital'. Ch 'Gath and its villages'.

c. Meaning uncertain; interpretation adopted: Hadadezer, head of the small kingdom of Zobah in Anti-Lebanon, was trying to extend his control of the neighbouring Aramaean groups further towards the Euphrates (the river); David took advantage of this situation to attack him in the rear. But possibly we have here another account of the campaign of ch. 10.

d. Before the time of Solomon the Israelite army had no chariots.

e. On the Orontes, to the N. of the districts controlled by Hadadezer.

f. 'Hadoram' Ch; cf. Greek.

g. According to Greek; cf. Ch and the inscr. of Ps 60.

h. Probably the Arabah, the valley running S. from the Dead Sea.

i. Here the text repeats 'on the whole of Edom he imposed governors'.

j. 'Abiathar son of Ahimelech', cf. 1 S 22:20 'Shusha' cf. 1 Ch 18:16 and 1 K 4:3. Abiathar, descended from Eli and a priest of David from the start, 1 S 22:20, was deprived by Solomon, 1 K 2:26-27, and Zadok's family then enjoyed the monopoly of the Jerusalem priesthood, in accordance with the prophecy against the sons of Eli, 1 S 2:30-36. Zadok is here said to be son of Ahitub and, according to 1 Ch 5:29-34 and 6:35-38, he is thus descended from Eleazar, son of Aaron; but the text is not certain.

l. An odd statement, probably meaning that David's sons assisted or deputised for him in those priestly functions for which the king was qualified; cf. 6:13-20.

9 a. Ch. 9-20, which are continued in 1 K 1-2, are derived from an ancient and well-informed narrative which the author of Samuel uses almost unchanged. The prophecy of Nathan, ch. 7, in its primitive form was perhaps the preface to it. The narrative told how David's crown eventually passed to Solomon, despite the fact that Meribbaal, Saul's grandson, was still alive, ch. 9, despite Sheba's hostility, ch. 20, and notwithstanding the whole tragic history of the royal family: David's adultery and the birth of Solomon, ch. 10-12, the murder of Amnon, 13, Absalom's revolt, 15-18, and Adonijah's intrigues, 1 K 1-2.

 Jericho' the king said 'until your beards have grown again, and come back then.'

11 Ch 19: 6-15 The first Ammonite campaign

The Ammonites saw that they had incurred the enmity of David and accord- 6
 Is 14:47 ingly sent messengers to hire the Aramaeans of Beth-rehob and the Aramaeans
 8:3 of Zobah, twenty thousand foot; also the king of Maacah with one thousand 11:1 men, and the men of Tob, twelve thousand men.^b •When David heard this, he 7 sent Joab with all the common soldiers and the champions.^c •The Ammonites 8 marched out and drew up their line of battle at the approaches to the gate, while the Aramaeans of Zobah and of Rehob and the men of Tob and Maacah kept their distance in the open country. •Joab, seeing that he had to fight on two 9 fronts, to his front and to his rear, chose the best of Israel's picked men and drew them up in line facing the Aramaeans. •He entrusted the rest of the army to his 10 brother Abishai, and drew them up in line facing the Ammonites. •'If the Ara- 11 maeans prove too strong for me,' he said 'you must come to my help; if the Ammonites prove too strong for you, I will go to yours. •Take courage and 12 stand firm for the sake of our people and the towns of our God. And may Yahweh do as he thinks right.' •Joab and the force with him joined battle with the 13 Aramaeans, who fled before him. •When the Ammonites saw that the Aramaeans 14 had taken flight, they too fled before Abishai and withdrew into their town. Then Joab returned from the war with the Ammonites and came back to Jerusalem.

8:3-8 11 Ch 19: 16-19 Victory over the Aramaeans^d

Seeing that they had been defeated by Israel, the Aramaeans consolidated 15 their forces. •Hadadezer sent messengers and mobilised the Aramaeans from 16 beyond the river. They came to Helam with Shobach, commander of Hadadezer's army, at their head. •Word of this was brought to David, who mustered all 17 Israel, crossed the Jordan and reached Helam. The Aramaeans drew up in line facing David and engaged him. •But the Aramaeans gave ground before 18 Israel, and David killed seven hundred of their chariot teams and forty thousand men; he also struck down Shobach their general, who died then and there. •When 19 all the vassal kings of Hadadezer saw that they had been defeated by Israel, they made peace with the Israelites and became subject to them. The Aramaeans were afraid to give any more help to the Ammonites.

Ps 51 The second Ammonite campaign. David's sin^a

11 Ch 20:1 2 S 10:7 11 At the turn of the year,^b the time when kings go campaigning, David sent 1 Joab and with him his own guards and the whole of Israel. They massacred the Ammonites and laid siege to Rabbah. David however remained in Jerusalem.

It happened towards evening when David had risen from his couch and was 2 strolling on the palace roof, that he saw from the roof a woman bathing; the woman was very beautiful. •David made inquiries about this woman and was 3 23:39 told, 'Why, that is Bathsheba, Eliam's daughter, the wife of Uriah the Hittite'.^c
 Then David sent messengers and had her brought. She came to him, and he slept 4 Lv 15:19 with her; now she had just purified herself from her courses. She then went home again. •The woman conceived and sent word to David; 'I am with child'. 5

Then David sent Joab a message, 'Send me Uriah the Hittite', whereupon 6 Joab sent Uriah to David. •When Uriah came into his presence, David asked 7 after Joab and the army and how the war was going. •David then said to Uriah, 8 'Go down to your house and enjoy yourself'. Uriah left the palace, and was followed by a present from the king's table. •Uriah however slept by the palace 9 door with his master's bodyguard and did not go down to his house.

10 This was reported to David; 'Uriah' they said 'did not go down to his house'.
 So David asked Uriah, 'Have you not just arrived from a journey? Why do you
 11 not go to your home?' •But Uriah answered, 'Are not the ark and the men of 1 S 4:3f Israel and Judah lodged in tents; and my master Joab and the bodyguard of my lord, are they not in the open fields? Am I to go to my house, then, and eat and drink and sleep with my wife?'^d As Yahweh lives, and as you yourself 12 live, I will do no such thing!' •Then David said to Uriah, 'Stay on here today; 13 tomorrow I shall send you back'. So Uriah stayed that day in Jerusalem. •The next day David invited him to eat and drink in his presence and made him drunk. In the evening Uriah went out and lay on his couch with his master's bodyguard, but he did not go down to his house.

14 Next morning David wrote a letter to Joab and sent it by Uriah. •In the 15 letter he wrote, 'Station Uriah in the thick of the fight and then fall back behind 16 him so that he may be struck down and die'. •Joab, then besieging the town, 17 posted Uriah in a place where he knew there were fierce fighters. •The men of the town sallied out and engaged Joab; the army suffered casualties, including some of David's bodyguard; and Uriah the Hittite was killed too.

18 Joab sent David a full account of the battle. •To the messenger he gave this 19 order: 'When you have finished telling the king all the details of the battle, 20 the king's anger may be provoked; he may say, "Why did you go so near the 21 town to fight? Did you not know they would shoot from the ramparts?' •Who killed Abimelech son of Jerubbaal?'^e Was it not a woman who dropped a millstone on him from the ramparts, causing his death at Thebez? Why did you go so near the ramparts?' If so, you are to say, "Your servant Uriah the Hittite has been killed too".'^{Jg 9:50-54}

22 So the messenger left, and on his arrival told David all that Joab had instructed him to say. David was angry with Joab. 'Why did you go so near the ramparts?' he said to the messenger. 'Who killed Abimelech son of Jerubbaal?
 Was it not a woman who dropped a millstone on him from the ramparts, causing 23 his death at Thebez? Why did you go so near the ramparts?'^f •The messenger answered David, 'Because their men made a show of force against us and sallied out against us in the open. We drove them back to the approaches of the gate, 24 but the bowmen shot at your bodyguard from the ramparts; some of the king's bodyguard perished, and your servant Uriah the Hittite was killed too.'

25 Then David said to the messenger, 'Say this to Joab, "Do not take the matter to heart; the sword devours now one and now another. Storm the town in 26 greater force and overthrow it." That is the way to encourage him.' •When Uriah's wife heard that her husband Uriah was dead, she mourned for her 27 husband. •When the period of mourning was over, David sent to have her brought to his house; she became his wife and bore him a son. But what David had done displeased Yahweh.

David is rebuked by Nathan. His repentance^a

1 12 Yahweh sent Nathan the prophet to David. He came to him and said:

10 a. Rabbah, the capital, 11:1; 12:26, the modern Amman.

b. Zobah and Beth-rehob, to the N. of the sources of the Jordan, were united under Hadadezer's suzerainty. Maacah and Tob lay to the N. of Transjordan.

c. The army consisting of the mass levy of the whole population ('the common soldiers') and the mercenaries of the king's guard ('the champions').

d. This short narrative seems to come from a different source.

11 a. For the author of ch. 9-20 the Ammonite war is no more than a background for the story of David and Bathsheba.

b. The Spring equinox.

c. A foreign mercenary. For Hittites see Dt 7:1+.

d. Continenence in war was a religious obligation, cf. 1 S 21:6.

e. 'Jerubbaal' Greek, cf. Jg 7:1f; 'Jerubbesheth' Hebr., see 2:8+ and 4:4+.

f. Omitted by Hebr.; inserted here from Greek.

12 a. Possibly Nathan's intervention, 12:1-15a, did not figure in the original narrative: in v. 22 David seems unaware of the child's doom. Both traditions, however, are of equal antiquity and display the same religious sentiment: David's sin is denounced, but his repentance wins forgiveness.

1 K 21:17
Ps 51
Si 47

14:3-17
1 K 20:38

'In the same town were two men,
 one rich, the other poor.
 The rich man had flocks and herds
 in great abundance;
 the poor man had nothing but a ewe lamb,
 one only, a small one he had bought.
 This he fed, and it grew up with him and his children, eating his bread, drinking from his cup, sleeping on his breast; it was like a daughter to him.
 When there came a traveller to stay, the rich man refused to take one of his own flock or herd to provide for the wayfarer who had come to him.
 Instead he took the poor man's lamb and prepared it for his guest.'

David's anger flared up against the man. 'As Yahweh lives,' he said to Nathan Ex 21:37 'the man who did this deserves to die! •He must make fourfold restitution for Lk 19:8 the lamb, for doing such a thing and showing no compassion.'

Then Nathan said to David, 'You are the man. Yahweh the God of Israel says this, "I anointed you king over Israel; I delivered you from the hands of Saul; •I gave your master's house to you, his wives into your arms; I gave you the House of Israel and of Judah; and if this were not enough, I would add as much again for you. •Why have you shown contempt for Yahweh,^b doing what displeases him? You have struck down Uriah the Hittite with the sword, taken his wife for your own, and killed him with the sword of the Ammonites. •So now the sword will never be far from your House,^c since you have shown contempt for me and taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be your wife."

Thus Yahweh speaks, "I will stir up evil for you out of your own House.
 6:22 Before your very eyes I will take your wives and give them to your neighbour, and he shall lie with your wives in the sight of this sun. •You worked in secret, I will work this in the face of all Israel and in the face of the sun."

David said to Nathan, 'I have sinned against Yahweh'. Then Nathan said 1K 21:29 to David, 'Yahweh, for his part, forgives your sin; you are not to die. •Yet Ps 32:5 because you have outraged Yahweh^d by doing this, the child that is born to you is to die.' •Then Nathan went home.

The death of Bathsheba's child. The birth of Solomon

Yahweh struck the child that Uriah's wife had borne to David and it fell gravely ill. •David pleaded with Yahweh for the child; he kept a strict fast and 21:10 went home and spent the night on the bare ground, covered with sacking. •The 1K 21:27 officials of his household came and stood round him to get him to rise from the ground, but he refused, nor would he take food with them. •On the seventh day the child died. David's officers were afraid to tell him the child was dead. 'Even when the child was alive' they thought 'we reasoned with him and he would not listen to us. How can we tell him the child is dead? He will do something desperate.' •David, however, noticed that his officers were whispering among themselves, and realised that the child was dead. 'Is the child dead?' he asked the officers. They answered, 'He is dead'.

David got up from the ground, bathed and anointed himself and put on fresh clothes. Then he went into the sanctuary of Yahweh and prostrated himself. On returning to his house he asked for food to be set before him, and ate. •His officers said, 'Why are you acting like this? When the child was alive you fasted and wept; now the child is dead you get up and take food.'^e •'When the child was alive' he answered 'I fasted and wept because I kept thinking, "Who knows? Perhaps Yahweh will take pity on me and the child will live." •But Jb 7:9+ now he is dead, why should I fast? Can I bring him back again? I shall go to him/ but he cannot come back to me.'

- 24 David consoled his wife Bathsheba. He went to her and slept with her. She conceived^g and gave birth to a son whom she named Solomon. Yahweh loved 25 him and made this known through the prophet Nathan who named him Jedidiah in accordance with the word of Yahweh.^h 1 K 1:1

The capture of Rabbah

11 I Ch 20:2
1-3

- 26 Joab attacked Rabbah of the Ammonites and captured the water town.ⁱ
 27 He then sent messengers to tell David, 'I have stormed Rabbah and captured 28 the water town. •So now muster the rest of the troops and pitch camp against the town and take it, unless you want me to capture the town and give it my 29 name.' •So David mustered the whole army and marched on Rabbah; he stormed 30 the town and captured it. •He took the crown from the head of Milcom;^j it weighed one talent of gold, and in it was set a precious stone which made an ornament for David's head. He carried off great quantities of spoil from the 31 town. •He brought away its population and set them to work with saws, iron picks and iron axes, and employed them in brickmaking. He treated all the Ammonite towns in the same way. Then David and the whole army returned to Jerusalem.

3. ABSALOM^a

Amnon violates Tamar his sister

- 1 13 After this, the following events took place. Absalom son of David had 3:2-3 a beautiful sister whose name was Tamar; Amnon son of David fell in love 1 Ch 3:9 2 with her. •Amnon was so obsessed with his sister Tamar that it made him ill, for she was a virgin and it seemed to Amnon impossible to do anything to her.
 3 But Amnon had a friend called Jonadab son of Shimeah, David's brother, and 21:21
 4 Jonadab was a very shrewd man. •'Son of the king,' he said 'tell me why, morning after morning, you look so worn? Will you not tell me?' Amnon answered, 'I am 5 in love with Tamar, my brother Absalom's sister'. •Then Jonadab said, 'Lie down on your bed, pretend to be ill and when your father comes to visit you, say,
 "Let my sister Tamar come and give me something to eat; let her prepare the 6 food before my eyes for me to see; only at her hands will I eat" '. •So Amnon lay down and pretended to be ill. Then the king came to visit him and Amnon said to the king, 'Let my sister Tamar come and make a cake or two; I will eat 7 at her hands'. •David then sent word to Tamar at the palace, 'Go to your brother 8 Amnon's house and prepare some food for him'. •Tamar went to the house of her brother Amnon who was lying there in bed. She took dough and kneaded it, 9 and she made cakes there before his eyes and baked the cakes. •Then she took the pan and dished them up in front of him, but he refused to eat. 'Let everyone 10 leave me' he said; so they all withdrew. •Then Amnon said to Tamar, 'Bring the food to the inner room so that I can eat at your hands'. So Tamar took the cakes she had made and brought them to her brother Amnon in the inner room.
 11 And as she was offering the food to him, he caught hold of her and said, 'Come;
 12 lie with me, my sister'. •But she answered, 'No, my brother! Do not violate me.
 13 This is not a thing men do in Israel. Do not commit such an outrage. •Wherever should I go, bearing my shame? While you would become an outcast in Israel. Go now and speak to the king; he will not refuse to give me to you.'^b •But he 14 would not listen to her; he overpowered her and, raping her, lay with her.

Then Amnon was seized with extreme hatred for her; the hatred he now felt 15 for her was greater than his earlier love. 'Get up and go' he said. •'No, my 16 brother,' she said 'to send me away would be a greater wrong than the other you have done me.'^c But he would not listen to her. •He called the soldier who 17 was his servant. 'Get rid of this woman for me,' he said 'throw her out and bolt the door after her.' •(She was wearing a long-sleeved gown, for this was what 18 the king's unmarried daughters wore in days gone by.) So the servant put her out and bolted the door after her.

Tamar took dust and put it on her head, tore the long-sleeved gown she was 19 wearing, laid her hand on her head, and went away uttering cries as she went.^d
Pr 12:16 Her brother Absalom said to her, 'Has Amnon your brother been with you? 20 Be quiet now, my sister; he is your brother; do not take this so much to heart.' But Tamar remained disconsolate in her brother Absalom's house.

When King David heard the whole story, he was very angry; but he had no 21 wish to harm his son Amnon, since he loved him; he was his first-born.^e •Absalom 22 however would not so much as speak to Amnon,^f for he hated Amnon for having raped his sister Tamar.

Absalom kills Amnon and flees

1 S 25:4f Two years later, when Absalom had the sheep-shearers at Baal-hazor, which 23 is near Ephraim, he invited the entire royal household.^g •Absalom went to the 24 king and said, 'At this moment your servant has the sheep-shearers. Will the king and his officers be pleased to come with your servant?' •'No, my son,' the 25 king replied 'we must not all come and be a burden to you.' And though Absalom was insistent, he would not go but dismissed him. •Absalom persisted, 'Then 26 at least let my brother Amnon come with us'. The king said, 'Why should he go with you?' •But Absalom insisted, so he allowed Amnon and all the king's 27 sons to go with him.

Absalom prepared a royal banquet^h •and then gave this order to his servants: 28 'Listen carefully; when Amnon's heart is merry with wine and I say, "Strike Amnon down", then kill him. Have no fear. I myself have given you the order. Take courage, be brave.' •Absalom's servants treated Amnon as Absalom had 29 ordered. Then all the king's sons started up, mounted their mules and took flight.

While they were on the road, a rumour reached David, 'Absalom has killed 30 all the king's sons; not one of them is left'. •The king rose and tore his garments 31 and lay down on the ground. All his officers in attendance tore their garments too. •But Jonadab son of Shimeah, David's brother, spoke up. 'Let not my lord 32 imagine' he said 'that they have killed all the young men, the sons of the king; 33 Amnon alone is dead, for Absalom's face gave warning of this ever since Amnon violated his sister Tamar. •Let not my lord the king imagine that all the king's 34 sons are dead; Amnon alone is dead •and Absalom has taken flight.'

The soldier on sentry duty looked up and saw a large troop advancing down the slope on the Bahurim road.ⁱ The sentry came to tell the king. 'I saw men' he said 'coming down the Bahurim road on the mountainside.' •Then Jonadab 35 said to the king, 'Here come the king's sons; it has turned out just as your servant said'. •He had scarcely finished speaking when the king's sons arrived, and they 36 cried aloud and wept; the king and all his officers wept bitterly too. •Absalom 37a however had taken flight and gone to Talmai son of Ammihud, king of Geshur, where he stayed for three years. •And all that time the king observed mourning 38b for his son.^j 37b

Joab negotiates the return of Absalom

The king's heart^k was now no longer set against Absalom, once he had 39

- 1 recovered from Amnon's death. 14 Now Joab son of Zeruiah observed that 2 the heart of the king was again turning to Absalom, •so he sent to Tekoa^a for 1 K 20:38 a quick-witted woman. 'Pretend to be in mourning' he said. 'Put on mourning garments; do not anoint yourself with oil; act like a woman who has long been 3 mourning for the dead. •Go then to the king and say this to him.' And Joab put into her mouth the words she had to say.^b 12:1f
- 4 So the woman of Tekoa went to the king and fell with her face to the ground 1 K 3:16f
 5 and did homage. 'Help, O king!'^c she said. •The king said, 'What is the matter?' 2 K 6:26f
 6 'Alas,' she replied 'I am a widow; my husband is dead. •Your servant had two sons and out in the fields, where there was no one to intervene, they quarrelled 7 with each other. And one of them struck the other and killed him. •And now the whole clan has risen against your servant. "Give up the man who killed his brother" they say. "For the life of the brother he murdered we will have his death, and so destroy the heir too." By this means they will put out what embers 8 remain to me, and leave my husband neither name nor survivor on the face of the earth.' •The king then said to the woman, 'Go to your house; I myself will 9 give orders concerning your case'. •The woman of Tekoa said to the king, 'My lord king! May the guilt be on me and on my family; the king and his throne 10 are innocent of it.' •'Bring me the man who threatened you,' the king replied 11 'and he shall never hurt you again.' •Then she said, 'Let the king be pleased to pronounce the name of Yahweh his God, so that the avenger of blood may not do greater harm and destroy my son'. 'As Yahweh lives,' he said 'not one hair of your son shall fall to the ground.' Nb35:19+

 14 not bringing back home the one he has banished? •We must all die; we are like lord the king has said. Yes, it was your servant Joab who asked me to do this; he put all these words into your servant's mouth. •Your servant Joab acted in this way to disguise the matter, but my lord has the wisdom of the angel of God; he knows all that takes place on earth.'

The king then said to Joab, 'Very well, the suit is granted. Go and bring the young man Absalom back.' •Joab fell with his face to the ground, did homage and blessed the king. 'My lord king,' Joab said 'your servant knows now that he has won your favour, since the king has done what his servant asked.' •Joab then set off and went to Geshur, and brought Absalom back to Jerusalem. •The king, however, said, 'Let him retire to his own house; he is not to appear in my presence'. So Absalom retired to his own house and was not received by the king.

Some details about Absalom

In the whole of Israel there was no man who could be praised for his beauty as much as Absalom; from the sole of his foot to the crown of his head there was not a blemish on him. •When he cut the hair of his head—and he would cut it every year; he would cut it then because it grew too heavy for him—he would weigh the hair; two hundred shekels, king's weight. •To Absalom were born three sons and one daughter called Tamar; she was a beautiful woman.

Absalom obtains his pardon

Absalom lived in Jerusalem for two years without being received by the king. Then Absalom sent for Joab to send him to the king, but Joab would not come to him. He sent for him a second time, but Joab would not come. •So he said to his servants, 'Look, Joab's field is next to mine and he has barley in it; go and set fire to it'. Absalom's servants set fire to the field. •At this, Joab went off to Absalom at his house. 'Why' he asked him 'have your servants set fire to the field belonging to me?' •Absalom answered Joab, 'Look now, I sent word to you to say I wanted you to go to the king with this message, "Why did I come back from Geshur? Better for me to be there still. Now I wish to be received by the king, and if I am guilty, let him put me to death."' •Joab went to the king and told him this. He then summoned Absalom who went to the king and bowed low before him, throwing himself on his face to the ground before the king. And the king kissed Absalom.

Absalom's intrigues

15 After this, Absalom procured a chariot and horses, with fifty men to run ahead of him. •He would rise early and stand beside the road leading to the gate; and whenever a man with some lawsuit had to come before the king's court, Absalom would call out to him and ask, 'What town are you from?' He would answer, 'Your servant is from one of the tribes in Israel'.^a •Then Absalom would say, 'Look, your case is sound and just, but there is not one deputy of the king's who will listen to you'. •Absalom would go on to say, 'Oh, who will appoint me judge in the land? Then anyone with a lawsuit or a plea could come to me and I would see he had justice.' •And whenever anyone came up to do homage to him, he would stretch out his hand and take him^b and kiss him. Absalom acted in this way with all the Israelites who came to the king for justice, and so Absalom seduced the hearts of the men of Israel.

Absalom's rebellion

At the end of four^c years Absalom said to the king, 'Allow me to go to Hebron^d to fulfil the vow I made to Yahweh; •for when I was at Geshur in Aram, your servant made this vow: "If Yahweh brings me back to Jerusalem," I said "I will offer worship to Yahweh in Hebron"'.^e •The king said to him, 'Go in peace'. So he set off and went to Hebron.

10 Absalom sent couriers throughout the tribes of Israel saying, 'When you hear 11 the trumpet sound you are to say, "Absalom is king at Hebron!"' • With Absalom there went two hundred men from Jerusalem; they were invited guests and came 12 in all innocence, quite unaware. • Absalom sent for Ahithophel the Gilonite, 16:23 David's counsellor, from Giloh his town, and had him with him⁷ while he was offering the sacrifices. The conspiracy grew in strength and Absalom's supporters grew in number.

David's flight

13 A messenger came to tell David, 'The hearts of the men of Israel are now Ps 3 14 with Absalom.' • So David said to all his officers who were with him in Jerusalem,
'Let us be off, let us fly, or we shall never escape from Absalom. Leave as quickly as you can in case he mounts a surprise attack and worsts us and puts the city 15 to the sword.'⁹ • The king's officers answered, 'Whatever my lord the king decides, 16 we are at your service'. • The king left on foot with all his household, leaving 17 ten concubines to look after the palace. • The king left on foot with all the people 16:21-22;
18 and stopped at the last house. • All his officers stood^h at his side. All the Chere- 20:3
thites and all the Pelethites, with Ittai and all the six hundred Gittites who had 8:18 19 come in his retinue from Gath, marched past the king. • The king said to Ittai the Gittite, 'You, why are you coming with us? Go back and stay with the king, 20 for you are a foreigner, an exile too from your homeland. • You came only yesterday; should I take you wandering today with us, when I do not know myself where I am going? Go back, take your fellow countrymen with you, and 21 may Yahweh showⁱ you kindness and faithfulness.' • But Ittai answered the king,
'As Yahweh lives, and as my lord the king lives, wherever my lord the king Rt 1:16 22 may be, for death or life, there will your servant be too'. • So David said to Ittai, 'Go then, pass on'. And Ittai of Gath passed on with all his men and 23 retinue. • All the people wept aloud. The king took his stand in the wadi Kidron, and all the people marched past him towards the wilderness.

The ark leaves the city

24 ^jZadok was there too and all the Levites carrying the ark of God. They set down the ark of God beside Abiathar until the people had all passed out of the 25 city. • Then the king said to Zadok, 'Take the ark of God back to the city. Should I win the favour of Yahweh, he will bring me back and permit me to see it and 26 its dwelling place again. • But should he say, "I take no pleasure in you", then 16:10 27 here I am, let him deal with me as he likes.' • The king said to Zadok the priest, 'Look, you and Abiathar go back^k in peace to the city, with your two 28 sons, your own son and Jonathan son of Abiathar. • I intend to wait in the 29 plains of the wilderness^l until word comes from you bringing me news.' • So Zadok and Abiathar took the ark of God back to Jerusalem and remained there.

covered and made their way up, weeping as they went. •Then David was ³¹ told^a that Ahithophel was among the conspirators with Absalom. David said, ^{16:23, 17:4,23} 'Yahweh, turn Ahithophel's counsels to folly'.

As David reached the summit, where God is worshipped,^c he saw Hushai ³² the Archite, the companion of David, coming to meet him with his tunic torn and with earth on his head. •David said, 'If you go on with me, you will be ³³ a burden to me. •But if you go back to the city and say to Absalom, "I will be ³⁴ your servant, my lord king; once I was in your father's service, but now I will serve you", you will be able to thwart the counsels of Ahithophel for me. •Will ³⁵ not the priests Zadok and Abiathar be with you? David and Ziba

^{4:4;9:1-13; 19:18,25} 16 When David had passed a little beyond the summit, Ziba the servant of ¹ Meribbaal came to meet him with a pair of donkeys, saddled and laden with two hundred loaves of bread, a hundred bunches of raisins, a hundred of the season's fruits, and a skin of wine. •The king said to Ziba, 'What are you going ² to do with that?' 'The donkeys' Ziba replied 'are for the king's family to ride, the bread and the fruit for the soldiers to eat, the wine is for drinking by those who grow weary in the wilderness.' •'And where is your master's son?' the king ³ asked. Ziba answered the king, 'Why, he has stayed in Jerusalem because, he says, "The House of Israel will give me back my father's kingdom today"'. •Then the king said to Ziba, 'All that Meribbaal owns is now yours'. Ziba said, ⁴ 'My homage, lord king! May I deserve your favour!'

Shimei curses David

^{3:16} As David was reaching Bahurim, out came a man of the same clan as Saul's ⁵ family. His name was Shimei son of Gera, and as he came he uttered curse after curse •and threw stones at David and at all King David's officers, though the ⁶ whole army and all the champions flanked the king right and left. •The words ⁷ of his curse were these, 'Be off, be off, man of blood, scoundrel! •Yahweh has ⁸ brought on you all the blood of the House of Saul^a whose sovereignty you have usurped; and Yahweh has transferred that same sovereignty to Absalom your ⁹ son. Now your doom has overtaken you, man of blood that you are.' •Abishai ^{1 S 26:6} son of Zeruiah said to the king, 'Is this dead dog to curse my lord the king? ^{1 S 24:15} Let me go over and cut his head off.' •^{19:23} But the king replied, 'What business is ¹⁰ it of mine and yours, sons of Zeruiah? Let him curse. If Yahweh said to him, ^{15:25-26} "Curse David", what right has anyone to say, "Why have you done this?"' •^{15:26} David said to Abishai and all his officers, 'Why, my own son, sprung from my ¹¹ body, is now seeking my life; so now how much the more this Benjaminite? Let him curse on if Yahweh has told him to. •Perhaps Yahweh will look on my ¹² misery^c and repay me with good for his curse today.' •So David and his men ¹³ went on their way. But Shimei continued along the mountainside opposite him, cursing as he went, throwing stones and flinging earth. •The king and all the ¹⁴ people who were with him arrived exhausted at...^d where he refreshed himself.

Hushai with Absalom

^{15:32-37} Absalom entered Jerusalem with all the men of Israel; with him was Ahitho- ¹⁵ phel. •When Hushai the Archite, the companion of David, came to Absalom, ¹⁶ Hushai said to Absalom, 'Long live the king! Long live the king!' •'Is this your ¹⁷ affection for your friend?' Absalom said to Hushai. 'Why did you not leave with your friend?' •Hushai answered Absalom, 'No, I belong to the man whom ¹⁸ Yahweh and these people and all the men of Israel have chosen, and on his side

- 19 I will remain. •Besides, whom should I serve, if not his son? As I served your father, so I shall serve you.'

Absalom and David's concubines

- 20 Absalom said to Ahithophel, 'Think carefully. What shall we do?' •Ahithophel 21 answered Absalom, 'Go to your father's concubines whom he left to look after the palace; then all Israel will hear that you have incurred your father's enmity, 15:16
22 and the resolution of all your supporters will be strengthened'.^c •So they pitched 12:11-12 a tent for Absalom on the housetop and in the sight of all Israel Absalom went 23 to his father's concubines. •In those days the advice Ahithophel gave was like 15:12,31 an oracle asked from God; and so was all Ahithophel's advice respected, as by David, so by Absalom.

Hushai thwarts Ahithophel's plans

- 1 17 Ahithophel said to Absalom, 'Let me choose twelve thousand men and 2 set off this very night in pursuit of David. •I shall fall on him while he is tired and dispirited; I shall strike terror into him, and all the people who are 3 with him will take flight. Then I shall strike down the king alone •and bring all the people back to you, as a bride returns to her husband. You seek the life 4 of only one man;^a the rest of the people will go unharmed.' •The suggestion appealed to Absalom and all the elders of Israel.
5 'Next call Hushai the Archite' Absalom said. 'Let us hear what he too has 6 to say.' •When Hushai came to Absalom, Absalom said, 'This is what Ahithophel 7 says. Are we to do as he suggests? If not, say something yourself.' •Hushai answered Absalom, 'On this occasion the advice Ahithophel has offered is not 8 good. •You know' Hushai went on 'that your father and his men are champions and as angry as a wandering bear robbed of her cubs. Your father is used to 9 warfare; he will not let the army rest during the night. •At this very moment he is hiding in a hollow or somewhere else. If at the outset there are casualties among our troops, word will go round of disaster to the army supporting 10 Absalom. •And then even the valiant, with a heart like the heart of a lion, will be quite unmanned; for all Israel knows that your father is a champion and 11 that the men with him are valiant. •For my part, I offer this advice: Let all Israel, from Dan to Beersheba, muster round you,^b numerous as the sand on the 12 seashore, with your royal person marching in their midst. •We shall come up with him wherever he is to be found; we shall fall on him as the dew falls on the 13 ground, and not leave him or one of the men with him alive. •Should he retire into a town, all Israel will bring ropes to that town, and we will drag it into 14 the wadi until not a pebble of it is to be found.' •Then Absalom and all the people of Israel said, 'The advice of Hushai the Archite is better than the advice of Ahithophel'. Yahweh had determined to thwart Ahithophel's shrewd advice 15:31 and so to bring disaster on Absalom.
15 Hushai then told the priests Zadok and Abiathar, 'Ahithophel gave such and such advice to Absalom and the elders of Israel, but I advised so and so.
16 Now send quickly and tell David this, "Do not camp in the plains of the wilderness tonight but cross to the other side as fast as you can, or the king and all the army with him will be annihilated".'

was to go and warn them and they in turn were to warn King David, for they dared not let themselves be seen entering the town. •A young man saw them nonetheless and told Absalom. Then both of them hastily made off and came to the house of a man of Bahurim. In his courtyard was a cistern and they got down into it. •The woman took a covering and, spreading it over the mouth of the cistern, scattered crushed grain on it so that nothing showed.

Absalom's servants came to the woman in the house and said, 'Where are Ahimaaz and Jonathan?' 'They have gone further on towards the water'^c the woman answered. They searched, but finding nothing went back to Jerusalem. When they had gone, the men climbed out of the cistern and went to warn King David. 'Be on your way' they told David 'and cross the water quickly, for Ahithophel has given such and such advice about you.' •So David and all the troops with him set off and crossed the Jordan. By dawn no one was left who had not crossed the Jordan.

When Ahithophel saw that his advice had not been followed, he saddled his donkey and set off and went home to his own town. Then having set his house in order, he strangled himself and so died.^d He was buried in his father's tomb.

Absalom crosses the Jordan. David at Mahanaim

David had reached Mahanaim when Absalom crossed the Jordan with all the men of Israel. •Absalom had put Amasa in command of the army in place of Joab. This Amasa was the son of a man called Ithra the Ishmaelite, who had married Abigail the daughter of Jesse and sister of Zeruiah, Joab's mother.^e Israel and Absalom pitched camp in the land of Gilead.

When David reached Mahanaim, Shobi son of Nahash from Rabbah of the Ammonites, Machir son of Ammiel from Lodebar, and Barzillai the Gileadite from Rogelim •brought mattresses, rugs, bowls and crockery, wheat, barley, meal, roasted grain, beans, lentils, •honey, curds and cheese, sheep and oxen, which they presented to David and the people with him for them to eat. 'The army' they said 'has been hungry and tired and thirsty in the wilderness.'

The defeat of Absalom's party

18 David reviewed the troops that were with him, and appointed commanders of thousands and commanders of hundreds to lead them. •David divided the army into three groups,^a one under the command of Joab, another under the command of Abishai son of Zeruiah, Joab's brother, and the third under the command of Ittai the Gittite. Then David said to the troops, 'I too will march with you in person'. •But the troops replied, 'You must not go. If we are routed, they will not give us a thought; and if half of us die, they will not give us a thought; but you, you are the equal of ten thousand of us. Besides, it is better for you to be ready to reinforce us from the town.' •David said, 'I will do as you think best'. And the king stood by the gate as the troops marched out by their hundreds and their thousands. •The king gave orders to Joab, Abishai and Ittai, 'For my sake treat young Absalom gently'. And all the troops heard that the king had given these orders about Absalom to all the commanders. So the troops marched out to take the field against Israel, and battle was joined in the Forest of Ephraim.^b •There Israel's army was beaten by David's followers; it was a great defeat that day, with twenty thousand casualties. •The fighting spread throughout the region and, of the troops, the forest claimed more victims that day than the sword.

The death of Absalom

Absalom happened to run into some of David's followers. Absalom was riding a mule and the mule passed under the thick branches of a great oak. Absalom's head caught fast in the oak and he was left hanging^c between heaven and earth, while the mule he was riding went on. •Someone saw this and told

- 11 Joab. 'I have just seen Absalom' he said 'hanging from an oak.' •Joab said to the man who told him, 'If you saw him, why did you not strike him to the ground then and there? I would have taken it on myself to give you ten silver 12 shekels and a belt too.' •But the man answered Joab, 'Even were I to feel the weight of a thousand silver shekels in my hand, I would not lift my hand against the king's son. In our own hearing the king gave you and Abishai and Ittai these 13 orders, "For my sake^d spare young Absalom". •Had I acted treacherously, thus endangering my life, nothing is hidden from the king, and you yourself
 14 would have stood by idle.' •Then Joab said, 'I cannot waste my time with you like this'. And he took three lances in his hand and thrust them into Absalom's
 15 heart while he was still alive there in the oak tree. •Then ten soldiers, Joab's armour-bearers, stepped forward, cut Absalom down and finished him off. 1 S 14:13
 16 Then Joab held the troops back. •They took Absalom, flung him into a deep pit for Joab held the troops back. •They took Absalom, flung him into a deep pit
 17 in the forest and reared a great cairn over him. All the Israelites had fled, each man to his tent. Jos 7:26; 8:29; 10:27
 18 Now Absalom during his lifetime had undertaken the erection of the pillar to himself which is in the Valley of the King. 'I have no son' he said 'to preserve the memory of my name.' So he had given the pillar his name, and it is called to this day the Pillar of Absalom. 14:27 Gn14:17+

The news is brought to David

- 19 Ahimaaz son of Zadok said, 'I must run and tell the good news to the king 20 that Yahweh has vindicated his cause by ridding him of his enemies'. •But Joab said, 'Today you would be no bearer of good news, some other day you will be; but today you would not be bringing good news, for the king's son is dead'.
 21 Then Joab said to the Cushite,^e 'Go and tell the king what you have seen'. The Cushite bowed to Joab and ran off. •But Ahimaaz son of Zadok persisted, 'Come what may,' he said to Joab 'I must myself run after the Cushite.' 'My son,'
 22 Joab said 'why run? You will get no reward for your news.'^f •But he replied, 'Come what may, I am going to run'. 'Then run' Joab said. And Ahimaaz set off to run by way of the plain and passed the Cushite.
 24 David was sitting between the two gates. The lookout had gone up to the roof of the gate, on the ramparts; he looked up and saw a man running all by himself.
 25 The watch called out to the king and told him. The king said, 'If he is by himself, he has good news to tell'.^g As the man drew still nearer, •the watch saw another man running, and the watch who was on top of the gate^h called out, 'Here comes another man running by himself'. David said, 'He too is a bearer of good
 26 news'. •The watchman said, 'I recognise the way the first man runs; Ahimaaz son of Zadok runs like that'. 'He is a good man' the king said 'and he comes with good news.' 2 K 9:20 1 K 1:42
 28 Ahimaaz approachedⁱ the king. 'All hail!' he said, and bowed down before the king with his face to the earth. 'Blessed be Yahweh your God' he said
 29 'who has handed over the men who rebelled against my lord the king!' •'Is all well with young Absalom?' the king asked. Ahimaaz replied, 'I saw there was a great uproar when Joab despatched your servant, but I do not know what it was'.^j 30 The king said, 'Move aside and stand there'. He moved aside and stood waiting.

 'May the enemies of my lord the king' the Cushite answered 'and all who rebelled against you to your hurt, share the lot of that young man.'

David mourns for Absalom

19 The king shuddered. He went up to the room over the gate and burst into 1 tears, and weeping^a said, 'My son Absalom! My son! My son Absalom! 33 Would I had died in your place! Absalom, my son, my son!' • Word was brought 2 to Joab, 'The king is now weeping and mourning for Absalom'. • And the day's 1 victory was turned to mourning for all the troops, because they learned that 2 the king was grieving for his son. • And the troops returned stealthily that day 4 to the town, as troops creep back ashamed when routed in battle. • The king 5 had veiled his face and was crying aloud, 'My son Absalom! Absalom, my son, 4 my son!' 15:30

Then Joab went indoors to the king. 'Today' he said 'you are covering the 6 faces of all your servants with shame when they have saved your life today, and 5 the lives of your sons and daughters, of your wives too and your concubines, 7 all because you love those who hate you and hate those who love you. Today 6 you have made it plain that commanders and soldiers mean nothing to you, 7 since now I see that if Absalom were alive today and we all dead, you would 8 be pleased. • Now get up, come out and reassure your soldiers, for if you do not 7 come I swear by Yahweh not one man will stay with you tonight; and this will 8 be a worse misfortune for you than all that has happened to you from your youth 9 until now.' • So the king rose and took his seat at the gate. All the troops soon 8 heard the news: 'The king' they say 'has taken his seat at the gate'. And the 9 whole army assembled in front of the king.

Preparations for David's return

Israel had fled, each man to his tent. • Throughout the tribes of Israel all 10 were quarrelling. 'The king' they said 'delivered us from the power of our 9 enemies, he saved us from the hands of the Philistines, and now he himself has 11 had to flee the country to escape from Absalom; • while Absalom, whom we 10 had anointed to reign over us, has now died in battle. So now why not 11 do something about bringing the king back?' 10

Word of what was being said throughout Israel reached the king.^b • Then 12b
 King David sent word to the priests Zadok and Abiathar, 'Say to the elders of 12a Judah,^c "Why should you be the last to bring the king home? • You are my 13 brothers, you are my own flesh and blood, why should you be the last to bring the 12 king back?" • Say to Amasa^d too, "Are you not my own flesh and blood? May God 14 do this to me and more, if you are not my army commander from now on, 13 in place of Joab." • Then all the men of Judah were won over as one man, 15 sending word to the king, 'Come back, you and all who serve you'. 14

Episodes connected with David's return: Shimei

So the king turned about and reached the Jordan. Judah, coming to meet 16 the king to escort the king across the Jordan, had arrived at Gilgal. • Shimei son 15 of Gera the Benjaminite from Bahurim hurried down with the men of Judah 17 to meet King David. • With him were a thousand men from Benjamin. Ziba, the 16 servant of the House of Saul, with his fifteen sons and twenty servants, arrived 18 at the Jordan before the king • and worked manfully^e ferrying the king's family 17 across and doing whatever he wanted. 19
 1 K 2:8

16:13 While the king was crossing the Jordan, Shimei son of Gera fell at his feet and said to the king, 'Let not my lord hold me guilty. Do not remember the 20 wrong your servant did, the day my lord the king left Jerusalem. Put it out of 19

21 your mind. •For your servant admits that he has sinned, and here I am today, 20 first of all the House of Joseph^f to come down and meet my lord the king.'

22 Then Abishai son of Zeruiah spoke out. 'Does not Shimei deserve death for 21 cursing Yahweh's anointed?' •But David said, 'What is there between me and 22 you, sons of Zeruiah, for you to be my enemies today? On such a day, could 23 anyone in Israel be put to death? Today I know for sure that I am king over 24 Israel. •Your life is spared' the king said. And the king gave him his oath.^g

Meribbaal

25 Meribbaal son of Saul had also gone down to meet the king. He had not 24 cared for his feet or his hands,^h he had neither trimmed his moustache nor washed his clothes from the day the king left to the day he came back in peace.
26 When he arrived from Jerusalemⁱ to greet the king, the king asked him, 'Why 25 did you not come with me, Meribbaal?' •'My lord king,' he answered 'my 26 servant deceived me. Your servant said to him, "Saddle my donkey;^j I shall 28 ride it and go with the king", for your servant is lame. •He has slandered your 27 servant to my lord the king. But my lord the king is like the angel of God; do 29 as you think right. •For all my father's family earned no better than death from 28 the hands of my lord the king, and yet you have admitted your servant among those who eat at your table. What right have I to make further appeal to the 30 king?' •The king said, 'Why say any more? I rule that you and Ziba are to share 29 the property.' •'Let him take it all,' Meribbaal said to the king 'since my lord 30 the king has come home in peace.'

Barzillai

32 Barzillai the Gileadite, too, had gone down from Rogelim and had stayed with 31 the king to escort him as far as the Jordan. •Barzillai was a man of great age; 33 he was eighty years old. He had kept the king in provisions during his stay at 34 Mahanaim, for he was a very rich man. •'Come with me' the king said to 33 Barzillai 'and I will provide for your old age^k in Jerusalem with me.' •But 34 Barzillai answered the king, 'How many years have I left to live, for me to go 36 up to Jerusalem with the king? •I am eighty years old now; can I tell the good 35 from the bad? Has your servant any taste for his food and drink? Can I still hear the voices of men and women singers? Why should your servant be a further 37 burden to my lord the king? •'Your servant will just cross the Jordan with the 36 king; why should the king grant me such reward? •Allow your servant to go 37 back to die in my own town near the grave of my father and mother. But here is your servant Chimham;^m let him go with my lord the king; treat him as 39 you think right.' •The king said, 'Let Chimham go with me then; I will do
38 things for him that will please you, and anything you request I will do for him
40 for your sake'. •All the people then crossed the Jordan and the king crossed too;
39 he kissed Barzillai and blessed him, and the latter returned to his home.

Judah and Israel dispute over the king

41 The king went on to Gilgal and Chimham stayed with him. All the people 40 of Judah accompanied the king and half the people of Israel too. •Then all the 41 men of Israel came to the king. 'Why' they asked the king 'have our brothers, the men of Judah, carried you off and brought the king and his family across the Jordan, and all David's men with him?' •All the men of Judah retorted to the men of Israel, 'Because the king is more closely related to us. Why do you take offence at this? Have we eaten at the king's expense or levied portions for ourselves?' •The men of Israel replied to the men of Judah, 'We have ten shares in the king. We are your elder too.ⁿ Why have you despised us then? Were we not the first to speak of bringing back the king?' But the language of the men of Judah was more vehement than that of the men of Israel.

The revolt of Sheba^a 20 Now there happened to be a scoundrel there called Sheba son of Bichri, ¹ a Benjaminite, who sounded the trumpet and cried:

1 K 12:16

'We have no share in David,
we have no inheritance in the son of Jesse.
Every man to his tents, Israel!'

At this all the men of Israel deserted David and followed Sheba son of Bichri. ² But the men of Judah stayed with their king on his way from Jordan to Jerusalem.

15:16;
16:20-22

So David came to his palace at Jerusalem. He took the ten concubines he ³ had left to look after the palace and put them under guard. He provided for their upkeep but never went to them again; they were shut away until the day ^{6:23} they died, widows, as it were, of a living man.^b

The assassination of Amasa

17:25;19:14

The king said to Amasa, 'Summon the men of Judah to me, and be here yourself ⁴ within three days'. •Amasa went to summon Judah, but he delayed beyond the ⁵ time David had fixed. •'David then said to Abishai, 'Sheba son of Bichri is more ⁶ dangerous to us than ever Absalom was, so take your master's guards and be after him, or he may reach fortified towns and elude us'. •Behind Abishai marched ⁷ Joab, the Cherethites, the Pelethites and all the champions, marching from Jerusalem in pursuit of Sheba son of Bichri. •They were near the great stone ⁸ at Gibeon when Amasa came face to face with them. Joab was wearing his uniform, over which he had buckled on a sword hanging from his waist in its scabbard; the sword came out^a and fell. •Joab said to Amasa, 'Are you well, ⁹ my brother?' And with his right hand he took Amasa by the beard to kiss him. ^{1 K 2:5} Amasa paid no attention to the sword Joab was holding, and Joab struck him ¹⁰ with it in the belly and spilled his entrails on the ground. He did not need to strike a second blow; and so Amasa died. Joab and Abishai hurried on in pursuit of Sheba son of Bichri.

One of Joab's soldiers stood on guard beside Amasa. 'Whoever is on Joab's ¹¹ side,' he said 'whoever is for David, let him follow Joab.' •Meanwhile Amasa ¹² lay in the middle of the road in pools of his blood. Seeing that everyone was stopping; the man dragged Amasa off the road into the field and threw a cloak over him, because he saw that everyone stopped on reaching him. •When ¹³ Amasa had been taken^e off the road, the men all went on their way, following Joab^f in pursuit of Sheba son of Bichri.

The rebellion ends

The latter went all through the tribes of Israel as far as Abel of Beth-maacah^g ¹⁴ and all the Bichrites. . . .^h They mustered and went in after him.ⁱ •^jBesieging him ¹⁵ in Abel of Beth-maacah, they threw up earthworks against the city. •As all the ¹⁶ troops who were with Joab were sapping the wall to bring it down, a quick-witted woman stood on the outer wall and shouted from the town, 'Listen! Listen! Say to Joab, "Come here, I want to speak to you". ' •He came forward, ¹⁷ and the woman said, 'Are you Joab?' 'I am' he answered. She said to him, 'Listen to what your servant says'. 'I am listening' he replied. •Then she spoke. ¹⁸

'In olden days' she said 'they used to say, "Let them ask in Abel and in Dan if all is over •with what Israel's faithful ones have laid down".^k Yet you are trying to destroy a town, yes a mother city, in Israel. Why do you wish to devour the heritage of Yahweh?' •'Far, far be it from me' Joab said. 'I neither wish to devour nor to destroy. •This is not the issue; but a man of the highlands of Ephraim called Sheba son of Bichri has revolted against the king, against David. Hand that one man over and I will raise the siege of the town.' 'Very well,' the woman said to Joab 'his head shall be thrown over the wall to you.' The woman went back into the town and spoke^l to all the people as her intelligence dictated. They cut off the head of Sheba son of Bichri and threw it down to Joab. He had the trumpet sounded and they withdrew from the town, each man to his tents. Joab himself returned to the king in Jerusalem.

David's officials

Joab commanded the whole army; Benaiah son of Jehoiada commanded the Cherethites and Pelethites; •Adoram was in charge of forced labour; Jehoshaphat son of Ahilud was recorder; •Sheva, secretary; Zadok and Abiathar, priests. Ira the Jairite was also a priest of David.

II. SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION^a

The great famine and the execution of Saul's descendants^b

21 In the time of David there was a famine lasting for three whole years. David consulted Yahweh,^c and Yahweh said, 'There is blood on Saul and his family because he put the Gibeonites to death'. •The king then summoned the Gibeonites and said to them—now the Gibeonites were not Israelites, they were a remnant of the Amorites to whom the Israelites had bound themselves by oath; but Saul in his zeal for the Israelites and for Judah had tried to crush them^d—•'What must I do for you?' David therefore asked the Gibeonites, 'how make amends, for you to call down a blessing^e on the heritage of Yahweh?' The Gibeonites answered, 'It is no mere matter of silver or gold between ourselves and Saul and his family; nor is it for us to have any man in Israel put to death'. David said, 'Say what you want and I will do it for you'. •So they told the king, 'It is about the man who decimated us and planned to annihilate us so that we should no longer exist anywhere in Israelite territory. •Let seven of his sons be handed over to us, for us to impale them before Yahweh at Gibeon on the mountain of Yahweh.'^f 'I will hand them over' the king said. •The king

^{1S20:15f,42} that bound them together, David and Jonathan son of Saul. •But the king took ⁸
^{3:7} the two sons that Rizpah the daughter of Aiah had borne Saul, Armoni and ^{1S18:19} Meribbaal; also the five sons that Merab^g the daughter of Saul had borne Adriel son of Barzillai, of Meholah. •He handed these over to the Gibeonites who ⁹ impaled them on the mountain before Yahweh. The seven of them perished together; they were put to death in the first days of the harvest, at the beginning of the barley harvest.

^{3:31;12:16} Rizpah the daughter of Aiah took sackcloth^h and spread it for herself on the ¹⁰ rock from the beginning of the barley harvest until the rain fell from the sky on them;ⁱ she did not allow the birds of heaven to come at them by day nor the wild beasts by night. •David was told what Rizpah the daughter of Aiah, Saul's ¹¹ concubine, had done. •David went and took the bones of Saul and his son ¹² Jonathan from the chief men of Jabesh-gilead. These had stolen them from the ^{1S31:10-13} square in Beth-shan where the Philistines had hung them when the Philistines had defeated Saul at Gilboa. •David brought the bones of Saul and his son ¹³ Jonathan from there and put them together with the bones of those who had been impaled. •They buried the bones of Saul, of his son Jonathan, and of those ¹⁴ who had been impaled,^j in the land of Benjamin at Zela in the tomb of Saul's ^{24:25} father, Kish. They did all that the king ordered; and after that, God took pity on the country.

Various exploits against the Philistines^k

Once again the Philistines made war on Israel. David went down with his ¹⁵ guards; they pitched camp at Gob^l and fought the Philistines. Then there arose ^{Dt2:10+} Dodo •son of Joash,^m a descendant of Rapha. His spear weighed three hundred ¹⁶ shekels of bronze; he was wearing a new sword and was confident he could kill David. •But Abishai son of Zeruiah went to his rescue; he struck down the ¹⁷ Philistine and killed him. It was then that David's men urged him, 'You must ^{1K11:36;} never again go into battle with us' they said 'in case you put out the lamp of ^{15:4} Israel.'
^{2K8:19}

^{11Ch20:4-8} After this, war with the Philistines broke out at Gob again. This was when ¹⁸ ^{23:27} Sibbecai of Hushah killed Saph, a descendant of Rapha.

Again war with the Philistines broke out at Gob, and Elhanan son of Jairⁿ ¹⁹ ^{1S17:4} from Bethlehem killed Goliath of Gath, the shaft of whose spear was like a ^{1S17:7} weaver's beam. •There was another battle at Gath, where there was a man of huge stature^o with six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot, twenty-four in all. He too was a descendant of Rapha. •Jonathan, son of David's brother, ²¹ ^{13:3} Shimeah, killed him when he defied Israel.
^{1S16:9}

These four were descended from Rapha of Gath and fell at the hands of ²²
 David and his guards.

A psalm of David^a

22 David addressed the words of this song to Yahweh when Yahweh had ¹ delivered him from all his enemies and from the hands of Saul. •He said: ²

^{11Ps18} Yahweh is my rock and my bastion, my deliverer is my God. ³ ^{1S2:2} I take refuge in him, my rock, ^{1S2:1} my shield, my horn of salvation,
 my stronghold and my refuge.
 From violence you rescue me.
 He is to be praised; on Yahweh I call ⁴ and am saved from my enemies.
 The waves of death encircled me,
^{23:6} the torrents of Belial burst on me; ⁵

- 6 the cords of Sheol girdled me,
the snares of death were before me.
- 7 In my distress I called to Yahweh
and to my God I cried;
from his Temple he heard my voice,
my cry came to his ears.
- 8 Then the earth quivered and quaked, Ex 19:16+
the foundations of the heavens trembled (they quivered because he was angry);
9 from his nostrils a smoke ascended,
and from his mouth a fire that consumed (live embers were kindled at it).
- 10 He bent the heavens and came down, Ps 144:5
a dark cloud under his feet;
11 he mounted a cherub and flew, Ex 25:18+
and soared on the wings of the wind.
- 12 Darkness he made a veil to surround him,
his tent a watery darkness, dense cloud; 13 before him a flash enkindled hail and fiery embers.
- 14 Yahweh thundered from heaven,
the Most High made his voice heard;
15 he let his arrows fly and scattered them, Ps 144:6
launched the lightnings and routed them.
- 16 The bed of the seas was revealed, the foundations of the world were laid bare at Yahweh's muttered threat, at the blast of his nostrils' breath.
- 17 He sends from on high and takes me, Ps 144:7
he draws me from deep waters, 18 he delivers me from my powerful enemy,
from foes too strong for me.
- 19 They assailed me on my day of disaster,
but Yahweh was my support; 20 he freed me, set me at large,
he rescued me, since he loves me.
- 21 Yahweh requites me as I act justly,
as my hands are pure so he repays me, 22 since I have kept the ways of Yahweh, and not fallen away from my God.
- 23 His judgements are all before me,
his statutes I have not put from me;

I am blameless in his presence, 24
 I keep sin at arm's length.

And Yahweh repays me as I act justly, 25
 as my purity is in his sight.

1 S 2:30 Faithful you are with the faithful, 26 blameless with the blameless, pure with the one who is pure, 27

 but crafty with the devious, you save a people that is humble 28
 and humiliate eyes that are haughty.

Yahweh, you yourself are my lamp, 29
 my God lights up my darkness;
 with you I storm the barbican, 30
 with my God I leap the rampart.

This God, his way is blameless, 31
 the word of Yahweh is without dross.
 He it is who is the shield of all who take refuge in him.

Pr 30:5 Who else is God but Yahweh, 32 who else a rock save our God?
 This God who girds me with strength 33
 and makes my way without blame, who makes my feet like the hinds' 34

 and holds me from falling on the heights, who trains my hands for battle, 35
 my arms to bend a bow of bronze.

You give me your saving shield 36
 and your armour covers me over.
 Wide room you have made for my steps under me; 37
 my feet have never faltered.

I pursue my enemies and destroy them, 38
 nor turn back till an end is made of them;
 I strike them down, and they do not rise, 39
 they fall, they are under my feet.

You have girt me with strength for the fight, 40
 bent down my assailants beneath me, made my enemies turn their backs to me; 41
 and those who hate me I destroy.

They cry out, there is no one to save, 42
 to Yahweh, but there is no reply;
 I crush them fine as the dust of the squares, 43
 trample them like the mud of the streets.

You deliver me from a people in revolt, 44
 you place me at the head of the nations,
 a people I did not know are now my servants, foreigners come wooing my favour, 45

 no sooner do they hear than they obey me, foreigners grow faint of heart, 46
 they come trembling out of their fastnesses.

- 47 Life to Yahweh! Blessed be my rock!
Exalted be the God of my salvation, 48 the God who gives me vengeance and crushes the peoples beneath me, 49 who rescues me from my enemies.
You lift me high above those who attack me,
you deliver me from the man of violence.
- 50 For this I will praise you, Yahweh, among the heathen, Ps 22:23 and sing praise to your name.
- 51 His king he saves and saves again, displays his love for his anointed,
for David and his heirs for ever.

The last words of David^a

1 K 2:3-9

- 1 23 These are the last words of David:

- Oracle of David son of Jesse, oracle of the man raised to eminence,
the anointed of the God of Jacob,
the singer of the songs of Israel. Si 47:8
- 2 The spirit of Yahweh speaks through me, his word is on my tongue; Is 59:21
Jr 1:9
- 3 the God of Jacob has spoken,
the Rock of Israel has said to me: Jg 5:31
- He who rules men with justice,
who rules in the fear of God,
4 is like morning light at sunrise (on a cloudless morning) making the grass of the earth sparkle after rain. Ps 72:1-6
- 5 Yes, my House stands firm with God:
he has made an everlasting covenant with me,
all in order, well assured;
does he not bring to flower all that saves me, all I desire? 7:11-16
Is 55:3
- 6 But godless men are all like desert thorns, for these are never gathered by hand: 22:5
Dt 13:14 +
- 7 no one touches them
unless with iron or the shaft of a spear, and then they are burnt in the fire.

David's champions^b

- 8 These are the names of David's champions: Ishbaal the Hachmonite, leader of the three;^c it was he who wielded his battle-axe against eight hundred whom 9 he killed at one time. •After him there was Eleazar son of Dodo, the Ahohite, one of the three champions. He was with David at Pas-dammim when the Philistines^d mustered for battle there and the men of Israel retreated before them. 1 S 17:1

23 a. 'Last words' are ascribed to David (as to Jacob, Gn 49, and Moses, Dt 33) in the style of Ps 1 and of Pr 4:10-19, with an introduction modelled on the oracles of Balaam, Nb 24:3,15f. The text has suffered considerably and the restorations are conjectural. David's actual testament is given in 1 K 2:5-9.

b. This section originally followed ch. 21. It groups: vv. 8-12, information on the three, the peerless warriors; vv. 13-17, an episode from the Philistine wars, here introduced because it shows 'three' heroes in action; vv. 18-24a, information on Abishai, Benaiah, and probably on Asahel (see note to v. 24); vv. 24b-39, a list of the thirty.

c. 'three' Greek; 'thirty' Hebr. 'wielded his battle-axe' following Ch. Here and subsequently the Hebr., the versions and Ch give varying forms of the names.

d. 'at Pas-dammim when the Philistines' following Ch.

|| 1 Ch 11:

27:1-15 +
20:7

But he stood his ground and struck down the Philistines until his hand was so numb that it stuck to the sword. Yahweh brought about a great victory that day, and though the army rallied behind Eleazar it was only to plunder. •After him there was Shamma son of Elah, the Hararite. The Philistines had mustered at Lehi. There was a field full of lentils there; the army took flight before the Philistines, •but he positioned himself in the middle of the field, defended it, and struck down the Philistines. So Yahweh brought about a great victory.

Three^e out of the thirty went down at the beginning of the harvest and came to David at the Cave of Adullam while a company of Philistines was encamped in the Valley of the Rephaim. •David was then in the stronghold, and there was a Philistine garrison in Bethlehem. •‘Oh,’ David sighed ‘if someone would fetch me a drink of water from the well that stands by the gate at Bethlehem!’ •At this the three champions, forcing their way through the Philistine camp, drew water from the well that stands by the gate of Bethlehem, and bringing it away presented it to David. But he would drink none of it and poured it out as a libation to Yahweh. •‘Yahweh keep me’ he said ‘from drinking this! This is the blood of men who went at the risk of their lives.’ And so he would not drink. Such were the deeds of the three champions.

Abishai, the brother of Joab and son of Zeruiah, was leader of the thirty. It was he who wielded his spear against three hundred whom he killed, winning himself a name among the thirty.^f •He was more famous than the thirty^g and became their captain, but he was no rival for the three.

Benaiah son of Jehoiada, a hero from Kabzeel, a man of many exploits, struck down the two champions of Moab and, one snowy day, went down and killed the lion in the cistern. •He was also the man who killed an Egyptian of great stature. The Egyptian had a spear in his hand, but he went down against him with a staff, tore the spear from the Egyptian’s hand and killed the man with it. •Such were the exploits of Benaiah son of Jehoiada, winning him a name among the thirty champions. •He was more famous than the thirty, but he was no rival for the three. David put him in command of his bodyguard.

The census^a

||1 Ch 21:1-5

- 1 24 The anger of Yahweh once again blazed out against the Israelites and he incited David against them. 'Go,' he said 'take a census of Israel and 2 Judah.'^b •The king said to Joab and to the senior army officers who were with him, 'Now go throughout the tribes of Israel from Dan to Beersheba and take
3 a census of the people; I wish to know the size of the population.' •Joab said to the king, 'May Yahweh your God multiply the people a hundred times while my lord the king still has eyes to see it, but why should my lord the king be so
4 set on this?' •But the king enforced his order on Joab and the senior officers, and Joab and the senior officers went from the king's presence to take a census of the people of Israel.
5 They crossed the Jordan and made a start with Aroer and the town that is 6 in the middle of the wadi,^c moving on to the Gadites and towards Jazer. •They then went to Gilead and to Kadesh in the land of the Hittites; next they went
7 on to Dan and from Dan made their way round towards Sidon.^d •They then came to the fortress of Tyre and to all the towns of the Hivites and Canaanites,
8 ending up in the Negeb of Judah at Beersheba. •Having covered the whole country, they returned to Jerusalem at the end of nine months and twenty days.
9 Joab gave the king the figures for the census of the people; Israel numbered eight hundred thousand armed men capable of drawing sword, and Judah five hundred thousand men.^e

The pestilence. God's forgiveness

||1 Ch 21: 7-17

- 10 But afterwards David's heart misgave him for having taken a census of the people. 'I have committed a grave sin' David said to Yahweh. 'But now, Yahweh, 11 I beg you to forgive your servant for this fault. I have been very foolish.' •But when David got up next morning, the following message had come from Yahweh
12 to the prophet Gad, David's seer, •'Go and say to David, "Yahweh says this: I offer you three things; choose one of them for me to do to you"'.
13 So Gad went to David and told him. 'Are three years of famine to come on you in your country' he said 'or will you flee for three months before your pursuing enemy,^f or would you rather have three days' pestilence in your country?

e. 'three' versions, Ch; 'thirty' Hebr. ketib. 'at the beginning of the harvest' conj.

f. 'thirty' Syr.; 'three' Hebr.

g. 'thirty' conj.; 'three' Hebr. So also in v. 22.

h. Possibly information similar to the preceding was given about Asahel before the list of the thirty which begins with Elhanan. This small group of picked warriors is mentioned only here. They were doubtless David's principal companions in his days of struggle, developing into a permanent unit perhaps during the time in Ziklag.

i. An editorial calculation which seems to include the thirty (vv. 24b-39) plus Joab (mentioned in v. 37) plus Abishai, Benaiah, Asahel (vv. 18-24a), plus the three (vv. 8-12).

24 a. The whole of the chapter originally followed the narrative of 21:1-14.

b. The carrying out of what seems to be a divine command comes to be seen by David as a 'sin', v. 10, and is punished by pestilence, vv. 15f. In ancient Israel everything that happened was attributed to God as the ultimate cause. The author of Ch writes 'Satan' for 'Yahweh'. In those days a census was considered impious because it usurped the prerogative of God to whom alone it belonged to give increase to family and nation.

c. 'made... town' Greek. Aroer, on the Arnon, marks the southern boundary of Israelite territory in Transjordan, according to Dt 2:36; Jos 13:9,16. To the W. of Jordan the boundaries are Dan on the N., Beersheba on the S., vv. 2, 6, 7, 15. Thus the whole territory of Israel is accounted for. But the text adds Tyre and Sidon and, it seems, Hittite Kadesh on the Orontes, far to the N.; some try to explain this in terms of Nb 34:7-9; Ezk 47:15-17 and David's conquests, 2 S 8:3-12.

d. 'to Kadesh in the land of the Hittites' Greek. 'and from Dan made their way round towards Sidon' following Greek.

e. Like many similar figures in the O.T. these are clearly too high; Ch makes them still higher.

f. 'three years' Greek, Vet. Lat. 'your enemy, conj.

Now think, and decide how I am to answer him who sends me.' •David said to 14
Gad, 'This is a hard choice. But let us rather fall into the power of Yahweh, since his mercy is great, and not into the power of men.' •So David chose 15 pestilence.

It was the time of the wheat harvest. Yahweh sent a pestilence on Israel from the morning till the time appointed and plague ravaged the people,^g and from 16
Dan to Beersheba seventy thousand men of them died. •The angel stretched out 16 his hand towards Jerusalem to destroy it, but Yahweh thought better of this evil, and he said to the angel who was destroying the people, 'Enough! Now withdraw your hand.' The angel of Yahweh was beside the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite. •^hWhen David saw the angel who was ravaging the people, 17 he spoke to Yahweh. 'It was I who sinned;' he said 'I who did this wicked thing.
But these, this flock, what have they done? Let your hand lie heavy on me then, and on my family.'

An altar is built

Gad went to David that day and said, 'Go up and erect an altar to Yahweh 18 on the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite'. •So at Gad's bidding David 19 went up as Yahweh had ordered him. •When Araunah looked down and 20 saw the king and his officers advancing towards him—Araunah was threshing the wheatⁱ—he came forward and with his face to the ground did the king homage. •'Why has my lord the king come to his servant?' Araunah asked. 21 David answered, 'To buy the threshing-floor from you, in order to build an altar to Yahweh, so that the plague may leave the people'. •'Let my lord the king 22 take it' Araunah said to David 'and offer up what he thinks right. Here are the oxen for the holocaust, the threshing-sled^j and the oxen's yoke for the wood.
The servant of my lord the king gives all this to the king. And' Araunah said 23 to the king 'may Yahweh your God accept your offering.'

But the king said to Araunah, 'No, I must pay you money for it; I will not 24 offer Yahweh my God holocausts that have cost me nothing'. So David paid fifty shekels in silver^k for the threshing-floor and oxen. •David built an altar to 25 Yahweh there and offered holocausts and communion sacrifices. Then Yahweh took pity on the country and the plague was turned away from Israel.

g. The translation follows the Greek.

h. The narrative probably fuses two traditions: according to one, Yahweh halts the plague at the gates of Jerusalem out of his love for the city, v. 16, and David offers a sacrifice or thanksgiving 'as Yahweh had ordered', v. 19. According to the second, it is David's prayer and his building of the altar that save the city, vv. 17, 21, 25.

i. The parenthesis is inserted here in accordance with Ch.

j. A board with stones set in the underside still used in Palestine for threshing.

k. Six hundred golden shekels according to Ch. Araunah's threshing-floor was outside the city on the hill dominating old Jerusalem from the N. This is the future site of Solomon's Temple, cf. 5:9+.

THE BOOKS OF THE KINGS

THE FIRST BOOK OF THE KINGS

I. THE DAVIDIC SUCCESSION^a

David's last days. The intrigues of Adonijah

- 1 King David was an old man well on in years and though they laid coverlets 1 Ch23:1 2 over him he could not keep warm. •So his servants said to him, 'Let some young girl be found for my lord the king, to wait on the king and look after him; 3 she shall lie on your breast and this will keep my lord the king warm'. •Having searched for a beautiful girl throughout the territory of Israel, they found Abishag 4 of Shunem and brought her to the king. •The girl was of great beauty. She 2 K 4:8 looked after the king and waited on him but the king had no intercourse with her.
5 Now Adonijah, Haggith's son, was ambitious; he thought he might be king; 2 S 3:4
accordingly he procured a chariot and team with fifty men to run in front of 1 S 8:11 6 him. •At no time in his life had his father ever crossed him by asking, 'Why do you 2 S 15:1
behave like this?' He was also very handsome; his mother had given birth to him
7 after Absalom. •He conferred with Joab son of Zeruiah and with the priest 8 Abiathar^b who rallied to Adonijah's cause; •but neither Zadok the priest, nor Benaiah son of Jehoiada, nor the prophet Nathan, nor Shimei and his companions,^c David's champions, supported Adonijah.
9 One day when Adonijah was sacrificing sheep and oxen and fattened calves at the Sliding Stone which is beside the Fuller's Spring, he invited all his brothers, 10 the royal princes, and all the men of Judah in the king's service; •but he did not invite the prophet Nathan, or Benaiah, or the champions, or his brother Solomon.

The intrigues of Nathan and Bathsheba

- 11 Then Nathan said to Bathsheba, Solomon's mother, 'Have you not heard that 2S12:24 12 unknown to our lord David, Adonijah, Haggith's son, has become king? •Well, this is my advice to you if you want to save your own life and the life of 13 your son Solomon. •Go straight in to King David and say, "My lord king, did you not make your servant this promise on oath:^d Your son Solomon is to be king after me; he is the one who is to sit on my throne? How is it, then, that 14 Adonijah is king?" •And while you are still there talking to the king, I will come in after you and confirm what you say.' 15 So Bathsheba went to the king in his room (he was very old and Abishag of 16 Shunem was in attendance on him). •She knelt down and did homage to the 17 king, and the king said, 'What is your wish?' •'My lord,' she answered 'you swore this to your servant by Yahweh your God, "Your son Solomon is to be king after 1 a. Ch. 1-2 continue the narrative of 2 S 13-20.

b. Joab: David's nephew and companion of his early days, still commander-in-chief, 2 S 19:14+; Abiathar: sole survivor of the priests of Nob, 1 S 22:20, and still loyal to David.

c. 'and his companions' following Greek. The factions of Solomon and Adonijah are opposed on personal grounds: Zadok is a rival of Abiathar; the captain of the guard, Benaiah, is jealous of Joab, commander-in-chief; Nathan had been God's mouth-piece for David, especially at the time of Solomon's birth, 2 S 12:24-25.

d. This oath has not hitherto been mentioned in the history of David.

me; he is the one who is to sit on my throne". •And now here is Adonijah king 18 and you, my lord king, knowing nothing about it. •He has sacrificed quantities 19 of oxen and fattened calves and sheep, and invited all the royal princes, the priest Abiathar, and Joab the army commander; but he has not invited your servant Solomon. •Yet you are the man, my lord king, to whom all Israel looks, 20 to name for them the successor of my lord the king. •And when my lord the 21 king sleeps with his fathers, my son Solomon and I will be made to suffer for this.'

She was still speaking when the prophet Nathan entered. •"The prophet 22
Nathan is here' they told the king; and he came into the king's presence and 23 bowed down to the ground on his face before the king. •"My lord king,' said 24 Nathan 'is this, then, your decree: "Adonijah is to be king after me; he is the one who is to sit on my throne"? •For he has gone down today and sacrificed 25 quantities of oxen and fattened calves and sheep, and invited all the royal princes, the army chiefs, and the priest Abiathar; and they are there now, eating and drinking in his presence and shouting, "Long live King Adonijah!" •He has not, 26 however, invited me your servant, Zadok the priest, Benaiah son of Jehoiada, or your servant Solomon. •Is this with my lord the king's approval? Or have you 27 not told those loyal to you who is to succeed to the throne of my lord the king?"

Solomon is consecrated king at David's nomination

Then King David spoke. 'Call Bathsheba to me' he said. And she came into 28 the king's presence and stood before him. •Then the king swore this oath, 'As 29 Yahweh lives, who has delivered me from all adversity, •just as I swore to you 30 by Yahweh the God of Israel that your son Solomon should be king after me and take my place on the throne, so I will bring it about this very day'. •Bathsheba 31 knelt down, her face to the ground, and did homage to the king. 'May my lord King David live for ever!' she said. •Then King David said, 'Summon Zadok 32 the priest, the prophet Nathan and Benaiah son of Jehoiada'. So they came into the king's presence. •"Take the royal guard with you,' said the king 'mount 33 my son Solomon on my own mule and escort him down to Gihon. •There Zadok 34 the priest and the prophet Nathan are to anoint him king of Israel; then sound the trumpet and shout, "Long live King Solomon!" •Then you are to follow him 35 up and he is to come and take his seat on my throne and be king in place of me, for he is the man I have appointed as ruler of Israel and of Judah.' •Benaiah son 36 of Jehoiada answered the king. 'Amen!' he said 'And may Yahweh too say Amen to the words of my lord the king! •As Yahweh has been with my lord the 37 king, so may he be with Solomon and make his throne even greater than the throne of my lord King David!'

Then Zadok the priest, the prophet Nathan, Benaiah son of Jehoiada, and 38
the Cherethites and Pelethites went down; they mounted Solomon on King David's mule and escorted him to Gihon. •Zadok the priest took the horn of oil 39 from the Tent and anointed Solomon. They sounded the trumpet and all the people shouted, 'Long live King Solomon!' •The people all followed him up, with 40 pipes playing and loud rejoicing and shouts to split the earth.

Adonijah is afraid

Adonijah and his guests, who had by then finished their meal, all heard the 41 noise. Joab too heard the sound of the trumpet and said, 'What is that noise of uproar in the city?' •While he was still speaking, Jonathan the son of Abiathar 42
the priest arrived. 'Come in,' Adonijah said 'you are an honest man, so you must be bringing good news.' •'Yes,' Jonathan answered 'our lord King David 43 has made Solomon king. •The king sent Zadok the priest with him, and the 44 prophet Nathan and Benaiah son of Jehoiada and the Cherethites and Pelethites; they mounted him on the king's mule, •and Zadok the priest and the prophet 45
Nathan anointed him king at Gihon; and they went up from there with shouts

49 At this, all Adonijah's guests, taking fright, rose and made off in their several 50 directions. •Adonijah, in terror of Solomon, rose too and ran off to cling to 51 the horns of the altar. •Solomon was told, 'You should know that Adonijah is in terror of King Solomon and is now clinging to the horns of the altar, saying,
 "Let King Solomon first swear to me that he will not have his servant put to the 52 sword"'. •'Should he bear himself honourably,' Solomon answered 'not one hair of his shall fall to the ground; but if he is found malicious, he shall die.'

 and did homage to King Solomon; Solomon said to him, 'Go to your house'.

David's testament. His death^a

1 2 As David's life drew to its close he laid this charge on his son Solomon,
 2 'I am going the way of all the earth. Be strong and show yourself a man.
 3 Observe the injunctions of Yahweh your God, following his ways and keeping his laws, his commandments, his customs and his decrees, as it stands written in the Law of Moses, that so you may be successful in all you do and undertake,

||1 Ch29:
26-27

The death of Adonijah

12 Solomon was seated upon the throne of David, and his sovereignty was securely established.

e. The order of succession was not yet determined by statute. Saul and David had been the choice of God and of the people. The monarchy is about to become hereditary, but primogeniture is not seen as an adequate claim and the king himself is expected to choose between his sons. David not only chooses Solomon but actually transfers the royal authority by the ritual he prescribes, vv. 33-35.

f. 'too say Amen to the words' versions.

2 a. This 'testament' by which Solomon is appointed to execute vengeance on David's personal enemies reflects the ideas of this period of the O.T. on blood-revenge and the lasting efficacy of the curse, cf. v. 8.

Vv. 3-4 are an addition, in the deuteronomic style, to the original narrative.

b. End of verse corrected in accordance with the versions. Joab's crimes have tarnished David's soldierly reputation; David had even been accused of prompting them, 2 S 16:7. The king and his descendants are therefore liable to blood-revenge until the true culprit has been killed.

c. Shimei's curse will lie heavy on David's descendants since a curse, like a blessing, retains its efficacy. Only by turning it against its originator can it be undone, vv. 44-45. David's oath has prevented him from doing this, but Solomon is free.

d. 'But you' Vulg.

Adonijah, Haggith's son, went to Bathsheba the mother of Solomon and bowed down before her.^c 'Do you bring peace?' she asked. He answered, 'Yes, peace'. •Then he said, 'I have something to say to you'. 'Speak' she replied. •'You know' he said 'that the kingdom should have come to me,^f and that all Israel expected me to be king; but the crown eluded me and fell to my brother, since it came to him from Yahweh. •Now I have one request to make you; do not refuse me.' 'Speak' she said. •He went on, 'Please ask King Solomon—for he will not refuse you—to give me Abishag of Shunem in marriage'. •'Very well,' Bathsheba replied 'I will speak to the king about you.' •So Bathsheba went to King Solomon to speak to him about Adonijah; the king rose to meet her and bowed before her; he then sat down on his throne; a seat was brought for the mother of the king, and she sat down at his right hand. •She said, 'I have one small request to make you; do not refuse me'. 'My mother,' the king answered 'make your request, for I will not refuse you.' •'Let Abishag of Shunem' she said 'be given in marriage to your brother Adonijah.' •King Solomon answered his mother. 'And why' he said 'do you request Abishag of Shunem for Adonijah? You might as well request the kingdom for him,^g since he is my elder brother and Abiathar the priest and Joab son of Zeruiah are on his side.' •And King Solomon swore by Yahweh: 'May God do this to me and more' he said 'if Adonijah does not pay for these words of his with his life! •As Yahweh lives who has set me securely on the throne of David my father, and who, as he promised, has given him^h a dynasty, Adonijah shall be put to death this very day.' •And King Solomon commissioned Benaiah son of Jehoiada to strike him down, and he died.

The fate of Abiathar and Joab

As for Abiathar the priest, the king said to him, 'Go to Anathothⁱ to your estate. You deserve to die, but I am not going to put you to death now, since you carried the ark of Yahweh in the presence of David my father and shared all my father's hardships.' •Solomon deprived Abiathar of the priesthood of Yahweh, thus fulfilling the oracle Yahweh had uttered against the House of Eli at Shiloh.

When the news reached Joab—for Joab had lent his support to Adonijah, though he had not supported Absalom—he fled to the Tent of Yahweh and clung to the horns of the altar. •King Solomon was told, 'Joab has fled to the Tent of Yahweh; he is there beside the altar'. Then Solomon sent word to Joab, 'What reason did you have for fleeing to the altar?' Joab replied, 'I was afraid of you and fled to Yahweh'. Then Solomon sent Benaiah^j son of Jehoiada. 'Go' he said 'and strike him down.' •Accordingly Benaiah went to the Tent of Yahweh. 'By order of the king,' he said 'come out!' 'No,' he said 'I will die here.'^k So Benaiah brought back word to the king, 'This is what Joab said, and the answer he gave me'. •'Do as he says' the king replied. 'Strike him down and bury him, and so rid me and my family today of the innocent blood Joab has shed. •Yahweh will bring his blood down on his own head, because he struck down two more honourable and better men than he, and put to the sword, without my father David's knowledge, Abner son of Ner, commander of the army of Israel, and Amasa son of Jether, commander of the army of Judah. •May their blood come down on the head of Joab and his descendants for ever, but may David, his descendants, his dynasty, his throne, have peace for ever from Yahweh.' Whereupon Benaiah son of Jehoiada went out, struck Joab down and put him to death; he was buried at his home in the wilderness. •In his place as head of the army the king appointed Benaiah son of Jehoiada and, in place of Abiathar, Zadok the priest.

The disobedience and death of Shimei^l

The king had Shimei summoned to him. 'Build yourself a house in Jerusalem,'

37 he told him 'you are to live there; do not move anywhere else. •The day you go out and cross the wadi Kidron, be sure you will certainly die. Your blood will be 38 on your own head.' •'Very well,' Shimei answered the king 'your servant will do as my lord the king orders.' And for a long time Shimei lived in Jerusalem.

39 But when three years had gone by, it happened that two of Shimei's slaves ran away to Achish son of Maacah, king of Gath; Shimei was told, 'Your slaves
40 are in Gath'. •At this, Shimei set about saddling his donkey and went to Achish at Gath to find his slaves. He went off and brought his slaves back from Gath.
41 Solomon was informed that Shimei had gone from Jerusalem to Gath and had come back.

42 The king had Shimei summoned to him. 'Did I not make you swear by Yahweh,' he said 'and did I not solemnly warn you: The day you go out to go
43 anywhere else, be sure you will certainly die?^m •Why did you not keep the oath of Yahweh and the order I laid on you? •You know all the evilⁿ you did to my 44 father David' the king went on. 'Yahweh will bring your wickedness down on your own head. •But may King Solomon be blessed,^o and may the throne of 45 David be kept secure before Yahweh for ever.' •The king gave orders to Benaiah son of Jehoiada; he went out and struck down Shimei; and he died.

And now the sovereignty was securely in the hands of Solomon.

II. SOLOMON IN ALL HIS GLORY

A. SOLOMON THE SAGE

Introduction

1 3 Solomon allied himself by marriage with Pharaoh^a king of Egypt; he married Pharaoh's daughter, and took her to the Citadel of David until he could complete the building of his palace and the Temple of Yahweh and the wall
2 surrounding Jerusalem. •The people, however, were still sacrificing on the high places, because at that time a dwelling place for the name of Yahweh had not
3 yet been built. •Solomon loved Yahweh: he followed the precepts of David his father, except that he offered sacrifice and incense on the high places.

Solomon's dream at Gibeon

4 The king went to Gibeon to sacrifice there, since that was the greatest of the high places—Solomon offered a thousand holocausts on that altar. •At Gibeon Yahweh appeared in a dream^b to Solomon during the night. God said, 'Ask what
5 you would like me to give you'. •Solomon replied, 'You showed great kindness to your servant David, my father, when he lived his life before you in faithfulness and justice and integrity of heart; you have continued this great kindness to 6 him by allowing a son of his to sit on his throne today. •Now, Yahweh my God, you have made your servant king in succession to David my father. But I am
7 a very young man, unskilled in leadership. •Your servant finds himself in the midst of this people of yours that you have chosen, a people so many its number

e. 'and bowed down before her' Greek.

f. Since he was the elder.

g. To take the wife of a dead or deposed king gave a title to succession, cf. 2 S 3:8; 16:22. 'and Abiathar the priest is on his side' versions.

h. 'him' corr.

i. Levitical town near Jerusalem.

j. Text restored, following Greek.

k. Benaiah tries to adopt the procedure of Ex 21:14, which is precisely Joab's case: 'If a man kills his neighbour treacherously, you shall take him even from my altar to put him to death'. Joab, however, is determined that Solomon shall incur the odium of profanation.

l. On pain of death Shimei must take up residence in Jerusalem, and Solomon binds him under oath.

Shimei breaks his oath and is thus executed 'justly'. Nevertheless, Solomon admits, v. 44, that his true motive is the curse that Shimei had pronounced on David.

m. The Hebr. adds 'and you said to me, "The word I have heard is good"', cf. v. 38.

n. The text adds 'that your heart has conceived'.

o. As in v. 33, Solomon immediately adds a blessing so that his curse may not recoil on himself.

 alone together; there was no one else in the house with us; just the two of us in the house. •Now one night this woman's son died; she overlaid him. •And in 19 the middle of the night she got up and took my son from beside me while your 20 addressed the king, for she burned with pity for her son. 'If it please you, my lord,' she said 'let them give her the child; only do not let them think of killing it! But the other said, 'He shall belong to neither of us. Cut him up.' •Then 27 the king gave his decision. 'Give the child to the first woman,' he said 'and do not kill him. She is his mother.' •All Israel came to hear of the judgement 28 the king had pronounced, and held the king in awe, recognising that he possessed divine wisdom for dispensing justice.

Solomon's high officials

- 18:3 4 King Solomon was king over all Israel, •and these were his high officials:^a 1
 Azariah son of Zadok, priest. 2
 Elihoreph and Ahijah, sons of Shisha, secretaries. 3
 Jehoshaphat son of Ahilud, recorder. 4 (Benaiah son of Jehoiada, commander of the army. 4 Zadok and Abiathar, priests.)^b
 4:7f Azariah son of Nathan, chief administrator. 5 Zabud son of Nathan, Friend of the King, 6 and his brother, master of the palace.
 Eliab son of Joab, commander of the army.
 5:27,28; Adoram son of Abda, in charge of forced labour.^c 12:18

Solomon's administrators

- 4:5 Solomon had twelve administrators^d for the whole of Israel who saw to the 7 provisioning of the king and his household; each had to provide for one month in the year.

8 These are their names:^c

...son of Hur, in the mountain country of Ephraim.

9 ...son of Deker, in Makaz, Shaalbim, Beth-shemesh, Aijalon as far as Beth-hanan.

10 ...son of Hesed, in Arubboth; his district was Socoh and all the land of Hopher.

11 ...son of Abinadab: the whole region of Dor.
Taphath, Solomon's daughter, was his wife.

12 Baana son of Ahilud, in Taanach and Megiddo as far as the other side of Jokmeam, and all Beth-shean below Jezreel, from Beth-shean
as far as Abel Meholah, which is beside Zarethan.^f

13 ...son of Geber, in Ramoth-gilead: his district was the Encampments of Jair, son of Manasseh, which are in Gilead; he had the region of Argob, which is in Bashan, sixty fortified towns, walled-in and with bolts of bronze.

14 Ahinadab son of Iddo, in Mahanaim.

15 Ahimaaz in Naphtali; he too married a daughter of Solomon, Basemath.

16 Baana son of Hushai, in Asher and in the highlands.^g

17 Jehoshaphat son of Paruah, in Issachar.

18 Shimei son of Ela, in Benjamin.

19 Geber son of Uri, in the land of Gad, the land of Sihon king of the Amorites and of Og king of Bashan.

In addition, there was one governor in the land.^h

⁴ ²⁷ ⁵ These administrators provided the food for Solomon and for all those who were admitted by him to the royal table,^b each for the period of a month; they ⁸ saw to it that nothing was wanting. • They also provided the barley and straw
²⁸ for the horses and draught animals, where required, each according to his own
² assignment. • The daily provisions for Solomon were: thirty measures of fine ²² flour and sixty measures of meal, • ten fattened oxen, twenty free-grazing oxen, ³ one hundred sheep, besides deer and gazelles, roebucks and fattened cuckoos.^c ⁴ For he was master of all Transeuphrates^d—of all the kings of Transeuphrates from ²⁴ Tiphseh to Gaza—and he enjoyed peace on all his frontiers. • Judah and Israel ^{2 S 7:1}

c. The text adds 'to govern your people'. Solomon prays for wisdom in practical affairs, not in his own interest but in those of the nation. Cf. 5:13+ and Ex 31:3+.

d. The Hebr. adds 'all your life'.

e. The text adds 'in the morning'.

4 a. The recorder (lit. 'remembrancer') is head of the diplomatic service and intermediary between king and people. The master of the palace is the prime minister, the 'vizir' of oriental courts. The title 'Friend of the King' is one of honour rather than of jurisdiction. The priest, chief representative of the priestly class, is ranked with the royal officials. Solomon retains David's recorder and appoints the sons of his priest, secretary and commander-in-chief, 2 S 8:16f; 20:23f. The form of some of these names varies in Hebr. and versions.

b. A gloss the second half of which contradicts v. 2 and 2:26f.

c. 'and his brother' corr. The name and title of the commander-in-chief are absent from Hebr. and are restored from the Greek. 'Adoram' following Greek.

d. The office was created by Solomon; it saw to the raising of the labour force and the application of taxes to public works. The 12 districts fall into 3 groups: first, the territory of Ephraim and Manasseh, sons of Joseph, v. 8, together with the conquered or recaptured Canaanite towns, vv. 9-12, and the annexed districts of Transjordan, vv. 13-14; second, the northern tribes, vv. 15-17; third, Benjamin, v. 18, and Gad, v. 19. There was a special arrangement for Judah, v. 19 and note.

e. This document from the state archives was damaged at the edges; this explains why, for the first administrators, only their fathers' names are preserved.

f. Our translation corrects the confused geographical order.

g. Lit. 'ascents'. The hilly coast between Acre and Tyre.

h. 'Gad' Greek; 'Gilead' Hebr. 'The land', without specification, is the royal territory of Judah as opposed to the provinces of Israel. Judah, therefore, had its own régime and appears to have been exempt from taxes for public works.

5 a. The translation follows the order of the Greek which gives the list of administrators in logical order. The Hebr. order has been upset by glosses; v. 4 dates, at the earliest, from the Exile; the remainder, up to the end of the paragraph, is late.

b. Not only the royal family and its dependants, but all the servants, officials, regular troops.

c. Translation conjectural: cuckoo was a delicacy.

d. Official title for the area between the Euphrates and the Mediterranean during the Persian period, when this verse was added.

B. SOLOMON THE BUILDER

Preparations for building the Temple

2 S 5:11 Hiram the king of Tyre sent an embassy to Solomon, having learnt that he 15 112Ch2:2-3 had been anointed king in succession to his father and because Hiram had 1 always been a friend of David. •And Solomon sent this message to Hiram, 16
 Si 47:13 'You are aware that David my father was unable to build a temple for the name of 2
 Yahweh, his God, because his enemies waged war on him from all sides, until 17
 Yahweh should put them under his control. •But now Yahweh my God has 3 given me rest on every side: not one enemy, no calamities. •I therefore plan 18
 S7:12-13 to build a temple for the name of Yahweh my God, just as Yahweh said to 19
 Ws 9:8 David my father, "Your son whom I will place on your throne to succeed you 5
 Is 60:13 shall be the man to build a temple for my name". •So now have cedars of 20 Lebanon cut down for me; my servants will work with your servants, and I will 6 pay for the hire of your servants at whatever rate you fix. As you know, we have 21 112 Ch 2: no one as skilled in felling trees as the Sidonians.^j •When Hiram heard what 7
 10:11 Solomon had said, he was delighted. 'Now blessed be Yahweh' he said 'who 21
 Ws 8:11 has given David a wise son to rule over this great people!' •And Hiram sent 22 112Ch2:15 word to Solomon, 'I have received your message. For my part, I will supply 8 all you want in the way of cedar wood and juniper. •Your servants^k will bring 23 these down from Lebanon to the sea, and I shall have them towed by sea to any 9 place you name; I shall discharge them there, and you will take them over. 24 9:11 For your part, you will see to the provisioning of my household as I direct.' 10
 112 Ch 2:9 So Hiram provided Solomon with all the cedar wood and juniper he wanted, 25 while Solomon gave Hiram twenty thousand kors of wheat to feed his household, 11 and twenty thousand kors^l of pure oil. Solomon gave Hiram this every year. 26 Yahweh gave Solomon wisdom as he had promised him; good relations persisted 12 between Solomon and Hiram, and the two of them concluded a treaty. 26 Am 1:9 King Solomon raised a levy throughout Israel for forced labour: the levy 27
 4:6;12:18 numbered thirty thousand men. •He sent these to Lebanon in relays, ten thousand 13 a month; they spent one month in Lebanon and two months at home. Adoram 28 4:6 was in charge of the forced labour. •Solomon also had seventy thousand porters 15
 2Ch2:1,18 and eighty thousand quarrymen in the mountains, •as well as the administrators' 30 officials who supervised the work, three thousand three hundred of them in 16 charge of the men employed in the work. •At the king's orders they quarried huge 31 17

stones, special stones, for the laying of the temple foundations, dressed stones.
 32/18 Solomon's workmen and Hiram's workmen and the Giblites^m cut and assembled the wood and stone for the building of the Temple.

The Temple building

||2Ch3:1-7
 Si 47:13

6 In the four hundred and eightieth year after the Israelites came out of the land of Egypt,^a in the fourth year of Solomon's reign over Israel, in the month of Ziv, which is the second month, he began to build the Temple of Yahweh. The Temple^b that King Solomon built for Yahweh was sixty cubits long, twenty cubits wide and twenty-five in height. •The Ulam in front of the Hekal of the Temple was twenty cubits long across the width of the Temple and ten cubits wide along the length of the Temple. •He made windows for the Temple with frames and latticework.^c •He also built an annex against the Temple wall,^d round the Hekal and the Debir, and made side tiers all round. •The lower story was five cubits wide, the middle one six cubits, and the third seven cubits, for round the Temple on the outside he had placed offsets so that this was not attached to the Temple walls. •(The building of the Temple was done with quarry-dressed stone; no sound of hammer or pick or any iron tool was to be heard in the Temple while it was being built.) •The entrance to the lower story was at the right-hand corner of the Temple, and access to the middle story above was by trap-doors, and so from the middle story to the third. •He built the Temple,^e completed it, and covered it with cedar wood. •He built the annex on to the whole length of the Temple; it was five cubits high and was attached to the Temple by beams of cedar wood. •And the word of Yahweh came to Solomon, 'This house you are building^f . . . if you follow my statutes and obey my ordinances and faithfully follow my commandments, I will fulfil that promise I made about you to your father David. •And I will make my home among the sons of Israel, and never forsake Israel my people.' •Solomon built the Temple, and completed it.

f. 'four thousand' following 2 Ch 9:23.

g. 'Yahweh' following versions.

h. I.e. the native. The names that follow are probably those of sages famous in Canaan. Ps 89 is attributed to Ethan.

i. Solomon is the first of the 'sages of Israel' (see Introduction to Wisdom Books). That he engaged in literary and poetic activity there is no doubt, cf. 8:12-13, and part of Pr may possibly derive from him. Ps 72 and 127, Qo, Sg, Ws, all bear his name.

j. The 'Sidonians' means the Philistines as a whole. Hiram was king of Tyre and Sidon.

k. 'Your servants' conj.; 'My servants' Hebr.

l. 'twenty thousand measures' Greek.

m. Workmen from Gebal (the Greek Byblos) to the N. of Beirut.

6 a. According to the chronological system in which the tabernacle, Solomon's Temple, and the post-exilic Temple, were reckoned equidistant in time. In fact the date is about 960 B.C.

b. The Temple was an oblong building consisting of three successive compartments: the Porch: Ulam; the Great Chamber for worship: Hekal, later called the Holy (Place); the Sanctuary: Debir, i.e. back room, later called the Holy of Holies, the most sacred place, containing the ark of the covenant, 6:19. The difference in height between the Hekal and the Debir (6:2 and ch. 10), indicates that the floor of the Debir was raised to form a kind of rostrum for the ark. The Debir must have been separated from the Hekal by a partition. Three outer walls of the Temple sustained a low three-story erection (6:10). Cf. the description of the tabernacle in the desert, Ex 26-36, and that of the future Temple in Ezk 40-42.

c. Translation uncertain.

d. The Hebr. here repeats 'round the Temple walls', omitted by Greek.

e. The Hebr. has here two unintelligible words which are absent from the Greek.

f. The phrase is broken off.

Ezk41:22 with pure gold. He made an altar of cedar wood^g •^h in front of the Debir and 21 plated it with gold. •He plated the whole Temple with gold, the whole Temple 22

Ex25:18 +
12Ch3:10-13 The cherubs

In the Debir he made two cherubs of olive wood^j. . . It was ten cubits high. 23
One cherub's wing was five cubits long and the other wing five cubits: ten cubits 24 from wing tip to wing tip. •The other cherub also measured ten cubits; both 25 cherubs had the same measurements and the same shape. •The height of one 26 cherub was the same as the other's. •He placed the cherubs in the middle of the 27 inner chamber; their wings were spread out so that the wing of one touched one of the walls and the wing of the other touched the other wall, while their wings met in the middle of the chamber, wing to wing. •And he plated the 28 cherubs with gold. •All round the Temple walls he carved figures of cherubs, 29 palm trees and rosettes, both inside and outside.^k •He plated the floor of the 30 Temple with gold, both inside and outside.

The doors.^l The court

Ezk41:23 He made the door of the Debir with uprights of olive wood, and five-sided 31 door jambs, •and the two leaves of olive wood. He carved figures of cherubs, 32 palm trees and rosettes which he plated with gold; he put a gold surface on the cherubs and palm trees. •Similarly, he made uprights of olive wood for the door 33 of the Hekal, and four-sided door jambs, •and the two leaves of juniper: one 34 leaf had two ribs binding it, and the other had two ribs binding it. •He carved 35 cherubs, palm trees and rosettes, which he plated with gold laid evenly over the carvings.

He built the wall of the inner court^m in three courses of dressed stone and one 36 course of cedar beams.

The date

In the fourth year, in the month of Ziv, the foundations of the Temple were 37 laid; •in the eleventh year, in the month of Bul—that is, the eighth month—the 38 Temple was completed exactly as it had been planned and designed. Solomon took seven years to build it.

Solomon's palace^a

Qo 2:4 7 As regards his palace, Solomon spent thirteen years on it before the building 1
Is 2:28 was completed. •He built the Hall of the Forest of Lebanon,^b a hundred 2 cubits long, fifty cubits wide, and thirty cubits high, on four rows of cedar wood pillars with cedar capitals on the pillars. •It was panelled in cedar on the upper 3 part as far as the planks above the pillars.^c •There were three rows of architraves,^d 4 forty-five in all, that is, fifteen in each row, facing one another from three sides.
All the doors and uprights were of rectangular design, facing one another from 5 three sides. •And he made the Hall of Pillars, fifty cubits long and thirty cubits 6 wide. . . with a porch in front.^e •He also made the Hall of the Throne where he 7 Ps 122:5 used to dispense justice, that is, the Hall of Justice; it was panelled in cedar from floor to rafters. •His own living quarters, in the other court and inwards 8 3:1 + from the Hall, were of the same construction. And there was a house similar to this Hall for the daughter of Pharaoh whom he had taken in marriage.

All these buildings were of special stones cut to measure, trimmed on the 9 inner and outer sides with the saw, right from the foundations to the wood course^f —their foundations were of special stones, huge stones, stones of ten and eight 10 cubits, •and, above these, special stones, cut to measure, and cedar wood—•and, 11 12 on the outside, the great court had three courses of dressed stone round it and one course of cedar beams; so also had the inner court of the Temple of Yahweh and the vestibule of the Temple.

Hiram, the bronzeworker

¹³¹⁴ King Solomon sent for Hiram of Tyre; •he was the son of a widow of the tribe of Naphtali but his father had been a Tyrian, a bronzeworker. He was a highly intelligent craftsman, skilled in all types of bronzework. He came to King Solomon and did all this work for him:

The bronze pillars

||2Ch3:15-17

¹⁵ He cast two bronze pillars;^g the height of one pillar was eighteen cubits, and a cord twelve cubits long gave the measurement of its girth; so also was the second
¹⁶ pillar. •He made two capitals of cast bronze for the tops of the pillars; the ¹⁷ height of one capital was five cubits, and the height of the other five cubits. •^h He made two sets of filigree to cover the moulding of the two capitals surmounting the pillars, one filigree for one capital and one filigree for the other capital.
¹⁸^{19b} He also made pomegranates: two rows of them round each filigree, •four ²⁰ hundred in all, •applied on the raised moulding behind the filigree; there were two hundred pomegranates round one capital and the same round the other
²¹^{21a} capital. •The capitals surmounting the pillars were flower-shaped. •He set up the pillars in front of the vestibule of the sanctuary; he set up the right-hand pillar and named it Jachin; he set up the left-hand pillar and named it Boaz.ⁱ

112 Ch 4: 11-18 The utensils. Summary

Hiram made the ash containers,^m the scoops and the sprinkling bowls. He finished all the work that he did for King Solomon on the Temple of Yahweh: two pillars; the two mouldings of the capitals surmounting the pillars; the two sets of filigree to cover the two mouldings of the capitals surmounting the pillars; •the four hundred pomegranates for the two sets of filigree; the pomegranates of each set of filigree were in two rows;ⁿ

the ten stands and the ten basins on the stands;

the one Sea and the twelve oxen beneath the Sea;

2K 25:14 the ash containers, the scoops, the sprinkling bowls.

All these furnishings made by Hiram for King Solomon for the Temple of Yahweh were of burnished bronze. •He made them by the process of sand casting,^o in the Jordan area between Succoth and Zarethan. •^p There were so many of them, that the weight of the bronze was never calculated.

Solomon placed all the furnishings he had made in the Temple of Yahweh: the golden altar^q and the table for the loaves of offering, which was of gold; the lamp-stands, five on the right and five on the left in front of the Debir, of pure gold; the floral work, the lamps, the extinguishers, of gold; •the basins, knives, sprinkling bowls, incense boats, censers, of pure gold; the door sockets for the inner shrine—that is, the Holy of Holies—and for the Hekal, of gold.^r

So all the work that King Solomon did for the Temple of Yahweh was completed, and Solomon brought what his father David had consecrated, the silver and the gold and the vessels, and put them in the treasury of the Temple of Yahweh.

112 Ch 5: 2-10 The ark brought to the Temple

8^a Then Solomon called the elders of Israel together in Jerusalem to bring the ark of the covenant of Yahweh up from the Citadel of David, which is Zion. All the men of Israel assembled round King Solomon in the month of Ethanim, at the time of the feast^b (that is, the seventh month), •and the priests took up the ark •and the Tent of Meeting^c with all the sacred vessels that were in it. In the presence of the ark, King Solomon and all Israel sacrificed sheep and oxen, countless, innumerable. •The priests brought the ark of the covenant of Yahweh to its place, in the Debir of the Temple, that is, in the Holy of Holies, under the cherubs' wings. •For there where the ark was placed the cherubs spread out their wings and sheltered the ark and its shafts. •These were long enough for their ends to be seen from the Holy Place in front of the Debir, but not from outside. •There was nothing in the ark except the two stone tablets Moses had

m. 'ash containers' some MSS and Greek.

n. The Hebr. here repeats a phrase of v. 41.

o. Following Greek.

p. The Hebr. begins this verse with the same phrase as v. 48.

q. The altar of incense.

r. The end of the verse is redundant in Hebr.

8 a. In vv. 1-5 certain redundancies of the Hebr. have been eliminated, following Greek.

b. Ethaninim is a month of the Canaanite calendar which corresponds with the 7th month of the later Israelite one, as the gloss explains. The most important feast is that of Tabernacles, cf. Ex 23:14+.

c. The tent that sheltered the ark, 2 S 7:2; 1 K 1:39. A glossator calls it 'the Tent of Meetings' after the tabernacle of desert days, the meeting place of Moses with God, Ex 25:22+.

d. 'the tablets of the covenant' Greek.

e. The cloud, cf. Ex 13:24+; 19:16+, is the visible manifestation of the presence of Yahweh who now takes possession of his sanctuary.

f. Some Greek MSS place this short and undoubtedly authentic poem after 8:53 in a slightly more developed form (and with some variants), adding that it is taken from 'the Book of Song'. The poem as they present it seems to contrast the sun shining in the heavens with Yahweh deigning to dwell in the darkness of the Holy of Holies.

g. 'The name' of Yahweh dwells in the Temple in which Yahweh himself cannot be confined, cf. the insertion of v. 27 which excludes the crass interpretation that God himself resides in the Temple. Nonetheless, a name is a person's true expression and representative, and where 'the name of Yahweh' is, God is present in a very special way, though not in any exclusive sense.

h. The author here develops, in the manner of Dt, ideas contained in the discourse of vv. 15-21. He begins with the principle of mutual fidelity, v. 23: God's kindness to his people flows from the Sinaitic pact, but is conditional on their faithfulness; in this is contained the whole theology of the covenant, the central doctrine of the O.T. Then follow two particular applications: Yahweh has kept his promise regarding the Temple, v. 24; may he keep it also in regard to the stability of the dynasty, v. 25.

 heavens and their own heavens cannot contain you. How much less this house that I have built! •Listen to the prayer and entreaty of your servant, Yahweh my 28
 God; listen to the cry and to the prayer your servant makes to you today. •Day 29

Conclusion of the prayer and blessing of the people

||2Ch6:40

- 52 'Be always watchful for the entreaty of your servant and of your people 53 Israel, always hearing them when they call to you. •For it was you who set them apart from all the peoples of the earth to be your own heritage, as you declared through Moses your servant when you brought our ancestors out of Egypt, Lord Yahweh.'
- 54 When Solomon had finished offering this whole prayer and entreaty, he rose from where he was kneeling with hands stretched out towards heaven before the 55 altar of Yahweh, •and stood erect. And in a loud voice he blessed the whole 56 assembly of Israel. •'Blessed be Yahweh' he said 'who has granted rest to his people Israel, keeping all his promises; of all the promises of good that he 57 made through Moses his servant, not one has failed. •May Yahweh our God be with us, as he was with our ancestors; may he never desert us or cast us off.
58 May he turn our hearts towards him so that we may follow all his ways and keep the commandments, and laws, and ordinances he gave to our ancestors.
59 May these words of mine, of my entreaty before Yahweh, be present with Yahweh our God day and night, that he may uphold the cause of his servant and the 60 cause of Israel his people, as each day requires, •so that all the peoples of the earth may come to know that Yahweh is God indeed, and that there is no other.
61 May your hearts be wholly with Yahweh our God, following his laws and keeping his commandments as at this present day.'

The sacrifices on the feast of Dedication

||2Ch7:4-10

- 62 The king and all Israel with him offered sacrifice before Yahweh. •Solomon 63 offered twenty-two thousand oxen and a hundred and twenty thousand sheep as communion sacrifices to Yahweh; and so the king and all the Israelites 64 dedicated the Temple of Yahweh. •On the same day the king consecrated the middle of the court lying in front of the Temple of Yahweh; and there he offered the holocaust, oblations and fatty parts of the communion sacrifices, since the bronze altar^p that stood before Yahweh was too small to hold the holocaust, 65 oblation and the fatty parts of the communion sacrifices. •And so at that time, Solomon celebrated the feast,^q and all the Israelites with him, a great gathering from the Pass of Hamath to the wadi of Egypt, before Yahweh our God for 66 seven days.^r •Then, on the eighth day, he dismissed the people, who blessed the king and went to their homes, rejoicing and happy in heart for all the goodness Yahweh had shown to David and to his people Israel.

Yahweh was angry with Solomon because his heart had turned from Yahweh

For the sake of my servant David, and for the sake of Jerusalem which I have chosen, I will leave your son one tribe.^e

Solomon's foreign enemies

- 14 Yahweh raised an enemy against Solomon, Hadad the Edomite, of the 15 kingly stock of Edom. •After David had crushed Edom, Joab, the commander 2S8:13-14 of the army, had gone to bury the dead and he had slaughtered the entire male 16 population of Edom •(Joab stayed there with all Israel for six months until he 17 had exterminated the entire male population of Edom), •but Hadad with a number of Edomites in his father's service had fled to Egypt. Hadad had been 18 only a boy at the time. •They set out from Midian, and on reaching Paran, took a number of men from Paran with them and went on to Egypt, to Pharaoh, the king of Egypt, who provided him with a house, undertook to maintain him, 19 and assigned him an estate. •Hadad became a great favourite of Pharaoh who gave him his own wife's sister in marriage, the sister of the Great Lady^d Tahpenes.
 20 The sister of Tahpenes bore him Genubath his son whom Tahpenes brought up 21 in Pharaoh's palace, Genubath living with Pharaoh's children. •But when news reached Hadad in Egypt that David slept with his ancestors and that Joab the commander of the army was dead, he said to Pharaoh, 'Give me leave to return 22 to my own country'. •'Do you want for anything here with me' said Pharaoh 'that you now ask to return to your own country?' 'No,' he replied 'but please let 25b me go.' •This is where the harm of Hadad comes from: he loathed Israel and ruled Edom.
 23 God raised a second enemy against Solomon, Rezon son of Eliada. He had 24 fled from his master, Hadadezer king of Zobah. •A number of men having rallied to him, he had become leader of a marauding band (which was then massacred by David). Rezon captured Damascus and settled there and became king of 25a Damascus. •He was hostile to Israel as long as Solomon lived.^e

The revolt of Jeroboam

- 26 Jeroboam was the son of Nebat, an Ephraimite from Zeredah; the name of his mother, a widow, was Zeruah; he was in Solomon's service but revolted 27 against the king. •This is the account of his revolt.
 Solomon was building the Millo and closing the breach in the Citadel of 9:15
 David his father. •Now this Jeroboam was a man of rank; Solomon, noticing 2 S 5:6+
 how the young man set about his work, put him in charge of all the forced 2Ch11:23 29 labour of the House of Joseph. •One day when Jeroboam had gone out of Jerusalem, the prophet Ahijah of Shiloh accosted him on the road. Ahijah was wearing a new cloak; the two of them were in the open country by themselves. 14:2 30 Ahijah took the new cloak he was wearing and tore it into twelve strips,^f •saying 1 S 15:26 31 to Jeroboam, 'Take ten strips for yourself, for thus Yahweh speaks, the God of Israel, "I am going to tear the kingdom from Solomon's hand and give ten tribes 2 S 19:44

h. 'from Cilicia' corr.

i. Vv. 28-29 may mean that Solomon's agents are international middlemen: they supply Egypt with horses imported from Cilicia; they supply 'the kings of the Hittites' in N. Syria and 'the kings of Aram' in S. Syria with chariots imported from Egypt.

c. Solomon's foreign marriages were contracted for political ends and the pagan shrines were intended for his wives and for traders. Such contacts, however, jeopardised the purity of the religion of Yahweh, and the author interprets the situation in the spirit and language of Dt: God punishes this form of impiety by raising up enemies abroad, vv. 14f, and at home, vv. 26f.

Solomon tried to kill Jeroboam but he made off and fled to Egypt, to Shishak king of Egypt, and he remained in Egypt until Solomon's death.

The end of the reign of Solomon

The rest of the history of Solomon, his entire career, his wisdom, is not all this recorded in the Book of the Acts of Solomon? •Solomon's reign in Jerusalem over all Israel lasted forty years. •Then Solomon slept with his ancestors and was buried in the Citadel of David his father; Rehoboam his son succeeded him.

III. THE POLITICAL AND RELIGIOUS SCHISM

The assembly at Shechem

12 As soon as Jeroboam son of Nebat heard the news^a—he was still in Egypt, where he had taken refuge from King Solomon—he returned from Egypt. Rehoboam went to Shechem, for it was to Shechem that all Israel^b had gone to proclaim him king, •^c and they said this to him, •‘Your father gave us a heavy burden to bear; lighten your father's harsh tyranny now, and the weight of the burden he laid on us, and we will serve you’. •He said to them, ‘Go away for three days and then come back to me’. And the people went away.

King Rehoboam consulted the elders, who had been in the service of his father Solomon while he was alive. ‘What reply’ he asked ‘do you advise me to give to this people?’ •‘Act as servant of this people now,’ they said ‘humour them, treat them fairly, and they will be your servants for ever.’ •But he rejected the advice given him by the elders and consulted the young men who had grown up with him and were in his service. •‘How do you advise us’ he asked ‘to answer this people who have said to me, “Lighten the burden your father imposed on us”?’ •The young men who had grown up with him replied, ‘Give this answer to these people who have said, “Your father gave us a heavy burden to bear, you must lighten it for us”, say this to them, “My little finger is thicker than my father's loins! •So then, my father made you bear a heavy burden. I will make it heavier still. My father beat you with whips; I am going to beat you with loaded scourges.”’

On the third day all the people^d came to Rehoboam in obedience to the king's command: ‘Come back to me on the third day’. •The king, rejecting the advice given him by the elders, gave the people a harsh answer, •speaking to them as the young men had recommended. ‘My father made you bear a heavy burden,’ he said ‘but I will make it heavier still. My father beat you with whips; I am going to beat you with loaded scourges.’ •The king in fact took no notice of the people's wishes, and this was brought about by Yahweh to carry out the promise he had spoken through Ahijah of Shiloh to Jeroboam son of Nebat.

 16 When all Israel saw that the king took no notice of their wishes, they gave him this answer: 11:29-39

'What share have we in David? 2 S 20:1

We have no inheritance in the son of Jesse.

To your tents, Israel!

Henceforth look after your own house, David!' 2 S 20:1

17 And Israel went off to their tents. •Rehoboam, however, reigned over those 18 sons of Israel who lived in the towns of Judah. •King Rehoboam sent Adoram 4:6;5:27 who was in charge of forced labour, but the Israelites stoned him to death; whereupon King Rehoboam was obliged to mount his chariot and escape to 19 Jerusalem. •And Israel has been separated from the House of David until the Si 47:21 present day.

The political schism

20 When all Israel heard that Jeroboam had returned, they summoned him 2K 17:18 to the assembly and made him king of all Israel; no one remained loyal to the House of David, except the tribe of Judah.

21 Rehoboam went to Jerusalem and mustered the whole House of Judah and the 11:2 Ch 11:1-4 tribe of Benjamin, a hundred and eighty thousand picked warriors, to fight the House of Israel and win back the kingdom for Rehoboam son of Solomon.

22 But the word of Yahweh came to Shemaiah the man of God, •'Say this to 23 Rehoboam son of Solomon, king of Judah, to the whole House of Judah, to 24 Benjamin and to the rest of the people, •"Yahweh says this: Do not go to fight against your brothers, the sons of Israel; let everyone go home, for what has happened is my doing"'. 22

25 Jeroboam fortified Shechem in the mountain country of Ephraim, and lived there. Then, leaving there, he fortified Penuel.

The religious schism

26 Jeroboam thought to himself, 'As things are, the kingdom will revert to Jg 8:27
 27 the House of David. •If this people continues to go up to the Temple of 2K 17:21
 Yahweh in Jerusalem to offer sacrifices, the people's heart will turn back again Tb 1:5 28 to their lord, Rehoboam king of Judah, and they will put me to death.'^e •So the Si 47:24 king thought this over and then made two golden calves; he said to the people, Ho 13:2
 'You have been going up to Jerusalem long enough. Here are your gods, Israel; 29 these brought you up out of the land of Egypt!'^f •He set up one in Bethel^g and 30 the people went in procession all the way to Dan in front of the other. •He set 31 up the temple of the high places and appointed priests from ordinary families, Ex 32:4 32 who were not of the sons of Levi. •Jeroboam also instituted a feast in the eighth 2K 10:29;

 and he went up to the altar.^h That was how he behaved in Bethel, sacrificing Ho 8:5;

b. Here, as in the ancient historical texts, 'all Israel' means the N. tribes as distinct from Judah. In Jerusalem the people of Judah recognise Rehoboam. In Shechem the Israelites, whose interests Solomon had subordinated to those of Judah, demand a charter. The crisis had long threatened.

c. The Hebr. inserts at the beginning 'And they sent and called Jeroboam and he came, he and all the assembly of Israel', a gloss omitted by the Greek and contradicted by v. 20.

The condemnation of the altar in Bethel

^{1 S 9:6}
^{Am 3:14} 13 There came to Bethel at Yahweh's command a man of God from Judah,¹ just as Jeroboam was standing by the altar to offer the sacrifice, •and at² Yahweh's command this man denounced the altar. 'Altar, altar,' he said
^{2 K 23:15-16} 'Yahweh says this, "A son shall be born to the House of David, Josiah by name, who shall immolate on you the priests of the high places who have offered sacrifice on you, and on you shall he burn the bones of men".'^a •At the same time he gave³ a sign. 'This is the sign' he said 'that Yahweh has spoken, "This altar here will burst apart and the ashes that are on it will be scattered".' •When the king⁴ heard how the man of God denounced the altar of Bethel, he stretched out his hand from the altar, saying, 'Seize him!' But the hand he stretched out against⁵ the man withered, and he could not draw it back, •and the altar burst apart⁶ and the ashes from the altar were scattered, in accordance with the sign given by the man of God at Yahweh's command. •The king said to the man of God, 'I beg⁷ you to placate Yahweh your God,^b and so restore me the use of my hand'. The man of God placated Yahweh; the king's hand was restored as it had been before. •The king then said to the man of God, 'Come home with me and refresh⁸ yourself, and I will give you a present'; •but the man of God answered the king,⁹ 'Were you to give me half your house, I would not go with you. I will eat and drink nothing here, •for I have had Yahweh's order: "You are to eat or drink⁹ nothing, nor to return by the way you came".' •And he left by another road and¹⁰ did not return by the way he had come to Bethel.

The man of God and the prophet^c

Now there was an old prophet living in Bethel and his sons came to tell him¹¹ all that the man of God had done in Bethel that day; and the words he had said to the king, they told these to their father too. •'Which road did he take?' their¹² father asked. His sons showed him^d the road that the man of God who came from Judah had taken. •'Saddle the donkey for me' he said to his sons; they saddled¹³ the donkey for him and he mounted. •He followed the man of God and found¹⁴ him sitting under a terebinth. 'Are you the man of God' he said 'who came from Judah?' 'I am' he replied. •'Come home with me' he said 'and take some food.'¹⁵ 'I cannot go back with you,' he answered 'or eat or drink anything here,^e •for¹⁶ I have received Yahweh's order: "You are to eat or drink nothing there, nor to return by the way you came".' •'I too am a prophet like you,' the other replied¹⁷ 'and an angel told me this by Yahweh's order: "Bring him back with you to your house to eat and drink".' He was lying to him.^f •The man of God went¹⁸ back with him; he ate and drank at his house.

^{20:36} As they were sitting at table a word of Yahweh came to the prophet who had brought him back, •and he addressed the man of God who came from Judah. •'Yahweh says this,' he said •"Since you have defied Yahweh's command and not obeyed the orders Yahweh your God gave you, •but have come back and²¹ eaten and drunk where he forbade you to eat or drink, your corpse will never reach the tomb of your ancestors".' •After he had eaten and drunk, the prophet²² saddled the donkey for him, and he turned about and went away.^g •A lion met²³ him on the road and killed him; his corpse lay stretched out on the road; the donkey stood there beside it; the lion stood by the corpse too. •People going²⁴ by saw the corpse lying on the road and the lion standing by the corpse, and went and spoke about it in the town where the old prophet lived. •When the prophet²⁵ who had made the man turn back heard about it, he said, 'That is the man of God who defied Yahweh's command! Yahweh has handed him over to the lion, which has mauled and killed him, just as Yahweh had foretold it would.' •He said²⁶ ²⁷

- 28 to his sons, 'Saddle the donkey for me', and they saddled it. •He set off and found the man's corpse lying on the road with the donkey and the lion standing beside the corpse; the lion had neither eaten the corpse nor mauled the donkey.
- 29 The prophet lifted the corpse of the man of God and put it on the donkey and brought it back to the town where he lived to hold mourning for him and bury him. •He laid the corpse in his own tomb, and they raised the mourning cry
- 31 for him, 'Alas, my brother!' •After burying him, the prophet said to his sons, 'When I die, bury me in the same tomb as the man of God, lay my bones beside his. •For the word he uttered at Yahweh's command against the altar of Bethel and against all the shrines of the high places in the towns of Samaria will certainly come true.'
- 33 Jeroboam did not give up his wicked ways after this incident, but went on appointing priests for the high places from the common people. He consecrated
- 34 as priests of the high places any who wished to be. •Such conduct made the House of Jeroboam a sinful House, and caused its ruin and extinction from the face of the earth.

Continuation of the reign of Jeroboam I (931-910)

- ¹
2 14 At that time Abijah, Jeroboam's son, fell sick, •and Jeroboam said to his wife, 'Come, please disguise yourself so that no one will recognise you as Jeroboam's wife, and go to Shiloh; the prophet Ahijah is there, the man who

- 4 Jeroboam's wife did this: she set out, went to Shiloh and came to Ahijah's house.
- 5 Now Ahijah could not see, his eyes were dimmed with age, •but Yahweh had told him, 'Jeroboam's wife is now on her way to ask you for an oracle about her son, as he is sick. You will tell her such and such. When she comes, she will pretend household will go to the tomb, for it is in him alone of the House of Jeroboam that anything pleasing to Yahweh, the God of Israel, is found. •Yahweh will raise up a king for himself over Israel to wipe out the House of Jeroboam.^d Yahweh will make Israel shake as a reed shakes in the water, he will uproot Israel from this prosperous land which he gave to their ancestors and scatter them beyond the river for provoking Yahweh to anger by making their sacred poles. •He will abandon Israel for the sins Jeroboam has committed and made Israel commit.^e •Jeroboam's wife rose and left. She arrived at Tirzah,^e and when she crossed the threshold of the house, the child was already dead. •They buried him, and all Israel mourned him, just as Yahweh had foretold through his servant Ahijah the prophet.

The rest of the history of Jeroboam, what wars he waged, how he governed, these may be found recorded in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Israel. Jeroboam's reign lasted twenty-two years; then he slept with his ancestors; his son Nadab succeeded him.

The reign of Rehoboam (931-913)

In Judah Rehoboam son of Solomon became king; he was forty-one years old when he came to the throne and he reigned for seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city which Yahweh had chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, to give his name a home there. His mother's name was Naamah, the Ammonitess. •He^f did what is displeasing to Yahweh, arousing his resentment more than his ancestors did by all the sins they committed, •they who had built themselves high places, and had set up pillars and sacred poles on every high hill and under every spreading tree. •There were even men in the country who were sacred prostitutes. He copied all the shameful practices of the nations whom Yahweh had dispossessed for the sons of Israel.

In the fifth year of Rehoboam, Shishak^g the king of Egypt marched on Jerusalem. •He took all the treasures from the Temple of Yahweh and the treasures from the royal palace, he took everything, including all the golden shields that Solomon had made; •in place of them King Rehoboam had bronze shields made, entrusting them to the care of the officers of the guard^h who guarded the king's palace gate. •Whenever the king went to the Temple of Yahweh, the guards would carry them, returning them to the guardroom afterwards.

The rest of the history of Rehoboam, his entire career, is not all this recorded in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Judah? •Rehoboam and Jeroboam were at war with each other throughout their reigns. •Then Rehoboam slept with his ancestors and was buried in the Citadel of David; his son Abijam succeeded him.ⁱ

The reign of Abijam in Judah (913-911)

15 In the eighteenth year of King Jeroboam son of Nebat, Abijam became king of Judah •and reigned for three years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Maacah, daughter of Absalom. •He followed the sinful example of his father before him in everything; his heart was not wholly with Yahweh his God, as the heart of David his ancestor had been. •However, for David's sake, Yahweh his God gave him a lamp in Jerusalem, assuring him sons^a after him and keeping Jerusalem secure; •for David had done what is right in the eyes of Yahweh and had never in all his life disobeyed whatever he ordered him.^b

The rest of the history of Abijam, his entire career, is not all this recorded in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Judah? Abijam and Jeroboam were at war with each other. •Then Abijam slept with his ancestors and they buried him in the Citadel of David; his son Asa succeeded him.

The reign of Asa in Judah (911-870)

In the twentieth year of Jeroboam king of Israel, Asa became king of Judah

- 10 and reigned for forty-one years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Maacah,
 11 daughter of Absalom. •Asa did what is right in the eyes of Yahweh, as his ||2 Ch 14:

 12 ancestor David had done. •He drove out of the country the men who had been 13 sacred prostitutes and cleared away all the idols his ancestors had made. •He 22:47
Dt 23:19+
 even deprived his grandmother of the dignity of queen mother for making an obscenity^c for Asherah; Asa cut down her obscenity and burned it in the wadi 14 Kidron. •Though the high places were not abolished, the heart of Asa was 15 wholly with Yahweh throughout his life. •He deposited the offerings dedicated by his father and his own offerings too, in the Temple of Yahweh, silver and gold and furnishings.
- 16 Asa and Baasha king of Israel were at war with each other as long as they ||2 Ch 16:

 17 lived. •Baasha king of Israel marched on Judah and fortified Ramah to blockade 18 Asa king of Judah. •Asa then took the remaining silver and gold from the treasuries of the Temple of Yahweh and the royal palace. Entrusting this to his servants, he sent them with the following message to Ben-hadad^d son of 19 Tabrimmon son of Hezion, the king of Aram who lived in Damascus, •'An alliance between myself and you, as between my father and your father! With Ho 5:13 this I send you a gift of silver and gold. Come, break off your alliance with 20 Baasha king of Israel, and he will have to retire from my territory.' •Ben-hadad agreed, and sent his generals against the towns of Israel; he conquered Ijon, Dan, Abel-beth-maacah, all Chinneroth,^e and the whole land of Naphtali too.
 21 When Baasha heard this he gave up fortifying Ramah and returned to Tirzah.
 22 King Asa then summoned the whole of Judah, no one was exempt; they took away the stones and timber with which Baasha had been fortifying Ramah, and with them the king fortified Geba of Benjamin and Mizpah.
- 23 The rest of the history of Asa, all his valour, his entire career,^f is not all this recorded in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Judah? In his old age, ||2 Ch 16:12

 24 however, he suffered from a disease of the feet. •Then Asa slept with his ancestors and was buried in the Citadel of David his ancestor; his son Jehoshaphat succeeded him.

The reign of Nadab in Israel (910-909)

- 25 Nadab son of Jeroboam became king of Israel in the second year of Asa king 26 of Judah, and he reigned over Israel for two years. •He did what is displeasing to Yahweh; he copied his father's example and the sin into which he had led 27 Israel. •Baasha son of Ahijah, of the House of Issachar, plotted against him

The reign of Baasha in Israel (909-889)

In the third year of Asa king of Judah, Baasha son of Ahijah became king³³ of Israel at Tirzah for twenty-four years. •He did what is displeasing to Yahweh;³⁴ he copied the example of Jeroboam and the sin into which he had led Israel.

^{14:7-11; 16:13} 16 The word of Yahweh came to Jehu son of Hanani against Baasha, •‘I raised¹ you from the dust and made you leader of my people Israel, but you have followed Jeroboam’s example and led my people Israel into sins that provoke² my anger. •Now I will sweep away Baasha and his House; I will make your³ House like the House of Jeroboam son of Nebat. •Those of Baasha’s family⁴ who die in the city, the dogs will eat; and those who die in the open country, the birds of the air will eat.’

The rest of the history of Baasha, his career, his valour, is not all this⁵ recorded in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Israel? •Then Baasha slept⁶ with his ancestors and was buried in Tirzah; his son Elah succeeded him.

^{Ho 5:13} Furthermore, the word of Yahweh was delivered through the prophet Jehu⁷ son of Hanani against Baasha and his House, firstly because of all the evil he did in the sight of Yahweh, provoking him to anger by his actions and becoming like the House of Jeroboam; secondly because he destroyed that House.^a

The reign of Elah in Israel (886-885)

In the twenty-sixth year of Asa king of Judah, Elah son of Baasha became⁸ king of Israel at Tirzah, for two years. •Zimri, one of his officers, captain of⁹ half his chariotry, plotted against him. While he was at Tirzah, drinking himself senseless in the house of Arza who was master of the palace in Tirzah, •Zimri¹⁰ came in, struck him down and killed him in the twenty-seventh year of Asa king of Judah, and succeeded him. •On his accession, as soon as he was seated¹¹ on the throne, he butchered Baasha’s entire family, not leaving him a single male, or any relations, or friends. •Zimri destroyed the whole House of Baasha,¹² in accordance with the word which Yahweh had spoken through the prophet Jehu, •because of all the sins of Baasha and his son Elah into which they¹³ had led Israel, provoking the anger of Yahweh, the God of Israel, with their useless idols.

The history of Elah, his entire career, is not all this recorded in the Book¹⁴ of the Annals of the Kings of Israel?

The reign of Zimri in Israel (885)

In the twenty-seventh year of Asa king of Judah, Zimri became king for¹⁵ seven days, in Tirzah. The people were then encamped in front of Gibbethon, a Philistine town. •When news reached the camp of how Zimri had not only¹⁶ plotted against but actually killed the king, all Israel proclaimed Omri, their general, king of Israel in the camp the same day. •Omri, and all Israel with him,¹⁷ raised the siege of Gibbethon and laid siege to Tirzah. •When Zimri saw that¹⁸ the town was captured, he went into the keep of the royal palace, burned the palace over his own head, and died. •This was because of the sin he¹⁹ committed by doing what is displeasing to Yahweh, by copying the example of Jeroboam and the sin into which he had led Israel.

The rest of the history of Zimri and the plot he hatched, is not all this²⁰ recorded in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Israel?

The people of Israel then split into two factions: one half following Tibni²¹ son of Ginath to make him king, the other half following Omri. •But the faction of Omri proved stronger than that of Tibni son of Ginath; Tibni died, and Omri became king.

The reign of Omri in Israel (885-874)^b

In the thirty-first year of Asa king of Judah, Omri became king of Israel and²³ reigned for twelve years. He reigned for six years in Tirzah. •Then for two²⁴ talents of silver he bought a hill^c from Shemer and on it built a town which 25 he named Samaria after Shemer who had owned the hill. •Omri did what is 26 displeasing to Yahweh, and was worse than all his predecessors. •In every way he copied the example of Jeroboam son of Nebat and the sins into which he had led Israel, provoking the anger of Yahweh, the God of Israel, with their useless idols.

27 The rest of the history of Omri, his career, his valour, is not all this recorded 28 in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Israel? •Then Omri slept with his ancestors and was buried in Samaria; his son Ahab succeeded him.

Introduction to the reign of Ahab (874-853)

29 Ahab son of Omri became king of Israel in the thirty-eighth year of Asa king 30 of Judah, and reigned over Israel for twenty-two years in Samaria. •Ahab son of Omri did what is displeasing to Yahweh, and was worse than all his prede- 21:25 31 cessors. •The least that he did was to follow the sinful example of Jeroboam 2 K 23:15 son of Nebat: he married Jezebel, the daughter of Ethbaal king of the Sidonians,^d 32 and then proceeded to serve Baal and worship him. •He erected an altar to him
 33 in the temple of Baal which he built in Samaria. •Ahab also put up a sacred Ex 34:13 + pole and committed other crimes as well, provoking the anger of Yahweh, the 2 K 10:21
 God of Israel, more than all the kings of Israel who were his predecessors. 2 K 21:3 34 It was in his time that Hiel of Bethel rebuilt Jericho; he laid its foundations Lv 18:21 + at the price of Abiram, his first-born; its gates he erected at the price of his Jos 6:26 youngest son Segub,^e just as Yahweh had foretold through Joshua son of Nun.

V. THE ELIJAH CYCLE

A. THE GREAT DROUGHT

Elijah foretells the drought

1 17 Elijah the Tishbite, of Tishbe in Gilead,^a said to Ahab, 'As Yahweh lives, Si 48:2
 the God of Israel whom I serve, there shall be neither dew nor rain these Lk 4:25 years except at my order'.

At the wadi Cherith

2 The word of Yahweh came to him, •'Go away from here, go eastwards, and 3 hide yourself in the wadi Cherith which lies east of Jordan. •You can drink
 4 from the stream, and I have ordered the ravens to bring you food there.' •He did
 5 as Yahweh had said; he went and stayed in the wadi Cherith which lies east
 6 of Jordan. •The ravens brought him bread in the morning and meat in the Ex 16:8,12 evening,^b and he quenched his thirst at the stream.

At Zarephath. The miracle of the flour and the oil

2 K 4:1-7

7 But after a while the stream dried up, for the country had no rain. •And then
 8 the word of Yahweh came to him, •'Up and go to Zarephath, a Sidonian town, Lk 4:25-26 9 and stay there. I have ordered a widow there to give you food.' •So he went 10

16 a. The whole verse is an addition repeating vv. 1-4 and offering a second reason for Baasha's punishment, and not consistent with the spirit of the book.

b. Omri was without doubt a great ruler, but the Books of Kings, concerned with the kingdom of Israel exclusively from the religious point of view, mentions only the founding of Samaria which was to remain the capital until the kingdom finally collapsed.

c. The text adds 'Samaria'.

d. 'The least' Greek. Ethbaal (Ittobaal in the Greek) was a priest of Astarte who seized power in Tyre at the same time as Omri in Israel; the two usurpers came to terms and sealed their alliance by a family marriage. The effects on the religion of Israel of this association with the Philistines were to be increasingly felt throughout the reign of Ahab.

e. His two sons were slaughtered as a foundation sacrifice.

17 a. 'of Tishbe' Greek. The document dealing with the history of Elijah, of which use now begins to be made (cf. Introduction to Joshua etc.) probably recounted the earlier life of the prophet, but our author takes it up at the point where it fits into his own narrative: the drought is presented as a punishment for the introduction of the cult of Baal, 16:32-33.

b. Translation following Greek.

off to Sidon. And when he reached the city gate, there was a widow gathering sticks; addressing her he said, 'Please bring a little water in a vessel for me to drink'. •She was setting off to bring it when he called after her. 'Please' he said 11
 'bring me a scrap of bread in your hand.' •'As Yahweh your God lives,' she 12 replied 'I have no baked bread, but only a handful of meal in a jar and a little oil in a jug; I am just gathering a stick or two to go and prepare this for myself and my son to eat, and then we shall die.' •But Elijah said to her, 'Do not be afraid, 13 go and do as you have said; but first make a little scone of it for me and bring it to me, and then make some for yourself and for your son. •For thus Yahweh 14 speaks, the God of Israel:

"Jar of meal shall not be spent,
 jug of oil shall not be emptied, before the day when Yahweh sends rain on the face of the earth".'

The woman went and did as Elijah told her and they ate the food, she, himself 15 and her son.^c •The jar of meal was not spent nor the jug of oil emptied, just as 16 Yahweh had foretold through Elijah.

^{2 K 4:18-37} ^{1 K 17:11-17} The widow's son raised to life

It happened after this that the son of the mistress of the house fell sick; 17 his illness was so severe that in the end he had no breath left in him. •And the 18 woman said to Elijah, 'What quarrel have you with me, man of God? Have you come here to bring my sins home to me and to kill my son?'^d •'Give me your son' 19 he said, and taking him from her lap, carried him to the upper room where he was staying and laid him on his own bed. •He cried out to Yahweh, 'Yahweh 20
 my God, do you mean to bring grief to the widow who is looking after me by killing her son?' •He stretched himself on the child three times and cried out to 21
 Yahweh, 'Yahweh my God, may the soul of this child, I beg you, come into him again!' •Yahweh heard the prayer of Elijah and the soul of the child 22 returned to him again and he revived. •Elijah took the child, brought him down 23 from the upper room into the house, and gave him to his mother. 'Look,' Elijah 24 said 'your son is alive.' •And the woman replied, 'Now I know you are a man of God and the word of Yahweh in your mouth is truth itself'.

18:17 Elijah and Obadiah

^{Lk 4:25}
^{Jm 5:17} 18 A long time went by, and the word of Yahweh came to Elijah in the third 1 year. 'Go, present yourself to Ahab; I am about to send down rain on the 2 land'. •So Elijah set off to present himself to Ahab.

As the famine was particularly severe in Samaria, •Ahab summoned Obadiah, 3 the master of the palace—Obadiah held Yahweh in great reverence: •when 4 Jezebel was butchering the prophets of Yahweh, Obadiah took a hundred of them and hid them, fifty at a time, in a cave, and kept them provided with food and water^e—•and Ahab said to Obadiah, 'Come along, we must scour the 5 country, all the springs and all the wadis in the hope of finding grass to keep horses and mules alive, or we shall have to slaughter some of our stock'. •They 6 divided the country for the purpose of their survey; Ahab went one way by himself and Obadiah went another way by himself. •While Obadiah was on his 7 way, whom should he meet but Elijah; recognising him he fell on his face and said, 'So it is you, my lord Elijah!' •'Yes,' he replied 'go and tell your master, 8
 "Elijah is here"'. •But Obadiah said, 'What sin have I committed, for you to 9 put your servant in Ahab's power and cause my death? •As Yahweh your God 10 lives, there is no nation or kingdom where my master has not sent in search of you; and when they said, "He is not there", he made the kingdom or nation swear on oath that they did not know where you were. •And now you say to me, 11
 "Go and tell your master: Elijah is here". •But as soon as I leave you, the spirit 12 of Yahweh will carry you away and I shall not know where;^b I shall come and tell Ahab; he will not be able to find you, and will kill me. Yet from his youth 13 your servant has revered Yahweh. •Has no one told my lord what I did when Jezebel butchered the prophets of Yahweh, how I hid a hundred of them in 14 a cave, fifty at a time, and kept them provided with food and water? •And now you say to me, "Go and tell your master: Elijah is here". Why, he will kill me!

 15 Elijah replied, 'As Yahweh Sabaoth lives, whom I serve, I shall present myself before him today!' 1 S 1:3+
2 K 3:14

Elijah and Ahab

16 Obadiah went to find Ahab and tell him the news, and Ahab then went to 17 find Elijah. •When he saw Elijah, Ahab said, 'So there you are, you scourge of 18 Israel!' •'Not I,' he replied 'I am not the scourge of Israel, you and your family 19 are; because you have deserted Yahweh^c and gone after the Baals. •Now give Jg 2:13+ orders for all Israel to gather round me on Mount Carmel, and also the four hundred prophets of Baal^d who eat at Jezebel's table.'

The sacrifice on Carmel

20 Ahab called all Israel together and assembled the prophets on Mount 21 Carmel. •Elijah stepped out in front of all the people. 'How long' he said
 22 'do you mean to hobble first on one leg^e then on the other? If Yahweh is God, 23 follow him; if Baal, follow him.' But the people never said a word. •Elijah
 24 then said to them, 'I, I alone, am left as a prophet of Yahweh, while the prophets 25 of Baal are four hundred and fifty. •Let two bulls be given us; let them choose one for themselves, dismember it and lay it on the wood, but not set 26 fire to it. I in my turn will prepare the other bull, but not set fire to it. •You must call on the name of your god, and I shall call on the name of mine; the god who answers with fire, is God indeed.'^f The people all answered, 'Agreed!'
 27 Elijah then said to the prophets of Baal, 'Choose one bull and begin, for there Ho 11:7 28 are more of you. Call on the name of your god but light no fire.' •They took the bull and prepared it, and from morning to midday they called on the name 29 of Baal. 'O Baal, answer us!' they cried, but there was no voice, no answer, 30 as they performed their hobbling dance round the altar they had made. •Midday came, and Elijah mocked them. 'Call louder,' he said 'for he is a god: he is 31 preoccupied or he is busy, or he has gone on a journey; perhaps he is asleep and will wake up.' •So they shouted louder and gashed themselves, as their 2 S 6:13 custom was, with swords and spears until the blood flowed down them. •Midday passed, and they ranted on until the time the offering is presented;^g but there was no voice, no answer, no attention given to them. Zc 13:6 30 Then Elijah said to all the people, 'Come closer to me', and all the people came closer to him. He repaired the altar of Yahweh which had been broken 31 down. •Elijah took twelve stones, corresponding to the number of the tribes of the sons of Jacob, to whom the word of Yahweh had come, 'Israel shall be 18:36

c. 'and her son' corr., cf. vv. 12-13.

d. The woman attributes her misfortune to Elijah's visit: a man of God is like a hostile witness, at his presence secret or unconscious sins are brought to light and draw down retribution.

18 a. The parenthesis prepares for v. 13. On these 'prophets' cf. 1 S 10:5+; they play a prominent part in the Elisha cycle.

b. These sudden disappearances seem to have been a feature of the story of Elijah, 2 K 2:16, until the last disappearance of all, 2 K 2:11f. The spirit of Yahweh is an external force which carries the prophet from place to place, cf. Ezk 3:12; 8:3; 11:1; 43:5; Ac 8:39.

c. 'Yahweh' Greek; 'the commandments of Yahweh' Hebr.

d. A gloss adds 'and the four hundred prophets of Asherah'. There were many such 'prophets' among the peoples contiguous to Israel, Jr 27:3,9f; they formed numerous groups, like the prophets of Yahweh, 18:4. Here they are the devotees of the Tyrian Baal, invited into Israel and maintained by Jezebel.

e. The meaning of the last word is uncertain but the translation (cf. Greek) accords with the performance in v. 26: the Israelites dance in honour both of Yahweh and of Baal.

f. It is not merely a matter of deciding whether Yahweh or Baal is lord of the mountain or which is the stronger, but simply which is God. Elijah's own statement, his prayer, v. 37, and the people's acclamation, v. 39, make this clear: monotheism itself is at stake here.

g. The mention of the evening sacrifice, Ex 29:39; Nb 28:4; 2 K 16:15, is merely an indication of the time of day.

your name', •and built an altar in the name of Yahweh.^h Round the altar he 32 dug a trench of a size to hold two measures of seed. •He then arranged the 33 wood, dismembered the bull, and laid it on the wood. •Then he said, 'Fill four 34 jars with water and pour it on the holocaust and on the wood'; this they did.
He said, 'Do it a second time'; they did it a second time. He said, 'Do it a third time'; they did it a third time. •The water flowed round the altar and the trench 35 itself was full of water.ⁱ •At the time when the offering is presented, Elijah 36 the prophet stepped forward. 'Yahweh, God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel,' he said 'let them know today that you are God in Israel, and that I am your servant, that I have done all these things at your command. •Answer me, 37 Yahweh, answer me, so that this people may know that you, Yahweh, are God and are winning back their hearts.'^j

Then the fire of Yahweh fell and consumed the holocaust and wood^k and 38 licked up the water in the trench. •When all the people saw this they fell on their 39 faces. 'Yahweh is God,' they cried 'Yahweh is God.' •Elijah said, 'Seize the 40 prophets of Baal: do not let one of them escape'. They seized them, and Elijah took them down to the wadi Kishon, and he slaughtered them there.^l

The drought ends

Elijah said to Ahab, 'Go back, eat and drink;^m for I hear the sound of rain'. 41
While Ahab went back to eat and drink, Elijah climbed to the top of Carmel 42 and bowed down to the earth, putting his face between his knees. •'Now go up,' 43 he told his servant 'and look out to the sea.' He went up and looked. 'There is nothing at all' he said. 'Go back seven times' Elijah said. •The seventh time, 44 the servant said, 'Now there is a cloud, small as a man's hand, rising from the sea'. Elijah said, 'Go and say to Ahab, "Harness the chariot and go down before the rain stops you"'. •And with that the sky grew dark with cloud and 45 storm, and rain fell in torrents. Ahab mounted his chariot and made for Jezreel.ⁿ
The hand of Yahweh was on Elijah, and tucking up his cloak he ran in front of 46
Ahab as far as the outskirts of Jezreel.

B. ELIJAH AT HOREB

The journey to Horeb

19 When Ahab told Jezebel all that Elijah had done, and how he had put 1 all the prophets to the sword, •Jezebel sent a messenger to Elijah to say, 2
'May the gods do this to me and more, if by this time tomorrow I have not made your life like the life of one of them!' •He was afraid^a and fled for his 3 life. He came to Beersheba, a town of Judah, where he left his servant. •He 4 himself went on into the wilderness, a day's journey, and sitting under a furze bush wished he were dead. 'Yahweh,' he said 'I have had enough. Take my life;
I am no better than my ancestors.' •Then he lay down and went to sleep. But an 5 angel touched him and said, 'Get up and eat'. •He looked round, and there at 6 his head was a scone baked on hot stones, and a jar of water. He ate and drank and then lay down again. •But the angel of Yahweh came back a second time 7 and touched him and said, 'Get up and eat, or the journey will be too long for you'. •So he got up and ate and drank, and strengthened by that food he walked 8 for forty days and forty nights until he reached Horeb, the mountain of God.^b

The encounter with God

There he went into the cave^c and spent the night in it. Then the word of 9
Yahweh came to him saying, 'What are you doing here, Elijah?' •He replied, 10
'I am filled with jealous zeal for Yahweh Sabaoth, because the sons of Israel have deserted you, broken down your altars and put your prophets to the sword.
I am the only one left, and they want to kill me.'^d •Then he was told, 'Go out 11

- and stand on the mountain before Yahweh'. Then Yahweh himself went by. There came a mighty wind, so strong it tore the mountains and shattered the rocks before Yahweh. But Yahweh was not in the wind. After the wind came an earthquake. But Yahweh was not in the earthquake. •After the earthquake came a fire. But Yahweh was not in the fire. And after the fire there came the sound of a gentle breeze.^e •And when Elijah heard this, he covered his face with his cloak and went out and stood at the entrance of the cave. Then a voice came to him, which said, 'What are you doing here, Elijah?' •He replied, 'I am filled with jealous zeal for Yahweh Sabaoth, because the sons of Israel have deserted you, broken down your altars and put your prophets to the sword. I am the only one left and they want to kill me.'
- 15 'Go,' Yahweh said 'go back by the same way to the wilderness of Damascus. 16 You are to go and anoint Hazael as king of Aram. •You are to anoint Jehu son of Nimshi as king of Israel,^f and to anoint^g Elisha son of Shaphat, of Abel Meholah, as prophet to succeed you. •Anyone who escapes the sword of Hazael will be put to death by Jehu; and anyone who escapes the sword of Jehu will be put to death by Elisha. •But I shall spare seven thousand in Israel: all the knees that have not bent before Baal, all the mouths that have not kissed him.'

i. This is not rain-making magic but a way of enhancing the fire miracle.

j. The miracle will demonstrate: 1. to the prophets of Baal and to Jezebel's entourage of foreigners ('let them know', v. 36) that there is no place for them in Israel where Yahweh is God; and 2. to the Israelites ('this people', v. 37) that Yahweh is the only God, the God who wins back wayward hearts.

b. Cf. Ex 19:1+. Zealous to maintain the covenant and restore the ancient faith, Elijah visits the place where the true God revealed himself, Ex 3 and 33:18-34:9, and where the covenant had been concluded, Ex 19 and 24; he sees his own task as that of continuing the work of Moses. Moses and Elijah have in common a theophany at Horeb; both also witness the N.T. theophany, Christ's transfiguration, Mt 17:1-9p.

e. The storm, earthquake, and lightning, which in Ex 19 manifested God's presence, are here only the heralds of his coming. The whisper of a light breeze signifies that God is a spirit and that he converses intimately with his prophets; it does not mean that God's dealings are gentle and unperceived—this common interpretation is refuted by the terrible commission of vv. 16-17.

f. These tasks were in fact later performed by Elisha.

g. Anointing, Ex 30:24+, was reserved for kings. 1 K 1:34; parallelism explains the use of the word here.

Do not consent'. •So he gave this answer 9 to Ben-hadad's messengers, 'Say to my lord the king, "All you first required of your servant I will do, but this I cannot do"'. And the messengers went back with the answer.

Rt1:17+ Ben-hadad then sent him the following message, 'May the gods do this to 10 me and more if there are enough handfuls of rubble in Samaria for all the people in my following'. •But the king of Israel returned this answer, 'The proverb^g 11 says: The man who puts on his armour is not the one who can boast, but the man who takes it off'. •When Ben-hadad heard this message—he was under the 12 awnings drinking with the kings—he gave orders to his servants, 'Take post!' And they took up their positions against the city.

Victory for Israel

22:5 A prophet then arrived, looking for Ahab king of Israel. 'Yahweh says 13 this' he said. 'You have seen this mighty army? This very day I will deliver it into your hands, and you shall know that I am Yahweh.' •'By whose means?' 14 asked Ahab. The prophet replied, 'Yahweh says this, "By means of the young soldiers of the district governors"'. •'Who is to open the attack?' Ahab asked. •'Yourself' the prophet answered.^h

So Ahab inspected the young soldiers of the district governors: there were 15 two hundred and thirty-two. After these he reviewed the whole army, all the Israelites: there were seven thousand. •They made a sortie at midday, when 16 Ben-hadad was drinking himself senseless under the awnings, he and the thirty-two kings who were his allies. •The young soldiers of the district governors led 17 the sortie. Ben-hadad was informed, 'Some men have come out of Samaria'. He said, 'If they have come out for peace, take them alive; if they have come 18 out for war, take them alive too'. •So they made a sortie from the town, the 19 young soldiers of the district governors and behind them the army, •and each 20 struck down his man. Aram took to flight and Israel pursued; Ben-hadad king 21 of Aram escaped on a chariot horse. •Then the king of Israel came out, capturing 21 horses and chariots and inflicting a great defeat on Aram.

Respite

The prophet went up to the king of Israel. 'Come,' he said to him 'take 22 courage and think carefully what you should do, for at the turn of the yearⁱ the king of Aram will march against you.'

Jdt 7:10 The servants of the king of Aram said to him, 'Their god is a god of the 23 mountains; that is why they have proved stronger than us. But if we fight them on level ground, we will certainly beat them. •This is what you must do: remove all 24 these kings from their posts and appoint commanders instead. •You, for your 25 part, must recruit an army as large as the one that deserted you, with as many horses and as many chariots; then if we fight them on level ground, we will certainly beat them.' He listened to their advice and acted accordingly.

The victory of Aphek

At the turn of the year, Ben-hadad mustered the Aramaeans and went up 26

27 to Aphek to fight Israel. •The Israelites had also mustered, and marched out to meet them. Encamped opposite them, the Israelites looked like two herds of goats, whereas the Aramaeans filled the countryside.

28 The man of God^d accosted the king of Israel. 'Yahweh says this' he said. '“Since Aram has said that Yahweh is a god of the mountains and not a god of the plains, I will put all this mighty host into your power, and you shall know that I am Yahweh.”' •For seven days they were encamped opposite each other. On the seventh day battle was joined and the Israelites slaughtered the 29 Aramaeans, a hundred thousand foot soldiers^k in one day. •The rest fled to Aphek, into the town itself, but the walls fell down on the twenty-seven thousand who remained.

Jdt 7:10

Now Ben-hadad had fled and taken refuge within the town in an inner room. 31 'Look,' his servants said to him 'we have heard that the kings of Israel are merciful kings. Let us put sackcloth round our waists and ropes on our heads' 32 and go out to the king of Israel; perhaps he will spare your life.' •So they wrapped sackcloth round their waists and put ropes on their heads and went to the king of Israel, and said, 'Your servant Ben-hadad says, "Spare my life"'. 33 'So he is still alive?' he answered. 'He is my brother.'^m •The men took this for a good omen and quickly seized on his words. 'Yes,' they said 'Ben-hadad is your brother.' Ahab said, 'Go and fetch him'. Then Ben-hadad came out to 34 him and Ahab made him get up into his chariot. •Ben-hadad said, 'I will restore the towns my father took from your father and you may set up bazaars for yourself in Damascus as my father did in Samaria. Myself, by the terms of this treaty, you will set free.'ⁿ So Ahab made a treaty with him and let him go free.

2 K 6:30

A prophet condemns Ahab's policy

35 At Yahweh's order a member of the brotherhood of prophets said to 2K2:3+ a companion of his, 'Strike me', but the man refused to strike him. •So he said 36 to him, 'Since you have disobeyed the order of Yahweh, the very moment you leave me a lion will kill you'. And no sooner had he left him than he met 37 a lion, which killed him.^o •The prophet then went to find another man and said, 38 'Strike me', and the man struck him and wounded him.^p •The prophet then 2S12:1-12; 14:1-20 went and stood waiting for the king on the road, disguising himself with his 39 headband over his eyes. •As the king passed, he called out to him, 'Your servant was making his way to where the fight was thickest when someone left the fighting to bring a man to me, and said, "Guard this man; if he is found missing, your life will pay for his, or else you will have to pay one talent of 40 silver"'. •But while your servant was busy with one thing and another, the man disappeared.' The king of Israel said, 'That is your sentence, then. You have 41 pronounced it yourself.' •At this the man quickly pulled off the headband covering his eyes, and the king of Israel recognised him as one of the prophets.^q 42 He said to the king, 'Yahweh says this, "Since you have let the man escape who was under my ban, your life will pay for his, your people for his people"'.

D. NABOTH'S VINEYARD

2 K 9:7,25 Naboth refuses to hand over his vineyard

1 S 8:14 21 This is what happened next: Naboth of Jezreel had a vineyard close by 1 the palace of Ahab^a king of Samaria, •and Ahab said to Naboth, 'Give 2 me your vineyard to be my vegetable garden, since it adjoins my house; I will give you a better vineyard for it or, if you prefer, I will give you its worth in 21:4 money'. •But Naboth answered Ahab, 'Yahweh forbid that I should give you 3 the inheritance of my ancestors!'

Ahab and Jezebel

Ahab went home gloomy and out of temper at the words of Naboth of 4 21:3 Jezreel, 'I will not give you the inheritance of my fathers'. He lay down on his bed and turned his face away and refused to eat. •His wife Jezebel came to 5
him. 'Why are you so dispirited' she said 'that you will not eat?' •He said, 6
'I have been speaking to Naboth of Jezreel; I said: Give me your vineyard either for money or, if you prefer, for another vineyard in exchange. But he said, "I will not give you my vineyard".' •Then his wife Jezebel said, 'You make 7 a fine king of Israel, and no mistake! Get up and eat; cheer up, and you will feel better; I will get you the vineyard of Naboth of Jezreel myself.'

Naboth is murdered

So she wrote letters in Ahab's name and sealed them with his seal, sending 8 them to the elders and nobles who lived where Naboth lived. •In the letters 9 2 Ch20:4 she wrote, 'Proclaim a fast, and put Naboth in the forefront of the people.^b Confront him with a couple of scoundrels^c who will accuse him like this, "You 10
Ex 22:27
Lv 24:14 have cursed God and the king" Then take him outside and stone him to death.'^d

The men of Naboth's town, the elders and nobles who lived in his town, 11 did what Jezebel ordered, what was written in the letters she had sent them.
They proclaimed a fast and put Naboth in the forefront of the people. •Then 12
the two scoundrels came and stood in front of him and made their accusation, 13
'Naboth has cursed God and the king'. They led him outside the town and stoned him to death. •They then sent word to Jezebel, 'Naboth has been stoned 14 to death'. •When Jezebel heard that Naboth had been stoned to death, she said 15 to Ahab, 'Get up! Take possession of the vineyard which Naboth of Jezreel would not give you for money, for Naboth is no longer alive, he is dead.' •When Ahab 16 heard that Naboth was dead, he got up to go down to the vineyard of Naboth of Jezreel and take possession of it.

2 S 12 Elijah pronounces God's sentence^e

Si 48:6 Then the word of Yahweh came to Elijah the Tishbite, •'Up! Go down to 17 meet Ahab king of Israel, in Samaria. You will find him in Naboth's vineyard;
he has gone down to take possession of it. •You are to say this to him, 18
"Yahweh says this: You have committed murder; now you usurp as well. For 19
2K9:25-26
Ps 68:23 this^f —and Yahweh says this—in the place where the dogs licked the blood of Naboth, the dogs will lick your blood too." ' •Ahab said to Elijah, 'So you have 20 found me out, O my enemy!' Elijah answered, 'I have found you out. For your double dealing, and since you have done what is displeasing to Yahweh, •I will 21 14:10-11;
16:3-4
2 K 9:8;
10:10 now bring disaster down on you; I will sweep away your descendants, and wipe out every male belonging to the family of Ahab, fettered or free in Israel.
I will treat your House as I treated the House of Jeroboam son of Nebat and 22 of Baasha son of Ahijah, for provoking my anger and leading Israel into sin.

- 23 (Against Jezebel too Yahweh spoke these words: The dogs will eat Jezebel in 2 K 9:10,36 24 the Field of Jezreel.) •Those of Ahab's family who die in the city, the dogs 14:11 will eat; and those who die in the open country, the birds of the air will eat.'
 25 And indeed there never was anyone like Ahab for double dealing and for 16:30-34
 26 doing what is displeasing to Yahweh, urged on by Jezebel his wife. •He behaved 11:4 in the most abominable way, adhering to idols, just as the Amorites used to Gn 3:12 do whom Yahweh had dispossessed for the sons of Israel. 2 K 21:11

Ahab repents

- 27 When Ahab heard these words, he tore his garments and put sackcloth next 2 S 12:16
 28 his skin and fasted; he slept in the sackcloth; he walked with slow steps. •Then 2 K 6:30
 29 the word of Yahweh came to Elijah the Tishbite, •'Have you seen how Ahab has humbled himself before me? Since he has humbled himself before me, I will 2S 12:13-15 not bring the disaster in his days; I will bring the disaster down on his House 2 K 9-10 in the days of his son.'

E. ANOTHER WAR WITH ARAM

Ahab plans a campaign against Ramoth-gilead

||2 Ch 18:1-3

- 1 22 There was a lull of three years, with no fighting between Aram and Israel.
 2 Then, in the third year, Jehoshaphat king of Judah paid a visit to the 3 king of Israel.^a •The king of Israel said to his officers, 'You are aware that Ramoth-gilead belongs to us? And yet we do nothing to wrest it away from 4 the king of Aram.'^b •He said to Jehoshaphat, 'Will you come with me to fight 2 K 3:7; at Ramoth-gilead?' Jehoshaphat answered the king of Israel, 'I am as ready as 8:28;9:14 you, my men as your men, my horses as your horses'.

The spurious prophets predict success

||2 Ch 18:4-11

- 5 Jehoshaphat, however, said to the king of Israel, 'First, please consult the 20:13-14+ 6 word of Yahweh'. •So the king of Israel called the prophets together, about four hundred of them.^c 'Should I march to attack Ramoth-gilead' he asked 'or should I refrain?' 'March,' they replied 'Yahweh will deliver it into the power
 7 of the king.' •But Jehoshaphat said, 'Is there no other prophet of Yahweh here 2 K 3:7 8 for us to consult?' •The king of Israel answered Jehoshaphat, 'There is one more man through whom we can consult Yahweh, but I hate him because he never has a favourable prophecy for me, only unfavourable ones; he is Micaiah son 9 of Imlah'.^d 'The king should not say such things' Jehoshaphat said. •Accordingly the king of Israel summoned one of the eunuchs and said, 'Bring Micaiah son of Imlah immediately'.
 10 The king of Israel and Jehoshaphat king of Judah were both sitting on their thrones in full regalia, at the threshing-floor outside the gate of Samaria, with 21 a. His palace in Jezreel, 1 K 18:45, not the one in Samaria, 2 K 9:25-26.

b. In times of disaster, public fasting and public prayer were proclaimed, Jg 20:26; Jl 1:14; 2:15, etc., to placate God and to discover the fault that had provoked his anger. There must have been some widespread calamity (drought? famine?) to give Jezebel an opportunity for her plot.

c. For capital trial two witnesses were required, Nb 35:30; Dt 17:6; cf. Mt 26:60f. The Hebr. has substituted 'blessed' for 'cursed' as in v. 13, so also Jb 1:5,11; 2:5,9.

d. Apparently the possessions of those condemned to death reverted to the king.

e. Note the similarity with the episode of Nathan and David in 2 S 12: on each occasion Yahweh defends the helpless against the powerful and there is the same reprieve for the repentant offender who is punished only through his son. But there are differences, too: David's dynasty retains the divine promise, whereas Ahab's is 'swept away'; Nathan remains David's prophet and blesses Solomon, but Elijah is Ahab's 'enemy'.

f. 'For this' Greek.

22 a. The two kingdoms had drawn closer together: Jehoshaphat's son Jehoram had married Athaliah, sister of Ahab, 2 K 8:18.

b. Probably still Ben-hadad II, cf. 20:1. The town, captured by the Arameans during or before the reign of David, had not been handed back after the treaty of Aphek, 20:34. See also 2 K 8:28.

c. These 'prophets' were in the king's service and were not pure Yahwists, unlike the prophets slain by Jezebel, 18:4,13;19:4. Hence Jehoshaphat's question, v. 7.

d. Not the Micaiah ('Micah') numbered among the twelve 'minor prophets', who lived a century-and-a-half later.

all the prophets raving in front of them. •Zedekiah son of Chenaanah had 11 made himself iron horns.^c 'Yahweh says this' he said. "With these you will gore the Aramaeans till you make an end of them." •And all the prophets 12 prophesied the same. 'March to Ramoth-gilead' they said 'and conquer. Yahweh will deliver it into the power of the king.'

112 Ch 18: 12-27 The prophet Micaiah predicts defeat

The messenger who had gone to summon Micaiah said, 'Here are all the 13 prophets as one man speaking favourably to the king. Try to speak like one of them and foretell success.' •But Micaiah answered, 'As Yahweh lives, what 14 Yahweh says to me, that will I utter!' •When he came to the king, the king said, 15
'Micaiah, should we march to attack Ramoth-gilead, or should we refrain?' He answered, 'March and conquer. Yahweh will deliver it into the power of the king.'^f •But the king said, 'How often must I put you on oath to tell me nothing 16 but the truth in the name of Yahweh?' •Then Micaiah spoke: 17

Na3:17b 'I have seen all Israel scattered on the mountains like sheep without a shepherd.
22:25-36 And Yahweh said, "These have no master, Nb27:18 let each go home unmolested".'

22:36 At this the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, 'Did I not tell you that he never 18 gives me favourable prophecies, but only unfavourable ones?' •Micaiah went 19 on, 'Listen rather to the word of Yahweh. I have seen Yahweh seated on his throne; all the array of heaven^g stood in his presence, on his right and on his left.
Yahweh said, "Who will trick Ahab into marching to his death at Ramoth- 20 gilead?" At which some answered one way, and some another. •Then the spirit^h 21 came forward and stood before Yahweh. "I," he said "I will trick him." "How?"
Yahweh asked. •He replied, "I will go and become a lying spirit in the mouths 22 of all his prophets". "You shall trick him," Yahweh said "you shall succeed.
Jg 9:23 Go and do it." •Now see how Yahweh has put a lying spirit into the mouths 23 of all your prophets here. But Yahweh has pronounced disaster on you.'

Then Zedekiah son of Chenaanah came up and struck Micaiah on the jaw. 24
Jb 26:4 'Which way' he asked 'did the spirit of Yahweh leave me, to talk to you?' •'That 25 is what you will find out,' Micaiah retorted 'the day you flee to an inner room to hide.' •The king of Israel said, 'Seize Micaiah and hand him over to Amon, 26 governor of the city, and to Prince Joash, •and say, "These are the king's orders: 27 Put this man in prison and feed him on nothing but bread and water until I come back safe and sound"'. •Micaiah said, 'If you come back safe and sound, Yahweh 28 has not spoken through me'.ⁱ

112 Ch 18: 28-34 Ahab falls at Ramoth-gilead

The king of Israel and Jehoshaphat king of Judah went up against Ramoth- 29 gilead. •The king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, 'I will disguise myself to go' 30 into battle, but I want you to wear your royal uniform'. The king of Israel went into battle disguised. •The king of Aram had given his chariot commanders^k the 31 following order: 'Do not attack anyone of whatever rank, except the king of Israel'. •When the chariot commanders caught sight of Jehoshaphat, they said, 32
'That is obviously the king of Israel'. And they wheeled to the attack. But Jehoshaphat shouted his war cry •and the chariot commanders, realising that 33 he was not the king of Israel, called off their pursuit.

Now one of the men, drawing his bow at random, hit the king of Israel 34 between the corslet and the scale-armour of his breastplate. 'Turn about' the king said to his charioteer. 'Get me out of the battle;'^l I have been hurt.' •But 35
the battle grew fiercer as the day went on; the king was held upright in his chariot facing the Aramaeans, and in the evening he died; the blood from the wound flowed into the bottom of the chariot. •At sundown a shout ran through the 36

- 37 camp, 'Every man back to his town, every man back to his country; •the king 22:17 38 is dead!' ^m They went to Samaria, and in Samaria they buried the king. •They Ps 68:23 washed the chariotⁿ at the Pool of Samaria; the dogs licked up the blood, and the prostitutes washed in it, in accordance with the word that Yahweh had spoken.

F. AFTER THE DEATH OF AHAB

The end of the reign of Ahab

- 39 The rest of the history of Ahab, his entire career, the ivory house he erected, Am 3:15
 all the towns he built, is not all this recorded in the Book of the Annals of the 40 Kings of Israel? •Then Ahab slept with his ancestors; his son Ahaziah succeeded him.

The reign of Jehoshaphat in Judah (870-848)

112 Ch 20:
31-21:1

- 41 Jehoshaphat son of Asa became king of Judah in the fourth year of Ahab 42 king of Israel. •Jehoshaphat was thirty-five years old when he came to the throne, and he reigned for twenty-five years in Jerusalem. His mother's name 43 was Azubah, daughter of Shilhi. •In every way he followed the example of his 15:12
 44 father Asa undeviatingly, doing what is right in the eyes of Yahweh. •The high Dt 23:19+ places, however, were not abolished; the people still offered sacrifice and incense 45 on the high places. •Jehoshaphat was at peace with the king of Israel. 9:26-28;
 10:22
 46 The rest of the history of Jehoshaphat, the valour he showed, the wars he waged, is not all this recorded in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Judah?
 47 The remaining male sacred prostitutes of those who had lived in the time of his 48 father Asa, he swept out of the country. •There was no king in Edom,^o •and 49 King Jehoshaphat built a ship^p of Tarshish to go to Ophir for gold, but his ship 50 never reached there: it was wrecked at Ezion-geber. •Then Ahaziah son of Ahab said to Jehoshaphat, 'Let my men man the ships with yours'. But 51 Jehoshaphat would not agree. •Then Jehoshaphat slept with his ancestors and was buried in the Citadel of David, his ancestor; his son Jehoram succeeded him.

King Ahaziah of Israel and the prophet Elijah (853-852)

- 52 Ahaziah son of Ahab became king of Israel in Samaria in the seventeenth 53 year of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, and reigned over Israel for two years. •He did what is displeasing to Yahweh, by following the example of his father and 54 mother, and of Jeroboam son of Nebat who had led Israel into sin. •He served Baal and worshipped him, and provoked the anger of Yahweh the God of Israel just as his father had done.

22 e. This Zedekiah, otherwise unknown, is apparently the spokesman for the troop of ecstatics. His mime, cf. 11:30+ and Jr 18:1+, is intended to symbolise and even effect the triumph of Ahab. The horns represent strength, Dt 33:17, etc.

f. Micaiah takes up the exact words of the false prophets; but he is ridiculing the king, and the king knows it.

g. The angels.

h. Not an angel but a personification of the prophetic spirit which the divine intention will transform into a spirit of lies, v. 22.

i. The text adds 'And he said: Listen, peoples all'. These opening words of the Book of Micah (Mi 1:2) are inserted by a glossator who confused this Micaiah with the canonical prophet.

j. 'I will disguise myself to go' versions.

k. The text adds 'thirty-two', a gloss absent from 2 Ch 18:20.

l. 'battle' Greek.

m. 'The king is dead' Greek; 'And the king died' Hebr.

n. 'They washed' Greek; 'He washed' Hebr. The verse is a gloss referring back to 21:19, though in fact Naboth had been killed at Jezreel, and 21:19 had reserved the punishment of Ahab for his son.

o. Text uncertain and interpretation disputed.

p. 'a ship' Greek.

THE SECOND BOOK OF THE KINGS^a

3:4-27

1 After the death of Ahab Moab rebelled against Israel. ¹ Ahaziah had fallen from the balcony of his upper room in Samaria, and ² was lying ill; so he sent messengers, saying to them, 'Go and consult Baalzebub^b the god of Ekron and ask whether I shall recover from my illness'. •But the ³ angel of Yahweh said to Elijah the Tishbite, 'Up! Go and intercept the messengers of the king of Samaria. Say to them, "Is there no God in Israel, for you to go and consult Baalzebub the god of Ekron? •Yahweh says this: The ⁴ bed you have got into you will not get out of; you are certainly going to die."' •
 And Elijah set out.

Zc 13:4

The messengers returned to the king, who said, 'Why have you come back?' ⁵
 'A man came to meet us' they answered 'and said, "Go back to the king who ⁶ sent you and tell him: Yahweh says this: Is there no God in Israel for you to go and consult Baalzebub the god of Ekron? For this, the bed you have got into you will not get out of; you are certainly going to die."' •He said, 'This ⁷ man who met you and said all this, what was he like?' •'A man wearing a hair ⁸ cloak' they answered 'and a leather loincloth.' •'It was Elijah the Tishbite'
 he said.

Lv 10:2
 Si 48:4
 Lk 9:54-55
 Rv 11:5

Si 48:4

Si 48:6

He then sent a captain of fifty soldiers with his contingent to Elijah, whom ⁹ they found sitting on top of the hill; the captain went up to him and said, 'Man of God, the king says, "Come down" '. •Elijah answered the captain, 'If I am ¹⁰ a man of God, let fire come down from heaven and destroy both you and your fifty men'. And fire came down from heaven and destroyed him and his fifty ¹¹ men. •The king sent a second captain of fifty to him, again with fifty men, and he too went up and said, 'Man of God, this is the king's order: "Come down at once" '. •Elijah answered them, 'If I am a man of God, let fire come down ¹² from heaven and destroy both you and your fifty men'. And fire came down from heaven and destroyed him and his fifty men. •Then the king sent a third ¹³ captain of fifty to him, with another fifty men. The third captain of fifty came up to Elijah, fell on his knees before him and pleaded with him. 'Man of God,' he said 'let my life and the lives of these fifty servants of yours have some value in your eyes. •Fire has fallen from heaven and destroyed two captains of fifties, ¹⁴ but let my life have some value now in your eyes.' •The angel of Yahweh said ¹⁵ to Elijah, 'Go down with him; do not be afraid of him'. He rose and accompanied him down to the king, •and said to him, 'Yahweh says this, "Since ¹⁶ you sent messengers to consult Baalzebub the god of Ekron,^d the bed you have got into you will not get out of; you are certainly going to die" '.^e

And, in accordance with the word of Yahweh that Elijah had uttered, he died. ¹⁷
 Since he had no son, his brother^f Jehoram succeeded him, in the second year of Jehoram son of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah.^g •The rest of the history of ¹⁸ Ahaziah, and his career, is not all this recorded in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Israel?

VI. THE ELISHA CYCLE

A. ITS OPENING

Elijah is taken up and Elisha succeeds him^a

4:38
 Am 4:4

2 This is what happened when Yahweh took Elijah up to heaven in the ¹ whirlwind: Elijah and Elisha set out from Gilgal,^b •and Elijah said to Elisha, ²

- 'Please stay here, for Yahweh is only sending me to Bethel'. But Elisha replied, 'As Yahweh lives and as you yourself live, I will not leave you!' and they went
 3 down to Bethel. •The brotherhood of prophets^c who live at Bethel came out to meet Elisha and said, 'Do you know that Yahweh is going to carry your lord
 4 and master away today?' 'Yes, I know,' he said 'be quiet.' •Elijah said, 'Elisha, please stay here, Yahweh is only sending me to Jericho'. But he replied, 'As Yahweh lives and as you yourself live, I will not leave you!' and they went on 5 to Jericho. •The brotherhood of prophets who live at Jericho went up to Elisha and said, 'Do you know that Yahweh is going to carry your lord and master
 6 away today?' 'Yes, I know,' he said 'be quiet.' •Elijah said, 'Elisha, please stay here, Yahweh is only sending me to the Jordan'. But he replied, 'As Yahweh lives and as you yourself live, I will not leave you!' And they went on together.
 7 Fifty of the brotherhood of prophets followed them, halting some distance
 8 away as the two of them stood beside the Jordan. •Elijah took his cloak, rolled it up and struck the water; and the water divided to left and right, and the two 9 of them crossed over dry-shod. •When they had crossed, Elijah said to Elisha, 'Make your request. What can I do for you before I am taken from you?' Elisha 10 answered, 'Let me inherit a double share of your spirit'.^d •'Your request is a difficult one' Elijah said. 'If you see me while I am being taken from you, it shall 11 be as you ask; if not, it will not be so.' •Now as they walked on, talking as they went, a chariot of fire appeared and horses of fire, coming between the 12 two of them; and Elijah went up to heaven in the whirlwind. •Elisha saw it, and shouted, 'My father! My father! Chariot of Israel and its chargers!' Then he 13 lost sight of him, and taking hold of his clothes he tore them in half. •He picked up the cloak of Elijah which had fallen, and went back and stood on the bank of the Jordan.
 14 He took the cloak of Elijah^e and struck the water. 'Where is Yahweh, the God of Elijah?' he cried. He struck the water, and it divided to right and left, and Elisha crossed over. •The brotherhood of prophets^f saw him in the distance, and said, 'The spirit of Elijah has come to rest on Elisha'; they went to meet
 16 him and bowed to the ground before him. •'Look,' they said 'your servants have fifty strong men with them; let them go and look for your master; the spirit of Yahweh may have taken him up and thrown him down on a mountain
 17 or into a valley.' 'Send no one' he replied. •But they so shamed him with their insistence that he consented. So they sent fifty men who searched for three days without finding him. •They then came back to Elisha who had stayed in Jericho; he said, 'Did I not tell you not to go?'^g

1 a. The division of Kings into two volumes is artificial; the earliest Hebr. Bible made no division.

b. Baalzebub 'Baal of Flies'; mocking pun on the god's real name which was Baalzebul 'Baal the Prince', cf. Mt 10:25+.

c. Elijah wore a loincloth and a flowing cloak, cf. 1 K 18:46 and 2 K 2:8,13. So, too, certain other prophets, Zc 13:4, and the second Elijah, John the Baptist, Mt 3:4p.

d. The Hebr. here repeats the question of vv. 3 and 6.

e. Vv. 9-16 are apparently an addition traceable back to disciples of Elisha, cf. 2:23-24. Its one purpose is to inculcate the respect and obedience owed to God's representatives; other moral considerations are ignored, f. 'his brother' versions; omitted by Hebr.

g. The date does not agree with 3:1 and is taken from a different system of reckoning.

2 a. This fine passage properly belongs to the Elisha cycle to which it acts as an introduction.

b. This Gilgal, to the N. of Bethel, is not the Gilgal of Jos 4:19, see note.

c. Lit. 'the sons of the prophets'; these prophets formed compact groups and lived in community. Elisha, unlike the lone prophet Elijah, was closely associated with them.

d. The elder son inherited a double portion of his father's goods, Dt 21:17. Elisha wants to be acknowledged as Elijah's principal spiritual heir—an ambitious request since the prophetic spirit is not inherited, but is a gift of God; God, however, indicates that the request is granted by allowing Elisha to see what is hidden from human eyes, cf. v. 12 and 2 K 6:17; the 'sons of the prophets' see only the human circumstances, not the spiritual reality behind them.

e. There is a gloss here 'that had fallen from him'.

f. Gloss 'who are at Jericho'.

g. The fruitless search merely establishes the fact that Elijah is no longer in this world; what has become of him is a mystery on which Elisha is not prepared to elaborate. The text does not say that Elijah did not die, though this conclusion was in fact drawn. On the 'second coming' of Elijah, cf. Mt 13:23+.

h. Narratives in the same vein as those of ch. 4. Elisha possesses a divine power to save or to destroy.

B. THE MOABITE WAR

Introduction to the reign of Jehoram in Israel (852-841)

3 Jehoram son of Ahab became king of Israel in Samaria in the eighteenth year of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, and reigned for twelve years.^a •He did what is displeasing to Yahweh, though not like his father and mother, for he did away with the pillar of Baal that his father had made. •Nonetheless, he continued to practise the sins into which Jeroboam son of Nebat had led Israel, and did not give them up.

The expedition of Israel and Judah against Moab

Mesha king of Moab^b was a sheep-breeder and used to pay the king of Israel a hundred thousand lambs and the wool of a hundred thousand rams in tribute. But when Ahab died, the king of Moab rebelled against the king of Israel.

1 K 22 At once King Jehoram went out of Samaria and mustered all Israel. After this he sent word to the king of Judah,^c 'The king of Moab has rebelled against me. Will you join with me fighting Moab?' 'I will' he replied. 'I am as ready as you, my men as your men, my horses as your horses,' •and added 'which way are we to attack?' 'Through the wilderness of Edom' the other answered.

So they set out, the king of Israel, the king of Judah and the king of Edom.^d They followed a devious route for seven days, until there was no water left for the troops or for the beasts in their baggage train. •'Alas!' the king of Israel exclaimed 'Yahweh has summoned us three kings, only to put us into the power of Moab.' •But the king of Judah said, 'Is there no prophet of Yahweh here for us to consult Yahweh through him?' One of the king of Israel's servants answered, 'Elisha son of Shaphat is here, who used to pour water on the hands of Elijah'. •'The word of Yahweh is with him' the king of Judah said. So they went to him, the king of Israel, the king of Judah and the king of Edom. •But Elisha said to the king of Israel, 'What business have you with me? Go to the prophets of your father and your mother.' 'No,' the king of Israel answered 'Yahweh has summoned us three kings, only to put us into the power of Moab.' Elisha replied, 'As Yahweh Sabaoth lives, whom I serve, if I did not respect Jehoshaphat king of Judah, I should not take any notice of you, or so much as look at you. •Now bring me someone who can play the lyre.'^e And as the musician played, the hand of Yahweh was laid on him •and he said, 'Yahweh says this, "Dig ditch on ditch in this wadi", •for Yahweh says, "You shall see neither wind nor rain, but this wadi shall be filled with water, and you and your troops and your baggage animals shall drink". •But this is only a little thing in the sight of Yahweh, for he will put Moab itself into your power. You shall storm every fortified town,^f fell every sound tree, block every water-spring, ruin all the best fields with stones.' •Next morning at the time when the oblation was being offered, water came from the direction of Edom, and the country was filled with it. 1K 18:29

21 When the Moabites learned that the kings had come up to fight against them, all who were of age to bear arms were called up; they took up position 22 on the frontier. •In the morning when they got up, the sun was shining on the 23 water; and in the distance the Moabites saw the water as red as blood.^g •‘This is blood!’ they said. ‘The kings must have fought among themselves and killed one another. So now for the booty, Moab!’

24 But when they reached the Israelite camp, the Israelites launched their attack and the Moabites fled before them, and as they advanced^h they cut the Moabites
25 to pieces. •They laid the towns in ruins, and each man threw a stone into all the best fields to fill them up, and they blocked every water-spring and felled every sound tree. In the end, there was only Kir-haresethⁱ left, which the slingers
26 surrounded and battered. •When the king of Moab saw that the battle had turned against him, he mustered seven hundred swordsmen in the hope of breaking 27 a way out and going to the king of Aram,^j but he failed. •Then he took his eldest son who was to succeed him and offered him as a sacrifice on the city wall. There was bitter indignation^k against the Israelites, who then withdrew, retiring to their own country. Jb 5:23 Jg 11:30

C. SOME MIRACLES OF ELISHA

The widow's oil

1K 17:8-15

1 4 The wife of a member of the prophetic brotherhood appealed to Elisha. Mi 2:9
‘Your servant my husband is dead,’ she said ‘and you know how your servant revered Yahweh. A creditor has now come to take my two children and make
2 them his slaves.’ •Elisha said, ‘What can I do for you? Tell me, what have you in the house?’ ‘Your servant has nothing in the house,’ she replied ‘except a pot
3 of oil.’ •Then he said, ‘Go outside and borrow jars from all your neighbours, 4 empty jars and not too few. •When you come back, shut the door on yourself and your sons, and pour the oil into all these jars, putting each aside when it is
5 full.’ •So she left him; and she shut the door on herself and her sons; they passed
6 her the jars and she went on pouring. •When the jars were full, she said to her son, ‘Pass me another jar’. ‘There are no more’ he replied. Then the oil stopped
7 flowing. •She went and told the man of God, who said, ‘Go and sell the oil and redeem your pledge; you and your children can live on the remainder’.

The woman of Shunem and her son

8 One day as Elisha was on his way to Shunem, a woman of rank who lived 1K 1:3
there pressed him to stay and eat there. After this he always broke his journey 9 for a meal when he passed that way. •She said to her husband, ‘Look, I am

3 a. This figure derives from some less accepted chronological scheme. According to the most reliable dating, Jehoram of Israel reigned only eight years.

b. The ‘stèle’ of Mesha, discovered at Dibon, mentions the fact that Moab had been subject to Israel under Omri and Ahab, and it records the war of liberation, but it passes over the inglorious episode narrated here.

c. Here and in vv. 11, 12, 14 the text gives the name of the king of Judah, Jehoshaphat; but the chronological data show that the war did not take place until the reign of his son, Jehoram of Judah. The name Jehoshaphat seems to have been added to the original text because of that king's piety and of the similar part he plays in 1 K 22: here, too, a king of Judah, as opposed to a king of Israel, appears as a devoted Yahwist, vv. 11, 13-14.

d. The king of Israel needs the co-operation of Judah and Edom, her vassal, if he is to attack Moab from the S. by passing round the Dead Sea through Edomite territory.

e. Music helps to stimulate ecstasy.

f. The Hebr. adds ‘and every choice city’.

g. A tint due, probably, to the sands of the wadi el-Hesa. There is a play on the words adom ‘red’, dam ‘blood’, and the name Edom.

h. ‘and as they advanced’ Greek.

i. Conjectural restoration of a damaged text. Kir-hareseth is the Moabite capital, Is 16:7,11; Jr 48:31,36, on the present site of Kerak.

j. ‘Aram’ corr., cf. Vet. Lat.; ‘Edom’ Hebr.

k. Interpretation disputed: the anger of Yahweh or (the more common opinion) that of Chemosh, god of Moab? There are difficulties on both sides. The simple explanation may be that the Moabites, incensed by the sacrifice of their crown prince, made a desperate but successful counter-attack.

sure the man who is constantly passing our way must be a holy man of God.

Jdt 8:5 Let us build him a small room on the roof, and put him a bed in it, and a table 10 and chair and lamp; whenever he comes to us he can rest there.' •One day when 11
he came, he retired to the upper room and lay down. •He said to his servant 12 Gehazi, 'Call our Shunammite^s. He called her, and she came and stood before him. •'Tell her this,' Elisha said ' "Look, you have gone to all this trouble for 13 us, what can we do for you? Is there anything you would like said for you to the king or to the commander of the army?" ' But she replied, 'I live with my own people about me'.^a •'What can be done for her then?' he asked. Gehazi 14 answered, 'Well, she has no son and her husband is old'. •Elisha said, 'Call her'. 15
Gn 18:10 The servant called her and she stood at the door. •'This time next year,' he said 16
'you will hold a son in your arms.' But she said, 'No, my lord, do not deceive your servant'. •But the woman did conceive, and she gave birth to a son at the 17 time^b Elisha had said she would.

The child grew up; one day he went out to his father who was with the reapers, 18 and exclaimed to his father, 'Oh, my head! My head!' The father told a servant 19 1K 17:17-24 to carry him to his mother. •He lifted him up and took him to his mother, and 20 the boy sat on her knee until midday, when he died. •She went upstairs, laid 21 him on the bed of the man of God, shut the door on him and went out.^c •She 22 called her husband and said, 'Send me one of the servants with a donkey. I must hurry to the man of God and back.' •'Why go to him today?' he asked 'It is 23 not New Moon or sabbath.'^d But she answered, 'Never mind'. •She had the 24 donkey saddled, and said to her servant, 'Lead on, go! Do not draw rein until I give the order.' •She set off and came to the man of God at Mount Carmel; 25 when he saw her in the distance, he said to his servant Gehazi, 'Look, here comes our Shunammite^s! •Now run and meet her and ask her, "Are you well? 26 Is your husband well? Your child well?" ' She answered, 'Yes'. •When she came 27 to the man of God there on the mountain, she took hold of his feet. Gehazi stepped forward to push her away, but the man of God said, 'Leave her; there is bitterness in her soul and Yahweh has hidden it from me, he has not told me'.
She said, 'Did I ask my lord for a son? Did I not say: Do not deceive me?' 28

Elisha said to Gehazi, 'Tuck up your cloak, take my staff in your hand and go. 29
Lk 10:4 If you meet anyone, do not greet him; if anyone greets you, do not answer him.^e Ac 20:10-12 You are to stretch out my staff^f over the child.' •But the child's mother said, 'As 30 Yahweh lives and as you yourself live, I will not leave you'. Then he stood up and followed her. •Gehazi had gone ahead of them and had stretched out the 31 staff over the child, but there was no sound or response. He went back to meet Elisha and told him. 'The child has not woken up' he said. •Elisha then went to 32
1K 17:21 Mt 6:6 the house, and there on his bed lay the child, dead. •He went in and shut the door 33 on the two of them and prayed to Yahweh. •Then he climbed on to the bed and 34 stretched himself on top of the child, putting his mouth on his mouth, his eyes to his eyes, and his hands on his hands, and as he lowered himself on to him, the child's flesh grew warm. •Then he got up and walked to and fro inside the 35 house, and then climbed on to the bed again and lowered himself on to the child Heb 11:35 seven times in all; then the child sneezed^g and opened his eyes. •He then sum- 36 moned Gehazi. 'Call our Shunammite^s' he said; and he called her. When she came to him, he said, 'Take up your son'. •She went in and, falling at his feet, 37 bowed down to the ground; and taking up her son went out.

The poisoned soup

2:1 Elisha went back to Gilgal while there was famine in the country. As the 38 brotherhood of prophets were sitting with him, he said to his servant, 'Put the large pot on the fire and cook some soup for the brotherhood'. •One of them 39 went into the fields to gather herbs and came on some wild vine off which he gathered enough gourds^h to fill his lap. On his return, he cut them up into the pot of soup; they did not know what they were. •They then poured the soup out 40 for the men to eat, but they had no sooner tasted the soup than they cried, 'Man of God, there is death in the pot!' And they could not eat it. •'Bring some meal then' Elisha said. This he threw into the pot, and said, 'Pour out for these men, and let them eat'. And there was nothing harmful in the pot.

The multiplication of loaves

42 A man came from Baal-shalishah, bringing the man of God bread from the first-fruits, twenty barley loaves and fresh grain in the ear.ⁱ 'Give it to the people to eat', Elisha said. •But his servant replied, 'How can I serve this to a hundred men?' 'Give it to the people to eat' he insisted 'for Yahweh says this, "They will eat and have some left over".' •He served them; they ate and had some left over, as Yahweh had said.

Naaman is healed

1 5 Naaman, army commander to the king of Aram, was a man who enjoyed his master's respect and favour, since through him Yahweh had granted victory to the Aramaeans.^a But the man was a leper.^b •Now on one of their raids, the Aramaeans had carried off from the land of Israel a little girl who had become a servant of Naaman's wife. •She said to her mistress, 'If only my master would approach the prophet of Samaria. He would cure him of his leprosy.' Naaman went and told his master. 'This and this' he reported 'is what the girl from the land of Israel said.' •'Go by all means,' said the king of Aram 'I will send a letter to the king of Israel.' So Naaman left, taking with him ten talents of silver, six thousand shekels of gold and ten festal robes. •He presented the letter to the king of Israel. It read: 'With this letter, I am sending my servant Naaman to you for you to cure him of his leprosy'. •When the king of Israel read the letter, he tore his garments. 'Am I a god to give death and life,' he said 'that he sends a man to me and asks me to cure him of his leprosy? Listen to this, and take note of it and see how he intends to pick a quarrel with me.'

8 When Elisha heard that the king of Israel had torn his garments, he sent word to the king, 'Why did you tear your garments? Let him come to me, and he will find there is a prophet in Israel.' •So Naaman came with his team and chariot and drew up at the door of Elisha's house. •And Elisha sent him a messenger to say, 'Go and bathe seven times in the Jordan, and your flesh will become clean once more'. •But Naaman was indignant and went off, saying, 'Here was I thinking he would be sure to come out to me, and stand there, and call on the name of Yahweh his God, and wave his hand over the spot and cure the leprous part. •Surely Abana and Pharpar, the rivers of Damascus, are better than any water in Israel? Could I not bathe in them and become clean?' And he turned round and went off in a rage. •But his servants approached him and said, 'My father, if the prophet had asked you to do something difficult, would you not have done it? All the more reason, then, when he says to you, "Bathe, and you will become clean".' •So he went down and immersed himself seven times in the Jordan, as Elisha had told him to do. And his flesh became clean once more like the flesh of a little child.

 'Now I know' he said 'that there is no God in all the earth except in Israel.'^c 18 9:7 Now, please, accept a present from your servant.' •But Elisha replied, 'As Yahweh 16 lives, whom I serve, I will accept nothing'. Naaman pressed him to accept, but he refused. •Then Naaman said, 'Since your answer is "No", allow your servant 17 to be given as much earth as two mules may carry, because your servant will no longer offer holocaust or sacrifice to any god except Yahweh. •Only—and may 18
 Yahweh forgive your servant—when my master goes to the temple of Rimmon to worship there, he leans on my arm, and I bow down in the temple of Rimmon when he does;^d may Yahweh forgive your servant this act!' •'Go in peace'^e 19 Elisha answered.

Naaman had gone a small distance, •when Gehazi, the servant of Elisha, 20 said to himself, 'My master has let this Aramaean Naaman off lightly, by not accepting what he offered. As Yahweh lives, I will run after him and get something out of him.' •So Gehazi set off in pursuit of Naaman. When Naaman 21 saw him running after him, he jumped down from his chariot to meet him.
 'Is all well?' he asked. •'All is well' he said. 'My master has sent me to say, 22
 "This very moment two young men of the prophetic brotherhood have arrived from the highlands of Ephraim. Be kind enough to give them a talent of silver." ' •'Please accept two talents'^f Naaman replied, and pressed him, tying 23 up the two talents of silver in two bags and consigning them to two of his servants who carried them in front of Gehazi. •When he reached Ophel,^g he took 24 them from their hands and put them away in the house. He then dismissed the men, who went away.

He, for his part, went and presented himself to his master. Elisha said, 'Gehazi, 25 where have you been?' 'Your servant has not been anywhere' he replied. •But 26 Elisha said to him, 'Was not my heart^h present there when someone left his chariot to meet you? Now you have taken the money, you can buy gardens with it, and olive groves, sheep and oxen, male and female slaves. •But Naaman's 27 leprosy will cling to you and to your descendants for ever.' And Gehazi left his presence a leper, white as snow.

The axe lost and found

6 The brotherhood of prophets said to Elisha, 'Look, the place^a where we live 1 side by side with you is too confined for us. •Let us go to the Jordan, then, 2 and each of us cut a beam there, and we will make our living quarters there.'
 He replied, 'Go'. •'Be good enough to go with your servants' one of them said. 3
 'I will go' he answered, •and went with them. On reaching the Jordan they 4 cut down timber. •But, as one of them was felling his beam, the iron axehead 5 fell into the water. 'Alas, my lord,' he exclaimed 'and it was a borrowed one too!' •'Where did it fall?' the man of God asked; and he showed him the spot. 6
 Then, cutting a stick, Elisha threw it in at that point and made the iron axehead float. •'Lift it out' he said; and the man stretched out his hand and took it. 7

D. THE ARAMAEAN WARS

Elisha captures an armed band of Aramaeans

The king of Aram was at war with Israel. He conferred with his officers, 8 and said, 'You are to attack^b at such and such a place'. •But Elisha sent word 9 to the king of Israel, 'Be on your guard at this place, because the Aramaeans are going to attack it'.^c •The king of Israel accordingly sent men to the place 10 Elisha had named. And he kept warning the king, and the king stayed on the alert; and this happened more than once or twice.

The king of Aram was disturbed in mind at this; he summoned his officers, 11 and said, 'Tell me which of you is betraying us^d to the king of Israel'. •'No, my 12

- lord king,' one of his officers replied 'it is Elisha, the prophet in Israel, who reveals to the king of Israel the words you speak in your bedchamber.' •'Go and find out where he is,' the king said 'so that I can send people to capture him.'
- Word was brought to him, 'He is now in Dothan'. •So he sent horses and chariots there, and a large force; and these, arriving during the night, surrounded the town.
- Next day, Elisha rose early^c and went out; and there surrounding the town was an armed force with horses and chariots. 'Oh, my lord,' his servant said 'what are we to do?' •'Have no fear,' he replied 'there are more on our side than on theirs.' •And Elisha prayed. 'Yahweh,' he said 'open his eyes and make him see.' Yahweh opened the servant's eyes, and he saw the mountain covered with horses and chariots of fire surrounding Elisha.
- As the Aramaeans came down towards him, Elisha prayed to Yahweh, 'I beg you to strike this people with blindness'. And at the word of Elisha he struck them blind.^f •Then Elisha said to them, 'This is not the road, nor is this the town. Follow me; I will lead you to the man you are looking for.' But he led them to Samaria. •As they entered Samaria, Elisha said, 'Yahweh, open the eyes of these men, and let them see'. Yahweh opened their eyes and they saw; they were inside Samaria.
- When the king of Israel saw them, he said to Elisha, 'Shall I kill them, my father?'^g •'Do not kill them' he answered. 'Do you put prisoners to death when you have taken them with your sword and your bow?^h Offer them bread and water for them to eat and drink, and let them go back to their master.' •So the king provided a great feast for them; and when they had eaten and drunk, he sent them off and they returned to their master. Aramaean raiding parties never invaded the territory of Israel again.

Samaria besieged; the famine

- It happened after this that Ben-hadad king of Aramⁱ mustered his whole army and came to lay siege to Samaria. •In Samaria there was great famine, and so strict was the siege that the head of a donkey sold for eighty shekels of silver, and one quarter-kab of wild onions^j for five shekels of silver.
- Now as the king was passing along the city wall, a woman shouted, 'Help, my lord king!' •'May Yahweh leave you helpless!' he retorted.^k 'Where can I find help for you? From the threshing-floor? From the winepress?' •Then the king asked, 'What is the matter?' 'This woman here' she answered 'has said to me, "Give up your son; we will eat him today, and eat my son tomorrow". So we cooked my son and ate him. Next day, I said to her, "Give up your son for us to eat". But she has hidden her son.' •On hearing the woman's words, the king tore his garments; the king was walking on the wall, and the people saw that underneath he was wearing sackcloth next his body. •'May God do this to me and more,' he said 'if the head of Elisha son of Shaphat remains on his shoulders today!'^l

Elisha foretells imminent relief

Elisha was sitting in his house, and the elders were sitting with him. The king 32 sent a messenger ahead but, before the man arrived, Elisha had said to the elders,
'Do you see how this born assassin has given orders to cut off my head? Look, when the messenger comes, shut the door; hold the door against him. Is not the sound of his master's step following behind him?' •Even as he spoke, the king^m 33 arrived. 'This misery plainly comes from Yahweh,' he said 'why should I still trust in Yahweh?' 7 'Listen to the word of Yahweh' Elisha said. 'Yahweh says 1 this, "By this time tomorrow a measure of finest flour will sell for one shekel, and two measures of barley for one shekel, at the gate of Samaria." •The 2 equerry on whose arm the king was leaning retorted to Elisha, 'Even if Yahweh made windows in the sky, could this come true?' 'You will see it with your own eyes,' Elisha answered 'though you will eat none of it.'

The Aramaean camp is found abandoned

Now at the entrance to the gate—for they were lepers—there were four men 3 and they debated among themselves, 'Why sit here waiting for death? •If we 4 decide to go into the town, what with the famine in it, we shall die there; if we stay here we shall die just the same. Come on, let us go over to the Aramaean camp; if they spare our lives, we live; if they kill us, well then we die.' •So at 5 dusk they set out and made for the Aramaean camp, but when they reached the confines of the camp there was not a soul there. •For Yahweh had caused the 6 Arameans in their camp to hear a noise of chariots and horses, the noise of a great army; and they had said to one another, 'Hark! The king of Israel has hired the Hittite kings^a against us and the kings of Egypt to attack us.' •So 7 in the dusk they had made off and fled, abandoning their tents, their horses and their donkeys; leaving the camp just as it was, they had fled for their lives.
The lepers, then, reached the confines of the camp. They went into one of the 8 tents and ate and drank, and from it carried off silver and gold and clothing; these they went and hid. Then they came back and, entering another tent, looted it too, and went and hid their booty.

The siege at an end; the famine ceases

Then they said to one another, 'We are doing wrong. This is a day of good 9 news, yet we are holding our tongues! If we wait till morning, we shall surely be punished. Come on, let us go and take the news to the palace.' •Off they 10 went, called the city guards, and said, 'We have been to the Aramaean camp.
There was not a soul there, no sound of anyone, only tethered horses and tethered donkeys, and their tents just as they were.' •The gatekeepers shouted the news, 11 which was reported inside the palace.

The king got up while it was still dark and said to his officers, 'I can tell you 12 what the Arameans have done to us. They know we are starving, so they have left the camp to hide in the open country. "They will come out of the town," they think "we will catch them alive and get into the town." ' •One of his officers 13 replied, 'Five of the surviving horses still left us had better be taken—they would die in any case like all the rest.^b Let us send them and see.' •So they took 14 two chariot teams and the king sent them after the Aramaean army, saying,
'Go and see'. •They tracked them as far as the Jordan, finding the whole way 15 strewn with clothes and gear that the Arameans had thrown away in their panic. The scouts returned and informed the king.

Then the people went out and plundered the Aramaean camp: a measure 16 of finest flour sold for one shekel, and two measures of barley for one shekel, as Yahweh had promised they would be. •The king had detailed the equerry, 17 on whose arm he leaned, as commander of the guard on the gate, but the people trampled on him in the gateway and he died, as the man of God had foretold when the king had come down to him. •(What Elisha had said to the king came 18

Epilogue to the story of the woman of Shunem^a

1 8 Elisha had said to the woman whose son he had raised to life, 'Move away with your family, and live where you can in some foreign country, for Yahweh has called up a famine—it is coming on the country already—for seven years.'
 2 The woman hurried to do what the man of God had told her: she set out, she 3 and her family, and for seven years she lived in the land of the Philistines. •When the seven years were over, the woman came back from the land of the Philistines and went to lodge a claim with the king for her house and lands.^b 4 Now the king was talking to Gehazi, the servant of the man of God. 'Tell me' 5 he was saying 'all the great things Elisha has done.' •Gehazi was just telling the king how Elisha had raised the dead child to life, when the woman whose son Elisha had raised lodged her claim with the king for her house and lands. 'My lord king,' Gehazi said 'this is the very woman, and that is her son whom Elisha 6 raised to life.' •The king questioned the woman, who told him the story. The king then referred her to one of the eunuchs, giving him this order: 'See that all her property is restored to her, and all the revenue from her land from the day she left the country until now'.

Elisha and Hazael of Damascus

7 Elisha came to Damascus. Ben-hadad^c the king of Aram was ill, and was 12:18
 8 told, 'The man of God has come all the way to us'. •Then the king said to Hazael,^d
 'Take a present with you and go to meet the man of God; consult Yahweh 5:1-2 through him, and find out if I shall recover from my illness'.
 9 So Hazael went to meet Elisha, taking with him as a present the best Damascus could offer, a load for forty camels. He came and standing before him said,
 'Your son Ben-hadad has sent me to ask you, "Shall I recover from my illness?" ' 6:21 +
 10 Elisha answered, 'Go and tell him, "You will certainly recover",^e though Yahweh
 11 has shown me that he will certainly die'. •Then his face went rigid and his look 1K 19:15
 12 grew fixed,^f and the man of God wept. •'Why' Hazael asked 'does my lord weep?' 'Because I know' Elisha replied 'all the harm you will do the Israelites:
 you will burn down their fortresses, put their picked warriors to the sword, 13 dash their little children to pieces, rip open their pregnant women.' •'But what is your servant?' Hazael said. 'How could this dog^g achieve anything so great?' 'In a vision from Yahweh,' Elisha replied 'I have seen you king of Aram.'
 14 Leaving Elisha, Hazael went back to his master who asked, 'What did Elisha 15 say to you?' He answered, 'He told me you would certainly recover'. •Next day he took a blanket, soaked it in water, and spread it over his face.^h So died Ben-hadad, and Hazael succeeded him.

The reign of Jehoram in Judah (848-841)

In the fifth year of Jehoram son of Ahab king of Israel,^t Jehoram son of 16
 ||2 Ch 21:5-7 Jehoshaphat became king of Judah. •He was thirty-two years old when he came 17 to the throne, and he reigned for eight years in Jerusalem. •He followed the 18 example of the kings of Israel as the family of Ahab had done, having taken a wife from the family^j of Ahab; he did what is displeasing to Yahweh. •Yahweh, 19 2 S 7:11- however, did not intend to destroy Judah, because of his servant David, and was
 21:17
 1K11:36+; faithful to the promise he had made to leave him a lamp for ever in his presence.^k

1K11:36+; In his time Edom threw off the domination of Judah and set up a king for 20
 ||2 Ch 21:8-10 itself.^l •Jehoram crossed to Zair,^m and with him all the chariots. . . He rose 21 during the night and, with his chariot commanders, broke through the Edomites encircling him; the people fled to their tents. •Thus Edom threw off 22 the domination of Judah, remaining free to the present day. Libnahⁿ also revolted. At that time. . .

||2 Ch 21:20 The rest of the history of Jehoram, his entire career, is not all this recorded 23 in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Judah? •Then Jehoram slept with his 24 ancestors and was buried with his ancestors in the Citadel of David; his son Ahaziah succeeded him.

The reign of Ahaziah in Judah (841)

||2 Ch 22:1-6 In the twelfth year of Jehoram son of Ahab king of Israel, Ahaziah son of 25
 Jehoram became king of Judah. •Ahaziah was twenty-two years old when he 26 came to the throne, and he reigned for one year in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Athaliah, daughter of Omri king of Israel. •He followed the example of the 27 family of Ahab and did what is displeasing to Yahweh as the family of Ahab had done, to whom he was related by marriage.

9:14-15 He went with Jehoram son of Ahab to fight against Hazael king of Aram 28
 1K22:3-4 at Ramoth-gilead, but the Aramaeans wounded Jehoram. •King Jehoram 29 returned to Jezreel to recover from the wounds which he had received at Ramah, fighting against Hazael king of Aram. Ahaziah son of Jehoram king of Judah went down to Jezreel to visit Jehoram son of Ahab because he was ill.

E. THE HISTORY OF JEHU

1K21:29 A disciple of Elisha anoints Jehu king

Ho 1:4 9 Elisha the prophet summoned a member of the prophetic brotherhood to 1 him, 'Tuck up your cloak, take this flask of oil, and go to Ramoth-gilead.
 When you arrive there, look for Jehu son of Jehoshaphat son of Nimshi. Then, 2 when you find him, tell him to get up and leave his companions, and take him into an inner room. •Take the flask of oil then and pour it over his head, 3 1K19:16 and say, "This is Yahweh's word: I have anointed you king of Israel". Then throw open the door and escape as fast as you can.'

The young man left for Ramoth-gilead •and when he arrived, he found the 4 senior officers of the army sitting together. 'I have a message for you, commander' he said. 'For which of us?' asked Jehu. 'For you, commander' he answered.
 Then Jehu got up and went into the house. And the young man poured the oil 6 1K16:4,13; on his head, saying, 'Yahweh the God of Israel says this, "I have anointed 19:10;21 you king over the people of Yahweh, king of Israel. •You are to strike down the family of Ahab your master, and I will avenge the blood of my servants the 1K21:21-24 prophets and of all the servants of Yahweh on Jezebel •and the whole family of Ahab. I will wipe out every male belonging to the family of Ahab, fettered or 1K14:10-11 free in Israel. •I will make the family of Ahab like the family of Jeroboam son 1K16:3-4 of Nebat and of Baasha son of Ahijah. •As for Jezebel, the dogs shall eat her in 9:36 the territory of Jezreel; no one will bury her." ^a With this, he opened the door 1K21:23 and made his escape.

Jehu proclaimed king

- 11 Jehu came out to the officers of his master. 'Is all well?' they asked him.^b 'Why 12 did this madman^c come to you?' 'You know the fellow and how he talks' he 13 answered. •'Evasion!' they cried 'Come on, tell us.' He replied, 'His drift was this— he said, "Yahweh says this: I have anointed you king of Israel"'.
 13 Whereupon they all took their cloaks and spread them under him^d on the bare steps; they sounded the trumpet and shouted, 'Jehu is king!' Mt 21:8

Jehu prepares to usurp power

- 14 Jehu son of Jehoshaphat son of Nimshi plotted against Jehoram. (Jehoram, with all Israel, was at that time defending Ramoth-gilead^e against Hazael king 15 of Aram, •although Jehoram had returned to Jezreel to recover from the wounds which he had received from the Aramaeans while he was fighting against Hazael king of Aram.) 'If this is how you feel,' Jehu said 'let no one escape from the 16 town to go and take the news to Jezreel.' •Jehu then mounted his chariot and left for Jezreel; Jehoram had taken to his bed there, and Ahaziah king of Judah had gone down to visit him.
 17 The lookout posted on the tower of Jezreel saw Jehu's troop approaching,
 'I can see a body of men' he shouted. Jehoram gave the order: 'Have a horseman 18 sent to meet them and ask, "Is all well?"' •The horseman went to meet Jehu and said, 'The king says, "Is all well?"' •'What has it to do with you whether all is well?' Jehu replied. 'Fall in behind me.' The lookout reported, 'The messenger 19 has reached them and is not coming back'. •The king sent a second horseman who reached them and said, 'The king says, "Is all well?"' •'What has it to do 20 with you whether all is well?' Jehu replied. 'Fall in behind me.' •The lookout reported, 'He has reached them and is not coming back. The manner of driving 21 is like that of Jehu son of Nimshi: he drives like a madman.' •'Harness!' Jehoram cried; and they harnessed his chariot. Then Jehoram king of Israel and Ahaziah king of Judah, each in his chariot, set out to meet Jehu. They reached him in the field of Naboth of Jezreel. 8:28
1 K 22:3

The assassination of Jehoram

- 22 As soon as Jehoram saw Jehu he asked, 'Is all well, Jehu?' 'What a question!'
 he replied 'when all the while the prostitutions^g and countless sorceries of your 23 mother Jezebel go on.' •At this, Jehoram wheeled and fled, saying to Ahaziah, 24 'Treason, Ahaziah!' •But Jehu had drawn his bow; he struck Jehoram between the shoulder-blades, the arrow went through the king's heart, and he sank down 25 in his chariot. •'Pick him up,' Jehu said to Bidkar, his equerry 'and throw him into the field of Naboth of Jezreel. Remember how, when you and I both rode^h 26 behind Ahab his father, Yahweh pronounced this sentence against him: "This I swear. Yesterday I saw the blood of Naboth and the blood of his sons—it is Yahweh who speaks. In this same field I will requite you—it is Yahweh who speaks." So pick him up, and throw him into the field, as Yahweh declared should happen.' 2 S 18:27

112 Ch 22:8-9 The assassination of Ahaziah

When Ahaziah king of Judah saw this, he fled along the Beth-haggan road, 27 but Jehu went in pursuit of him. 'Strike him down too' he said. And they wounded him^d in his chariot at the slope of Gur, which is near Ibleam, and he took refuge 28 in Megiddo, where he died. •His servants carried him in a chariot to Jerusalem and buried him in his tomb in the Citadel of David. •Ahaziah had become king 29 of Judah in the eleventh year of Jehoram son of Ahab.

The assassination of Jezebel

Jehu went back to Jezreel and Jezebel heard of it. She made up her eyes with 30 kohl and adorned her head and appeared at the window. •As Jehu came through 31 the gateway she said, 'Is all well, Zimri, you murderer of your master?'^j •Jehu 32 looked up to the window and said, 'Who is on my side? Who?' And two or three eunuchs looked down at him. •'Throw her down' he said. They threw her down, 33 and her blood splattered the walls and the horses; and Jehu rode over her. •He 34 went in and ate and drank, then said, 'See to this accursed woman, and give her burial; after all, she was a king's daughter'. •But when they went to bury her, 35 they found nothing but her skull, feet and hands. •They came back and told 36 Jehu, who said, 'This is the word of Yahweh which he spoke through his servant Elijah the Tishbite, "The dogs will eat the flesh of Jezebel in the territory of Jezreel; •the corpse of Jezebel will be like dung spread on the fields,^k so that no 37 one will be able to say: This was Jezebel" '.

The massacre of the royal family of Israel

10 There were seventy sons of Ahab in Samaria.^a Jehu sent to Samaria, to the 1 authorities of the city, to the elders and to the guardians of the children of Ahab. He said, •'At this time, when this letter reaches you, you have your 2 master's sons with you; you also have chariots and horses, fortified towns and weapons. •See which of your master's sons is the best and worthiest, put him 3 on his father's throne and fight for the dynasty of your master.' •They were 4 utterly terrified. 'We have seen how the two kings could not stand up to him,' they said 'so how could we do so?' •Consequently the master of the palace, the 5 governor of the city, the elders and the guardians sent word to Jehu, 'We are your servants. We will do whatever you order us. We will not proclaim a king; act as you think best.'

Jehu then wrote them a second letter. He said, 'If you are for me and if you 6 are prepared to accept orders from me, take the heads^b of the men of your master's house and come to me at Jezreel by this time tomorrow'. (There were seventy sons of the king being educated there by the leading men of the city.) •When this 7 letter reached them, they took the king's sons and butchered all seventy of them, put their heads in baskets and sent them to him at Jezreel.

The messenger came and told Jehu, 'They have brought the heads of the 8 king's sons'. 'Leave them in two heaps at the entrance to the gate until morning' he replied. •When morning came, he went out and, standing, said to all the people, 9 'Be guiltless! I certainly plotted against my master and murdered him; but who killed all these? •Know, then, nothing will fail to be fulfilled of the oracle uttered 10 by Yahweh against the family of Ahab: Yahweh has done what he said through his servant Elijah.' •Jehu then killed everyone of the House of Ahab surviving 11 in Jezreel, all his leading men, his close friends, his priests; he did not leave a single one alive.

The massacre of the princes of Judah

Jehu then set out and went to Samaria. As he was on his way •he met, at 12 Beth-eked of the Shepherds, the brothers of Ahaziah king of Judah. 'Who are 13 you?' he asked. 'We are brothers of Ahaziah,' they answered 'and we are going down to pay our respects to the sons of the king and the sons of the queen.'^c

Jehu and Jehonadab

- 15 Leaving there, he came upon Jehonadab son of Rechab who was on his way to meet him. He greeted him and said, 'Is your heart true to mine,^d as my heart is to yours?' Jehonadab replied, 'Yes'. 'If so,' Jehu said 'give me your hand.' Jehonadab gave him his hand, and Jehu took him up beside him in his chariot. 16 'Come with me,' he said 'and witness my zeal for Yahweh', and drove him on 17 in his chariot. •When he entered Samaria, he killed all the survivors of Ahab's family in Samaria; he wiped it out, as Yahweh had told Elijah it would happen. 1Ch2:55

The destruction of the adherents and temple of Baal

- 18 Then Jehu assembled all the people. 'Ahab did Baal some small service,' 19 he said 'but Jehu will do him a great one. •Now call me all the prophets of Baal^e and all his priests. Let no one be missing: I have a great sacrifice to offer to Baal. If anyone is missing, he shall forfeit his life.' This was a trick on Jehu's part to 20 destroy the devotees of Baal. •'Summon a sacred assembly for Baal' he com- 21 manded; and they summoned it. •Jehu sent messengers throughout Israel, and all the devotees of Baal arrived, not a man was left who did not attend. They 22 packed into the temple of Baal until it was full from wall to wall. •Jehu then said to the keeper of the wardrobe, 'Bring out vestments for all the devotees of Baal';^f 23 he brought out the vestments for them. •Jehu then went into the temple of Baal with Jehonadab son of Rechab and said to the devotees of Baal, 'Make quite sure there are no devotees of Yahweh in here with you, but only devotees of 24 Baal'. •He then proceeded to offer sacrifices and holocausts. 1K16:32

- Now Jehu had stationed eighty of his men outside, having said, 'If any of you lets anyone of those I am handing over to you escape, his life will pay for 25 the life of the other'. •When he had finished offering the holocaust, he gave the order to the guards and squires: 'Go in, strike them down! Let no one out!' The guards and squires went in, putting everyone to the sword, until they had 26 reached the sanctuary of the temple of Baal.^g •They took the sacred pole^h out 27 of the temple of Baal and burned it. •They demolished the altarⁱ of Baal, and demolished the temple of Baal too, making it into a latrine, which it still is today.

The reign of Jehu in Israel (841-814)

- 28 Thus Jehu rid Israel of Baal. •Even so, Jehu did not give up the sins into 29 which Jeroboam son of Nebat had led Israel, the golden calves of Bethel and 30 Dan.^j •Yahweh said to Jehu, 'Since you have done properly what was pleasing in my sight, and have achieved all I set my heart on against Ahab's family, your 31 sons shall sit on the throne of Israel down to the fourth generation'. •But Jehu 1K12:28-29

j. The author's own verdict; the source he was following in the preceding narratives gave unstinted praise, v. 30, to Jehu's sincere, if brutal, zeal for Yahweh. At the same time, however, by wiping out the devotees of Baal, Jehu intended to eliminate any remaining support for the dynasty of Ahab.

did not follow the law of Yahweh, the God of Israel faithfully and wholeheartedly: he did not give up the sins into which Jeroboam son of Nebat had led Israel.

Am 1:3 At that time, Yahweh began to whittle Israel down, and Hazael defeated the Israelites throughout the territory •from the Jordan eastwards: all the land of Gilead, of the Gadites, the Reubenites and the Manassites, from Aroer which is by the wadi Arnon, Gilead and Bashan.^k

The rest of the history of Jehu, his entire career, all his prowess, is not all this recorded in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Israel? •Then he slept with his ancestors, and they buried him in Samaria; his son Jehoahaz succeeded him. Jehu's reign over Israel in Samaria lasted twenty-eight years.

F. FROM THE REIGN OF ATHALIAH TO THE DEATH OF ELISHA

||2Ch22:9-23:21 Athaliah (841-835)^a

10:1 Jg 9:5 11 When Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah learned that her son was dead, she promptly did away with all those of royal stock. •But Jehosheba,^b daughter of King Jehoram and sister of Ahaziah, secretly took away Jehoash, her brother's son, from among the sons of the king who were being murdered, and put him with his nurse in the sleeping quarters; in this way she hid him from Athaliah, and he was not put to death. •He stayed with her for six years, hidden in the Temple of Yahweh, while Athaliah governed the country.

||2Ch23:1 In the seventh year, Jehoiada^c sent for the commanders of hundreds of the Carians^d and of the guards, and had them brought to him in the Temple of Yahweh. He made a pact with them and, putting them under oath, showed them the king's son. •He gave them this order: 'This is what you must do: one third of you, those who are off duty on the sabbath, are to mount guard at the royal palace, •while the other two thirds of you, mounting guard at the Temple of Yahweh,^f are to surround the king, each with his weapons in his hand; anyone who tries to break through your ranks is to be put to death. Wherever the king goes or comes, you are to escort him.'

The commanders of hundreds did everything as Jehoiada the priest had ordered. They brought their men, those coming off duty on the sabbath together with those mounting guard on the sabbath, and came to Jehoiada the priest. 2 S 8:7 The priest equipped the commanders of hundreds with King David's spears and shields which were in the Temple of Yahweh.^g •The guards formed up, each man with his weapon in his hand, from the south corner to the north corner of the Temple, surrounding the altar and the Temple.^h •Then Jehoiada brought out the king's son, put the crown and armlets on him, and he anointed him king.ⁱ 1 S 10:24 They clapped their hands and shouted, 'Long live the king!'

Athaliah, on hearing the shouts of the people,^j made for the Temple of Yahweh where the people were. •When she saw the king standing there beside the pillar,^k as the custom was, with the captains and trumpeters at the king's side, and all the country people rejoicing and sounding trumpets, Athaliah tore her garments and shouted, 'Treason, treason!' •Then Jehoiada the priest gave the order to the army officers: 'Take her outside the precincts^l and put to death anyone who follows her'. 'For' the priest had reasoned 'she must not be put to death in the Temple of Yahweh.' •They seized her, and when she had reached the palace through the Entry of the Horses, she was put to death there.

Jehoiada made a covenant between Yahweh and king and people, by which the latter undertook to be the people of Yahweh; and also between king and people.^m •All the country people then went to the temple of Baal and demolished it;ⁿ they smashed his altars and his images and killed Mattan, priest of Baal, in front of the altars.

The priest posted sentries to guard the Temple of Yahweh. •He then took the commanders of hundreds, the Carians, the guards and all the country people and made them escort the king down from the Temple of Yahweh and through the Gate of the Guards into the palace. Jehoash took his seat on the throne of the kings. •All the country people were delighted,^o and the city made no move. And they put Athaliah to death in the royal palace.

The reign of Jehoash in Judah (835-796)

12 Ch 24:
1-16

^{1,2} ^{2,1} 12 Jehoash was seven years old when he came to the throne. •Jehoash became king in the seventh year of Jehu, and reigned for forty years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Zibiah, of Beersheba. •Jehoash did what is pleasing to Yahweh all his life, having been instructed by Jehoiada the priest.^a •The high places, however, were not abolished, and the people still offered sacrifices and incense on the high places.

⁵ Jehoash said to the priests, 'All the money from the sacred dues brought to the Temple of Yahweh, the money from personal taxes,^b and the money given spontaneously to the Temple •is to be accepted by the priests, from people of their acquaintance, and the priests are to carry out all repairs to the Temple as required'.^c •Now in the twenty-third year of King Jehoash, the priests had done no repairs to the Temple; •so King Jehoash summoned Jehoiada the priest and the other priests. 'Why are you not repairing the Temple?' he asked. 'You are no longer to accept money from people of your acquaintance, but are to hand it over for the Temple repairs.' •The priests agreed to accept no money from the people and no longer to be responsible for repairs to the Temple.

¹⁰ ⁹ Jehoiada the priest procured a chest, bored a hole in the lid of it, and placed it beside the pillar, to the right as you enter the Temple of Yahweh; in it the priests who guarded the threshold put all the money that was given for the Temple of Yahweh.^d •Whenever they saw that there was a lot of money in the chest, the king's secretary^e would come, and they would melt down and reckon the money then in the Temple of Yahweh. •Once checked, they paid this money over to the masters of works attached to the Temple of Yahweh, and these in turn spent it on carpenters and builders working on the Temple of Yahweh, on masons and stonecutters, and on buying wood and dressed stone to be used for repairs to the Temple of Yahweh; in short, for all the costs of the Temple repairs. •No silver basins, however, no knives, sprinkling bowls, trumpets, no gold or silver objects whatever were made for the Temple of Yahweh out of the money presented, •for this was all given to the workmen who used it for repairing

k. Thus the Israelites lost all their Transjordanian territory. The verse is heavily glossed in the spirit of Dt 3:12f.

11 a. Two combined narratives are recognisable here: The first, vv. 1-12 and 18b-20, attributes the fall of Athaliah to the action of the priesthood, supported by the royal guard. The second, which is incomplete, vv. 13-18a, attributes it to a popular uprising.

b. According to 2 Ch 22:11 she was the wife of Jehoiada the priest, v. 4; this explains how she could keep Jehoash hidden in the Temple, v. 3.

c. Head of the Jerusalem priesthood, 12:8.

d. Mercenaries from Asia Minor. Cf. the 'Cherethites' of David's guard, 1 K 1:38.

e. On weekdays, it seems, one third of the guard was posted at the Temple, two thirds at the palace; on the sabbath the proportion was reversed. Jehoiada takes advantage of a sabbath: the two thirds go on duty at the Temple as usual but he keeps the other third there too. We omit v. 6 'and one third at the Gate Sur (?) and one third at the gate behind the guards, and you are to go on duty at the house of (word unknown)'; obscure text, perhaps composed of several corrupt glosses.

f. The text adds 'at the king's side'.

g. Probably a gloss from the parallel narrative of 2 Ch 23:9 in which the Levites assume the role of the guards and have to be armed.

h. Last words uncertain. The Hebr. has a different order and adds 'at the king's side'.

i. 'the armlets' conj.: part of the royal insignia, see 2 S 1:10; 'the testimony' Hebr. 'he anointed' Greek; 'they anointed' Hebr.

j. The Hebr. inserts 'of the guard', a gloss.

k. There was evidently a place reserved for the king beside one of the pillars in front of the Temple, 1 K 7:15-22.

l. 'officers' Greek; 'outside the precincts' Greek.

m. The last words are possibly an addition: they are absent from 2 Ch 23:16.

n. This revolution is a parallel to that of Jehu in the Northern Kingdom, ch. 10:18-28.

o. It is the country people therefore ('the people of the land') who support a return to the Davidic and Yahwistic tradition; the city has to be forced to accept it. 12 a. And not as in 2 Ch 24:2, 17f 'as long as the priest Jehoiada was his instructor'.

b. Text doubtful, restored from the Greek. The Hebr. here adds 'the money from the persons whom he (the priest?) has assessed'.

c. First of the new king's dispositions: payment for the repair of the Temple is to be made out of the revenues of the priesthood.

d. The royal edict is carried out. 'the pillar' Greek; 'the altar' Hebr.

e. Add. 'and the high priest'. 'they would melt down' corr.

the Temple of Yahweh. •No accounts were kept with the men to whom the money was paid over to be spent on the workmen, since they were honest in their dealings. •Money offered in expiation of an offence or of a sin was not given to the Temple of Yahweh; that was for the priests.

At that time Hazael king of Aram went to war against Gath, and captured it; he then prepared to attack Jerusalem. •Jehoash king of Judah took all the sacred offerings dedicated by his ancestors, the kings of Judah, Jehoshaphat, Jehoram and Ahaziah, with those that he himself had dedicated, and all the gold that was to be found in the treasuries of the Temple of Yahweh and of the royal palace; he sent it all to Hazael king of Aram, who retired from Jerusalem.

The rest of the history of Jehoash, his entire career, is not all this recorded in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Judah? •His officers rebelled and hatched a plot; they struck Jehoash down at Beth-millo. . . . •Jozacar son of Shimeath and Jehozabad son of Shomer were the two who struck him down and killed him. They buried him with his ancestors in the Citadel of David; his son Amaziah succeeded him.

The reign of Jehoahaz in Israel (814-798)

13 In the twenty-third year of Joash son of Ahaziah, king of Judah, Jehoahaz son of Jehu became king of Israel in Samaria. He reigned for seventeen years. •He did what is displeasing to Yahweh and persisted in the sin into which Jeroboam had led Israel; he did not give it up.

Then the anger of Yahweh blazed out against the Israelites, and he delivered them without respite into the power of Hazael king of Aram and of Ben-hadad son of Hazael. •Jehoahaz, however, tried to placate Yahweh, and Yahweh heard him, for he had seen the oppression the king of Aram was inflicting on them. •Yahweh gave Israel a saviour who freed them from the grip of Aram, and the Israelites lived in their tents as in the past. •But they did not give up the sin into which Jeroboam had led Israel; they persisted in it, and even the sacred pole remained in Samaria. •Yahweh left of the army of Jehoahaz only fifty horsemen, ten chariots and ten thousand foot soldiers. The king of Aram had destroyed them, making them like the dust that is trampled under foot.

The rest of the history of Jehoahaz, his entire career, his prowess, is not all this recorded in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Israel? •Then Jehoahaz slept with his ancestors, and they buried him in Samaria; his son Joash succeeded him.

The reign of Jehoash in Israel (798-783)

In the thirty-seventh year of Joash king of Judah, Jehoash, son of Jehoahaz, became king of Israel in Samaria. He reigned for sixteen years. •He did what is displeasing to Yahweh, he did not give up the sin into which Jeroboam son of Nebat had led Israel; he persisted in it.

The rest of the history of Joash, his entire career, his prowess, how he waged war on Amaziah king of Judah, is not all this recorded in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Israel? •Then Joash slept with his ancestors, and Jeroboam ascended his throne. Joash was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel.

The death of Elisha

When Elisha had fallen ill of the illness he was to die of, Joash king of Israel went down to him and shedding tears over him said, 'My father! My father! Chariot of Israel and its chargers!' •Elisha said to him, 'Bring bow and arrows'; and he sent for a bow and arrows. •Then Elisha said to the king, 'Draw the bow'; and he drew it. Elisha put his hands over the hands of the king, •then he said, 'Open the window towards the east', and he opened it. Then Elisha said, 'Arrow of victory over Aram! You will defeat Aram at Aphek completely.'

Elisha said, 'Take the arrows'; and he took them. Then he said to the king,

19 'Strike the ground'; and he struck it three times, then stopped. •At this, the man of God grew angry with him. 'You should have struck half a dozen times' he said 'and you would have beaten Aram completely; now you will only beat Aram three times.'

20 Elisha died, and was buried. Now bands of Moabites were making incursions 21 into the country every year.^d •Some people happened to be carrying a man out for burial; at the sight of one of these bands, they flung the man into the tomb of Elisha and made off. The man had no sooner touched the bones of Elisha than he came to life and stood up on his feet.

Victory over the Aramaeans

22 Hazael king of Aram had oppressed the Israelites throughout the lifetime of 23 Jehoahaz, •but Yahweh was kind and took pity on them. Because of the covenant he had made with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, he relented towards them; he had 24 no wish to destroy them, he did not cast them out of his presence.^e •Hazael king
25 of Aram died, and his son Ben-hadad succeeded him. •Jehoash son of Jehoahaz recaptured from Ben-hadad son of Hazael the towns which Hazael had seized from his father Jehoahaz by force of arms. Joash defeated him three times and recovered the Israelite towns.

VII. THE TWO KINGDOMS TO THE FALL OF SAMARIA

The reign of Amaziah in Judah (796-781)

1 14 In the second year of Joash son of Jehoahaz, king of Israel, Amaziah son
2 of Joash became king of Judah. •He was twenty-five years old when he came to the throne, and he reigned for twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His
3 mother's name was Jehoaddin, of Jerusalem. •He did what is pleasing to Yahweh, though not like his ancestor David; he imitated his father Joash in all respects.
4 The high places, however, were not abolished, and the people still offered sacrifices and incense on the high places.

5 Once the kingdom was firmly under his control, he killed those of his officers
6 who had murdered the king his father. •But he did not put the murderers' sons to death, in accordance with what is written in the Book of Moses, where Yahweh has ordered: 'Fathers must not be put to death for sons, nor sons for fathers; every one must be put to death for his own sin'.

7 It was he who defeated the Edomites in the Valley of Salt, ten thousand of them, and who took the Rock by assault; he gave it the name Joktheel, which it bears to this present day.

8 Then Amaziah sent messengers to Jehoash son of Jehoahaz son of Jehu, king
9 of Israel, saying, 'Come and make a trial of strength!' •Jehoash king of Israel sent word to Amaziah king of Judah, 'The thistle of Lebanon sent a message to the cedar of Lebanon, "Give my son your daughter in marriage"; but the wild
10 animals of Lebanon trampled down the thistle as they passed. •You have conquered Edom, and now hold your head in the air; boast on, but stay at home. Why challenge disaster, to your own ruin and the ruin of Judah?'

11 But Amaziah would not listen, and Jehoash king of Israel marched to the attack. And at Beth-shemesh, which belongs to Judah, they made their trial of strength, 12 Jehoash and Amaziah king of Judah. •Judah was defeated by Israel, and everyone

=13:12-13 The rest of the history of Jehoash, his entire career, his prowess, how he waged war on Amaziah king of Judah, is not all this recorded in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Israel? •Then Jehoash slept with his ancestors, and was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel; his son Jeroboam succeeded him.

Amaziah son of Joash, king of Judah, lived for fifteen years after the death of Jehoash son of Jehoahaz, king of Israel.

The rest of the history of Amaziah, is not all this recorded in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Judah? •A plot having been hatched against him in Jerusalem, he fled to Lachish; but he was followed to Lachish where he was put to death. •He was brought back by horse, and buried in Jerusalem with his ancestors in the Citadel of David. •All the people of Judah chose Uzziah,^c then sixteen years old, and made him king in succession to his father Amaziah. It was he who rebuilt Elath^d and recovered it for Judah, after the king had slept with his ancestors.

The reign of Jeroboam II in Israel (783-743)

In the fifteenth year of Amaziah son of Joash, king of Judah, Jeroboam son of Joash became king of Israel in Samaria. He reigned for forty-one years. He did what is displeasing to Yahweh and did not give up any of the sins into which Jeroboam son of Nebat had led Israel.

It was he who recovered the territory of Israel from the Pass of Hamath as far as the Sea of the Arabah, in accordance with the word that Yahweh, the God of Israel, had spoken through his servant Jonah^e son of Amittai, the prophet from Gath-hepher. •For Yahweh had seen how very bitter^f the affliction of Israel was, with no one, neither fettered nor free, to come to the help of Israel. But Yahweh had resolved not to blot out the name of Israel from under heaven; he rescued them by means of Jeroboam son of Joash.

The rest of the history of Jeroboam, his entire career, his prowess, what wars he waged, how he . . . ^g is not all this recorded in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Israel? •Then Jeroboam slept with his ancestors. They buried him in Samaria^h with the kings of Israel; his son Zechariah succeeded him.

The reign of Uzziah in Judah (781-740)

15 In the seventeenth year of Jeroboam king of Israel, Uzziah son of Amaziah became king of Judah. •He was sixteen years old when he came to the throne, and he reigned for fifty-two years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jecoliah, of Jerusalem. •He did what is pleasing to Yahweh, just as his father Amaziah had done. •The high places, however, were not abolished, and the people still offered sacrifices and incense on the high places.

But Yahweh struck the king, and he became a leper till his dying day. He lived confined to his room;^a his son Jotham was master of the palace and ruled the country.

The rest of the history of Uzziah, his entire career, is not all this recorded in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Judah? •Then Uzziah slept with his ancestors, and they buried him in the Citadel of David; his son Jotham succeeded him.

The reign of Zechariah in Israel (743)

In the thirty-eighth year of Uzziah king of Judah, Zechariah son of Jeroboam

9 became king of Israel in Samaria for six months. •He did what is displeasing to Yahweh, as his fathers had done; he did not give up the sins into which Jeroboam son of Nebat had led Israel.

10 Shallum son of Jabesh plotted against him, murdered him at Ibleam,^b and succeeded him.

11 The rest of the history of Zechariah is recorded in the Book of the Annals
12 of the Kings of Israel. •It happened as Yahweh had said to Jehu, 'Your sons will sit on the throne of Israel to the fourth generation'. And so it turned out. 10:30

The reign of Shallum in Israel (743)

13 Shallum son of Jabesh became king in the thirty-ninth year of Uzziah king of Judah, and reigned for one month in Samaria.

14 Then Menahem son of Gadi went up from Tirzah, entered Samaria, murdered Shallum son of Jabesh there, and succeeded him.

15 The rest of the history of Shallum, and the plot he hatched, all this is recorded 16 in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Israel. •It was at that time that Menahem sacked Tappush^c—killing all who were in it—and its territory from Tirzah onwards, because it had not opened its gates to him; he sacked the town and ripped open all the pregnant women.

17 In the thirty-ninth year of Uzziah king of Judah, Menahem son of Gadi
18 became king of Israel. He reigned for ten years in Samaria. •He did what is displeasing to Yahweh, he did not give up the sins into which Jeroboam son of Nebat had led Israel.

19 In his times,^d •Pul^e king of Assyria invaded the country. Menahem gave Pul a thousand talents of silver in return for his support in strengthening his hold 20 on the royal power. •Menahem levied this sum from Israel, from all the men of rank, at the rate of fifty shekels a head, to be given to the king of Assyria, who then withdrew, and did not stay in the country.

The reign of Pekahiah in Israel (738-737)

23 In the fiftieth year of Uzziah king of Judah, Pekahiah son of Menahem
24 became king of Israel in Samaria. He reigned for two years. •He did what is displeasing to Yahweh; he did not give up the sins into which Jeroboam son of Nebat had led Israel.

25 Pekah son of Remaliah, his equerry, plotted against him and struck him down in Samaria, in the keep of the royal palace. . . .^f He had fifty men of Gilead with him. He killed the king, and succeeded him.

The reign of Hoshea in Israel (732-724)

1 17 In the twelfth year of Ahaz king of Judah, Hoshea son of Elah became king of Israel in Samaria, and reigned for nine years. •He did what is displeasing to Yahweh, though not like the preceding kings of Israel.

3 Shalmaneser^a king of Assyria made war on Hoshea who submitted to him and paid him tribute. •But the king of Assyria discovered that Hoshea was playing a double game with him: he had sent messengers to So,^b king of Egypt, and had not, as in previous years, handed over the tribute to the king of Assyria. For this the king of Assyria imprisoned him, in chains.^c

g. Five years at most according to known dates.

h. The towns mentioned ('all Naphtali') were subdued as Tiglath-pileser advanced in his campaign against Philistia in 734. Gilead and Galilee were conquered in the campaign of 733-732 aimed principally against Damascus, but are included summarily in this list.

i. First Israelite deportation.

j. The Hebr. adds 'in the twentieth year of Jotham, son of Uzziah'.

k. If the figure is exact it includes the years of Jotham's regency, v. 5.

l. Rezin was the last king of Damascus before the town fell into Assyrian hands, 16:9. The war now being prepared breaks out in the reign of Ahaz, 16:5-9.

16 a. 'they besieged it' Syr., cf. Is 7:1; 'they besieged Ahaz' Hebr. The purpose of this war, occasioning the prophecies of Is:7-8, was to bring Judah into the anti-Assyrian coalition.

b. The translation conjecturally reads 'Edom' for Hebr. 'Aram' and drops Hebr. 'Rezin' before 'the king of Edom'. The Edomites avail themselves of this opportunity to retake Elath, see 14:22.

c. Ahaz acknowledges himself vassal of Tiglath-pileser (in 734) but this bargaining for protection paves the way for the downfall of his kingdom, cf. Is 8:5f.

d. Tiglath-pileser's campaign against Damascus, 733-732.

e. The high altar of the temple of Damascus, 5:18, and not an altar raised by the army of occupation. 'the measurements' Greek; 'the pattern' Hebr.

f. The king himself consecrates the altar by exercising priestly functions; he reserved to himself the right to act as priest in certain circumstances. The king is also the administrator of the Temple, and lays down the ceremonial (see 12:5-17, under Jehoash); Uriah only appears as a royal official.

g. The bronze altar (as the Hebr. gloss correctly notes) installed by Solomon, 1 K 8:64; 9:25, in front of the Temple entrance.

h. Translation doubtful.

i. Hebr. text disturbed. It is not known whether the changes introduced by Ahaz have a ceremonial purpose or whether they are made to provide him with the bronze he needs (to pay his tribute to the Assyrian king?).

j. Interpretation disputed. Probably 'the dais' and 'the royal entry' are symbols of sovereignty which Tiglath-pileser makes his vassal remove.

17 a. Shalmaneser V (727-722) successor of Tiglath-pileser III.

b. This 'So, king of Egypt' probably the Egyptian general called Sibe in Assyrian texts, possibly a prince of the Delta.

c. The imprisonment of Hoshea, who had marched against Shalmaneser or had fled from Samaria, took place at the beginning of the siege of Samaria and marked the end of his reign (9th year).

d. Shalmaneser had laid siege to the city in 724, but it held out until the beginning of the reign of his son Sargon, probably early in 721. The 'ninth year of Hoshea' refers to the beginning of the siege.

e. Not far from Haran to the extreme N. of Mesopotamia.

f. E. of Mesopotamia. Israelite settlements here took the place of the natives whom Tiglath-pileser had deported. This is the background of Tb.

18:12 Observations on the fall of the Northern Kingdom^a

This happened because the Israelites had sinned against Yahweh their God 7 who had brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the grip of Pharaoh king of Egypt. They worshipped other gods, •they followed the practices of the 8 nations that Yahweh had dispossessed for them.^b •The Israelites, and the kings 9 they had made for themselves, plotted^c wicked schemes against their God. They built high places for themselves wherever they lived, from watchtower to fortified 10 town. •They set up pillars and sacred poles for themselves on every high hill 11 and under every spreading tree. •They sacrificed^d there after the manner of the 12 nations that Yahweh had expelled before them, and did wicked things there, provoking the anger of Yahweh. •They served idols, although Yahweh had told them, 'This you must not do'.

And yet through all the prophets and all the seers, Yahweh had given Israel 13 and Judah this warning, 'Turn from your wicked ways and keep my commandments and my laws in accordance with the entire Law I laid down for your fathers and delivered to them through my servants the prophets'. •But they 14 would not listen, they were more stubborn than^e their ancestors had been who had no faith in Yahweh their God. •They despised his laws and the covenant 15 he had made with their ancestors, and the warnings he had given them. They pursued emptiness, and themselves became empty through copying the nations round them although Yahweh had ordered them not to act as they did. They rejected all the commandments of Yahweh their God and made idols of 16 cast metal for themselves, two calves; they made themselves sacred poles, they worshipped the whole array of heaven, and they served Baal. •They made their 17 sons and daughters pass through fire, they practised divination and sorcery, they sold themselves to evil-doing in the sight of Yahweh, provoking his anger. For this, Yahweh was enraged with Israel and thrust them away from him. 18 There was none left but the tribe of Judah only.

Judah did not keep the commandments of Yahweh their God either, but 19 copied the practices that Israel had introduced. •Yahweh rejected the whole 20 race of Israel; he brought them low, delivering them into the hands of marauders, until at length he thrust them away from him. •And indeed he had torn Israel 21 away from the House of David, and they had made Jeroboam son of Nebat king; Jeroboam had drawn Israel away from Yahweh and led them into a great sin. •The Israelites copied the sin^f Jeroboam had committed; they did not 22 give it up, •until at length Yahweh thrust Israel away from him, as he had foretold 23 through all his servants the prophets; he deported the Israelites from their own country to Assyria, where they still are today.

The origin of the Samaritans^g

The king of Assyria brought people from Babylon, Cuthah, Avva, Hamath 24 and Sepharvaim, and settled them in the towns of Samaria to replace the Israelites; they took possession of Samaria and lived in its towns.

When they first came to live there, they did not worship Yahweh, so Yahweh 25 sent lions against them, which killed a number of them. •They said to the king 26 of Assyria, 'The nations you deported and settled in the towns of Samaria do not know how to worship the god of the country, and he has sent lions against them; and now these are killing them because they do not know how to worship the god of the country'. •So the king of Assyria gave this order: 'Send back 27 one of the priests whom I deported from there; let him go^h and live there and teach them how to worship the god of the country'. •Accordingly, one of the 28 priests they had deported from Samaria came to live in Bethel; he taught them how to worship Yahweh.

Each national group made idols representing its own gods and put them in 29 the temples of the high places made by the Samaritans; each national group did this in the towns allocated to it. •The men of Babylon had made a Succoth- 30

31 benoth, the men of Cuthah a Nergal, the men of Hamath an Ashima, •the Avvites a Nibhaz and a Tartak; while the Sepharvites burnt their children in the fire in honour of Adrammelech and of Anammelech, gods of Sepharvaim.
32 They worshipped Yahweh as well, and they appointed priests out of their own number for the high places who officiated for them in the temples of the high 33 places. •They worshipped Yahweh and served their own gods at the same time, 34 with the rites of the countries from which they had been deported. •They still followed their old rites even now.

1K 12:31

They did not worship Yahweh^o and did not conform to his statutes or ritual, or the law or the commandments, which Yahweh had laid down for the 35 sons of Jacob to whom he gave the name Israel. •Yahweh had made a covenant with them and had given them this command: 'You are not to worship alien gods, you are not to bow down to them or serve them or offer them sacrifices.
36 You are to bow down and offer sacrifice to Yahweh who brought you out of 37 the land of Egypt with great power and outstretched arm. •You are to observe the statutes and ritual, the law and the commandments which he has given you in writing and to which you are always to conform; you are not to worship 38 alien gods. •Do not forget the covenant I have made with you, and do not 39 venerate alien gods. •Venerate Yahweh alone, your God, and he will deliver 40 you out of the power of all your enemies.' •But they would not listen, and still followed their old rites.

Gn 32:29
Ex 19:1+

41 These nations, then, worshipped Yahweh and served their carved images as well, their children, too, and their children's children still behave today as their fathers behaved in the past.

VIII. THE LAST YEARS OF THE KINGDOM OF JUDAH

A. HEZEKIAH, THE PROPHET ISAIAH; ASSYRIA

Introduction to the reign of Hezekiah (716-687)

1 18 In the third year of Hoshea^a son of Elah, king of Israel, Hezekiah son of ||2 Ch 29:1-2
2 Ahaz became king of Judah. •He was twenty-five years old when he came to the throne, and he reigned for twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother's 3 name was Abijah,^b daughter of Zechariah. •He did what is pleasing to Yahweh, 4 just as his ancestor David had done. •It was he who abolished the high places, broke the pillars, cut down the sacred poles^c and smashed the bronze serpent that Moses had made; for up to that time the Israelites had offered sacrifice 5 to it; it was called Nehushtan.^d •He put his trust in the God of Israel. No king

g. These observations do not come from one source. For the principal author of the book the grievous fault of Israel is the religious schism, 1 K 12:26-33, an 'original sin' of which every king of Israel is accused in vv. 7a and 21-23. A development rich in reminiscences of Dt and the prophets (especially Jr) has been added; it denounces religious compromise and the local shrines, vv. 7b-18. A second addition extends the condemnation to Judah, vv. 19-20.

h. The Hebr. adds a few words 'and (the practices) of the kings of Israel which they made their own' or 'and (the practices) which the kings of Israel had introduced', probably a gloss (in accordance with v. 21) intended for the beginning of v. 9 but transposed here.

i. 'plotted' text uncertain. Cf. note h.

j. The text adds 'on all the high places'.

k. 'more than' Greek; 'as' Hebr.

l. 'the sin' Greek; 'all the sins' Hebr.

m. Vv. 24-28 and 41 offer a simplified view of the resettlement of the Northern Kingdom: they presuppose a wholesale deportation of the Israelite population and fuse several successive colonisations; by the story of vv. 25-28 they explain the persistence of Yahwistic worship in these pagan surroundings. The details of vv. 29-34a were added during the Exile. The development in vv. 34b-40 reverts to the sins responsible for the ruin of Israel, and would be more appropriately placed in the first part of the chapter.

n. 'I deported from there' Targ. 'let him go' versions.

o. Faithless Israelites are meant here, as in vv. 14f, not (as in the preceding verses) pagans. 'his statutes' conj.; 'their statutes' Hebr.

18 a. Chronology uncertain.

b. 'Abijah' 2 Ch 29:1; 'Abi' Hebr.

c. By thus centralising the cult and declaring war on idolatry Hezekiah prepares the way for the reforms of Josiah, ch. 23, and well deserves the eulogy of vv. 3 and 5-6.

d. The name alludes to the material of which it was made (nehosheth, bronze) and to its shape (nahash, serpent). It was said to be the image made by Moses in the desert, Nb 21:8-9, and was the object of idolatrous worship, Ws 16:6-7.

of Judah after him could be compared with him—nor any of those before him. He was devoted to Yahweh, never turning from him, but keeping the command-Gn 39:2 ments that Yahweh had laid down for Moses. •And so Yahweh was with him, and he was successful in all that he undertook. He rebelled against the king of Assyria^e and refused to serve him. •It was he who harassed the Philistines as far as Gaza, laying their territory waste from watchtower to fortified town.

=17:1-6 The fall of Samaria; recapitulation^f

In the fourth year of Hezekiah, which was the seventh year of Hoshea son of Elah, king of Israel, Shalmaneser king of Assyria made war on Samaria and laid siege to it. •He captured it after three years. Samaria fell in the sixth year of Hezekiah, which was the ninth year of Hoshea king of Israel. •The king of Assyria deported the Israelites to Assyria and settled them in Halah on the 17:7-18 Habor, a river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes. •This happened because they had not obeyed the voice of Yahweh their God and had broken his covenant, violating all that Moses the servant of Yahweh had laid down. They neither listened to it nor put it into practice.

Sennacherib's invasion^g

||2Ch32:1 In the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah, Sennacherib king of Assyria attacked
 ||Si 48:18 the fortified towns of Judah and captured them. •Then Hezekiah king of Judah
 ||Is 36:1 sent this message to the king of Assyria at Lachish, 'I have been at fault. Call off the attack, and I will submit myself to whatever you impose on me.' The king of Assyria exacted three hundreds talents of silver and thirty talents of gold from Hezekiah king of Judah, •and Hezekiah gave him all the silver in the Temple of Yahweh and in the treasury of the royal palace. •It was then that Hezekiah stripped the facing from the leaves and jambs of the doors of the 1K6:20-22 Temple of Yahweh, which...^h king of Judah had plated, and gave it to the king of Assyria.

The embassy of the cupbearer-in-chief

||2 Ch 32: From Lachish the king of Assyria sent the cupbearer-in-chief with a large
 9-19 force to King Hezekiah in Jerusalem.ⁱ He went up to Jerusalem, and when he ||Is 36:2-22 arrived,^j he took a position near the conduit of the upper pool which is on the
 Is 7:3 road to the Fuller's Field. •He summoned the king. The master of the palace, 1K 4:2+ Eliakim son of Hilkiah, Shebnah the secretary and the herald Joah son of
 Is 22:13-25 Asaph went out to him. •The cupbearer-in-chief said to them, 'Say to Hezekiah, 19 "Thus speaks the great king, the king of Assyria: What makes you so confident?
 Do you think empty words are as good as strategy and military strength? Who are you relying on, to dare to rebel against me? •We know you are relying 21 on that broken reed Egypt,^k which pricks and pierces the hand of the man who leans on it.—That is what Pharaoh king of Egypt is like to all who rely on him.—You may say to me: We rely on Yahweh our God, but are they not 18:4 his high places and altars that Hezekiah has suppressed, saying to the people of Judah and Jerusalem: This in Jerusalem, is the altar, before which you must worship? •Come, make a wager with my lord the king of Assyria: I will give 23 you two thousand horses if you can find horsemen to ride them. •How could 24 you repulse a single one^l of the least of my master's servants? And yet you have relied on Egypt for chariots and horsemen. •And lastly, have I come up against 25 this place to lay it waste without warrant from Yahweh? Yahweh himself said to me: March against this country and lay it waste."'

Eliakim,^m Shebnah and Joah said to the cupbearer-in-chief, 'Please speak 26 to your servants in Aramaic, for we understand it; do not speak to us in the Judaeen language within earshot of the people on the ramparts'. •But the 27 cupbearer-in-chief said, 'Do you think my lord sent me here to say these things to your master or to you? On the contrary, it was to the people sitting on the ramparts who, like you, are doomed to eat their own dung and drink their own urine.”ⁿ

28 Then the cupbearer-in-chief stood erect and, shouting loudly in the Judean language, called out, ‘Listen to the word of the great king, the king of Assyria.
29 Thus the king speaks: “Do not let Hezekiah delude you. He will be powerless
30 to save you from my hands. •Do not let Hezekiah persuade you to rely on Yahweh by saying: Yahweh is sure to save us; this city will not fall into the 31 power of the king of Assyria. •Do not listen to Hezekiah, for the king of Assyria says this: Make peace with me, surrender to me, and every one of you will eat the fruit of his own vine and of his own fig tree and drink the water
32 of his own cistern •until I come and deport you to a country like your own, a land of corn and good wine, a land of bread and of vineyards, a land of oil and of honey, so that you may not die but live. Do not listen to Hezekiah who is 33 deluding you when he says: Yahweh will save us. •Has any god of any nation saved his country from the power of the king of Assyria? •Where are the gods of Hamath and Arpad? Where are the gods of Sepharvaim and Hena and Ivvah? Where are the gods of the land of Samaria?^o Did they save Samaria from me?
34 Tell me which, of all the gods of any country, have saved their countries from my hands, for Yahweh to be able to save Jerusalem?”’

17:5,6,24;
19:13

35 They kept silence and said nothing in reply, since such was the king’s order:
37 ‘Do not answer him’ he had said. •The master of the palace, Eliakim son of Hilkiyah, Shebnah the secretary and the herald Joah son of Asaph, with their garments torn, went to Hezekiah and reported what the cupbearer-in-chief had said.

The prophet Isaiah is consulted

||Is37:1-7

1 19 On hearing this, King Hezekiah tore his garments, covered himself with 2 sackcloth and went to the Temple of Yahweh. •He sent the master of the palace, Eliakim, Shebnah the secretary and the elders of the priests, covered in 3 sackcloth, to the prophet Isaiah son of Amoz.^a •They said to him, ‘This is what Hezekiah says, “Today is a day of suffering, of punishment, of disgrace. Children
4 come to birth, and there is no strength to bring them forth.”^b •May Yahweh your God hear the words of the cupbearer-in-chief whom his master, the king of Assyria, has sent to insult the living God, and may Yahweh your God punish the words he has heard. Offer your prayer for the remnant that is left.”’^c

1 K 21:27

5 When the ministers of King Hezekiah had come to Isaiah, •he replied, ‘Say
6 to your master, “Yahweh says this: Do not be afraid of the words you have heard or the blasphemies the minions of the king of Assyria have uttered against 7 me. •I am going to put a spirit^d in him, and when he hears a rumour he will return to his own country, and in that country I will bring him down with the sword.”’

e. Either in 711 or, more probably, before the campaign of 701, vv. 13f.

f. This passage recapitulates the events of ch. 17.

g. Sennacherib was son and successor of Sargon; his Palestinian campaign took place in 701. The Annals of his reign record it in detail, confirming the data of vv. 13-16, but saying nothing of the ultimate repulse of Sennacherib and so containing nothing corresponding to 18:17-19:37. In the biblical text there are two parallel narratives: first, 18:17-19:9a with 19:36-37, and second, 19:9b-35; these report the events in the same order but in a slightly different way. The whole passage, 18:13-19:37, is repeated with some variants in Is 36-37.

h. By an oversight the text reads ‘Hezekiah’ instead of the name of some previous king.

i. The text of 2 K inserts ‘the commander-in-chief and the chief eunuch’; omitted by Is 36:2.

j. The Hebr. here repeats the preceding words.

k. Attempts to form an alliance with Egypt have been condemned by Isaiah.

l. ‘a single one’ conj.; ‘a single satrap’ Hebr.

m. ‘Eliakim’ Is 36:11.

n. Graphic description of the straits to which a beleaguered city is reduced.

o. ‘where are the gods of the land of Samaria’ Greek.

19 a. Hezekiah consults Isaiah just as the earlier kings of Israel and Judah consulted the prophets, as their counsellors in war, such as Elijah and Elisha, cf. 1 K 22:8f; 2 K 1:9f; 3:11f; 6:8f, etc.

b. Probably a proverbial expression for a desperate situation.

c. The saving of a ‘remnant’ of the chosen people is one of the themes of the preaching of Isaiah, cf. Is 4:3+ and, here, vv. 30-31.

d. ‘spirit’ is not here personified: it is an imperative inspiration from God.

||Is37:8-9 The cupbearer returns to his master

The cupbearer went back and rejoined the king of Assyria at Libnah, ⁸ which he was attacking. The cupbearer had already learnt that the king of Assyria had left Lachish, ⁹ since he had received this news about Tirhakah^e king of Cush, ⁹ 'He has set out to fight you'.

||2Ch32:17
||Is37:9-20 Sennacherib's letter to Hezekiah

Sennacherib sent messengers to Hezekiah again, saying, 'Tell this to Hezekiah ¹⁰ king of Judah, "Do not let your God on whom you are relying deceive you, when he says: Jerusalem shall not fall into the power of the king of Assyria. You have learnt by now what the kings of Assyria have done to every country, ¹¹ putting them all under the ban. Are you likely to be spared? •What power to ¹² help did the gods have of those nations my fathers destroyed, Gozan, Haran, ^{17:6} ^{18:34} Rezech and the Edenites who were in Tel Basar?^f •Where are the king of Hamath, ¹³ the king of Arpad,^g the kings of Sepharvaim, of Hena, of Ivvah?"'

Hezekiah took the letter from the hands of the messenger and read it; he then ¹⁴ went up to the Temple of Yahweh and spread it out before Yahweh. •Hezekiah ¹⁵ said this prayer in the presence of Yahweh, 'Yahweh Sabaoth, God of Israel, enthroned on the cherubs, you alone are God of all the kingdoms of the earth, you have made heaven and earth.

doms of the earth know that you alone are God, Yahweh.'

||Is37:21-35 Isaiah intervenes

Then Isaiah son of Amoz sent to Hezekiah. 'Yahweh, the God of Israel' he ²⁰ said 'says this, "I have heard the prayer you have addressed to me about Sennacherib king of Assyria". •Here is the oracle that Yahweh has pronounced ²¹ against him:'

"She despises you, she scorns you,
the virgin, daughter of Zion;
she tosses her head behind you,
the daughter of Jerusalem.
Whom have you insulted, whom did you blaspheme? ²² Against whom raised your voice and lifted your haughty eyes?
Against the Holy One of Israel!
Through your envoys you have insulted the Lord, ²³
you have said: With my many chariots
I have climbed the tops of mountains,
the utmost peaks of Lebanon.
I have felledⁱ its tall forest of cedars,
its finest cypresses.
I have reached its furthest recesses,
its forest garden.
Yes, I have dug wells ²⁴
and drunk of alien waters;

I have put down my feet, and I have dried up all the rivers of Egypt.^k

- 25 "Do you hear? Long ago
I planned for it,
from days of old I designed it,
now I carry it out.
Your part was to bring down in heaps of ruins fortified cities.
- 26 Their inhabitants, hands feeble,
dismayed, discomfited,
were like plants of the field,
like tender grass,
like grass of housetop and meadow under the east wind.^l
- 27 But I am there whether you rise^m or sit;
whether you go out, or you come in, I know it.
- 28 Because you have raved against me
and your insolence has come to my ears,
I will put my ring through your nostrils,
my bit between your lips,
to make you return by the road on which you came.

this year will be eaten the self-sown grain,
next year what sprouts in the fallow,
but in the third year sow and reap,
plant vineyards and eat their fruit.
- 30 The surviving remnant of the House of Judah shall bring forth new roots below and fruits above;
- 31 for a remnant shall go out from Jerusalem,
and survivors from Mount Zion.
The jealous love of Yahweh Sabaoth shall accomplish this."
- 32 "This, then, is what Yahweh says about the king of Assyria:
"He will not enter this city,
he will let fly no arrow against it,
confront it with no shield,
throw up no earthwork against it.
- 33 By the road that he came on he will return;
he shall not enter this city. It is Yahweh who speaks.

Alternative explanations: either the oracle was pronounced on some different occasion, or else its import is a very general one, namely that after lean days prosperity follows.

 2 M 8:19 it was time to get up, there they lay, so many corpses.^o

 Na 1:12 the land of Ararat.^p His son Esarhaddon succeeded him.

The illness and cure of Hezekiah

20^a In those days^b Hezekiah fell ill and was at the point of death. The prophet 1 Isaiah son of Amoz came and said to him, 'Yahweh says this, "Put your affairs in order, for you are going to die, you will not live"'. •Hezekiah 2 turned his face to the wall and addressed this prayer to Yahweh, •'Ah, Yahweh, 3 remember I beg you, how I have behaved faithfully and with sincerity of heart in your presence and done what is right in your eyes'. And Hezekiah shed many tears.

Si 48:23 Isaiah had not left the middle court,^c before the word of Yahweh came to 4 him, •'Go back and say to Hezekiah, prince of my people, "Yahweh, the God of 5
 Ps 56:8 David your ancestor, says this : I have heard your prayer and seen your tears.
 I will cure you: in three days' time you shall go up to the Temple of Yahweh.
 I will add fifteen years to your life. I will save you and this city from the hands 6 of the king of Assyria, I will protect this city for my own sake and the sake of my servant David."'

'Bring a fig poultice' Isaiah said; they brought one, applied it to the ulcer, 7 and the king recovered.

15 14:10+ Hezekiah said to Isaiah, 'What is the sign to tell me that Yahweh will cure 8 me and that I shall be going up to the Temple of Yahweh in three days?' •'Here' 9 Isaiah replied 'is the sign from Yahweh that he will do what he has said; would Jos 10:13 you like the shadow to go forward^d ten steps, or to go back ten steps?' •'It is easy 10 for the shadow to lengthen ten steps,' Hezekiah answered 'no, I would rather the shadow went back ten steps.' •The prophet Isaiah then called on Yahweh 11 who made the shadow go back ten steps on the steps of Ahaz.^e

The Babylonian embassy

12 At that time the king of Babylon, Merodach-baladan son of Baladan,^f sent 12 letters and a gift to Hezekiah, for he had heard of his illness and his recovery.^g Hezekiah was delighted at this^h and showed the messengers his treasure-house, 13 the silver, gold, spices, precious oil, his armoury too, and everything there was in his storehouses. There was nothing Hezekiah did not show them in his palace or in his whole domain.

Then the prophet Isaiah came to King Hezekiah and asked him, 'What have 14 these men said, and where have they come from?' Hezekiah answered, 'They have come from a faraway country, from Babylon'. •Isaiah said, 'What have 15 they seen in your palace?' 'They have seen everything in my palace' Hezekiah answered. 'There is nothing in my storehouses that I have not shown them.'

Then Isaiah said to Hezekiah, 'Listen to the word of Yahweh, •"The days 16 24:13 are coming when everything in your palace, everything that your ancestors have amassed until now, will be carried off to Babylon. Not a thing will be left" says Yahweh. •"Sons sprung from you, sons begotten by you, will be chosen to be 18 eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon." ' •Hezekiah said to Isaiah, 'This 19 word of Yahweh that you announce is reassuring', for he was thinking, 'And why not? So long as there is peace and security during my own lifetime.'

B. TWO WICKED KINGS

The reign of Manasseh in Judah (687-642)

112Ch 33:1-10

1 21 Manasseh was twelve years old when he came to the throne, and he reigned 2 for fifty-five years^a in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Hephzibah. •He 3 did what is displeasing to Yahweh, copying the shameful practices of the nations
4 whom Yahweh had dispossessed for the sons of Israel. •He rebuilt the high
5 places that his father Hezekiah had destroyed, he set up altars to Baal and made
6 a sacred pole as Ahab king of Israel had done, he worshipped the whole array 7 of heaven and served it. •He built altars^b in the Temple of Yahweh of which 8 Yahweh had said, 'Jerusalem is where I will give my name a home'.
9 He built altars to the whole array of heaven in the two courts of the 10 Temple of Yahweh. •He caused his son to pass through the fire. He practised 11 soothsaying and magic and introduced necromancers and wizards. He did very 12 many more things displeasing to Yahweh, thus provoking his anger. •He placed 13 the carved image of Asherah^c which he had made in the Temple, of which 14 Yahweh had said to David and his son Solomon, 'In this Temple and in 15 Jerusalem, the city I chose out of all the tribes of Israel, I will give my name 16 a home for ever. •I will no longer make Israel's footsteps wander from the 17 land I gave their fathers, provided they observe all I have ordered them in accord-18 ance with the whole Law that my servant Moses prescribed for them.'^d •But 19 they did not listen, Manasseh led them astray, so that they did more evil than 20 those nations Yahweh had destroyed before the sons of Israel.
21 Then Yahweh spoke through his servants the prophets, •"Since Manasseh king of Judah has done these shameful deeds, acting more wickedly than all the Amorites did before him, and has led Judah itself into sin with his idols, Yahweh, the God of Israel, says this, "Look, I will bring such disaster as to make the ears of all who hear of it tingle. •I will stretch over Jerusalem the same measuring line as over Samaria, the same plumb-rule as for the House of Ahab;
I will scour Jerusalem as a man scours a dish and, having scoured it, turns it upside down.^e •I will cast away the remnant^f of my inheritance, delivering them into the power of their enemies, and making them serve as prey and booty to all their enemies, •because they have done what is displeasing to me and have provoked my anger from the day their ancestors came out of Egypt until now." " of Haruz, of Jotbah. •He did what is displeasing to Yahweh, as Manasseh his 20 father had done. •In every respect he followed the example of his father, serving 21 the idols his father had served, and worshipping them. •He abandoned Yahweh, 22 the God of his ancestors; he did not follow the way of Yahweh.

Amon's officers plotted against the king and killed him in his palace. •But 23
the country people^h struck down all those who had plotted against king Amon, 24 and proclaimed his son Josiah as his successor. 25:30

The rest of the history of Amon, his entire career, is not all this recorded in 25
the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Judah? •He was buried in his father's 26 tombⁱ in the garden of Uzza; his son Josiah succeeded him.

C. JOSIAH AND THE RELIGIOUS REFORM

112 Ch 34:1-2 Si 49:2 Introduction to the reign of Josiah (640-609)

22 Josiah was eight years old when he came to the throne, and he reigned for 1 thirty-one years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jedidah, daughter of Adaiah, of Bozkath. •He did what is pleasing to Yahweh, and in every respect 2 followed the example of his ancestor David, not deviating from it to right or left.

112 Ch 34: 8-18 The Book of the Law discovered

In the eighteenth year of King Josiah, the king sent the secretary Shaphan 3 son of Azaliah son of Meshullam to the Temple of Yahweh. •'Go to Hilkiah 4 the high priest,' he told him 'and tell him to melt down^a the silver that has been brought to the Temple of Yahweh and that those who guard the threshold 5 have collected from the people. •Let him hand it over to the masters of works 5 attached to the Temple of Yahweh, for them to spend on the workmen working on the repairs to the Temple of Yahweh, •on the carpenters, builders and masons, 6 and on buying wood and dressed stone for the Temple repairs. •But they are 7 not to be asked to render account of the money handed over to them, since they are honest in their dealings.'

112 Ch 34: 14 The high priest Hilkiah said to Shaphan the secretary, 'I have found the 8 Book of the Law in the Temple of Yahweh'.^b And Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan, who read it. •Shaphan the secretary went to the king and reported 9 to him as follows, 'Your servants' he said 'have melted down the silver which was in the Temple and have handed it over to the masters of works attached to the Temple of Yahweh'. •Then Shaphan the secretary informed the king, 'Hilkiah 10 the priest has given me a book'; and Shaphan read it aloud in the king's presence.

112 Ch 34: 19-28 Huldah the prophetess is consulted

On hearing the contents of the Book of the Law, the king tore his garments, 11 and gave the following order to Hilkiah the priest, Ahikam son of Shaphan, 11
Achbor son of Micaiah, Shaphan the secretary and Asaiah the king's minister: 12
'Go and consult Yahweh, on behalf of me and the people, about the contents of this book that has been found. Great indeed must be the anger of Yahweh 13 blazing out against us because our ancestors did not obey what this book says by practising everything written in it.’^c

- 14 Hilkiah the priest, Ahikam, Achbor, Shaphan and Asaiah went to Huldah^a the prophetess, wife of Shallum son of Tikvah, son of Harhas, the keeper of the wardrobe; she lived in Jerusalem in the new town. They put the matter to 15 her, and she replied, ‘Yahweh, the God of Israel, says this, “To the man
16 who sent you to me say this: •Yahweh says this: I am bringing disaster on this place and those who live in it, carrying out everything said in the book 17 the king of Judah has read, •because they have deserted me and sacrificed to 24:20 other gods, to provoke my anger by everything they did. My anger blazes out 18 against this place; it will not be extinguished. •And you are to say to the king of Judah who sent you to consult Yahweh: Yahweh, the God of Israel, says
19 this: The words you have heard... •But since your heart has been touched and you have humbled yourself before Yahweh on hearing what I have decreed against this place and those who live in it, how they will become an object of horror and cursing; and since you have torn your garments and wept before me, 20 I for my part have heard—it is Yahweh who speaks. •For this reason I will gather you to your ancestors, you shall be gathered into your grave in peace; your eyes will not see all the disasters that I mean to bring on this place.”’ They took this answer to the king.

The covenant renewed

- 1 23 The king then had all the elders of Judah and of Jerusalem summoned to 2 him, and the king went up to the Temple of Yahweh with all the men of Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, priests, prophets and all the people, of high or low degree. In their hearing he read out everything that was said
3 in the book of the covenant^a found in the Temple of Yahweh. •The king stood beside the pillar, and in the presence of Yahweh he made a covenant to follow Yahweh and keep his commandments and decrees and laws with all his heart and soul, in order to enforce the terms of the covenant as written in that book. All the people gave their allegiance to the covenant.

Religious reform in Judah

- 4 The king ordered Hilkiah^b with the priest next in rank and the guardians of the threshold^c to remove all the cult objects that had been made for Baal, Asherah and the whole array of heaven; he burnt them outside Jerusalem in 5 the fields of the Kidron and had the ashes taken to Bethel. •He did away with the spurious priests whom the kings of Judah had appointed and who offered sacrifice^d on the high places, in the towns of Judah and the neighbourhood of Jerusalem; also those who offered sacrifice to Baal, to the sun, the moon, the 6 constellations and the whole array of heaven.^e •From the Temple of Yahweh he removed the sacred pole right out of Jerusalem to the wadi Kidron, and in the wadi Kidron he burnt it; he reduced it to ashes and threw its ashes on the 7 common burying-ground. •He pulled down the house of the sacred male prostitutes which was in the Temple of Yahweh and where the women wove clothes for Asherah.

d. ‘and who offered sacrifice’ Greek, Targ.; ‘and he offered sacrifice’ Hebr.

e. Vv. 4b-5 must be an addition.

Dt 12 He brought all the priests in from the towns of Judah, and from Geba to 8
 Beersheba he desecrated the high places where these priests had offered sacrifice.^f
 He pulled down the shrine of the goats^g which stood at the gate of Joshua, the governor of the city, to the left as you enter the city gate. •The priests of 9
 the high places, however, could not go up to the altar of Yahweh in Jerusalem, but they ate unleavened bread in the company of their brother priests.^h •He 10 Lv18:21+ desecrated the furnace in the Valley of Ben-hinnom, so that no one could make his son or daughter pass through fire in honour of Molech. •He did away with 11
 the horses that the kings of Judah had dedicated to the sunⁱ at the entrance to the Temple of Yahweh, near the apartment of Nathan-melech the eunuch, in the precincts, and he burned the chariot of the sun. •The altars on the roof^j 12 21:5
 Zp 1:4 that the kings of Judah had built, with those that Manasseh had built in the two courts of the Temple of Yahweh, the king pulled down, and broke them to pieces on the spot, then carried them away and threw their rubble into the wadi Kidron. •The king desecrated the high places facing Jerusalem, to the south 13
 1 K 11:7 of the Mount of Olives,^k which Solomon king of Israel had built for Astarte the Sidonian abomination, for Chemosh the Moabite abomination, and for Milcom the Ammonite abomination. •He also smashed the sacred pillars, cut 14
 Dt16:21-
 22+
 1 K14:23
 Zp 1:5 down the sacred poles, and covered the places where they had stood with human bones.^l

The reform is extended to the former Northern Kingdom^m

Ho 10:8 Similarly, as regards the altar that was at Bethel, the high place built by 15 1 K12:31-32 Jeroboam son of Nebat who had led Israel into sin, this altar and this high place he also demolished, breaking up its stonesⁿ and reducing them to powder.
 The sacred pole he burned.

As he looked around, Josiah saw the tombs there on the hillside; he had the 16 bones fetched from the tombs and burned them on the altar. Thus he desecrated it,
 1 K12:33-
 13:32 in accordance with the word of Yahweh which the man of God had proclaimed when Jeroboam was standing by the altar at the time of the feast. As he looked around, Josiah caught sight of the tomb of the man of God^o who had foretold these things. •‘What is that monument I see?’ he asked. The townspeople replied, 17 ‘It is the tomb of the man of God who came from Judah and foretold what you have done to the altar.’^p •‘Let him rest,’ the king said ‘and let no one disturb 18 1 K13:31 his bones.’ So they left his bones untouched, with the bones of the prophet who was from Samaria.

||2 Ch 34:6-7 Josiah also did away with all the temples of the high places that the kings 19 of Israel had built in the towns of Samaria, provoking the anger of Yahweh;
 he treated these places exactly as he had treated the one at Bethel. •All the 20 priests of the high places who were there he slaughtered on the altars, and on those altars burned human bones. Then he returned to Jerusalem.

2Ch35:1, 18-19 The Passover celebrated

The king gave this order to the whole people: ‘Celebrate a Passover in honour 21
 Dt16:1-8 of Yahweh your God, as prescribed in this book of the covenant’. •No Passover 22 like this one had ever been celebrated since the days when the judges ruled Israel or throughout the entire period of the kings of Israel and the kings of
 ||2 Ch 35:19 Judah. •The eighteenth year of King Josiah was the only time when such a 23
 Passover was celebrated in honour of Yahweh at Jerusalem.

Last words on the religious reform

21:6
 Dt 18:11 What is more, the necromancers and wizards, the household gods and idols, 24
 Gn31:19+
 Jg 18:14 and all the abominations to be seen in the land of Judah and in Jerusalem, all these were swept away by Josiah to give effect to the words of the Law written in the book found by Hilkiah the priest in the Temple of Yahweh. •No king 25 Dt 6:5 before him had turned to Yahweh as he did, with all his heart, all his soul, all his strength, in perfect loyalty to the Law of Moses; nor was any king like him seen again.

- 26 Yet Yahweh did not renounce the heat of his great anger which blazed out against Judah because of all the provocation Manasseh had offered him. 24:20 27 Yahweh decreed, 'I will thrust Judah away from me too, as I have already thrust Israel; I will cast away Jerusalem, this city I had chosen, and the Temple of which I had said: There my name shall be.'

The end of the reign of Josiah

- 28 The rest of the history of Josiah, his entire career, is not all this recorded in the Book of the Annals of the Kings of Judah? 11:2 Ch 35: 26-27
29 During his reign Pharaoh Neco king of Egypt was on his way to the king of Assyria^a at the river Euphrates when King Josiah intercepted him; but Neco 11:2 Ch 35: 20-24 Jr 22:10-11
30 killed him at Megiddo in the first encounter. •His servants carried his body from Megiddo by chariot; they brought him to Jerusalem, and buried him in his own tomb. The country people took Jehoahaz son of Josiah and anointed him, proclaiming him king in succession to his father. 2K 11:20; 21:24 11:2 Ch 36:1

D. THE DESTRUCTION OF JERUSALEM

The reign of Jehoahaz in Judah (609)

11:2 Ch 36:2-4

- 31 Jehoahaz was twenty-three years old when he came to the throne, and he reigned for three months in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Hamutal, daughter of Jeremiah,^r from Libnah. •He did what is displeasing to Yahweh, just as his ancestors had done.
32 Pharaoh Neco put him in chains at Riblah,^s in the territory of Hamath,^t and imposed a levy of a hundred talents of silver and ten talents of gold on the country. •Pharaoh Neco made Eliakim son of Josiah king in succession to Josiah his father, and changed his name to Jehoiaikim.^u Jehoahaz he took and carried away^v into Egypt, where he died. Ezk 19:4 Jr 22:10
35 Jehoiaikim paid over the silver and gold to Pharaoh, but first had to tax the country before he could raise the sum that Pharaoh demanded: he levied the silver and gold to be paid over to Pharaoh Neco from each according to his means.

23 f. Josiah imposed the law of the unique sanctuary by force; all the worship of Judah was to be centralised in Jerusalem, Dt 12. The 'high places' (1 K 3:2) are Yahwistic shrines, condemned only because they contravene this law.

g. Text corrected. The reference is to demons represented as he-goats, after the fashion of satyrs, see Lv 17:7; 2 Ch 11:15.

h. The law provided, Dt 18:6-8, that provincial priests who came to Jerusalem should enjoy the same privileges as their 'brothers', the priests of the city. But when the 'priests of the high places' all settled in Jerusalem it is probable that the city priests saw to it that their status was reduced.

i. Not mentioned elsewhere and difficult to explain. 'at the entrance to the Temple' versions. 'the precincts' translation uncertain. 'the chariot' Greek.

j. Small altars dedicated to astral deities, Jr 19:13; Zp 1:5.

k. 'of Olives', lit. 'of oil' Greek, Targ.; 'of Perdition' Hebr.

l. To desecrate the sites once and for all, see vv. 16 and 20. Josiah takes steps, first to destroy the scattered shrines where a more or less contaminated worship of Yahweh was performed, and secondly to wipe out practices that were completely pagan, with gods and ritual borrowed from the Canaanites or, in the case of astral cults, imported from Assyria. All this gives a sad picture of the religious situation in Judah; the impression is confirmed by Jeremiah, Zephaniah and Ezekiel.

m. Josiah took advantage of the decline of Assyria to restore the independence of Judah and even to extend his control to a portion of the former territory of Israel.

n. 'breaking up its stones' Greek; 'burning the high place' Hebr.

o. 'when Jeroboam... man of God' Greek.

p. The text adds 'Bethel', a gloss.

q. And not 'against the king of Assyria'. Necas (609-595), called Neco in the Bible, marched in 609 to the assistance of the last king of Assyria, driven from Babylonia and then from Haran by the Medes and Babylonians. Josiah wanted to prevent the joining of the Assyrians with the Egyptians since he calculated that the kingdom of Judah would profit from the final ruin of Assyria.

r. Not the prophet Jeremiah.

s. Necas was returning from his N. expedition, v. 29; the collapse of Assyria had left him master of Syria and Palestine.

t. The text adds 'when he was king in Jerusalem', or (versions): 'that he might no longer reign in Jerusalem'. 'ten talents' versions; 'one talent' Hebr.

u. The name is almost the same ('Yahweh rises up' for 'God rises up') but the enforced change emphasises the vassalage of the king of Judah.

v. 'and carried away' Greek.

||2 Ch 36:5-7 The reign of Jehoiakim in Judah (609-598)

Jehoiakim was twenty-five years old when he came to the throne, and he ³⁶ reigned for eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Zebidah, daughter of Pedaiah, from Rumah. •He did what is displeasing to Yahweh, just as his ³⁷ ancestors had done.

Dn 1:1 24 During his time Nebuchadnezzar^a king of Babylon invaded, and Jehoiakim ¹ became his vassal for three years, but then rebelled against him a second ² time. •So he^b sent armed bands of Chaldeans, Aramaeans, Moabites and ³ Ammonites against him; he sent these against Judah to destroy it, in accordance with the word that Yahweh had spoken through his servants the prophets. That this happened in Judah was due entirely to the anger^c of Yahweh: he had ⁴ resolved to thrust them away from him because of the sins of Manasseh and ⁵ all that he had done, •and also because of the innocent blood that he had shed, ⁶ flooding Jerusalem from end to end with innocent blood. INTRODUCTION TO THE BOOKS OF CHRONICLES, EZRA AND NEHEMIAH

The Old Testament contains a second group of historical books which in large measure reduplicate but ultimately extend the 'Deuteronomic' history beginning with Joshua and ending with Kings. These are the two Books of Chronicles, then the Book of Ezra, and the Book of Nehemiah. Originally, the two Books of Chronicles were one book and those of Ezra and Nehemiah were part of the same collection, the whole being the work of one author. That the same style and the same fundamental ideas are found throughout, and that the closing verses of 2 Ch 36 are repeated at the beginning of Ezr 1, is evidence that the whole was composed as one work.

The Books of Chronicles (to give them their Hebrew title; the Greek Bible and the Vulgate call them the Books of Paralipomena, of 'things left out' therefore 'complementary' books) are a work of post-exilic Judaism, in a period when the nation, despite its political dependence, enjoyed a measure of self-rule by favour of its eastern overlords. The priesthood was its guide, the Law its charter. The Temple and its ritual were the centre of national life. But this framework of law and ritual was quickened by a current of personal devotion, by wisdom doctrines, by the memory of past glories and failures, and by faith in the promises of the prophets.

The author of Chronicles, very probably a Jerusalem Levite, essentially belongs in such surroundings. He writes after the time of Ezra and Nehemiah but before the beginning of the 2nd century B.C. (when Ben Sirach seems to have been influenced by him); probably some time in the 3rd century B.C. He shows great interest in the Temple. Throughout his work the clergy play a leading part, not merely the priests and Levites (as in Deuteronomy and the Priestly sections of the Pentateuch) but the inferior clergy; the gatekeepers and cantors who are henceforth associated with the Levites. The sacred character of the clergy extends to the laity by their participation in communion sacrifices to which the Chronicler restores their primitive importance. This community of the faithful is not restricted merely to the citizens of Judah; despite the Northern Kingdom's apostasy, of which he says as little as possible, he contemplates the union of the twelve tribes under the sceptre of David; undismayed by the times in which he lives, he confidently awaits the ingathering of all the children of Israel. Not even the pagans are excluded from praying in the Temple. For him 'Israel' means the community of God's faithful people with whom God made a covenant long ago, renewing this sacred covenant in the person of David. The kingdom of God on earth having achieved its highest form in the Davidic theocracy, the community must live in the spirit of David, always alert to the need for reform, that is to say, for a return to tradition, if God is to continue his favour and fulfil his promises.

These dominant ideas of the Chronicler account for the form his work has taken. The earlier chapters, 1 Ch 1-9, give genealogical lists, principally concerned with the tribe of Judah and the descent of David, with the Levites and the population of Jerusalem. This serves to introduce the history of David with which the remainder of the first book is concerned, ch. 10-29. The hostility of Saul, David's sin with Bathsheba, the domestic disputes and dissensions, are all omitted; prominence, however, is given to the prophecy of Nathan, ch. 17, and to religious activities: such as the transportation of the ark, the organisation of worship in Jerusalem, ch. 13, 15-16, and the preparations for the building of the Temple, ch. 21-29. David is responsible for the design, the collection of materials, the detailed assignment of clerical functions, leaving the task of putting all this into effect to his son Solomon. The history of Solomon devotes most of its space, 2 Ch 1-9, to the building of the Temple, the king's prayer at its dedication and the promises God makes in answer to that prayer. For the period following the schism the Chronicler treats only of the kingdom of Judah and the dynasty of David. The kings are assessed according to their fidelity or infidelity to the principles of the covenant and the example set by David, 2 Ch 10-36. Religious infidelity is followed by reforms, of which the most radical are those of Hezekiah and Josiah, but the latter is succeeded by kings whose evil ways lead to disaster, and the Books of Chronicles end with the destruction of Jerusalem. The Books of Ezra and Nehemiah then take up the story.

The sources of Chronicles are, in the first place, the canonical books: Genesis and Numbers for the opening genealogies, Samuel and Kings for much of the rest. The author treats his sources with freedom, adding to them, subtracting, selecting what suits his purpose. Though we are able to identify these main sources, the author never explicitly mentions them. On the other hand, he appeals to certain other works like the 'Books' of the kings of Israel, or of the kings of Israel and Judah, a 'midrash' on the Books of Kings, the 'Annals' of such and such a prophet. These writings are not extant and their contents and mutual relationships are disputed. Possibly they were accounts of the various reigns from the point of view of the part the prophets played in them. The author must also have made use of oral traditions, handed down from before the Exile and mingled with more recent reminiscences.

Merely because the Chronicler has used sources which, though unknown to us, may well have been trustworthy, there is no a priori reason to suspect what he adds to our canonical books. Each case must be judged on its own merits, and recent research has vindicated Chronicles on several points against many commentators who in the past have held a low opinion of the books. Nevertheless there are times when the Chronicler gives facts at variance with the account offered by Samuel and Kings, or when he even deliberately modifies these accounts. This would be unforgivable in a historian of today whose job is to narrate and explain the sequence of events. But the author of Chronicles has no such intention. He is not a historian; he is a theologian. Contemplating the long history of Israel and particularly the Davidic episode, he paints a picture of the ideal kingdom. Past, present and future merge into one; into the age of David he projects the ritual organisation of his own, omits all that might diminish his hero, David, who for him is the type of the longed-for messianic king. Apart from certain fresh items of information, the value of which must be independently tested, the work is not so much a record of the past as a picture of the conditions and interests of the author's own period.

For he is writing for his contemporaries. He reminds them that the nation can only truly live if it remains faithful to God, that is to say, obedient to his Law and worship in a spirit of sincere devotion. He wants his people to be a devout community for whom the promises made to David can come true. Devout Jews living in the times of Christ will share his aspirations, though with modifications he did not foresee. His assertion of the primacy of the spirit and his doctrine of God's control of all this world's affairs have lasting value. They should be reflected on in days like ours when the upsurge of materialism seems to be indefinitely postponing the establishment of the kingdom of God.

The Books of Ezra and of Nehemiah are, as we have said, a continuation of the Chronicler's work. After the fifty years of Exile, on which he is silent, he resumes his history with the edict of Cyrus, 538 B.C., permitting the Jews to return to Jerusalem and rebuild the Temple. The return begins forthwith, but the work of rebuilding is halted by the hostility of the Samaritans and not resumed until the reign of Darius I. The Temple is finished in 515. For the next fifty years attempts to restore the walls of Jerusalem are hindered, again by the Samaritans, Ezr 1-6. Under Artaxerxes, the scribe Ezra, representative for Jewish affairs at the Persian court, arrives in Jerusalem with a new contingent of returning exiles, bringing with him an official authorisation to impose the Mosaic Law, now approved by the king. He has to take severe measures against those Jews already married to foreigners, Ezr 7-10. Next, Nehemiah, cupbearer to Artaxerxes, secures the king's commission to go to Jerusalem and rebuild the walls. Despite opposition, the work is soon finished and the city once more inhabited, Ne 1:1-7:72a. Meanwhile, Nehemiah has been appointed high commissioner. With all solemnity the Law is read to the people by Ezra, the feast of Tabernacles is celebrated, the people confess their sins and promise to observe the Law, Ne 7:72b-10:40. Then follow various lists of names, a few supplementary measures, and the dedication of the city walls, 11:1-13:3. After again visiting Persia, Nehemiah returns; on his second mission he finds it necessary to deal with certain irregularities which have meanwhile crept into the community, Ne 13:4-31.

This summary demonstrates the importance of these books for the history of the Jewish Restoration after the Exile. The first chapters of Ezra complement the information supplied by Haggai, Zechariah and Malachi. The two books are the only source we have on the work of Ezra and Nehemiah. Their date is the same as that of Chronicles, the 3rd century B.C., but they make use of, and quote verbatim, documents that are contemporary with the events recounted; lists of returned exiles, of the population of Jerusalem, acts of the kings of Persia, correspondence with the chancery, and in particular Ezra's report of his own mission and Nehemiah's apologetic memoir.

But for all this wealth of source material the interpretation of Ezra and Nehemiah is extremely difficult, because the documents are arranged in a baffling order. The list of immigrants is given twice, Ezr 2 and Ne 7; in Ezr 4:6-6:18, written in Aramaic, the events that took place under Darius are narrated after the events of the reigns of Xerxes and Artaxerxes, though in fact they occurred half a century before. Writings composed by Ezra and Nehemiah themselves have been dismembered and recombined. The dates given in those writings enable us to restore Ezra's report thus: Ezr 7:1-8:36; Ne 7:72b-8:18; Ezr 9:1-10:44; Ne 9:1-37. And the memoir of Nehemiah thus: Ne 1:1-7:72a; 11:1-25a; part of ch. 12 (first mission) and Ne 13 with 10 (second mission). For the period following Nehemiah some particulars have been inserted in Ne 11 and 12.
